Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

We made a telephone call to the Leroy Leflar residence last Saturday, and a sweet little childish voice answered.

"Where's Leroy, do you know?" we asked. "Uh, uh, he's up at Lake Kemp," was the reply we got. "Do you know where Welton is?" we inquired. "Uh, uh, he's up at Lake Kemp, too," we received as an answer.

And that's the answer one will get when inquiring about a lot of local people on pretty days.

Quite a number of people have interests at the lake — interests that make a trip to the waters almost imperative at times. Those who have cabins on the shores sometimes need to go up there and see about their property, then while there they might as well fish for a spell.

Right off we can call to mind about 30 people who have such interests up there. Some of them that come to mind are the following:

The Worth Gaffords, Chan Hughes, Wallace Reids, Melvin Stricklands, Toots Earle clan of Weinert, W. E. Bralys, A. B. Warrens, Mrs. J. C. Borden, the Homer Lees of Wichita Falls, The Leflars, including Mrs. W. G. Leflar; Tobie Winchesters, Oscar Spanns, the Edgars, Omar Cures, H. A. Pendletons, Sidney Winchesters, H. F. Jungmans, the Cyper clan, J. B. Kings, Mrs. P. V. Williams, Ted Russells of Vera, C. P. Bakers, Raymond Cardens, Don Combs, John Michels, Jim Gaines, O. P. Putnam, Tuggles Coffman of Goree, Dorse Collins, Pete Beecher, and there might be others whom we can't call to memory right now.

Then there are still others who don't have cabins sites, but have boats, fish hooks, rods and reels, trotlines and other interests. The lake is a right popular place among people of this area.

It's a good place to go to forget about your trials and troubles of the daily grind. It's a good place to go if you don't have any troubles to forget!

When the weather becomes warm enough, people will be there in greater numbers with their boats, water skis, surf boards, and stuff. Holidays and week ends will find the shores pretty well populated.

Bud Nelson and his helpers have been "tearing up Ned" next to our place during the past several days, since the old Burton home was moved away, and it appears that the Bud Nelsons will construct a new home on the premises. Our Mrs. called us to come and peer out our bedroom window one morning after the house and trees had been moved away — and we could see all the way to town. We're ready for the view to become obstructed by a house again.

We've had a request or two to run that old 1930 flood picture again, in hopes of enticing some rainfall to this area. We used to have some pretty good luck with that, but the last time we ran it, the trick failed to work, and the picture won't stand many more runnings. From activities around town, such as cleaning out some drainage ditches, some people still have hopes of the rains coming.

Mrs. E. Y. Johnson and Mrs. Joe Lane visited Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hunter and children in Iowa Park last Friday. Mrs. Hunter, Timothy and Tammy, returned home with them for several days visit.

Center Jackie Wiles, on ground, throws a good block to take care of end Helly Mitchell (66), while Red guard John Hanst appears to peer through the arch of Amerson's body. Ronnie Rice (44) and tackle Tommy Pace (76) come up too late to get in on the play. The Whites won the game, 19-14. On these he will receive cost share assistance.

In addition to the above, Alexander will carry out several other practices, such as: contour farming, a conservation cropping system, practice deferred grazing, and proper range management, and several others. His contract will run through the 1962 program.

Other contracts that are being processed and are almost complete include Jack Idol of Benjamin, Dwight Key of Munday and Elmo Todd of Truscott.

Senior Class To Present Play Thursday Night

Professor, How Could You! That will probably be the exclamation from the audience and stage characters alike at the Munday High School senior class play tonight. It is also the name of the three-act comedy which will be presented at eight o'clock in the Elementary School auditorium.

Professor Keats Perry, played by Charlie Partridge, seeks a wife in order to secure the position of dean of the college in which he teaches ancient history. Complicating his life is the immediate problem of disciplining a high-spirited student, Vicky Randolph, played by Shirley Nell Phillips.

Gaylon Allred in the role of back-slapping John Appleby is commissioned to find a bride for the professor. The interpretation of chipper Grandpa Perry by Gayle Gulley is made more effective by Audrey Trammell's characterization of Grandma Perry. Three prospective brides include a giggly spinster, Tootsie Bean; a languid southern flirt, Valerie Whitman; and a charming nineteen-year old, Priscilla Morley. Jeanene Lowrance, Mary Lou Booe, and Maurice Tidwell, respectively, enact these roles.

Butcher Boy Bean, a wrestler portrayed by Bunny Norvill, threatens the professor in behalf of his sister Tootsie. As Appleby promotes Priscilla as the bride-to-be, the southern belle intensifies her campaign to win the confused bachelor teacher and is urged on by Vicky, who is in danger of being expelled from school.

David Rister's part in the play promises to be a show-stopper when he appears as Boggins, the Perry family manservant, whose loyalty to his employers becomes secondary to love. From the first act it is evident that Grandpa has a finger in the pie, and the fast-paced comedy gathers momentum to the surprise ending. Children who appear briefly on-stage will be John Phillips, Jr., Mary Sue Mitchell, and Jackie Leflar.

According to the class sponsors and directors of the play, James H. Bardwell and Mrs. Travis Lee, the comedy is especially challenging for high school players since the quick dialogue and action call for adult interpretation of a tender love story which underlies the humor. Tickets, including remaining reserve seats at fifty cents and regular seats at thirty-five cents, will be on sale in the foyer before curtain time.

FARMING THE FARMERS

If you are a taxpayer, and who isn't, some figures on crop price supports published in The Wall Street Journal are worth remembering.

Out of some 250 farm crops in the U. S., only 12 have price supports at fixed minimums.

Just 3 of these, wheat, cotton and corn, account for 85% of surpluses stored by the government although they produce only 20% of the total cash farm income.

For over $9 billion of surplus crops by July 1, storage will cost some $1 billion a year.

The price-support program "does little to help the farmers in greatest difficulty," says President Eisenhower. The bulk of the money goes to big producers of a few crops.

"Cultivating" the farmers to produce a crop of votes is an old political pastime but it may become less popular as the farmer-taxpayer becomes better informed.

The majority of farmers raise crops that are not covered by price supports and do as well as other business over the years. They do not raise surpluses for the rats to eat while they and everyone else pay taxes to maintain artificial production and prices.

Consumers and farmers are the victims of politicians who "farm" the farmers to raise a crop of votes for themselves and taxes for all.

THE VOTER'S RESPONSIBILITY

In his recent State of the Union Message, Mr. Eisenhower sought to bring public pressure upon Congress to reject unnecessary appropriations.

One of the major points of emphasis in his address was that it will be the fault of Congress if spending is approved in excess of the $77 billion which he is recommending. He said: "The Congress—and the Congress alone—has the power of the purse. Ultimately, upon Congress rests responsibility for determining the scope and amount of Federal spending."

Every voter is a taxpayer and every voter should familiarize himself with what his representatives in Congress are doing toward economy in government to combat inflation and eventually lower taxes, instead of raising them.

The free-wheeling spenders of public funds can only be controlled by the voters themselves. So the voter-taxpayer has only himself to blame if he fails to check them.

PICKING THE CHICKENS

When Congress approved the new road program its cost was estimated at $27.6 billion and the Federal gasoline tax at that time was increased by 50% to help pay for it.

Now, a little over two years later (and with 13 years yet to go), total estimated cost of the program has spiraled to $40 billion. Since all of it is to be paid by highway users, principally motorists, the Federal Government has again proposed another 50% hike in Federal taxes on gasoline from three to four and one-half cents.

Yet, of the $3.6 billion highway user taxes collected in 1958, only $2.1 billion was used to foot the bills of the highway program. The remaining $1.5 billion has been siphoned off into the Government's General Treasury for non-highway purposes.

The matter of raising state taxes on gasoline is scheduled to come up in 25 state legislatures meeting in 1958. New York has already raised its gasoline tax from four to six cents, beginning March 1.

Is the day coming when the tax-boosters will seek more in gas taxes than the cost of the gasoline? It undoubtedly will unless the car users strenuously object to their gas taxes being used on all manner of public spending other than roads.

TIME TO SPEAK OUT

Regardless of political parties and all the methods used to gain votes citizens must continue to work and eat, and industry must produce if jobs are to be provided and our government remain solvent.

It takes more than political slogans to maintain a nation. They mean nothing unless the principles behind constitutional government and a free enterprise are upheld.

Business and industry are awakening to the fact that they must tell their story as persistently and as emphatically as all the agencies that prey upon them if they are to help counteract the forces, both in and out of government, that would scuttle them for political gain.

It is not a question of seeking an advantage for any company but of perpetuating a system of opportunity for all.

"One of the surest of all truths is that life will give you no more than you give it." Norman Vincent Peale

EASTER LAMB TRADE BRIGHTER, MARKET UP

A few young cows above that range. Canners and cutters drew $12 to $18.50. Bulls ranged from $18 to $23.50.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

The Department of Interior will shortly be deciding which of several processes will be the one used to remove salt from sea water. After the process is decided upon, an experimental plant will be built somewhere on the Coast. The purpose of these experiments will be to develop a means to make sea water useable at a cost that will make it practical. There seems to be little doubt but what a feasible method will be developed within the next few years. When this occurs, vast areas of non-productive land can be irrigated. Also, part of this water treatment experiment will be the development of a process to treat brackish or gyp water. These experimental stations should be in operation within the next couple of years. They are a part of scientific research program under way to develop new sources of water. Their success would be a boon to the great Southwest.

Tension grows daily over the coming crisis in Berlin. As we approach the May dead line set by Khrushchev, it becomes more and more evident that we cannot afford to back down in Berlin. Any retreat there would simply mean that the Russians would be encouraged and make more and greater demands. If we have learned anything about the Russians since World War II, it is that they will honor their agreements only so long as it is convenient for them to do so and that they respect only one thing—force.

The bill providing for statehood for Hawaii is scheduled for early consideration by the House. As I have previously indicated, it now appears that this measure will be overwhelmingly approved by the Congress.

We were pleased this week to have as a visitor in Washington Miss Patricia Frances who is a Voice of Democracy winner for Texas. She was a very charming Representative of our State here.

Mr. Joe Leonard of Gainesville was also in Washington this week. Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Spann, Jr. and daughters of Sweetwater were week end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clowdis and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Spann.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morton, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Welborn and Gaston and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wren and Erwin attended the funeral of L. L. Williams in Balingier last Sunday. Mrs. Wren and Mrs. Morton remained over Monday.

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the depend-company are regular clients of Smith, then it is Smith's duty to refuse to represent either one of them in case of altercation between the two.

If attorney Smith is one of a group of lawyers practicing together as a partnership, then he must be careful not only of avoiding a conflict of interest between the clients he is personally serving, but between his clients and other clients of the partnership as well.

As far as Smith is concerned in determining whether there is a conflict of interests, any client of his partners is his client and vice versa.

There are, of course, cases where a lawyer may represent more than one of the parties to the same transaction without violating the rule of professional conduct against serving interests which conflict. Such a situation might develop where two old clients of the same lawyer were purchasing and selling a piece of property. If both clients so desired and understood, the lawyer might, with complete propriety look after the interests of both in such a transaction.

Generally, however, the lawyer will be very careful to scrutinize such situations. Therefore, if a lawyer should tell you that he cannot represent you because he already represents "conflicting interests," remember that he is only seeking to protect your interests.

The chances of Junior getting a better education than Dad on how to prepare an income tax return are pretty good. In the Dallas District 771 high schools and colleges have more than 2600 teachers instructing some 75,000 students.

The material prepared by Internal Revenue Service is excellent material and can be used by any teacher without too much trouble. However, the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants are cooperating with the Internal Revenue Service and the schools to provide a local CPA wherever possible to hold a question and answer period with the teachers and the students at the end of the course.

The CPA's are taking time out during their busy season when they are ordinarily filing tax returns for Dads to go to the school and try to answer some of the skull-busting questions Junior is certain to think of. This sort of cooperation in educating our young Texans is proof of the sort of country we live in.

"CONFLICTING INTERESTS"

Bill Jones had been in an automobile accident and felt that he should be able to recover damages from the driver of the other car. He went to see Lawyer Smith, and, in the course of telling Smith his story, it developed that the driver of the other car was insured by a company represented by Smith.

As soon as Smith learned this fact, he stopped Bill from telling him any more about the case and explained that he could not represent him. Smith pointed out that the "conflicting interest" resulting from his representation of the insurance company prevented him from representing Marvin. He said he owed it to Bill not to hear anything from him which he might use against him if the matter were taken to court.

The situation outlined above illustrates one of the basic principles in the ethics of a lawyer, namely, that he cannot represent "conflicting interests." Basically, this is but the lawyer's way of phrasing the old axiom that a man cannot serve two masters. A lawyer's duty is to give his full and complete efforts to his client and he cannot do that if there is a conflict between the interests of two of them. The reasoning behind this rule is that a lawyer should not appear in court representing both sides of a controversy.

If both Bill and the insurance

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer

Rabies is serious business, but there is a lighter side. Early this month for instance, the laboratory technician whose duty it is to prepare the brain tissue for microscopic scrutiny on suspect rabies cases was enjoying a game of dominos during the noon hour. He was interrupted and informed that there was a "head" outside, but desiring to finish the hand he said he'd be out in a second. He would have forgotten the game had he known what kind of head.

Because two ladies were waiting with a real genuine African lion's head. It seems that the lion had been raised from a cub, but lately turned on its master and had to be destroyed.

There was little chance of rabies, but it pays to be sure about any suspect case. So the head was sent to Austin for examination. It was negative.

Lab technicians have examined fox heads, skunk heads, cat heads, thousands of dog heads and even a nutria head a short while ago. Among the strangest was a deer head. It proved to be negative, but the man who brought it in insisted the horns be cut off. The technician was convinced the hunter just wanted a cheap way to get those horns.

Winter and early spring see a slight rise in the number of positive findings of rabies in State Health Department laboratories. More effort is needed to inform and educate the public about the dangers of rabies and the means of controlling outbreaks.

Last year there were 491 laboratory cases of rabies plus 163 reported clinical cases in animals. In the past two years vaccine for 3,600 cases of human exposure to rabies was distributed by the State Health Department.

In 1955 a state law made it possible for county commissioner's courts to enact legislation for control measures during a rabies emergency. These measures can be carried from year to year as a sustained program to keep rabies at the lowest possible level.

Well-trained personnel from the Texas State Department of Health are available to county and other local health jurisdictions to help launch their own rabies control programs.

The rabies battle is a year round fight. A let-up in any particular season may mean an outbreak later on. Everyone should have his dogs and cats vaccinated, especially if they are often on the loose.

Rabies control is a necessary and interesting program even if you don't get a lion's head in every day. (A weekly feature from the Public Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health).

Farm Bureau Offers Bargain For Your Money

All of agriculture's past gains and all its hopes for the future are tied in with organization. Unless farmers organize and develop this country's agricultural policies, somebody else less interested in, and less friendly to, agriculture will do so. Organization is the only way to work effectively for the real needs of the farmers. Farm Bureau is an organization of farmers, by farmers, and for farmers.

Through the Farm Bureau, farmers are able to swap experiences and ideas and come up with a program helpful to agriculture. Farm Bureau recommendations carry weight in the Legislature, in Congress, and with the public at large. The Farm Bureau is the best and most active farmers' organization in the United States.

If you want to see price supports for wheat, cotton, grain sorghums, and other farm products, continued, join the Farm Bureau.

If you want the refund on tractor gasoline continued, join the Farm Bureau.

If you want economical insurance, join the Farm Bureau.

If you want the Farm-to-Market road program in Texas continued, join the Farm Bureau.

Less than one out of six persons in America actually live on a farm at this time, and the number is constantly going down. If you want to protect your business and at the same time promote good government, join the Farm Bureau.

If you want a bargain for your money, join the Farm Bureau.

John E. Jackson of Stockton, Calif., and his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Heard of Cleveland, Okla., were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Williams several days this week.

Texas 4-H Girl To See Eisenhower At The White House

Tribute will be paid to twenty million men and women in Washington, D. C., ceremonies during National 4-H Club Week, February 28-March 7. They are former 4-H Club members who helped build the program from its humble rural beginnings in the early 1900's to its unprecedented national scope and membership of more than two million farm and urban youth.

"Improving Family and Community Living" is the Club Week theme, and this year a special salute to 4-H alumni will be given. The week will not only evaluate benefits gained by adults through 4-H experience, but will present an opportunity for 4-H boys and girls to review their past achievements and plan future activities.

In the capital, the alumni will be represented by a man and a woman, 1959 recipients of national key awards presented annually to eight former 4-Hers for good citizenship and outstanding service. They will join six national 4-H delegates who will call on President Eisenhower to present him with the 4-H report to the nation on behalf of all club members.

Texas will have an important role in the week-long program. Its own 4-H champion, Marilyn Wood, of 310 North 8th Street, Donna, is one of the six delegates.

For Marilyn, a 17-year-old senior at Donna High School, the week in Washington will not be the first honor she has won as a result of her 4-H achievements. Last December she was acclaimed as winner of the Santa Fe Railway educational award of a $350 college scholarship, which was presented to her at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

While in Washington for Club Week, this Hidalgo county girl will personally present the 4-H report to the nation to President Eisenhower in his White House office. She will visit the office of Secretary of Agriculture Benson and other agricultural organizations. At a luncheon in the Congressional hotel, she will greet Texas senators and representatives, guests of honor. One of the highlights will be a dinner for the delegates, alumni, and special guests given by Mr. R. F. Quain, general manager of the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago, for many years "home" to delegates attending the National 4-H Club Congress. The Conrad Hilton hotel annually sponsors the Club Week trips to Washington for the six delegates.

Can you remember when lawn parties were held and the front yard was adorned with Japanese lanterns? (They were first called Chinese lanterns but, after the Russo-Japanese War, the name was changed.) What was a Japanese lantern?

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The newspaper publishers in Texas are always interested in the general welfare. You will usually find your local editor active on civic projects and doing his best to make the community a better place for his readers to live.

The Internal Revenue Service relies heavily on the newspaper business to keep taxpayers informed. Your editor realizes that paying income taxes is a shoe we must wear in spite of the pinch. He joins thousands of other newspapers throughout the country every year in attempting to pass along information on tax law requirements and tax benefits to his readers. We want to take our hats off to our nation's editors. The fact that the voluntary income tax system works is due in a large part to the helpful advice that you read in your newspaper.

April 15 would be a day of great embarrassment to thousands of taxpayers who had forgotten to file their income tax return on April 15 if your editor was not kind enough to remind you.

The American Farmer degree is awarded to about 375 outstanding members of the FFA each year. Boys must be out of high school one year to qualify, and a State Association is allowed to nominate only one candidate for each 1,000 members.

Membership in the Future Farmers of America organization is restricted to boys who are students of vocational agriculture in high school.

It was made of colored paper, accordion-pleated and shaped round east and west and oblong north and south, illuminated by a candle.

The Chinese are credited with the invention of gun-powder and, when I was a boy, at Christmas-time I would receive a package of "Chinese fire-crackers." This package had lettering in Chinese—at least I suppose it was Chinese for I must confess I could not read Chinese and can not, now either. There were about 50 fire-crackers in a package and the cost was five cents.

You stuck a match to the fuse, waited till you were sure it was burning, then you tossed it and usually the cracker went off in mid-air with a mild "bang."

There is an expression that is coming more and more into use—and which, to me sounds lacking in real interest: a sort of mechanical remark. Someone asks, "How are you?" and the reply often is, "I'm fine—and you?" Personally, I think, "I'm fine; how are you?" sounds more cordial.

Another expression I do not fancy is "Thank you" when the accent is a rising one on the "you," which is pronounced "yuh." If you are thanking someone, why shouldn't the emphasis be on "thank" or on both words equally?

"Moby Dick" is considered by some (of whom this columnist is not one) to be America's greatest novel. Certainly it is a powerful book. Melville had written himself out by the time he was 30—a fate as tragic as his Captain Ahab's.

The first oil derrick I ever saw was from a train window in 1920 near San Antonio. Later on, in Eastland County and elsewhere, I was to see quite a few more—and to write four books and help write a motion picture on the subject of oil booms.

Nominations For Rural Minister Due By April 1

Life in rural Texas is often made more pleasant and rewarding because of the work done and the leadership provided by the rural minister. All over the state, says Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, ministers are contributing to the building of better communities through their participation in community improvement activities.

"The Texas Rural Minister of the Year" each year is honored by the Progressive Farmer magazine and plans for his naming in 1959 have been announced. Brown says that ministers serving communities with fewer than 2,500 population are eligible for the award.

Each denomination selects their best man and then a committee of all denominations names the top award winner, explained Brown. To make the nominating job easier, Brown says a simplified brochure has been prepared and is available from the magazine. Groups such as community improvement organizations, home demonstration and 4-H clubs, farm organizations, civic clubs and other groups and individuals can make nominations.

All nominations must be in by April 1. Ask for a copy of the nomination brochure by writing a card or letter to Progressive Farmer, 546 Rio Grande Building, Dallas, Texas. Brown urges all communities to recognize their religious leaders by nominating them for the well-deserved recognition.

Prepare Now For Good Fall Quail Hunting

Now is the time to get ready for next season's quail crop. This comes from W. J. Cutbirth, Jr., assistant secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

"The preparations made now, in providing cover and feed, will have much to do with this year's quail crop," Mr. Cutbirth said. "Apparently we have a carry-over that is above the average. In some places birds didn't get enough feed during the winter and have perished. Fortunately, however, we didn't have a long heavy freeze and many of the birds pulled through."

"This indicates the importance of providing both cover and feed for quail if we expect to have a good crop. Hunters and landowners can cooperate in this program, which will be beneficial to both."

The Game Commission game farm at Tyler will have quail for release again this year, according to Mr. Cutbirth. Application should be made early. These applications can be sent to the Austin office, or landowners can contact their game wardens.

When the applications are received the land will be checked by the warden to determine whether there is sufficient cover and feed available. Shipments then will be made from the hatchery. The price will remain the same as before, 50 cents per bird.

STORMS CAN'T RUFFLE WIND-TIGHT ROOFING

Among the most important recent advancements in the home-building field are wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles.

In one of these methods the roofer cements individual shingles down to the roof with special cement. Another method is the use of special shingles that lock securely together. A third method employs asphalt shingles that have cement pre-applied at the factory. All of these applications are engineered to resist winds of even hurricane velocity.

State Farm Mutual Insures Many Autos

The nation's largest auto insurance company announced today that it now insures nearly 10 percent of U. S. passenger cars.

Adlai H. Rust, board chairman of State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, said his firm's policies cover 5,159,000 (or 9.9 percent) of the 52,500,000 passenger cars which the Automobile Manufacturers Association estimates were in operation at year-end. The company has more than 5,500,000 policies in force here and in Canada.

Local agent for State Farm is Leo Fetsch, phone 2586.

Rust's summary of State Farm Mutual's 1958 operation shows earned premiums for the year of $379,611,794, up 16.4 percent over the 1957 figure. This record premium total marks the seventeenth consecutive year that State Farm Mutual has led all other auto insurers, Rust said, pointing out that the company's earned premiums now top those of all other U. S. fire or casualty companies.

Claim costs hit a record high in 1958, totaling $291,412,039. State Farm settled claims at the rate of one every 16 seconds for a 1958 total of 1,908,932 individual claims.

Investment gain amounted to $13,444,795. Underwriting gain was $8,814,696, two and a third percent of earned premium income. Assets increased 16.6 percent during the year to $485,502,097. Policyholders' surplus totaled $132,577,187 at year-end, a 12.7 percent gain. Federal income taxes took $4,361,764.

Record gains also were reported by State Farm's two subsidiaries.

State Farm Life Insurance company's sales of $276,448,951 of ordinary life insurance bested 1957's record high by 4.6 percent. Ordinary insurance in force at the end of 1958 totaled $1,319,678,643. State Farm Fire and Casualty company's direct premiums were 21.1 percent over the 1957 figure at $25,671,512.

Home offices of the three companies are in Bloomington, Ill. The State Farm organization has 17,750 agents and employees in the U. S. and the Canadian province of Ontario. 1tc

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds Out At Last How Some Phonograph Records Got Played Over The Air

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek this week discusses, of all things, music.

Dear editor:
I don't listen to the radio much, mainly because with a radio you have to listen right then or you'll miss what's said, while with a newspaper you can wait around till you're in the mood and have a chance to prepare yourself to face what happened in the world yesterday, but once in a while I do listen and something about radio that has puzzled me a long time has now been cleared up, although I'll have to admit it took a newspaper to do it.

Here was my problem: when I'd tune in to hear some news, lots of times a music program would be on, and since I figured the news would be on in a few minutes and there wasn't any use in going to the trouble of changing the dial, I listened. What puzzled me was how some of the music I heard got there. "Here's a record that's zooming upward," the announcer would say, I think they call him a disc jockey, although I ain't up on that phase of culture, and what came over the air was unbelievable. And when the singer started singing, well, if I had a calf that couldn't bawl better than that, I'd have it rendered for soap.

I couldn't figure out how such a record ever got played, not to mention how anybody could claim it was zooming.

Well, this has been cleared up. According to a newspaper I read last night, the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has turned up some evidence that racketeers have been forcing juke box owners to buy phonograph records.

I knew somebody must have been holding a gun on somebody else to get such music played. But it'll never succeed, I mean, while maybe the racketeers can force record distributors to buy their records, it's going to take a lot of mobsters to hold enough guns on enough people to make them listen.

On the other hand, I've heard some records that weren't forced on anybody, they're played night and day, on radio, T. V., juke boxes and kids' portable record-players, and I'll tell you it's going to take an expert to tell which record was forced on the public by racketeers and which one by teenagers. I'm glad I'm not on the Senate Investigating Committee when this problem comes up. Turn that music down and let me read. Where's my copy of The Munday Times? Or something. Anything will do.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

ZONING TO PROTECT FARMS AND FARMERS

The familiar technique of zoning city land for special uses is moving into the country.

Already, many states are protecting their productive agricultural lands by putting fertile areas in farm zoning districts and designating poorer land for industrial uses and road right-of-ways. Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota were among the first states to create zoned districts for forestry and recreation. Other states have followed suit and some Texas farm organizations are studying the possibilities of such a move.

In California, agricultural districts have been created where all uses other than agriculture and related activities, such as food processing, have been excluded. The result is to channel urban, suburban or industrial activities into areas well suited for them but not for farming.

One aim of agricultural zoning has been and should continue to be to find alternative areas of less fertile soils than can be used satisfactorily for non-farm purposes — preserving the best soils for agricultural production. The trend of giving over some of our richest soils for suburban developments and super-highways should be avoided when possible, many experts believe.

Rural land is rated by agriculturists in eight broad classifications. Lands in Classes One through Four are considered suitable for cultivation. Yet a recent survey shows that about 17 million acres in these four classes were diverted to non-farm uses during the past 15 years. About one-half million acres of these fertile lands are being taken over by non-farm projects each year.

Much of the land taken has been the flattest, least erodible and most productive farmland in the area. Where possible, it is this type of permanent loss that zoning regulations are attempting to prevent.

Zoning ordinances are an exercise by local governments, generally. State legislatures have passed enabling acts giving zoning powers to about half of the nation's 3,000 counties. Before undertaking a farm zoning program, county officials should check to see if they have the zoning powers needed. If not, it may be necessary to request the State Legislature to furnish them.

dising of cars by providing wholesale credit to dealers. This permits larger salesroom stocks and a wider choice for buyers.

The application of improved practices since 1940 by American farmers has brought about a 27 percent increase in crop production per acre and livestock production per breeding unit.

"GREATNESS"

If any man seeks for greatness, let him forget greatness and ask for truth, and he will find both. —Horace Mann

There never was any heart truly great and gracious, that was not also tender and compassionate. — Robert South

Every luminary in the constellation of human greatness, like the stars, comes out in the darkness to shine with the reflected light of God. — Mary Baker Eddy

Nothing can be truly great which is not right. — Samuel Johnson

Everything great is not always good, but all good things are great. — Demosthenes

There never was yet a truly great man that was not at the same time truly virtuous. — Benjamin Franklin

Pedestrian Help Needed To Reduce Traffic Accidents

"Pedestrians must accept their share of the responsibility, along with motorists, if we are to reduce the overall toll of traffic fatalities in 1959," J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, said today.

"This is especially true during winter months," Musick said, "when a driver's visibility is frequently reduced to only the traffic directly ahead."

The safety expert pointed out that more pedestrian fatalities occur in urban areas during the winter months than in any other season. This is because winter months mean slippery streets, longer hours of darkness and poorer visibility.

"Pedestrians should observe extra caution in crossing streets, obey all traffic signs and signals and make sure they are seen by motorists as they step into the street," Musick warned. "And there should be no jaywalking or sudden exits from between parked cars."

Musick outlined five cardinal rules for safer wintertime walking:

1. Cross at intersections and obey all traffic signs.
2. Be wary of slippery streets and take your time in crossing.
3. At night wear or carry something light in color as a warning to approaching cars.
4. Be courteous and give the driver a break in winter weather.
5. Accept your responsibilities for keeping yourself alive.

CREDIT EXPANDS U.S. AUTO FLEET

Postwar expansion of American's automobile fleet has had a mighty stimulus in the extensive use of instalment credit.

For every three cars on the road 10 years ago, there are now five cars, or an increase from 33 million to 56 million total.

As the 1959 model year began, automobile instalment credit stood at about $14 billion, or more than four times above the level 10 years earlier, points out the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance firms.

Besides serving as the major source of funds for auto instalment credit, sales finance companies also bolster the merchant-
