Odd Bits Salvaged

It was just a big joke, folks!
k-k
What we failed to explain last week in our crack about Gene Harrell trying to sell our newspaper, and which caused some wonderment among our few readers, was that this has been a standing joke between Gene and the editor for years and years. He's always hit us up to buy the paper, and our reply sometimes is: "Well, if you'd seen us last Wednesday we'd have given it to you."

k-k
So when Gene struck I. V. Cook and the editor enjoying a cup of coffee, he lit in to sell Cook our newspaper, and that's when we decided he was giving us a boot in the pants instead of a pat on the back. Gene and the editor always have been, and still are, very good friends. And the next time he sees us, he'll probably try to buy the newspaper!

k-k
Judge M. F. Billingsley had his vacation and fishing trip interrupted before he returned to Munday and before he got gotten in enough fishing. You'd seen is left arm in a cast, if you've seen our mayor.

k-k
Judge had an accident trying to pull a boat up on the bank and broke his arm. The only nice thing about it was that he got in two days of good fishing before the accident. He tried fishing again after the accident, but he says a fellow just can't do much at fishing with just one hand.

k-k
Up until last week it has been too dry for dry-land farmers to plant. A big sandstorm got a big portion of our carrot crop, and some sort of insect has been nipping the little cotton stalks as they come up, and the farmers problems have been mounting.

k-k
Just last Monday night, when the cloud that brought us only a light shower was threatening, we ran into Cannon Roberts. "I know it'll rain tonight," Cannon said. "I planted today, and I've never planted in my life that it didn't rain."

k-k
While dwelling on the problems of farmers, we're reminded of a little story we heard over the week end.

k-k
A farmer was making a delivery to an insane asylum and decided to get in conversation with one of the inmates. "How long you been here?" he asked, and the inmate told him. The inmate then asked: "Have you ever been in an asylum?" The farmer replied in the negative, and the inmate continued: "Well, I'll tell you one thing, sir. It shore beats farming!"

k-k
The bank building sure is a ghastly looking thing, now. Reminds us of some of those old "ghost town" buildings we've seen on rare occasions. Practically all the insides have been taken out, the outside has been disfigured by persons operating that air hammer outfit, and the building's really just a hull of its former self.

k-k
We're quite sure that workmen on the building know what they're doing, so just give them a few months and Munday will have one of the nicest looking and most up-to-date bank buildings in this area. Makes one think he's in "Big D" when he steps out on the street and hears all the noise going on with the air jammer going, falling lumber, brick and debris.

This is to serve notice that the vacant space behind our building is not to be used as a dumping ground. We make a feeble effort to keep it clean, but just recently someone has dumped last year's cooling pads from their air conditioner directly in the spot to obstruct drainage from our gutter—and we don't appreciate it. With a dead-end alley, and one through which neither cars nor trucks can pass, we have enough trouble guarding against all fire hazards without other people using it to dump their trash.

Roy Warren of Ralls was a business visitor here last week. He also visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Warren.

Recent rains over much of the state have greatly improved the prospects for a cotton crop but delayed plantings, due to drought, will make the crop as much as three weeks late in some sections. Late planting last year produced yields below average, therefore, points out C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, cotton producers should use the best known production practices to help close the gap. Early weed and insect control programs are a must.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hill visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams and son, in Midland over the week end.

BIG RETURN FOR THE MONEY

Our leading military men—including former General of the Army Eisenhower—have said again and again that the American merchant marine is vital to the national defense. And the cost to the nation of maintaining that merchant marine is amazingly small in the light of other defense spending.

For instance, in the fiscal year 1955 total defense appropriations amounted to $35.5 billion. Maritime appropriations (including the cost of operating and construction subsidies along with all other Maritime Administration costs) came to a trifle less than $180 million—about one-half of one per cent of the total defense budget.

We get an enormous return for the maritime money. There are, to take just one example, 38 critical industrial metals and minerals. The United States is self-sufficient in only nine. All or part of the remaining 29 must come from abroad, by ship. We import two-fifths of our copper and nearly a third of our lead and zinc. We are almost totally dependent upon foreign sources for our tin, nickel and platinum.

This, of course, is but part of the merchant marine story. A substantial part of our agricultural and industrial production goes abroad—also by ship. Those exports are responsible for great numbers of good jobs in the U. S., and for large sums of money received by farmers. The U. S. merchant marine serves us well in peace and in war.

THE PRICE OF A NEWSPAPER STRIKE

A news story of general interest is highlighted in an Associated Press release from East Lansing, Michigan: "The bureau of business research at Michigan State university reported. . . . that Detroit stores lost $35 million in sales in December because of the city-wide newspaper strike there. The bureau said its conclusions were based on state sales tax returns from Detroit as compared with the previous December and with sales tax returns from Detroit suburbs." The strike lasted well into January but, the AP said, only December sales were counted in this survey.

Nothing can replace the newspaper for advertising.

MONTPELEIER, VERMONT, EVENING ARGUS: "Now that Khrushchev & Co., in Moscow, have foreclosed on Stalin's reputation and are desperately working to make a bum out of him—so the grumbling multitude will have someone to blame for their misery. . . . the clouds may be lifting. We may yet see a Red sunset."

MERCHANDISING FARM PRODUCTS

A short time ago the American Meat Institute announced that the packing industry, which it represents, would advertise and merchandise beef items extensively during the spring cattle run. Then it had something interesting to say about the meat situation in this country.

Beef eating has made notable advancement in recent years and now average one-quarter of a pound a day for our school-age and adult population. Last year our total meat consumption rate reached 161 pounds—the highest figure in 47 years—with beef accounting for a fraction more than half of that. Even so, we are not world leaders in this field. Uruguay, Argentina, Australia and New Zealand all have higher consumption rates than ours.

The Institute's announcement said: "The best way to support continued and adequate production is to stimulate greater demand for the product of our farms and ranches. We in the meat industry can do this through promotional efforts in every direction and at the same time perform a notable service to the public by stimulating better nutrition."

That idea could profitably be applied to all the products of our farms and ranches. The big need today is to get more of our agricultural output into consumption—and less into storage.

THE MONEY YOU NEVER SEE

Thurman Sensing of the Southern States Industrial Council suggests that the major reason why people don't realize how excessively expensive government is lies in "the fact that they never see the taxes they pay."

This is because most or all of the federal income taxes paid by the majority of workers are required to be withheld by the employer, who turns them into the Treasury. The worker never sees the money and so doesn't realize he didn't get his full earnings.

Thus the device of the withholding tax may indirectly encourage government waste and extravagance. It's certain that people would have a very different picture of affairs if they had to personally turn over their full taxes to the tax collectors.

CUERO, TEXAS, RECORD: "The controversy over whether or not Shakerspeare wrote his plays has raged for years. The time may come, if television continues to make inroads into people's reading habits, when it will be argued that they were really written by Sir Laurence Olivier."

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

FAITH AND OBEDIENCE

Faith and obedience are two fundamental principles by which God has governed in every age of dispensation of the Bible. In no age of the world could man please God without faith and obedience. The Lord's particular requirements for each dispensation; Patriarchal Jewish, and Christian, has been different; but the principles that have regulated individuals in carrying out these requirements in every age have been faith and obedience.

What is obedience? The best way to find out what Bible obedience means is to examine some recorded examples. Let us examine Num. 21:4-9. From this scripture we learn that the people had spoken against God, and against Moses. For their disobedience God had sent fiery serpents among them to punish them. The serpents bit many and they died. The people then requested Moses to pray unto the Lord that he might take away the serpents from them. Moses prayed for the people.

The Lord did not take away the serpents and heal them immediately. He told Moses to do something, to make a fiery serpent and to sit it upon the pole. Then he told the people to do something, "Look upon the serpent and ye shall live". To look upon the serpent was the divinely appointed way of life for those serpent poisoned people. They were given no choice in the matter. It was either look and live or disobey and die. Here was the test of their faith. Had some healing solution or salve been prepared and applied to their wounds, the people would have attributed the cure to those things and would have lost sight of God in the matter. But can any one explain how one could be saved from the deadly poison serpent by just looking upon a serpent lifted upon a pole? The only reasonable conclusion from this would be that God did the healing when the people obeyed his commands. It is easy to see that it took obedience to the command of God to bring forth the blessing of God.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

The control of the illegal traffic in narcotics the last several years has been one of the most serious and troublesome social problems that we have been confronted with. The first Federal legislation in an attempt to control narcotics was the Harrison Narcotics Law which was enacted in 1914 at which time there were approximately 250,000 known narcotics addicts in the United States while today even with the tremendous increase in population since 1914, it is estimated that there are only 60,000 known addicts in the country. It has been through the constant work in the enforcement of the Harrison Narcotics Law and the others that have been enacted since 1914 that have in my judgment led to a substantial decrease in the number of addicts in this country. It has been a historical fact that after each National emergency like the Civil War, World War I, and World War II, there has been an increase in the illegal use of drugs. This was certainly true after the end of World War II, and the situation grew to such alarming proportions that in 1951 Congress enacted laws that provided for more severe mandatory penalties. After the enactment of this Law, by 1952 the post-war upsurge in addiction and in narcotics traffic had reached its peak. In 1953 there were 23,627 arrests under the Narcotics Laws. In 1954 there were 19,489, and the number of persons under 21 arrested dropped from 2732 in 1953 to 2136 in 1954. While this trend seems to be encouraging, it should always be remembered that narcotic addiction and illegal traffic in narcotics remains one of our most serious problems. This is particularly true when we realize that Red China frequently releases a deluge of heroin on the world market as a means of building up her foreign exchange and demoralizing the people of the Free World. Frequently, the mark-up on these drugs by big-time operators in the dope racket is as much as 10,000%, and the profit from this evil business is used to finance all kinds of organized crime.

Dope traffic is truly big business for it is estimated that the average addict must spend from $50 to $100 a week to satisfy his desire, and that the addicts in this country spend about $600,000 daily or $219,000,000 a year for illegal drugs. There can be no doubt but what there is a real need to revise the Federal Laws in this field so that the penalties will be greater and more effective ways provided to catch and punish the really big operators in the dope racket.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack White and baby of Abilene visited relatives here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morton visited relatives and friends in Lubbock last Sunday.

Charles Baker, Tom Bullington, Winston Blacklock and Earl Hughes attended the district 2-E Lions Club conventions in Mineral Wells last Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Joe W. Burton of Nashville, Tenn., visited in the homes of his sisters, Christine Burton and Mrs. H. P. Hill, and Mr. Hill over the week end. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Burton of Haskell were Sunday guests.

Don Haynie and Neil Richmond of Lubbock spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Haynie, Sr. and other relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Copeland visited W. T. Copeland and family in Lubbock over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNeill were business visitors in Wichita Falls last Thursday. They also visited their daughter, Betty, who is attending Midwestern University.

Joe Mack Hill of Lubbock was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hill.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lane Womble were Mr. and Mrs. Troy Harrell and daughters of Casper, Wyo.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Womble and daughters of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Layne Womble and son of Midland, M/Sgt. and Mrs. Ack Henslee and daughters of Lawton, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hardin of Knox City.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pendleton visited relatives in Wichita Falls over the week end.

may be binding upon the partnership. The corporation, however, can act only through its officers and agents, and then only within the limitations granted by the articles of incorporation.

As members of a partnership both you and Bill will be liable for all of the debts of the business. In the case you have business losses, the creditors of the partnership could take all of the assets of the partnership, and all of the personal assets of either you or Bill, or both (except a few exempt by law), in order to satisfy the partnership debts.

On the other hand, if you form a corporation the creditors may go only against the assets of the corporation so that the most that either of you can lose is the amount you have invested in the business. The creditors could not touch the property which either of you own personally and individually, outside of your corporate stock.

In event of the death of you or Bill, it would be necessary to liquidate the partnership, but in the case of a corporation the operation of the business is not affected by the death of an owner (stockholder). The firm continues as the same business with the heirs of the one who dies substituted as the owner of the stock.

Of primary interest to you and Bill will be the amount of income taxes you have to pay. In a partnership, each of the owners of the business includes on his individual income tax return his proportionate share of the total income shown on the partnership return. This is because the partnership is not recognized as a taxable entity.

The corporation is recognized as a taxable entity, so it pays a tax on the amount of its net income, after deducting the salaries of you and Bill and other expenses. Then you of course pay individual income taxes on your salaries.

If over a period of years the earnings of the corporation exceeded reasonable salaries for the two owners, these earnings will be distributed to you and Bill in the form of dividends. The funds with which the dividends are paid have already been subject to tax in the hands of the corporation, but are again taxed on your individual returns when distributed.

The income tax advantage or disadvantage of a partnership as compared with a corporation depends on the net income from the business, the salaries the owners receive, the amount of their other income, and the requirements of the business for liquid funds.

In the event either of the owners is interested in planning his estate to reduce taxes at the time of his death, he can probably do it more easily through a corporation than a partnership.

PICNIC ITEMS

A new addition is gaining popularity as an item for the family picnic basket this summer. It isn't something to eat or drink, but still an item that can help make these outings more pleasant for all concerned. Families are discovering that tossing a well-planned first aid kit in next to the catsup and mustard bottles will do the job. Salt tablets (for heat fatigue), iodine and bandages (for cut fingers), eye drops (for sun-strained eyes) and sun-tan lotion (for sun-burned backs) will prove a real aid in bringing the family back in the evening as happy as it was when it left in the morning.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

MUNDAY F. F. A. CHAPTER SELLS CLUB CALVES

The Munday Chapter of Future Farmers of America have sold some of the calves that they have been feeding for 210 days on grain to local merchants. These calves graded U. S. Good and Choice. So if you enjoy eating good fresh home raised and home killed beef rush down to the following merchants and ask for some Munday F. F. A. club calf beef. Then if you like it, tell the merchants about it. It is their desire to keep good beef for you.

Atkinson Grocery, Beaty Grocery, Blacklock Grocery, Joe Gray Grocery, and Hollar Grocery all have purchased some of the calves and can supply your needs.

We would not forget to mention Mr. Louis Todd of the Munday Locker Plant who has cooperated so well with the chapter by slaughtering the calves and chilling without charge. We urge you to cooperate with Mr. Todd and let's keep a good locker plant in Munday. If you have need for a good grain fed beef for your locker or deep freeze the chapter may have just what you need.

Now we thank the merchants, Mr. Todd, the Munday Times, and the customers for their cooperations.

Emergency Supplies

FOOD, water and light are often shut off to families whose homes have been damaged by floods, fires or other disasters. In the event of an enemy air attack, these essentials of life would pose problems for all people in the area. The answer is to keep emergency supplies in the home.

A convenient and safe way to store the supplies is to use covered galvanized steel cans or pails. These containers are available in several sizes, so there is one to fit the space needs of every family. They are strong and durable, so fire, moisture and rodents cannot destroy supplies kept in them.

Items stored in the containers should include bottled water, canned foods, flashlights, candles and matches. These are basic emergency supplies.

A family which is isolated from its neighbors might also elect to keep a portable battery-powered radio and extra clothing among the emergency supplies, even though this may require using more than one covered metal storage can.

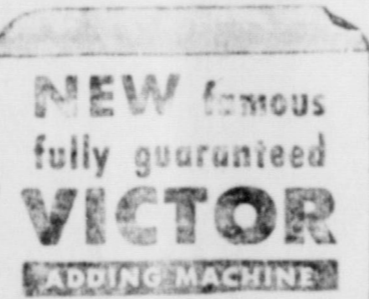

An important point is to keep the emergency cans of materials where they can be reached quickly and easily.

A BOOST FOR TEXAS POULTRY PRODUCTS

The Texas Department of Agriculture is laying groundwork for a new and important marketing program aimed at helping the Texas poultry and egg industry.

Plans are for inauguration of a marketing service intent on improving quality of Texas poultry through inspection and grading, boosting the Texas egg industry through a grading and standards program, and there by expanding market outlets for Texas poultry products.

Since there are at present no state laws which regulate quality or set standards for the sale of poultry or eggs within the state, Texas producers often run into marketing problems both in local and national trade. Lack of standards often causes Texas to be used as a dumping ground for produce from neighboring states which fails to meet proper standards.

For lack of poultry inspection and egg standards laws, Texas cannot compete successfully on the national market with graded and inspected produce from other states.

Trade sentiment is strongly in favor of state laws providing for such poultry and egg inspection programs, and chances are excellent for their eventual passage. However until such legislation is adopted, the proposed self-help program is needed to help promote Texas poultry products as quality merchandise on the national and home markets.

Such a plan, properly executed, could put thousands more dollars in the pockets of Texas growers. Through information and demonstration programs showing proper grading, handling, shipping, display and storage methods, poultrymen would learn how to market quality produce at a minimum cost.

Research would be made to determine causes and cures for seasonal glut and shortages of certain products with special emphasis on balancing the overall supply-demand situation.

Texas has long been a leading state in poultry production. In fact, the U. S. commercial broiler industry had its first beginning in the heart of the South Texas broiler area. In order to meet growing competition from other areas, highest standards must be maintained to protect Texas' interest in this big and important industry.

The world's oldest detective story: In Arabia centuries ago, two men were hunting a camel which had strayed from the caravan and they encountered a stranger of whom they inquired if he had seen aught of the animal.

"Was he blind in one eye?" the traveler asked.

"Yes."

"And did he have an injured left front foot?"

"Yes, yes."

"And did he have a front tooth out?"

"Yes, indeed, take us to him."

The stranger continued, "Was he laden on one side with honey and on the other side with grain?"

"Yes, he assuredly was."

"No, I haven't seen him," the stranger said.

So they seized him and brought him before the magistrate in Damascus on a charge of concealing the animal. The conversation was related and then the judges asked the prisoner what he had to say. He replied:

"Excellency, as I walked along the road, I noticed the footprints of a camel and I observed that one print was fainter than the others, therefore it appeared that he was favoring the foot because of an injury.

"In cropping the grass, he left tiny tufts, indicating that a tooth was out. "He grazed on the side of the road where the grass was less abundant—hence, he must have been blind in one eye.

"And, finally, most exalted judge, at one side, ants were busy and, at the other side, flies were gathered. It was plain that his cargo was leaking from the containers. The flies showed that, on one side, he carried honey; the ants showed that the other part of his load was grain."

And so the prisoner was liberated.

(As to whether the missing camel was ever found, the record is silent.)

FORT WORTH—Spring lambs topped at $27 at Fort Worth Monday, the highest level since May, 54; spring lambs scored a $22 1/2, the best of the year for old lambs. Early estimates called for 11,000 sheep and lambs, but this figure had been passed by morning as late arrivals continued to come in. With less than 1,000 sheep estimated at the nation's 12 major markets Monday, the supply here was more than 1/2 of the total offered around a major marketing circle. Feeds and older sheep sold fully steady, while slaughter lambs were $1 or more higher. Cattle and calves were generally steady to strong, with stocker prices unevenly higher. Hogs led 50 cents lower and topped at 5.25.

Good and choice Spring lambs shed at $20 to $27, and cull to medium lambs sold from $14 to $20. Stocker Spring lambs sold from $17 down. Shorn slaughter lambs of good and choice grades led from $17 to $22, and cull to medium old crop lambs sold from $2 to $16.50. Stocker and feeder horn lambs sold from $16 down. D ewes drew $4 to $5, and some weaning ewes from $7 to $9 with yearlings ewes well above that range. Inquiry on breeding ewes is the most broad of the season, and supplies were very limited. Old bucks sold from $4 to $4.50. Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $16.50 to $20.50, and common to medium offerings cleared at $12 to $16. Fat cows sold from $11 to $13, and canners and cutters shed at $7 to $11. Bulls drew $10 to $14.50.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $17 to $21, and common and medium butcher calves sold from $14 to $16.50. Culls sold from $11 to $13. Good to choice stocker steer calves cashed at $17 to $19, and yearlings ranged from $17 to $19 downward. Stocker cows sold from $9 to $13. Choice meat type butcher hogs topped at $15 to $15.25 and less desirable weights and kinds sold from $11 to $14.50. Sows drew $9 to $12. Stags sold from $5 to $8.

AUSTIN—A high volume air sampler installed on the roof of the State Department of Health here will show any increases in radioactive "fallout" resulting from nuclear bomb tests now being conducted in the Pacific.

The air sampler, capable of sampling more than 1500 cubic feet of air every day, is designed to trap air-borne radioactive particles on a thin pink filter pad. When read daily, increases in radioactivity occurring on any given day are apparent.

The instrument was installed two weeks ago as part of a sprawling coast to coast network of 39 monitoring stations. It was provided by the U. S. Public Health Service and the Atomic Energy Commission to get quick, first hand records of radioactive fallout reaching the United States from the Eniwetok Proving Grounds where test firings began last Friday.

"Fallout" is the term applied to particles of matter atomized and made radioactive by exploding super weapons and drawn into the atmosphere by updrafts. The particles eventually settle back to earth as "fallout."

The distance they travel, wafled by air currents at tremendous heights, is one of the questions the detection network is expected to answer.

State Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle said first readings from the 24-hour operation were made April 19, well in advance of the actual beginning dates of the nuclear weapons tests.

State Health Department radiation engineers in charge of the air sampler say radioactive particles are constantly present in the atmosphere in small but measurable quantities, coming chiefly from materials contained in soils blown from other areas. The filter readings obtained prior to the Pacific tests helped establish existing levels of natural radiation.

After "normal" levels were determined, any great deviations observed in day to day readings of the filter pad can be attributed to the nuclear tests and reported.

Readings taken to date have shown variations in normal background radiation up to five times greater than minimum values, as such.

These values are all within safe ranges, engineers report.

A second network comprised of first order weather bureaus throughout the country will furnish more leisurely studies of fallout. Sheets of film will be exposed to the atmosphere at each weather bureau for 24 hours. When samples are reduced to ashes at a central laboratory, minute amounts of radioactivity can be measured.

Weather stations in Dallas and Corpus Christi are cooperating in the latter network.

The two networks will complement each other, sponsors of the operation said.

No Nails Mar Face Of Shadowvent Siding
A NEW kind of siding that has no visible nails to mar the surface, that has even, trim lines and a clearcut shadow line, and that holds its painted surface far longer than comparable materials may be obtained at lumber yards under the name of Masonite Shadowvent siding.

It's a combination of a familiar product, Masonite Tempered Preswood, and a specially-formed aluminum strip, which holds the panel and is vented to prevent the condensation of moisture inside the wall.

How the panel fits into the aluminum strip without nailing is shown in the upper detail. Only the aluminum strip is nailed to the studs. The siding itself "floats." The system holds the panels in perfect alignment.

Pre-packaged panels come in widths of 10" or 12", sizes that are popular in ranch-style houses and which are available in these widths at no premium in cost. Shadowvent is easy to paint, and paint on this material lasts much longer than on the conventional siding because it is so smooth and has no knots or grain.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Barnard visited friends in Wichita Falls last Sunday.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Frowns On City Writer's Idea To Solve The Farm Ills By Part-Time Farming

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is worried about the farm surplus again this week, needlessly, we think, as nobody can pin any of the surplus on him.

J. A.

Dear editor: Being a student of the solutions people all over the country are offering for the farm problem, on the theory it's interesting and comforting to know others are thinking about you, whether their ideas are worth anything or not, I'm naturally on the alert for new ideas along this line.

And the other day I ran across FOR SALE—40 extra nice weaned pigs, $6.50 each. Also five real good brood sows for sale. W. E. Blankinship, Goree. 42-2tp what I thought at first was going to be a wonderful idea. According to this one, put out by a city newspaper writer, everybody knows the farmer is caught in a cost-price squeeze and the way for him to work out of it is through part-time farming.

According to him, part-time farming is the answer, and I was fixing to write him a letter congratulating him on his idea, when I kept on reading. It wasn't what I thought it was at all.

"Part-time farming is the answer," he said, then explained that what he meant was farmers could whip their problems of a shrink income by taking a job in town, working eight hours there, then pushing home and getting in their farming after hours and on Saturdays.

That doesn't strike me as part-time farming. What it look like to me is full-time working and over-time farming.

It's nothing new to me to know that I could go to town and get a job, I've known that for years. A solution to the farm problem that requires me to work twice as hard as I am now is no solution as far as I'm concerned.

If this country is ever going to get rid of the farm surplus, the farmers are going to have to farm less, which suits me fine, but what they do with the rest of their time is none of any city newspaper writers business. I don't know whether there's a solution to the farm problem or not, I doubt it, but doubling my work load to do it is one of the most radical ideas I ever heard of. J. A.

Seniors' Trip To Galveston Is Most Enjoyable

On Thursday morning, May 3, an anxious group of seniors boarded two school buses and left on their annual senior trip. We rode the buses as far as Wichita Falls, where we changed to a train and went on to Fort Worth.

In Fort Worth, we were conducted through Texas Christian University, ate supper at the T. C. U. cafeteria, and then proceeded to downtown Fort Worth and a movie.

We boarded the train again at 11:30 Thursday night and spent the remainder of the night enroute to Houston. We arrived at Houston at 8:30 a. m. Friday and ate breakfast at the Old South Cafeteria. After a very pleasant meal, we boarded a chartered bus and toured the residential areas of Houston, as well as the University of Houston, Rice Institute, and the Hotel Shamrock Hilton.

Back to the buses and the Green Room of Christie's Restaurant, where we had a delicious seafood lunch. We then journeyed to the Battleship Texas and San Jacinto Monument. On the way back, we stopped at the Gallina Public Schools and visited two of our former teachers, Mr. and Mrs.

W. C. Cunningham. Back in town, we had dinner at the Old South and again boarded the train for Galveston. Those 50 miles were some of the longest we had ever ridden, because we were all so anxious to get there. We finally arrived and went to the Jack Tar Hotel. Most of us were so exhausted that we went right on to bed.

Saturday morning, we ate breakfast in the Sugar and Spice room of the hotel, then went to John Sealy Memorial Hospital for a two-hour tour, and later to the beach for a two-hour swim.

That afternoon, we were turned loose for general sightseeing. At 6 p. m., we met at the hotel, boarded another bus for the docks and a ride on the Miss Texas, a sightseeing boat. After the boat trip, we went to Guido's Restaurant for dinner. We were then turned loose on the town until bedtime.

Next morning, we got up at 4:30, packed, ate breakfast and once more boarded the train, this time for home. We arrived in Munday at 7 p. m. Sunday, a tired but happy class of 1956.

RECORDS NEEDED TO GET FEDERAL REFUND ON GASOLINE

Good records will make the job of preparing a claim for a refund on gasoline used on the farm easier, and the farm tractor a more efficient production tool, says W. L. Ulich, extension agriculture engineer. Farmers are now eligible to ask for a refund covering the 2-cent per gallon Federal excise tax.

To get a refund, a farmer must file after June 30 and before October 1, a claim with the District Director of Internal Revenue covering the gasoline used during the first six months of the year. After 1956 refunds will be made for a one-year period from July 1 to June 30.

Refunds, explains Ulich, will be made only on gasoline used on a farm for farming purposes. They will not include gasoline used in cars or trucks used on the highways even though on farm business. The recently enacted law also applies to diesel and other motor fuels.

The claims must be filed on Form 2240 which will be available after June 1 from county agents, banks, post office and Internal Revenue offices.

Ulich reports that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has said that regulations relating to the new law will be issued as soon as possible. In the meantime, he advises farmers to keep a good set of records on all gasoline or other fuels; included under the legislation and used on the farm. When claim filing time rolls around, these records can mean money. If they are studied, they may be the source of information that can save additional money from gasoline or fuel not fully utilized by the tractor and in maintenance costs, says Ulich.
