Today And Tomorrow

By Frank Parker Stockbridge

SAMP—Mighty good eating. When I was a small boy down East...

GOLD—To market. The price of $35 an ounce for gold has naturally stimulated gold mining everywhere...

MUSIC—Neighborhood sings. I am not yet convinced that the radio is a good thing in all respects...

There is more social value, more that makes for love of home life and neighborly spirit...

In the part of New York where I hold up for the winter, Greenwich Village, we've been having these old-fashioned musical evenings...

Goree Senior and Junior Boys Win County Basketball. The Goree High School basketball team will go to Breckenridge this week end to represent Knox County...

The first game played by the local team here Friday was with the Vera team and won by the score of 43 to 14...

The Goree Junior boys won county championship by defeating Lone Star 18 to 13...

The Knox City senior girls won county championship in their division by defeating Trussett 43 to 3...

Mrs. E. H. Neff and daughter, Miss Lucille, Misses Irene Clifford and Mary Couch spent the week end in Dallas.

Mail Carriers of County Hold Meet Here On Tuesday

Rural mail carriers of Knox County held a get-together here on Monday evening with J. R. Burnison and Jim Goode as hosts...

Mr. Hyde expressed gratification over the fact that the Times had made arrangements with the Post-office Department for the transfer of the papers direct from Munday to Knox City...

Paul Pilgrim of Goree is close behind Mr. Hyde in point of years of service, having 23 years to his credit...

The carriers are hopeful that their scale of pay may soon be restored to the old scale, they having been given a cut by the present administration...

The carriers will hold their next meeting at Knox City in March.

Stage Attraction Will Appear at The Roxy, February 25

"Cupid" the $10,000.00 pony with the human brain has been on more college stages than has many of our leading lecturers...

Plant of Benjamin Post Damaged By Fire on Tuesday

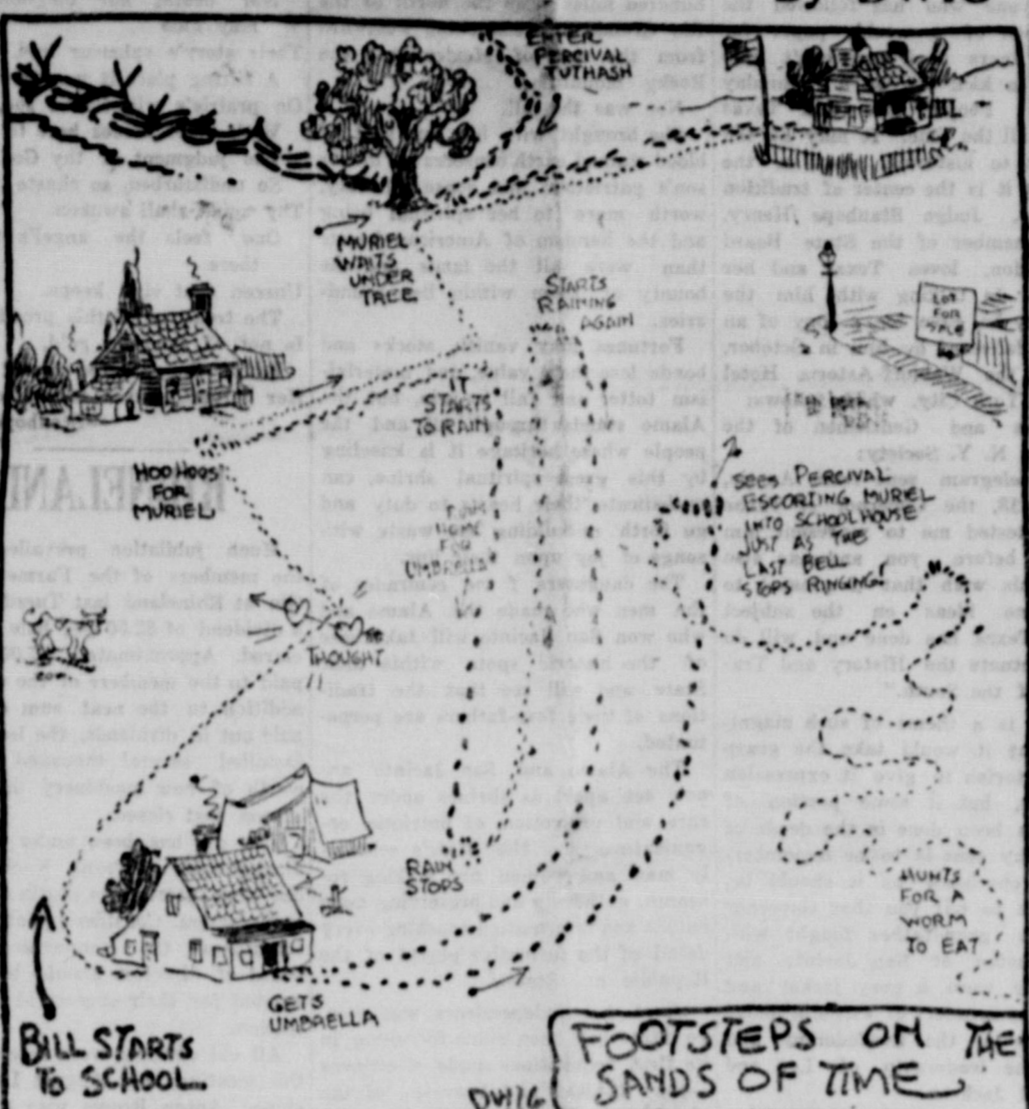

Fire originating from a trash fire at the rear of the building Tuesday at noon did much damage to the plant of the Benjamin Post at Benjamin. The linotype machine was probably the most damaged piece of machinery in the plant...

On Tuesday night, February 27th the local post of the American Legion will have a "feed"...

Mrs. Harlan M. Rains was honored with a shower Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ballenger and Mrs. Bob of Vernon came in Sunday...

Munday Gets Cut In Insurance Rate On Good Record

As a result of the exceedingly good fire record that has been established in Munday during the past two years, the State Insurance Commission has granted a reduction of 15 per cent on insurance rates...

This means a great saving to property owners within the corporate limits of the city, and the Munday Fire Department is to be congratulated upon the showing that it is making...

Munday and every municipality should fully realize that we build our own insurance rates. If we keep our losses to a minimum we are enabled to buy fire insurance protection at a minimum rate...

Knox Punchers Originate Term "Nester"

That the word "Nester" originated in Knox and Ford Counties is the contention of John M. Hendrix, one of the early day cowhands in these parts, and now secretary of the Sweetwater Board of City Development...

The term "nester" is purely of West Texas origin, for early records do not show that farmers coming into any other section of the Southwest were called by the same name...

Gardens and small feed patches were first necessities and these had to be protected with some sort of a fence...

There were four generalists represented, including thirty-one grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Mary Hope Smith of Munday, Texas was named on the "Honor Roll of Westmoorland College, according to the announcement of Dean George Plekens...

The paper is being published this week at the office of the Munday Times.

LIFE INSURANCE—THE SAFEST INVESTMENT

Melvin Traylor, Chicago banker, and former Texan, who died the other day, left the major portion of his estate in the form of life insurance. According to newspaper reports, life insurance companies will pay to Traylor's family one million dollars. It is stated that Traylor had in life refused numerous important political posts because the remuneration would not permit the payment of heavy insurance premiums which he paid annually. Mr. Traylor was regarded as one of the most outstanding bankers in the country, and as such, naturally had an insight on investments of every character, and if he, with the unusual opportunity to buy safe and sound securities, deemed life insurance the best investment, certainly those of us who have little knowledge or information concerning investments cannot go wrong in following his reasoning. Any man with a desire to provide for his loved ones after he has passed on can do so more surely and safely through life insurance.

IN AND AROUND THE CAPITOL
 By Julia A. Kennedy

Austin, Texas, Feb. 19.—Employees of the capitol will have a holiday the 22nd, Washington's birthday, and will observe Texas Independence Day March 2nd. The first named will have a peculiar thrill for me, inasmuch as it falls on Thursday and anyone who has followed the publication of a weekly paper for twenty years as I have can't help getting a kick out of a Thursday holiday. People here talk Texas history all the time. It may be the nearness to historical spots, or the fact that it is the center of tradition in Texas. Judge Stanhope Henry, senior member of the State Board of Pardon, loves Texas and her history. In talking with him the other day he gave me a copy of an address delivered by him in October, 1932, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City, which follows: "Ladies and Gentlemen of the Southern N. Y. Society: In a telegram sent from Austin, October 18, the Governor of Texas has requested me to represent him tonight before you and has also stated his wish that I present to you some ideas on the subject 'What Texas has done and will do to perpetuate the History and Traditions of the South.' 'Here is a theme of such magnitude that it would take the grasp of a historian to give it expression in words, but if some portion of what has been done in the deeds of her worthy sons is to be remembered and cherished as it should be, allow me to tell you that Governor Sterling's grandfather fought with Sam Houston at San Jacinto and his father was a grey jacket and fought the invaders of Virginia under the colors of the Confederacy and under the leadership of Lee and Stonewall Jackson. To one who loves the state of his birth as a man loves his venerable mother and who loves the state of his adoption as a boy does his first sweetheart, may I ask you what is it that the Lone Star State has not done, giving color and substance to her own history and that of the South and the Nation. Careful and colossal characters have trod the soil of Texas from the days when the first white man crossed the Red River and the Sabine and pitched their tents on her prairie sod. Houston, Austin, Lamar, Jones, Smith, Wallace DeZavella, Albert Sidney Johnson, Travis, Crockett, Bowie, Burleson, and a host of others represent so much of valor, heroism and character that it takes the background of the old Alamo and San Jacinto to fully reveal their heroic proportions. Through their sacrifice and courage and that of their followers, they won independence and reared for themselves a republic and a government worthy of free men which of its own free inclination, came into the Union of the United States a peer in her own right of any one of the original thirteen colonies.

Not as a territory nor yet as a state, an organized, functioning Republic knocked at the door of the United States in 1845, asking admission and like the greatest of the original thirteen, Texas came giving far more than she received, save in the admiration of mankind the world over. She added her own bright star to the Stars and Stripes already there, a fuller splendor to our national history and a vast domain of fertile land sweeping down nine hundred miles from the north to the Rio Grande and stretching westward from the Gulf of Mexico into the Rocky Mountains. Nor was this all. She brought with her one spot of blood-stained earth consecrated by her son's patriotism and sense of duty, worth more to her spiritual being and the heroism of American hearts than were all the lands and the bounty of them within her boundaries. Fortunes may vanish, stocks and bonds lose their value, and materialism totter and fall to ruin, but the Alamo stands through all and the people whose heritage it is kneeling by this great spiritual shrine, can re-dedicate their hearts to duty and go forth re-building the waste with songs of joy upon their lips. The daughters of the comrades of the men who made the Alamo and who won San Jacinto will take care of the historic spots within their State and will see that the traditions of their fore-fathers are perpetuated. The Alamo and San Jacinto are now set apart as shrines under the care and protection of patriotic organizations, and the State's scholars, men and women are making research gathering and preserving manuscripts and information touching every detail of the formative period of the Republic and State. Since her independence was won, the State has been more fortunate in its first acquisitions made of citizens—the boldest and bravest of the North and South, and the best that Germany had to send came and remained. Among those who came after Independence had been established was Elizabeth Ney, the widow of that great soldier of France, Marshal Ney pronounced by his Emperor to be "The Bravest of the Brave." This gifted and cultured woman possessed genius as a sculptor that placed her foremost among all women who have excelled in that art. Her strikingly handsome life-size marble statues of Houston and Austin guard the right and left of the front hall entering the rotunda of the Capitol of the State. The classic beauty and grace of Albert Sidney Johnson combined with the energy and dignity of his manly bearing, had caught the artistic eye of this sculptor of genius and when his earthly remains were returned to Texas, and laid to rest at Austin in the cemetery reserved by the State for her heroes and most illustrious sons, Elizabeth Ney carved the beautiful and soulful recumbent marble statue which has been placed above him there. This is truly an exquisite work of art that touches and challenges the soul of every beholder. The following lines, whatever they may be deemed as verse or poetry, are as much a tribute to this lovely artist as they are to her noble subject. With your kind indulgence, may I give them to you tonight: O sweetly sleep, heroic soul, A soldier's last rest taken, God's resurrecting bugles blown, Thy spirit shall awaken, The lofty mind, the fearless heart Were thine in life to hold, Nor death, nor torqued dust may hide Their story's splendor told. A fitting place it was for thee On prairie's wild-flower sod, With other heroes here to wait The judgment of thy God. So undisturbed, so chaste and fair Thy spirit shall awaken, One feels the angel's presence there Unseen that vigil keeps. The treasury of this proud state Is not of lands or gold, But in the gathered sacred dust Her heroes' graves may hold. —Stanhope Henry

RHINELAND
 Much jubilation prevailed among the members of the Farmers Union Gin at Rhineland last Tuesday when a dividend of $250 per bale was declared. Approximately $7,000 were paid to the members of the union. In addition to the neat sum of $7,000 paid out in dividends, the local plant installed several thousand dollars worth of new machinery during the season just closed. The gin has been under the able management of Frank Kuehler, who has been steering its destiny since its organization. Considering all adverse conditions the management and detail of directors should be complimented for their successful administration. All old officers were re-elected at the meeting, but August Loran resigned, Anton Brown was elected to fill the vacancy caused by his resignation. With labor furnished by the CWA the roof of our school was given a coat of asphalt, and one of the rooms calcimined during the last week. This week painters are busy putting on a new coat of paint on the windows of the frames of the school building. A surprise birthday party was given on Monday night for Mrs. Conrad Kuehler. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kuehler and son, Everett; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Bruggeman and daughter, Elizabeth, and son, Phillip; Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kuehler and son, Eugene; Messrs. Alpha Moore, Clement Albus and Alois Kuehler and Misses Loretta and Bertha Kuehler. Our English teacher, Miss Mary de Aguirre, has been absent from school for a few days on account of illness. Mrs. Molyette and children made a business trip to Dallas on Friday of last week. Eugene Mielke made a business trip to Houston last Monday. Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Hand were in Seymour Sunday afternoon where Rev. Hand assisted in the funeral services for D. M. Norwood, pioneer newspaper man and life-long friend of the local pastor. Mrs. Tom Haney accompanied by Lavern and Jimmie Haney visited relatives in Wichita Falls Sunday.

Beauties in Favor of More President's Birthdays

NEW YORK. . . The above six American girls are wishing that President Roosevelt would have birthdays more often. This last one, with parties for the Warm Springs Foundation fund, brought them an unexpected holiday vacation, in a trip to Bermuda. The girls are the favorite models of one of America's best known girl beauty artists, Howard Chandler Christie, McColland Barclay, John Lottista, Arthur William Brown, James Montgomery Plagg, and Carl Maeller. They were selected to model in a Fashion Review aboard the SS "Queen of Bermuda." The girls (left to right) are Dorothy Isaacs, Dorothy Jacobson, Claire Coulter, Winn Strickland Betty Hubcock and Babe Skanton. They sailed to Bermuda the next day for Bermuda.

J. A. Kennedy and Jesse Burison are visiting their families in Austin, over the week-end.

Attorneys M. F. Billingsley and I. S. Kendall are attending district court in Benjamin this week.

"STYLE" TOPIC OF PATTERN SCHOOL, CONDUCTED BY A. & M. COLLEGE EXPERT

"Let's let STYLE be our watchword in our wardrobe work this year and adapt our foundation patterns to the present day trends," said Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist in the Extension Department, A. & M. College in talking to a group of twenty-five wardrobe demonstrators, representing 23 home demonstration clubs in Haskell, Baylor and Knox Counties, in the basement of the Methodist Church, at Munday, on February 15.

In learning the different uses of these foundation patterns, these demonstrators made bishop, bell, short puff, log-o-mutton, Dolman and raglan sleeves, fitted slips, pajamas and plain collars. The afternoon was spent in each woman designing a dress suitable for herself and making a paper pattern that she would be able to use.

Miss Myrtle Murray, District 2 Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Johnnie Reed, Haskell County Home Demonstration Agent and 9 wardrobe demonstrators, Miss Marie Strange, Baylor County Home Demonstration Agent, and 7 wardrobe demonstrators, Miss Jewell Faulkner, Knox County Home Demonstration Agent and 7 wardrobe demonstrators and Mrs. Dora R. Barnes attended this school and had dinner together.

Itinerary of Jewell Faulkner, Home Demonstration Agent, For 4th Week in February:
Monday—Office.
Tuesday—Vera girls; Lonestarr home visits.
Wednesday—Goree and Gillespie home visits.
Thursday—Truscott girls.
Friday—Union Grove girls; Knox City women.
Saturday—Benjamin, council meeting.

GILLILAND L.H. CLUB GIRL IMPROVES HER BEDROOM

"My room is small, very crowded and dark but I believe it can be made into a bright, comfortable and restful bedroom with a lot of work," said Frances McGuire, bedroom demonstrator in the Gilliland L.H. club. "I am determined in so that necessary work, so that I can have a room that I will be proud of and enjoy keeping," she further stated. "It will have to have the floors, walls and woodwork refinished. The walls will be papered with a light paper and the woodwork painted light in order to make it as light as possible. I only have one window in the room and if possible I hope to put in another window to help make the room still lighter. I plan to refinish the furniture and make all the units in my bedroom the same color."
"My closet is a very inexpensive one, made of beaverboard, built to the ceiling with a drop shelf making it possible to store some things that are not in use all the time. Even though my closet is an inexpensive one it meets all the requirements of a standard closet, having a rod, shoe and hat rack and some shelves."
and Mesdames H. A. Pendleton, W. R. Moore, W. H. Chapman, Fred S. Broach, Avis Maples, M. F. Billingsley and Mrs. R. D. Atkinson.

NESTER . . .

wire. The brush they stacked against the inside of the clearing all of the way around, making it wide at the bottom for a base and tapering towards the top, beating it down as they went so that it would lay closely. When finished the structure was five or six feet high enclosing a patch or small field that was fenced not only cattle proof, but due to the hard mesquite thorns, rabbit proof as well.

Completed, it resembled nothing on earth so much as a huge bird's nest. Passing cowboys, accustomed to all their lives to giving names to creeks, peaks, and cow ponies from some occurrence or significant appearance, soon saw the likeness and began calling the patches, or fields "bird's nests" and their owners "nesters." Sometime where a fair-sized settlement of nesters lived in or close to one of the large ranches it was referred to by the cowboys as a "nester-mont" instead of a settlement.

Cowboys carrying on out to the plains country hurried the story to the ranches there that the nesters were taking the country and would soon be on out there. They came and brought the name nester with them, and nesters they are until this day.

Hotbeds To Raise Early Plants

"If I can just sell enough tomato plants out of my hotbed to pay for what expenses I have gone to, to get it fixed up, I will be perfectly satisfied," said Mrs. J. B. Rouseau, Munday Home Demonstration Club. "I feel that plants raised in this country and acclimated to this particular territory will be much better, and I hope I will be able to raise more tomatoes especially," she said. "Besides raising all those plants I hope to be able to raise some green vegetables during the winter months to use fresh and I believe I can if I have a good tight hotbed."

FRESH SUGAR-CURED PORK FOR SALE
See Dr. Smith for nice fresh country-cured hams, shoulders and sides as reasonable as anybody. He just doesn't believe in letting cut-throat packers get it for two cents and send it right back to us a fourteen to nineteen cents.
To whom do you think the extra profit should go: the one who grows it and feeds the world, or cut-throat price manipulators? Call 62. Orders delivered.
