Senate's Only Farmer Files For Re-election

Thirtieth District State Senator Steven A. Carriker has filed in the Democratic Primary for re-election to the office he has served in since 1988.

At the age of 43, Senator Carriker is among the youngest members of the Texas Senate and the only member of the Senate to make his living as a farmer. He is a graduate of the University of Texas and his wife Kathy, a Texas Tech graduate, is a public school teacher. They have three children: Jake, a student at Southwest Texas University, and Karen and Stephanie who attend elementary school in Moby.

Senator Carriker has been active in health care issues and was responsible for the 1989 law that helped create over 170 rural health clinics in communities that had lost or were in danger of losing their care facilities entirely. His work in health care has earned him awards from the Texas Association of Community Health Centers, the Joint Conference on Aging, and a special resolution honoring him by the Texas Silver-Haired Legislature.

Senator Carriker has passed six bills reducing taxes and protecting taxpayer rights. Among those are bills reducing the oil severance tax, abating property taxes, and protecting retirees from illegitimate income taxes levied by other states.

Senator Carriker has also just completed a fourth term on the Texas Sunset Commission where his work resulted in the abolition or consolidation of ten agencies and a savings to taxpayers of 54 million dollars.

"I am proud of the confidence the people of the Thirtieth District have placed in me and am glad to have the opportunity to continue to represent them," Senator Carriker said.

Munday Students To Collect Pennies For Special Project

Munday Elementary School has become part of a unique project which will go far beyond this generation of children and generations to come. They will participate in a Tribute to Texas Children.

A Tribute to Texas Children is a monument display of life size bronze statues of children ages 5 through 18 to be constructed and placed on the lawn at the Texas Capitol.

This is an opportunity to have children helping children honor children. When Texas students who visit the Capitol on school field trips see these realistic free-form statues of children, they will share in the pride of their school's contribution toward its creation. For centuries, these statues will communicate a simple message... the importance of children.

Munday Elementary will help raise funds for this project by holding a Penny Drive beginning Monday, January 17. Students can donate one or as many pennies as they would like, all on a voluntary basis. The school's goal is to raise 50,000 pennies by next May.

New Registration Tags Now Placed On Windshields

As of January 1, registration tags will no longer be placed on the license plate, but on the windshield right above your inspection sticker.

This may cause confusion to many folks, since so many were confused already. It was common to see new tags on top of the month instead of the year on the plates, or even upside down.

The main reason behind the change is due to the many stickers being stolen off tags. The sticker will be on the inside windshield, making it harder on the would-be thieves.

Mike Carlson Seeks Position As Knox County Sheriff

dreams and goals in life. We all have been willing to pay taxes so that we can enjoy our freedom. But in the past years we have seen our tax dollars not being used to achieve those goals.

"The Commissioners' Court of Knox County has the grave responsibility of using each tax dollar to its maximum return. It is my goal, if elected, to work with each member of the Commissioners' Court together and in harmony so that we may administrate the county's budget each year without the idea of always having a tax increase. I will be open-minded as a County Judge, if elected, to always be willing to work and listen and to make the best decision after all of the input of various committees and individual tax payers have been presented to me and the Commissioners' Court.

"Having managed the Spike Box Ranch for 15 years and having experience in managing a large farming unit and cattle unit, we had to work together to achieve its budget and financial goals each year. I understand the importance of working and listening to fellow employees so that we could achieve all our goals.

"If elected County Judge, I will be a full time employee for the tax payers of Knox County, realizing the responsibility of that office. My doors will always be open for anyone to ask questions or have comments on any of Knox County's business. My only interest in running is strictly for Knox County with no interest in advancing on into higher political levels. "I would appreciate your support in the upcoming Democratic Primary Election."

WTU And Exxon Corporation Reach Settlement In Dispute

West Texas Utilities Company has announced that on December 22, 1993 it executed agreements which successfully concluded negotiations with Exxon Coal USA, Inc. and Exxon Corporation to settle pending litigation that has been ongoing since March 1989. The settlement brings to an end litigation regarding disputes over certain provisions of the 1981 long term coal contract between WTU and Exxon. The result of the settlement will be reduced fuel costs now and in the future to the Oklahoma Power Station.

Under the confidential terms of the settlement, the litigation pending in Texas and Wyoming state courts will be dismissed. Also as part of the settlement, WTU and Exxon have entered into an amended and restated contract which will govern the supply by Exxon of approximately 2 million tons of coal per year to WTU's coal-fired Oklahoma Power Station located near Vernon.

"WTU is pleased with the settlement of the litigation and the terms of the amended and restated contract," said Nick Akins, WTU Fuels Director. "This settlement is an excellent example of our continuing efforts to maintain competitive energy prices for our customers," said Akins.

Some Families Can Get Tax Refunds, Even Without Paying Taxes

Families who worked in 1993, earned less than 23,050 and had a child living with them at least half the year may be eligible for an Earned Income Tax Credit. It is a federal benefit for both married and single parents who worked either full or part time during part or all of the year.

Two steps are required to apply for an EIC for up to $2,364. File a federal income tax return (Form 1040A or 1040). Fill out "Schedule EIC" and attach it to your tax return.

Eligible families will either owe less in taxes or the government will mail them a check! You can get the EIC even if you don't owe income tax.

The basic EIC for families with one child is a maximum of $1,434 in 1993. Families with more than one child may receive a basic EIC up to $1,511. The amount of the credit varies according to a family level.

Most eligible families earning between $5,500 and $15,500 will qualify for at least $1,000. Families with a child born in 1993 can receive an extra benefit of up to $388. Families who pay at least part of the health insurance policy premiums that include coverage for a child may receive an extra credit of up to $465.

Some families eligible for the EIC also receive benefits through other government programs, such as AFDC, food stamps, SSI, Medicaid or public or subsidized housing. Only in rare cases will the EIC lower benefits in these other programs.

For free information and help in filing the EIC forms, call 1-800-829-1040. Tax forms are available from the IRS or at the post office. If you don't qualify for EIC but know someone who does, encourage them to apply. Well over 14 million families now qualify, but many do not apply.

Garlic's Heart Benefits Confirmed

In the world of fleeting food fads, it appears that garlic is here to stay.

An analysis of five well-controlled studies of the pungent bulb has confirmed its ability to lower cholesterol levels. In the study, which was reported in the "Annals Of Internal Medicine", eating one-half to one clove of garlic a day reduced total cholesterol levels by 9%.

Tuberculosis In Texas January Proclaimed TB Awareness Month

Tuberculosis is a highly contagious and aggressive airborne disease which remains a leading cause of death and disease in the world today, affecting an estimated 3.5 million people each year worldwide.

The American Lung Association of Texas is responding to the serious tuberculosis problem by conducting a heightened comprehensive program in January that includes public awareness, education for patients and professionals, direct patient services, coalition development and evaluation of the Texas Department of Health and community tuberculosis control programs. Governor Ann Richards has proclaimed January, 1994 as "Tuberculosis Prevention and Awareness Month".

During the week of January 17-21, a team of experts from the Center for Disease Control, Texas Department of Health, The American Lung Association of Texas, and pulmonary doctors from across the United States, will be making on-site visits in the Austin, Beaumont/Port Arthur, Dallas/Fort Worth, Houston, Huntsville, Laredo, Rio Grande Valley and San Antonio areas.

The purpose of this statewide review of the current TB program will be to document an independent, objective, outside evaluation of health department and other statewide community TB prevention and elimination endeavors; to assess the effectiveness of related public, private, and voluntary activities; and to make recommendations for more effective and efficient TB prevention and elimination activities.

According to Edward Carter, President & CEO of American Lung Association of Texas, "This review should help us analyze our current available services and improve our TB standards in Texas in the future."

Results of the review will be revealed at a press conference scheduled for January 21 at the Texas Medical Association building located at 401 West 15th Street.

For more information about tuberculosis or the statewide review, contact the American Lung Association of Texas at (512) 343-0502 or (800) 252-5864.

CLEAN TEXAS 2000

QUESTIONS TO THE CLEAN TEXAS 2000 HOTLINE: 1-800-64-TEXAS

Q: Most of the information about diatomaceous earth and pyrethrum powder seems to be directed at city audiences. What about us in rural Texas? We have fleas, too. Where can we buy these products?

A: Diatomaceous earth is commonly found at ranch supply stores and feed stores. Pyrethrum powder may be more difficult to locate, but check with stores that have nursery or garden sections. Many veterinarians also carry products that contain pyrethrum powder. By the way, both products are entirely natural and are effective against more than just fleas. Diatomaceous earth is sometimes referred to as "nature's insecticide," because it works against many unwanted insects. At least one product is now on the market that combines these two powders. It can be sold by anyone who has a pesticide dealer's license, which most feed stores have. If your local dealer doesn't carry this combination, ask if it can be ordered for you.

Q: I've been looking at new cars and I noticed a window sticker that talked about the car being "environmentally conscious." I usually think about air pollution and energy efficiency when I think of getting the best vehicle for the environment. What other things should I be concerned with?

A: You're right to think of air pollution and energy efficiency first, because those are the primary environmental concerns with automobiles. Those are also the two items over which you, as a consumer, can exercise the most control when buying a car. Most experts will tell you that the miles-per-gallon rating is the single most important environmental factor for a car. Another thing to consider is fuel type: If you drive mostly short distances and are near a refueling station, you might consider a vehicle fueled by propane or compressed natural gas. These cleaner burning fuels are becoming more readily available for private owners. Their major use is now for commercial fleets, but in Texas there are more than 1,100 propane refueling stations. Compressed natural gas isn't as widely available, but its network of refueling stations is also growing. You might also consider doing business with car manufacturers who are committed to recycling. Some auto makers use recycled materials for bumpers, door liners and seat padding, for instance. Of course, the most environmentally conscious decision you can make about a car is to use it less.

Congressman Bill Sarpalius A View From the Hill

REFORMING THE PENAL SYSTEM

It will probably come as no surprise to hear that unless something is done quickly, we will not only lose the war on drugs but also the war on crime. Unfortunately, these are two wars that are connected and must be fought together.

The Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse estimates that eighty percent of all Texas inmates have a substance abuse problem. Almost half of all arrests in Texas have been related to alcohol and/or drugs, and over 56,000 Texas drug abusers engage in criminal careers to finance their addiction. Prison alone certainly isn't doing anything to rehabilitate criminals, and those with problems related to drugs and alcohol have an even harder time with rehabilitation.

One-third of the total expenditures of the criminal justice system is associated with alcohol and drug abuse. That may seem like a lot at first, but consider the fact that in Texas, eighty percent of the inmates have a substance abuse problem. Maybe if more was spent, that number would decrease and inmates with drug and alcohol problems could leave the system, and leave those problems behind.

We must also consider that the rehabilitation programs being tried now aren't working. If they were, we wouldn't have to continue building prison after prison. And the circle goes around again, since it seems we can't build enough prisons to house all the criminals. So let's start at the beginning.

I believe we first need to do something about the criminals with substance abuse problems. In an attempt to tackle this problem, the U.S. House has approved a bill which authorizes $300 million over the next three fiscal years for grants to develop residential substance abuse treatment programs for inmates in state prisons and local jails. Another bill passed by the House requires the Federal Bureau of Prisons to establish residential substance abuse treatment programs in Federal prisons.

Neither of these bills has passed the Senate yet, but I have confidence that they will. Even then, this will only be a small step in the right direction toward winning this war.

The House has also passed a bill which authorizes $200 million over the next two fiscal years for grants to assist state and local governments in developing more effective programs for reducing juvenile drug trafficking and participation in juvenile gangs. If we work hard to head them off, we can keep so many people from ever entering the prison system, and we should start with the juvenile gang problem.

I believe another effective way to stop this vicious cycle of people entering prison, getting released, and entering prison again is with the community service and electronic monitoring systems. It is estimated that ninety percent of the inmates in Federal prison are non-violent offenders, and fifty percent of those in Texas prisons are non-violent offenders. Let's take advantage of the fact that every community needs more community service, and these non-violent offenders are the perfect ones to do it. It cost about $56 a day to keep someone in a federal prison, compared to $11 a day to use electronic monitoring on that same inmate. Combine the electronic monitoring with community service, and these people will learn a lot more doing this than a few years in jail will teach them. Especially since this gives them the chance to continue supporting their family.

I would only support this system if it was used on first-time, non-violent offenders, with the stipulation that if any other crime was committed, that person would then go to prison. This system can work, but it must not be abused.

I will be spending the next several months doing research into these problems, and looking at other possibilities for reforming the penal system. The reform is needed and I believe the solutions exist.

At Your Service

by Dr. Larry Fitzgerald
Minister, Munday Church of Christ

Q: Why do so many second and third generation Christians leave the Faith while "new converts" seem to have the strength and zeal of Paul?

A: This is a good question. It is one that the Hebrews writer faced. His readers should have been studying and teaching the great mysteries of God but they had become "dull of hearing" (Hebrews 5:12).

Faith is an individual's experience not something we inherit like we inherit hair color. Each individual must face the fact of his or her own guilt (Romans 3:23) and must come to Christ for salvation (Acts 4:12). Faith comes from the power of God's Word (the Bible) working in hearts (Romans 10:17). No other person can give you faith.

It is my opinion that why so many "generation Christians" leave Christ is because they haven't come to grips with God in their own hearts and minds. You will also note that it is the "generation Christian" preacher who is most likely to preach error when he fills the pulpit.

The best thing that Christian parents can do for their children is to teach them to love God and His word and to allow them to serve God on their own initiative. Parents who are dedicated to Christ are a true blessing. But whether or not a person chooses to follow Christ is up to the individual.

If you have a question for Larry write him c/o Box 211, Munday, TX 76371.

Wells Used For Drinking Water Should Be Tested

About 95 percent of the country's rural residents depend on well water to supply their drinking water and homestead needs. Wells should be designed to provide clean drinking water. If improperly constructed or maintained they can allow bacteria, pesticides, fertilizer or oil products to contaminate ground water.

There are documented cases of well contamination from homestead activities near drinking water wells. The condition of your well and its closeness to contamination sources decide the risk it poses to your ground water. For example, a cracked well casing could allow bacteria, nitrates, pesticides, or oil to enter the well. A fertilizer, pesticide, or oil spill near the well could result in contamination of your family's drinking water supply.

Do not store pesticides, fertilizers, or oil products in the well-house. As a minimum the well should be located at least 50 feet from a fertilizer or pesticide storage tank, 100 feet from a septic system, and at least 150 feet from fuel storage or animal feed pen. Never mix or load pesticides at the well and install a back-siphon device on the well or hydrants to prevent reverse flow of liquids into the water supply.

An abandoned well located on the farmstead can be a source of contamination to ground water. Abandoned wells offer a direct path for contaminants to reach an aquifer and should be plugged or capped.

As a minimum have your well tested yearly for bacteria and nitrates. The Seymour Aquifer Project office can conduct a water test for nitrates but the test for bacteria will have to be conducted by the Public Health Department Lab.

For a free water test and evaluation of your drinking water well call the Seymour Aquifer Project office at (817) 864-3334.

Rolling Plains PCA Reduces Stock Requirements To 5%

The Board of Directors of Rolling Plains PCA has reduced the stock requirement for borrowing from the Association effective January 1, 1994. The stock purchase requirement, which has been 10% for a number of years, now will be reduced to 5%. This means that the borrower's required investment in the Association will be just 50% of what it has been in the past, and the PCA will return some $3,000,000 to 730 borrowers in 19 counties of the Rolling Plains.

Rolling Plains PCA serves its borrowing members from six branch offices and a central office. Its Board of Directors is elected by the member-borrowers, and its staff of 24 employees were all raised on farms, ranches or in farming communities of the Rolling Plains.

As of the close of business December 31, 1993, the Association will enjoy a net profit after tax of $980,000 with a loan volume of $57,000,000 and total capital accounts of $17,050,000. The entity has been selected as a Tier I PCA for the sixth consecutive year based on safety, soundness and financial strength.

The Association was originally chartered as Stamford PCA on January 10, 1934. In 1965 Stamford PCA merged with Memphis PCA to form Rolling Plains PCA. The Association celebrates its 60th anniversary this month.
