Rhineland Takes Big End Score Against Munday

Rhineland took the big end of a 16-9 score at Rhineland Tuesday afternoon in a pre-scheduled game against Munday. The new recruits on the Munday team demonstrated that they are a dangerous aggregation, even against seasoned players, and they had Dutch Kuehler and his boys very busy to keep the upper hand in the argument.

Munday Takes One In Ninth Inning From Weinert Lads

Munday took the big end of an 8-7 score from Weinert Sunday afternoon at Weinert. Munday looked like a loser until the last half of the ninth inning when Aaron Wallace came to bat and pounded out a home-run and broke up a perfect day for Skipper Newt Therwhanger and his fans.

2$25 Reward Offered For Conviction of Burglars in County

Sheriff C. E. Elliott was in Munday first of the week and authorized The Times to say that he would give a reward of $25.00 to anyone giving information that would lead to the arrest and conviction of anyone on a charge of burglary anywhere in Knox county, and in offering this reward Mr. Elliott stated that it was his aim to put a stop to the numerous burglaries that are being committed over the county. Mr. Elliott states that he will cooperate with any citizen in gathering evidence and will make arrests, and all he asks of the citizens is that they furnish him with information that will lead to arrests and convictions. This offer covers the burglary of any residence or business house in the county.

Mr. Elliott states that he proposes to pay the reward out of his own pocket, as he is determined to stamp out the practice that is becoming all too common in the county.

Munday Schools Will Begin Term On September 7

Some few days ago the school board announced that school would not open until October 1. At that time the board could not see how it would be possible to pay the teachers salaries the first two or three months. After this announcement was made some interested citizens circulated a petition calling for the signature of those willing to pay all or a part of their taxes on or before October 1. This petition was circulated for the purpose of assuring the payment of enough taxes by October 1 to pay salaries the first month. The promised revenue of this petition made it possible for the board to change the date of opening from October 1 to September 7. The board sincerely appreciates this move on the part of the citizens of Munday.

The first day will be used for faculty meeting and registration. The teachers will report at 8:30 o'clock Monday, September 7, and the students and patrons will assemble at 1:30 o'clock at the Community Auditorium. The public is sincerely invited to attend the opening exercises.

The board has done everything in its power to lower the cost of maintenance for the coming year. They have reduced teachers salaries, reduced the number of teachers, and have definite plans for eliminating as much of the incidental expense as possible. In addition to this they have reduced the taxable values of the district twenty per cent. They now ask for the hearty cooperation of the citizens of Munday in putting over a school program in spite of the financial depression that is being felt throughout the nation.

Farmers Favor Long Plan For Cotton Relief

A petition has been circulated during the week by John Ed Jones advocating the passage of the bill proposed by Gov. Long of Louisiana, which would prohibit the planting of any cotton during 1932, and was signed by fifty-eight farmers, representing a total acreage of 14,377 acres, and the petition has been forwarded to Gov. Sterling at Austin. The petition urges the governor to call a special session of the legislature and pass the measure suggested by Gov. Long.

While many farmers and business men declare that the measure is very drastic, they feel that drastic measures are absolutely necessary to save the South from bankruptcy, and they feel they can realize no great degree of relief from any measure that is not drastic and revolutionary in its nature, and proponents of the Long measure contend that if it should be passed by the fourteen cotton-growing states of the South the present cotton crop will bring as much money as two crops will bring if drastic measures of curtailing acreage are not enacted into law.

Charley Browning Brings In First Bale of Cotton

Munday's first bale for the new season came in Wednesday afternoon and was brought in by C. H. Browning from the Bowen estate farm and was ginned by the Pendleton Gin Company. The bale weighed 485 and graded strict middling. It was purchased by the Pendleton Gin Company for $6.55. The bale was ginned free of charge and a premium of $15.00 was paid by the Munday Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce is this season paying two premiums, $15.00 for the first bale and $10.00 for the second bale, the old custom of circulating a subscription list having been abolished.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Oliver left Thursday for Alvarado, Texas, where Mr. Oliver has accepted a position with the Katy railway.

New Residence Being Erected At Rhineland

Tuesday morning, August 25, the second clinic was held in the school auditorium. Dr. Stover was again assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Farrington and Dr. Taylor. The next clinic will be held Tuesday, Sep. 1. Mr. Leo Kuehler is having a bungalow house built in the western part of town. The home will add greatly to the appearance of Rhineland.

Another thrilling baseball game between the High School team and the exes was played last Sunday, but this time the school team showed its superiority by downing their opponents 13 to 11. The school boys hopped all over the offerings of "Bill" Kuehler in the early innings to pile up a big lead and continued the onslaught on Friske and Stengel who succeeded him. A. Kuehler again twirled for the school team and except for a brief letup in the fifth inning, when nine runs were scored off his delivery, his pitching was almost invincible. Battles for the school team were A. Kuehler and C. Wilde, while W. Kuehler, Friske, and E. Stengel pitched and E. Diersing caught for the losers.

Friday afternoon the members of the Senior Civic Club, chartered by Miss Mary de Aquirre, motored to Seymour for the purpose of viewing a model dairy. Mr. McDonald, proprietor of the dairy, gave a very informational and instructive demonstration of the cooling of milk.

The members of the club are interested in the dairy industry and the club is grateful to Mr. McDonald who was so willing to take the visitors through his plant. The members express their thanks for the courtesy rendered unto them. The entire senior class reported an enjoyable trip.

Again we are proud of our wide awake school board who are ever willing to apply themselves to the interests of our school. A lavatory was installed in the hall. The entire student body is proud of this installation. We wish to thank the trustees for their efforts to promote sanitation in our school. Mrs. John Peyton and children of Scotland, Texas, are visiting relatives and friends in this community.

Help Is Needed To Clear School Grounds of Weeds

Men and boys are requested to gather at the school building on Monday morning and assist in the clearing of the grounds preparatory for the opening of school, and all are requested to bring hoes, rakes and any other implements that might be needed. The school board is asking that the citizens do this work in acting in the interest of rigid economy, which policy will be necessary in order that the school term may run as long as possible, they feel that patrons of the school and boys who are students in the school will gladly contribute this labor. They will have an abundance of ice lemonade to serve to those who assist in the work.

Methodist Urged To Attend Revival Services Sunday

Sunday School classes will meet as usual at the Methodist Church Sunday morning according to the pastor, Rev. John H. Crowe. There will be no preaching services held and the membership of the church is urged to attend the final services of the revival being held at the tabernacle. The board of stewards of the church holds its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday at 8 p. m. All stewards are urged to be present.

Jewel Marie Hoffman, who received severe burns about the face when escaping gas from the stove in the school house became blinded, is improving nicely. The accident occurred during the first clinic held here. Someone turned on the gas jet leading to the oven, thinking this necessary to permit the gas to reach the plates above. Little Jewel Marie was standing near the stove when the explosion occurred, which singed her hair and seared her face. The glasses which she was wearing at the time saved her eyes from probable permanent injury.

Great Revival Draws Capacity Audiences at Big Community Hall

Supt. Riley Tells Cause of Failures and Their Remedy

Because of the number of pupil failures in our school last year, and because of some reports that have been circulated in regard to same, I have prepared the following on the subject of failures:

The largest loss resulting from failure is the loss to the pupil. That loss cannot be measured in dollars and cents. When a pupil fails, there is a danger that he will become discouraged, and as a result, quit school at the first opportunity. If he remains in school, he is not likely to go at his work with a burning zeal. Moreover, he is likely to develop an inferiority complex and to harbor a grudge against the teacher and the school—and maybe against society. That "nothing succeeds like success" is as true of pupil progress as of any other phase of life to which the remark may be applied. When a pupil fails at school there is a real danger that he is preparing, or being prepared, for failure in life. In view of these considerations, teachers, parents and school officials should be particularly zealous in their attempts at eliminating failure.

Some authorities have classified the cause of pupil failure into the four following groups: Those due to the child; those due to the teachers; those due to the school and those due to out-of-school environment.

In my opinion the last of the above named causes can be cited as the chief reason for so many failures in our school last year. It is now generally recognized that the school cannot do for the pupil all that it might do unless there is close cooperation between it and the home. The large importance of the home in the educational program is comprehended when it is realized that the school has jurisdiction during the remainder of the time which is by far the major portion of it. If the pupil does not sleep enough, fails to do any home study, is absent or tardy frequently or has too many outside duties, he is not likely to make the largest amount of progress in his school work—indeed he may fail in his work.

May we have the cooperation of every parent in establishing the proper relation between the home and the school in order to eliminate this great cause of pupil failure in our school.

Yours sincerely,
H. H. Riley, Supt. of School

To Students Who Failed

Some time ago announcement was made that pupils failing in geometry and algebra last year would be given an opportunity to take an examination before the opening of the fall term. This examination will be given at the high school building at 2:00 o'clock Friday evening, August 28.

GOVERNOR LAUDS INCREASED USE FOR COTTON

Austin. — Organizations formed in Texas and other southern states to encourage and stimulate the wider use of cotton are "on the right track to render a very definite and tangible good to the cotton industry," in the opinion of Governor Ross Sterling.

The governor urged not only financial support but co-operation in the purposes of the organization — the use of cotton. His statement follows:

"To my mind a very significant note was struck from time to time during the series of conferences between our people and delegates from other states regarding the cotton situation held here recently. It was this: Use more cotton at home.

"On its face this idea may not appear to have any great bearing on what is generally admitted to be a grave condition of affairs, but in reality its adoption and application in purely legitimate fields, where the use of cotton represents sound business sense, means the saving of millions of dollars annually to the Southern States. In my opinion, we would use more cotton, not merely this year as a means of helping us out of an emergency but next year.

"I think it is becoming clearer to everyone, and certainly to those who have given the matter study, that in the very nature of things we are going to have to look more and more to our domestic market for the sale of our cotton. Every factor having a bearing on the situation points to this as an inevitable conclusion.

"Among other uses mentioned in the conference was cotton bagging for our cotton. The federal government has estimated that 200,000 bales of low grade cotton could be used in wrapping a normal crop. While this of itself is no small item, the mere removal of this quantity from the market almost loses significance in its ultimate effect which the experts tell us would be to increase the value of the balance of the crop by from $1.25 to $2.50 per bale, depending on the price at any given time.

"This means millions of dollars and it represents only one phase of the field that is now open to us. They tell us that cotton bags for food fertilizer, sugar and various food products would consume even more cotton than would be required in producing cotton bagging.

"I hope housewives everywhere, whether in city homes or on farms, will realize the import of this idea. They have always depended to the needs of ever emergency, and I believe their assistance will be forthcoming in this instance. They will be able to substitute cotton for hundreds of articles of clothing and household uses which formerly have been produced of other materials.

"Their support will insure the success of a movement to discard all worn-out mattresses and replace them with new cotton ones this fall. The adoption of this idea would also consume many thousands of bales of our new crop, thus cutting the enormous surplus by just others, the adoption of which will mean an enormous conservation of the south's wealth.

"I understand organizations have been formed in Texas and a majority of other cotton states, whose design and purpose is to promote increased uses of cotton at home. We are on the right track to render a very definite and tangible good to the cotton industry as a whole, and I hope our people will give the Texas organization every possible assistance. In saying this I do not mean merely giving a few dollars to the fund — which of course will be necessary to carry on the work — as I want to stress the importance and need for cooperation with the purpose of the organization — use more cotton.

Levee Simons of Austin is executive secretary of Texas division of the National Association for the Increased Use of Cotton.

Plight of Farmers Brings Opportunity

Today more than ever before probably in the history of this nation, the welfare of the farmer is being given more thought by men of affairs in every walk of life.

On the streets of Munday it is not unusual to find men discussing the present situation with regard to the farm. Agriculture in almost every section of the country is passing through a period of stress which is alarming, and which is bringing forth countless solutions for the problems which are confronting the farm and the farmer.

There is just cause for alarm. The farm is one source of the raw materials upon which industry in many forms depends for its existence. Tracing back to its final basis, all business and industry is dependent upon the natural resources of the nation. The stenographer who sits in the office of some big attorney, or business house, and powders her nose, with no concern whatever for the welfare of the farmer, will, in all probability, if she takes time to think will find that her earnings come first of all from the wealth produced on the farm.

So, very largely upon the farmers of this nation, depends much of its prosperity.

The farmers, however, have given very little thought to their own welfare. They have, in the majority of instances, the politicians have been the first to come to the forefront with suggestions — far suggestions which would cure the ills of all the farmers for all times.

This is naturally so, for every time the politician can get his name printed in connection with some scheme for the farm, and thereby evidence his great interest in the farmer, it means the possibility of more votes. Thus, his schemes are not given much to practicality, but more especially to gaining votes, insuring his election at the next casting of ballots. The farmers have listened to these plans and suggestions year in and year out. Not only have these been suggestions, but often the candidates, in order to secure the support of the farmers, have made promises which they know can never be fulfilled. The farmers have been assured assistance from the government. They have intentionally or unsuspectingly listened to the sirenlike songs from the vote seekers.

The farmer himself has drifted along with the tide, and gradually his condition has grown worse, until today he finds himself in an almost hopeless condition — at a point where it seems that no one is in a position to render him much aid. He has borrowed money on long terms from the government for the purchase of lands or for improving the land he already owned. He has allowed the interest to accumulate along with the principal, and he is in an almost hopeless financial condition. Many have given up in despair and gone to the city to seek other employment, and thus added to the distressed conditions all over the country.

Today, however, for a young man, the farm seems to offer a very bright prospect. Farm lands are at the lowest in value in years. By hard work and close living, a young farmer can within a few years, come back. He will not be able to accumulate any great amount of money, perhaps, but if by living at home, and making a little to sell, he will be able to gradually accumulate a competence which will enable him to keep himself and family in comfort.

His standard of living from this point on may have to be lowered a bit. That will be hard, but it will be necessary. He will not be able to take on too many obligations on installment payments. He can have comforts, however, and will in time be able to add to his bank account which will insure his safeguard against old age.

These farmers must understand that they alone hold the key to the situation. They must understand that little or no aid can be expected from outside sources. They must plan their own salvation, and work to an individual program. When he accomplishes this, and is willing to face the future on this basis, he can make the farm produce the wealth it should and thereby insure his future independence.

TEXAS HOSPITALITY
To find real cordiality one must go to Texas. The native of the Lone Star State greets the stranger within his midst not as is usually the case with open, begging palms, but with the outstretched hand of friendliness.
He may, it is true, separate you from your money in some subtle manner but if so, he does with a graciousness that is utterly disarming.
You are impressed first by the vastness of the land and next by the simple enthusiasm of its people. In Texas the inhabitant shows no signs of servility or superiority. He meets you always on the footing of absolute equality, whether you be rich or poor, or of high or low degree.
He will assume with almost childlike ingenuousness that you are as interested in his affairs as he is in yours. And he never stands upon ceremony or awaits an introduction. To the Texan, every man is his neighbor.
As you emerge from certain other sections of this land, where the fishy eyes of avarice and greed are always upon you, to enter Texas, is like coming from an alien into a friendly territory, because each man, whether he be traveling in Pierce Arrow or Ford, looks you straight in the eye, and regards you as he would a brother.
There is a charming frankness about all Texans that matches the sweep of those stupendous prairies and equals the limitless expanse of their clear, open sky. Much of the romance of the great Southwest is still exemplified in the lives of its people. The wide horizons of Texas are only exceeded by the great hearts of its men and women.
You may have been Germany and France and England, but until you have visited Texas and known Texas you should not consider yourself either well-traveled or well educated.—Knoxville (Tenn.) News Sentinel.

A FARMER'S PRAYER
An Illinois farmer wrote the following prayer and sent it to the Illinois Stat Journal for publication:
"Oh, Lord, I am thankful I am not like other folks; and yet I am no Pharisee. I am thankful I am not the owner of city real estate. I am thankful that I own no stock and bonds which I had bought; for guidance that kept me out of the speculative grain market. I have not drilled an oil well and I am thankful for that. It is good not to have to read the stock market quotations each morning before prayer and breakfast to learn how much poorer I am than I was the day before. I am pleased that I am not in retail merchandising with a bulging ledger of unpaid bills. I thank thee, O Lord, that I am not a laboring man without a job or in danger of losing it. I wear no white collar to the office, wondering whether I am to remain until night. I surely am fortunate that I am not a coal operator nor steel manufacturer nor a railroad official hunting trade where there is not trade.
I am only a poor farmer with 160 acres of Illinois gumbo, all paid for. Once it was worth more, but I didn't sell it and thank thee, I did not pay more at that price.
Give me, O Lord, my pigs and cows and chickens, my health and my strength and my faith. I am not making money but I am not losing so much that I face disaster and hunger. I live on three bounteous meals a day. These, thou hast provided me, whatsoever happens.
Once I looked with envy upon the life of my fellow citizens. I thought they lived in luxury and ease. This morning, O Lord, bless them and comfort them and give them divine grace to face their plight. May the day of upturn and better things come for all of us. I am grateful to thee for the small blessings that fall upon me and mine and my land. Forgive my sins and overlook my hypocrisy and my shortcomings and believe me, O Lord, I am content that I am not as others are."
Humorists can't always be good. The later Wickersham reports were not nearly so funny as the one on Prohibition.

WILL YOU SMILE
A Fluke
"I did the course in 79 yesterday," said a man proudly.
"I'm sorry," said his lunch companion.
"Sorry? Why?"
"Because from now on you're doomed to be off your game for the rest of your life."—Tatler.
Not Like Dad
"Are you going to be like your father when you grow up?" asked the minister of Bobbie.
"You bet I'm not," retorted the boy. "I'm going to be a rich man, so every time my kids ask me for a quarter I won't have to tell them I'm broke."—Cincinnati Enquirer.
Self-Accusing
Manicurist (seeing man with badly scratched face)—Oh, dear, I feel responsible for that poor

Appeal To Reason
Mrs. Kragg—I just know you are going out to spend the evening with some other woman.
Husband—Don't be foolish. I'm going out to get relief from one woman—think I'd spend my precious moments of freedom with another?—Montreal Star.

His Fervent Desire
The other day a Wall Street broker telephoned his house to say that he would not be home to dinner. The new English maid who took the call informed him that his wife was out.
In reply to his question as to her whereabouts, she said: "The madam informed me that she had an appointment with a psychoanalyst, sir."
"I hope so," was the rejoinder.—New York Sun.

A Timely Tip
A young man just out of college sought the advice of a hard-headed and successful business man.
"Tell me, please, how I should go about getting a start in the great game of business."
"Sell your wrist watch and buy an alarm clock," was the laconic reply.—Montreal Star.

Crime Story
He had choked her.
She was dead. There could be no doubt about that. He had listened to her dying gasp.
Yet in his anger he was not convinced. Fervently he kicked at her. To his amazement she gasped, spluttered and then began to hum softly.
"Just a little patience is all it takes, dear," remarked his wife from the rear seat.—Exchange.

Thought For Today
A little pick when hope burns low
A little laugh when life seems slow,
These are the things that wise men know.
I. Donohoo.

The One She Likes Best
The ladies were discussing an authorial-looking individual.
"Has he dedicated any of his books to his wife?"
"Only one."
"Which one?"
"His bank book."—Passing Show.

Today's Preparation Is Tomorrow's Progress
FORWARD-LOOKING towns must consider their power supply. Is it reliable? Is it ample? And can it be increased quickly when industrial growth calls for more power?
These requirements are met when a town is served by an inter-connected electric power system. New demands are met at once, because power is available from many different sources.
Making this elastic, dependable and ever-ready type of power supply available throughout West Texas, it is the privilege of the West Texas Utilities Company to serve 124 prosperous cities and towns in this "Land of Opportunity." Three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants and over 2,500 miles of high tension transmission lines place inexpensive electric power at your command every minute of the day.
Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

Mmes. Bowden, McStay and Bowden Hostesses to W. M. U.

Mrs. E. B. Bowden was hostess to members of the Woman's Missionary Society at her home Tuesday afternoon with Mmes. S. E. McStay and S. A. Bowden assistant hostesses. The following program which was very interesting and instructive was carried out:

- Song—"I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go."
 - Prayer—Mrs. S. E. McStay.
 - Devotional—Mrs. John Crowe.
 - Leaflet—North American Home Mission.
 - Progress—Mmes. D. T. Mauldin, H. A. Pendleton and J. C. Borden.
 - Bulletin—Mrs. D. E. Holder.
- Following a short business session the hostesses served an ice drink and cake.

Mrs. W. A. Burroughs and daughter, Miss Emma Burroughs, of Wintersboro, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wright and children of Vernon, Mrs. Bertha Bailey and Miss Ruth Wright of Wintersboro and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Crumpler of Anson, all met here first of the week for a family meeting. Mrs. Wright before her marriage was Miss Bess Burroughs, and formerly resided in this community with her mother, Mrs. W. A. Burroughs. Mrs. Burroughs still owns property in the Munday country and keeps informed in newspapers here through the columns of the Times.

such a spirit, and it evidently will have a great blessing to the whole community.

To the present there hasn't been an opportunity offered but that there were church occasions and conversions. To date there have been more than sixty-five church affiliations and conversions. All this response has been, without any of the "clap trap" methods that some evangelists have been known to use.

Our town has been so wonderfully blessed and the people are so pleased with the meeting, we want to take time to thank the Meeting Committee who used the good judgment in securing the services of Rev. Culpepper and Mr. Harrison. The Lord is richly blessing their efforts in our midst and we are very grateful.

These brethren are being entertained in the hospitable home of Mr. A. C. Brock, and seem to be enjoying same very much. Various homes of the town are affording the noon meals. Much hospitality is being shown and the visitors are very expressive of their appreciation for it.

The meeting is expected to close next Sunday.

BURIAL FLAGS FOR DECEASED VETERANS

It is the desire of the Postal Administration to assist to the fullest extent possible the Administration of Veterans' Affairs in administering the act of 1924 (known as the World War veterans' act) as amended by section 12, of the act of July 3, 1930 which provides:

"Where a veteran of any war, including those women who served as Army nurse under contracts between April 21, 1898, and February 2, 1901, who was not dishonorably discharged, dies after discharge or resignation from the service, the director shall furnish a flag to drape the casket of such veteran and afterwards to be given to his next of kin regardless of the cause of death of such veteran."

To that end it is directed that postmasters at all county seat post offices co-operate with the Veterans' Administration so that upon the decease of a veteran his next of kin or other person acting in the interest of the deceased veteran shall, upon compliance with certain rules receive a burial flag.

SARAH ANNE'S COOKING CLASS

Cheese is an extremely healthful food which accounts for its increasing popularity. Cheese has been called the "wastefulness meat food" because compared to other meat foods it has a negligible quantity of waste such as bone, gristle and skin. There are many delicious meat substitute dishes made with cheese—it is versatile, can be used in many ways either alone or in combination with other foods. The grocer has for his customers a variety of flavors.
