"I feel sorry for you poor working men who can't go fishing," he said to us a few weeks ago.

He was just taking off for the new Paint Creek lake, where they were yanking out crapple like nobody's business.

"Well, at least you could bring us a mess of fish if you're catching as many as you claim," we replied. (For security reasons we won't mention the number he said he'd been catching.)

So next morning, Oscar Spann came from across the street somewhere, bringing us a nice mess of fish. He had good luck again!

"With the opening of school, the signal lights on your approach of the school campus are in operation again.

We got used to them being covered up during the summer vacation months. Now, let's get used to their signals again, and stop on the red, go on the green.

They're there for protection of school children, so let's not get into such a rush that we fail to observe them.

One of the "tragedies" of school's opening came to a neighbor of ours Monday.

On top of school going on during a holiday, this little neighbor had company on the first day for regular classes to be held.

But Rita Ann Blacklock went on to school—much to her dislike, and with persuasion of her parents. Such is the ordeal of her first day in school!

Folks who travel up the plains way come back remarking about how pretty the crops are in the irrigated sections.

And they are pretty. But despite the reports of showers on the plains, dry land farming there is not very far ahead of Knox County in our opinion.

Of course, those highway views are not too authentic—and that's what we saw on our week end trip to Lubbock to attend a reunion of our wife's people.

We didn't see that area to the south of Lubbock, where they say crops are so pretty—and without irrigation.

At the reunion we saw people we hadn't seen in a long time, kiddoes we'd never seen.

By the time they all got together and the children got scattered about that area of MacKenzie State Park, as well as mingling with kids of other reunion groups, we got to the point where we couldn't tell who belonged to whom and even wondered how the parents recognized their own children.

We ambled down to watch the kids on the casino rides, then some of them got us roped in on that "bump-car" ride.

There one can get in such a traffic jam that's its difficult to get untangled—and we were happy that those little cars had good bouncing rubber bumpers all the way around.

Back to the reunion group, we remarked that one of the boys really enjoyed the bump-car ride, and were questioned as to whether we enjoyed it. But we just rode the thing three times!

Back home, we were happy that this community was fortunate in that the high toll of traffic fatalities didn't bring sorrow to some of our homes.

It was a close call for Mrs. W. P. Farrington, though, whose son, Dr. Charles Farrington, and his family were in that big plane crash in Ireland Sunday.

All of the family were rescued—and that's something for which to be thankful.

Former Munday Man And Family Are Survivors Of Plane Crash In Ireland

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Farrington and their two children, Charles, Jr., 12, and Charlotte, 16, of St. Petersburg, Fla., were among the 29 survivors in a plane crash at Shannon Airport, Ireland, last Sunday. Dr. Farrington is a son of Mrs. W. P. Farrington of Munday and was reared here.

The big KLM Royal Dutch airliner bound for New York with 56 persons crashed into the muddy River Shannon's broad mouth just before dawn Sunday. Twenty-eight persons were killed.

Airline officials said most of those lost fainted from the gasoline fumes and were trapped and drowned inside the super-constellation. Some were feared buried alive while struggling across a mile of treacherous mud after escaping from the plane.

Reports reaching here early this week were that as Dr. Farrington was being rescued he looked across the destructive scene and saw all of his family being rescued also. The Farringtons were returning to their home in St. Petersburg.

Dr. Farrington called his mother at 3 a. m. Thursday that the family had landed in New York. Mrs. Farrington left on Thursday to meet them in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Rule Bobcats To Invade Local Field On Friday

The Rule Bobcats, a team that has given the Munday Moguls plenty of trouble in years past, will invade Mogul Field next Friday night for their annual battle with the local boys.

Following their win of the season's opener last Friday night, Coaches Stewart and Pistole have the boys working out regularly this week, giving them stiff assignments in preparation for the Bobcat battle.

The Moguls showed up well against the weaker Panthers from Lockett last Friday night, but they are expecting a stiffer battle from the claws of the Bobcats. Coach Stewart is depending on having the team in fine shape for the game and hopes to annex another win.

He urges the backing of all members of the Quarterback Club and all local football fans to help the boys through a successful season, and bleachers are expected to be more nearly filled for the game Friday night.

Advance tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office and by members of the Quarterback Club.

The group gathered at around ten o'clock. After visiting for some time a delicious lunch was served under the large shade trees. During the afternoon, a number enjoyed the rides at the park's "midway," while others continued visiting until time to depart for their homes.

Wm. Dunn Speaks On Foreign Relations

Wm. B. Dunn of Wichita Falls, who recently returned from foreign service in Indochina, was principal speaker last Tuesday night when members of the Methodist Men's Club observed ladies' night. A watermelon feast followed the regular meeting.

Speaking on "What They Think About Americans," Mr. Dunn painted a rather gloomy picture of America's place in foreign affairs, especially among the Indo-Chinese. He predicted that U. S. relations among these peoples would get much worse before they get any better.

Dunn stated that these people really believed the atomic bomb was dropped on Japanese cities because they were one of the Far East nations, and they believed also that the U. S. used germ warfare in Korea. "With this belief established," he said, "they don't think much of America."

Miss Betty Jo McNeill left the first of this week for Wichita Falls, where she enrolled in Midwestern University for the school year.

WHERE THE PATIENT IS A STATISTIC

Anyone who thinks that socialized or government-bossed medicine is good for the patient should read a study of physicians behind the Iron Curtain made by the Free Europe Committee, Inc.

The doctor there is a "new Soviet man" first and a physician last, a report on the study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association observes. His patients must be considered as economic factors, valuable only to the extent that their health advances world-wide Soviet power policies. Plant physicians predetermine the number of persons entitled to be sick, and in self-defense they must hold the number to the barest minimum.

Medical students are chosen by class origin and political reliability. The government decides what kind of physicians are needed and where they shall practice. A district physician may be responsible for as many as 10,000 people, and, in addition, he must carry a heavy burden of clerical work and bureaucratic red tape. The medical center in Budapest serves 250,000. Medical aid to the individual is made available in proportion to his contributions to the aims of the ruling hierarchy and only incidentally according to actual needs in purely medical terms. In short, the state alone decides whose health will be nurtured and protected.

That is what happens when government becomes the boss. The general manager of AMA summed it up well when he said: "The physician under this system inevitably must compromise his scientific integrity and his concern for the patient as an individual. The patient becomes a statistic. The result can be nothing but continually declining health standards."

IS THIS BAD?

Some people seem to have an idea that it's sinful for a business or an industry to prosper—and that its profits represent a loss to other organizations and other people.

Oil is an example of an industry which has done well profit-wise in late years, and which has expanded at a tremendous rate in order to meet increasing consumer demand for its products. The head of a big oil company has sharply challenged the idea that making money is wrong. He observed that his company's prosperity came "by creating wealth that didn't exist before." And then he decided some of the economic results of the company's 1953 operations.

who live and spend their incomes in every state and the District of Columbia.

The company's taxes in this country alone were $226,000,000.

Some 119,000 employees received $692,000,000 in wages, salaries, and benefits.

Purchases of supplies and services from other concerns, many of which are small enterprises, created more than 100,000 jobs.

Spending for research and development work, designed to improve old products, create new ones, and thus improve everyone's living standards, came to $29,000,000.

If that's bad, we need a new definition of the word!

BRITAIN VIEWS U. S. COAL INDUSTRY

The Colliery Guardian, published in London, is the leading British organ devoted to the coal industry. In a recent issue it featured an article on "Coal in America."

The article pointed out that we have almost unlimited reserves of rich coal seams, and that our level of productivity is surprisingly high. It said that miners' wages have doubled since World War II and are now the highest in any major industry. Yet, it continued, U. S. government statistics show that coal's profits have sharply declined. Then it said: "It is clear that despite the great natural advantages and high level of technical skill it enjoys the bituminous coal mining industry of America faces the two great problems of declining profitability and falling demand. It is considered that the second of these, the shrink market, is ephemeral, and because of this it is of vital importance that the profitability of the industry is not permitted to fall to such a level that decay in productive capacity may set in."

This is the crux of the situation. The President's Materials Policy Commission has forecast that coal consumption will double in 25 years. An official of the research branch of a major oil company states that "all signs now seem to point toward an almost explosive expansion in United States consumption of coal." The industry must be able to earn fair profits if it is to be ready for so heavy an increase in demand.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "Railroad service is irreplaceable in times of emergency. When automobiles are short of gasoline rationed in wartime, the nation's main reliance for transportation is its railroad system."

CAN THE BIBLE BE UNDERSTOOD?

Some individuals insist the Bible cannot be understood, that it is "the mystery book." As a result of this false idea we have such books as "The Key to the Scriptures," by many different writers. All of which have been written for the express purpose of revealing that which God did not reveal in his revelation.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

"By revelation he made known unto me the mystery; (as I wrote afore in few words, whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ.) Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit." (Eph. 3:3-5.) Again, "Consider what I say, and the Lord gave thee understanding in all things." (2 Tim. 2:7.) Paul in the above passages taught the revelation which the Lord made through him could be understood, and that books written by man, (Key to the Scriptures) was a useless key.

The idea that the Bible cannot be understood certainly discourages a study of it. Yet we are admonished to "study" to "Give attendance to reading." (1 Tim. 4:13.) In every age since the beginning of time God has spoken plainly to man concerning the service and worship in which he would have him engage. Not once have we read in our Bible where any man at any time ever offered as an excuse for failing to serve God that he did not understand the requirements imposed. When God gave the law to Moses he read the requirements imposed on the people and the people at once said, "All that God hath said we will be obedient unto it." (Ex. 24:7.) David said, "Through thy precepts I get understanding, therefore, I hate every false way." (Ps. 119:104.) To the church at Ephesus Paul wrote, "Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." (Eph. 5:17.) "When the Jews and Greeks who were dwelling at Ephesus believed, "Those who used curious arts brought their books together and burned them, and mightily grew the word of God and prevailed." (Acts 19:17-20.) The same results would be witnessed today if all people would bring their so called guide books together and burn them. Read 2 Tim. 3:16-17.

PAYNE HATTOX, Evangelist

Here's a letter that appeared back in 1943 in the Rising Star Record and was written by Pastor Sam Taylor of the Baptist Church to a grandson in Fort Worth, telling about the loss of a favorite dog from poisoning:

"Dear Grandson:
 "Here I am writing you again and you have not answered my last letter. But it is so quiet around here tonight, and so still that I have to break the silence with the chatter of this old typewriter. I wish a dog would bark, a neighbor's dog, or just any dog, but every mouth seems to be silenced. No sentinels are on guard in the darkness tonight, and there's a peculiar uneasiness that something might happen and there would be no sentry to sound an alarm.
 "As David and I came home from the office yesterday morning, David remarked, "Grandpappy, Tippy is still asleep. She was asleep when I came out this morning. So she was asleep. Asleep with her head leaning against the back gate that she so faithfully guarded. Asleep with her eyes still open as though to see that no intruder entered without permission the keen little ears were erect a siff to catch any strange sound that she might give the alarm of danger. But she was not seeing nor hearing, and for the first time in her existence, she did not leap with joy to welcome us when we came home.

"Some human specie who was not capable of loving as a dog loves his master, who never knew devotion to duty and trusteeship as Tippy knew it, who could not be trusted in the dark, as we completely trusted Tippy, but had offered her meat as a token of friendship, which she gratefully accepted, only to find that her pretended benefactor had been the grossest of traitors, the most despicable of cowards and had chosen this means of killing a helpless little thing without even giving it a fighting chance; and tonight he carries in his heart the consciousness of a deed so low, so unmanly, so cowardly, so devilish, that he dares not tell anyone of his exploit.

"Tippy had become the most intelligent and faithful watch dog we had ever known. When your grandmother came home at night when I was not here, Tippy entered the house first and searched every room for possible intruders. She sat outside the church door every Sunday and patiently waited for everybody to greet us after the

Miss Glenda Mayo Of Goree Becomes Bride Of Bob Cooke On August 20th

Miss Glenda Mayo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mayo, became the bride of Mr. Bob Cooke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Cooke of Throckmorton, in a candle lighted service in the home of the bride's parents August 20. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. S. E. Stevenson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Goree.

The wedding party included Mrs. Barbara Coffman, aunt of the bride, who was matron of honor. Jerry Bradley, cousin of the bride, served as best man. Candle lighters were Buddy Mayo, brother of the bride, and Claudia Mae Cooke, sister of the groom. Jerry Patterson sang "Always" and "Because". Mrs. Tommy Greenwood was pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white bridal gown. The fitted bodice was made of white nylon lace trimmed with rhinestones. The ball-erina length skirt was gathered net over taffeta. Her finger tip veil was attached to a headpiece of lace flowers trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white carnations. Traditionally she wore a 90 year old watch, which belonged to her grandmother Mayo, for something old and borrowed. Her something new was her Bible and her blue garters were something blue.

A reception followed the marriage ceremony. Miss Mary Coffman registered approximately thirty-five guests. Mrs. Everett Borger, aunt of the bride, served the three tiered wedding cake and Mrs. G. C. Conwell, aunt of the groom, ladeled the punch. Misses Jackie Latham and Nancy Lawson were also members of the wedding party.

When the newlyweds left on their wedding trip the bride was wearing a two-piece grey shantung suit with matching hat. The other accessories were white.

The bride was a graduate from Goree High School in 1954.

FAMILY SIZE FARM STILL IMPORTANT SOURCE OF PRODUCTION

Is the family-size farm on its way out? Large-scale farming which came in with mechanized production methods caused many people to give serious consideration to this question. But, says John McHaney, extension economist, the 1950 Census figures show that the family-size farm still is very much in the picture after more than three decades of farm mechanization.

The 1950 Census divided the nation's 5.4 million farms into two groups, 3.7 million non-commercial and 1.7 million commercial. This last grouping consists mainly of part-time and residential units and they account for only 2.5 per cent of the value of farm products sold in 1949.

Commercial farms were ed according to the amount of sales made, says the economist, and the classes were large, family and small scale. Farms with sales of $25,000 or more are large-scale; those with sales of from $1,200 to $25,000 family-scale and the small-scale were those reporting sales between $250 and $1,200 unless off-farm work or income was enough to class the operation as part-time farming.

Nearly 80 per cent of all commercial farms fell into the family-scale class, says McHaney, and they account for about 70 per cent of the value of total farm products sold. Mighty strong evidence, says the specialist, that family-size farms are still the backbone of America's great agricultural industry.

Everton Hosea left Monday for Sterling City where he has accepted a position as commercial teacher in the Sterling City school.

Humble's new HOUSTON RESEARCH CENTER

... is dedicated to man's impelling curiosity in the search for knowledge and its useful application in the specialized fields of petroleum exploration and production.

Dedicated to Man's Impelling Curiosity

Most of us interpret the value of research in terms of immediate benefits. Research means that we get a better automobile, an improved gasoline, or an outstanding motor oil.

At Baytown Refinery, the Humble Company maintains one of the finest laboratories in the petroleum industry for that kind of research.

But behind the study that goes into the improvement of the products it sells, Humble for years has fostered basic research related to the discovery and production of oil and natural gas.

The United States uses so much oil from day to day, and needs so much more to provide for the emergencies of national defense, that studies leading to the discovery of new supplies and the more efficient management of existing reservoirs are more important than ever before. Consequently, Humble's expenditures on this sort of research are the heaviest in the Company's history and its staff of research scientists is larger than it has ever been.

To house the expansion of these research sections, Humble recently completed its new Research Center at Houston and will formally dedicate it this week end.

Here the scientists of the various departments involved in the discovery and production of oil will utilize common facilities, and here they will have the stimulation of close association with other scientists whose efforts are dedicated to a common end.

- The new Houston Research Center will provide facilities for research in:
- Fluid Mechanics
 - Geophysics
 - Geology
 - Geochemistry
 - Drilling Muds
 - Well Log Interpretation
 - Subsurface Instruments
 - Reservoir Behavior
 - Well Stimulation
 - Well Cementing

Farm Bureau in a sense is a "blanket" Policy of Insurance for the farmer's business, his plant, his home, his family, his future.

Electric

Cooking is Cleaner"

Because Electric Heat Itself is Clean!

Clean as an electric light, the penetrating heat of sealed surface units leaves your pots and pans shining bright. Because there's no flame . . . no soot . . . or smoke. Kitchen walls stay fresh and clean much longer . . . curtains need laundering less frequently. More and more women are cooking electrically; not only because it's CLEAN, but because it's SAFE . . . FAST . . . AUTOMATIC . . . ECONOMICAL.

See your ELECTRIC RANGE DEALER, Today

... and Your Electric Rates Have Stayed Low!

Actually, in homes served by WTU, the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electric service is 22% LESS than it was ten years ago. Your statement for electric service may be more than it used to be, but that's because with so many more appliances in your home, you are using so much more electricity. When you think of the multitude of ways your electric appliances serve you, isn't it a fact that for Modern Living your Electric Service is Today's Biggest Bargain?

Rhineland Family To Graduation At School In Dallas

Thirty-one students of professional nursing completed their course August 27 at St. Paul's Hospital School of Nursing in Dallas. Graduation and commencement exercises were held at Sacred Heart Cathedral with the Most Rev. Augustine Dangelmayr presiding and conferring graduation honors on August 28.

The Very Rev. Charles Cannon, C. M., pastor of the Holy Trinity Church in Dallas, gave the commencement address. Father Cannon urged the nursing graduates to look upon every day in nursing as commencement, for every sick person she attends is a challenge to her to have that "newness of life" she has learned to have in the exercising of her arts and skills as nurse.

Bishop Dangelmayr conferred the Senior Award on Margaret Barnes of Dallas, for the graduating student highest in grade points. Bernadette Claus of Rhineland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Claus, received the Clinical Practice Award at the exercises.

Preceding graduation the seniors were honored at a formal dance at the Lakewood Country Club as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. D. R. Sellers. Dr. Sellers was the class sponsor.

Twenty members of the graduating class will join the staff of St. Paul's Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Claus and son, James, of the Rhineland community attended the exercises.

DROUTH CROP LOSSES

A conservative estimate of losses due to the drouth on only two major crops would amount to more than $139 million thus far this year.

About 75 counties comprising the heart of Texas could be termed critical due to drouth conditions. This area would follow a line from Grayson County on the Red River, south to Washington County, southwest to Wilson, northwest to Midland-Odesa and a portion of the plains.

This 75 county area generally produces approximately two million bales of Texas' annual cotton crop. About 500,000 bales in this territory have been lost to the weather this year due to lack of growth or premature openings.

Figuring each bale worth about $250.00, this means a minimum loss of $125 million in cotton alone.

Approximately 17 million bushels of Texas' average 80 million bushel grain sorghum crop is grown in this area. But the "critical" area has lost about half that crop, or about 8 million bushels.

Using $1.80 per bushel as a base figure, then the drouth has cost us about $14,400,000 in grain sorghum losses.

About three million head of cattle normally graze in this 75 county area. The grass and pastureland is 3-4 gone due to lack of moisture.

It is impossible to accurately estimate this loss resulting from pasture damage, permature marketing of cattle and depletion of foundation herds but the figure would be tremendous.

"Little rain and no water, is becoming a familiar story to Texas. Inadequate moisture is almost a "normal" condition. Farmers and ranchers in many parts of the state are badly in need of some type of relief.

A grain and hay program has been inaugurated thus far to help combat the serious conditions. The next few weeks will tell whether the program is a success or if it was the case of "too little too late."

GIN TRASH RESEARCH

Texas is seeking a solution to a knotty problem—how to keep an insect from robbing farmers of a valuable component of our annual cotton crop.

Gin "trash"—the burrs or the cotton bolls—could ordinarily be very useful as a soil conditioner, fertilizer or livestock feed. Yet, this trash also harbors one of the greatest threats to our cotton industry, the pink bollworm. The problem is how to kill the insect larvae within the trash and allow the material to be returned to the farm for beneficial use.

Modern gins with elaborate drying and cleaning equipment kill a high percentage of the worms during the ginning process. Tests are now being conducted in Texas to find what process or machine is responsible for the greater part of the kill. Modifications and improvements may be made eventually which will assure 100 per cent destruction.

Today, most gin trash is burned to control and prevent the spread beyond quarantine barriers of the pink bollworm. However, some methods are being used and studied which prevent this waste. Composting, sterilization, fumigation, hammer milling, roller milling, and the use of special fans or two conventional fans in the pneumatic system of ginning are all possible procedures that have a degree of effectiveness.

Investigations of different types of fans and fan combinations, rollers, beaters, grinders, and heating devices are being carried out by engineers and entomologists at commercial gins in the lower Rio Grande Valley this season. Later work will be done farther north, including the Panhandle where harvesting conditions are quite different.

Gin trash disposal methods must be as simple and inexpensive as possible. But most important, they must take care of large quantities of trash without slowing down gin operation. Finally, they must kill all the pink bollworms in the material. Otherwise, what might be gained by use of this trash would be lost through the destructiveness of the insect.

Finding in these investigations are to be made available to ginners and farmers in Texas as soon as sound and practical conclusions can be achieved.

Picture Coming To Methodist Church

This scene from the motion picture "JOHN WESLEY" shows the 18th century English churchman breaking tradition by preaching in the fields to the Bristol miners. The 77-minute film was produced in the latest Eastman color by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church in cooperation with J. Arthur Rank. This picture was featured in LIFE Magazine.

The new motion picture "John Wesley" is coming to Munday. It will be shown at the First Methodist Church on Sunday, September 12 at 7:30 p. m., according to the pastor.

The feature-length film is in the new Eastman color and was produced by the Radio and Film Commission of The Methodist Church in co-operation with J. Arthur Rank.

It brings to the screen for the first time the dynamic and colorful 18th century evangelist and educator.

John Wesley's miraculous rescue from a burning house at the age of five, at the beginning of the film, forecasts the dramatic and eventful life which unfolds in this story of a man of slight stature but of impelling influence upon his contemporaries and upon history.

The English clergyman thought his venture in America as a missionary to the Indians in the Georgia colony was a failure, but it was the kind of failure which opened the door to the discovery of a religious certainty he had been seeking.

Furthermore, this discovery, in which John Wesley felt his "heart strangely warmed," led him to face mobs unafraid, and to ride 250,000 miles on horseback, changing the masses of English people from a low state of moral degradation to sturdy and happy uprightness.

His "enthusiasm" was frowned upon by the lethargic leaders of the Church of England of that day, but it was this new-found enthusiasm which enabled him to influence so many phases of the life of English-speaking peoples.

His appeal to the common man, his establishment of schools, clinics, lay preaching and societies—finally his sending of supervisors for the movement in the new world after the American Revolution—all these make the film one which will be long remembered.

The Rev. Mr. Ragle explained that while the film is being released only to Methodist churches during the initial period, the public is invited to see the picture at the local Methodist Church.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Willing For Government To Gain Diplomatic Victory Over Him, European Style

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek may have a good idea this week, but he won't get anywhere with it.

Dear editor:
I don't know anything about international diplomacy, don't even know anything about local diplomacy or I'd figure out a way to pacify my neighbor when my cows jump my fence into his pasture, but I was reading the other day about some international diplomacy which interests me.

According to this item, the United States has just succeeded in getting West Germany or maybe it was East Germany, I forget which, to accept a big shipment of food from us, free of charge, and some officials in Washington hailed this as a great diplomatic victory.

I have pondered this a long time and have decided I wish the government would win a few diplomatic victories over me.

For example, say the government has some surplus hay on hand and wants to let me have some, just to keep my friendship. If all I had to do was act like I wouldn't think of accepting any of that hay, ignore their offer, draw myself up in a dignified huff, and hold off a while, then magnanimously unbend and agree that after thinkin the matter over for several days and in the interest of international harmony I have decided to go ahead and accept a few loads, if they'd stack it in the barn, of course, I believe I could carry out the part and would be perfectly willin to let the government hail me as another diplomatic victory.

Or say I was passin by a store in town and the owner rushed out on the sidewalk, drug me inside, and insisted I accept a couple of shirts and a pair of shoes, just to give him another diplomatic victory. This thing has great possibilities, if more people would forget about economics and brush up on diplomacy.

If you hear of anybody anywhere, whether it's the government or individuals, who are in-

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—What the average community needs is a well organized health department to protect the health of the people says Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer. Such a department will emphasize at least five types of activities to safeguard child health.

"These activities are: (1) the safeguarding of child health and motherhood; (2) the control of contagion; (3) accurate recording of births and deaths; (4) support of public health laboratories; and (5) sanitary control of diseases spread from human waste and by vermin and insects."

"The full time local health unit gives due emphasis to each of the above mentioned activities. To illustrate how these 5 essential functions are inter-related, the interest of the various divisions in the new born baby, preschool and school child may be cited as an example. Child health is safeguarded by providing information and instruction to the mother. Through the use of vital statistics, complete and accurate birth registration is kept, as well as records indicating deaths which occur among children from preventable diseases.

"Contagion is prevented or con-tersted in practicing diplomacy in this fashion, I will be glad to serve as a sort of proving ground. I can think of dozens of diplomatic victories they could win out here on my Johnson grass farm.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

trolled against further spread through the encouragement of immunization early in life, through the prompt reporting of infectious disease. Public health laboratories and sanitary engineers provide additional bulwarks of protection for child life.

"Adequate health organization and wholehearted support on the part of various state and local agencies are essential if these activities are to be successfully maintained."
