Sixto DeLeon Sentenced In Juan Robles Murder Trial

SURVEYS WRECKAGE—Superintendent Neal Dillman and coach Willie McAlpin, along with two unidentified men, survey the wreckage of a school bus early Thursday morning near Needmore, McAlpin, substitute driver that day, found the brakes out as he came down a hill in the rolling terrain section of the county near Baileyboro and warned the 15 children aboard the bus which is credited with saving them from serious injury. The bus hit an embankment and flipped, through the air and came to rest upside down inside a corral. Several of the children were taken to West Plains hospital for observation, none requiring hospitalization.

The swift moving murder trial of Sixto DeLeon for the June 14, 1964 slaying of his brother-in-law, Juan Robles, concluded Thursday evening, 9 hours and 15 minutes after it began.

Jury foreman W. B. Little handed the verdict, guilty of murder without malice, to Judge Pat Boone, Jr. in 154th District Court at 6:20 p.m., after one hour and 20 minutes deliberation.

DeLeon, 36-year-old Latin American, was given a sentence of not less than two year nor more than five years in the shooting death which occurred during the early morning hours at the Needmore home of DeLeon. Prosecuting attorney was District Attorney Jack Young and Mickey Ratliff was appointed defense attorney.

This sentence is to run consecutive to the 99 year term DeLeon is presently serving in Huntsville for the June, 1965 slaying of Constable George Hinds in a Charlotte tavern near Jourdaton, Texas. Hinds is said to have been shot nine times with a rifle.

Testimony began when Mrs. Juan Robles, wife of the slain man took the stand, in her testimony, Mrs. Robles related incidents of the previous day, June 13, which led up to the early morning shooting of her husband.

"Mrs. Robles said she, her husband and her mother went to the DeLeon home June 13 from their home in Littlefield to visit her sister, Margaret DeLeon, wife of the defendant. Soon after their arrival, Mr. and Mrs. DeLeon and the women's mother returned to Littlefield where Mrs. DeLeon, an expectant mother, would be near her physician. The Robles remained at the DeLeon home.

After DeLeon returned home, they were joined by two other men and went to Clovis where they purchased beer and whisky and returned to Needmore where the men began drinking in the kitchen.

Mrs. Robles testified that sometime afterwards the man decided to go to Littlefield to get a guitar. It was at this point, Mrs. Robles said she asked her husband to take her to Littlefield to stay with her mother. She further stated that her husband said she could not go and he began to choke her . . . with his hands around her throat and his thumb in her mouth. According to her testimony, DeLeon asked Robles to turn her loose, "I will let her go when I get ready." Robles is said to have replied, Making the same request the second time, Mrs. Robles said her husband said "Don't go for your pocket." (DeLeon had a .22 caliber pistol in his right hand pocket, it was established.)

Mrs. Robles said she then heard a shot and her husband fell to the floor and then she and DeLeon put him on the bed.

"Sixto then said to me, I will take him somewhere where no one will find him, you can go somewhere and I will go another place."

Mrs. Robles testified that she objected to this, then leaving Robles on the bed, she accompanying DeLeon to the home of DeLeon's employer, Earl Schmitz, when Bailey County officers were notified of the shooting. Mrs. Robles said the two (DeLeon and Juan Robles) had had no previous trouble.

Then, DeLeon and Mrs. Robles returned to the scene of the shooting where she waited for the police and DeLeon left, telling her: "Tell them (the police) I have gone to Littlefield."

According to testimony given by Littlefield City Policemen Robert Trotter and Jerry Col-house, then walked on home. Rubalcada was employed by Lewis Wayne Shafer in the Needmore community.

The shooting was investigated by Mrs. DeLeon was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law a short time later, without incident, and held for Bailey County.

Conflicting testimony concerning the disturbance between Mr. and Mrs. Juan Robles came in the testimony of the second witness, Uriel Rubalcada. By means of an interpreter, Jesse Leal, local businessman, Rubalcada said that the couple were "sort of wrestling" and Juan was holding Mrs. Robles by each arm, (above the elbows, demonstrations showed) and when approached by DeLeon on the dispute between them, Juan said "Do not meddle in our affairs." It was then that DeLeon took the gun from his pocket and placed it 4 or 5 inches from Robles head and pulled the trigger . . . the fire was a misfire, but the second pull of the trigger felled Robles with a wound in the left temple. Rubalcada said he and another friend, Juan Carrillo-Duran, were scared and ran from the scene. See DELEON on Page 5

Delashaw Assists Boys With Water Sample Tests

A water sampling project is being conducted by the Muleshoe high school vocational agriculture department.

The students are checking their own samples to enable them to know what to do when confronted with a problem. They are being instructed and assisted by Jerry Delashaw, Texas Department of Health, Migrant project, Lubbock.

Delashaw checks housing facilities in the county and gives assistance to owners. He is assigned to labor camps and migrant farm workers here. He also checks private water supplies.

After the agriculture boys finish, Delashaw takes the samples to Lubbock to the regional laboratory to be tested. Less than 6 percent have shown contamination.

These will be checked again and then wells will be checked to see if there might be an unsealed well and then make suggested treatment, such as chloroform. After the third test and should the water still prove contaminated, it could be the result of cess pool seepage.

Delashaw covers 93 counties . . . all of West Texas, working from his Lubbock office where he is assisted by two nurses in any community with farm laborers.

He has been working here with the Agriculture Department since mid-January and expects to be here about three more weeks.

Each Tuesday, he picks up samples and speaks to different groups and they make their samples and turn them over to Delashaw the following week.

Next meeting for the group will be in May at Olton.

CLUB NEWS

The Lucky-4 4-Hers met in the home of their adult leader, Mrs. Ernest Ramm Tuesday afternoon following school. The girls heard Robin Taylor, Home Demonstration Agent speak on nutrition. They were shown different ways to set place settings for the coming food show. Each girl told what she planned to make for the show. Mrs. Taylor gave the girls some tips on what to wear to the food show, what to know and some pointers on what the judges might ask them.

The Progress cooking groups met in the Bailey County Electric Cooperative meeting room Thursday.

The Lucky 4s, 4 Leaf Clover and the Bakers 5 club will have a local food show Monday, Feb. 20 in the home of Mrs. Ramm at 7 p.m. The girls will be judged by the Home Demonstration agent and will be for the benefit of the first year 4-Hers who will not know what to expect at the county food show. ### Homemaking Tips

FROM THE OFFICE OF HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Robin Taylor

There are many decisions that you as a grocery shopper, have to make each time you go to the supermarket.

You can pay more or less and yet provide good nutrition for your family. It all depends on what you buy. There are four groups of food that should be in every shopper's market basket—milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals.

Milk, fruit, and vegetables are often lacking in sufficient amounts in many family diets. Are you buying fresh milk at 60 cents per gallon or acidified dry milk at 17 cents per half gallon? The food value of both

COOKING TIPS

You can heat pork and beans right in the can for that outdoor supper. Just place the opened can on the grill over hot coals; use a chop stick (or the long handle of a wooden spoon) for stirring the beans occasionally while they heat.

Read the labels on packaged and canned goods. Some labels are more informative than others. Determine the cost per serving if in doubt. When you are looking for a place to reduce family expenses think twice before you decide it will be the food bill. The health and well being of your family depends to a large extent on the food they eat every day.

Our Farms

The size of the average American farm in 1966 grew to 359 acres and the total value of the nation's farms had reached 171 billion dollars, according to recent tabulations. This is a continuation of the trend in this country toward more and larger farms.

The number of U.S. farms in 1966 was 3,176,000 -- about the same number as in the year 1870. The year with the greatest number of farms was 1935 when there were 6,812,000. However, while the number of farms has declined acres being farmed have steadily increased in number, or did up to 1959, when they stood at a grand total of 1,118 billion. There are 1.13 billion acres being farmed today.

Thus the trend toward larger farms continues as total acreage drifts somewhat downward in the past seven years. Even with the slight downward drift in total acreage farm production in 1966 was up twelve per cent over the 1957-59 average.

Thus the farm trend is one of fewer and larger farms and increased production. What the Communists do by government decree is happening as a natural consequence of economics in the United States -- at a slower, free pace.

The Public Be Served

GUEST EDITORIAL --

ARE THE FREE press and the right to a fair trial incompatible? Attorney Louis Nizer, a noted and respected member of his profession, says they are.

In an article in McCall's magazine, Mr. Nizer argues that the United States should go over to the British system. There the courts hold a club over the press, a threat of contempt charges if the mere mention of a pending case is ruled to have interfered with the judicial process.

In sense Mr. Nizer puts the press on trial, arguing as prosecutor that it be found guilty and sentenced to silence. His case is published by a responsible and respected institution of the press.

Whether the editors of McCall's agree with Mr. Nizer is not known nor is it of any consequence. What matters vitally is that the editors appear to think the public should be afforded the benefit of the attorney's views. In so doing, they pay tribute to the public's right to know in a free society.

Mr. Nizer takes note of this right in his argument. "Frequently, those who defend the present practice of the press speak of its 'right to know.' There is no such right. The press has the right to publish."

GRANTED, there is no right of the press to know; it is, rather, the right of the people to know through their information agent, the free press. And to the end that the agent can perform its duties, the Constitution grants what Mr. Nizer calls the right to publish.

But this right, to publish so that the public may know, like all others in the First Amendment, is not a blank check. It is bounded by stringent safeguards on the rights of others. Label law clearly bars the press from sowing the seeds of untruth out of malice.

We agree with Mr. Nizer when he observes that "the great majority of newspapers are responsible institutions..." but we could not agree less with his conclusion that "there appears to be a Gresham's Law of the press, by which the tawdry and sensational newspapers drive the more responsible ones down to their own standards."

Perhaps Mr. Nizer gazes through the wrong end of the telescope for a broader view of recent history suggests that exactly the opposite is the case. Of the many newspapers that have been dying off like flies, some have been pillars of responsibility. But by far the majority were less reliable and had more mayhem than meat.

TELEVISION's electronic truth and a growing sophistication of the public audience have allied themselves with a responsible press to drive most of what Mr. Nizer calls the "tawdry and sensational" minority either to higher ground or to oblivion.

Unfortunately, some of the gossamer-and-gossip crowd remain, but a developing code of press ethics is helping the public and television show these rascals the door.

The News, in referring to Mr. Nizer's proposal, does not by any means endorse his attempt at guilt by association -- that all should suffer for the sins of an irresponsible minority of the press.

Neither would this newspaper agree that unethical slysters are pulling the entire legal profession down, although The News might print a scholar's thesis to that effect in deference to the public's right to know.

Our right to publish and Mr. Nizer's right to advocate in a court of law both hinge, in finality, on the public's best interest. His profession seeks in many ways to serve that interest well, as does ours.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, D.C. -- The ominous question has been raised -- a system in December. Dr. Joseph Shea, Apollo program manager, in a flash fire in an Apollo spacecraft -- whether there have been too many recurring breakdowns in U.S. equipment used in the space program.

A NASA investigation (and a congressional study) are set to probe this question, and the answer probably will not be known for some time. Nor does the fact that there has been a fatal accident prove defective equipment is involved.

However, there are rumblings which are one back to alleged substantial work on U.S. Navy submarines a few years back. They have nothing to do with Russian claims -- no doubt for propaganda purposes -- that the three recent astronaut deaths were due to a hurrying of the U.S. space program, in an effort to beat the Russians to the moon.

The Apollo shot, for which the astronauts were practicing, had already been postponed from November to February. And when the spacecraft caught fire the astronauts were sitting out a short postponement called a "hold" because of difficulties in the communication system.

That same day the astronauts had experienced trouble with the spacecraft's oxygen system -- the "environmental system" -- and an oxygen problem had occurred time and time again on the spacecraft that burned.

The death of the three astronauts, tragic in itself, spotlights technical concern. The deaths demand more comment, and mourning, than the daily and weekly deaths of many more Americans in Vietnam.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm thought at first he had a good idea, but changed his mind, his letter this week reveals.

Every man to his own field. While I've been letting Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the foreign affairs experts in other countries wrack their brains over the major points on what's going on in Red China, I've been devoting my thought to a revolutionary sidelight I discovered in a copy of a newspaper somebody threw out of a car near here. The chicken feathers it was wrapped around scattered in the wind and I left them where they fell.

According to an article in it reporting on the turmoil in China, news of the way the revolution or whatever it is going is reported on wall posters.

That's right. Somebody gets a new report, he prints it on a poster and sticks it to the side of a building and everybody gathers around to find out what the latest news is. If there's not any news, he makes some up and posts that. Even China has off-brand journalists.

I have been thinking this over and at first I thought why there's an idea for the Muleshoe Journal. Why have all that printing equipment you've got tied up in that building, when all you need is a sheet of paper, a brush and a bucket of paint? No pay roll, no machinery breakdowns, very little overhead.

Then I got to thinking some more. As I understand it, there are 700 million people living in China, at least there were the other day, no telling how many more this morning and I got to wondering how many wall posters I'd take to keep the nation informed or even misinformed. Say you had 100 people crowded around each poster, that'd still take 7 million posters, and you'd run out of wall space long before then, especially since some of the walls are bound to be used to stand anti-revolutionaries up against for the firing squad. Wouldn't be long before they'd be asking the United States to ship them more walls.

So, it may not be such a good idea after all. You might as well keep getting the Journal well kept up being done. Personally, any time I put a new delete last line. . . . .

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Wern Sanford

AUSTIN -- Texas legislators are at work on Gov. John Connally's recommendations for raising $144,200,000 in new taxes which include a "surprise" proposal to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink.

His local-option, mixed-drink endorsement was the major bombshell in an otherwise predictable package based on boosts or adjustments in old-fashioned sales taxes, business taxes and a transfer of farm road financing to the highway fund.

House Revenue and Tax Committee hearings are due to get under way immediately. Legislative leaders acknowledge some bitter controversies are upcoming for the first major revenue program advanced since Connally took over the governor's office.

In his 25-minute speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, Connally outlined his views on how to raise the $171,500,000 necessary to carry out his general revenue spending program for the next two years.

Here, in summary, is the governor's tax program: Repeat the sales tax exemption on all alcoholic beverages, effective July 1. (Should yield $26,000,000.)

Increase the gasoline tax 1¢ a gallon (from 5¢ to 6¢), effective July 1. (Should yield $24,400,000 of the additional revenue automatically would go to the available school fund, general revenue of this amount would be freed for legislative appropriation.)

Repeal the 1949 act which requires the oath of students and faculty was altered in 1953 by a law which covered only paid employees of the school. Some legislators are considering a bill to put students back under the law.

In other options, Martin held District court judges who are members of county juvenile boards must be paid an additional $325 a month in salary. (Total cost, $3,900,000.)

Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to issue deprecation permits for killing wild birds or animals in Dimmit, Uvalde and Zavala Counties.

A person convicted of a felony and given a suspended sentence is not barred from applying for a license to sell liquor under the misdemeanor probation act.

Texas inheritance tax provision concerning use of the "resident decedent's" entire estate wherever situated is a factor in determining the rate to be applied to succession of property is constitutional.

Presidio Co. Hospital District can levy a tax for initiating operation of the district. (H.A. 10.)

HAVE OR NOT TO HAVE -- The on-again, off-again proposal to make Guadalupe Mountain lands into a national park is off again, but perhaps only temporarily.

Committee had voted to report the bill favorably, subject to insertion of a corrective amendment if needed.

Possible amendment would provide a safeguard against any subsequent federal legislation that might deprive the state of its bounty in the event of oil or mineral production.

Sadler, however, presented his views and summed up with a declaration that minerals alone, "in a short period of time would more than pay for the total cost of the establishment of a state-owned park in the Guadalupe Mountain area."

Committee members directed that the bill be held back for a hearing and further action later.

REDISTRIBUTING CLOUDS -- Two recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating congressional districts of 12.5 and 10.4 per cent population disparities in Indiana and Missouri may renew the reapportionment fight in Texas.

House Speaker Ben Barnes fears the court may turn down the 1965 Texas redistricting acts. Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, hopes to discuss the legislation with a Houston federal court which passed on the Texas act and indicated some disapproval but never issued any standards of population tolerance.

Mutscher proposes to appoint three study groups on guidelines for congressional districting, standards for reapportionment of the House and to sample opinions of legislators on districts for their areas.

BY AMY ADAMS

THIS INVITE BACKFIRED!

Dear Amy: Recently, very old friends of ours ran into some marital trouble and agreed to a trial separation. She took the children and went to her mother's (who lives out of state) while he took the cash (from their joint bank account) and is living it up.

Since we are such old friends, I suggested that we invite him to our home for a good old-fashioned Sunday dinner (and a talking to) so that perhaps he could see why he was ready to give up my husband and said that he would invite him.

That evening my husband returned and said that the invitation was accepted but with one hitch. Our friend wanted to bring along a "girl friend." I said, "NO" -- emphatically and definitely "NO!" Hubby says I'm wrong, but I'm sticking to my guns. I don't know this "lady friend" nor do I care to meet her. As far as I'm concerned, he's still married -- to my friend.

Ann

Dear Ann: Stick to your guns! You can't hope to reconcile your marriage by entertaining the man with a "lady friend" on his arm.

Dear Amy: Before I married, my husband told me of the "other woman" with whom he lived. He told me there was no truth in it, but now I have my doubts. Just recently he received a registered letter from the Welfare Board saying that his WIFE was applying for aid for herself and the two children.

At first he denied the letter was for him, but he admitted it but says she is not his wife nor are the children his.

Should I try to find out the truth or should I believe my husband? I really don't think he's lying, but the truth, but how do I find out? We have 3 children and we all love him, but this is a factor in determining the rate to be applied to succession of property is constitutional.

On a Limb

Dear Limb: The Welfare Board and get the truth. If you find that your husband has committed adultery, get yourself a lawyer. You wouldn't want to live with a man who already has a wife.

Dear Editor: Life And You

I owe my soul to the company store's run the line of an old song. The "store" at West Plains Hospital has played a large role in the saving of souls but of lives. It is called the Central Supply Room by hospital personnel, stays open 24 hours a day and stocks the supply supervisor must also be aware of costs and the hazards inherent in the many new materials made available by modern chemistry.

While the United States Pharmacopoeia defines many standards for tubing, blood transfusion equipment, syringes and other items, progress in these areas often moves faster than official revisions of the good book.

Mrs. King says that company reputations are of the utmost importance when buying medical materials. "Fortunately," she says, "many of the companies send representatives around to see. These men are well versed in the specifications of the products of their firms and I can ask them for printed evidence of the safety, stability and durability of products whose use is almost always involved with a variety of chemicals and under all sorts of conditions. It is our job to see to it that thermometers read accurately, that needles aren't dull and hence painful, that plastic tubing doesn't irritate skin, that imperfect syringes don't drip.

Every person should ask himself, from time to time, where he is headed and exactly what he is doing with his life. If the human race was put on the earth for a purpose, every citizen has an obligation to contribute something as he travels the road of life.

In small towns, large towns, and in rural areas, there are many who spend most of their time seeking pleasure, self-indulgence and self-entertainment. Too often, money at a good time are the only goals in their lives.

If you can show nothing for your life, if you have dedicated it to nothing in particular, and you have not sincerely tried to leave just a little mark on your community, to create some good to help your fellow-men in some small way, we suspect life hereafter will be empty.

The happiest people we have known, and the richest, are those who have done something for their fellow-men, and who have stood for something in their community.

by Deputy Sheriffs Bobbs Don Henderson and John Moore who both testified at the hearing as to their investigation of the case.

Fire was drawn when defense attorney Mickey Ratliff, Littlefield asked Moore, after his testimony concerning the search for the gun, if he did not consider it his duty to render first aid to Mexicans as well as whites.

"Yes," replied Officer Moore.

"Why then, did you not do this, instead of search the house at this time?"

"I looked at the subject who was unconscious and felt that there was nothing I could do for him... looking for evidence is my job."

Asked if he felt qualified to make that decision, the officer replied that since he was not a doctor, but an officer, he felt he was qualified to make the decision as to whether his service in the first aid line would be of help to the victim.

A .22 caliber pistol, bullet and expanded cartridge and a bottle of whisky, 2/3 empty, were items entered in state's exhibits along with X-rays taken from the files of West Plains Hospital.

The jury was removed from the courtroom while testimony was being given by Deputy Bobby Henderson concerning DeLeon's escape from Bailey County Jail September 1, 1964 and the search which followed his escape for several months.

Henderson and Sheriff Dee Clements traced every available lead throughout the area themselves and checked all leads in the State during the time DeLeon was at large before his arrest in Jourdan following the shooting there in June, 1965.

Others who took the witness stand during the trial were Dr. B. O. McDaniel, West Plains Hospital; Frank Ellis and John Blackwell, Singleton Funeral Home; District Clerk Nelda Merriott and Earl Schmitt, DeLeon's employer who reported the shooting to authorities for DeLeon.

At the time of the Robles shooting, DeLeon was wanted for parole violation by the state of Wisconsin.

Jurors were Conrad Williams, Mrs. George Tyson, R. L. Scott, Roland McCormick, Wayland Altman, Earnest Ramm, Lee Pool, R. L. Peirson, W. B. Little, F. E. Knott, Carl Pollard and Julian Lenau.

DeLeon was held in Lamb County jail while the trial was underway here and it was reported that three bars were sawed in the cell occupied by DeLeon which was discovered Wednesday morning.

Dependents Receive VA Pensions

Approximately 52,000 veterans and widows who receive pension from the Veterans Administration and 1,500 dependent parents of veterans have returned their income and dependency questionnaires, according to Jack Coker, Manager of the Waco VA Regional Office.

Coker stated that approximately 14,000 beneficiaries had not returned their questionnaires and would have their payments discontinued if the questionnaires are not returned by January 31. Beneficiaries are encouraged to complete and return their questionnaire to the VA office indicated on the card as soon as possible.

Coker explained that the income questionnaire forms were mailed with pension checks for the November payment. Pension is payable for disability not necessarily the result of service, as distinguished from compensation which is payable for disabilities incurred or aggravated as a result of service, or death resulting from such disability.

The Agriculture Act of 1965 instructs USDA to adjust yields per harvested acre in its calculations "for abnormal weather conditions affecting such yields, for trends in yields, and for any significant changes in production practices."

This would seem to obviate the possibility that future projected yields will be adversely affected by abnormal weather in 1966, either on the High Plains or elsewhere.

To help answer producer questions on the matter, PCG asked F.W. Blease, South-Central Area Director for USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, for an explanation of the procedure

Used in adjusting yields for weather, trends and changes in production practices.

Blease replied that it will be some time before the formula to be used in computing projected yields for 1968 is determined and approved. Projected yields for 1967 were announced in October, 1966, and he outlined the procedure used to establish them.

The adjustment for abnormal weather conditions was made in two steps. (1) If any annual yield in the five-year base period was less than 80 per cent of the five-year average 80 per cent of the five-year average was substituted for that yield, and (2) if any annual yield was more than 140 per cent of the five-year average, a yield equal to 140 per cent of the five-year average, a yield equal to 140 per cent of the average was substituted therefor.

A five-year average of the yield after these adjustments was obtained for each county. The adjustment for trends and significant changes in production practices was made by averaging the five-year average with the two-year average for 1964-65 after both had been adjusted for weather conditions, if the two-year average was higher than the five-year average.

If either the 1964 or 1965 harvested yield was less than the five-year average, the five-year average was substituted for the yield in that year in figuring the two-year average.

There was also an adjustment made for the change in regulations for counting acreage of cotton planted in skip-row patterns beginning with the 1966 crop. Briefly, the yield adjustment was based on a 30 per cent increase in acreage counted as cotton for acreage planted in patterns which skipped less than four rows.

Following these somewhat involved calculations, preliminary county projected yields were determined by: (1) obtaining a State average adjusted yield by weighting each county adjusted yield by its 1966 allotment, (2) finding a State "factor" by dividing the State projected yield by the State average adjusted yield, and (3) multiplying each county adjusted average yield by the State factor.

CONTEST WINNERS—These are the students who put Muleshoe high school in the top bracket in the Seminole speech tournament. They are Gary Sullivan, Carol Haire, Sherry Mason, Larry Meyers, Drussila Damron, John Gulley, Larry Baker and Renee' Dyer.

County ASCS office manager says it can be assumed that a similar procedure will be used in figuring projected yields for 1968.

If this be the case, and again using the average estimated yield reduction of 105 pounds per acre on the Plains, the average projected yield for 1968 would figure out to about 16 pounds per acre less than would have been the case with normal weather conditions in 1966.

This, of course, would again be adjusted by the State factor used to establish county yields -- something yet to be calculated.

On individual farms, actual yields for the three-year period 1964, 1965 and 1966 will be used in figuring 1968 projected yields. Therefore abnormal 1966 weather will have a considerably greater effect in some cases unless a proper adjustment can be obtained.

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of PCG, said "This is a problem which is going to require a great deal more work and study before a concrete solution is found. But we have already pointed out to USDA officials that substituting 80 per cent of the five-year average for those years when actual yields fell below that level hardly constitutes a full adjustment. And from the language used in the Agriculture Act of 1965 it should be obvious that Congress intended that a full adjustment be made."

MULESHOE STATE INTRODUCES
SPACE AGE BANKING

HERE'S WHAT THEY MEAN TO YOU

- 1 The popularity and convenience of bank checking accounts has resulted in an ever-increasing use of checks (13 billion checks written last year).
  - 2 To insure continued high standards of speed and accuracy, Muleshoe State and other leading banks turned to the field of electronics.
- After much research and testing, electronics experts came up with a solution accepted by all the banking industry: a specially designed set of numerals and symbols, printed on checks in magnetic ink (to make possible full utilization of electronics).
- 3 Through the use of checks imprinted with these special symbols Muleshoe State is preparing for the start of an amazing new banking process.

6 When the check is received at Muleshoe State it will start a quick but eventful trip through the electronic system. First, the special numerals and symbols will be sensitized with a magnetic charge.

7 Each symbol and numeral has a distinctive shape and is formed with a precise amount of ink, thus registering an individual "pattern" and enabling the electronic equipment to "read" account numbers, sort checks and perform other operations.

8 It is not only more accurate than the human eye but works at fantastic speed—sorting, for example, as many as 950 checks per minute.

9 The Muleshoe State has played a major role in developing time-saving methods to provide greater customer service. The use of electronics is now spreading to the entire banking industry.

Customers' blank checks are imprinted with the bank's number and the customer's account number, using a special metallic ink. The same ink will then be used to imprint the amount on each check after it arrives at the bank.

DEADLY DESIGNS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A architect, Norman Byar, says the architectural style of most church buildings may unwittingly be contributing to the "God-is-dead" school of thought.

"Most of our temples of worship today are neither traditional nor contemporary," says Byar, also a Methodist missions executive. "The majority are nondescript, uninspiring, water-down versions of a copy of some previous copy. They are in the words of Scripture, 'neither cold nor hot.' They are only 'lukewarm.'"
