Air Force Announces Candidate Sites For Communication Tower

The Air Force recently announced five candidate sites for possible location of the Ground Wave Emergency Network (GWEN) tower in north central Texas.

The sites include:

- Site No. 1, located four miles west of the town of Red Springs on the south side of U.S. Route 82.

- Site No. 2, located one and one-half miles east of the town of Vera on the south side of U.S. Route 82.

- Site No. 3, located one mile south of the town of Rhineland on the east side of Farm to Market Route 267.

- Site No. 4, located one and one-half miles south of the town of Rhineland on the west side of Farm to Market Route 267.

- Site No. 5, located four and one-half miles west of the town of Red Springs, 1,300 feet east of Farm to Market Route 267 on the south side of U.S. Route 82.

According to GWEN program manager Lt. Col. Stephen Martin, a preliminary site evaluation for each of the candidate sites is being sent to local elected officials and appropriate agencies for their review and comment. Federal, regional, state and local agencies were asked to identify environmental issues and concerns during the screening process to locate candidate sites.

"These preliminary evaluations are being informally circulated to ensure that the information collected is as accurate as possible," Martin said.

The Air Force is also providing copies of the Environmental Impact Statement for this final developmental phase of the GWEN program to: Baylor County Library in Seymour and the City-County Library in Munday.

While the review is going on, the Air Force will continue environmental and operational studies and begin land acquisition investigations to identify a preferred GWEN site. Once this process is complete, the environmental analysis will be documented in an Environmental Assessment.

Stock Show Approaching

The annual Knox County Junior Livestock Show will be held January 12 and 13 in the show barn in Knox City. The show is sponsored by the Brazos Valley Young Farmers.

Watch for complete details of the show in next week's issue of the Courier.

WESLEY STYLES, left, recently appointed 50th Judicial District Attorney Investigator, was given the oath of office by 50th District Judge David Hajek in a ceremony in the Baylor County Courtroom in Seymour on December 1, 1989. The appointment was announced by 50th District Attorney Bobby Burnett. Styles was born and raised in Baylor County and served as Baylor County Sheriff from 1951 through 1969 when he was appointed a Texas Ranger and assigned to Huntsville. Styles has retired from the Texas Rangers and has moved back to Seymour, along with his wife, Betty.

ment that will result in either a Finding of No Significant Impact or an Environmental Impact Statement for each site needed for a GWEN tower.

These documents will be submitted for formal review through the interagency/intergovernmental coordination for environmental planning process. The Air Force's goal is to site the program in areas where there would be minimal or no environmental impact.

GWEN is an integral part of the Strategic Modernization Program approved by Congress. The unmanned and automated data system relays emergency and wartime messages among national command authorities, strategic military facilities such as radars and command posts, and Strategic Air Command bases.

Located at 150-200 mile intervals across the United States, the network of radio relay nodes includes towers, similar to transmitters used by commercial radio stations, to relay the messages via low frequency radio waves. The system ensures that vital messages flow to top military leaders and operational forces.

GWEN relay stations, which occupy about 11 acres, include a 299-foot tower, guy wires, fences and three small shelters each about the size of a truck-carried camper unit.

Relay site transmissions do not interfere with television or radio broadcasts, pacemakers or garage door openers. Broadcast power for each tower is between 2,000 and 3,000 watts.

Air Force Systems Command's Electronic Systems Division, located at Hanscom AFB, Massachusetts, is developing GWEN.

HANK MATTHEWS sorted his last bit of mail on Friday, December 29, 1989 and turned in his mail bag, choosing a life of retirement, after 30 years of service to the United States Postal Service. He plans to spend his leisure time fishing and doing those things around the house that were postponed until now.

"Hank" Matthews Retires From U.S. Postal Service

Henry Matthews Jr., better known by his friends as "Hank", sorted his last bit of mail last Friday, December 29, 1989, and joined the ranks of the retired community after 30 years of service to the United States Postal Service.

Hank began his employment with the post office in the 1950's working as substitute rural carrier, under postmaster Lee Haymes. He served in that capacity for 5 1/2 years until October 25, 1962 when he became a part time clerk in the Munday post office. On March 26, 1966, under postmaster Chan Hughes, he became a full time carrier for Route 2. The route originally included only the Rhineland area; however as more patrons chose the rural life, the route grew to include residents in the Weintert and Sunset areas.

Hank says the biggest change seen during his 30 years as mail carrier has been in road conditions in the county.

"Roads that were open when I first started delivering the mail have been washed away and are no longer roadways," Matthews commented.

He also said he had seen some deer, bobcat, and had a few confrontations with rattlesnakes during his years of mail delivery.

Hank recalls his years at the post office as happy and said he has met a lot of good people along the way.

Hanks doesn't plan to sit idle after retirement. His plans include doing some chores around the house, fishing, and he might work part time some. "But," he said, "I'm not looking for a job!"

He and his wife Winters are the parents of three children, Dowell of Anson, Susan Burgin of Groom and Vickie Albert of Rio Rancho, N.M., and they have seven grandchildren.

No doubt much of his time will be spent enjoying those grandkids.

Telephone Customers To Pay Fee To Fund 9-1-1 Service

Beginning this month, telephone customers across Texas will pay a monthly fee of 50 cents per line to fund the costs of "Enhanced 9-1-1 (E 9-1-1)" emergency phone service, Robert J. Meyers, division general manager for GTE Southwest announced.

The E 9-1-1 service is designed to enable police, fire and medical organizations to respond quickly to emergencies. It will be established in most Texas communities within the next 18 months to two years.

Customers are being cautioned that until the E 9-1-1 service is established in their areas to continue dialing the fire department, police and ambulance service the way they do now.

"Many Texas cities and communities already have 9-1-1 emergency service," said Meyers. "House Bill 911, which was adopted by the Texas Legislature two years ago, authorized establishment of the enhanced 9-1-1 service in rural areas as well."

House Bill 911 mandated the creation of the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications, which is authorized to charge residents the monthly fee plus an equalization surcharge to finance the 9-1-1 service. The law gives local governments the option of adopting resolutions to join planning activities spearheaded by councils of government or planning commissions to establish E 9-1-1 service. The monthly surcharge to customers is two-tenths of one percent (0.20%) on long-distance calls within the state.

House Bill 911 designates local telephone companies, including GTE Southwest, to collect the monthly emergency service fee and equalization surcharge on behalf of regional planning districts to fund 9-1-1 service.

"E 9-1-1 is a sophisticated serv-

Weekend Robbers Hit Local M-System

No suspects have been apprehended in the weekend break-in and robbery at the local M-System store, according to Henry Dancer, Knox County Sheriff. Taken in the robbery was a small safe containing an undetermined amount of money, food stamps, and checks.

The break-in was discovered at 7:30 a.m. Monday, New Year's Day, by Gordon Smith, store manager. Smith noticed that a bar was removed from the back door and locks were on the floor. After further checking, he discovered his office door had been kicked in and the safe was missing. The front part of the store was apparently not bothered.

The robbers apparently gained entrance through air vents in the compressor room.

Investigating the robbery were Knox County Sheriff Henry Dancer and Munday Police Chief Coyt Smith.

Individuals with any information about the break-in and robbery are encouraged to contact the sheriff's office.

District Round Ball Action Underway

District basketball action got underway Tuesday night as the Moguls and Moguelettes traveled to Rochester. Results of those games will be printed in next week's issue of the Courier.

On Friday, the Munday teams will host Benjamin with games beginning at 6:30.

Joint Meeting To Discuss Nursing Program At VRJC

Area students wishing to pursue an Associate Degree Nursing Program are invited to a meeting at 3:30 p.m., January 11, in the auditorium on the campus of Vernon Regional Junior College. VRJC and Amarillo College are sponsors of the meeting.

Officials from both colleges have been exploring the possibility of bringing an "extended campus" ADN Program from Amarillo College to VRJC. This would involve Amarillo College teaching the nursing courses and VRJC providing the general education courses in the curriculum. Most clinical classes would be taught in Wichita Falls.

The initial degree offered would be through a transition pathway which would enroll students who have completed the one-year vocational nursing program, passed the state vocational nursing licensure examination, and met the necessary general education requirements.

For additional information concerning this Associate Degree Nursing program, contact Cathy Bolton, Director of Vocational Nursing in Vernon, 817-552-6291.

There's no use in my making a New Year's resolution to lose ten pounds. I've done it for the past five years with no success. I'm not even making a resolution to replace biscuits and gravy with raw vegetables and fresh fruit again. If I lived by myself, I might could do it, but I hate to punish Tommy and Amy because I have the will power of a timber wolf when it comes to steak and gravy with hot biscuits.

I am, however, making one resolution. I am going to start thinking and looking before I act and thus stop being such a "klutz". I know everybody does stupid things every once in a while, but if awards were given for "Foul-Up Queen", I'd win by a landslide every year.

Amy and I went shopping for a Christmas tree on the first Saturday in December. We got there right at noon, so luckily nobody else was there -- not even the man who owns the greenhouse. As we walked among the beautifully shaped trees, I somehow managed to catch my foot on a loop of twine hanging from the top of the building and fell flat onto the gravel floor -- burying my face in a fir tree.

"Mom, are you hurt?" Amy shouted.

"No, but get that loop off my foot and help me up before somebody sees me," my voice was muffled by the branches of the fir tree.

I was afraid Amy's hoots of laughter would alert the owner of the greenhouse who was obviously inside having his lunch as I waited, impatiently, for Amy to gain control of herself enough to free my foot. When, at last, she helped me up, I started toward the pickup.

"Aren't we going to buy a Christmas tree?" she wanted to know, tears of laughter rolling down her cheeks.

"Not now, Get in the pickup," I answered.

As I assessed the damage, it was not that severe. A fir needle had scratched the corner of my eye, my knee was starting to swell, and I could tell my arm was going to turn blue from my wrist to my elbow, but there was no permanent damage.

Just as I started the engine, a beautiful lady with every hair perfect in a lovely coiffure drove up in a Lincoln Continental. She nodded pleasantly in our direction as she stepped gracefully from the luxury automobile and walk slowly toward the greenhouse.

"Things like this just do not happen to women like that," I grumbled to Amy as I backed the pickup out onto the highway. "Why me?"

Shortly after the Christmas tree caper, Amy and I were shopping in Wichita Falls. My Christye had said she wanted an artificial cactus plant to complement the "southwest" decor of her home. At last I found one in a little gift shop, but I had not counted on its being almost four feet tall. After I paid for it, I didn't know how I'd get it to the car. After considering few options, the only way was to carry it. Amy ran interference for me because I couldn't even see where I was going as people made a path for us through the crowded mall. To make things appear even more ridiculous, the saleslady had covered the top of the cactus with brightly colored paper that said, "Ho! Ho! Ho!..."

Once outside, the problem of getting it into the car arose. It was almost 10 p.m. with a cold north wind blowing as we attempted to load the cactus. My car is small with only two doors and it really seemed like we might have to drive off and leave Christye's cactus sitting on the parking lot.

"Why don't we open the sun roof and let it stick through the top of the car?" Amy suggested.

"Not only would the wind tear it all to pieces," I pointed out, "But we'd freeze to death before we got home."

By that time, a few interested shoppers had paused on their way across the parking lot to see how we'd get the cactus into the car. At last, with Amy inside guiding it and me outside pushing, we managed to lay it on its side "caddy-cornered" across the back. The shoppers continued on their way with little chuckles as Amy and I drove away with Christy's cactus.

Then, the day before Christmas Eve, we ran over to Western Auto store to pick up a list minute gift. I had been baking since early morning and still had baking to do, so instead of changing clothes, I slipped a long serape over my old jeans and flannel shirt. That would have been fine for anybody else, but while whisking out of the store, I somehow caught the sweater fabric of the serape on a hook. There I stood in the crowded store while the salesman worked to free the tail of my wrap and Amy hurried out of the store so nobody would know I was with her.

"Mom, I just can't take you anywhere, can I?" she remarked as we drove away.

Most of my "stumble-bum" escapades have just been stupid things, but there was one that could have been serious if God had not been keeping His eye on me -- as I'm sure He feels He has to do all the time.

I love the smell of sunshine in sheets and pillowcases and I like hanging white clothes in the sunshine, so even though I dry most things in the dryer, I still have a clothesline in my backyard.

My clotheslines had started to sag (like many other things at my house) and I had hounded Tommy for a week to tighten them.

"Better still," I told him. "I wish you'd just fix me a new line way up high for sheets."

He made a grunting sound that could have been taken for a "yes" or a "no" and the conversation ended.

Then one diamond of a morning in June, the sun came out after an early morning shower and there was a light breeze starting that promised to grow as the day wore on -- a perfect day for drying clothes outside. I took my basket of wet sheets and walked bare-foot though the still damp grass -- reveling in the absolutely gorgeous morning.

As I started to hang the first sheet on my sagging old line, I noticed a line way up high from the house to a tree at the edge of the pasture.

"Bless his heart," I thought. "He's fixed a new line to surprise me."

I carried my basket to the higher line.

"I wish he'd run it east and west instead of north and south," I thought, picking up one of the wet sheets and my clothes pins. "But I won't fuss."

I started to hang the wet sheet on the line and the next thing I knew, I was lying flat on my back in the wet grass and I had no feeling at all in my body.

"I've had a stroke," I thought. "Tommy's gone with Charlie and Amy's babysitting and nobody will find me here until the mail carrier comes at noon."

I heard the mooing of a cow from a direction where there had not been a cow and as I turned my head, I saw her standing there in the pasture south of the house looking at me curiously with her soft brown eyes.

Slowly, my eyes traveled along the "new clothesline". It extended from the house to the tree as I had noticed at first, but then it made a sharp descent on the other side of the tree to a fence Tommy had put up around the south pasture -- and electric fence. And the fence was connected to an electric box high on the side of the house -- a real weed burner that made a snapping sound as I lay there, feeling life return to my arms and legs. I couldn't imagine why I hadn't heard the sound before.

I was still shaky when Tommy came home.

"You're just lucky it knocked you loose from it," he said. "When will you ever learn to look before you leap?"

And that's really my problem. I don't look before I leap. I don't think before I act or speak and I end up being the butt of all the cruel pranks anybody in the family wants to pull.

I see these women who glide gracefully through life, smiling serenely -- everything about them screaming sophistication and elegance and I don't know why I can't be like that. Women like that don't get caught with their ironing boards set up in the living room when the pracher comes. They don't stand there with mascara running down their faces when somebody tells a tender story or even says something nice about one of their kids.

But, in 1990, I'm going to take control of myself. I will stop crying when somebody sings the school song or at supermarket openings. I will weigh every word before I blurt it out. I will look carefully in all directions before I make a move and think everything through before I do anything. Then, somebody else can be the reigning "Klutz Queen".

Have you made your resolutions?

I want you to know we have been away from Munday 44 years, but have plenty of relatives there. We make two trips a year there to visit my family, making a visit to the nursing home, to Smith Drug and the graveyard. It is still home.

My husband loves the "Munday Times" we call it. He lived between Benjamin, Vera, Red Springs and Goree so he gets all the news, so he looks for it every Saturday. I would enjoy it more if that beloved Bill Bowley was still alive and was our Munday news reporter with your nice people.

I pay tribute to Bill Bowley. She gave many hours to the dear people of Munday and reporting all the news to the paper each week. She always had a smile and kind word for you when it concerned the Munday Times.

Moguls, Mogulettes See Action During Holidays

Local boys' and girls' basketball teams participated in the Olney Tournament December 28-30 and both teams brought home the third place trophy. At the conclusion of the tournament, Mindy Myers was named to the All-Tournament team, the sixth consecutive honor for Mindy.

The Mogulettes were scheduled to play Petrolia on Thursday, but because of an accident to one of Petrolia's team members, they forfeited the game to Munday. On Friday, the Mogulettes played Olney and lost by a score of 59-57. On Saturday, the girls played Breckenridge for third place honors and won that game by a 60-50 score.

Mindy Myers was high scorer in the Olney game with 24 points. Other scorers were Angie Offutt, 12; April Offutt, 10; Misti Zeissel, 6; Christy Williams, 2; Kathy Wilde, 2; and Alicia Cook, 1. Munday led the game most of their way, but fell behind early in the fourth quarter. The girls came back to almost win before losing by a two point margin.

Munday jumped to a 17-7 first quarter lead against Breckenridge, and were ahead 52-26 at the end of the third quarter. All of the girls received some valuable playing time in the fourth quarter and won 60-50. Mindy Myers again led the scoring with 18 points followed by April Offutt with 14 and Christy Williams with 10. Other scorers were Angie Offutt, 8; Alicia Cook, 4; Kathy Wilde, 4; and Jae-Jae Reneau, 2.

In boys action on Thursday, the Moguls beat the Petrolia team by an impressive 85-47 score. Bobby Dockins was high scorer for Munday with 40 points followed by Terry Collier with 18.

A very slim one-point margin left the Moguls on the losing end against Olney on Friday. The final score was Munday 56, Olney 57. Leading in scoring was Terry Collier with 15 points and Perry Collier with 13.

On Saturday the Moguls took on Midway for the third place trophy and came out on top by a score of 91-86. High scorers were Terry Collier 24, Bobby Dockins 22, Perry Collier 17, and Marc Andrade 16.

Children's Home Director Talks About His "Hero's" Influence

(The following article, published in the Medina Children's Home News, was written by George Rose, executive director of Campus Operations at Medina Children's Home. It is reprinted here with permission from Mr. Rose.)

AS WE PASS THROUGH LIFE...

As we pass through this short life on earth, we often meet certain individuals that have a profound effect on us. Most of us have certain people that we look up to and admire. There is one man who is my "hero" that I would like to tell you about. This man has been a very positive influence in my life.

Boyd Baker, with his wife, Sue, was a part of the church in Munday, Texas for many years. Four years ago, he and his wife Sue, decided that they were not doing enough for the Lord and they came to work at Medina Home to see if they could be of help to our children.

They have been working as relief houseparents on weekends and have been driving the truck on our grocery run to pick up food items at many congregations throughout the state.

The Bakers have been grandparents to all of our children on campus and also to some of our staff. They are loved by everyone they come in contact with.

In the past few months, Boyd has found that he has cancer. As usual, Boyd faced this crisis just as he faces every day in life -- with a positive attitude. His courage during this difficult time has been inspirational to all of us. I have never seen Boyd without a smile or without the idea that he is going to "beat" this disease. No matter how much pain he has, none of us are ever aware that anything is wrong. In the hospital Boyd visits the patients on his floor and counsels with the hospital staff. He also has young people to come into his room for counseling. Boyd and Sue will always be my "heroes". This couple has been sent to us straight from Heaven.

In order to assist Boyd and Sue, the Boyd Baker Cancer Relief Fund has been established. If you would like to help this family through this very difficult time, you may send your check to:

College Avenue Church of Christ
P.O. Box 167
Medina, Texas 78055

Please remember Boyd and Sue in your prayers and continue to pray for us in this good work.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Gough, Jetton In Brownwood

Jami Tess Jetton and Brent Alan Gough were united in marriage at 4 p.m. Saturday, December 30, 1989, at the First Baptist Church in Brownwood. Ted Kell, minister of Austin Avenue Church of Christ, officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jetton of Brownwood, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Raynes and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jetton of Weinert. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gough of Graham. His grandparents are Mary Gough of Graham and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Coffman of Arlington.

The church was decorated with votive cups enriched with English ivy and sprigged fern lined the aisle. A brass heart candelabrum and two fan candelabrams on each side with various bows and English ivy decorated the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, and was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a wedding gown of white bridal satin with a fitted bodice designed with a V-shaped sabrina neckline embellished with pearlized re-embroidered alencon lace. The back bodice featured a deep V with draped pearl strands. MRS. MICHAEL LYNN WAGGONER
formerly Esther Escamilla

Miss Escamilla, Michael Waggoner Wed In Christmas Eve Ceremony

Esther Escamilla became the bride of Michael Lynn Waggoner in a double-ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, December 24, at the First Baptist Church in Munday. Rev. Gerald Saffel, pastor of Faith Baptist Church in Munday, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Sylvio Escamilla of Munday. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Waggoner of Munday.

The couple exchanged vows before an archway covered with angel pine and accented with white doves, red poinsettias, holly and red satin bows. Two seven-branch candelabra accented with red bows flanked the archway. Greenery, miniature poinsettias and lights lined the altar rails.

Linda Smith and Rosemary Martinez were organist and pianist, respectively, for the ceremony. Linda Reddell and Michael Ukle presented vocal selections of The Parents Prayer, To Me, and Wind Beneath My Wings. Patricia Escamilla of Aledo, sister-in-law of the bride, registered wedding guests.

Given in marriage by her parents, and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white bridal taffeta and organza. Designed with a Queen Anne neckline, the fitted bodice tapered to a dropped waistline in back and was embellished with a design of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. The long puffed sleeves which tapered to a point at the wrist, were accented with a lace medallion at the shoulder. The skirt was fashioned with an inverted v-shaped inset of crystal pleated organza framed in lace which extended into a pleated border around the hemline, and crystal pleated ruffles fell in tiers down the back of the skirt and the chapel length train. A v-shaped band of pearls adorned with silk flowers and pearl sprays held her three-tiered waltz length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white satin roses, red poinsettias, and holly accented with white iridescents, white baby's breath and red and white ribbon streamers.

Eva Escamilla of Abilene served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mindy Myers of Rhineland, Erlinda Escamilla, sister of the bride, and Alicia Cook, both of Munday. They wore tea-length gowns of red satin designed with basque chose a white tuxedo with tails, a white shirt and white accessories, and he wore a red rose with lilies of the valley and baby's breath in his lapel. His attendants' black tuxedos were accented with white shirts, red cummerbunds and ties and their boutonnieres were red roses and baby's breath.

Parents of the bride were hosts for a reception in the church fellowship hall after the ceremony. A red cloth overlaid with white lace draped the bride's table. An arrangement of red roses and white stephanotis and red tapers in silver candleholders centered the table. The three-tiered cake, iced in white, was accented with red icing roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom. Appointments were in crystal and silver. Dixie Reid of Munday and Debra Berryman of Knox City served guests. Another table covered in red and white held snacks of crackers, cookies, cheese balls and dip.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the church fellowship hall on the evening preceding the ceremony.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Munday High School and attended Midwestern State University.

A 1989 graduate of Munday High School, the groom is presently stationed in Fort Dix, New Jersey with the United States Army.

The couple will make their home in Massachusetts where Michael will continue his training following completion of basic training.

Humor is often the saving grace of those who live with and overcome the handicap of double vision, for "I can see two of you" may be a blessing or an added trial. Only those who know the difficulty of judging step or distance, and have been disbarred from driving, know the handicap that double vision can bring.

Spiritually, double vision is essential for steadfast Christian service. Beyond facts and circumstances, however encouraging or depressing, those who would serve God must also see the hosts and chariots of the Lord - the purposes and power of God available in hostile situations and overwhelming problems.

Elisha's young servant was completely dismayed when he saw the city of Dothan surrounded by Syrian troops intent upon capturing his master. In the early morning light, facts and pessimism were equally real: "Alas, master, what shall we do?" There was apparently no way out or through the enemy forces. Then Elisha prayed: "O, Lord, open the young man's eyes." The prayer for double vision was answered and the servant saw the hosts and chariots of God assembled to protect and preserve his master. The facts had not changed, but the ability to meet them was transformed.

The gift of second sight, the inner vision of faith, is essential for Christian living and service. It was exercised by Ezekiel in an unlikely place, "down by the riverside" among a captive people whose spirits were as bowed down as the branches of the willow tree. With clear vision the prophet saw the turning wheels of divine government moving to an appointed goal. Within them was the perfect conscience of God, "Eyes within and without," and the Spirit of God seeking the "hand of man" to cooperate with His patient, all-wise purpose.

A changed Ezekiel saw the qualities God seeks in His servants in challenging, hopeless circumstances: the strength of a lion, the patience of an ox, the enthusiasm and vision of an eagle, and the intelligence of a man. Double vision turned the chastening captivity into a penitent preparation for a remnant to return and rebuild the waste places of Jerusalem.

So often Jesus looked upon lives and situations with double vision: upon a rich young ruler, seeking riches enthroned in a gifted life; upon Peter, seeing a Phoenix leader rising out of catastrophe; seeing faith beneath beggary, blindness, and moral bankruptcy. Where others saw half a man, He saw the man to be.

Paul, too coveted double vision for his converts. He prayed for "the eyes of their understanding" to be opened to see "the excellency of the power which is of God", the power that raised Jesus from the dead. Looking upon outward appearances alone, and considering the odds against us, may well terrify youthful faith, until the inward eye sees the hosts and chariots of the Lord.

FARM AND RANCH REPORT

By Donnie Peters

PETS SHOULD BE PROTECTED DURING COLD WEATHER

Now that winter is here, special care, such as shelter and adequate nutrition, should be given to protect family pets from wintertime hazards during the cold months.

Winter temperatures in Texas are not at such extremes that animals accustomed to staying outdoors will be hurt. If the pet can seek shelter that keeps out chilling winds and covers cold ground, it will be adequately protected. I have found that hay or old blankets added to the dog house provide more protection to pets during extreme cold temperatures.

Animals that are never outside or are very old or young should not be kept outdoors.

Healthy animals can tolerate cold weather. More food may be needed because the pets need more calories to produce body heat. The daily water supply also should be checked to make sure the water has not frozen or the pet may suffer. A little warm water is surely accepted by the pet.

Each pet also should have a check-up before cold weather sets in. Animals should be checked for internal parasites and blood parasites such as heartworms, and they should have all needed vaccinations.

Spinach is a member of the goosefoot plant family. Surprisingly, it is first cousin to the beet. Eating spinach is a good way to build up iron in the blood.

What Jesus Taught

by Dr. Larry Fitzgerald
Minister, Munday Church of Christ

Q: How can a loving God send someone to hell? I find this difficult to believe.

A: You are correct in a sense. God does not choose those who are punished. The great theme of both the Old and New Testament is that you and I have been given free will. It is our freedom to choose. No one can choose our religion or our faith for us. Personal faith comes from you, individually, receiving God's word (the Bible). Read these passages: Romans 10:14-17; John 20:30-31; John 4:42; Acts 15:7; and Acts 18:8.

God does not force salvation or punishment upon you. He offers you eternal salvation but it is your choice to refuse it. Otherwise none of us would have free will.

In Matthew 25:31-46, Jesus told us that the judgment day is not when guilt of innocence would be determined. Instead, it will be when sentence is pronounced. You will have the choice of salvation or punishment. In this case, not doing good Christian works is the issue (Matthew 25:41-46). Also read 2 Peter 2:9; and 2 Thessalonians 1:5-10.

Remember that God's word produces faith (Romans 10:14-17). Faith does not come from following conscience, it does not come from a creed book, it does not come from private interpretation of the scriptures (2 Peter 1:20).

"You have been born anew, not of perishable seed but of imperishable, through the living and abiding word of God; for all flesh is like grass. The grass withers and the flower falls, but the word of God abides forever." (1 Peter 1:23-25a).

Benjamin News

By Mrs. Gladene Green

1990 has arrived! I hope everyone has had an enjoyable New Years weekend and that Tuesday morning, everyone will be ready and able to get back into the routine of work, school, etc.

My weekend was pretty nice. I did some visiting, some work and lots of eating!! That's probably the story of lots of folks' weekend. Today it's been parades and bowl games and if you didn't like that sort of thing, you may as well have left your TV off. But I've enjoyed it. And now on with this week's news.

COUPLE WED

Jack C. Idol and Ruth House were married Sunday, December 10, at the First Christian Church in Benjamin immediately following the worship service. Jack Maddox, pastor of the

Knox County Man Named Coordinator For Mattox Campaign

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jim Mattox has announced that Judge Guy Bradley of Knox City will serve as the Knox County coordinator for his 1990 primary campaign.

"When this campaign moves into full swing after the first of the year, I'm confident that Bradley will be a lead driver on our road to the nomination. Knox County is an important part of our campaign, and I'm proud to have Bradley on board," Mattox said.

church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The couple's attendants were Togo and Lucille Moorhouse. Following the ceremony, congratulations and best wishes were extended the couple by the members of the congregation. HERE 'N THERE

Mrs. K. E. Woolley spent Friday night with her son and family, the Kermit Woolleys, in Spur.

Christmas guests of Imogean and Dutch Young were their kids, the Mike Youngs of Seymour, Brenda Golleher of Wichita Falls and Dee Ann and Anthony Lamb of Benjamin.

Tony and Lana Patterson of Goree, Oscar Gideon of Lubbock and Sue Gideon of Texas A & M, spent the holidays with their parents, Jane Gideon and Weldon Gideon, and other relatives and friends.

Weekend guests of Nell Hudson were Randy and Selina Detwieler and family of Paducah. Jason returned home with his parents after a week's visit with his great-grandmother.

Christmas guests of Lucille and Togo Moorhouse were her brother, A. W. Hunter of Seattle, Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Thornton of Ft. Worth, Reno Livingston of Megargel, John Moorhouse and family of Seymour, Ed Moorhouse of Dallas, Bob Moorhouse and family of the Pitchfork Ranch near Guthrie, Tom Moorhouse and family of the Moorhouse Ranch, and Mabel Moorhouse of Benjamin.

Visiting Earlene Meinzer during the holidays were Larry and DeeDee Fletcher and sons of Oklahoma City. Also having Christmas dinner with Earlene were Rick Meinzer and family and Wyman Meinzer and family.

Roger and Betty Bohannon and family, now residing in Amarillo, spent the New Years weekend at their home here.

Bertha Driver had several visitors during the holidays. Among them were Joe and Carol Judiscak of Farmington, New Mexico, Danny Speck and family of Aledo, and David Speck and family and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bailey of Knox City.

Jan and Homer Rolston spent the New Years weekend in San Angelo. Their daughter, Jennifer, returned home with them after a week's visit with her sister, Lorrie.

We're getting new residents in Benjamin, Steven and Sheila Kuehler are moving back here after living in Munday several months. They are moving into the house formerly occupied by her brother, Billy Carl Benson (the former Lora Hall house). We're glad to see them move back over this way. Steven is employed by Rolling Plains and Sheila is going to nursing school at Seymour, where she made the Dean's Honor Roll the first semester. They have three children.

Virginia Griffith and I attended the 60th wedding anniversary celebration of Brownie and Lena Tackitt in Kox City Sunday. It was a wonderful party honoring two very nice people.

J. D. Brown is a patient in the Knox County Hospital since Friday, and may get to come home Tuesday.

Bertha Driver was in Wichita Falls Thursday to check with her doctor. He gave her a good report, she just has to continue to take it easy for a while.

James Klutts was in Big Spring Friday to see his doctor. He also got a good report. That's the kind of news we like to hear.

I'm told that Nora Duke is in bed with the flu. There's lots of that going around so folks need to be careful and avoid it if they can. I hope Nora gets to feeling better real soon.

Pat Benson underwent knee surgery in Henderson Friday. She's doing OK but like all surgical patients, will have to take it easy several days.

Lil Moorhouse, whonow resides in the Tree Mont Health Care Center in Dallas, is having a few problems, according to relatives. Please remember Lil in your prayers. Lil has not been too well since she fell and broke her hip in the early fall.

And we have had some recent cemetery donations. Our fund keeps growing and we are grateful. Most recent donors are Ertice Galloway and family, Julia Propps, Pat Propps, Gretchen Colehour, L. O. Jackson, Sr., and Hazel Berry.

I was in Abilene Thursday to see my doctor. I will enter Hendricks Medical Center on Tuesday, January 9, for some surgery. So this will be my last column for a few weeks. I will get back to it as soon as I can. See you later.
