TEXAS NEW FIRST FAMILY HAPPY OVER ELECTION

The "First Family of Texas," is the new title given the family of W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth flour man who swept into the governorship of the Lone Star State at the polls last Saturday. In the picture are Pat, Mike and Molly O'Daniel and Mrs. Merle O'Daniel and W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel. Pat and Mike are members of the Hill Billy orchestra which accompanied O'Daniel on his campaign. They will be the official family in the governor's mansion next year. 'Course they're happy!

HE POLLS LARGEST VOTE IN KNOX COUNTY

Moffett Wins State Senate Race

George Moffett, familiarly known as "Cotton George," staged a one-man run-away in the western side of the 23rd senatorial district to pile up a huge lead over Charles A. Tennyson, Wichita Falls man whose lead in Wichita county was over 4,000 votes.

Moffett led the Knox county ticket by polling the largest vote of any candidate voted upon by county citizens. The senatorial race here according to unofficial complete tabulations was Moffett 2,034 and Tennyson 541. Moffett carried a majority of the nine counties which composes the district and was strongest in his home district of Hardeman, Foard, King and Knox. Wilbarger county also gave Moffett a nice majority.

Tennyson conceded defeat to the Chillicothean Saturday night after tabulations in the western edge of the district were reported so overwhelmingly in favor of Moffett. First report of the action by Tennyson came here at about 10 o'clock.

ED GOSSETT LEADS IN CONGRESS RACE

RUN-OFF RACE PITS WICHITA GRAHAM MEN

Judge Stephens In Run-Off For Criminal Judge

Judge James A. Stephens of Benjamin, Knox County, was running an excellent race for the office of Judge of the Criminal Court of Appeals, (unexpired term) according to returns posted by the Texas Election Bureau Tuesday morning.

Stephens was in second place in a three man race and in the Tuesday count was trailing Graves, present judge, who was appointed to the post by Governor Allred. Vote for the office was: Graves, 299,187; Stephens 274,187 and Pippin, 212,081.

The regular post on the criminal court bench up for election this year was not contested and the incumbent was accorded the judgeship unopposed.

Stephens will make an active campaign in the run-off for the office according to reports received here and many believe that he has an excellent opportunity to overcome the lead of his run-off opponent, Graves.

Courtney Hunt is Representative in the 113th District

2600 Vote in County

SIX WHO SOUGHT RE-ELECTION IN COUNTY ELECTED

Superintendent And Treasurer Races Must Run-Off

After tabulation of the more than 2600 ballots cast in Saturday's primary three county office holders were returned, one was forced into a run-off and three re-elected by virtue of having no opponents. The seventh county office, county treasurer, a wide-open race, will also be decided in a run-off. J. T. House, elected county treasurer two years ago, succumbed to a heart attack last year and his unexpired term was filled by his widow, Mrs. House, who did not seek the office.

Earl Sams, tax assessor-collector incumbent, amassed the largest total among county candidates in the primary when voters gave him 1699 votes to return him to office again. County Judge E. L. Covey followed Sams with 1635 votes for re-election to the judgeship of Knox. Covey defeated Bill Glenn who was accorded 1014 votes, and Sams won over Denny Davis who polled 994 votes.

Carl Patterson bested Herbert Sams by 412 votes, piling up 1513 votes to 1101 for Sams in the county attorney's race. Patterson was seeking re-election.

In the county treasurer's race, R. V. "Bob" Burton led the ticket by the narrow margin of 4 votes over Chas. Moorhouse. G. W. Moore of Goree was close behind Moorhouse in what proved to be the closest race of the county. Tabulations gave Burton 907, Moorhouse 903, and Moore 835.

In what was probably the most heated race, Merick McGaughey of Vera led two opponents down the stretch to go into the run-off with J. Lyndal Hughes, incumbent, for county superintendent. McGaughey polled 1065 to 880 for Hughes, while John Ingram of this city trailed Hughes with 743 votes.

In county commissioner races, Ed Jones was returned as Commissioner of Precinct 4, which includes Munday, Goree and Rhineland and adjacent territory. Jones was unopposed for the office.

Lewis Williams, district attorney of Benjamin, was re-elected to office by virtue of being unopposed in the primary.

The new model to be displayed and demonstrated, will have twin power, self starter, battery ignition system, and six cylinder economy, the makers of the tractor state.

You are referred to their advertisement in this weeks issue of the Times for details of the tractor and the demonstration.

Returned Home
Mrs. Vick Jungman, who has been a patient in a Wichita Falls hospital where she underwent a major operation last week, has recovered to such an extent that she was brought to her home here Wednesday afternoon.

Six Weeks Summer Session Opens at Rhineland August 8

The Rhineland schools will open their summer term of school on Monday, August 8th, J. J. Hoffman, superintendent of schools, announced today.

A few changes have been made in the curriculum for the new year in high school work, but he emphasized that the changes will better equip the students with a general course which should be more interesting than last years class schedule.

Roberts Carries Four Counties

Needed 409 Votes to Beat Both His Opponents; Will Have a Run-Off

TO THE VOTERS OF KNOX COUNTY:

Returns from the first primary show that I have gained first place by a big margin. In fact, I carried all four counties in the district. Yet I lacked 409 votes having a majority over my two opponents.

I am ready to go into the run-off, and am calling upon the people of Knox county to stay with me in the second primary election.

To those who supported me in Saturday's election I want you to know that I am very grateful. To those who supported the other two candidates I want to assure you I hold no ill will toward you, and on August 27 when you go to the polls again, please bear in mind that I will appreciate your vote. And, I give further assurance that when I am your Representative my promise still holds to serve in a business-like manner, and will work to the end that the district will always be represented efficiently and satisfactorily.

Thank you again, and I repeat that I will appreciate your vote and support in electing me Representative.

Very sincerely,

Judge G. M. Bryan Re-Elected Justice Of Peace in City

Voters of the two city precincts, North Munday and South Munday, re-elected Judge G. M. Bryan as Justice of Peace over R. G. "Rid" Campbell, whose candidacy was sponsored by several men in a "write-in" campaign.

Bryan piled up a formidable majority in both boxes, having a total of 394 to 134 for Campbell. Precinct tabulations were: South Munday, Bryan 182, Campbell 59, and North Munday, Bryan 211 and Campbell 75.

With no one announcing for the constableness of the Munday precinct, Alvin Floyd and Tug Nesbitt, former chief of police, each received 10 votes, all of which were written in. Considerable more were written in for the constable office but election officials stated that they were not written in at the correct place, and thus did not count in the tabulation.

Mrs. Carl Mahan of Abilene is visiting in the home of her mother, Mrs. E. M. Wilson, this week.

BROOKS LEADING LIEUT.-GOV. RACE

Sadler and Terrell Are In Railroad Run-Off Primary

W. Lee O'Daniel's majority in the governor's race on ballots cast last Saturday continued to pile up as straggling votes were still being counted to garner the state total. O'Daniel's majority over a field of 11 candidates, some of them seasoned campaigners and politicians, was near 30,000 on tabulations of the Texas Election Bureau at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

"Corny music and a big smile" won for "Pappy," as O'Daniel is familiarly called by admirers, and set off a prairie fire that swept the plains of Texas to break all records in naming a governor for the great lone star state. He was the first man that ever won a gubernatorial nomination in the first primary over all candidates under the class of candidates who sought their first office. "I chose the ten commandments for a platform because I thought they would make a good one," O'Daniel stated in reference to his platform. One of the ne'er to be forgotten slogans.

Public Invited to See "Hawaii Calls" Sponsored by Lions

The Munday Lions Club invites the theatre-going public of this area to attend the filming of "Hawaii Calls," a new production featuring the popular Bobby Breen, young actor, at the Roxy Theatre Monday night, August 1st.

All proceeds of the show will go to the club and be used in paying for expense of operating the Summer Recreation Program which was inaugurated around the first of July. The recreation program makes possible good clean fun, exercise, and keeps the child occupied and the club is highly pleased at the results obtained through the program.

Six sports are available for the children who take part in the program. L. M. Palmer, director stated, and he again urged all children of the trade area, rural or city, to come out and take part in the program. There is something for everyone to do. One of the most popular events each week is the trip to Haskell for a swim, which is well supervised to assure complete safety.

Baptist Revival in Progress at Vera Directed by Balch

A revival meeting in progress at the First Baptist Church of Vera is going into its second week and will probably last several more weeks, Rev. Evans, pastor of the congregation announced this week.

The revival is being conducted by Rev. Balch pastor of the Seymour Baptist church and the song service is being conducted by Rev. Evans, the local pastor.

Several converts have been made during the meeting and several more are expected to join with some church during the remainder of the meeting. The general public is invited to attend and hear the gospel.

"What a Man Does For Himself Dies With Him—
What He Does For His Community Lives On and On"—

England Speaks to America RISE AND WALK—

"You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears. You have half of the gold of the world and half the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers.

You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen.

You are ruled more by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. You have usually done what you thought you could do.

There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it.

The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take your risk. Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in the slumps. Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye Gods! What a chance there is at this moment!

When a horse balks, the balk is in his head, not in his legs. He moves on when the balk is in his head. And when an American business man is depressed, the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will.

When fear rules the will, nothing can be done, but when a man casts fear out of his mind, the world becomes his oyster. To lose a bit of money is nothing, but to lose hope—or lose nerve and ambition—that is what makes men criminals.

This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. Rise and Walk!

(The editorial, Rise and Walk, first appeared in the British publication, Efficiency Magazine, published in London. It was written by H. N. Carson, editor, and is reprinted here with acknowledgement to the source and to the Union Central Life Insurance Co., Cincinnati, in whose folder we found it.)

It is pertinent to today's thinking. Fear unfortunately handicaps many men. Fear causes ultra-conservatism. Fear retards progress and accomplishment. Let's strive to replace fear with confidence—dare to do bold things. The time is ripe NOW for careful planning and aggressive effort—FORWARD.

Profit and Safety

It is axiomatic that capital seeks two desiderata: Profit and Safety.

Faced with the possibility of a big profit, capital will to some considerable extent sacrifice safety; but the lower the potential profit, the less is the risk that capital is willing to take.

The principal could well be illustrated by setting up what the economists call "indifference curves," to compare these fundamental options. The curves would show that every obstacle put in the way of earning a large profit is, to the contrary, an encouragement for capital to seek safety.

The world's outstanding example of safety-seeking capital comes from India, where princes preserve their wealth in the indestructible form of gold and jewels—and the Indian masses starve.

Safety, one need scarcely remind, is not characteristic of any new or rapidly expanding enterprise. On the contrary, safety is the characteristic of the relatively least-productive securities, of the so-called "legal investments," or liens on fixed property whose value is already established and proved, and of government bonds.

In investments and enterprises such as these, capital is content with a return of from 1 to 4 per cent; and the more capital falls back upon this kind of return, the slower must be the expansion of the economy.

Freedom of 'Press'

"Freedom of the press is a reality; peril to that freedom is a myth." Charles Michelson, Director of Publicity of the Democratic National Committee, told the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia Monday evening. "When we were babies our mothers used to tell us that if we sucked our thumbs, the thumbs would come off. The peril of our reaching the condition of the controlled press of the dictatorships is just as veritable.

"What is meant by 'the press'?" The actual newspapers and magazines on the newsstands, the group of men such as Washington correspondents who gather the news, the editor, who naturally exercises discretion and control or do we mean the owners who tell what the policy is to be? We might go even deeper and speak of the hidden powers that, in turn, are in a position to tell the owner, in some instances, what he should or should not print. Few newspapers or magazines are better morally or ethically than the men who own them. Here and there? Along the newspaper frontier, are proprietors who do not permit their individual interests to influence their concern for public welfare.

"A newspaper is a business. If it is a big newspaper, it is big business. Not infrequently, it is only one of several important industrial enterprises in which the publisher is interested. Theoretically, advertising is politically and economically non-partisan. But the big advertiser is apt to feel pretty strongly the pull of policies which he believes to affect his business. And very naturally the newspaper proprietor will give sympathetic consideration to his point of view. Similarly a great many newspapers have obligations relating to their financing through banks and other financial institutions. The influence of such an agency on the policy of a newspaper is certainly far from unknown.

"There is infringement of the liberty of the press when a newspaper is told that it cannot have certain advertising unless it adopts or abstains from a certain policy. Perhaps, however, publishers who employ the term limit it to government interference. In other words, these newspapers construe as their constitutional guarantee that it is nobody's business but their own whether or not they sell their editorial opinions for advertising, or to satisfy a customer. An interesting situation results. The venal newspaper undoubtedly commits an offense against morals when it permits its policies to be bought or sold, but strangely enough it is right even when it is wrong, for the slightest attempt of government to put a stop to such practices would mean censorship and censorship in a free country is unthinkable.

"The newspaper code of ethics is perfect. Those members of the press who live up to it are not the ones who make a shibboleth of the 'freedom of the press.' Unfortunately either tradition or sentiment or the strength of esprit de corps among the newspapers results in the press as a whole making its own cause of the offender against the moral code which publishers' associations themselves set up. As long as we live, politically minded papers will continue to accuse an administration to which they are opposed of everything from treason down. Nothing will be done about it and nothing should be done about it for however infuriatingly untrue and unjust assaults may be, it is infinitely better than that public expression should have to grovel at the feet of authority."

What Oklahoma Means

Congress adjourned, and the Presidential Party came to Oklahoma, where Senator Elmer Thomas and Governor Marland, both asking for New Deal votes, ran against Representative Gomer Smith, who voted against the Farm Act and other administrative measures. Thomas got 207,000 votes, Marland got 96,000, and Gomer Smith got 159,000. The Governorship vote in that State was equally significant. Leon Phillips and William S. Key and two other candidates contested for the New Deal votes. Ex-Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray ran on the anti-New Deal side and got fewer than either of the leading New Deal candidates.

There were a couple of other primary elections in between. There was Iowa, in which the sitting Senator and the Representative who was seeking to succeed him, broke about even on the record for and against New Deal measures. However, because Harry Hopkins had said that if he were voting in Iowa he would cast his ballot for Congressman Wearin, Senator Gillette's victory was placarded in a thousand headlines as a terrific administration defeat.

Then there was Illinois, where a Senate fight had nothing to do with New Deal or Old Deal questions, but some significance attached to the circumstance that every sitting Representative (New Dealers) was renominated.

The President on his Western tour spoke for Barkley in Kentucky. He went through Colorado with a nod and a smile for Senator Alva Adams, who was conspicuous in his opposition to the Supreme Court act and some other administrative measures. So on through Nevada, where Senator Pat McCarran, one of the fiercest opponents of the New Deal was a candidate for re-election, and the President was as amiable to him as to Adams in Colorado.

He went through Utah and Texas, where Senator King and Senator Connally, who worked and voted against the Court bill, reside. These two do not come up for re-election until 1940. The President made no attack upon these two. So it appears that so far on his journey the "purge" consisted of the President's not asking the people to vote for the men who have opposed his policies in Congress. "Purge" is a fine short word for headline purposes, but I wonder if those who invented it for a specific purpose expected the President to campaign for those who hindered his program. Certainly nobody else did.

Doctor, Writer Investigate Possible Results Of Social Disease Drive

NINE of the forty-eight states have adopted laws requiring pre-marital physical examinations. Margaret Culkin Banning, one of America's most noted women writers, and Dr. Joseph Earle Moore, internationally known physician, months ago set out to learn the story behind venereal diseases. In the August issue of Pictorial Review, Miss Banning and Dr.

Moore, in a sensationally frank article, for the first time point out the danger of "too little knowledge." "The American public is now 'venereal-disease conscious,' they write. "People are no longer embarrassed or afraid to mention syphilis and gonorrhea, nor to join in the campaign against them. Once more it has been proved that the best way to conquer a social enemy is to draw it out of ambush, to discover its strength, and then to throw sufficiently strong forces into the fight against it."

The article points out that certain facts about the prevalence of syphilis, its ordinary symptoms and chances of curability, are now common knowledge. But this does not mean that everyone understands the disease. "A few statistics can be just as dangerous as a little knowledge, particularly when it comes to law-making," they say. "In our anxiety to stamp out syphilis we are bound to develop crusaders, usually laymen, who want to go to extreme lengths, farther than many physicians think it necessary or wise."

Dr. Moore and Miss Banning point out that legislation which relates to syphilis and marriage must be founded both on accurate knowledge and on common sense. They explain that they have prepared this article to guide worried young men and women and mothers and fathers who may sometime have to face this problem. They will need as much advice and protection as can be given. There are those, too, who are interested in furthering correct legislation on this matter and they need guidance.

"How can the public be protected against the evasion of the laws if they are passed?" they inquire. "The first thing to remember is that there have been laws enacted in regard to syphilis and marriage before. This comes as a surprise to some people, but as early as 1913 there was a public recognition of the danger of the spread of syphilis within marriage."

Many Distressed Farm Families Repay Federal Loans Before Due

Under the rehabilitation program of the Farm Security Administration, a mainstay of the New Deal's rural relief activities, more than 625,000 farm families who were on or near relief have received small loans averaging for the country as a whole $300 each. These have enabled farm borrowers to obtain the essentials for carrying on farming operations, a plow, a mule, seed, sometimes a wagon, all such simple equipment as they required.

Up to February 1, 1938, loans had totaled $169,312,000. And although most of this aggregate will not fall due from four to five years, more than $45,000,000—more than one-fourth of the total had been repaid by that date. Many borrowers have made substantial payments in advance. Oregon repayments have totaled 113 per cent and Wisconsin payments 152 per cent of the sums due. It is noteworthy that repayments have fallen behind seriously only in the drought areas.

According to the most conservative estimate obtainable in Washington, more than 80 per cent of all funds loaned under this program will be repaid—loans that by usual standards in private lending circles were regarded as the poorest credit risks, so poor as not to have been considered at all. Living standards of the farm families aided show substantial—magazine writers have called them "remarkable"—improvement. A nation-wide survey of 230,000 such families—less than half the total—reveals that their average net worth over and above all debts including debts owed the Government, had increased $253 between the time they first sought this type of aid and the end of the 1937 crop year. This represented a growth on net assets of 42 per cent, or more than $58,000,000 for these 230,000 families.

The rehabilitated families have increased their ownership of work stock approximately 100 per cent. Their acreage in feed and forage crops has risen more than 50 per cent. The families have almost doubled their consumption of home-produced meat, milk and eggs. They stored away 63,356,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables—an average of 53 quarts per person—to tide them over the winter of 1937-38. Their mounting security made it possible for more than 150,000 of their children to increase school attendance last year.

The rural relief policy adopted by the Roosevelt Administration, of helping farm families climb back to self-support through loans and farm management assistance, has proven more conservative and economical than the only possible alternative—supporting needy farm families on a direct dole.

Sixty-two girls planned a model kitchen which is being built in the Home Economics Department of Texas State College for Women. Considering the usual differences between Woman No. 1 and her kitchen ideas and Woman No. 2 and her kitchen ideas, it is a small miracle that not only was a single plan finally evolved but the final blueprint was approved by all.

PEEP SHOW FOR LADIES ONLY —BY— MIGNON

I'm all a thrill, I'm in a glow
It seems I'm always on the go.

Here I am in Tulsa, the oil capital of the world, with so many places to go and so many folks to see and yet this old woman, 'Work', has me by the throat and I gotta give in to her. But even work can be fun if it is just stringing a few words together in a medley of hours filled with lovely people and things. I'm so full of the past week's activities that it's hard to know where to begin. I wish I could be like the old darkey who thought "Work" was his mother and he promised never to hit her.

One of the thrills first to come was a letter from Dora Aydelotte, Oklahoma's newest novelist of rank. Dora, you know, has just been honored with a scholarship in the McDowell Colony at Peterboro, N.H., and she has arrived safely, cosily situated in a studio cabin "down a winding woody street path, with a view of the blue New Hampshire mountains in the distance. So quiet that at first the tap of the typewriter keys seemed an irrelevant noise." Doesn't that sound heavenly? We all feel sure that "Trumpets Calling" will have a relative born while Dora is there this summer and so we just sit back in all confidence and hope she can feel us beaming over the miles.

The summer session Short Course in professional writing at the Oklahoma University is now history but it was the first of what all those in attendance hope will be an annual affair. It was the answer to a long felt need for those folks of the southwest who wish to get together for improvement without having to go to Colorado or Breadloaf, Vermont, and the answer with great gusto. The very first day there were two hundred and fifty registered and many more came through the week. The English Department of the University in cooperation with the extension department is the mamma and papa of the swell idea. Stanley Vestal and Kenneth Kaufman were the godfathers and there were a whole swarm of fine folks who were in at the Christening rites. We sat enchanted through the heat like small islands on a sun-drenched ocean. Even our pores absorbed knowledge and the tides of inspiration came in swells. Looking back over the eventful week it is hard to pick out the most interesting feature. To those who love poetry Thursday was the highlight... to those who love short stories, Tuesday was the big day, and so on through all the different forms of writing. Sufficient it is to say that in each department there was an outstanding leader bringing an unusual message. Oklahoma Writers rubbed elbows with the big boys who are Oklahoma Writers gone New Yorkish but still loving the red earth and its people. There were little groups who met at luncheons and dinners, there were larger groups who met each evening with Burton Rascoe, editor, critic and author, and there were consultations and conferences all between the sessions that made the week one of real inspiration and things accomplished.

What I learned:
One looked at his typewriter
One lit cigarettes
One chewed on his mustache
And one was all wet
But summing it all
In the smallest pea shell
I'd say "Just get at it
And write like... well, as hard as you can."

Things heard on the sidelines:
"Tide of impulses sweep through the mind... mud-lush... puddle mad... a poem should not mean but BE. A great enough poet will build a great idea... No fine thing since Adam's fall but has needed great labor... strata of beauty buried in the soul... Poetry is the feeling you have when something very lovely has flown out the window... the spark and spirit of man... Poetry is God's wine for the soul... The shame

Employment in 679 manufacturing establishments was up .6 per cent from May but down 11.5 per cent from June last year; while pay rolls in these establishments were down 2.9 per cent from May and 8.4 per cent from June a year ago.

McFarlane Makes Statement to Voters of County

FELLOW CITIZENS OF THE 13th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT: I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the splendid support you gave me in the first primary, last Saturday, July 23rd. I recognize what you all know, that the campaign just ended has been actively waged by my opponent since January 1st, while I was detained in Washington, looking after your interests until after the adjournment of Congress, June 18th. As you know I have had a great sorrow and have had the care of my five little children in addition to the duties of my office which has kept me from thinking about this contest until after my return home.

Now, we face the run-off on more equal terms. I promise you that I will use every effort to vindicate and uphold the principles of fairness in the run-off campaign and that we will demonstrate and uphold the principles of good government. I trust and believe that each of you, regardless of your former alliance, will be interested to know from the record that truthfulness, justice and honesty prevail.

I greatly appreciate your friendly cooperation and support in the past and hope that you will continue the good work. Sincerely yours, W. D. McFARLANE

Bob Burton Thanks Voters of County; Is Now in Run-Off

TO THE VOTERS OF KNOX COUNTY: I wish to thank the voters of Knox county who so faithfully supported me during the first primary, making it possible for me to go into the run-off for the office of county treasurer.

I am pleased that the campaign just finished was of the clean type and that no ill feeling was manifested by either of my opponents myself or by the citizens who supported county treasurer candidates. It is my desire that the race remain thus through the second primary.

I will carry my candidacy to voters of Knox county again and will appreciate the support of my old friends and earnestly solicit the support, influence and vote of new friends. I will be pleased if you will investigate my candidacy. R. V. "Bob" BURTON

J. Lyndal Hughes Seeks Re-Election As Superintendent

TO THE VOTERS OF KNOX COUNTY: I am grateful for the nice vote cast in favor of my candidacy for election to a second term as County Superintendent of Schools at the polls last Saturday by the citizens of Knox county.

My candidacy during the second primary will be based again, as in the first primary, on the merits of my qualifications for the office I seek as head of the county schools, and I sincerely hope that the voters will investigate my record during the past four years. I will again present my candidacy to the voters of this county and will appreciate the consideration of my old friends as well as new ones.

It is my desire to be re-elected your county superintendent on my qualifications, merits of my record in office, and through solicitation of your vote and influence in a clean campaign. J. LYNDAL HUGHES

Gossett Expresses Appreciation for Large Knox Vote

TO THE PEOPLE OF KNOX COUNTY: I want to thank the people of Knox County for the splendid vote given me in last week's Democratic primary. It helped me to lead the ticket by almost 3,000 votes, and gives me courage and inspiration for a run-off campaign that I know we will win.

In the second primary of 1936 I carried 8 out of 15 counties. In this primary I have carried at least 11 counties in incomplete returns.

I have only the kindest feeling and regard for those who did not support me in the first primary, and want to solicit their support and influence in the second primary. I will make a thorough and aggressive campaign, in which I will discuss what seems to me to be important issues of Government—explaining what I think to be a constructive platform for service of the people. MUNDAY METHODIST CHURCH

Since the rains have ceased the interest has picked up in the revival services in the tabernacle at Weibert. With the same continued increase, seating capacity will be taken and additional seats needed. With the deepening spiritual interest there is a possibility of a real revival before the meeting is over.

Our service here next Sunday will be held at the usual hours, 11 a.m., and 6:30 p.m., Bro. Bowen, presiding elder, preaching in the morning and I will be here for the evening service. Your presence at each service will be an inspiration to others. Let's make our church life beneficial to others.

The Sunday School is holding up to its usual numbers during the summer but that does not mean that everyone is coming who might. With a bit more interest and loyalty to Christ our numbers could be increased fifty per cent. Surely we are not willing for the church services to lag for want of our personal interest therein. With your renewed interest and hearty cooperation our church is going to accomplish its purpose in the community. May we count on you for your personal interest in both the budget and the spiritual work that is rightfully our share in the building of a better community. H. A. LONGINO

Fear of Worms Grows in Knox

Fear of worms in the cotton fields of Knox county was expressed by some farmers this week, due to excessive rains for this area. Total rainfall in this county is far in excess of past year and as a result crop conditions are considered best in history of the county.

However, the only other year that heavy rainfall was experienced in the winter and spring, 1926, many acres of cotton that promised bumper crops were leveled by worms.

In 1926 rainfall as registered by A. E. Whittemore on government instruments was: January .98; February none; March 2.18; April 3.17; May 1.16; June 6.25 and July 5.23. The rainfall this year from January to July inclusive, follows: 1.15, 4.47, 4.16, 1.85, 3.78, 4.33, and 4.32.

Some worms were reported last year and did considerable damage, a large portion of which caused spotted cotton.

Hardin-Simmons Enrollment Last Year Shows Gain

ABILENE.—The Hardin-Simmons University enrollment increased the past year to a total of 1197 students, a gain of 85 over the 1936-1937 total of 1112, Dr. R. N. Richardson, executive vice-president, said today as the university completed its annual report to the American Association of College Registrars.

Degrees conferred for the year were 144, an increase of nine over the previous year's total of 135.

Co-eds continued to outnumber men students by a small margin, the report showed, with 632 girls and 565 men. A year ago the annual summary included 596 co-eds and 516 men.

Graduate students at H-SU the past year totaled 73, an increase of 16 over the previous annual total of 57.

Three departments showed marked increases in the number of degrees conferred the past year. Degrees to English majors climbed from 22 to 31, in social sciences from 14 to 20, and in physical sciences from 7 to 12.

One of the H-SU graduates to complete degree requirements at the June commencement season was Miss Mavoureen Reeves, of Munday, receiving a bachelor of arts degree.

Mrs. Lawrence Kimsey and son Larry are spending this week in Stovall Wells, Texas, visiting friends and relatives.

Need Not Retire To Collect Lump Old-Age Payment

It is not necessary to retire from work at the age of 65 in order to receive a lump-sum payment under the old-age insurance program of the Social Security Act, according to J. Gordon James, manager of the Wichita Falls office of the Social Security Board.

Under the present terms of the Social Security Act, a person must quit working as an employee in order to receive the monthly retirement benefits, which will be paid beginning in 1942. The lump-sum benefits are paid to workers who reach the age of 65 now, and who have worked since December 31, 1936, in an employment covered by the old-age insurance provisions of the Act.

The lump-sum payments amount to 3 1-2 per cent of the wages the worker has received since December 31, 1936, and before attaining age 65.

REA Loans Bring New Electric Habits to Farmers

Farmers to whom REA loans are bringing electric power for the first time are quick to form new electrical habits, according to a survey published in the July issue of the Rural Electrification News. The survey, covering 46 REA-financed projects on which the average time of service per customer was only 8.4 months, indicates that within a very short time farmers learn to use electricity for far more than lights.

First, in the average farm family, a house-current radio is installed, bringing entertainment and more news of the world as well as of crop conditions. Next, the farm wife banishes the sad-iron in favor of the lighter electric iron which stays hot. Third, the wash-tub gives way to the washing machine. Then the electric refrigerator comes in. Electric toasters, water pumps, vacuum cleaners, hot plates, small motors, and poultry lighting equipment follow, in the order named, to make farm life more pleasant and profitable.

New electric lines, the survey reveals, provide big new markets for industry. The average farmer, during the first few months he has electricity, spends about $180 for appliances. This expenditure is in addition to the outlay for house wiring, which is anywhere from $50 to $300.

Small and inexpensive appliances sell rapidly on all projects throughout the country. Approximately 85 per cent of the new customers buy electric radios. An appreciable percentage of the customers also purchase more costly equipment, for example, 26 per cent, it is estimated, acquire electric refrigerators soon after obtaining electric service.

Striking regional variations in the saturation of all appliances, except the universally popular radio, are indicated by the survey. Electric washing machines are one of the most commonly purchased appliances in the North. The saturation figure never being less than 45 per cent and rising as high as 92 per cent on one project, while half of the Southern projects have a washing machine saturation of 5 per cent or less. The electric refrigerator, on the other hand, finds its best market on the Southern projects. Among the first 12 projects, ranked according to refrigeration, only 2 were northern projects, one in Illinois and the other in Nebraska. The electric range as found striking success in the VA area, where two projects have range saturation of 24 per cent.

The Rural Electrification News points out that "large numbers of customers were connected after the buying season for refrigerators and ranges, so that the effect of their buying power is not fully registered by the survey. The number of new farm and rural electric customers has been mounting at the rate of 200,000 for each of the past two years, and with between five and six million farmers still without electric service, this number bids fair to increase at this rate for some time."

Other articles in the July Rural Electrification News include one by John M. Carmody, Administrator of REA, who describes his visits to several co-operative projects; one by Victoria Harris, who tells how she prepared a harvest dinner on an electric range before an audience of 1,500 in Minnesota; and an article depicting George Washington and Thomas Jefferson as American pioneers in scientific farming.

BIRD'S SONG
The song of a bird is a wondrous thing
To the heart that is young and free;
Each note is a spark in the flaming of life
And the world is a play to see.

The song of a bird is a torturous thing
For the ones who have dreamed in vain;
No music is theirs in a song or note;
All their hopes are among the slain.

The song of a bird is a marvelous thing
To the ones who are old and gray;
The notes strike again on the chords of the past
And the curses of age glide away.

ALWAYS IN STYLE

There are certain comfortable felt hats and big wooly coats that we wear the year round. You know the kind. They have no season and they go on being in style year after year. Well, it's the same with foods. Certain types of dishes are all the rage for a time. Then suddenly you don't seem to see them or hear of them any more. I can think of lots of desserts that have run their course in this way.

On the other hand there are certain main dishes that are served any season anywhere. They never go out of style. Spaghetti Loaf with Shrimp Sauce is one of these hardy perennials. A year round main dish for family dinners or for party luncheon or supper. It's easy to make and always enjoyed. You'll find it a dainty-looking golden loaf flecked with tender creamy spaghetti tubes, gay bits of pimento and bits of green parsley. Its aroma is tantalizing—a savory cooked cheese fragrance that makes your mouth fairly water. The shrimp sauce adds the finishing grand touch. However, this rich white sauce may be filled with shreds of crab meat or chunks of meaty lobster or sharp little capers—or sliced olives. There are lots of possibilities for the sauce. So don't allow an aversion for shrimp to keep you from making this spaghetti loaf. Here is the recipe:

Spaghetti Loaf
1 1/2 cups uncooked spaghetti broken into 1 inch pieces
1 cup milk
4 tbs. butter
3 eggs
1 cup grated American cheese (packed)
3/4 cup soft bread crumbs (packed)
1 tbs. chopped parsley
1 tsp. grated onion
1 tbs. chopped pimento
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

Cook spaghetti until tender in 2 quarts of boiling water to which 2 tsp. salt has been added. Drain. Heat the milk and butter over hot water until the milk is scalded and the butter melted. Pour gradually over the beaten egg yolks. Add the well drained spaghetti, cheese, bread crumbs, parsley, onion, pimento and seasonings. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well buttered bread loaf pan, set the loaf pan in another pan of water (having the water reach about 1 inch up on the loaf pan), and bake for one hour in a slow moderate oven, 325° F. Use a regular bread loaf pan. Serve hot with Shrimp Sauce—or any other sauce.

Shrimp Sauce: Melt 3 tbs. butter over a low fire. Blend in 3 tbs. flour. Gradually add 1 1/2 cups of whole milk, and cook over hot water until thick and creamy. Add 3/4 tsp. salt. Then add the contents of a 5 oz. can of shrimp—cutting the shrimp in quarters or shredding it fine as desired. Cook the sauce for 3 minutes longer. This will make enough sauce for 6 servings over Spaghetti Loaf.

Question: I'm going to give a shower for a girl friend. Now my house is small—and I know I should invite some of her friends and his people. And then there are my friends. Who do you think I should leave out?

Answer: Don't you think the gracious thing to do would be to ask the guest of honor for whom you are giving the shower, whom she would like to have invited? Since a shower implies a gift, we invite only those friends of the bride we believe would welcome an opportunity to give her something.

Question: I'm going to be married and a friend is giving a shower for me. I've never been to a shower and I'm not sure that I know what to do. Should I open the presents right there before the people? Should I read the names of those who gave the presents right there before people? Do I thank them right then or write a note afterwards?

Answer: By all means open the presents—and read the name of each giver. Then manage to say something very appreciative about each gift such as "Oh, what a convenient tray! That's one of the things I had on my list to buy!" or "How did you know yellow and blue are my favorite colors?" Since you thank each guest in person at the shower a note afterwards is not necessary.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menus. Complete menus for the week will be sent to you at no cost. Please enclose 3 cent stamp to cover return postage.

Texas Highways Declared Safer As Deaths Drop

AUSTIN—Texas streets and highways are definitely safer for the motoring public as shown by a steady decline in fatal traffic collisions, state police reported today.

Final tabulations of casualties in June revealed that 115 persons were killed in 1,026 accidents, a saving of 44 lives if compared with June 1937, a total saving of 130 lives during the first half of 1938 compared with the same period of last year. There was a sharp drop in the number of crashes recorded in June compared with 1,417 reported in that month last year, when Texas' final death toll reached the unprecedented high mark of 2,043 fatalities.

A selective enforcement program—the placing of state patrolmen at strategic points where surveys show the largest number of fatal collisions taking place—which was put into effect recently, is the reason for the diminishing death rate, safety officials believe. With 300 mounted officers patrolling death stretches of highways there are predictions that Texas will rank as a safe state of the nation by the end of the year.

Encouraging to the recorders was the continued decrease in the number of pedestrians who met death under the wheels of vehicles, in most instances when pedestrians crossed streets at places other than intersections. The pedestrian death toll has steadily declined from 40 in January to 21 in June.

The fatal smash-ups involving bicycle riders brought a sharp warning from Captain Kate police director, who pointed to the four death crashes of this type last month as examples of carelessness. He urged that riders of cycles carry lights and abide by traffic regulations that guide motorists. In addition to the four deaths there were 27 bicycle riders severely injured in collisions.

An analysis to determine the primary causes of 1,026 of the fatal and more serious crashes in June revealed that 99 involved drivers and pedestrians who had been drinking, 94 drivers ignored laws governing right-of-way, and 78 were driving to near the center of highways or on the wrong side. Speed ranked fourth as the principal contributing cause in 72 of the 1,026 collisions.

Regarding the 1938 traffic situation, Col. R. H. Carmichael, director of the safety department, commented:

"In urging Texans to bring to their state a national record for traffic safety, we would like for every driver to take personal inventory of his driving faults, and correct them. None of us are perfect drivers, so there is urgent need for individual responsibility." Police can prevent many collisions but too often they have to assist at inquests over dead traffic victims—all unnecessarily killed."

The story of the cultivation of orchids will be dramatized in the Homes and Gardens area of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island.

An educational exhibit of baking, showing different types of bread used throughout the world, will be featured by Standard Brands of California in its World's Fair exhibit on Treasure Island.

Naval officers from battleships of Great Britain in colorful full dress uniforms, are to attend a grand costume ball climaxing British Empire Day at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Fossils of dogs 4,000,000 years old, recently unearthed near San Francisco Bay, will be displayed at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

On Monday, July the eighteenth, twenty-five scouts of the Munday Scout Troop met at the Methodist Church lawn at three-thirty, a.m., and left for Menard, Texas. We traveled in Mr. E. E. Lowe's truck, and we had one flat just this side of Abilene, as we were going.

Also making the trip, beside the scouts and scoutmaster, Mr. Cooper, were Mr. E. E. Lowe, Mr. Ardelle Spele, and Will Chamberlain (colored) cook.

We arrived shortly before noon and to our delight the sun was shining and the water was just cold enough for good swimming. There were two high trolleys going into the water, and also a swing and three boats to play with. On Monday afternoon one of the scouts, Hugh Longino, caught the only large fish that was caught while we were there. He caught a bass which weighed about two and one-half pounds.

Tuesday afternoon it began raining, and by Wednesday morning the river had risen about six inches; this didn't hurt the swimming except that it was pretty cold. Wednesday afternoon several of the scouts and the scoutmaster put on their bathing suits, for it was still raining, and their shirts to keep from catching cold, and hiked to town for supplies. When they returned, to Park Davis, which is about one and one-half miles from Menard if you go by the road, the river was about twelve feet higher than normal and was still rising. Before dark it had risen to a height of twenty-one and one-half feet.

Thursday morning we moved everything from the three small cabins we were in to the one large cabin which was on top of a hill, or a sort of knoll. The water in the river was still rising and about ten o'clock, a.m., reached its peak and was about thirty feet from the cabin. There was a big tree in front of our cabin, about five feet in diameter, and we put a rope in it, and fixed steps where we could get into it if necessary.

Friday morning the water was going down (slowly) and about three o'clock, p.m., five boys who lived in Menard came out to where we were and told us that there was another rise reported. We all got one quilt each, one change of clothes and our bathing suits and left our truck by our cabin and headed for Menard. In order to get to Menard we had to wade about one mile out of the way, cross an irrigation flume and cross a hill.

One thing for which all the scouts were grateful was the hospitality shown us by the people of Menard. As soon as we got to town, the manager of one of the local garages let us into his establishment and take a shower and change to our dry clothes. The scoutmaster of the Menard scouts let us sleep in the Scout House on Friday night. While we were eating supper we had a surprise, Mr. Stengel, who is president of one of the Menard banks, treated us to ice cream for dessert.

Saturday afternoon about four o'clock the river began rising again and we were forced to abandon the scout house. Here, again, the hospitality of the people was shown, in the fact that there were several people there in cars, and one fire truck to take us to the High School building. Several hundred people sought refuge in the high school building on Saturday night, because the building stood on a hill which was higher than the rest of the city. While we were sleeping there the first night we could hear the fire siren quite frequently; these were emergency calls.

Needless to say, none of the

TUBERCULOSIS!

A series of articles dealing on the disease and the Texas hospital for Tubercular Patients.

By DOROTHY GARRETT

There is great deal more than health to be gained here. If the patient has the right attitude, his stay here can become an experience rich in many ways, literally, a two million dollar experience.

There is no doubt some lifelong friendships are formed here; to some who have always been bound by narrow viewpoints, the new ideas formed by contact with so many different types of people is invaluable; perhaps the young girl down the hall, always allowed to have her own way a little too much, is experiencing her first taste of discipline—and it is good for her.

In the necessarily strict routine of a large institution, the patient must learn neatness of living quarters, clothes, and person, and often neatness of thought follows this.

The opportunity for thought and meditation, stressed by our chaplain in a recent talk, is worth much to those who have lived too swiftly, who have never had the time for thought.

Getting along with people here is another lesson learned here—probably in every dormitory there is some misfit, someone who has never learned to accept the give-and-take of life. It is the in-scouts attended church or Sunday School Sunday morning, as we were all pretty dirty and one or two of us needed shaves.

Sunday night, Mr. Lowe and Mr. Spele went to Park Davis and managed to get our truck up on the hill. Then Monday morning 20 scouts went there and helped bring it on home. We left the school building about nine-thirty Monday morning and arrived here about three-thirty or four that afternoon.

All the scouts were well pleased with our cook. All our meals were deliciously prepared.

Scouts who made the trip were Hugh Longino, Harold Longino, Jack Pippin, Clifford Pippin, Dan Billingsley, Frankie Boone, Mac Haynes, Howard Payne Shannon, Dorse Collins, Sargent Lowe, Glenn D. Rayburn, Joe Albertson, Kenneth Spele, David Eiland, Charles Baker, J. E. Reeves, Jr., Willard Reeves, Jimmie Lee Haney, Joe Dean Clough, G. C. Conwell, Dick Harrell, John Wood, Lynn Chapman, Bobbie Reese, and Henry Dingus.

ELECTRIC SERVICE WITH SAFETY

Selection and Use of Flexible Cords

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the International Association of Electrical Inspectors to encourage safety in the use of electricity in homes.

The wires securely mounted in the hollow spaces of walls of a home have little chance of mechanical damage. When these same circuits are extended into the rooms through flexible cords, no such protection is possible. The same voltages existing in the carefully protected permanent wires exist, of course, in the flexible extensions, and because these receive such hard service, oftentimes being located on the floor, they require special attention for the sake of safety. The safety built into the permanent wiring of the house is of no avail if the last link in the wiring chain, the attachment cords, are not suitable for the purpose and are not kept in good repair.

The bracelet label of Underwriters' Laboratories is used only on cords which are adequately safe.

dent that all cords will ultimately wear out but some cords, made carefully and with durable materials, will give longer and safer service than others of inferior construction. About five years ago sub-standard cords had become so prevalent that electrical inspectors throughout the country became alarmed because of the fire and shock hazard which might be involved in their use. Utility companies found that these cords soon wore out, creating short circuits, blowing fuses and causing complaints. Electrical manufacturers felt that a product which was below recognized safety standards would reflect adversely on satisfaction in the use of electricity. As a consequence, these interested groups approached Underwriters' Laboratories with the request that some plan be devised by which the public might know which cords comply with the safety standards. The result was the establishment of the so-called bracelet label which has now been used for several years on cords shown by the Laboratories' tests to comply with all requirements of their standards.

In the use of flexible cords it is especially important to watch them at their points of most frequent bending, which usually occur at the points where they enter appliances. Observe the condition of the cords at these points to see that the copper conductors do not become exposed so as to make the metal appliance or lamp frames "alive." Do not continue to use cords when they have become frayed and worn.

Special care should be observed in using extension cords, particularly under houses, where dampness is present, or on damp earth. Sockets made of insulating materials rather than those of the brass shell type should be employed, and it is advisable to have a guard around the lamp. For outdoor, garage or basement use, extensions should be made with rubber-sheathed cords.

flexible cords are called upon to perform a particularly severe service. Those used on appliances must stand a great amount of flexing, twisting, bending and kinking without breaking down. Cords used on heating appliances must withstand frequent contacts with the hot parts of appliances and the braids must resist abrasive wear on the edges of tables, ironing boards, etc. As a result of this severe service, it is evident that all cords will ultimately wear out but some cords, made carefully and with durable materials, will give longer and safer service than others of inferior construction. About five years ago sub-standard cords had become so prevalent that electrical inspectors throughout the country became alarmed because of the fire and shock hazard which might be involved in their use. # TEXAS WILDLIFE

A series of Articles Dealing with Conservation of Texas Wildlife

AUSTIN—A method so simple that it scarcely seems worth writing about has been found to be one of the most effective means of restoring Bobwhite Quail in depopulated ranges, the Game Department announced today.

It is the establishment of fenced areas that offer the birds abundant food and cover in which to build their nests and hide from their enemies.

As described in a bulletin by Valgene W. Lehmann, field biologist, and just published by the Game Department, the plots should be about a half-acre in size and properly planted so they will be well stocked with food. They may be square or rectangular in shape. "There are many quail ranges in Texas that produce few quail because they are overgrazed by cattle, sheep and goats, or cultivated so intensely that little food or cover is left for birds," Lehmann writes.

He added that experiments with the fenced shelters had been made in Wharton county. They did not interfere with normal farm and ranch operations, and resulted in an increase of the quail population. Fourteen of the 16 plots established, he said, held coveys of quail the following fall and winter. In some instances the shelters were located on open prairie fully two miles from territory where quail had been known the winter before, and Lehmann found they attracted and hold coveys.

Fenced shelters, Lehmann found, can be established at little cost, and can be made to produce quick results.

Two types of shelters are recommended, one for regions having native cover, and the other for regions where no native cover is present and must be created artificially by brush piles. Crops planted in the shelter should be rotated. In his bulletin Lehmann includes a diagram showing how the two types of shelters should be constructed.

Full instructions for establishment of the shelters are included in the leaflet, which may be procured free of charge upon request from the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Walton Building, Austin.

Evidence that Texas sportsmen are living up to the name was found in the June fine and arrest report of the Game Department. Only 46 of the State's 254 counties reported game and fish law violations.

There is an old law on the statute books providing for fish ladders at all dams in Texas. The law, said Will J. Tucker, Game Department secretary, was passed about 50 years ago, when the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries stocked Texas warm-water streams with salmon, rainbow trout and shad, all of which are cold-water fish and which expired almost as soon as they were planted in Texas. These fish are "climbers." In the spawning season they go upstream to bring on their young. Hence the fish ladder law.

There are still fishermen who erected for bass and crappie. But these fish it has been determined, are not climbers, Tucker said. A bass won't climb over two feet.

An elk herd is doing well in the Guadalupe mountains, reports Bob Snow, Game Department field investigator. Forty-four were imported in 1929. Now the herd numbers more than 300, he said. In the daytime they loiter at water-holes, and at night climb the mountains. They won't jump at automobiles, but they are afraid of horses and men.

You can't shoot 'em. They are protected by law.

President Lions International Is Walter F. Dexter

OAKLAND, Calif.—Walter F. Dexter, of Sacramento, Calif., was elected president of the International Association of Lions Clubs last Friday at the closing session of the annual International convention.

Ten thousand delegates and their families, representing 8,000 Lions Clubs of 105,000 membership in eight countries, attended the four day convention just ended.

Mr. Dexter, who for the past year has served as first vice-president, succeeds Frank V. Birch, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to the Presidency of Lions International. He was formerly Secretary to the Governor of the State of California, and is now State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is also chairman of the Committee of Forty appointed by the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County for the simplification of county government.

The new president has been very active in Lions' work. He was elected to the International Board in 1934, and at the 19th annual convention, held in Mexico City, he was elected third vice-president. Through successive years, he has now been elevated to the office of International President. Prior to being elected to the International Board, he served as District Governor of the fourth District, then composed of the States of California and Nevada and the Territory of Hawaii.

Walter Dexter is a native of Chicago. He was born in 1886. When he was eight years old the Dexter family moved farther west to engage in farming. When he reached college age, Dexter entered Penn College in Iowa. He was graduated in 1916, and then entered Columbia University in New York City. Here he received his M.A. degree. Later, he attended Harvard University where he received his Master of Education and Doctor of Education in 1921. For the next two years, he served as head of the Department of Education in Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and from there he went to Whittier College in California, as its president, which position he held for the next ten years. In 1934, he left Whittier College to become more actively engaged in civic and state affairs.

In 1910 he married Ethel Lenore Smith. They have one son, Walter Franklin. The family resides in Sacramento.

Weekly Health Letter!

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, M.D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN.—"Recent outbreaks of food poisoning show very strikingly the need of special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food prepared hours before serving and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for bacteria. Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition, and must be kept well refrigerated.

"Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials and in some cases in certain types of bacteria which are rapidly spread and not necessarily associated with filthy conditions.

"Picnic food is particularly susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have sound, fresh, foods, clean, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Require all who prepare the food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination.

"If food must be prepared in advance of use, cook it thoroughly keep it refrigerated and otherwise protected at a temperature under 50 degrees, F., until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infected, such as certain salads, and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream and dairy products in general should be from approved sources.

"Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed in the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as over-eating, help to bring them about. Remember this, and don't indulge in too strenuous exercise when the days are hot and muggy. Don't over-indulge, either, in unwise combination of foods."

LUCKY "SEVEN"

Life is just a bowl of sevens to Bernice Bayless (note the seven letters on each name), student at Texas State College for Women. Born on a Tuesday in January in 1907, the day and month both having seven letters, she is the seventh child in her family. By the time she received her first degree she had attended seven schools. She majored in English—seven-letter word—and in 1937 she began her seventh year of teaching the seventh grade in town seven. She has also won seven contest prizes.

Nickel or nothing, say the students at Texas State College for Women, according to reports from the merchants around the campus. The girls have gone Scotch the past few years, and five-cent magazines, soft drinks, groceries and supplies have a greater lead than ever before on the more "ritzy" products. Storekeepers also comment that the girls now spend a greater per cent of their money on necessities.

"Hawaii Calls" Featuring Bobby Breen Sponsored by Munday Lions Club at Roxy Theatre Next Monday Night

The semi-tropical beauty of the Hawaiian Islands forms the background for "Hawaii Calls," Bobby Breen's newest musical starring vehicle, which is shortly to be seen on our local screens.

With the exception of scenes taking place aboard a passenger liner on its trip from San Francisco to Honolulu, all the action of this colorful screenplay transpires amid the luxuriant settings of "the Islands." Many of the best known spots of this great Pacific empire are seen in the film, including the famous Waikiki Beach, Honolulu's beautiful resort hotels, its picturesque-oriental quarter and the fern-covered areas of the island of Oahu. The latter is dominated by the Pali, towering precipice 600 feet in height, over which ancient King Kamahameha once drove an opposing army to destruction on the rocks below.

Late in the story of this action-filled picture the island of Maui is the scene of a lualu, or native feast, with garlanded throngs of merry-makers partaking of a banquet, consisting of a pig roasted underground, sweet potatoes and an assortment of purely Hawaiian delicacies, while dancing girls undulate to the music of native musicians.

The cast of "Hawaii Calls" is exceptional, including as it does such popular screen figures as Ned Sparks, Ivisin S. Cobb, Gloria Holden, Warren Hull and Juanita Quigley. Mamo Clark, Pua Lani, Aggie Auld, Birdie De Bolt and other native Hawaiians are also seen in important roles.

During the progress of the screenplay, the silvery voiced Bobby Breen sings half a dozen tuneful songs, including two written especially for the picture by Harry Owens, whose "Sweet Lelani" is one of the popular hits of the day. These are "Hawaii Calls," theme song of the picture, and "Down Where the Trade Winds Blow," Raymond Paige and his orchestra take a prominent part in the picture.

In the story Bobby and his young Hawaiian friend, Pua Lani, who have earned their living on the streets of San Francisco, go to Honolulu as stowaways on a great passenger liner. They make their escape to shore with the police in pursuit. Their exciting adventures in Hawaii, during which they are secreted by native friends of Pua, reach a thrilling climax when the boys become involved in the search for a band of criminals who have stolen government naval secrets.

"Hawaii Calls" was directed by Fred Cline. The story was adapted from the adventure story, Run-off races in the state ticket include the lieutenant-governor's race which will have Pierce Brooks and Stevenson pitted against each other for the important office. In the Attorney General's race, many Texans were surprised at the power shown by Gerald C. Mann, prominent Dallas attorney and former state secretary. Mann led Walter Woodul's political force most of the count but was trailing by a small majority at the latest count. Yarbrough ran a poor third in the race, and it is believed that this race will furnish one of the highlights of the run-off.

George Sheppard, running for re-election as comptroller had piled up a huge majority over his two opponents Biffle and Terrell. Tuesday, Sheppard's vote was over 500,000.

In the very important railroad commissioner's race Jerry Sadler of Longview, was giving veteran C. V. Terrell a battle, but was still trailing at the last count by some 30,000 votes. Terrell was seeking re-election and will go into the run-off with Sadler.

McDonald and Bascom Giles will battle for the Land Commissioner's office in the run-off with McDonald having an estimated 200,000 lead over Giles at the final count. Browning and Mills were eliminated by the voting.

McFarlane received a heavy majority in his home county, Young, and led by narrow margins in Wichita and Wise counties. ## THE 'POCKETBOOK' OF KNOWLEDGE

INFLATION, ONCE STARTED, IS DIFFICULT TO STOP. DURING THE EGYPTIAN DEPRESSION OF 333 A.D. MONEY WAS DEBASED TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT WHEAT COST $2,500 A BUSHEL!

EMPLOYMENT IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY FOR 1937 WAS 22% MORE THAN IN 1929. THE PAYROLLS IN 1937 WERE $805,000,000 AS COMPARED WITH $751,000,000 IN 1929.

LONG SHOES WERE ONCE THE FASHION IN ENGLAND. 15th CENTURY NOBLEMEN WORE SHOES WITH POINTS SO LONG THEY HAD TO BEND THEM UPWARD AND FASTEN THE ENDS TO THEIR KNEES WITH CHAINS!

INSTEAD OF DOG RACES, THE EARLY ROMANS ENJOYED RAT RACES! THE RATS WERE "LUKED" AROUND THE TRACK BY A PIECE OF MEAT WHICH WAS DRAGGED IN FRONT OF THEM.

IN 1910 THERE WERE 16,372,000 AMERICAN MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN WHO HAD SAVINGS ACCOUNTS IN BANKS. TODAY—THE NUMBER HAS INCREASED TO OVER 42,396,000! AMERICAN EVIDENCE OF PROGRESS.

RURAL ROUTE PATRONS

Unserviceable and unsightly mail boxes retard the delivery of mail and detract from the natural scenic beauty of the highways. Particularly to be deplored are the non-regulation old type boxes that expose mail to the elements. It is the desire of the Post Office Department not only to correct the above mentioned situation, but to encourage all rural mail patrons to possess pride in their boxes, both in the manner of erection, and tidy appearance. To help accomplish these objectives the Department has designated August 1st to August 6th as "Clean Up Rural Box Week." We appreciate the fine cooperation you have given in the past and solicit your help in this undertaking. Yours for better service, LEE HAYMES Postmaster
