

Kracker Krumb's Odd Bits Salvaged at Random

We got word through the Office of Information Service at Ladd Air Force Base, Alaska, that Col. Jack Williams, who is commander of the 5001st Maintenance and Supply Group there, found a pleasant surprise awaiting him when he returned from his first flight in a Northrop F-89D "Scorpion" all-weather interceptor.

When Jack landed upon completion of his flight, Ralph W. Quinn, technical representative of Northrop Aircraft Co., congratulated him upon the successful completion of his flight in the huge twin-jet interceptor, and presented him a model "Scorpion" as a souvenir.

We imagine Jack has flown as many miles by now as most of us will drive an auto in our lifetime. He's been flying for many years—and he flies fast!

More than 80,000 Americans die of cancer needlessly each year. These lives could have been saved by earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment, says the American Cancer Society. Fight cancer with a check-up and a check. We thought we'd put in that plug, since the annual cancer fund drive is now under way.

"April showers bring many flowers." But that very wonderful shower we had Monday night almost waited until April was over, and it was almost the only shower of any consequence we received in April. Think we recall one of about 18 of an inch.

The rain made a nice night for sleeping. One could awake occasionally, hear the pitter-patter on the roof, water falling from the eaves, then just sink back into a more restful slumberland than in many weeks.

And the moisture was full of hopes—hopes for that dried up wheat land, although almost too late—hopes for activities and prospects of the planting season, and hopes for a harvest this fall. The harvest time is still far away, and we'll need many more showers; but, anyway, hopes were higher Tuesday morning than on Monday morning.

It seems to go that way in West Texas, however. Just when one is about to give up and become resigned to the fact that it will never rain again—it rains!

"Whichever way the wind doth blow, some heart is glad to have it so." We learned that little ditty in school, but to save our life we never could connect the little poem with a real West Texas duster with any enthusiasm.

We like rain better! We're like the radio announcer who began speaking Tuesday morning when we turned on for the news and weather report. His words were something like this: "It's a red-letter day, both here and in the Soviet Union. There they're having their May-day celebration and showing off their military might. It's raining in Wichita Falls!"

And the rain was welcomed by everyone, we guess. Even the irrigation farmers can turn off their pumps for a few days and cut down on that expense. It was wonderful on our ten 20-foot rows of black-eyed peas which we planted and watered down last Saturday. It was a wonderful rain in many respects.

We recently ran across this little quote in a press magazine we were perusing: "One of those rare moments of a newspaperman's life is when he gets a pat on the back instead of a boot in the pants." We'd like for Gene Harrell to think that one over, especially after he tried to sell our newspaper right out from under us last Sunday, saying: "If we had a real, live newspaperman in Munday we'd be all right!"

Elsewhere in this issue we are printing the poem, "Old Times in Munday," by the late Walter Cousins. It's one which many old timers enjoy and has been reprinted in this paper two or three times in recent years, but still we get requests for it.

Pictures of local interest were shown members of the Munday Lions Club last Tuesday when Gene Michels used the program time to show movie films which he had made locally. Jerry Kane had charge of the program and invited Michels to show his films.

The first film covered activities of potato growing in Knox County, as Gene showed films from his own activities, covering the progress from the planting, growing and irrigation to the harvest season. Several shots were also shown of processing the spuds, getting them ready ready for market.

Another film showed action scenes of Munday's homecoming last year. It took a few minutes of overtime to show this, but most of the Lions remained to see them.

RAIN--Makes This Nice Country To Be Living In!

Yes, this is a nice country to be living in--when it rains! People here can smile the broadest, most pleasant smiles--when it rains.

And rain it did! It came Monday night, after nearly everyone had given up hopes, and the smiles were rampant on Tuesday. But it rained again Tuesday night to add to the smiles and hopes.

It was a wonderful starter to ward sufficient moisture, and it's shrinking up long faces fast. H. P. Hill, U. S. weather observer, stated we received 1.44 in. Monday night. Additional rain since that time has brought the total to 1.84 inches.

A CRITICAL PROBLEM—AND A SOLUTION
 Secretary of State Dulles and Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Strauss have said the long-range security of the country may be seriously affected by the continued shortage of scientists, engineers and other specialists.

Russia is producing about 60,000 trained engineers annually while colleges and universities in this country are graduating only 22,500.

What can be and is being done to bring more qualified American students into engineering? An answer is found in an approach, originated by Michigan State University, called JETS—Junior Engineering Training for Schools. JETS brings the facts of engineering to young people in high school at a time when they are deciding on their future careers.

Since the first JETS club was organized in 1950, the program has grown to include 75 clubs in 18 states with an active membership of more than 2,000 boys and girls.

The hard facts of engineering—that mathematics and other "non-glamorous" subjects are musts—are stressed. This approach both emphasizes the realities of an engineering career and helps to steer students, who have misconceptions about engineering and whose talents fall in other areas, away from those professions.

Supported by enthusiasm from teachers and students alike, the JETS program offers a real solution to a critical problem.

STILL SPIRALING

Nowdays when industry improves its economic position, wages are increased almost before the cash register bangs the sale.

Last year, for the first time, the soft coal industry could rightfully say it was on the mend from a post World War II slump. On the heels of this recovery came a $2 per day wage increase for the miners. Part of the increase became effective October 1, 1955 and the remainder April 1, for the miners. Part of the increase became effective October 1, 1955 and the remainder April 1, for the miners.

Now the daily basic wage for bituminous miners is $20.25. Labor Department statistics show the miners averaged over $100 a week last winter for the first time in history and that was before the April increase.

Mechanization in the mines made most of this wage increase possible, but the price increase that followed the final wage boost shows again that wages and prices are closely related despite all arguments to the contrary.

SELLING AND THE FARMER
 President Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation recently had this to say: "Too many farmers have assumed that, since everyone must eat, we would always have a market. Politicians have followed the same false reasoning in adopting legislation to fix the prices of farm products without regard to supply or the demand of consumers. The near tragic result is that we have already lost a large part of our market to substitute and synthetic products."

Mr. Shuman's solution is simple: Better, more intensive selling and promotion of farm products. "Thousands of . . . people," he states, "do not eat enough of the protective foods—meat, milk, fruits, and vegetables." In his opinion, stepped-up promotion by farmers, farm organizations, and other interested groups could greatly expand agriculture's market.

This authority would seem to be on firm ground—and he has precedent to point to. To take one example, a number of intensive selling campaigns have been undertaken on behalf of various meats, with producers, packers and retailers participating. They have produced fine results. So have similar campaigns on behalf of other foods.

Salesmanship is all-important to the success of American industry in every field. Agriculture needs it too.

CAN WE TIE OUR OWN SHOELACES?

A child is more self-reliant if he can tie his own shoelaces; the same principle applies in the realm of public affairs.

United States Senator Harry F. Byrd recently said, ". . . we are building up a government of paternalism. There is no state in this Union that can't support its school system. . . . There is not a single county in this country that can't do it. Of course, if they think they are getting something for nothing from the Federal government, it may be that they won't try to do it. . . ."

A child who never learns to tie his shoelaces faces a dark future. So do peoples who look to a government of unlimited powers to do for them what they should do for themselves.

"Pravda, the chief Russian newspaper, gives familiar advice to those who attain . . . advanced years. They should avoid worry, sleep regularly, avoid excessive smoking or drinking. This leaves out the most important requirement: Don't criticize the government.—Breeze, Ill. Journal.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY? THE APOSTLE'S ANSWER

"Thus it is written and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem" (Lk. 24:46-47). When this statement was made, Jesus had completed his work on earth. He had died on Calvary for the sins of the world, had been buried and raised from the dead. Shortly he was to ascend to the right hand of the Father in heaven. He directed his disciples to tarry in the city of Jerusalem until they were clothed with power from on high. According to Acts 1:8, he said, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

The apostles did as they were instructed and remained in Jerusalem. True to his promise, Jesus sent the Holy Spirit upon them, and they began to preach the gospel of Christ for the first time. Salvation, or remission of sins, was preached in his name beginning in Jerusalem, just as he said it should be done.

At the close of the first gospel sermon many who heard were convinced, believed the gospel, and cried out unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren what shall we do?" In Acts 2:38, Peter answered, saying, "Repent, and be baptized everyone of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Were someone to come to us any time, believing and convicted, and ask, "Sir, what shall I do?" And if we should answer in the exact language of Peter: "Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins," would that be right? Could it possibly be wrong? Now, if that is right, would not any other answer necessarily be wrong? We assure you that if one does come and ask, "What shall I do," we shall give him the exact answer that Peter gave these people.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Austin—Last year there were 260 cases of diphtheria reported in Texas. According to Dr. Henry A. Holle, Commissioner of Health, this is a great improvement over 1946 when over 1500 cases were reported. The sad part of it is that none of these cases needed to have occurred.

There were 2,039 diphtheria cases in the United States last year. More important is the fact that the total number of cases may be greater this year. More diphtheria has been reported thus far in 1956 than was reported during the same period in 1955. During the first 12 weeks of this year, 514 cases have been reported compared to 426 last year. Texas has had 73 cases reported up to April 21.

"It is an accepted fact" Dr. Holle said, "that any community may control its death rate from diphtheria. Immunization has proven to be a safe and effective preventive measure."

Diphtheria appears more often during cold weather and often a secondary rise occurs in the summer. In former years practically everyone was exposed to diphtheria when young, and through many small exposures became im-

Last year in this country The Salvation Army sheltered over 2 million people. They helped rehabilitate over 40,000 men and cared for and protected 10,000 unmarried mothers. FORT WORTH—All classes of livestock were in liberal supply at Fort Worth Monday. Cattle & calves drew generally steady prices compared with last week's close. Slaughter classes were more active than stockers kinds, but reports of rain from the territory created a little more optimistic tone to that part of the trade than had prevailed in most recent sessions. Sheep and lambs were active. Lambs sold on a strong basis, with some of the just fairly good to low choice slaughter lambs of both old and new crops selling unevenly higher. Old ewes were 50 cents or more lower for slaughter. Stock and feeder classes moved at fully steady to strong prices and the trade was watching weather reports from the West Texas area closely. Spring lambs topped at $23. Hogs were steady to 25 cents higher and topped at $15.25 to $15.50. Sows were steady at $12 down. Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $16.50 to $20.50, and common, plain and medium butcher steers and yearlings cashed at $12 to $16. Fed heifers sold form $19.50

Good Ideas Never Die

R. Q. Holifield, right, of Shively, Ky., a former brakeman for the Illinois Central Railroad at Paducah, receives a citation and a check for $200, for suggestion made in 1952 from H. L. Williams, a division operating officer of the railroad. Mr. Holifield is now employed by the Clayton-Lambert Company, Louisville. The Illinois Central suggestion system, now in its seventeenth year, has paid employes nearly one million dollars since 1939 for suggestions improving railroad operation.

down. Fat cows cleared at $11 to $13, and canners and cutters ranged from $7 to $11. Bulls drew $10 to $14.50. Good and choice slaughter calves cashed at $16.50 to $20 and a few fancy fat calves topped at $20 to $21. Common, plain and medium butcher calves cashed at $13.50 to $16, and culls sold from $11 to $13. Medium and good stocker steer calves sold from $14 to $18 and choice kinds were very scarce. Stocker steer yearlings cashed $13 to $17.50. Stocker cows drew $9 to $12.50. Good and choice slaughter Spring lambs cashed at $18 to $23, and cull, common and medium Spring lambs sold from $12 to $17. Stocker and feeder Spring lambs cashed at $13 to $15.50. Good and choice shorn fat lambs cashed at $16 to $19, and those at the higher figure had No. 1 pelts. Cull to medium shorn lambs cashed at $10 to $15.50. Stocker and feeder shorn lambs sold from $13 to $15, with some ewes lambs above that range. Slaughter ewes bulked at $3.50 to $5. Aged wethers cashed at 7 to $12. Good and choice butcher hogs sold at $15 to $15.50, and less desirable weights and grades sold mostly from $12 to $15. Some pigs ranged under $12. Sows cashed at $9 to $12. Stags drew $5 to $6. Lubbock, Gainesville Men Complete Judges Lists FORT WORTH—Durward Lewter of Lubbock, operator of one of the largest and newest feedlot in the Southwest accepted a judges post late last week, to complete the field of six who will name the winners in the stocker and feeder sale at the Fort Worth Stockyards May 11. Lewter won fame as a feeder when young people he had trained copped major honors at all the big stock shows, and he has built one of the world's most efficient and modern cattle feeding plants near Lubbock. William Bonner of Gainesville was the fifth judge to accept the honor and this made the judges staff one with three "veterans" who had appeared at these special sales before, and three "new" ones. Those with previous experience are, Quincey Corbett, Jr., Bredkenridge and Kirk Edwards, Henrietta, and Bonner. This will be the first time to serve for Lewter and A. H. Breckeen and Emory Birdwell, both of Palo Pinto.

FAMOUS LAWN MAKES WAY FOR PROGRESS.

FORT WORTH—Visitors to the Fort Worth Stockyards for more than half a century have enjoyed sitting on the spacious Spanish type veranda and looking out over the lush green lawn. The lawn was green the year around and carefully tended, and often during parched, drouthy periods stockmen would gaze hungrily at the grass and wish their livestock had some grazing like it. Visitors in the future will see pavement instead of grass, however, since the increasing demands for parking space make it necessary to rip out the grass and provide parking for the shippers' cars. However, the grass will find a new home. The city park department is carefully skinning it off and transplanting it in park areas.

SECOND STOCKER COW SALE SET MAY 18.

FORT WORTH—At the request of cowmen present at the first special sale of stocker cows and pairs, another date has been set for May 18 at the Fort Worth Stockyards. The special event is open to all breeds and there will be no judging in the affair. Record high prices were set in the first sale held April 13 on the yards. It is expected that large numbers will be entered in the sale and if the expected May rains come the demand for cows and pairs will be tremendous since in many areas the cattle herds are far below normal. The West-to-East movement of cattle which was again evident in the first cow sale when most of the entries came from West Texas—and moved into East Texas to their new homes, could well be reversed if the West Texans get needed rains to revive pastures.

with dieldrin

Fast action in early season against thrips, fleahoppers, and other early-season pests can mean bigger cotton yields and an early harvest . . . less danger of frost damage. That's why thousands of growers use dieldrin in early season. Stay with dieldrin all season long. It gets the other major cotton pests too, such as boll weevils, rapid and tarnished plant bugs, cutworms, and many others.

Long lasting. A single application of powerful dieldrin will knock out boll weevils for many days after application. Even hot, dry areas cannot discourage dieldrin's long-lasting effectiveness.

Easy to use. Dieldrin can be applied as a spray or dust. Either way, you can be sure of effective, high kill.

Get your cotton off to a good healthy start this season. Treat early for thrips, fleahoppers, and other early-season pests. Use dieldrin! Dieldrin is available under well-known brand names from your insecticide dealer. See him today!

Old Times In Munday

By W. H. Cousins

Stranger, I'm an old settler
Didn't come here er tall,
Jes been here always,
And I'll swear I know 'em all.

Knoved Munday when she wuz er baby,
Er ruther when she was twins,
And the tightest pair of infants,
That ever got in ther wind.

The surname of these infants wuz Munday,
That I sposen you cud guess,
Called one of these twins East Munday,
The other's name was West.

These twins they used to get lively,
When liquor was on the run,
Up thar in Wilson's ballroom,
We used to have scads of fun.

Fletcher Wren wud do the fiddlin',
With his fingers blistered white
Draw the bow like a drunken greaser,
Jes to keep 'em steppin' right.

Old Fletcher wud rest a minit,
From his bottle take a draw
And for playing uv the feller,
Who traveled in Arkansaw.

Uv all the quick stampedin',
Rusty raggin' out o' sight,
It was just then takin' place,
At the noontide uv night.

Bob Wilson done the callin'
Fer these awful rags,
And he set his hoofs to millin'
Like an Indian on a jag.

Double on the corners,
And his under jaw wud fall,
Jest like the lid uv a chuck box,
And he whooped out balance all.

He called the crack cotillion,
With the voice of a grizzly bear,
While he tripped the light fantastic
Through the frosty midnight air.

Them days is gone, now, stranger,
We do them stunts no more,
We're wearin' Epworth League pins
Instid of forty-fours.

Ed Wallace, a parson from Memphis,
Worked up an awful change,
With the biggest religious round-up,
That ever took place on this range.

He cut out the hardened sinners,
And drifted 'em up in a wad
And in his cowboy fashion,
Taught 'em the love of God.

Thar's old Cholly Mayes of the Circles
Who wrangled in the big corral,
Has quit hobbin' for the present
And is tearin' tape for the gals.

And dishin' out beans to the nesters
At Alexander's big sto,
With a smile on his face like a prairie fire,
In the grass a long time ago.

Bill Baker, the good old Van Zandter,
The man that's hard to lose,
Is dealin' off Moline wagons,
Calico, bacon and shoes.

When the Wills Point Chronicle falls
To show up when the time is ripe,
He thinks the Universe
Has certainly pied a type.

Frank P'Pool, the shorthorn from Anson,
Will pocket y'our sheekles with thanks,
Frank's ridin' herd on the cash
At the Munday First National Bank.

Thar's old Dock Lee with his cob pipe,
And a twist of homemade weed,
And when he gets her loaded,
He'll tell of a coon fight he seed in Tennessee.

Munday's a great town, stranger,
I've said so time and again,
We hain't anything but crackerjacks,
When it comes to a matter of men.

In a land of fine old citizens,
And laughing boys and girls,
Stranger, try Knox County,

ways strictly accurate under the law. It is sometimes rather difficult to define the right of a finder in court.

There are some rather fine distinctions and exceptions to the "finders keepers" maxim that have plagued the courts—and finders—for generations. In the first place, the finder is not entitled to keep the property unless the original owner is not known and cannot be located. Neither may he keep it unless the object is truly "lost", and not merely "misplaced."

In general, property is legally "lost" when parted with involuntarily—through accident, neglect, forgetfulness or any other unintentional circumstance. Property is not lost in the legal sense when voluntarily left by the owner, intending to pick it up later—even though he fails to do so. Such property is "misplaced."

Thus, if one loses a watch on the street by having the clasp break, not knowing where or when it was dropped, it is legally "lost." The same is true of a fountain pen falling through a hole in one's pocket unobserved. In such cases, the finder owns what he has found against all but the true owner.

On the other hand, a package left on the seat of a bus is "misplaced" rather than lost. In one southern state, a pocketbook left in a barbershop by a customer was held to have been "left," not "lost." The barber was arrested and convicted of larceny when he spent the money that was in it.

Under the law the finder of either lost or misplaced property should make a "reasonable effort" to find the real owner.

When articles are left on a train or bus, in a public hotel room, or even when dropped on a shop floor, under circumstances indicating that he true owner will later return to claim them, such items are not considered lost. The proper custodian to hold them for the owners return would be the proprietor or other person in charge.

Remaining unclaimed, the property sometimes goes to this custodian, sometimes to the finder. The distinction here appears to be whether the place it is found is private or semi-private, or a place used by the general public.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

THE FARM VETO AND ANOTHER PROMISE

It's happened again. The farmer, hopefully eyeing the prospects of an even break in national economy, has been left holding the bag—a bag lined with empty promises.

The presidential veto of the farm bill adds another hole to the farmer's bare and threadworn pocketbook. And the chances of patching it are mighty slim.

Our farmers are left with only the promises made in an attempt to justify this unjust action. The administration proposes as a substitute, that the Congress pass a soil-bank program which, they claim, if passed right away "could" give the farmers up to half a billion dollars in aid this crop year.

The soil bank has been the administration's mainstay, their obsession, and their cure-all for the farmer's ills. This, of course, is not entirely true. It has definite benefits, but is certainly no miracle medicine to cure the low-price plague of our farmers. No single program could be expected to dispel the recent years of mounting farm depression.

The now-dead farm bill was one which was written by the farmers themselves. The Senate and House Agricultural Committees worked tirelessly with rural people all over the nation laying groundwork for the legislation. The bill was not 100 per cent perfect, but it would have at least given the farmers something to hold on to and would have stopped the price declines which are shoving farm economy steadily downward.

In the words of Congressional leaders, there is "no hope" of passing another general farm bill this session. Administration claims of immediate price boosts on some commodities will be bogged down by laws now in effect, and the old farm enemy—the sliding parity scale—will likely stay with us.

Texas farmers are tired of promises. They haven't forgotten those made by the President at Waco during the last presidential campaign. The supports promised then were no more real than the economic boosts our farmers are now being promised.

Our agricultural population loses most through this tragic act. But in the long run, they won't suffer alone. Sound farm economy is essential to national well-being, and continued depression of agriculture is eventually sure to affect us all.

opened it—and a pair of eyes stared at them! The sack contained a human head.

Step by step, I recorded the story through the climax when the suspect was taken to a lonely hilltop at midnight and there confirmed his guilt by revealing the hiding place of the headless corpse.

As I was writing, the quiet of the newspaper office was broken, now and then, by the mysterious noises of the night—the popping of walls, the squeaking of a door, the scurrying of a rat. These sounds, combined with the grisly events being pounded out on the typewriter after being re-enacted by my imagination, had my nerves in such a state that I couldn't go home—where there was no one—until I'd gone to Swaney's drug store for a little visit with the hangers-on and got back to the reality of the present.

Many years ago, when the Ku Klux Klan flourished in Texas, there was a man in Eastland who owned a dog which was his inseparable companion. The Klan membership was secret or was supposed to be. But when the hooded order held a big parade, that dog followed at the heels of a marcher—and everyone on the sidewalk knew who one member was.

In a hot political campaign in Eastland County, W. J. Barnes was running for prosecuting attorney against a lawyer who had represented just about all the criminals. In joint debate, Barnes referred to his opponent as "a legal scavenger." The other man winced, the crowds laughed—and Barnes was elected.

A good many years ago, when I was editor of the Ranger Times, I added to my revenue by writing articles, in spare time, for true crime magazines.

One Sunday, I drove to Stephenville to obtain an account of the Snow murder case of some years previous from Sam Russell, who was district attorney in the trials. He gave a graphic and detailed description of the triple murders (the defendant's wife, mother-in-law and brother-in-law) and I returned to Ranger; then all alone in the newspaper office that night I wrote the story of the crimes, beginning with the finding, by two trappers of a townsack, in the cellar of an abandoned house.

They could tell that there was something in the sack so they carried it into the daylight and

Soil Conservation Week

"For truly, the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, but the responsibility for its stewardship is vested in man."

The week of May 6-12 is Soil Conservation District Week in Texas. It begins on Soil Stewardship Sunday May 6, when many churches will hold special services to recall man's duty to the land. During the rest of the week, most SCDs will present special tours, programs and field days to publicize District accomplishments and objectives.

Texas has 172 soil conservation districts which embrace 96 per cent of the land area of the state. These Districts represent the greatest force—and the first organized, locally-controlled force—for the conservation of the soil, water plants and wildlife.

Each soil conservation district was organized only after landowners of the area voted to have such a district. SCDs are legal sub-divisions of the state government, comparable to counties and school districts, but they have no taxing power. Each is governed by a board of five supervisors who must be landowners themselves and who are elected by farmers and ranchers of the district.

A soil conservation district helps its cooperating farmers and ranchers plan and apply conservation measures on their land. Following a master plan which was carefully prepared by farmers and ranchers committees, each District works toward the goal of complete conservation for all the land in the District. Supervisors function as a co-ordinating body to stimulate and guide the efforts toward local and individual achievements of the District goals. Technical assistance is provided by various agencies, such as Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, Forest Service, and Vocational Agriculture teachers.

Any landowner can become a

SCD cooperator by applying to the board of supervisors. Becoming a cooperator does not involve any financial obligation. Texas SCDs now have 172,000 farmer and rancher cooperators, & the figure grows by 15,000 each year. Last year these cooperators covered 1,180,000 acres and stubble-mulched 256,000 acres of Texas land. They controlled brush on 1,322,000 acres and had 6,963,000 acres of deferred grazing.

They built 10,700 miles of terraces, 7,540 miles of waterways, built over 10,000 ponds and leveled 74,000 acres of land for proper irrigation.

Supervisors of the Wichita-Brazos SCD are Jack Idol, Henry Smith, C. C. Browning, Herman Gammill, and Doris Dickerson. District offices are maintained at Knox City and Haskell. The district has 1,022 cooperators.

Musical Prodigies in Dallas Opera Season

Thomas Schippers

Roberto Peters

Two youthful prodigies of the musical world will appear together in the Metropolitan Opera's new production of "Don Pasquale" in Dallas Saturday afternoon, May 12, in State Fair Auditorium. Conductor Thomas Schippers, 26, was called "the wonder boy of music" when he made his New York City Opera debut two years ago. This is his first year with the Met and the first time he will be heard in the Southwest. Soprano Roberto Peters, now a reigning prima donna at 25, was one of the youngest singers ever to be admitted to the Metropolitan when she made her debut at 20. Also scheduled in Dallas' city-sponsored presentation of the Metropolitan Opera will be "Tales of Hoffman," May 11 evening; "Tosca," May 13 evening, and "Die Meistersinger," May 15 matinee.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

Everyone who respects the authority of the several sovereign States of this country have been greatly disturbed by the recent trend of the Supreme Court through its decisions to continually chip away at the rights which the States reserved unto themselves in the Constitution. Recently the Supreme Court took another slice from the reserved rights of the States in the case where a known Communist was convicted under State law, and the Supreme Court reversed the conviction on the basis that since Congress had passed laws dealing with sedition, that it must have been intended that the Federal Government occupy the whole field of subversion and preempted the State laws on the subject. This was an unwarranted and dangerous extension of a Federal Statute. In fact, it was an outright amendment of it by the Court for in the Federal Law itself there was no intention expressed that the Federal Government should occupy the whole field of subversion. In fact, there was an expression in the Statute that this should not be the case. If this trend of Court decisions continues, the result in a short time can only be that the States will be stripped of all of their authority, and the Federal Government will be absolutely supreme in every field. It is certainly time for Congress to act in a way that will make it clear to the Court that Congress at least respects the historic position of the States in our Government, and that no Federal law should in effect repeal a State Statute unless there is an expressed statement to that effect by the Congress or a clear conflict between the Federal and State Law. There can be little question but what the best and most effective form of Government is that which is closest to the people and that in many fields the States can act more effectively than can the Federal Government. There is legislation pending in Congress now that would re-affirm the historic relationship between the States and the Federal Government and would re-affirm in the States their Constitutional rights.

This legislation should be passed at the earliest possible date. It is only by acting quickly and strongly in this field that Congress can prevent a further encroachment of States' rights by judicial decisions. If the integrity of our Constitutional form of Government is to survive, then the sovereignty of our States must be maintained.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell Burton of Abilene visited relatives and friends here last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Randolph of Afton were week end guests of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Foshee.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Fails To See Any Connection Between Price Supports And The Loss Of Incentive

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses incentive this week, a subject he's not in very close contact with.

Dear editor:

There are so many people offering solution to the farming problem and there are so many different ideas on how to get rid of the surplus that if most farmers listened to all of them they never would get around to getting any farming done, although I can tell you from experience that there are other ways not to get any farming done too.

But on the theory that the patient is entitled to hear something of what the doctors say would cure him, I have been listening to the farm problem discussions pretty steadily now and about the best one I've heard came from a man up in the Midwest.

According to him, price supports are bad because they have robbed the American farmer of his incentive, they're making him lazy.

I don't know about others, but I resent this. I was lazy long before price supports were thought up. It takes more than an act of Congress to make me lazy. In fact, nothing made me, I just figured it out on my own.

J. A.

But as for other farmers, I can't see how it applies. If they can't produce all the surpluses we've got without any incentive, how big do you reckon on the surpluses would be by now if they'd had some?

Another argument is that us farmers have got to get more efficient if we want to stay on the farm. As I understand it, 40 years ago the average farmer was producing enough for himself and four other people living in town. Now he's producing enough for himself and family and seventeen other people living in town. If this ain't efficiency, I don't know what efficiency is, and of course I may not.

But I can't get over this argument, that high prices robbed the farmer of his incentive. I guess you might think that the less a man makes the harder he'll work and the more he'll improve his incentive to make ends meet and get ahead, but I've noticed that some of the hardest working men on earth are the men who really don't have to work in the first place. The prospect of a profit never has been beat as an incentive.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

The Cotton Plant That Kills Insects

Cotton plants with built-in protection against insects will be grown this year in Mississippi and Texas. This is made possible by treating cotton seeds before planting with a new insecticide, named Thimet, which stays in the growing plant for up to seven weeks and eliminates two to four early season dustings or sprayings. The cotton plant at right in the photo was protected by Thimet; the one on the left was not and shows typical insect damage.

Thimet, developed by American Cyanamid Company, was recently accepted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It will be marketed in other cotton producing states next season. Cyanamid is also testing Thimet on corn, peas, beans, lettuce, beets, peanuts, tree fruits, and tobacco seedlings. Results, they say, are promising.
