Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

This community's holiday was marred by tragedy.

k-k
Munday people were in the midst of celebrating its first long Labor Day week end — the town had never observed Labor Day as a holiday on a more communitywide basis — when the tragic farm home fire claimed the life of Marion Elliott, one of the area's most promising young farmers.

k-k
Marion had the promise of many years of profitable and serviceable activity. He had a nice farming setup, and he enjoyed working with the soil. He had a lovely wife and a precious baby daughter — their firstborn child — and he was making plans to bring them home from the hospital the next day. The future was shaping up for him in a wonderful way — then the tragedy came.

k-k
The terrible shock of his tragic death was felt over the entire community, which is trying its best to share this sorrow with his family and relatives. Why tragedy of this sort comes to one so young, so full of activity and promise, one apparently with everything to live for, is something that possibly will never be revealed to mankind.

k-k
We were at the lake, as were many other Munday people, when the tragic news was revealed to us. Even in the midst of recreation, relaxation and celebration of the holiday, one could visualize the expressions of shock and sorrow come over the faces of Marion's friends and the family's friends as the news was broken to them. Marion had been known to most of us all of his life, and the community will miss him far into the future.

k-k
Activity at the lake was kinda limited during the holiday. The high winds saw to that, and it's a good thing, we think, that boating enthusiasts of our area have sense enough not to be battling those waves too much when they are whitecapping.

"Now is the time," writes George Dolan in the Star-Telegram, "while it's fresh on everybody's mind, to abolish Labor Day. What started as a salute to the working man had grown into one big traffic jam."

k-k
"Labor Day isn't even a special holiday for labor any more," he continues. "Everybody gets into the act, except some exclusive groups such as policemen, ambulance drivers and hospital emergency room crews. Labor Day has lost its meaning."

k-k
And we know of some local people who would like to abolish the holiday. "Munday has never observed Labor Day as a holiday," they argue, "so why start it now?" Still others would like to observe every holiday that's a bank holiday.

k-k
Holidays are pains in the neck, speaking from the newspapering angle, but we like to observe them when we can. They are fine for rest and relaxation, but when they come the first of the week, like Labor Day, we just have to wedge four days' work into three days. When the town observes a holiday we usually come out short in the business end of this newspaper.

k-k
But we're not for abolishing all holidays. We're for them in a measure.

k-k
A Gooee merchant, Ira Stalcup, is already looking forward to Christmas. That's the one time in the year he usually closes up for two days. Christmas will come on Friday this year, and Ira will get three days off. That's nearly like a vacation, something which Ira hasn't had since 1952, and if we'd start a move to abolish the Christmas holiday he would issue a prompt veto. And since it falls on Friday, we're siding with Ira in the matter.

k-k
While doing our "leg work" Tuesday morning we spied a pair of knee pads in a store show window, and immediately our knees began to hurt. We explained the situation to Supt. W. C. Cox at Lions Club, and he understood perfectly. He had used the blasted things, too! Together, we had quite a discussion about those cotton picking days back when we were younger. Our experiences were pretty much akin to each other.

Mr. Jones has been serving as assistant county agricultural agent of Coleman County since June 27, 1957. Mr. Jones has a B. S. Degree in Animal Husbandry from Texas Tech College. He was a member of the College Livestock Judging Team. Mr. Jones was reared on a farm in Wheeler County and was a 4-H club member for eight years. He is married and has two children. GOT A RIDE — O. V. Milstead is shown holding a huge rattle which got a free ride from Knox City on the end gate of its trailer a few days ago. It was dead, though, having been killed by Romeo Mexicana of Knox City. The reptile was 3 1/2 feet long, six inches around the largest part of body, and had 14 rattlers.

Rattlers are on the crawl. A group of local dove hunters were out from Knox City and found them crawling. They killed 15 of the rattlers, then got out of that area without even killing one dove. Who can blame them?

City Okays Rate Revision By WTU

A schedule of revised rates for electric service was filed with the City Council of Munday last Tuesday night by the West Texas Utilities Company, and was "okayed" by that body.

Similar schedules, which have already been approved in Abilene, San Angelo, Ballinger and Quanah, will soon be filed throughout the remainder of the Company's 49-county service area.

The revised schedule of rates is designed, according to J. C. Randal of Quanah, district manager, to provide:

1. A new low rate for electric heating during winter months.
2. Liberalization of the water heater rate.
3. Reduction in the base of the present fuel clause and incorporation of the new lower fuel clause in all schedules with the exception of municipal water pumping, street lights and signal light rates.

"The last-named purpose is an effort by WTU to hedge against anticipated future increases in the cost of fuel which the Company may incur in generating electricity and to avoid a possible rate increase," Randal said.

Prominent Young Farmer Burned To Death In Tragic Fire Sunday Night

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday from the First Methodist Church in Munday for Marion Elliott, 23, well known young Munday farmer who was burned to death in his flaming farm home Sunday night while his wife was in Knox County Hospital with their newborn child.

Officiating was Rev. Rex L. Maudlin, pastor, and burial was in Johnson Memorial Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Charles Yost, George Spann, Hilton Stubblefield, Don Bowman, Gene Roland Haynie and Larry Don Lain. Listed as honorary pall bearers were: Lee Burnison, Dr. D. C. Eiland, Earl McNeill, Floyd Bowman, Ralph Cypert and members of the Munday Volunteer Fire Department.

The fire is believed to have broken out in the kitchen of the couple's home, three miles southeast of Munday, according to George Beaty, Munday fire chief. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Mr. Elliott was evidently asleep when the fire started and apparently became trapped in the bathroom. He was planning to bring his wife and baby home the next day.

The Munday Fire Department received the alarm at 11:14 p.m. Sunday when a Latin-American youth who lives in a small house some 200 yards from the Elliott five-room frame home saw the fire and drove into Munday to report it.

Elliott was found in the bathroom of the house and was pulled through the bathroom window by firemen. He was alive at the time, but was pronounced dead upon arrival at a local doctor's office, where he was taken by a McCauley ambulance. He suffered burns over his body, but was believed to have died of suffocation.

Chief Beaty estimated the loss of the house and all furnishings would total between $10,000 and $11,000. Three trucks which carried 2,250 gallons of water went to the scene, but firemen were unable to quench the blaze, and the home was completely destroyed.

Mr. Elliott's wife, the former Pasty Putnam of Munday, whom he married October 19, 1957, gave birth to their first child, Belinda Rose, on September 2 in the Knox County Hospital. She was not told of her husband's death until Monday morning.

Mr. Elliott was born March 9, 1936, in Ada, Okla., but had lived in Munday almost all of his life. He graduated from Munday High School in 1955, serving in the Munday Mogul Band, and later served in the U. S. Army.

Always interested in farm life, he became actively engaged in farming after his release from the service.

Surviving him are his wife and daughter, Belinda Rose; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Elliott of Munday; two sisters, Mrs. Jerry Johnson of Abilene and Martha Kaye Elliott of Munday; and a brother, Robert Wayne Elliott, also of Munday; and a number of other relatives.

His grandfather was the late C. R. Elliott, former Knox County sheriff and pioneer of this area.

Kenneth Smith To Receive God And Country Award

Kenneth Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Weldon Smith of Munday, will receive the coveted "God and Country" award of the Boy Scouts of America in special ceremonies at the First Methodist Church at the beginning of the worship hour at 10:55 a.m. next Sunday.

Kenneth began work on this award nearly 14 months ago, and at least a year was required to complete it.

Requirements are divided into five fields of service to the church, christian faith, christian witness, christian outreach, christian citizenship and christian fellowship. Numerous books have to be read in addition to active participation in all phases of church life and experience.

The Boy Scout troop will enter the church hearing the Christian Flag and the American Flag during the singing of the first hymn. Kenneth's parents will have a seat of honor, and Mrs. Smith will be presented a replica of the award during the ceremony.

JERRY LINDSEY ENROLLS IN WOOD BADGE COURSE

Jerry Lindsey, one of the highest ranking Boy Scouts of this area, has enrolled in a Wood Badge course which began at Philmont Ranch in northern New Mexico last week. Ten scouts of the Northwest Texas Council completed the training course last week.

Jerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Lindsey, now of Olney, has been serving for the third summer as a member of the Philmont Scout Ranch staff. Wood Badge is a highly specialized training course for scouts.

Jerry is planning to return to Baylor University for the coming school year.

Jaycees To Sponsor Pancake Supper

The Munday Jaycees are sponsoring a pancake supper on Friday night, September 18, in the school cafeteria. Everyone is urged to come out to the supper, then see the Munday - Knox City football game.

Proceeds from the supper will go toward supplying bleachers for the Little League Field.

The Jaycees met on Tuesday night with the president Glen Barber, in charge. Discussion was heard on the progress of the Jaycee membership campaign.

Enrollment Off In Local School

Enrollment in the Munday Public Schools is under that of last year, according to Supt. W. C. Cox. The following are comparative figures, based on the beginning of the second week of school:

Grade school, 277 in 1958, 264 in 1959; Junior High School, 150 in 1958, 133 in 1959; High School, 162 in 1958, 164 in 1959; Dunbar School, 145 in 1958, 123 in 1959.

"All schools excepting the high school show a decrease," Mr. Cox said. "We know of a number of Latin-Americans who have not yet enrolled. The highest enrollment is always in October. Those between the ages of 6 and 16 should remember that they are subject to the compulsory attendance law. The school wishes to avoid the necessity of its enforcement; however, unless those of school age do not enroll at once, the school will take steps to enforce the law."

Moguls To Play Panthers Here

The Munday Moguls will be playing their first home game of the season on Friday night of this week, when they entertain the Class AA Seymour Panthers on the home field.

After suffering a defeat at the hands of the Pochester Steers, Coach Herb Arledge's charges are continuing daily workouts this week to iron out their rough spots and improve on their game.

The Mogul - Panther tilt has always been an interesting annual affair, and although the Panthers are playing in a higher bracket, the Moguls are expected to give them a battle for their money. The Panthers were defeated by Crowell last week.

Local fans will turn out strong to see the Moguls in action on the home field.

A BETTER JOB

Farmers often complain about the price of tractors and other mechanized equipment. That's only human nature. We all tend to kick when the cost of anything we want and need goes up.

Farm equipment is an intensely competitive industry, with a long list of producers vying for the farmer's favor and patronage. No manufacturer raises a price out of choice. But the makers of farm machinery have been caught in the same inflationary spiral as the rest of us, with wage rates and material costs soaring. And it speaks well for their productive efficiency that, percentage-wise, the selling prices of their products has risen substantially less than wage and material costs.

Moreover, the machines are more efficient, longer-lasting, and more trouble-free than used to be the case — and that in itself is a form of price reduction to the user. Then, to cap the climax, farmers, as agricultural economist Karl D. Butler puts it, want " . . . equipment and accessories that will help them do a better job faster and with less backache."

For instance, a poll was recently taken in the key farming state of Iowa. It was found that 79.8 per cent of farmers wanted power steering on their tractors; 76.4 per cent wanted lights; 75.3 per cent wanted independent power take-off; 73 per cent wanted hydraulic controls, and so on down the list, with varying percentages wanting automatic transmission, heaters, radios, etc.

Equipment of this nature is expensive. And, as with anything else, those who want it and get it must pay the costs.

President Eisenhower has proclaimed 1960 as "Visit U.S.A. Year." A perfect prelude, in the view of Representative Porter of Oregon, would be to repeal World War II 10% excise tax on passenger fares. As he sees it, it's an anachronism to keep the tax on the books when every effort is being made to encourage travel within this country.

Mark Twain expressed the value of the written word when he said: "The difference between the right word and the almost right word is the difference between lightning and the lightning bug."

"SHALL THE PEOPLE GOVERN?"

The President went to the crux of the labor legislation problem when, in a nationally broadcast speech, he said: "In the basic sense, the issue is this: Shall the people govern?"

The President also said: "It is my earnest hope that Congress will be fully responsible to an overwhelming national demand." If Congress fails in this, it will amount to dereliction of duty of the most dangerous kind.

The President cited specific examples of labor violence, and of the use of "blackmail" picketing designed to force workers who did not want to join a union. Of such practices, he said: "I want that sort of thing stopped. So does America."

Goons and thugs have been used to enforce union demands. Gangsters have slipped into official union position. Union treasuries have been looted. Free speech and free elections have been denied the rank-and-file. The secondary boycott and blackmail picketing can and often are used to dictate union terms on an "or else" basis.

The President said it all in four words: "Shall the people govern?"

FOLLY AND TRAGEDY

More and more people — from sociologists to medical authorities, and from business leaders to government officials — are becoming vitally concerned with the practice of retiring workers at some arbitrary age, such as 60 or 65.

The life span has been greatly expanded. The percentage of elderly people in the population is swiftly increasing. And, thanks to medical progress and other factors, the elderly in large part, retain mental and physical vigor into advanced years. Under such circumstances, to forcibly retire men and women at some given age, regardless of their abilities and energies and desires, becomes both folly and tragedy.

We all know of people who are making outstanding contributions to the world in old age. Herbert Hoover, for instance, has just become 85. He works a 10-hour day, is writing four important books, maintains a heavy schedule of appointments, and is full of the zest of life.

Destiny marks few of us to become Hoovers or Churchills or Adenauers or Schweitzers. But millions of elderly people can perform valuable tasks. They need to keep usefully occupied. And the nation needs their services.

Can a farmer afford to plant one-fifth of his peanut land in a strip crop each year and all of it in winter cover? A number of Texas farmers say "yes", for years of peanut farming experience have provided them with the answer.

Today strip cropping and winter cover cropping are as much a part of the farmers' operations as is planting peanuts. The strip pattern consists of two rows of common sudan and eight rows of peanuts. After harvest Abruzzi rye is drilled on the eight rows of peanuts for winter cover.

Peanut yields through the years prove the wisdom of such planting. In 1958 one farmer made 49 bushels per acre, and has averaged 30 bushels as an overall average. This includes the low yield of 13 bushels in 1956, an extremely dry year. He does not use irrigation.

A brisk norther in April proved the farmer's strips and cover were effective against wind erosion. Not a grain of sand was moving from his farm, while the 35-mile an hour wind was turning the topsoil of an unprotected field nearby into a blinding dust storm.

Good farmers always have a system of farming. They are quick to change their system of farming to incorporate new cultural and management practices to take care of their top soil so they have more economical production.

This farmer is no exception. For example, he has been seeding his cover crop of rye after the peanuts were combined. He now plans to seed the rye prior to raking the nuts. Then the raking will cover the rye and permit it to get an earlier start. This will save one trip over the land.

In general, this is his present operation:

1. Seeds rye for cover.
2. Returns peanut tops to the soil with spreader on combine.
3. Leaves the strips and rye cover on the land until late spring in order to have a dense growth of rye where the peanuts grew. This protects the soil during a critical period and is used as green manure.
4. Shreds strips and cover crop around May 1.
5. Disk - harrows land twice, each disking perpendicular to the other.
6. Beds shallow with sweeps.
7. Plants peanuts and sudan strips at same time. Strips are planted on different rows each year.

Bristol is on the Virginia-Tennessee line. The boundary is a white mark down the center of a main street. As to jurisdiction, I was told that if a Virginia officer was pursuing a speeder, the officer could chase him all the way to the Pacific Ocean, just so he could keep the car in sight.

East Tennessee is beautiful. It was my first view of the region (this was the summer of 1958) which was the home of Bob Taylor, the fiddling governor, humorist and spellbinder, who was fond of saying that the mountains of East Tennessee were so tall that a boy could stand tiptoe on one and tickle the feet of the angels as they went winging over. (For the statistical-minded, the actual height is around 4,000 feet.)

There is a great difference between the inhabitants of East Tennessee and those of Middle and West Tennessee. The dwellers in the mountains did not own slaves and they were pro-Union.

After the Civil War, the East Tennesseans voted strongly Republican. It used to be said in Memphis that the votes were held back in East Tennessee until the returns from the rest of the State were in and it was seen how many votes were needed! It was true that the returns were slow in being reported but it took time for the election judge to ride a mule over the mountains to the county seat from which the results could be telegraphed.

Chauncey M. Depew, after-dinner speaker, Senator and railroad president, in "My Memories of Eighty Years" says of James A. Garfield

"He happily carried with him amid all the struggles and disappointments, as well as successes, in the making of a career, the buoyant, hopeful, companionable and affectionate interests which characterize the ambitious senior who has just left college to take his plunge into the activities of life."

While Robert Louis Stevenson, then a young man, was in the old mining camps of California, he felt the influence of the free-and-easy humor about him to such an extent that touches appeared in writings at the time. For instance, he told of a man who became a stagecoach robber, A doctor (Stevenson said) to whom the man went, told him to take something — so he took the express company's money box.

His father was felled with a bullet in his back.

Be smart this year and follow these basic rules of gun safety: Never mix fire water with fire power, and never point a gun at anything you don't intend to shoot. Remember that only a knucklehead would pull a gun through a fence. The safe way is to put it over first, making sure it is standing steady before you climb through.

Remember, too, that guns are death traps for curious children. Unload yours before you get home.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

The most widely anticipated hour on Texas' sporting calendar arrived September 1 precisely at high noon. It marked the opening of the fall hunting season.

Before it ends in mid-January, an estimated 400,000 hopeful hunters — including young and old of both sexes, skilled and unskilled — will have taken to field in eager expectation.

Wily mourning doves are present targets of a thousand guns by virtue of a 50-day north zone season that began September 1. For deer and turkey it begins November 16 and lasts until December 31, with date variations depending on county law. Quail shooting becomes legal December 1, until January 16.

It's a satisfying time, with man in quiet communion with a bountiful nature. But all too often an ominous note creeps into the happy symphony.

Thirty-seven hunting enthusiasts ranging in age from 12 to 65 won't be going out this year. And for the very best or reasons: They're dead . . . killed by their own hand or by others during last year's season.

Four hunters killed themselves in attempting to clean or repair loaded guns. Six others virtually committed suicide by crawling through fences with gun in hand.

In other deaths the victims were mistaken for game, or made errors in judgement while unloading guns, or stalking game or otherwise mishandling weapons.

A 12-year old lad, a novice deer hunter, was killed instantly when his dotting father — carrying a "ready" rifle — tripped over a log and accidentally discharged the weapon.

And in another incident the situation was almost exactly reversed. A boy tripped on a wooded trail.

Johnsons Return From Enjoyable Trip

The E. Y. and W. B. Johnsons returned home Saturday afternoon from a most enjoyable vacation trip to Washington, where they visited the J. J. Johnsons in Auburn and with their nieces and families, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Ducey Stoe, Eiland and Jeanette, in Buckley; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Johnson, Karen, Diane and Judy in Tacoma; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Yoss, David, Danny and Denease, in Anacław, Wash.

Of the sightseeing, the Johnsons say it is hard to decide which they enjoyed most — the trip on the "million dollar" highway from Durango through Silverton to Ouray, Colo.; the trip around beautiful Mt. Rainer in Washington, the scenic Columbia River highway, where they saw the lovely waterfalls of which Multnomah Falls is the most spectacular, the second highest in the U. S. which plunges 620 feet in to an evergreen glen. This is on the Oregon side of the Columbia River. The trip to the top of Pike's Peak in Colorado was also "just out of this world."

The Johnsons also enjoyed a view of the Pacific from Long Beach, Wash., and the 10-mile trip across the Columbia from Megler, Wash., to Astoria, Oregon, on the big ferry.

Band Activities Begun This Week

The Munday Band Booster Club met last Monday evening at the band hall with only a few interested persons present. Mrs. Delbert Montgomery, president, was in charge.

Mrs. R. T. Morrow gave a financial report, giving a report on calendar and candy sales. Payment on Uniforms of $1,000 plus interest was made the first of September and she reported that another one is due. The balance on the uniforms is $1,236.27.

It was voted that each family that has a band student send one book of some kind of stamps so that two electric roasters might be obtained to keep hot dogs at the concession stands.

Jack Geyman, band director, showed small megaphones that could be bought from Max Krutz House of Music and sold to help make money for the band. It was decided to do so. They will sell for 15c and will be on sale at all ball games.

Tuesday night a representative from Max Krutz displayed instruments for the ones that were interested in being in the beginner's band (fifth graders). Mr. Geyman said about 15 students will compose the beginners band. There are at this time 43 in the High School Band and 21 in the Junior High Band.

LOOKING AHEAD (LEGALLY SPEAKING)

You can tell a lot about people by the way they regard time. Do they put stock mostly in the past — their record; the present — their direct joy in work or play; or the future — their plans. Why not use all three dimensions of them? Past experience to guide, the present for zest, and the future to realize dreams.

Lawyers report a sharp shift in the way people regard time and the law: Of old they thought of law in terms of past facts, like failures to meet legal duties, misdeeds, etc. — facts useful chiefly in lawsuits.

You still have to think of the record, since you may have to go to trial some time. So keep good records of your affairs.

But more and more people now also think of the law in the future tense — in terms of built-in safeguards for plans which they want to go through without legal hitches.

Our heavy income and death taxes have made people plan ahead legally, rather than wait for the ax to fall.

Any time you buy or sell a home or a business or make an investment you have choices of how you may do it — some wise, some not, in view of your circumstances. Should you insist on an abstract or accept or offer instead a title insurance policy? (Your lawyer has a definite part to play in either event.)

Should you do business as a sole proprietor, a partnership, or corporation? Do your contracts set out ways of meeting unexpected events? How best may you serve your estate (and also carry out your wishes) — by a will or a trust, or by direct gifts? While all of these things point forward, the past in the form of court records can serve you by showing where trouble may come from.

As more and more people know the symptoms of legal trouble — where to look for legal hitches in plans before big trouble starts, there will be fewer law suits and better human relations.

And where does trouble sometimes start? Most often where you lack a clear grasp of your relationship, your rights and duties, and your own and the other fellow's resources — in transactions involving large personal or financial stakes.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Jones of Irving came in last Monday to spend their vacation here with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Jack Coulter left last Tuesday for her home in Amarillo after a visit with her brothers, Grady Weaver in Abilene and Bert Weaver of Munday.

Gems Of Thought

"HUMILITY"
I believe the first test of a truly great man is his humility.
—John Ruskin

Humility is the stepping-stone to a higher recognition of Deity.
—Mary Baker Eddy

After crosses and losses men grow humbler and wiser.
—Benjamin Franklin

Humility that low sweet root, from which all heavenly virtues shoot.
—Thomas Moore

Greatness is a two-faced coin — and its reverse is humility.
—Marguerite Steen

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice
—John Selden

A Shocking Hazard

One of the greatest sources of danger to small children in the home is the electrical wall outlet. Countless children have been shocked, or burned, sometimes fatally by sticking hairpins or other metal objects into these outlets. This can't happen with a No-Shok outlet, made by Bell Electric, Chicago, national manufacturer of electrical wiring devices.

This outlet eliminates shocks, burns, or short circuits. To plug in, one must turn plug to the right before it can be inserted completely and make electrical contact in the outlet. When the plug is withdrawn, the rotary safety cap automatically snaps shut preventing insertion of metal objects. It also keeps out dust, dirt and moisture.

Rochester Rips Moguls, 44 To 14 In Opening Tilt

The Rochester Steers struck for four touchdowns in the first quarter as they steam-rolled past the lighter Munday Moguls in the season's opener for both teams last Saturday night at Rochester.

Sam Adkins started the scoring for the Steers early in the first quarter by skirting end from seven yards out on a keeper.

Then halfback Bob Bolland took charge, taking on three quick touchdown gallops of 22, 7 and 8 yards respectively.

After the final Bolland "td" Adkins churned into the end zone for the extra points, making the score, 28-0 at the end of the first period.

Rochester's Ronnie Huntsman scored the final six-pointer of the first half with a 47 yard scamper.

Munday drove 73 yards for their first tally in the third quarter with Joe McMahon going over from the one for the score.

Jerry Jefferson passed to end Roger Bell for the points after.

Huntsman got the last Rochester touchdown on a 78-yard run on an end-around-play, while McMahon accounted for the Moguls, final tally with a 74 yard sprint.

Ex-Knox Citian Passes On Sunday

Rev. Archie B. Reese, about 42 native of Knox City and a Baptist minister at Arlington, passed away last Sunday at Arlington after a long illness.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Monday at Arlington. He was then brought to Knox City for graveside rites at 5 p.m. at Knox City Cemetery.

Rev. Reese was graduated from Knox City and earned a degree at Texas Tech in Lubbock. He taught in Lubbock for several years, then entered the ministry after graduation from Southwestern Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

mother, Mrs. A. B. Reese of Lubbock; three sisters, Miss May Reese of Lubbock, Mrs. Charlie Curry of Lubbock and Mrs. Jeff Kidd of Plainview.

Cotton Diseases

How to recognize and control them. Materials taken from Extension Service booklets and Cotton Disease Council booklet and presented by Elmer L. Kuntz L. vocational agriculture teacher in the Munday Public Schools.

COTTON ROOT ROT — Is caused by Phymato-trichum omnivorum, a soil-borne fungus. This disease is confined primarily to the highly calcareous and alkaline soils of the southwest. The heavy, waxy prairie soils with poor internal drainage and aeration, found over a large part of Texas, are particularly favorable to the cotton root rot fungus.

SYMPTOMS — First evidence of the disease is a slight yellowing of the leaves, followed by a sudden wilting. The entire plant soon dries out and the leaves, turn brown and cling to the stems. At this stage the root bark tissue is destroyed. The most conspicuous symptom of root rot is the occurrence of areas of dead or browned plants in the field.

CONTROL — Due to the nature of the fungus, it is very difficult to control. Cotton rotation with hubam clover has given practical control in Texas. Other practices that have been found helpful in reducing losses from this severe disease are:

- (1) Early fall plowing;
- (2) The addition of nitrogen and manure to the soil;
- (3) Deep tillage;
- (4) Rotation with sorghum, small grain or corn for a period of years.

Mrs. Ben Tuggle received word that her son, Dorris Ray Tuggle, of Brownfield underwent surgery on Friday of last week at the North Texas Hospital in Lubbock. She reports him to be doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hoge and children, Jimmy, Cindy, Kenneth and Phil of Waco spent the Labor Day week end with Mr. Hoge's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bardwell.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Claims He Knows Just Why Chinese Farmers Fail To Meet The Production Goals

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek writes about Chinese farming this week. At least, we think that's what he's writing about.

Dear Editor: Everybody is supposed to be polite to Mr. Khrushchev on his visit to the United States, even if he is a Russian Communist dictator, but nobody has said we had to be polite to the Chinese Communists, and I was reading an article last night that made me laugh at how dumb the Chinese Communists are.

As I understand it, a few years ago the Communist bosses over there decided they were going to show the Chinese farmers how to farm, so they reorganized the whole business. What they did was throw all the farmers in "communes," this is, herd farmers in groups of around 5,000 into one place, build barracks for them, and run farming like it was a military operation.

What the Chinese bureaucrats failed to realize is that you can't throw people together in close quarters with any success. Any big city proves that.

Also, they must have been working on the theory that a farmer lives in the country because he can't afford to live in town. They're wrong. Actually, these days, very few people can afford to live in either place, town or country, but the way I see it, you can fail to make ends meet a lot more privately in the country.

I don't know about those Chinese farmers, other than that the news has leaked out they aren't happy about being herded up in barracks and agricultural production is far short of the goals the bosses set up, but the reason I live out here on this Johnson grass farm instead of in a big city is not because I couldn't swing city life if I tried. It's not because there's not room enough there for me. There's not room enough for the people already there, but that has no bearing on it. Cities keep on getting bigger anyway.

The Chinese Communists have another think coming if they believe they can improve agriculture by putting farmers in towns.

I've seen lots of farmers move to town, but it didn't help their farming ability. Most of them wound up becoming barbers or bankers or grocery clerks or merchants or bookkeepers or they ran for office. Of course I know some city people own farms, but generally speaking they're not causing the agricultural surplus-

New Publication On Cotton Root Rot Available

One of the most destructive cotton diseases in Texas is cotton root rot. It is not unusual for over 50 percent of plants in a cotton field to be killed by the disease in certain areas. On an average, the percent yield reduction in cotton is approximately equal to half the percentage of plants killed. In some wet years, the disease reduces the potential average yield by 25 percent in the Blackland Prairie.

Dr. L. S. Bird, associate professor of plant pathology, Texas A & M says that many years of research have found six practices a farmer can use to reduce root rot losses. They are: deep-plow badly infested areas, grow resistant crops in rotation, turn under large tonnages of organic matter, produce early cotton fertilizer properly, and avoid excessive planting rates.

A combination of these practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results, Bird says. Where recommended practices have been carried out over a period of years, root rot damage was reduced from 75 percent to 5 percent or less. Combinations of practices to use vary in different areas of the state, he adds.

Cotton root rot occurs over all of Texas except the Panhandle and High Plains. It also occurs in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nevada, Utah and Louisiana. It is prevalent in highly fertile, calcareous, alkaline soils. The disease flourishes with moderate moisture and is suppressed under very dry or wet conditions. It is also unable to survive where the lowest temperatures are 10 degrees below zero.

Bird and extension specialists Harlan Smith and Fred Elliott are authors of a new publication released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service titled "Root Rot Losses of Cotton Can be Reduced." This publication is available from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Ask for MP - 361.

The happiness of your life depends upon the quality of your thoughts.

Look for men (in the Legislature) who can think for themselves," urges this former Texas Secretary of State, speaking to more than 600 rural electric leaders in Houston August 27. "We want first-class government for Texas," says Tom Reavley, now an Austin attorney, "not clandestine control by any group—not even our own group."

Under 17, Over 65 Get Exemptions To Hunt And Fish

Exempt fishing permits are not required of all fishermen under 17 and over 65 years, according to the fiscal director, Texas Game and Fish Commission. "These are only courtesy cards, more or less," said the director. "Certified drivers' licenses or other legal documents are just as valid."

With the exception of deer hunters, the same holds true for exempt hunting licenses. Anyone in the same age group must have exempt licenses when hunting deer because of the license tags that must be fastened on the deer kill.

Persons residing on their property who wish to hunt on this property must have an exempt license. This license is not valid for any other piece of property, however. If you do not reside on the property, you will need a regular residence license. Persons under 17 and over 65 need only the one (age exempt) license in all cases, but only if they hunt deer. Otherwise, any valid identification will do just as well.

It is not necessary to send applications to the Austin office. All regional offices, which are located in our larger cities, can provide exempt hunting and fishing permits. "To save time," said the director, "send your applications to the nearest regional office, or contact the local game warden. In every case provide valid identification with your request."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

A lot of people feel that the tax laws are not fair. Somehow or other this feeling seems highest around income tax paying time when you have to shell out those dollars you may have saved for something else.

Internal Revenue employees have a very serious job in trying to collect all the tax each taxpayer owes as well as helping taxpayers to pay no more than they owe. These people are trained to determine how much you owe under a fair interpretation of the law as passed by Congress. They collect the dollars belonging to Uncle Sam and try to make sure that you keep the dollars that belong to you. All of us can hope that they do a good job. It makes the tax law fairer for all.

Do not resent growing old — many are denied the privilege.
