

Views From Another Point

by Joyce Beecher Greenwood

Those little samplers we see everywhere with little uplifting phrases like: "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella" or "Gather Ye Rosebuds While Ye May" are meant, I know, to soothe and encourage people like me who tend to race through life with blinders on. But, do they ever kind of aggravate you? Sometimes I'm afraid I lean toward being a "misery loves company" person and I just flat don't feel like being soothed or encouraged.

Not long ago I stepped into an elevator with what seemed then like the weight of the world on my shoulders.

"Hold the elevator!" someone shouted, and as I caught the door, a jovial looking young man with an almost cherubic face and a well-fed look hurried in and smiled his thanks.

His physique was more fitted to overcoats than the T-shirt he wore, but the inscription on the shirt was what caught my attention: "If Life Hands You Lemons---Make Lemonade!"

His smiling face and bright eyes looked as though he had never been handed a lemon in his life. If he'd had a beard, he'd have looked more like a red-haired Santa Claus than a happy kid conveying the message to tired and worried old women to make lemonade from life's lemons. The cynical part of me wanted to comment, "That's a nice thought. Now, where's your recipe?"

The fact is, it's very hard to take some of the hard knocks life throws our way and even survive -- much less turn them into something positive. Sometimes it seems only the very strong or very faithful are able to do it and I stand in awe of people like that who live every day with pain and despair and can still present a brave face to the world. When I meet people who have had more heartaches than I have ever known and struggle valiantly to keep going, little uplifting phrases seem almost out of place and grossly inadequate.

There is one little prayer, however, that seems always to pop up when I most need some extra strength or comfort. A friend of mine told me it's the creed used by the Alcoholics Anonymous Association, but it was first handed to me -- tossed disgustingly into my lap, really -- when I was still very young.

Tommy and I, like every young couple, set out to set the world on fire. We were going to make a beautiful and comfortable home and have more money than we could ever spend. But, somebody didn't follow the script. Our crops were hailed out, we had bank notes we couldn't pay and a "Past Due" bill every time we went to the mailbox at the end of the dirt road in front of our house. It finally became apparent that we were going to have to temporarily close the old farmhouse that had become home and go somewhere to find work. Tommy called his brother-in-law, a contractor in Fort Worth, and hired on as a carpenter's helper. And, because I had grown up in the sanctuary of a loving and protective family, I had no wish to brave the unknown elements of the city. The best way out just seemed to be to throw a fit. I couldn't sleep -- wouldn't eat -- and had bouts of sitting and crying until Tommy insisted I go see kindly Dr. Markward who said I needed bedrest and promptly put me into the hospital - which seemed even more dramatic.

Tommy came to see me and told me he'd work everything out and we'd be all right. Daddy came to see me and held my hand, his black eyes conveying his concern. Mother came to see me and her snapping brown eyes told me if Tommy and Daddy would leave her alone, she'd yank

THIS COUNTY ROAD, heavily damaged by September rains, will be rebuilt and protected by a grade stabilization structure called a rock gabion designed by the Soil Conservation Service. Work on the road is expected to begin in February.

SCS Approves Special Project Near Rhineland

Funding has recently been approved to carry out a special erosion control project just east of Rhineland. This project will rework the county road which was closed by heavy rains this past September. A structure called a rock gabion will be installed just north of the county road to drop runoff water approximately fourteen feet to the lower level which is on a more stable grade. This structure, when complete, will prevent further headcutting action which in time could reach FM2534 which runs south of Rhineland.

Currently a large headcut extends across the county road and inland owned by John Lee Wilde. This area will be filled with compacted earth-fill to raise the level of the road. After completion, a waterway south of the road and the area being shaped adjacent to the structure will be established to permanent vegetation.

This project called for special funding due to the scope and nature of the problem. Prior to this time no other cost-share programs offered enough assistance to be feasible to use. A large portion of the funding for this project is being made available from Washington, D.C. Additional funds from the Soil Conservation Service were combined with that from Washington to fund a 65% cost-share contract with Knox County.

If everything goes as planned, work should begin sometime in February. Design, layout, and inspection of the project is to be carried out by Soil Conservation Service personnel.

As always the services of the Soil Conservation Service are available through cooperation with the Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District.

me out of that bed and straighten me up.

Then, one day, as I lay wallowing in my misery, a nurse who probably was not old, but seemed then to be, came into my room. Her face looked tired and her uniform no longer fresh and stiff at what was probably the end of a very long work day.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked.

Good. Somebody didn't know so I could tearfully tell it all over again.

"...and I don't know how we'll get by. I don't even know how we'll pay this hospital bill." and my wails increased.

She looked at me for a long time and then picked up Christy's picture from the bedside table.

"Is this your baby?"

"Yes."

"Pretty baby," she put the picture down, carefully. "How old are you?"

"Nineteen."

"Nineteen," she repeated, more to herself than to me. "Lots of people would love to be nineteen again."

She left the room, but returned a little later and pitched a magazine onto my bed.

"Brought you something to read," she mumbled and was gone.

When I picked it up, she had "dog-eared" one of the pages so that it fell open there and on that page was printed:

"God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change; The courage to change the things I can; And the wisdom to know the difference." And she had underlined the line... "The courage to change the things I can."

I can't say it made a great impact on my life at that time, but over the years I have found myself assessing many situations with that little prayer in mind. There are things in all our lives that can be changed with a little hard work and a whole lot of faith, and then there are those things that finally have to be accepted for what they are. Sometimes we may bat our heads repeatedly into brick walls before we realize it, but God eventually lets us figure it out.

My Daddy was my best friend and when we lost him, I didn't see how I could make it. My friend, Glenda (Mayo) Cameron came for his funeral and as she started to return home, she handed me a gift. It was not flung at me -- it was presented with love. And, it was not in a magazine -- it was on a beautifully inscribed plaque. But, it was my serenity prayer -- reminding me once again that my dad's death was something I had to accept and God would give me the serenity to accept it if I'd just let Him.

Maybe that, after all, is the recipe for turning bad things into positive outlooks. Maybe the little "lemonade" man had already figured it out.

Maybe he was smarter than he looked.

What Jesus Taught

by Dr. Larry Fitzgerald
Minister, Munday Church of Christ

Q. Is it true that churches of Christ support the sale of pornography through its support of the National Coalition Against Censorship?

A. No, it is not true. Independent churches of Christ do not support the organization known as the National Coalition Against Censorship (NCAC). When I contacted NCAC they were less than helpful about details concerning their membership. However, through journals I found that their membership does include the National Council of the Churches of Christ (a council made up of several supporting denominations). This organization has no ties with independent churches of Christ. Another member of NCAC is the United Church of Christ (a denomination found primarily in the northeast) again not associated with independent churches of Christ.

It is interesting that the NCAC has so many religious and humanist members since the organization fights any attempt by religious groups to boycott stores which sell pornography. The NCAC says that any effort to exercise freedom of speech (opposing pornography) is "censorship."

Leaders of independent churches of Christ oppose pornography because it is against the Bible and it promotes sexual addiction. Pornography and filthy language is called "lasciviousness" or "licentiousness" or "wantonness" in the Bible. It comes from the Greek word aselgeia. Many scriptures denounce lasciviousness (e.g. Mark 7:22; 2 Corinthians 12:21; Galatians 5:19; Ephesians 4:19; 1 Peter 4:3; Jude 4; and Romans 13:13).

I was surprised to find religious groups that support this organization. Religious members of NCAC include: United Methodist Communications of the United Methodist Church, Unitarian Universalist Association, American Jewish Congress along with humanists or atheistic organizations such as American Ethical Union, People for the American Way, Planned Parenthood Federation of America, National Education Association and American Library Association and the American Civil Liberties Union.

I fail to understand how Christians could support the sale of pornography. It is every American's right to not support businesses which sell items offensive to our morals as well as being detrimental to society. It is illegal to yell "fire" in a crowded movie house because it could harm someone.

Yet, some people say it is "free speech" to distribute material which has been proven to promote rape, incest and other sexual crimes. Such "reasoning" isn't rational.

LABEL READING FOR FATS

Remember when it used to take about 15 to 20 minutes to shop? Not any more. With a typical supermarket offering about 20,000 different items all containing any number of ingredients -- many of which are unknown to consumers, grocers, etc. -- reading labels is the best way to discover if what you will eat fits into healthy lifestyles. Health-conscious consumers are seeking foods with less total fat and saturated fatty acids as well as other nutrients such as sodium and sugars. Label reading for these consumers is essential since so many processed foods contain hidden sources.

NUTRITION LABELS

Many manufacturers include nutrition information on food labels. These labels show the amount of fat (in grams) in a serving. The product's percentage of calories from fat, the amount of polyunsaturated fatty acids (saturates), and cholesterol may also be listed. Amounts of monounsaturated fatty acids are seldom listed on labels. With this information, you can compare the fat and cholesterol content of different products. For example, the labels on two products from the same manufacturer show that compared to mayonnaise, an imitation (reduced-calorie) mayonnaise may contain only half as much fat.

The real mayonnaise label has a total of 11 grams of fat (6 grams polyunsaturates and 2 grams saturates) and the imitation mayonnaise has a total of 5 grams of fat (3 grams polyunsaturates and 1 gram saturates).

INGREDIENT LABELS

The labels of most packaged and processed foods include a list of ingredients. Ingredients are listed by weight, with the item present in the greatest amount listed first and the item present in the least amount listed last. Although amounts of ingredients are not given, the order, number, and types of fats listed can be helpful.

As shown below, both mayonnaise and imitation (reduced-calorie) mayonnaise contain such unsaturated fatty acids as soybean oil. The imitation mayonnaise has more water (first item listed on the label) than the regular mayonnaise and has added carbohydrates (food starch).

Mayonnaise ingredients - soybean, oil, eggs, water, vinegar, egg yolks, salt, sugar, lemon juice, paprika, dehydrated garlic, dehydrated onion, calcium disodium EDTA to protect flavor, natural flavor.

Imitation (Reduced-Calorie) Mayonnaise ingredients - water, soybean oil, food starch-modified, egg yolks, vinegar, salt, eggs, mustard, flour, phosphoric acid, ditocopheryl acetate (vitamin E), calcium disodium EDTA to protect flavor, natural and artificial flavor, oleoresin, paprika, beta carotene (color).

RETIREMENT AGE OF MALES CONTINUES TO DECLINE

The average age of retirement for U.S. male workers has been steadily declining, according to data from the U.S. Department of Labor. In 1960, 33 percent of males 65 and older remained in the workforce; in 1980, the percentage has dropped to 19 percent, and by the year 2000, only 10 percent of men 65 and older are expected to be working.

COUNTY LIVESTOCK SHOW TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

This week is very important to many 4-H and FFA youth in Knox County as they prepare their entries for the annual Knox County Junior Livestock Show at the Knox City Bus Barn. The show is being sponsored by the Brazos Valley Young Farmers.

This year all animals are scheduled to arrive at 9 a.m. on Friday, January 12 and remain on the grounds until after the premium sale at 3 p.m. on Saturday, January 13. This will allow the spectators more time to see the exhibits.

The show is scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. Friday, January 12 with the judging of broilers. Ed Blankenship will serve as the judge of the broilers.

Immediately after the broiler judging, John Thurwanger of Weinert will judge rabbits to determine the best entries of many breeds of does, bucks, pen of three fryers and best single fryer.

At 5:30 p.m., the lamb show will begin with Jim Leech of Albany serving as the judge.

At 8 p.m. swine exhibitors will check weights of their projects to determine the specific class to be shown.

The swine show will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, January 13, with Lanny Tucker of Memphis serving as the judge.

Immediately after the swine judging is finished the heifer judging will be held followed by the steer judging.

At 3 p.m. on Saturday, the premium sale will be held with Royce Miller of Vera serving as auctioneer.

This show will give the people of Knox County an idea of how much time and hard work has been spent to present these outstanding animals.

BOOST CATTLE WITH NUTRIENT SUPPLEMENTS IN WINTER

Cattle graze pastures all year long, but the nutrient composition changes with the seasons, and fall and winter diets are generally low in protein, minerals and vitamins, and thus usually inadequate for grazing beef cattle.

Once the grass has stopped growing and loses its green lush appearance, it becomes coarse and fibrous and loses much nutritive quality.

The crude protein content of grass falls, as well as loss of vitamins, and the forage becomes harder for cattle to digest.

Animals consuming diets low in protein lose their appetite, develop a rough appearance, become weak and possess lowered resistance to disease, and overall growth, reproduction and calf weights are greatly reduced.

Some people think cattle can simply consume more to make up the needed nutrients, however, as the grass is slowly digested, consumption is lowered and the animals receive even less nutrients.

If the protein is added to this type of diet, digestion will increase, and eventually the animal will eat more.

Protein supplements are available in many types and forms, such as cubes, cakes and liquids. Each will vary in nutrient composition and concentration, and the producers should be aware of the protein amount. Producers should check for prices for the lowest cost of protein supplement to feed cattle.

Since protein is required for growth and milk production, protein requirements for developing heifers and lactating cows are higher than for dry, pregnant cows.

Also the amount of dry matter (energy), minerals, vitamins and protein should all be considered when a deficiency occurs.

When energy is low, some grain should be fed as an energy supplement along with protein to make up the difference.

Arbor Foundation Offers Free Trees

Ten free trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during January, 1990.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten trees are the sugar maple, white flowering dogwood, pin oak, white pine, red maple, birch, American redbud, silver maple, red oak, and Colorado blue spruce.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between February 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by January 31, 1990.

USDA Announces 0-25 Program Signup Dates

An official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that signup in the new 0-25 program for soybeans will be January 16 through February 16 for 1990 crops. Since sunflowers and safflowers may also be planted on conservation use acres as approved nonprogram crops, signup for those crops is not required.

Dan Shaw, acting vice president of USDA's Commodity Credit Corp., said section 504 of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, provides authority to offer a 0-25 program to producers for planting soybeans, sunflowers and safflowers on 1990 program crop base acreage and allows producers to have this acreage considered as being planted to the program crop for crop history purposes.

Producers may sign up to plant soybeans on no more than 25 percent of their permitted acreages for 1990 wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton and rice. Producers participating in this option will not lose or gain farm acreage base or individual crop acreage bases on their farms as a result of 0-25 plantings.

Following the signup period, USDA will estimate whether, based on the anticipated additional 0-25 soybean plantings, the average market price for the 1990 crop of soybeans will be less than $498 per bushel (110 percent of the 1989 loan rate for soybeans of $4.53 per bushel). If the soybean price is expected to be below this level, CCC will reduce or eliminate all or a portion of the permitted acreage that may be planted to soybeans under this program. Program benefits other than soybean price support loans and purchases will not be available to producers who participate in the 0-25 program. Producers may obtain further information from county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

Long-Term Care Policies Protect Assets

By John Hester, LUTCF

Throughout the years we have been planning our future with retirement plans such as life insurance and IRAs and protecting our assets from serious illness with major medical plans and our income with a disability income policy.

But have we totally protected ourselves for the future? Ask yourselves this question: Am I protected financially if I have to enter a long-term care facility?

Our nation has a growing senior citizen population of over 30,000,000 and is increasing rapidly each year. Estimates are that as many as one in every two people that reach age 65 will eventually be in a nursing home. The average cost for confinement in a nursing home today is $22,000 per year with an average stay of 30 months.

More than one million senior citizens sink into poverty each year because of medical expenses for themselves or family members. Seventy-five percent of the non-institutionalized frail rely solely on family members or friends for convalescent care.

If you are one of the many who will someday need long-term care, ask yourself this question: What are my options? Will I be able to use Medicare, Medicaid, personal or family funds or some other financial source?

Medicare does not fill the gap because it pays only if you are confined in a "skilled" nursing home which has been approved and certified by Medicare and covers this expense for a maximum of 100 days. Medicare pays, on the average, less than 2 percent of senior citizens nursing home expenses. Most of the cost of nursing home care is "custodial care," routine activities such as getting out of bed, walking, eating and bathing. Neither Medicare nor most Medicare supplements cover custodial or intermediate care.

Since Medicare or Medicare supplements do not cover most long-term expenses or extended ailments, one's life savings can be quickly drained. Medicaid does not fill the gap because Medicaid is a federal program designed to finance health services for the poor. Medicaid will not pay long-term care benefits if a person's total assets, excluding homestead, are greater than $2,000 for an individual and an income of greater than $1,104/month or $3,000 for a couple and an income greater than $2,208/month. All personal funds must be virtually used up. To be eligible for Medicaid you must "spend down" your assets or transfer excess assets 30 months prior to entering a nursing home. Of the nursing home residents now receiving Medicaid, only 50 percent were "poor enough" to qualify when they entered.

The other 50 percent became that way after they had been in a nursing home and all personal funds were gone. Nursing home care is the primary catastrophic expense for the senior citizens today.

Experts are saying to start saving from $50,000 to $200,000 to pay for long-term health care if you're one of the 34.9 million who will be age 65 or older in the year 2000. This saving should start before one is 50 years of age.

The only cure for this catastrophic expense is a long-term care insurance plan. This is a way of protecting your assets from being depleted. It reduces the risk of financial burden of paying for the high cost of long-term care.

Long-term care insurance policy should be affordable, guaranteed renewable for life, all benefits begin with first day coverage, cost of living rider to offset inflation, premiums which do not increase due to age, waiver of premium and have an optional hospital stay. The policy should have benefits for Alzheimer's disease and home health care.

Everyone should look into this growing dilemma, either for himself or herself, parents, relatives or others for whom you love and care. You and only you can protect your life savings.

County Residents Offer Assistance During Holidays

County residents once again came to the aid of the Knox County Child Welfare Board in a big way during the holidays, contributing funds and an abundance of gifts for the needy children of the county.

Sammy B. White, of Knox City, board advisor, expressed his thanks to county residents for their generosity and help during the holiday season.

"However, the need of the Child Welfare Board and youngsters in the county is not seasonal. There are youngsters who need assistance all year long," White said.

Individuals interested in offering assistance to the Welfare Board through donations of time, money, or gifts, by being foster parents, or by being a volunteer just to help a child who needs love and understanding, are encouraged to call Sammy White at the Texas Department of Human Services in Knox City.

The Lord's Corner

by Dr. Pete Bradfield, pastor
First Baptist Church

In Cooperstown, New York, stands a monument of the great men who have excelled at the game of baseball. They are all there - Ruth...DiMaggio...Cobb...men who helped make baseball a household word - filling the Baseball Hall of Fame and providing encouragement for those who would seek to follow in their steps.

Are you discouraged in your walk with God? Have you almost concluded that the Christian life is a hopeless assignment, that walking by faith in a godless society is impossible? Then spend some long moments in the Believer's Hall of Fame - Hebrews chapter 11. There you'll find those who excelled in the life of faith. If you have any doubt that it is spiritually possible to walk by faith, just study their lives.

See you next week and remember: live your life in such a way that it would not make sense if God did not exist.

Former Munday Mogul, Anthony Stinnett, has signed a letter-of-intent to play for the Texas Tech Red Raiders next year.

Stinnett, who has played wide receiver for Cisco Junior College the past two years, must graduate from junior college before he will be eligible to play for Tech because he didn't have the core curriculum when he graduated from high school. He plans to graduate in May.

Named the Class A Player of the Year for 1987-88, Anthony's other accomplishments on the high school gridiron included all-district split end and cornerback as a sophomore, all-district quarterback as a junior and all-district running back as a senior. Hereceived all-state honors as a junior and senior and named the district's most valuable player in 1987.

EPIPHANY
Epiphany comes from the Greek word meaning "Manifestation". It is the term used for an official visit of a King or Emperor to some city of his realm. The apostles applied this term to Christ's manifesting Himself as a Divine King (Saviour) in 2 Timothy 1:10 and in Titus 1:3, 4.

Epiphany started as a feast of the Lord's nativity celebrated on the day of the winter solstice in Egypt, which was twelve days behind the Julian Calendar (the one we use today). This festival also included the commemoration of the Magi's visit and adoration.

Here is a poem, written by William E. Brooks, which I found in the Christmas Ideals book from 1972 which tells of the visit of the Wise Men to the Infant.

THREE KINGS
To Bethlehem town in the long ago
Three kings of the East came riding;

Over the plains where the hot sands glow,
And over the mountains deep in snow,
Seeking the King in the manger low...

Three kings of the East ariding.
To the inn they came, to the stable room,
And they bowed them low before Him;

And spices and gold and rare perfume
They piled at His feet in the gathering gloom,

But the Christ Child's eyes lit up the room
As He smiled at the gray heads o'er Him.

Then into the night to their lands afar,
The bells on their camels ringing,
They took their way where the wide plains are,
But gone from the sky was the Christmas star,
And strangely gone were the fears that mar,
While peace in their hearts was singing.

And ever as dawns the Christmas Day,
The worn old world goes faring,
Seeking the place where the young Child lay,
Where the kings of the East bowed low to pray...

And peace was born to abide alway
In the hearts that were long despairing.

As we begin a new decade, with all the troubles in the world, let's remember to keep the Christ Child in our hearts and do our part to bring peace to our community, our state, our nation, and our world. Remember the Epiphany, when God manifested Himself in the birth of the Christ Child.

Come join us as we celebrate the manifestation of God in Jesus Christ. ***

Truscott-Gilliland News

By Mrs. Clara Brown

Grandma's Sunday Dinner will be Sunday, January 14, at the Truscott Community Center.

The past week has been cold and clear, without much wind. Next chance for rain is supposed to be Thursday of this week.

Lee Moore from Virginia is visiting his parents, Ruth and Shirley Moore. He is planning to visit relatives in Amarillo while in Texas.

Funeral services for Jimmy Keith of Holliday were set for Monday, January 8, at Wichita Falls with burial in Holliday. He once lived in Gilliland and married Cordelia New.

Corinne New spent Saturday, December 24, visiting her son and his wife, Parker and Jane New, in Pandora and Christmas Day with James and Vicky New at Bourne.

Helen and Leon Kincaid visited Clara Owens last week.

Phillip Cook of Mesquite visited his parents, A.L. and Frances Cook, New Year's weekend.

Mildred Cook of Gilliland and Stacia Cook of Munday were in Wichita Falls Sunday to visit Howard Cook who was in Bethania Hospital for tests.

Dwayne Plunk of Stratford, son-in-law of Owen and Irene New, is back teaching after a hospital stay. In 1983 Dwayne was severely injured when a rim blew off a tire and truck him on the face. Recently some of the plastic used to replace bone in his face became a problem and set up an infection. However, it was discovered some bone regrowth had taken place and the plastic was removed, the problem has cleared and he is back at work.

Irene New visited her sister Angie at Quannah Thursday. Angie had the flu so Irene took her to the doctor and she is better now.

The flu has also been active in Truscott and Gilliland as it has been all over North Texas the last few weeks.

Alan Hinkle was by last week to ask about the bear stories. He shared some stories from the 50s and 60s from people who may have seen mountain lions in the Pease River country of Foard County and near Gilliland.
