Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

If Thanksgiving comes, can Christmas be far behind?

And that's what's happening. The traditional turkey day, with and without cranberries, has come and gone and there's just about 17 shopping days left until Christmas.

Munday is beginning to take on the holiday dress this week, with merchants putting in Monday dressing up their store windows, and workmen stringing out the Christmas lights and getting them ready for installation.

Another evidence of the forthcoming holiday was seen Monday, too, when the Santa Claus Mail Box was placed on the lawn just south of the city hall. There the kiddies are invited to drop their Santa Claus letters expressing all their want's in a message to old St. Nick.

Letters addressed only to Santa Claus should be placed in this mail box. The box was erected for the first time last year, and sometime during the holiday season a letter that was addressed to someone in Dallas was placed in the box. We suppose it reached its destination, for when it was found it was mailed at the proper place — the U. S. Post Office.

We're not stumping against the post office, but Santa Claus letters placed in Santa's mail box won't need a postage stamp. By special agreement with Santa, we tote a key to the mail box and can pick up those letters and publish them in our paper before they finally reach Santa — and in time to fill those Christmas orders for the kiddies.

And speaking of Thanksgiving, the day usually presents a problem for us — what to do or where to go. With just the day off we don't try to journey to the homes of kin for the turkey feed, and with just the two of us in our household, we don't indulge in preparing the big bird and then nibbling on him until Christmas.

This time we did something different. In company with the H. F. Jungman, we journeyed to Abilene and had our Thanksgiving feed at a cafeteria. Then out to Fort Phantom Lake for our first view of The Fisharama — the fishing barge that has been erected on the lake. There, sheltered from the blustery norther, we indulged in exercising minnows for a while. It seems our fishing operations lately result only in giving the minnows some swimming exercise.

When the owner saw where we were from, he informed us that he formerly lived in Goree and Rule and named over a number of people that he knew quite well, among whom were the R. L. Ratliffs, the J. H. Bardwells, the Goodson Seliers, and others. By way of introduction, we learned that he is John L. Williams.

"Fish in comfort the year around," is the slogan of The Fisharama. It's air-conditioned in the summer and heated in the winter, it opens from 5 a.m. until 12 p.m. on week days and at 1 p.m. on Sundays. We never could fish in comfort very long any place or in any weather when the fish weren't biting, and for that reason we began to grow uncomfortable after a while.

It seems that lots of people went places and did things for Thanksgiving, and the lucky ones were those who were off duty for the remainder of the week, made their journeys and returned home without a serious accident.

Something to think about: Those supposed to be in the know have predicted a water shortage in the future for several years. The other night we heard a news report in which Senator Kerr of Oklahoma is credited as saying that in the next 20 years this nation will need three times as much water as it needs today.

J. J. Collier, 80 Ex-Mail Carrier At Vera, Passes

Juriah J. Collier, 80, ex-mail carrier at Vera and resident of Knox County for many years, passed away at 5:30 a.m. Sunday in Memorial Hospital at San Angelo. He had been ill for the past 18 months and in a serious condition for eight days prior to his death.

Mr. Collier was born September 30, 1879, at Fatchiff, in Houston County. He moved to Vera in 1909, where he lived until 1953, when he moved to Winters to make his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Randolph.

He served the Vera community as a rural mail carrier for 35 years, retiring a short time before moving to Winters. He had been a deacon in the First Baptist Church at Vera, and held the same post in the Winters Baptist Church.

Mr. Collier married the former Clara Whitley on January 28, 1906, at Ratcliff.

Two funeral services were held. The first one was held at Winters at 10 a.m. Monday from the First Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. B. T. Shumake, officiating. Banquet Honors Munday Moguls

The Munday Mogul football team was honored recently with a banquet in the grade school cafeteria with 165 attending.

The entertainment for the evening consisted of a trio composed of Joan Cude, Shirley Booe and Karen Johnson. Sara Offutt gave a piano selection. The cheerleaders and several members of the pep club gave a skit entitled "The Three Speeds." Shirley Howrey gave a pantomime.

Cheerleader, Sandra Harper, introduced the guest speaker, Coach Jess Stiles of Arlington. In his speech, he told the boys their future was not going to be handed to them but they must earn it. He told them not to stop their training just because the football season was over; not to look back on the past season but to the future ones and start now to be champions. "Sacrifice a little, the team comes first," he concluded.

Lions Christmas Tree Sale Opens Here On Tuesday

Arrival of the trees for the Lions Club's annual Christmas tree sale came about Monday, and the trees were placed on display Tuesday. The trees are varied in sizes and priced according to size. They are of much better quality and variety than last year's group.

Hoyt Gray is again assisting the Lions in this sale and is on duty when members of the club cannot be present.

This annual sale is sponsored by the Munday Lions Club to raise funds for carrying out the club's worthy projects — the Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville, sight conservation and aid to needy children.

Those desiring trees for their Christmas decorations are urged to secure them early, while there is a wider variety of sizes to select from.

Postmaster Makes Annual Appeal For Early Mailing Of Christmas Packages

Postmaster Lee Haymes this week announced his annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign, and outlined plans for insuring delivery of all Christmas gifts and cards by Christmas Eve.

"Public cooperation," he said, "has been a key factor in moving Christmas mail on time in recent years, and I am hopeful that it will be even better this year."

The Postmaster urged patrons of the Munday Post office to start mailing Christmas packages now. Packages to distant places especially should be mailed as early as possible.

"This is also the week to prepare and mail your out-of-town Christmas cards," he said.

Mr. Haymes gave these pointers on the proper mailing of packages. "Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure that every package is tied with a strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

"If your article is of unusual size or bulk, check with the post office because there are restrictions on size and weight.

"It is also important to make sure that your package bears the correct mailing address and your return address. If you are sending your package to a large city be sure to include the addressee's zone number. Including the zone number in the address always will facilitate delivery in large cities. Zone numbers also should be used on Christmas cards and other mail to cities with postal zones.

"The address should be on the top of the package, and it should be carefully written or lettered. A piece of transparent cellophane tape placed over the address will usually prevent defacing it transit." It is also a good idea," Mr. Haymes said, "to include the address inside the package in case the outside address should become defaced.

"If you use Christmas stickers or seals, place them where they will not conflict with the address. Then, before you drop the package in the mail, be sure you have firmly affixed the proper postage."

The Postmaster reminded that the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time. A delay now will contribute to a serious pile-up, particularly in the larger post offices, as the holiday approaches.

All packages going to distant cities should be in the post office by December 10. Other mail should be sent on its way as soon as possible, and all local mail should be in the post office no more than a week or ten days later. The kind of cooperation would mean that all Christmas mail would be delivered on or before Christmas Eve, the Postmaster explained.

READY — To receive the kiddies' letters to Santa Claus is Santa's mail box which was erected on the city hall lawn last Monday. The box was used for the first time last year, but was too high for the small children to reach without assistance, so this year it was lowered and is within reach of the smaller tots.

Write your letters in care of The Munday Times and mail them to us, bring them in, or drop them in Santa's Mail Box which is located on the city hall lawn.

friends last Saturday night and Sunday

When the original Casa Manana was held in Fort Worth, a State department, almost en masse, attended one week end. When they checked up Sunday morning, one of the group was missing. Further checking revealed that he had imbibed freely, had given two officers a tussle and was now in the city jail.

So several of his colleagues, including two ladies, went to the police station to see him and to arrange for his release. When they were taken down the corridor, they peered through the bars into his cell. He was on the bunk, asleep. One of his friends called his name and the man awoke, blinked his eyes, saw the group on the other side of the bars and yelled, "Have they got you in jail? I'll get you out, right away!"

A reporter's life in the old days — and I suppose that is still the case — was seldom dull. A few of the events which I reported during my service on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram were the Southern Baptist Convention; the recovery of the bodies of three men, victims of murder, from the Trinity; directing the activities of a six man staff during two runs of the Fat Stock Show and the murder of two State highway patrolmen by Clyde and Bonnie.

Another little assignment which was handed me was to get the names of all who attended a dinner signaling the opening of the Texas and Pacific Railway Station. How did I try to do it? Posted myself at the door and stopped the guests long enough to jot down the names. There were over 300. I got 'em, too.

Perhaps this is just a legend. The story goes that, many years ago, three men held up a train. Besides seizing the valuables in the express car, the bandits lined up the crew and passengers, some 50 or more, and robbed them, too. The three were caught and the prosecuting attorney persuaded the grand jury to indict the robbers — not once each but 50 times making the robbery of each person a separate offense.

Then he tried them on one charge, got a conviction, permitted them to plead guilty in the other 49 cases with the terms to run concurrently — and, though conducting only three trials, he collected a fee for 150 cases! It's just a legend — maybe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore are announcing the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Charlotte Jane, to James Otto Kelly, the 3rd, of Houston. Mr. Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kelly, 9233 Carnay, Houston.

Miss Hannah and Mr. Kelly are graduates of the University of Texas and Miss Hannah attended Hardin Simmons University in Abilene. Mr. Kelly is presently attending the University of Houston School of Law.

Plans are being made for the wedding to take place February 12, which will be the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hannah.

ON BEHALF OF THE AGED

A short time ago the Oregon State Medical Society's house of delegates held its 85th annual meeting. And it is significant that the first day of a three-day conference was principally devoted to the health care of the aged, and particularly the aged with low incomes.

In addition to being significant, this was typical — the medical societies of all the states are and have been devoting major efforts to improving health care for elderly people. And such improvement is high on the working agenda of the national organization, the American Medical Association.

One very important move is the development of low cost prepaid medical - surgical insurance for people past 65 with small resources. This is made possible by the agreement and willingness of doctors to adjust their fees downward when providing care for these people.

A committee of the Oregon State Medical Society also made a report to the delegates on another typical activity—that is, its close cooperation with the state welfare commission. The two must work hand in glove, in view of the great numbers of elderly people who now are sustained by some form of state relief.

American medicine, to sum up, is determined that the American people — old or young, well-to-do or poorly off — shall get the best medical service on earth.

POLITICAL THUNDER FOR 1960

Too often political programs are not based on realities. A good example is found in legislation dealing with labor questions and wages. With a presidential election year ahead it is a top card. The fact that jobs depend first on operating industries is given secondary consideration. The drive for a higher national minimum wage law goes on. It makes no difference how high the wage is already. The fact that conditions vary from state to state, and from business to business, is waved aside — it's not good political thunder.

The present national minimum wage was recently raised from 75 cents to $1 an hour. Now the drive is on to raise it to $1.25—the next step will be $1.50 or $2.00 and on up. Unskilled persons will find it harder and harder to get work where they can learn a trade while being paid.

Automation will be given a further boost.

It will pay the people to recognize a few of the realities today instead of being fooled by political hot air. For a little while at least give wages a chance to advance normally due to experience and production ability.

HIGH FINANCE IN PUBLIC FUNDS

The following editorial is reprinted from the Joplin, Missouri, Globe:

"Congressman Bruce Alder of Texas made a daring speech . . . in which he advocated abolition of the Rural Electrification Administration. His theory was that it has fulfilled its original mission by providing electric power for more than 95 per cent of the nation's farms, and that fully half of its power now goes to industries and non-farm homes in competition with tax-paying private enterprise.

"Of course, this isn't a new argument and Congress isn't about to abolish REA.

"What interests us was Congressman Alder's reference to a specific case in Texas concerning present-day REA high financing. He said a Texas electric cooperative borrowed money from the government at 2 per cent, and for which the government paid 4 per cent or more, and then lent it to a private company at 3 per cent to build a gas pipeline to serve a tax-free REA generating plant to supply subsidized power.

"No wonder managing the national debt is a headache."

COLUMBUS, WISC., REPUBLICAN: "The big laugh of the week should be labeled the House passage of a bill approving an additional 1c tax on gasoline so that the federal road construction program may go on. The 'big' catch comes in that the 1c tax is supposed to be in force for only 22 months, beginning with this September 1.

"Most of us have been around this world enough to know the 'folly' of any tax put on by the Federal government getting so 'tight' a treatment, even if so stipulated."

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: "A great deal of our school trouble stems from the persistent and completely fallacious presumption that public education can be measured by the dollars spent more than by the actual results obtained."

FARM-CITY WEEK

The period from Nov. 20 to 26 was observed in Texas, as elsewhere, as Farm-City Week in a renewed effort to bring about a closer understanding of farm problems on the part of our people who are not so close to the soil.

Kiwanis International served as the coordinating agency for the National Grange, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the American Farm Bureau Federation in setting up local observances and meetings for a mutual exchange of information and opinion.

From the farm viewpoint, the week offered exceptional opportunities for correcting misinformation and misconceptions about what is happening in American agriculture. Again and again, all over Texas, farm spokesmen were emphasizing the following five points in a determined campaign to get the city viewpoint back into proper focus:

1. Food prices are not high as a result of farm programs. In fact, food prices, in terms of man hours required to earn the family food budget, are lower today than ever in history.

2. Farmers do not receive large government handouts, as recently highly publicized articles concerning individual payments under Commodity Credit indicates. These are the rare exceptions, and do not represent the average American farmer.

3. Farmers are not paid for soil conservation practices that are unnecessary, but, in fact, are helped to preserve the productivity of the land for future generations of Americans to insure our national strength in the years ahead.

4. Contrary to many reports notwithstanding, agriculture is more important today than ever before in history. Approximately 40 per cent of our nation's population is supported by agriculture in production, marketing, processing, transportation and services.

5. The welfare of our country, now and in the future, is dependent upon a healthy and effective agriculture.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

A San Antonio firm exposes automobile piston rings to a radioactivity isotope. Later, ring wear is calculated by measuring radioactivity in the engine oil.

In Houston a commercial art firm goes original sketches with radioactive inks. Then, by pressing the drawing against photographic paper, they get a finely detailed copy truer than a photographic print, cheaper and more precise than lithography.

Texas industries are using isotopes to measure life expectancy of cutting tools. Botanists are checking amounts of phosphate absorbed by growing plants. Physicians use isotopes to destroy tumors and to locate other body abnormalities.

All of which indicates that radioactivity has grown right out of the pages of science fiction into everyday life, putting the State Department of Health up to its figurative ears in the business of keeping tabs on radioactivity's phenomenal growth as an industrial and medical tool.

The Department, as part of the tedious task of registering all radiation-producing devices used in Texas, has files on more than 4,000 users, from mammoth industrial concerns to private individuals. Files have accumulated since 1956 when regulations were adopted to cope with the snowballing use of radiation equipment.

Most names in the file are physicians and dentists who use x-ray and fluoroscopic devices. Any Texas doctor can request an equipment survey for radiation hazards. Departmental engineers will check it out from anode to x-ray.

Four nuclear reactors are operating in Texas now, and two more are under construction. Conair in Fort Worth operates two, and A and M College and Rice Institute operate one each. A and M is constructing another one, and one is being set up on Texas Tech campus in Lubbock. All are subjects to Board of Health regulations.

It takes more than whim to get an isotope license. First the Atomic Energy Commission must be convinced the risk is good. Some 400 AEC licenses for isotopes alone have been issued in Texas to date.

Then the operation must be registered with State Health Department occupational health engineers and periodically inspected by them. If isotopes are lost, spilled or otherwise mishandled, details of the incident must immediately be reported.

The Atomic Age has brought boom business for health department engineers. And it will get busier as things progress.

WRITTEN FARM LEASES PREVENT DISPUTES

At this time of year, many landlords and tenants are thinking about farm rental arrangements for 1950. While some operate from year to year on the basis of verbal agreements regulated largely by local customs, written leases are better and may save disagreement and hard feelings between the parties.

Farming is a business and should be conducted in a businesslike manner for best success. Rental contracts involve a full year's work by the tenant and possibly thousands of dollars for both parties. A few dollars spent on a properly drawn lease is good business economy.

A farm lease is not a simple paper. Printed lease forms often turn out to be traps if not understood, or if not properly executed. A farmer-tenant contract is intricate and of such importance to both parties concerned that amateur draftsmanship is risky.

Fixing of cash rent or designating the length of term are relatively simple. Yet, even in these matters, ambiguity or incompleteness can cause bitter disputes and expensive lawsuits.

A loosely drawn property description may have consequences entirely unintended by either landlord or tenant. Where rent is to be based on acreage, an accurate description is doubly important.

In addition, there are legal rules to substitute for some omissions in written leases. For example, a holdover by the tenant may automatically renew the contract if the lease is silent on the subject. It is as important to know the results of omissions as to know the courts' interpretation of the language used.

There are many matters which should be covered by a properly drawn lease. For instance, if a tenant is to farm on a share basis, care should be taken to define what expenses are to be paid by the parties as well as what shares are to be taken out. A lease should cover such things as who is to make repairs, what land is to be cropped, whether the tenant can cut timber, whether loss of a building by fire or other cause frees the tenant, or whether the landlord must accept a sub-tenant.

One great cause of difficulty with leases is blind faith on the part of the persons involved that all differences of opinion can be worked out. Poor memories as to verbal agreements can cause disputes between persons even though they are both honest and generous.

Many of the possibilities that should be covered by a properly drawn lease will not occur to inexperienced persons. The renting of land deserves a written contract, and it is a contract too important to be entrusted to anyone other than an expert.

Musick Lists Six Hot Tips For Cold Weather Driving

AUSTIN — Six hot tips for cold weather driving were offered motorists today by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association.

Based on scientific research by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards under actual driving conditions and during tests conducted by professional drivers and engineers, the cardinal rules for safe winter driving are listed as follows.

1. You are the key to your own safety. Driving conditions definitely are less favorable in winter. It's up to you to winterize your car, winter-wise your driving techniques, and determine to do your best to avoid accidents.

2. Rely on good tires and tire chains. Have good tires. You may prefer snow tires for winter, but you still should carry reinforced tire chains for the more severe conditions which can and will develop from time to time. Even with the help of snow tires, or the much greater help of reinforced tire chains, you should reduce speed on snow and ice.

3. Keep windshield and windows clear. Be sure your wiper blades are in good condition, and that wiper arms have adequate pressure to sweep snow and sleet off rather than slide over it. See that heater and defroster are working smoothly. Clear snow and ice from the windshield and all windows of your car before venturing onto the highway. Ventilate, to keep your windows from fogging.

4. Get the "feel" of the road. In order to avoid unintentional sliding or spinning of your wheels, try the brakes or gently press the accelerator while driving slowly and as traffic and highway conditions permit. Then adjust speed to a comfortable, safe rate governed by the existing road and weather conditions.

5. Follow at a safe distance. Keep a good margin between your car and the vehicle ahead. It takes chainless cars from three to 12 times more distance to stop on snow and ice than it does on dry pavement.

6. Pump your brakes. A pumping action permits you to maintain better steering control on ice or slippery snow. A fast application and release of the brakes—one or two times per second—will give you short intervals of maximum braking effort separated by short intervals of controlled steering while wheels are rolling.

CHIT-CHAT FROM THE LAUNDROMAT

Want to know what to use to remove that blotch of stain from the rug? that mildew and rust from towels? make those yellowish-white clothes white? Find out at the Laundromat when you wash!

Get our recipe for ICE BOX FRUIT CAKE!!! Make some... Pack it into the glass goblet you received at the Laundromat... a delicious and original Christmas gift is yours with a minimum of effort... ready for that special person.

Don't be counted as one who is missing out enjoying washing in machines that give the safest wash in town. Yes sir, clothes put into a Westinghouse Laundromat are clothes put into Machines that are HOSPITAL SANITARY. Have you ever thought how important this is? Every time you start your washing and everytime you finish your washing your machine is cleaner than a brand new one — without human hands having to touch the inside to scrub and wipe it out with a used cloth. No other machine has this merit which is a safeguard against contamination... so you run no risk as you do in other types TRY THIS TEST: Pour 2 cups of sand into the washer with your clothes. When the cycle is finished, examine your clothes, look and feel in the bottom of the washer. This is the top test — did you find a machine as clean as new at the end of the wash? Was it self-cleaning in steamy hot soft water or will human hands need to clean it? No wonder Laundromat users have PEACE OF MIND when washing at a public laundry. Water kept 150 to 160 degrees at all times is so hot it will kill common germs in 1 minute. Only at the Laundromat can you find ALL-HOT machines which wash the entire wash in hot water if you wish it that way.

There's lots going on... don't miss out on all the good things plus our Christmas favors coming up soon. Keep Clean, Be Smart!!!

Knox Prairie Philosopher Offers To Accept Foreign Aid Just To Get Used To The Idea - That Is In Case!

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek may be a head of the times this week, which is a switch from normally being behind the times.

J. A.

Dear Editor: One of my favorite schemes to restore self-confidence in the world has been a plan to send American diplomats abroad to try to get some foreign aid for the United States.

This wouldn't result in any foreign aid for us, but it might get over the idea to all the countries we're helping that eventually the well may run dry and they'd better start digging themselves. It doesn't hurt to get rocked back on your heels once in a while.

If we do try such a plan, I hope the foreign countries sending aid to me will be far-sighted enough to use the latest plan we've adopted for them.

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night which I brought home from town to put under my mattress to keep out the cold, the United States has re-

Weinert Blasts Miami Warriors, 51-18 To Win Third Straight Regional Crown

There was thanksgiving in Weinert on Thanksgiving day after the Weinert Bulldogs blasted the Miami Warriors, 51-18, in a regional six-man football game at Haskell for a third straight regional crown for the Bulldogs.

Swaner led his crew in putting together its 34th consecutive win with three touchdown scampers of 60, 70 and 58 yards.

Touchdowns were even at the half, but Weinert led, as it did through the game, by 21-18. The margin was an extra point run and a two-point kick after touchdown.

Swaner broke the game wide open in the third quarter with a 58-yard touchdown run after taking a handoff from Chesley Forehand, one on a pitchout from Forehand on his own 29-yard line and the other by intercepting a pass on Weinert's 10.

Miami did not threaten after the half. The warriors put their first scoring drive together early in the second quarter, starting on their own 27-yard line. Halfback Jim Bowers punched it over from the 11, but his extra point pass failed.

The next score for the Warriors came in the same quarter taking the ball on the Miami 25. Halfback Larry Anderson drove it over from the three after four plays. A kick by Bowers failed.

With 10 second left in the half, fullback Paul Thompson ran over from the Weinert 10 for Miami's final score of the day after the Warriors had taken a Bulldog fumble on the 29.

Bill Rainey, Bulldog tailback, kicked the extra point after swaner ran over Weinert's first score early in the first quarter. The next score at the start of the second quarter was on Swaner's interception, and Rainey ran over the extra point.

Rainey ran up the middle 26 yards for the third Bulldog tally, and the extra point run by Swaner failed. Rainey attempted to run the extra point after Swaner's third counter, but failed.

Forehand connected with David Earle on a 32-yard pass for the Bulldogs' second half-time score early in the fourth quarter. A kick by Rainey was good.

Two more points were tacked onto Weinert's score card when Miami halfback Tommy Seitz was tackled behind his own goal for a safety.

Later in the last quarter, an 8-yard pass from Forehand to Don Cunningham, end, was a tally. Rainey's kick failed. The final Bulldog score came with about 30 seconds to go when Forehand passed five yards to end Keith Hobbs, and Rainey again failed to kick the extra points.

Game Poachers Take Big Chance Before The Courts

Illegal hunters this year have been fined maximum penalties in most cases when they get before the courts. The director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission has warned that wardens practically every night apprehend several jacklight hunters in the deer country. In most of these instances they have seized the kill, which is delivered to a charitable institution. The hunters are then taken before the county court, which now has jurisdiction in these cases.

Fines up to $1,000 each have been assessed in several cases within the last two months, according to the director. "Some hunters just simply don't seem to be able to stay on the right side of the fence, and do their shooting hours," the director said.

Some of them get away, but enough are caught to spread a word that illegal hunting is very expensive. The courts in most instances have been levying maximum fines and revoking hunting licenses.

Game wardens this year have had exceptionally fine cooperation from other enforcement agencies, according to the director. In one case, city policemen looking for car thieves found illegal deer hanging in a garage. They notified wardens. In other cases, a number of Highway Patrolmen have observed persons with illegal kills, or have heard shooting on the highway at night. They notified game wardens via car radio and in some instances arrests were made. Landowners also have assisted the wardens in apprehending night hunters and hunters who have made illegal kills of doe.

"Our wardens are very busy at this time of the year, but they are gradually cutting down on the number of violations. The courts have been very helpful in assessing maximum penalties for those who kill deer illegally."

Grazing Management Influence Value Of Winter's Crops

Do you get your money's worth from winter grazing crops?

If the answer is no, perhaps changes are needed in winter grazing practices. Extension Agronomist John Box points out that when small grains, grass, and legume mixtures are properly grazed, they can supply the forage needed to step up the milk production from a dairy herd. The extra milk means larger milk checks.

However, many dairymen make the mistake of letting the entire herd graze as soon as a little green growth begins in the pasture. When this happens, the crop is grazed to the ground in a few days and future growth may be impaired. Box says closely grazed young plants recover very slowly since the root system has not developed and there is little leaf surface.

New growth on pasture plants is produced at the expense of previously stored organic food in the plant and over-grazed plants cannot develop sufficient leaf area to produce food for storage. Box recommends that grazing be controlled so that enough leaf area is left for food production and vegetative growth.

He says it's best to keep cows off of winter crops until there is enough growth to provide continuous grazing for at least two hours each day or until the plants are about six inches high. Even cool season crops stop growing when temperatures drop below 50 degrees F., says Box.

The agronomist points out that dairy cows grazing two or three hours daily and fed high quality hay will produce about as much milk as cows grazing all day. He also warns against grazing water-soaked winter pastures. This practice can damage a pasture. He advises dairymen to use their good judgment about grazing winter pastures during wet weather.

A good winter pasture, concludes Box, will provide a cheap source of feed, can be a labor saver, a means for increasing production and can be planted on land that is not always desirable for growing other crops.
