Gov. Smith Says Depression Not Due to Politics

Gov. Alfred E. Smith in an address delivered Wednesday evening over a nation-wide hook-up stated that the present depression was not directly chargeable to the party in power. In fact, he was frank to say that it could have happened under a democratic administration just as it has happened under a republican administration.

But he did take the republican leaders to task for their time worn promises to the people that the election of a republican administration was a guarantee of continued prosperity, while the election of a democratic administration was a safe fore-runner of a panic. All this is pure bunk, says Gov. Smith.

And he goes on and literally scores Mr. Hoover's administration with respect to its concern in the present depression. "Not until two weeks ago did Mr. Hoover face the situation," says Gov. Smith, "and then it was at the very threshold of an election when the seats of many republican congressmen and senators are at stake."

Anyway, it will be gratifying in future years to know that prosperity is not copyrighted by any political party. Two years ago we heard only Hoover and prosperity, and now it is indeed charitable of the defeated democratic standard-bearer to say that the republican administration at Washington is in no manner responsible for the depression through which we are passing, and which, under a democratic administration would have been termed a downright panic by our republican brethren. Anyway, those who do not agree with all of Gov. Smith's views must admit that he has at least one good quality. He is charitable toward his foes.

Depots at Goree, Bomarton and Dundee Robbed

The Wichita Valley lines will be called upon to buy some new doors for their safes at Goree, Bomarton and Dundee as a result of a visit by burglars on Saturday night. At all three points the depots were entered by knob knockers and the safes rendered worthless until new doors are procured. At Goree the burglars were unsuccessful in their efforts to get inside the safe, and were evidently frightened away after starting the job and getting the knob knocked off. A drill was found outside the office of the depot and signs around the place indicated that it had glanced off and gone through two large windows, and it is likely that the noise of the breaking glass frightened the burglars away, but at Bomarton they procured approximately $25.00 and at Dundee the safe is said to have given up about $15.00.

The burglary at Goree was discovered by Editor E. L. Covey, who had gone down to the depot Sunday morning to mail a letter, and upon entering the waiting room he found that the door to the office had been forced open and that things in the office were in disorder, and he gave the alarm. Ray Taylor, the local agent at Goree, had gone to Wichita Falls for the day, and H. F. Barnes, local agent for the company, went over and made a check of the losses, which proved to be nothing more than the loss of a perfectly good safe door and two broken windows.

Jess Clark Badly Injured At Oil Mill On Monday

Jesse Clark, about 35 years of age, had one of his legs so badly injured at the plant of the Munday Cotton Oil Co., Inc., on Monday that amputation near the knee will likely be necessary. The injured man was brought to the office of Dr. Wm. P. Farrington, where he was given first aid treatment and was then rushed to a hospital at Wichita Falls, where he is receiving the best of attention.

Mr. Clark has worked at the mill at intervals during the past two or three years, but at the time he was injured he was not at work but had gone to the mill for some reason and was leaving the mill when he stepped or slipped into one of these conveyors and before he could be rescued the fleshy part of his limb had been torn away.

Victim McAlester Mine Disaster Has Kin In City

Richard T. Faulkner, one of the victims of the mine disaster which occurred on Monday night at McAlester, Oklahoma, was a former citizen of Rochester, and his remains will be shipped there for burial, according to relatives, as soon as it is recovered from the mine, which will likely be Thursday or Friday.

The victim was a brother-in-law to Mrs. C. C. Kinnemore of Munday, and C. A. Wade of Rochester, who on Wednesday phoned to McAlester and were informed that the body had not yet been recovered and would not likely be reached before Thursday. Mrs. Faulkner is a sister to Mrs. Kinnemore and Mr. Wade, and is a daughter of Mrs. S. H. Wade of Rochester.

The victim was a resident of the Rochester community for a number of years and also lived at Spur before going to Oklahoma, and while members of the family were informed that the remains would be shipped to Spur for interment, they feel sure that this is an error, as his relatives are interred in the Rochester cemetery.

The mine disaster took a toll of 23 lives and is one of the numerous mine disasters that have occurred in Oklahoma during the past few years. On the 17th of last December a mine explosion in the same locality took a toll of 65 lives.

Mr. Wade came to Munday on Wednesday afternoon after failing to receive further information from McAlester concerning the shipment of the remains and talked over the phone to parties in that city who gave him the information that the remains had not yet been taken from the mine.

November "Texas Opportunities" Is Boost For State

Through the courtesy of Sam P. Haben of Richardson, secretary of the Texas Press association, we have received a copy of Texas Opportunities, official organ of the Texas Power & Light Company, and its twenty-eight pages are crammed full of valuable information to Texas people, and its pages are an appeal to the people of Texas to take advantage of the great opportunities that are at our very door, principal among them is the idea of diversifying our farm programs.

In a signed introduction J. W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power & Light Company, says: "Call it economic necessity, if you will. Label it selfishness, if you please. Perhaps, in the end, helping ourselves through helping our brothers is a practical and unemotional form of Christianity."

"At any rate, it is pleasant to be able to look around us and upon every side behold bankers, merchants, business men of many interests aligning themselves with rural improvement movements, cooperating with their time and effort and dollars with these important individuals who are working the soil that the world may eat and live."

The magazine is from the press of the Harben-Spotts Company at Richardson, and to those who appreciate good typography it is a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Five Amendments Will Be Passed Upon Tuesday

One of the important matters that is to come before the people of Texas in next Tuesday's election is the amendments to the Constitution that are to be voted upon at that time.

We have read all of the amendments and we can find no reason why the people of Texas should not vote for them all.

The first of the amendments provides a change in the Constitution that will permit the Supreme Court to sit at any time during the year. This change would permit the court to dispense with many cases that come before that body without the necessity of the long delays that are incident under the present arrangement, which requires that the court shall sit only during certain months in the year.

The second of the amendments provides for the taxation for county purposes of lands of the University of Texas and provides for the payment of same to the proper authorities. This change in our constitution would prove of great benefit to many West Texas counties where many acres of University land is located, and, being exempt from taxation, works a hardship on the citizens of these counties in maintaining their county government.

The third change is not of great importance to anyone other than to members of the law-making bodies, as we view it, as it merely fixes the terms for the convening of the Legislature, while the fourth, likewise, affects only members of the legislature in the matter of pay, increasing the pay of legislators from $5.00 to $10.00 per day for the first 120 days and not exceeding $5.00 per day thereafter, and reducing the amount now allowed for mileage in coming and going to Austin for the sessions. The change would have the effect of keeping legislators on the job at Austin and prevent so many broken quorums.

The last amendment provides that the permanent University fund may be invested in interest-bearing bonds, including United States Government bonds, municipal bonds, pledges of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas for the building of dormitories or other buildings for the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under the Federal Farm Loan Act.

Of course, there are those who will be inclined to believe that the old cannot be improved upon, but we see no reason why the affairs of the state would be placed in jeopardy by the passage of any and all of these amendments, and as Texas grows and progresses we must progress in governmental affairs, and it is possible to do this only by amending our old constitution to meet present-day requirements or have a new constitution incorporating all of the new provisions that are essential to progress and changing times.

General Election Will Be Held In All States Tuesday

Tuesday of next week is general election day over the entire United States, and while the election means very little to Texans, since this state is overwhelmingly democratic,—or we should say was until two years ago when Mr. Hoover shattered all precedents to smithereens—and since there are no great number of republicans, there is usually but little interest manifested in off years—that is, years when there is no presidential election.

Only one section in Texas experiences a real campaign during this period each two years and that is the San Antonio district, where a republican congressman has held sway for many years and who is the only republican in congress from the Lone Star State—the Hon. Harry Wurzbach. Wurzbach was defeated on the face of returns two years ago but a contest was filed in Congress and rank irregularities were brought out which resulted in the withdrawal of the democratic candidate, who relinquished his seat after several months' wrangling to his republican opponent.

Possibly the greatest interest in the election of next Tuesday centers in the results in New York state, where the Hon. Franklin Roosevelt is a candidate for reelection to the office of Governor. Should he win at the polls Tuesday he will doubtless be the outstanding figure as standard-bearer of the Democratic party in 1932 for president.

In Texas Ross Sterling, the democratic nominee, is being opposed by Col. William E. Talbot, republican, who was formerly an engineer in the Santa Fe shops at Cleburne, and who, during the World War, distinguished himself for service with the famous Rainbow Division.

There are no legal contests, as the republican or other parties have never offered a candidate for any office in this county, and to win the nomination in the Democratic primaries is equivalent to election, as is in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Briggs have requested that their names be sent to them at Ballinger, Texas, and they extend a cordial invitation to all their Munday friends to visit them when in that section of the state.

Mrs. J. H. McAfee Died On Sunday After Long Illness

After a lingering illness of several months from the dreaded disease, tuberculosis, Mrs. J. H. McAfee died on last Sunday, and the funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at the Methodist church with interment in Johnson cemetery.

Mrs. McAfee was, before her marriage to J. H. McAfee in 1892, Miss Mollie Tuttle, and was born in Kentucky on January 29, 1871, and in addition to her husband she is survived by seven children, three sons and four daughters, Charley, Joe and Dale, and Elma, Lillie, Ruby and Juanita. She was preceded in the grave by one son. In addition to her immediate family she is survived by two sisters and five brothers, all of whom were present for the funeral services, which were conducted by the Rev. R. V. Tooley, pastor of the Thorp Methodist church, of which she was a member. At an early age she was converted and had been a constant member of the Methodist church during the intervening years.

To the faithful husband, who has ministered so faithfully to her during the long months of her illness, and the children who have done everything humanly possible to alleviate her suffering, words of condolence can do but little toward alleviating the pangs of sorrow that are piercing their hearts, but to them there can come the consolation that everything within their power was done, and they can live with the fond anticipation that they can meet her where suffering and parting will be no more.

Interesting Notes From The Sunset Cons'dat'd School

Due to unfavorable weather conditions, the building of the Sunset Consolidated school building has been retarded. However, when the foundation work is completed the condition of the weather will not hinder.

We have at present an enrollment of fifty high school students. All seniors, because of a short school term, transferred out of the district.

There are thirteen Juniors, five Freshmen. We also have seven of the seventh grade of the district at our school.

Hatchet Buried By Gene Howe and Mary Garden

Amarillo, Oct. 21.—Any hatchet that might have been waved by Mary Garden, operatic star, and Gene Howe, Amarillo newspaper man, in other years has apparently been buried.

Mrs. Garden has accepted an invitation to visit Mr. and Mrs. Howe in their home when she sings in Amarillo on November 5. Howe invited her to "an old-fashioned Texas supper."

"I will be very happy to accept your invitation to tea at your villa," Miss Garden wired.

"If it's tea and not supper she wants, it's tea she will have," Howe said. "Mrs. Howe and I are doing our best to convert our bungalow into a villa."

After a visit of Miss Garden to Amarillo with an opera company Howe criticized her singing, and a number of exchanges between them was made through the press.

The eighth annual old fiddler's contest will be held here sometime during November, according to U. R. Houser, who will be in charge of the annual event again this year, and all old fiddlers who desire to enter should make application to Mr. Houser. The contest will again be conducted under the auspices of the Munday Fire Department.

THINKING OUT LOUD

BY J. A. K.

The Times has this week printed the ballots to be used in next Tuesday's general election, and on the ballot four parties are represented and one blank column is provided for any stray party that might happen along in the meantime.

Personally, TOL didn't know before that there were a sufficient number of Communists in Texas to have a representation on the election ballot, but on this ticket they have candidates for United States Senator, Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

Anyway, the placing of this party on the ticket will give the citizens of Texas an opportunity to see just how many of these folk there are in Texas, and where they are located.

Texas is a pretty big state, but if Communism is what we have been led to believe it is, there isn't room in this old state for this party, whose principal aim seems to be to create disrespect for law and order, and where their numbers will permit to take by physical force that to which they are not rightfully entitled.

We may be wrong, but if there are any Communists in Knox county, the citizenship will do well to keep a good eye on them.

The Abilene pastor who announced his withdrawal from all worldly activities other than football has created quite a bit of comment in the press over the country.

Some writers have approved his action, while others have expressed the opinion that he has gone too far in his withdrawal.

Personally, TOL is of the opinion that a minister cannot isolate himself from all community activities outside his church and get and keep a personal contact with the people that is essential to accomplish the greatest amount of good in his work, however, he cannot engage in worldly activities to the extent that his big aim in life is neglected.

Luncheon clubs, chamber of commerce meetings and the like take time from one's business, regardless of what his business in life might be, but it must be remembered that many of the activities of these organizations are for the betterment of the community life in general, and if everyone should withdraw from these organizations the community life would certainly soon become stagnant. We must all make some sacrifices for our community, and, next to our churches and schools, our civic organizations are most important to the progress of any community.

It seems to TOL that a happy medium could be found that would not require absolute isolation from all community activities outside the work of the church, but in this statement we are in no way offering criticism to the Abilene minister for his action. He has set a goal, and our hope is that he reaches it.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR WORK

A commentator on American life of today recently wrote that the average small town and little city "stands at the cross roads." He means that the small town that stands too long is doomed—it will go backward and eventually die.

There is some truth in what he says. We can't stand still without being passed by somebody who is advancing. And when we see somebody going by we realize that we are slipping. Unless some heroic methods are used at once we are lost—drifting backwards.

It's a searching question every individual should ask himself. Is the place where I live drifting toward obsolescence? If so, am I responsible equally with my fellow townsmen? What am I doing for my town? Do I think only of getting something for myself and never giving anything in return?

What does a family want in a town or city? Good churches, good schools, good neighbors, good jobs, and a chance to make a living. Am I doing my share to make conditions so that people will want to live here? This is the question for every citizen to ask himself.

Every live place wants to grow and prosper. Therefore it must be inviting. To attract new enterprises and new residents, its people must be friendly and fair and its atmosphere harmonious, it must have leaders with a vision and a definite program toward which to work.

And there must be an organization to carry out the program. In the organization there must be plenty of workers, not men who dodge responsibility.

No one has ever found a substitute for work. All the visions of dreamers, the inspiration of leaders avail nothing unless the people are moved by the right spirit, have a clear vision of the community's possibilities, are hitched up to a definite program, have a good organization to carry it out and are willing to do some unselfish work for the good of all.

THE PRESENT GENERATION

There never has been a period in history in which there were not some people who were sure the world was going to the dogs. One of the oldest bits of recorded literature is a clay brick from the ruins of Babylon in which an aged official, who lived somewhere around 2500 B. C., laments the passing of the virtues of the "good old days".

A good deal of that is going on now. And while the nation today is far from perfect, it does seem as if we could reassure ourselves and conclude that we are no worse than our immediate ancestors.

These thoughts are called up by a recent newspaper account of a trip a reporter made across America in a luxurious cabineted airplane. The reporter flew over historic trails. He crossed the middle west over country in which pioneers had toiled through dense forests, in danger from starvation, cold and murderous red savages; and he made the trip in a few hours, in perfect comfort. He followed the old Santa Fe trail out of Kansas City, and covered in two hours a stretch of country that the old covered wagons used to take three weeks to cross. He flew over the barren lands of the great southwest, where prospectors and homeseekers in the old days suffered every imaginable hardship to make a progress of a few miles a day.

All in all, his trip made a most striking contrast to the old days. Where the pioneers struggled for long days and weeks, he sailed gaily by in a few hours. The hardships of old are gone forever, and his experience illustrated it.

This was followed, of course, by a number of pessimistic wails. It was set forth by various people that hardships are good for people; that we, living more easily than the early Americans, cannot have as much strength of character as they had; that our modern comforts and refinements have resulted in a deterioration of the national stock.

The answer would seem to be—piddle! Our ancestors never displayed more devotion to an ideal than this nation did when it entered the World War. Our ancestors never voted in a moral and social reform like prohibition. Our ancestors never produced men who could dare and endure more than Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Byrd. Many of our most pressing problems today demand the undoing of some of the things our ancestors did. For all their "strong characters," they made a mess of a good many things.

Talk about the enervating effect of modern comforts and luxuries is silly. A little examination of the record ought to make that apparent to anyone. We need not deplore our new inventions. They do not bring softness and decay, despite the doleful head-shakings of the graybeards.

Heating apparatus should have some provision for humidification, and every house or office should be frequently aired. More people are killed by foul air than by cold air, and there is always danger of overheating unless some one keeps a careful eye on the fires.

Now comes the time of year when doors and windows begin to be carefully closed, and artificial heat is introduced into houses and offices. And by that same token it is the time when the death rate climbs. The winter months show almost 25 per cent increase over the summer. The drop in deaths in the spring as soon as houses are once more ventilated, and free of dry heat, is so marked that the relation of the two is unmistakable.

Probably the general idea is that summer mortality is higher. But stagnant air, dry air and dirty air do their deadly work with less interference in winter. Air fit for human being should have somewhere about 48 per cent of humidity, but artificially heated air is seldom or never up to this standard of physical comfort in moisture content. This dry and stagnant air is never as warm to the body as air of proper saturation. In cold weather, when the ground is bare, the air out doors picks up an incredible quantity of dirt. The relief occasioned by a heavy snowfall, which sweeps the impurities out of the air, is plainly perceptible.

THIS TIME OF YEAR

And by that same token it is the time when the death rate climbs. The winter months show almost 25 per cent increase over the summer. Cold weather is motor-punishing weather... Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY-STARTING OIL

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier! There are two good reasons for this.

First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly de-waxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness. The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures.

Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle.

The Electric Man Shows You a Delightful New Breakfast Method

"Through the use of electric toasters, waffle irons, percolators, egg boilers, electric grills and many other small appliances, the task of cooking breakfast has been made thoroughly enjoyable.

"And now, with the new Home Comfort rate, the low cost of operation adds another advantage to the electrically-prepared breakfast.

"You see, this new schedule of rates makes all service over the first 45 kilowatt-hours, for a five-room house, cost only 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking.

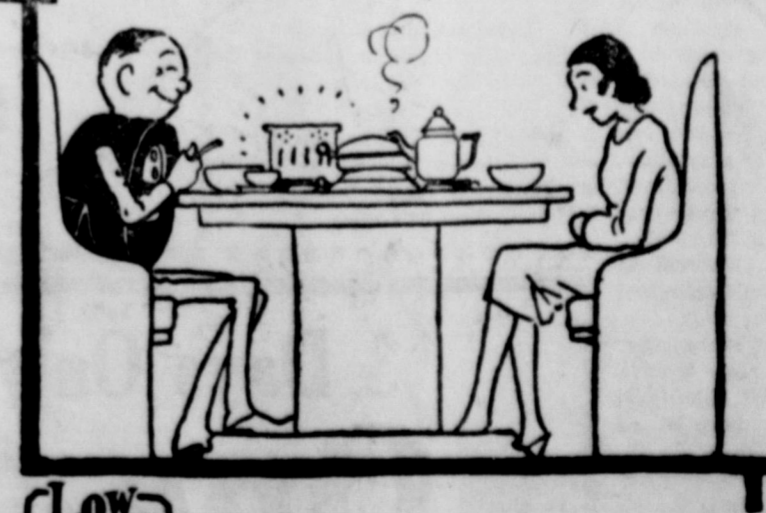

"Just think of the possibilities of this new rate. All the service you want to use, and yet your bill will always be quite moderate, compared with other necessities of the home.

"Next week I'm going to tell you about the advantages of this new schedule in connection with your lighting problems, and I'm sure you'll get some ideas from my suggestions."

A Home Economics club, consisting of almost every high school girl, was organized Tuesday of last week and officers were elected as follows: Dorothy Matlock, president, and Eleanor Jungman, vice-president. The secretary-treasurer has not yet been elected. Each class chose an interested and capable girl for the program committee. Those chosen were Frances McCard, Dorothy Campbell, Ruth Rice and Mildred Moore. These girls, with the assistance of Miss Clifford, have planned to give a very interesting and beneficial program, which will include musical numbers, readings and a short play, before the study hall, Tuesday, at general assembly period. Some of the girls taking part in this program, and a few others who can read or play piano, accompanied by Miss Clifford, are going to Nocona, Texas next Saturday to attend a Home Economics convention. This will be both a pleasure and an intellectual trip for the girls.

The club will meet every other Monday night, and it plans to have many interesting and beneficial programs, and also to have lots of fun.

GILBS' GAB

Weakened by the loss of a half dozen first string men who fell victims to certain scholastic requirements, and forced to use a completely new and inexperienced line up, the Moguls fell before the Rule Bobcats Friday. This was a hard blow to the team and students as a record season seemed just around the corner for the year of 1930. Although we believe the team, which defeated Crowell and had, just the week before, run up 45 points on the Bobcats, would have had no trouble winning this game, we found in Rule a much improved team and one full of fight. Rule scored early in the game on a forward pass which placed the ball on the three yard line from where it was pushed over for the only touchdown of the game. The place kick was wide. From this point on through out the game the battle was on fairly even terms with Chambers and Edwards turning in a nice game for Rule and Pruitt showing most everything for the Moguls. The Moguls are going to be at full strength against Throckmorton on Friday and are going to fight harder than ever to wipe out the memory of our tough luck defeat by Rule.

SENIORS

Meo-o-w, o-o-o-h, bam! what! the witches, the spooks and the goblins will arrive Friday night! Boy, we seniors are going to have our part of the fun and "we don't mean maybe." Now to those who may be new and inexperienced high school students we want to say a few wise words. If we catch anybody interfering with "Us" Halloween night it will just be a nut story! We will be just like the supreme court, what the final verdict is, "goes", and I am afraid that you, to whom it may concern, will think we seniors will believe in capital punishment before we get through! Now we seniors have not been going around with long, melancholy looks on our faces over our report cards because this is just the first six weeks and we are still very optimistic. Moguls, we do not feel bad at all over that game, because Knox City would have lost all hopes of even making November 11 as interesting game for you, had you defeated Rule Friday as badly as you did October 17. Stay in there and fight, Moguls! The seniors are behind you.

SOPHOMORES

How glad we are that the dreaded six weeks exams, are over. The Sophs hit those exams, hard and made it through. We will have to admit they were hard. There were a number of sighs and groans made when the report cards were passed out. The Sophomores have a splendid record in spite of the "D's" and "F's".

The Sophomores not only shine in school work, but also in athletics. Some of the main players come from the Sophomore class. Thompson, Hobart and Scott, show up like a million dollars. Keep working, boys, we are for you. Halloween is getting nearer every day. The Sophomores are planning a big time. Just watch our smoke.

FRESHMEN

Oh boy! We surely have put out some effort for good grades this month. We felt proud of ourselves when we looked at our report cards and found our efforts were not in vain. We made grades to be proud of, but we should have known Freshmen could make good grades, for we learn easily. Classes! Classes! You had better work hard if you intend to have better grades than us. Our class was the only class in high school with a straight "A" card and it was made by Myrtle McNeil. Good for you, Myrtle, and maybe next month some one else will be with you.

The bad weather was the cause of much rejoicing Thursday, because we knew we would not have to get around as if we had rheumatism. My! that physical education surely makes anyone feel tough for awhile.

We can hardly wait for our vacation days, which will be Thursday and Friday. For the teachers, it may not be vacation, but we can rest easy and enjoy ourselves. Then Monday morning we will be ready for a new start.

Did you say Halloween? Why, that's when we Freshmen are going to have a good time; although we are not going to have a Halloween party—but to those who are, "A hint to the wise is sufficient".
