Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

Rep. Carl Wheatley came to his home town of Haskell last week end amid an uprising and furor over HB 116; which in all likelihood would do away with the North Central Texas Water Authority and the possibilities of Miller's Creek Lake.

He found the pro's and con's almost up in arms over the bill—and we got the report that fists were flying in one instance in Haskell. Our guess is that Rep. Wheatley had some political fence mending to do—and this came about with a reasonable amount of success.

We're inclined to agree that it was Rep. Wheatley's duty to present the bill, since the petition contained over 800 signatures of Haskell voters. If it was to be presented at all, in our opinion, Wheatley had to do it since it involved his district and his people. To ignore a petition with 800 names on it might have been a greater political error than presenting the bill.

Originally scheduled for committee hearing on last Tuesday, a group secured a week's postponement, we heard, "in order for those opposing the bill to get organized and present their side of the controversy."

Then last Monday, we heard that the hearing, set for Tuesday, February 21, had been postponed indefinitely and that NCTWA authorities would be given two weeks notice before it came before the committee.

We'll venture the prediction that this last postponement was the death blow for HB 116! The committee is not going to be willing to handle a hot poker—especially one as hot as this one has turned out to be.

We've often heard—and that's all we know about how the Legislature works, either by hearsay or from what we see in the papers—that local, uncontested and unopposed bills are shot through the House like pellets through a BB gun. But one as controversial as HB 116 has turned out to be, in our opinion, is too hot to be handled by uninterested legislators.

This would not necessarily be true of a state-wide issue, but HB 116 pertains to only one legislator's district—that of Carl Wheatley.

We regret that the controversy was so high pitched, as in Haskell, as to cause fistfuffs between men of opposing sides, but the whole thing might be healthful for our community. We've heard people come out outspokenly for the Miller Creek reservoir during the past week—and we didn't know where they stood before.

Local people have learned, too, that the reservoir has a lot of support from towns that originally "voted out" of the project in its early stages. We were promised support from Knox City, with a water problem not yet solved, and were assured of support from Seymour, which is reportedly "going to want to buy water from that lake."

The Abilene paper reported from Haskell last Sunday that "this city is in the midst of a turmoil over where to get water to replace three wells which are going dry."

Cards were mailed out last Saturday to get your opinion on a bond issue to construct a home for our older citizens. If the plan should work out, the home would be built on the hospital grounds and supervised by the hospital management and hospital medical staff. To our knowledge, this would be the only such home anywhere and would beat a privately operated home clear out of sight. Send your reply card to the Commissioners Court and let them know how you feel about the matter. The cards were sent out as "feelers" so the court will know just how Knox citizens stand.

Over the past ten years, 144 of our 254 Texas counties have lost population. Many of these are ones where family farm income has been low and unemployment heavy. The last official count showed that we had 30 counties in Texas where the average net cash farm income per family was less than $1,000 a year.—Ralph Yarbrough.

'Tater Planting Time In County

It's 'tater planting time in this area!

Crews started halving and quartering those seed potatoes last Monday, getting them ready for planting. Seed potatoes, several carloads of them, are being stored in two buildings, the Mayes building next door to Wood Ford Sales and the old locker plant building. There the workers began cutting the potatoes Monday morning, and they were being taken to the fields Tuesday.

Planting usually begins around February 15. This area has a longer growing season, but planting at this time will assure the crop coming off at the right time to hit the markets.

H. H. Partridge was among the first to start his planting. It has been estimated that between 600 and 700 acres will be planted this year, about the same acreage that was planted last year.

GOPHER CONTROL DEMONSTRATION

A gopher control Demonstration will be conducted on the Kenneth Whittemore farm south-west of Munday at 10 a.m. Monday, Feb. 20th. V. E. Smith with the fish & wild life service will present the demonstration and demonstrate the newly developed tractor mounted poison machine. There have been articles appearing recently in several of the farm magazines and papers discussing this new machine.

The economic loss caused by gophers is not often realized until after an effective control program has been tested. Gophers burrowing near the surface of the soil cut many plant roots that will greatly reduce yields if not killing the plants.

Each year there are numerous cases of damage to shrubs and trees in and around the homes in some sections of the county. It is anticipated that there will be some bait available at the demonstration and orders will be taken for future delivery of bait.

Rep. Wheatley Says It Was "His Duty" To Introduce Bill; 800 On Petition

Rep. J. C. Wheatley, visiting his home town of Haskell over the week end, apparently cleared up some of the controversy over HB 116 which he recently introduced in the House of Representatives. The bill, which calls for a new vote in the four towns in the North Central Texas Water Authority to determine whether the authority would continue, raised quite a furor over the entire area.

Wheatley denied that he had made a promise that he would not introduce the bill. He said Saturday that R. W. Herren, president of the authority, had cleared up this rumor and found that Wheatley did not make the statement as quoted in Saturday's Abilene paper but had said "that he would introduce such a bill if requested by a majority of the voters in Haskell to call a new election and let people vote their preference, as the City of Haskell represents over 50 per cent of the NCTWA."

Wheatley told a Times representative in a telephone conversation Monday that he felt it was his duty to present the bill, since the petition presented him contained the names of over 800 qualified voters and taxpayers of Haskell.

He announced in the telephone conversation that the committee hearing on the bill, originally scheduled for Tuesday, February 21, had been postponed.

Local NCTWA authorities received word Monday, too, that the hearing had been postponed indefinitely, and that the chairman of the committee had stated that local authorities would be given two weeks notice before the hearing is held, if it should come up again.

Wheatley said the bill was prepared by El E. King, Abilene attorney. King was quoted as saying he prepared it at the request of J. E. Walling, Jr., Haskell mayor, who was elected last year on the promise that he would do everything he could to do away with the NCTWA.

Geraldine C. Koenig, above, has been appointed acting postmaster at Goree. She graduated from Goree High School in 1948 and has been employed as Christmas assistant in the Goree office since 1957.

Miss Koenig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Koenig, succeeds Mrs. Etta L. (Chamberlain) Omeal. She is a member of the Brazos Valley Postal Employees Association and the National Association of Postmasters of the United States.

Legion Plans For Building Repairs

At the regular meeting of Lowry Post No. 44 of American Legion on January 26, ways and means of repairing and refinishing the Legion hall were discussed.

As the building is used, not only for the home of the American Legion on dWorld War I veterans, but by local civic organizations and public gatherings on various occasions during the year, it is imperative that this repair and improvement be taken care of in the near future.

Members present agreed to contact the entire membership with an appeal for a $10 donation from each to go into the building fund. A plaque with the name of each contributing member will be placed in the building when completed. One hundred per cent member cooperation, along with the existing building fund, will result in approximately 75 per cent of the funds required for needed repairs.

A preliminary estimate has been prepared by a local firm in the amount of $1,200—approximately $450 for finishing the north room with sheet rock and texture, and $750 for finishing the exterior with asbestos siding.

All members are urged to be present at the February 23 meeting to further discuss this project. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m.

Day Of Prayer To Be Observed

"February, 1961, as you may know, will mark the 75th anniversary of the observance of World Day of Prayer. In a world where a united Christian witness is so badly needed, this day will be of great significance. It will be a time when we gather in our communities without denominational, creedal, racial, or other barriers. Together we will offer prayers to God for peace and for increased awareness of the world's needs."

Day of Prayer will be observed at the First Methodist Church in Munday next Friday. The church will be open all day for those who desire to come in quietly and spend a short time in prayer. Soft music will be played during the hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 6 p.m.

The following excerpts from a church magazine emphasize the importance of this observance.

"It is time to pray . . . There is much that is wrong with the world; you and I live in what seems to be a perpetual crisis. This crisis atmosphere is world wide.

"But wherever there is found the Christian church, there are those who steadfastly believe that the most potent recourse man has today, with the world's tensions, frustrations, hatreds and fears is that of prayer.

"Today, when the united Christian witness seems more imperative than ever, the World Day of Prayer observance bridges all superficial differences of race, creed, denomination and emphasizes the oneness of purpose of the Christian Mission.

"Though differences in theological thought and practice often erect a barrier to sharing the unity of fellowship, all people of Christian faith can pray together."

All persons, regardless of church affiliation, are invited to the Methodist church for this observance.

PEOPLE MUST DEMAND ECONOMY

The Wriston Report on national goals, and similar studies of what the future may bring, make sobering reading. If they are correct, the most strenuous kind of national effort and sacrifice will be needed to deal with them.

For one thing, it is forecast that massive increases in federal spending will become inevitable, primarily because of the omnivorous demands of national defense and related activities. These can be paid for in several ways. There could be further increase in taxes which is certainly the last alternative anyone could wish. There should be increased government tax revenue from an expanding economy. And avoidable expenses of government can be reduced or eliminated.

This is the time to make a determined start in the last direction.

What we must do is to decide, coldly and analytically, what is necessary and unavoidable for government to do—as against what may be merely desirable. We no longer can afford the billions upon billions that go for non-essential undertakings—whether it be an extension of the welfare state, the purchase of farm commodities for which there is no market, or commercial business projects which can and should be the responsibility of taxpaying private enterprise.

CRIME'S STRONGEST DETERRENT

Shocking increases in crimes of violence have been accepted in many communities with equally shocking complacency. That such crimes can be curbed by all-out cooperation between police authorities, the courts and private citizens, has been abundantly demonstrated in Philadelphia. For thirteen years, American Stores, with headquarters in that city, has cooperated aggressively with all law enforcement agencies in combatting crimes of murder and violence, particularly those involving banditry. The results of this cooperation are impressive. For the past two years and eight months there have been no armed holdups of this company's properties in the Philadelphia area.

The record explains why. Prior to its all-out campaign in cooperation with the city police department, American Stores had suffered nearly 100 gunpoint holdups with a total of 83 bandits involved. All 83 were sent to prison, 11 for life.

Business men and citizens of every community in the nation can blame lax law enforcement largely on themselves. It is gratifying to see steps being taken in one community to correct a condition that endangers the security of every home and family. Certainty of punishment, as in Philadelphia, is crime's strongest deterrent.

DON'T BLAME THE RETAILER

Inflation!!! Don't think you can escape it as federal taxes, debt and wages keep rising. Commenting on this the Bradenton, Florida, Herald says: "Every month we read the cost of living index has risen one or two-tenths of a percent—but long ago we stopped paying any attention."

The retailer is the buffer from which rising costs bounce off to the consumer—he has long absorbed a percentage of cost increases. He is the first one blamed for high prices, a condition over which he has no control. For this reason he has to be alert to price-raising practices such as the 25-cent an hour increase proposed under the Federal Wage-Hour Act. He knows that would force costs up another notch, and that he would stand the brunt of complaints about increases for which he was not responsible.

To bring inflation into perspective, the Herald editors went to the paper's files of 25 years ago and checked advertised prices with those of today. If inflation continues at the present rate, here is what they would be in 1985: Round steak, $6.25 a pound; pork chops, $3.50 a pound; can of corned beef, $2.95; tooth brush, $2.25; 1985 Ford two door, $8,900; hamburger, $2.15.

"Suppose" says the Herald, "what many economists fear does actually happen—inflation quits crawling and runs away!" What a price to pay for public profligacy!

PROPERTY OWNERS—WAKE UP!

Local taxing units are scratching for money and the people are paying. In the State of Oregon property taxes for the 1960-61 tax year have reached a record-breaking $200 million. And that amounts to $113.76 for every man, woman and child in the State.

The right of private property ownership is the strength of the individual in a free society. Property taxes in wide sections of the country are reaching a level which limits the opportunity of the individual to own land and other property. The "munificent benefits" included in the ever-expanding programs financed by public treasuries are thus exacting a high toll.

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By JAMES HALLMARK

"Saint" is a term employed to describe the Christian. It is used in the same way as we often use the descriptive terms; disciples, brethren, the elect, believers, etc. However, special significance has been attached to term "saint." Such emphasis is not warranted by the scriptures. A survey of the usage of the term in the New Testament will reveal the God-approved significance.

The "saints" were the subjects of most of the apostle Paul's letters. Note the following introductions to some of his epistles: "Paul, and apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of GOD, TO THE SAINTS which are at Ephesus" (Eph. 1:1); "Paul and Timothy, the servants of Jesus Christ, TO ALL THE SAINTS in Christ Jesus are at Philippi" (Philippians 1:1); "To the SAINTS and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse . . . (Col.

1:2). Paul was writing to the Christians who comprised the church in each of these locations.

It is not necessary for an individual to be dead to be a "saint." If the above mentioned introductions to Paul's letters fail to convince you of this truth, consider the following facts. Prior to his conversion, Paul persecuted the saints (Acts 25:10); the postle Peter paid a visit "to the saints which dwell at Lydda (Acts 9:32); saints have necessities (Ro. 12:13); saints have not yet attained perfection (Eph. 4:12); saints are able to communicate (Philippians 4:22); and the saints have received the faith which we are to earnestly contend for (Jude 3).

Only God's approval is necessary to be declared a saint. The idea of canonization being necessary is foreign to the Holy Word of God.

THIS year, West Texas Utilities Company is expanding its area development activities because we believe the growth opportunities ahead demand it.

"He Is Best Of All Men Who Follows Good Advice"

It is amazing how many peoples are quick to offer health advice. Without any study or knowledge, they tell you what you should do or take when you are sick.

Thoughtless friends are sincere but unfortunately there are many opportunists. Some sharp mail-order promoters and door to door peddlers consider profits more important than the good their products will do.

Wise men know the only person capable of giving good advice about how to treat sickness is a Physician.

They also realize when they obtain Medicines and health-aids from a Pharmacist pledged to consider health more important than immediate great profits, they are always safer.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out With A Fool-Proof Way To Find Out If Country Is Well Off Or Not

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses economics this week, a subject he may be as well qualified on as any other, if you follow us.

Dear editor: You couldn't call me an economist, although I have one qualification a good many of them have—I have more ideas on economics than I have credit at the bank—but I have been puzzled lately by what the experts are saying about the state of the national economy.

As I understand it, the experts are split. One group says the country is in pretty good shape, nothing to worry about; the other group says we're in rather serious shape, there's plenty to worry about.

Now personally I have never had to wait on a group of experts to tell me whether I was well off or not. I have never based my economic position at any given moment on what a national survey has found out about me. No doubt it takes a group of experts to find out what the national economic growth rate is, but in my case all I have to do is look out the back door with a view of this Johnson grass farm and remember what my last bank statement showed.

However, I recognize that what my economic position is and what the national economic position is, are two different things. I don't reflect the country as a whole, and I hope the country as a whole doesn't reflect me. The situation couldn't be that serious.

But it does seem pretty confusing to have the experts in Washington disagreeing so completely on whether the country is well off or not, it's not fair to have Congress not knowing whether to raise taxes because a booming country can afford it or to lower them because a declining country can't, and therefore I have hit on an idea for settling the matter.

The thing to do is to let the Supreme Court decide it. Let some lawyer bring suit, I don't know who against, the United States Treasury, I guess, claiming the country is in bad shape and therefore taxes ought to be lowered. He could start the suit in a local court, work it on up through the state court and finally on up to the Supreme Court, and along about this time next year, or the year after, the court would rule, and its opinion would thus become the economic law of the land. Then we could all settle down and look back and know for sure that back in February, 1961, the country was either well off or bad off, by a five to four decision of the Supreme Court.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
