SENATOR BORAH WAS WRONG

In an earlier era, it seems clear, the advocates of the federal income tax had no conception of the extent to which it would grow—and the tremendous portion it would take from the earnings of the people.

In defending this tax, the late Senator Borah once said: "The great and honored lawyer, Joseph Choate, denounced such a tax as socialistic. He said that if you can levy a tax of two per cent, you may lay a tax of fifty per cent or a hundred per cent."

"Who will lay the tax of fifty per cent or a hundred per cent?"

"Whose equity, sense of fairness, of justice, of patriotism, does he question?"

"Why the representatives of the American people—not only that, but the intelligence, the fairness, the justice of the people themselves, to whom their representatives are always answerable?"

Senator Borah was a famous and able man, but in this case he could hardly have been more wrong. An income tax of 50 per cent now applies at levels which are far from great wealth. And in the top bracket the tax is 91 per cent—only nine per cent short of the total expropriation that Joseph Choate feared.

Moreover, even in relatively modest brackets, the tax collector hits very hard. Taxes, direct and indirect, account for about one-third of a $7,500 annual income. And a man earning $85 a week works more hours to pay his taxes than to pay for his food and clothing combined.

"ON THE JOB" TEACHER TRAINING

The value of practical experience, as an important part of training in virtually every field of endeavor, is unquestioned. Michigan State University is proving that such experience is no less important in the critical job of training teachers.

This year, 300 M. S. U. students are teaching full-time in 13 Michigan communities before receiving college degrees as "full-fledged" teachers. Thus, in the community itself, they are able to see the problems a community must face and learn the viewpoints of parents and others without the orientation period that often is trying for all concerned.

Such a program could be adopted by many other schools and communities to the mutual benefit of everyone.

PATTERN FOR COMMUNITY GROWTH

Power companies, railroads, large industries and other agencies interested in industrial development have been working on plans to provide more practical and convenient areas for factory locations, home building sites, shopping centers, and school facilities outside congested city centers.

This progressive planning is going on all over the country. One of the latest to be announced is that of the Union Pacific Railroad Company on a project of several hundred acres on the outskirts of Portland, Oregon.

According to the company there is a growing need for this type of high-class, close-in development suitable for industries whose investments and payrolls have a tremendous effect on the economic health of the community.

Thus, does a large industry make possible the development of a hundred smaller industries—one can't exist without the other. This is the private enterprise way of building the nation.

TREASON TO FREEDOM

Maxwell Anderson, in his book, "The Guaranteed Life," wrote: "The greatest enemies of democracy, the most violent reactionaries, are those who have lost faith in the capacity of a free people to manage their own affairs and wish to set up the government as a political and social guardian, running their business and making their decisions for them. This is statism or Stalinism, no matter who advocates it, and it's plain treason to freedom."

It is an unhappy irony that the fine old word "liberal" has been appropriated by people who want the government to run everything, decide everything, and boss everyone. This is as far from classical and traditional liberalism as a man can get. The advocates of the super-state are, as Mr. Anderson pointed out, the real reactionaries.

CARLEAD, N. M. CURRENT-ARGUS: "The proposed bill to free natural gas producers from federal control has played hob with party lines in Congress. . . . The issue is not whether natural gas rates may be raised or lowered; that is a side effect. The real issue is whether the federal government should be granted the power to go to a gas well and tell the producer what price he can get for his product as it follows into the line and heads for a city. It seems to us this is an unwarranted grant of power to the federal government. . . ."

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

IT IS NOT ENOUGH JUST TO BE GOOD

Many well-meaning people have the idea that all is needed to inherit eternal life is to be good. They usually mean by this to be morally upright, to stay out of jail, etc. But the Bible says it is not enough just to do the best you can by yourself. If that were enough then Jesus need never have come into the world. The cross was a tragic mistake, and the blood of Jesus is of no importance.

The Bible teaches that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God . . ." (Rom. 3:23). Jesus said: "It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." James teaches us that if we sin in one point of the law of God we became guilty of all (Ja. 2:10). Again, the Bible says that "to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin." Surely there is no one who thinks he is so good that he does every thing good that he knows to do.

The man who ignored Christ and the Bible is guilty of ingratitude. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (Ja. 1:17). We are commanded to give thanks in everything (1 Thess. 5:18). The man who trusts in his own self-righteousness becomes guilty of pride. There is no place for human pride in the presence of God.

The best example of a good man who needed to be saved is Cornelius, the Roman centurion. Compare your virtues with his. He was devout. He feared God with all his house. He was well reported of by the Jews. He prayed to God always. He gave much alms. Yet, the Bible says he was not yet saved. He was commanded to send for Peter "who shall speak unto thee words whereby thou shalt be saved, thou and all thy house" (Acts 11:14).

Cornelius heard these words of the gospel, and was commanded to be baptized in the name of the Lord (Acts 10:47-48).

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Hoidt, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—We are gradually reaching a day of enlightenment in regard to the control of venereal diseases, a subject which, hitherto, was "taboo" and not discussed in polite circles.

As a result of mass education and the evolution of treatment of venereal diseases with modern wonder drugs, we are now in a position to plan for eradication and not merely control of these infections.

To halt the spread of these "social" diseases in Texas, the State Health Department, through its Venereal Disease Control Division, aims its activities primarily toward a program of investigation of contacts of all venereal disease cases.

Working within the state are twenty-four highly trained and experienced interviewer-investigators, as well as public health nurses, who interview patients; and, in turn, all their sexual contacts.

Thus, chains of infection are traced, and all involved are referred to their private physicians or public clinics for proper examination and, when necessary, treatment.

With simple treatment methods, many patients, formerly treated in clinics, are now cared for by private physicians. There was a time when physicians, generally, were very reluctant to make venereal disease patients available for contact investigation.

Today, however, more and more private physicians, realizing that these investigations are strictly confidential and conducted by

This study included over 50,000 blood tests, and of these over seven percent showed positive reactions. An endeavor was made to treat all of the positive reactors remaining in Texas.

Venereal disease control, like other programs of the State Health Department, belongs to the people, and eradication will become a reality when all Texans cooperate fully in making it so.

Eat Hearty and "Starve"

Three "hearty meals a day" is no guarantee of good health. It is "what you eat" and not "how much" that counts.

Strangely enough, in the richest agricultural nation on earth, an alarming percentage of the population is deficient in consumption of vital nutrients such as calcium and vitamin C. Even over weight people who eat high-calorie foods rarely get a real balanced diet.

The current popularity of high-calorie foods only tends to make some people fat, according to recent diet studies. A danger point is approached when these rich but unbalanced eating habits prevent from getting enough prevent a person from getting enough protective foods necessary for good health.

It is generally accepted that people should maintain in later years the weight that was ideal for their height and bone structure at age 25. Yet, regional studies show that a large number of older people are seriously overweight. The problem today is to encourage people with low energy requirements to plan diets that eliminate surplus calories but do not curtail essential nutrients.

For example, the National Research Council recommends a daily intake of 8 grams of calcium as necessary for good health. Yet, only about one person in six takes that much calcium daily—and calcium is abundant in eggs, milk and cheese.

It is well established that vitamin C is important in maintaining health teeth and gums. Most people are 10 percent below normal in Vitamin C intake except in areas where citrus fruits are plentiful.

Texas is a big producer of citrus fruits. The diet study seems to suggest that foods rich in vitamin C should be promoted and made more attractive to adults, and that frozen and dried citrus concentrates and other dependable year-around sources deserve more attention.

Greater calcium consumption should be encouraged through increased public education on the value of milk and milk products, and perhaps also through development of new calcium-rich foods. Overeating of the wrong foods may make a person fat, but he still may be starving for the essential nutrients.

"Bet-a-Million" Gates died more than 40 years ago but there are a few men still living in Port Arthur who knew him.

More than any other man, he was responsible for transforming Port Arthur from a town into a city. His chief contribution was getting the Federal Government to build the channel, which made it truly a port. He also was one of the two chief founders of what it today the Texas Company, one of the biggest oil companies in the world, and one of its properties is a huge refinery in Port Arthur, employing thousands.

Gates gave the city a library, a hospital and a college.

As you may have gathered, he was a very rich man. In one Wall Street coup, he made $12,000,000.

They tell a story in Port Arthur about a poker game in which Gates was a player and another player was an employee of his. This man lost what for him was a sizable amount—perhaps $40. He said later to a man who knew Gates well, "Do you think he expects me to pay him?" The other said, "I think he does." So the employee offered Gates the $40 and Gates took it.

A citizen told me that when he was a young traveling salesman, he entered a store where Gates and several others were tossing silver dollars at a crack. The drummer figured he could afford to lose a dollar, so he invited himself into the contest and he won. Gates and each of the other handed him $20!

But that was small stakes for Gates. "Bet-a-Million" was no empty phrase. He'd bet you whether a bird in a tree would fly left or right or, if it was raining, you could select a raindrop and he'd choose one and he'd wager that his raindrop got to the bottom of the window pane first—you name the amount.

Another Port Arthur citizen told me about a meeting of a committee of which Gates was chairman. The citizen was five minutes late. Gates drew out his watch and said, "Young man, you have cost 14 men five minutes each—that's 70 minutes."

A saying of his was that he would not go into an enterprise unless he could own at least a 51 percent interest.

Gates imprinted his name indelibly in the memory of Port Arthur.

Rev. Walter Hadley, pastor of the Methodist Church, was master of ceremonies, while Rev. C. R. Mathis, pastor of the Baptist Church, was guest speaker.

Other special guests included Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Mathis, Mrs. Forrest Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Casey of Truscott, along with the junior high teachers, Mrs. Barton Carl, Coach F. Martin and Mrs. H. L. Moore.

Pat Knight gave the welcome, and Capt. Chas. Latham the response. Rhogenia Beaty, team sweetheart, gave a toast to the Kittens, and Co-Capt. Foster Kelly gave a toast to Coach Martin. A sextette composed of Edith Wallace, Rhogenia Beaty, Candy Has- kin, Evelyn Jacobec and Bettye and Virginia Martin furnished special music. A chorus of boys also sang special numbers.

Everyone present had an enjoyable evening and expressed a desire to be present next year.

Hints Given On Winter Pastures

Recent rains in many areas of the state have been sufficient to germinate and start growth of dry planted winter pastures. Too, says, E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, plantings can still be made but late plantings mean less grazing. However, he adds, a little grazing is much better than none.

Management practices followed will determine to a large degree the amount of grazing which winter pastures will provide, points out Trew. Small grains and annual clovers should not be grazed until the plants have developed root systems sufficient to keep them from being pulled up by grazing animals. Upright type plants such as Alamo oats and Goliad barley should be inches high before being grazed. The prostrate types such as Mustang oats should be from 4-6 inches high before they are grazed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Winchester visited in Fort Worth several days last week.

fore they are grazed.

First year plantings of broom, orchard, fescue or perennial rye unless irrigated or on very fertile soil should not be grazed. The first season's growth of these perennials may be taken as hay in order to give the plants an opportunity to become established.

When winter pastures are ready for grazing, Trew says to graze the plants down fast and evenly then move the stock to another pasture . . . rotate the grazing for maximum forage production. Stock on winter pastures should continue to get dry hay. The dry feed will help control bloat.

Fertilizing is a very important part of management. After grazing down the plants, Trew recommends a top dressing of 30 or 40 pounds of nitrogen an acre if moisture conditions are good. This practice usually pays big dividends in increased growth and Trew reports that some stockmen topdress their pastures twice.

As an aid in managing the winter pasture, the specialist suggests that a copy of L-258, Winter Temporary Pastures, be obtained from the local county agent.

MODERN HOMEMAKING RECIPES... HOUSEHOLD HELPS

By Julia Hunter

HOME ECONOMICS DIRECTOR, LONE STAR GAS COMPANY

Most folks say that candy is a Christmas tradition as important as "turkey and all the trimmings". And candy-making is part of the fun of the holiday season. We agree, so here are some suggestions to help make your candy "goodies" a complete success. Good equipment for candy-making includes a pan with a close fitting cover, large enough to allow for boiling and heavy enough to prevent ingredients from scorching; a spatula, waxed paper, metal baking sheets, a platter, standard measuring cups, and spoons, and a candy thermometer.

In making candy, remember these rules: Use a dependable recipe and don't try to change it. Measure ingredients and follow directions exactly. Proportions and temperatures have been carefully worked out to make the recipe successful. Candies made with milk should be cooked over medium heat to avoid scorching. Candies made with water may be boiled faster. Sugary candy is often caused by sugar crystals finding their way into the candy as it cooks or cools. To help prevent sugar crystals from forming around the sides of the candy pan, stir the sugar in thoroughly before cooking the mixture. Cover the cooking pan until the mixture boils, for the steam will melt sugar crystals down from the sides of the pan. Once boiling starts, uncover the pan.

To help prevent sugar crystals as the candy cools, be sure the candy is not moved about during the cooling period. When making candies such as taffies, caramels or brittles, never scrape the last of the syrup from the pan.

A candy thermometer is a good investment as it takes the guesswork out of testing. Use the manufacturer's directions for the thermometer. Without a thermometer, follow the cold-water test, trying only one or two drops of mixture at a time. Be sure to remove candy from heat as you test, for even a few moments extra cooking may be too much. Keep a close eye on the candy during last few minutes of cooking, as the temperature rises with great speed once it reaches 220 degrees F. Unless the recipe calls for it, don't beat the candy before it has cooled. The ideal temperature is 110 degrees F., or when the saucepan feels lukewarm to palm of the hand. Vigorous beating is not necessary. A steady beating will produce creamy candy. If there is excess moisture in the air, it is advisable to cook candies to a slightly firmer stage—a degree or so above what is given in the recipe.

For additional free information on candy making send a postcard to the Home Economics Department, Lone Star Gas Company, Room 601 at 301 South Harwood, Dallas 1, Texas.

Recipe Of The Week

Holiday Delight: Combine 1/2-pound Brazil nuts, cut in lengthwise halves; 1/2-pound pecan halves; 1/2-pound walnuts, coarsely chopped; 1/2-pound candied cherries, cut in half; 1/2-pound candied pineapple, cut in good size pieces. Combine in saucepan and cook over medium flame to soft ball stage (234 degrees F.) 3-cups sugar, 1-cup light corn syrup, 1 1/2-cups light cream. Remove from flame and begin beating immediately. (It will begin to thicken and change color.) Add 1 1/2-teaspoons vanilla. Continue beating and add fruit and nut mixture slowly. When all ingredients have been added, mixture will be thick and sticky. Pack into two 8-inch square waxed paper lined pans, pressing down firmly with a wet spoon. Chill in refrigerator. After a few hours the sticky syrup will become firm and almost white in color. Cut into pieces after 24 hours. Store in refrigerator until ready to use, keeps indefinitely.

WHAT IS A CHURCH?—To many students at the Austin State School for Mentally Retarded, the inside of a church is unknown. Geraldine Walker and Kenneth Rutledge, students there, visit an Austin church with their chaplain, the Rev. Luther Holloway. Since volunteer groups have launched a state-wide, fund-raising campaign to build a non-denominational chapel for the 1960 children at the school, the children have been eager to see inside a real church. For 40 years, students at the school have attended church and Sunday School classes in a school room. The campaign, launched Sunday, has already brought in donations. Architects estimate the chapel's cost at $76,000.

Trust Arrangements Explained
When property is placed in trust it is turned over to a trustee who will see to it that it is properly managed for the benefit of a person or persons you name as beneficiaries. It is a method of disposing of your property and

Attractive House Design
EXTERIOR design of a house being as important as the interior, architects and builders are giving special attention to it nowadays. One reason is that buyers like a distinctive house that sets it aside from others in the same neighborhood. Until recently, there was little variety of design possible with conventional materials. Now there are some fine combinations made possible by a selection of exterior sidings offered in Masonite Presdwood. Since these are available in various forms and patterns, many discriminating builders, architects and owners are specifying them because of their beauty, relatively low cost, durability and unusual paint holding qualities.

The illustration aptly demonstrates how effective various types of the same versatile Presdwood can be in the design of a home. At the left may be seen Masonite Shadowvent Siding, applied horizontally. No nailing through the boards is required. Walls at the right are attractive sheets of Panigroove, used by architects to "balance" the long, low sweep of roof lines. A continuous pattern of vertical grooves is offered, as the edges are shiplapped and do not show. Covering the porch ceiling and overhang are Panelwood sheets.

lar situation, and is qualified by education and experience to prepare properly the legal papers necessary to set up a trust. If you have in mind some bank or trust company to act as trustee, discuss the matter in a conference with you and your attorney.

(This column, based on Federal law and prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

A trust arrangement works roughly in this manner. A person who desires to create a trust is called a grantor. The grantor chooses a trustee. The trustee may be a bank, an individual, or a trust company. The grantor through a trust instrument tells the trustee how to distribute the trust property or income. The trustee will then manage and distribute the trust property or income. The trustee will then manage and distribute the trust proceeds or property in whatever manner the grantor desires.

A very common arrangement is to place the property in trust with directions to pay the income from the property to a wife for her life, and on her death the trust is to end and the property is to be distributed to the grantor's children.

An interesting type of trust is that which is sometimes called a spendthrift trust. This is an arrangement whereby one sets up a certain sum of money to be given out to another at a definite rate per month or per year, or under definite restrictions.

This type of trust is generally used in wills where a person desires to leave money to an individual, but feels that the individual is not capable of properly caring for the money and that if left to them in full that the party receiving the money will spend and waste the money and not receive the maximum benefit from it.

Trust property quite often consists of securities. The law regulates the type of property in which trust funds may be invested. However, the grantor may designate the type of investments the trustee may make.

The effectiveness of a trust is dependent largely on its proper creation. To avoid the pitfalls and dangers of lawsuits and ineffective trust operations, a trust instrument should be properly prepared. A poorly planned or carelessly drawn trust instrument can not only defeat the objective of its creator, but may prove costly as well.

Your lawyer can advise you whether a trust arrangement will be advantageous in your particular situation, and is qualified by education and experience to prepare properly the legal papers necessary to set up a trust. If you have in mind some bank or trust company to act as trustee, discuss the matter in a conference with you and your attorney.

Early Mailing, Correct Mailing Of Christmas Packages Important Factor

Pointing up the need for your cooperation on his 1956 "Mail Early For Christmas" campaign, Postmaster Lee Haymes says if you will follow these three simple rules, all of your gifts can be delivered before Christmas Day: Wrap them securely, Address them correctly, and Mail them early.

Amplifying these rules, the Postmaster said, "Avoid the risk of mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure that every package is tied with strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the shocks." He also reminds us that size and weight limitations for Parcel Post packages vary according to place of mailing and destination, and advises us to secure Pamphlet No. 2 at the Post Office, telling all about Packing and Wrapping Parcels for Mailing.

Postmaster Mr. Haymes said that while the Post Office still has a tremendous job ahead of it, efforts are being redoubled to deliver all mail on time and in good condition by Christmas Eve. He points out that by taking a little extra care with Christmas mailings now, you'll avoid disappointing friends and loved ones at Christmas time.

He asks for your special cooperation to be sure that your return address and the recipient's address are plainly typed or written on all labels and Christmas cards. Use zone numbers, and it's a good idea to include an extra label inside your packages. Parcel Post size and weight limitations vary according to destination. Ask about them when you go to the Post Office to buy stamps.

Speaking about stamps, the Postmaster said, "Use three cent postage on all your Christmas cards. This way they will be delivered promptly, and forwarded or returned, if necessary, providing you include your name and address on your Christmas card envelopes." First-Class postage on your Christmas cards enables you to include handwritten messages, thus making your Christmas greetings more personal. By including your name and address on each Christmas card envelope, both you and your friends can keep your mailing lists up-to-date.

The Postmaster urges that you mail all of your out-of-town Christmas cards and packages immediately, and certainly not later than December 10th. Christmas mail for local addresses should be started on it way at least a week before Christmas.

Gracious Living

Be Daring In Your Table Settings

Once in a while we all get in a rut, even when it comes to entertaining. It's so easy to set a formal table with candlesticks flanking a low centerpiece. Next flowers floated at the bottom of the candles. Jet black candles and white carnations make a striking color scheme. To carry out the effect, stainless steel serving dishes and jet black cups and saucers, an ebony salad bowl, and stainless steel flatware complement the decorative props. Serve your main course in a modern crockery "beanpot"; hot snacks in a covered serving dish.

A simple and pleasing departure from tradition is to give your guests their choice of hot or iced coffee. Ice coffee does not have to be packed away with deck chairs and bathing suits at the end of summer. That's just another "rule."

These are just a few suggestions to start you on a new trend for gracious living with variety for spice. Best part of all is the ease with which it can be done. Even the cleanup job is simple, for stainless steel needs no polishing. Try it. Your guests will commend you for being a clever hostess.

in the habit pattern is the best family crystal, china and linens. If you've found yourself in just such a groove, why not try something daring next time you entertain. Try moving your dinner party to the living room with a dramatic buffet setting. Instead of the usual four candlesticks, try three grouped in an interesting arrangement at the back of the table. The candlesticks, too, can be unusual, like those of stainless steel illustrated here, with

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out With A Newer Idea To Prevent All Cities From Piling Up More Debt

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek won't get anywhere with his idea this week, and we want it understood it his idea, not ours.

Dear editor:
People are always talking about the national debt, how the country is spending more per year now than it did in all the time from George Washington to the turn of the century, but nobody says much about the city debt.

Yet the other day I noticed in a copy of a newspaper which turned up in my mail box, it was as easy as that, no hunting for it, no pulling it off a barbed wire fence, that the debts of cities in the U. S. are now at an all-time high and going higher. That is, they would go higher if the cities could figure out how to do it.

Nearly any city or town you can name is strapped for more revenue, they all need more paved streets, the streets they've got need fixing, they need new water mains, or a new city hall or a new jail or a new fire truck or more clerks, and there's no end in sight for more spending.

But I have hit on an idea. I've noticed that there's a big controversy in lots of places over the right of a city to annex new territory. Some cities have taken in territory so fast it takes a permanent crew just to mark off the new city limits.

And I have been thinking. The bigger a city gets, the more money it's gonna take to operate it, and the harder-pressed its citizens are gonna be.

So, the only solution for the city people is for the country people to come to their rescue. If a city can annex the country, why can't the country annex the

The only way to solve some big cities' problems is to return them to the country. As I understand it, all it takes in most cases for a city to take in more area is a vote of the city people.

Consequently, I am proposing that you get the State Legislature to pass a law allowing the country people to take in city areas, by a vote of the country people only.

This is the only way I can see to save the city people from going further in debt, and the way it looks to me Washington needs all the debt-capacity of the people, without having it chipped away by all the other cities in the 48 states.

If you think this idea has any merit, it'll surprise me.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BAPTISTS BELIEVE... Complete Religious Freedom for Everyone

In the early eighteenth century Baptist ministers in Virginia were imprisoned for preaching without government permission. In prison they continued to preach. When Patrick Henry was asked to defend them for the crime "of preaching the gospel of the Son of God" he cried out indignantly as he waved the invitation above his head, "Great God! Great God! Great God!" His prayer and the prayers of Baptists were heard, and religious liberty was written into the Constitution. Religious freedom in America is largely a trophy of Baptist effort and influence and one of our most precious possessions.

Baptists believe in the loyalty of all citizens to the state. Jesus referred to the duty of people in his day when he said, "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's" (Matthew 22:21). The Roman Christians were told, "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers . . . rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil" (Romans 13:1,3). Paul urged Titus to remind the Christians "To be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work" (Titus 3:1).

But none of this implies that the church is to be subject to the domination of the state. Baptists believe in the separation of church and state. The church is to co-operate in all that is high and decent, but in no way is it to be subject to the control of the state or used by it to do its will.

As many Baptist churches have declared in their articles of faith "We believe that civil government is of divine appointment, for the interests and good order of human society; and that magistrates are to be prayed for, conscientiously honored, and obeyed; except only in things opposed to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the only Lord of the conscience, and the Prince of the kings of the earth."

As many Baptist churches have declared in their articles of faith "We believe that civil government is of divine appointment, for the interests and good order of human society; and that magistrates are to be prayed for, conscientiously honored, and obeyed; except only in things opposed to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the only Lord of the conscience, and the Prince of the kings of the earth."

The Bible is the guidebook for Baptists. Its best known verse for this appeal to the supremacy of the Lord Jesus Christ includes: "Render . . . unto God the things that are God's" (Matthew 22:21) and "One is your master, even Christ" (Matthew 23:10). The Virginia ministers in Patrick Henry's time were good citizens and willing to serve the state, but they were not willing to be silenced in matters of religion. In preaching the gospel they had "to obey God rather than men," as the Apostle Peter once declared when government leaders in early Christian days tried to silence his preaching (Acts 5:29).

The imprisoned Virginia preachers could well have said what many other Baptist leaders have said, "We might not agree with what you say, but we would die for your right to say it."

Cotton Referendum December 11th To Decide Questions

How farmers vote in the cotton marketing referendum on December 11 will determine whether quota penalties will apply and also the level of price support for 1957-crop cotton. Therefore, says R. G. Shrauner, Chairman of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, the referendum is of vital concern to every cotton grower.

The marketing quota program will operate next year if two-thirds of the voting cotton growers favor the program. In that case, explains Shrauner, price support for the 1957 crop of upland cotton will be available at a level between 75 and 90 percent of parity and quota penalties will apply on any "excess" cotton. If more than a third of the votes are cast against quotas, there would be no quota penalties but the support price to eligible growers would drop to 50 percent of parity, says Shrauner. Even if quotas are disapproved, acreage allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support.

Shrauner says all farmers who engaged in producing upland cotton in 1956 are eligible to vote in the referendum. This includes growers who participated in the 1956 Cotton Acreage Reserve of the Soil Bank.

The referendum will be held between the hours of 8 a. m. and 7 p. m. on December 11 in all Texas counties where upland cotton is grown. Polling places will be announced locally, says Shrauner.

On the same day producers of extra long staple cotton will be voting to decide the same questions. Shrauner advises cotton producers who desire additional information on the referendum to contact their ASC committeemen or visit the county ASC office.

Forms For Income Tax Returns Are Made Available

Federal income tax forms for the preparation of 1956 returns will be available about December 3 in reasonable quantities to accountants, attorneys and other personnel, C. B. Dixon (Administrative Officer) of the Wichita Falls office of the Internal Revenue Service, said today. The Internal Revenue Service has provided order blanks to the 3500 North Texas tax practitioners who have, in most cases, already submitted orders. These orders are being packaged and shipped starting December 3.

Individual taxpayers on record will receive their forms and instruction booklets through the mails on the same schedule as last year, during late December or early January, Mr. Dixon said.

There are very few changes in the form other than minor revisions for clarity and simplification. The instruction booklet which accompanies it has been changed, however, to provide a line-by-line series of explanations, keyed to the arrangement of the form and its sequence of entries.

New type-faces have been used in both form and booklet, Mr. Dixon said, and should, with the simplified treatment and explanations, make preparation of a return much easier than in past years.

The Internal Revenue Service will sponsor the printing of 155 million copies of Form 1040. Taxpayers were advised to begin study of the tax instructions as soon as possible since a good understanding of the tax instructions will mean money in the taxpayer's pocket when he files his tax return.
