INTERESTING LETTER RECEIVED FROM MRS. SALEM AND CHILDREN

The Times is very grateful for the following letter from Mrs. George Salem and her two daughters, who are visiting in Mrs. Salem's native home in Syria. Mr. Salem, manager of the Fair Store, remained at home. Postage on the letter was in six brightly-colored stamps, costing about 20c in American money, Mr. Salem said.

The Letter
Beirut, Syria.
Dear Readers of the Munday Times,

True to our promise to all our good friends in Munday, we are sending a brief account of our most enjoyable trip across the Atlantic Ocean, to Syria. We are not talented authors such as Sinclair Lewis, or Dale Carnegie, but we are writing this article in our own plain words.

On the evening of July 6 our house was crowded with our dearest relatives and friends. Of course, this was as sad a scene as could be had.

The next morning at five o'clock our house was awake and ready to leave. We were invited to breakfast at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert, which left such a memory as never to be forgotten.

After telling all of our friends goodbye, Mr. and Mrs. Sied Waheed accompanied us to Abilene, where we were to take the Sunshine Special for St. Louis, Missouri. After arriving in Abilene we sat in the station and discussed further details of our trip. At first we were very happy to leave, but at the last moment, when we were to tell our dearest ones goodbye, it was very difficult to leave them all behind.

After we boarded the Sunshine Special for St. Louis, it was one solid hour before we spoke a word to each other. But then we had come to enjoy the trip so we cheered up and began to take notice of our surroundings.

There were many small station-stops on the route but the first important stop was St. Louis, Missouri, where we changed to the Baltimore and Ohio line. After spending three days and two nights on the train we at last arrived in Washington, D.C., where we spent three days enjoying the wonderful sights that the great capitol had to offer.

We visited all the museums we could possibly see and of which of course were educational. Then we obtained special passes to enter some of the rooms of the White House that are not opened to all of the public. Among the rooms were the Red Room, Blue Room, large ballroom, dining room and several exhibition rooms. We also took several pictures within the grounds of the White House. Then there were many large buildings such as the Capitol and the Library of Congress. When we entered the library accompanied by relatives, we were taken through the building by a policeman who showed us the most important places of interest, the most interesting of which was the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution. This policeman also noticed that we were travelers so when we finished our tour we were introduced to the head librarian, Mr. Roberts, and exchanged a very interesting conversation with him.

Several young people and Alva and Nadine visited the Washington monument together and from their conversation after they returned they enjoyed themselves very much.

We left Washington on the 10:45 train for New York, where we would arrive at 9:00 the next morning.

The first day in New York we spent looking at the sights near our hotel. When we at last went to bed that night we fell asleep almost immediately, but not until we had phoned Miss Mary Hope Smith and made an engagement to see her the next day.

Our second day in New York was even better than the first day. We dined at the Baghdad Restaurant with Mary Hope and enjoyed all the oriental customs it had to offer. Then we went to see what the great Broadway looked like. The Wrigley sign, the largest electrical sign in the world, is really a wonderful sight to behold and Broadway at night is a wonder we shall never forget.

The third day we went across Brooklyn Bridge and to the top of the Empire State building. We also visited Radio City and St. Patrick's Cathedral. At the top of the Empire State we could see the steamer "Savoy" lit with lights, which we would very soon sail on. After staying quite a while on the top of the building we went to a movie on Broadway to spend the rest of a glorious evening.

On the last night in New York we were supposed to meet Mary Hope at the Columbia University but at the appointed hour of our meeting we were very much disappointed because the weather did not permit us to leave the hotel. We regretted this very much because it would have been very interesting to visit the University. At last the great moment had arrived! We were all so happy and thrilled because today we were leaving to spend a glorious eleven days on the blue waters.

Having boarded the liner and located our staterooms we once more returned to the deck to see the multitude of people saying goodbye to their friends and relatives. Of course everybody was crowding close to the rail to wave their last goodbyes to the many people standing on the dock and of course it was hard to realize that from all the people standing there, there was no one from our dear friends and relatives in Munday.

When the huge steamer began to gradually move away from the New York pier and we could see the statue of Liberty, everything was quieter than it had been.

The first day we spent in getting acquainted with our surroundings about the ship. That night we listened to the orchestra and met a great many nice people among whom was a man going to Damascus and a young lady. The man's name was Mr. Sarge.

The morning of the second day was indeed one never to be forgotten. About nine o'clock we were sitting in the lounge listening to some young ladies playing the piano and singing. Among them we noticed a young lady we had met the night before and she had an unusually well cultivated voice. Presently Mr. Sarge came in and we asked him where she trained her voice and why wasn't she studying singing? Mr. Sarge was very much amused when he told us the lady was the much-celebrated screen star, Bette Davis. But of course we promised not to tell anyone who she was because she did not want to be recognized during her voyage.

That afternoon at two o'clock we attended the concert given in the Deck A tea-room. The orchestra had unusual talent and their selections were very well received.

The concert lasted until four o'clock or until tea time. There was music during tea so people could dance and enjoy themselves more. Five o'clock was a much celebrated hour on board because at that time the horse races began. Of course the horse used were wooden horses but people placed their bets on them as if they were real. Everyone seemed to enjoy the races and many people lost money, but then they had to have fun.

At six-thirty dinner was served and the foods served on the ship were at their best. Everything was different and elaborately cooked and served. But of course everyone enjoyed the delicious wine and champagne served at every meal.

At eight o'clock the picture show began and the first show we saw was "Another Dawn."

After the show was over there was dancing in the lounge beginning at ten o'clock, until after midnight. There was always a great deal of people there so we enjoyed ourselves very much.

We awoke rather late on the morning of our third day on the ship so we did not do much that morning.

Early in the morning we were enjoying ourselves on deck when Mr. Sarge and Miss Jefferies (Bette Davis) happened to come along so we asked them if we could take their pictures so as to remember them after our pleasant voyage together was ended. After the picture was taken Miss Jefferies talked a little to Mr. Sarge in a low whisper and after a few minutes she motioned for us to come to where she was. It was then that Mr. Sarge introduced her to us as Miss Davis. Of course we do not know for sure that she is Miss Davis but we have received two cards from her since we have been here in Syria. We are expecting a letter from her soon and if we do not receive one we are going to write to the studios in California to secure the information.

On the fourth day there was much excitement on board the Savoy. On the program for the day there was a notice that tonight we would dock in Gibraltar about six o'clock and at ten o'clock until one there would be a gala dance to celebrate our first stop. Of course everyone was dressed in their evening gowns and everyone looked their best. The whole ship was alive until about one o'clock when some of the people began to retire.

The next morning mother was the only one, from our cabin, who got up in time for breakfast. We girls did not arise from bed until eleven o'clock, in time to eat lunch.

There was a very nice swimming pool on board ship and of course the girls always went swimming. The pool was in a gymnasium where one could take exercise on bicycles (without wheels), rowing (without a boat), horseback riding (without a horse), and such sports as boxing and fencing.

On the sun-deck one could participate in such games as shuffleboard, deck-tennis, and ping-pong, and there were always contests being held to elect the champion of each sport.

On the night before the steamer Savoy docked in Naples a midnight party was given in the gymnasium. There was swimming at midnight and contests were held for the best swimmer, diver and many other things. There was also a photographer there who took everyone's picture in their least suspecting moments.

On the seventh day we arrived in Naples before noon. Mr. Sarge was a great help in getting our baggage through the customs without having them inspected.

While on board the Savoy we had made friends with a young lady, Miss Ester Orshorn, who was going to Palestine. Her father had trusted her to our care, so when we arrived in Naples she stayed with us in the hotel.

When we rested at the hotel we went with Miss Ester to see the sights of Naples. We rented an open carriage and spent the rest of the day seeing Naples.

On the morning of the second day we visited the ruins of Pompeii. These ruins were really of historical and educational interest. In the museum at Pompeii one can still see the human forms encased in a thin cast of cement. They are still in the exact position in which they were when the burning lava from Mt. Vesuvius spread on their flourishing little city. Their daily utensils and personal belongings are still preserved. When we entered the city of Pompeii we met quite by accident a group of young men from good ol' Longview, Texas. Of course we were thrilled to hear the good English language again. We took several pictures together to remember our meeting.

The two main places of interest in Pompeii were the huge remains of the amphitheatre and the "Good Luck" fountain. Once in a while along the road one can still see the chariot tracks in the rock road leading to the theatre. The stairways are still preserved and the stage is still in good condition.

The "Good Luck" Fountain has an old legend. It is said that in the olden times anyone who drank from this fountain would always have good luck. One can still see where the cement is worn when the many people stooped to partake of the water coming forth. Of course we drank from it as so many other tourists did.

The taxi driver who took us to and from Pompeii was indeed a very well known man. Just a few days before he had been the winner in an auto race held in Naples. We experienced many thrills when he would turn the corners on two wheels.

When we returned to the hotel we found the bus waiting to take

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Paul Whiteman

Barbara Weeks, star of Her Honor, Nancy James, has the blues. But it's a grand passion rather than a depression. Blue is her favorite color. Not only does she wear blue whenever possible, but the walls of her apartment are in varying shades of blue, her table linens are blue and the color scheme is even carried through her stationery.

Alice Hill, Betty of the famous Betty and Bob radio dramas, knows herself. Long ago she decided that she wasn't the type to portray a dashing boldness on the air because it was foreign to her nature. The other day her hairdresser tried to sell her on the up-swing coiffure but she nixed the idea. It didn't suit her personality.

Jim (Fibber McGee) Jordan is among those who are sorry to see the summer fade away—but for more than sentimental reasons. It means the end of the busy season for his soft drink business in Kansas City.

Planning to enlarge the scope of his work, John J. Anthony, conductor of the Sunday night Original Good Will Court over the Mutual network, is mapping out a tour of important cities along the Atlantic seaboard, in each of which he will hold good will clinics.

Unusual circumstance has risen in connection with that new Star Theatre on CBS. There are so many star acts that the sponsor receives hundreds of letters after each broadcast asking for a recording of "Una Merkel's comedy sketch," "Kenny Baker's song," "the Reinhardt dramatic production" and other features of the show.

Generally Broadway contributes stars to radio, but in the case of Big Sister, top-ranking daytime serial, the process is reversed. Both Alice Frost, who plays the title role, and Martin Gabel, Dr. John Wayne of the radio drama, have been drafted for Mercury Theatre productions within less than a year.

The other day someone was bemoaning high income taxes to Eddie Cantor. Cantor replied: "I consider the taxes I pay a cheap price to pay for a show called Liberty."

McConnell Will Speak to Alumni

Denton, Nov. 17—President W. J. McConnell will be principal speaker at the reunion dinner for all ex-students of the North Texas State Teachers College Nov. 24, at the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker Hotel in Dallas.

Music for the evening will be furnished by Floyd Graham's orchestra. A program of entertainment will be given by the Dallas group of ex-students.

An effort to reach every former student of the college with an invitation to the dinner is being made by this year's officers. Twenty-five campus organizations have been asked to write their exes letters of invitation. Fifty-eight former students have been named as a statewide committee to get in touch with all former students in their respective areas. A radio appeal to exes to attend the banquet was made last week over WFAA by Miss Annette Leatherwood, recording secretary of the Ex-Students Association.

Other association officers aiding in the reunion dinner drive are Bullock Hyder, Denton, president; Mrs. George Medders, Denton, executive secretary, and Miss Quanta Woods of Dallas, vice-president.

Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Freeland left Thursday morning for their home in Dallas after spending several days here in the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bolt. Mr. and Mrs. Bolt also had as their guest over the week-end, their granddaughter, Miss Lois Freeland, of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Sid Castles, sister of Mrs. E. W. Harrell, is expected here next week, accompanied by her son, and the three will motor to Oklahoma City to spend Thanksgiving Day with Mrs. Harrell's son, Gene.

Maybe we DON'T believe in Santa Claus. But we DO believe we have a mighty good selection of Christmas Cards this year. We are equipped to print your name on these cards the KINGSLEY way as advertised in VOGUE.

Farm Meeting At Plainview

M. L. Wilson, under-secretary of agriculture, will be the main speaker on Monday afternoon, the first day of the two-day West Texas Agricultural Congress to be held in Plainview, November 21 and 22, according to C. H. Day, Waco, Texas, president of the Texas Agricultural Association. This is the second meeting this fall arranged by farmers themselves in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Association which has brought national agricultural leaders to discuss farm matters with Texas farmers, Day said.

Virgil V. Parr, Spur, manager of the Pitchfork Ranch and Cattle Co., and director for district 3 of the Texas Agricultural Association, will introduce Secretary Wilson.

The Congress, which will be held in the Plainview auditorium, opens at 10 o'clock, November 21. Speakers for the morning session include C. E. Bowles, Texas Extension Service; Senator H. G. Nelson, Lubbock; Mrs. W. G. Kennedy, Muleshoe; E. H. Grimes, White Deer; and Senator A. B. Tarwater. Conservation, agricultural legislation, and the responsibility of farm women to agriculture are among the subjects to be discussed.

Secretary Wilson will speak at 2:45, Monday afternoon. Dr. R. H. (Bob) Montgomery, University of Texas, is scheduled to speak on the same afternoon. Tuesday's speakers include R. A. Manire, state director, vocational agriculture teachers, Austin; J. E. Montgomery; and J. S. Sharp, Paris, president, Texas Cotton Growers Association.

The Congress is being arranged by the co-ops of West Texas in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Association.

A Motorist's Prayer

Give me a steady hand and watchful eye that no man may be hurt when I pass by. Thou gavest life. I pray no act of mine may take or mar that gift of Thine. Shelter those, dear Lord, who bear me company, from evils of fire and all calamity. Teach me to use my car for others needs, nor miss through love of speed the beauties of Thy world, that thus I may with joy and courtesy go on my way.—H. D. Burson.

New Books — New Worlds
As this week is National Book Week, it is both fitting and proper that we stop and consider the important subject of reading.

ly begin the ascension to the climax. When the climax is reached, the story should quickly end, at the highest point of interest is past.

My Autobiography As a Reader
The first 10 years of my life I read fairy tales. I would hear someone speak of a good book, and I just couldn't stand it because it wouldn't be some imaginary fairy tale.

English Pupils Observe National Book Week

In observance of National Book Week (Nov. 13-19) the English III pupils have been writing papers on subjects pertaining to good reading.

My Favorite Type of Story
My favorite type of story is one which contains, in certain forms, mystery, adventure, and thrilling suspense.

Whether or not mystery stories are good reading is a problem which confronts many people. Often folks are ashamed of their liking for mystery stories, but they should not be convinced that they should not like them.

Are Mystery Stories Good Reading?

I think mystery stories are good for people. They give them real mental exercise. One should watch for the clues, try to figure out the results before they are explained, and use his imagination actively.

stories, he is reading something that makes him think, therefore, mystery stories really are good reading. —Virginia Mae Parkhill.

Thanksgiving Last week we celebrated a date that ended a war. Next week we shall celebrate a day—Thanksgiving—that has been set aside for many years. Our forefathers came over to a land that was rich and plentiful. They had to work and strive for what they got; but they were thankful for what they had.

Do you see any connection or resemblance of Armistice to our Thanksgiving? Years ago men brought their families to live on a land they knew little about. They had to fight for their lives and for their possessions. Today, men are still fighting; not for their own lives and food as our forefathers did, but against the greediness and avidness in other countries.

Senior Basketball Boys

Two more victories were chalked up for the Sunset Eagles last week. On Tuesday night the team pitted its skill against that of the Knox City Greyhounds at Knox City and by the excellent shots of Shannon and Strickland emerged the victor by a score of 23 to 19.

The second game of the week was played at Sunset with the Benjamin Mustangs. The Eagles got off to a flying start in the opening minute of play by scoring seven points. During this game Howard Myers showed up by good scoring. The team played good ball and the final score was Sunset 41, Benjamin 13.

Volleyball

Some say there is no such thing as luck, but the volleyball girls believe there is. Friday night they beat the Benjamin Mustangs after three hard fought games. The Sunset girls kinda went to sleep and let Benjamin demolish them the second game, but the third game the Eagles spread their wings and soared above their opponents to snap a score of 17 to 15.

The girls are planning to fly high with another victory this coming Friday night when they again meet Benjamin here. Because of the very closeness between the games the girls are more determined to win the first two games and really show Sunset and its visitors what they can do. —Nellie Louise Prather.

Famous Actors Attended Tex. U.

Austin, Nov. 10.—Some of Hollywood's best-known actors and actresses once attended the University of Texas. John Boles, screen lover, who was born at Greenville, was graduated from the University in 1917 and studied in New York and Europe before beginning his screen career.

When John Arledge came to the University from Crockett in 1925-26, he was known as Johnson L. Arledge. He went to Hollywood in 1931.

Helen Vinson, movie star and wife of the top-ranking tennis player, Fred Perry, attended the University from 1922 to 1924. Her real name is Helen Ruffs and her home was in Beaumont.

Campus beauty, artist's model, moving picture star are descriptive terms applicable to Adrienne Ames. As Jeanette Florence Allen, University of Texas co-ed, she was selected one of ten campus favorites in 1928 and her pictures appeared in the University year-book, the Cactus. She was born in Fort Worth, registered in the University from Eureka Springs, Ark., and later lived at Temple. She received her degree from the University in 1930.

The name of Corinne Griffith, former United Artists' star, is listed on the rolls of the Ex-Students' Association as Corinne Griffith of Mineral Wells, who came to the University in 1912.

Tex Ritter, western star, studied at the University from 1922 to 1927. His real name is Woodward Maurice and his home was Nederland.

Smith Ballew, Dallas student at the University from 1921 to 1923, played a banjo in an orchestra composed of University students before he joined the movies in Hollywood.

One of the latest additions to the ranks of University exes making good in Hollywood is Mary Tom Blackwood from Alexandria, La., sweetheart of the University in 1932. She attended the University of Southern California after leaving Texas and then signed a contract with Fox.

Pneumonia Time Is Near at Hand

Austin, Nov. 17.—"Though pneumonia may and does occur at all seasons of the year, the winter months see the highest incidence of this disease. With relatively few cases during the summer, an increase in pneumonia is observed with the advent of Fall, usually quite noticeable in November, and continues through December, January, February and March before the number of cases again declines to the "warm weather" level, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"Lobar pneumonia is an infectious disease. It well over 90 per cent of the cases it is caused by one of the 32 types of the pneumococcus germ. Against some but by no means all of these varieties of the pneumococcus, serums have been developed which have proven extremely beneficial in the treatment of pneumonia cases by these particular types. In order that best results can be expected the serum must be given early.

"The necessity of persons developing their natural defense against all infections including pneumonia, is just as important and essential today as it ever was.

"After all, many cases of pneumonia get their first start by way of a lowered bodily resistance which provides a fertile soil for the pneumococcus germ to produce the disease.

"In many cases a cold is pneumonia's forerunner. If one reasonably abides by the rules of personal hygiene involving the use of sufficient sleep, adequate exercise, the maintenance of a healthy indoor temperature, clothes geared to the thermometer rather than to fashion, the avoidance of the excessive use of stimulants of all kinds and the elimination of debilitating habits, many colds which might lead to pneumonia can be avoided," Dr. Cox stated.

"And if to that fundamental protection can be added sensible precaution against wet feet, injudicious cooling off when over-heated, avoiding drafts and as far as possible staying from close contacts with members of the family, friends or others already suffering from colds, one's chances of being victimized by pneumonia's main stepping stone, the cold, will be further decreased.

"Yet, if despite due precautions, a cold appears, the time for personal reliance on one's own resources has passed. The first and most effective line of defense is then to consult the family physician promptly since the knowledge and skill which he possesses demands early application for the most effective results."

Observatory in Davis Mountains Nearly Finished

Austin, Oct. 27.—The polishing of the 82-inch mirror for the McDonald Observatory of The University of Texas has been completed and it "can be safely accepted," according to information received by President J. W. Calhoun from Dr. Otto Struve. Dr. Struve is joint director of the McDonald Observatory, situated on Mount Locke, in the Davis mountains, and the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago.

"Tests made on October 15 indicate that the great 82-inch mirror is finished," Dr. Struve wrote University officials. "The surface is a paraboloid of 319.66 inches focal length and the actual figure of the glass does not depart from the mathematical shape by more than about one-millionth of an inch. This extraordinary degree of perfection is the outcome of exactly four years of gruelling work of grinding and polishing on the part of C. R. Lundin, optician for the Warner & Swasey Company of Cleveland, Ohio. During the past four year astronomers of the University of Chicago's Yerkes Observatory have made many accurate tests of the mirror. But only now are they fully satisfied that the new mirror will be as perfect as their investigations require.

"The 82-inch mirror is at the present time the second largest finished astronomical mirror in the world. It is surpassed only by the 100-inch mirror at the Mount Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Calif. After the completion of the 200-inch mirror of the California Institute of Technology, the Texas mirror will rank third in the entire world."

Senior Class News

The seniors have been studying about the courts of Texas in civics, and they find it very difficult, but think they will learn something about them by and by.

Junior Report
At this time of writing the juniors are anticipating examinations. You probably think we do not use correct English, when we say 'anticipating,' but you don't know the juniors.

However, that isn't the only thing we look forward to. One thing is the story or experience we have to tell on Tuesday, and the other is the theme we should write in Friday.

After all, we do go to school to learn, but we do have a little fun once in a while when some junior shows his ignorance. Even though one of the juniors does think you can say "das Hutte" in German class, we are very proud of the fact that none of us think the Cape of Good Hope is in the New England states.

Sophomore Report
The class is interested in economic geography, especially in fishing. One of the class seems to get the states mixed up.

Freshman Report
The eighth grade is working very hard and is preparing for exams, which are near.

The freshmen seem somewhat puzzled as to how clouds are formed and what causes dew and frost, but from the explanation Miss Walsh gave us we should know by now.

Interscholastic League Lineup

Benjamin school is starting its activities in the Interscholastic League events with high hopes of winning. The following directors have been chosen:

Picture Memory, Mrs. Cunningham.
 Math, Mr. Greer.
 Spelling, Mrs. Ferguson.
 Story Telling, Miss Baird.
 Music Memory, Miss Thompson.
 Track, Mr. Greer.
 Basketball, Mr. Greer.
 Typing, Miss Basye.
 Debate, Mr. Vaughn.
 Choral Singing, Miss Thompson.
 One-Act Play, Mr. Watson.
 Essay, Miss Diersing.
 Senior Spelling, Miss Diersing.
 Declamation, Miss Baird.
 Extemporaneous Speech, Mr. Cunningham.

We are sure that the entire student body will cooperate and help us win the county meet this year.

How We Spent the Holiday

Miss Diersing: I certainly did enjoy the dance, 'cause I went to homecoming! (At Tech of course.)

Mr. Cunningham: I went to homecoming too, but I wondered about the steak that I got from the chuck wagon. Could that have been sand, or was it pepper?

Mr. Watson: (another Tech student) What a football game! However I feel like Tech would have won with a greater margin had I been in the game.

Mr. Vaughn: (What! So you're from Tech too!) I those football players could jump like the volleyball girls can (meaning like a frog!) I am sure that they would never lose.

Claudia Snailum: No, I wasn't drunk, it was just popcorn and candy.

Miss Baird: Boy! Is he good lookin' (Her new boy friend) and I think that I will trade my Chevy for a Ford, too!

Miss Miller: Every time that I return to Benjamin from Abilene (her hometown) I marvel at the beauty that we encounter near Benjamin, and I wonder how I could have lived in Abilene so long. (We understand it Miss Miller. You haven't forgotten the state home, have you?)

Corrine Feemster: Miss Feemster was in a group which chari-varied Mr. and Mrs. Coalston (the Mrs. being the former Thelma Lee Hughes), and she was overheard to remark—if it could only happen to me! (sob-sob!)

Miss Thompson enjoys the bumpy road to Crowell, and so does.....

Mr. Greer!
 Mrs. Cunningham assisted Mr. Cunningham with his peppered steak.

Mrs. Ferguson visited Mr. Ferguson who is teaching manual arts in the public schools at Midland, Texas. We don't know the results of the visit, but at any rate Mrs. Ferguson returned home with the car. We don't know how Mr. Ferguson will get about, but he has the sympathy of the boys. (I can't be assured what the girls think.)

Melba Trainham doesn't much like the feel of the pavement, especially when you fall on it from a pickup going about 60 miles per hour.

Duyane Parker likes holidays because they present an excellent opportunity to work. (There is still a little cotton to pull.)

Mr. W. C. Cunningham made a business trip to Wichita Falls Saturday. He states that the approval pertaining to the building of the new school is fulfilling his expectations and that all business deals pertaining to this type of work are being transacted very efficiently.

Seniors

Most of the Seniors attended the show "David Copperfield" at Knox City and found the setting in line with "The Canterbury Tales," which they are studying. The Seniors find the Tales very fascinating, and rather hate to finish them.

Juniors

The Juniors have selected their annual class play, and have been trying to select the characters, and they think that capable ones have been chosen. The play is entitled "Short Thirty Six." It is a comedy of three acts, and will be presented December 2.

Sophomore Class

HAWAII A PARADISE, WRITES FAITH BALDWIN

THE Hawaiian Islands, remote and dreaming in the peacock-blue Pacific are yours—an integral part of the United States. The red volcanic soil, the tropical flowers, the beauty and dreaming are not alien to this country.

Faith Baldwin

"Aloha," the delightful brown strangers will say, coming forward to greet you and wind garlands of flowers— leis — about your neck and shoulders and wrists. 'Aloha, and welcome to the islands."

"Aloha," they will sing from the wharf as you sail away, brimming with memories — for aloha means hail and it means farewell; it means greeting and it means love.

"We had our own ideas about the beach at Waikiki," Miss Baldwin writes. "It wasn't much at first glance. A little beach, a tan beach, populous as Coney Island. The water, I discovered the first day I went for a swim, was shallow. You could walk out and out and out. The great breakers broke Knox County Hospital at Knox City. We hope that he will be back in school before long.

The Sophomores all reported that they had a good time during the Armistice holiday, and we are all looking forward to the Thanksgiving holidays which will mean that the second six weeks examinations are over.

Last Wednesday night all the members of the Sophomore Class went to see Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield." We have begun to study the novel unit in literature. "A Tale of Two Cities" has been listed as the basic novel to be studied. Having seen "David Copperfield," the class has already shown a more definite appreciation for the novel, and the works of Charles Dickens. Then, too, we learned that should Mr. Vaughn ask us to write a descriptive scene depicting the French Revolution, we would certainly make a rush for "A Tale of Two Cities" and quote Dickens verbatim.

Freshman Class

The girls of home economics I class served muffins, coffee, and apple marmalade to the teachers. The teachers seemed to emphasize the quality of the food, and Miss Diersing liked it particularly. (Especially the coffee.)

The food was prepared by the girls of Home Economics II class.

First Grade—The first grade is just beginning a toy unit. The children are playing with, and making gay, pretty toys. This appeals strongly to them.

Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Cunningham are working with the Rhythm Band in the first grade.

Second Grade—The second grade, under the tutelage of Miss Thompson, has been working on a farm unit. Thanksgiving activities with those of the farm, and we plan to finish this work after Thanksgiving.

We have a new pupil, Billie Jo Bland, who was promoted from Mrs. Cunningham's room to the second grade.

Third Grade—The third grade is working on a Thanksgiving unit all the work in each class pertains to some phase of Thanksgiving. Miss Toby Baird is the teacher in charge of this group.

Fourth Grade—The fourth grade has been studying about the hot lands. On the frieze the students have drawn pictures of an oasis, a caravan of camels, the pyramids, and the homes of the nomads. We have read about the customs of desert people. Last week we had an Arabian party, with bread, milk and dates for refreshments. Miss Bliss Miller is the teacher in charge of this group.

Fifth Grade

Mrs. Ferguson and the fifth grade are working on a transportation unit. The land, water, and air transportation facilities are portrayed on an immense frieze which has been accomplished during the art classes. All kinds of materials have been collected and assimilated on the various phases of transportation. On the English Bulletin are displayed some amateurish masterpieces on The Pony Express. The home of the fifth grade displays some very efficient work.

Sixth Grade

The sixth grade has been an industrious group for the past few days. "And the Lamp Went Out," a pantomime was presented in the last assembly program. Capable Charles Ray Snailum contributed his personality as commentator for the program.

The sixth grade room mothers served refreshments to the class at a farewell party given for George Harold Rouse. Each member of the class presented George Harold with a small gift.

In spite of the social whirl and the extra-curricular activities the sixth grade has not failed to do the required studies. They have been intensely interested in the American colonization of Texas.

LETTER

us to the dock where we were to board the Esperia, which was also an Italian liner. The Esperia was not as large as the Savoy, but it was long and narrow and painted white. Once aboard the ship we saw that nearly all of the people were Italians from Italy. Our cabin was better than the Savoy—it had two portholes, a fan, three beds, one closet and two sinks.

The first night in our excitement to see the ship from "top to bottom" we failed to hear the dinner bell, and when we went to eat our dinner the waiter and table were taken, because it was the second seating. However, a waiter brought our dinner on a tray to our cabin and what a dinner!

Right after dinner we felt that the ship was rocking a little. At first we thought it was our imagination, but when we went for our walk we found all the passengers hurrying to their rooms. However, this did not bother us in the least. Soon the ship was better and we all enjoyed an Italian movie, until about ten o'clock. We stayed awake until about two o'clock in order to see the flaming volcano in the middle of the water. We were unfortunate because the volcano was not flaming and as active as it might have been at other times.

The third day we arrived in Alexandria, Egypt, where we were to spend the day. As we were ready to leave this ship with Miss Orehorn, who was with us in Naples, the officials said she was only 20 and should be 21 if she wanted to leave the steamer. However, mother said that she was her aunt and they let her by with mother as her guardian. (Bro. Longino, please forgive us, but I think you would have done the same if you were in our places.)

As we left we took a car to drive us all day and show us the main museums and ruins.

First we went to an old Roman Museum and saw three or four figures like the sphinx only much smaller. There were many statues which were carved with the features of a half man a half beast.

Afterward we went into an old underground burial place to see its sights. First we saw where they cremated the people and even some of the preserved ashes are still shown to the public. This cave had no electricity only one dim lamp which the guide carried with him. We entered alone with the guide and we went deeper into the ground it got very damp and we girls were suddenly conscious of a dull knocking noise. At first we looked at each other in awe until we found out that it was only mother's knees knocking.

We returned to the car only to go to another museum. This museum was very historical. First we saw mummies in their caskets, which you all know are still preserved. Finally we saw the mummy in its wrappings and then we saw the feet, skull, and eyes of an Egyptian mummy.

Having finished with the mummies we then saw an old chariot and many dolls and preserved household goods. Later we saw the original door to Cleopatra's bedroom. The wood was so old that it was practically powder. While the guides were away, Nadine, as mischievous as ever, quickly broke off a piece of the old door as a memory of the museum. (This time Bro. Albertson, please forgive us, but this opportunity comes only once.)

Next our driver took us to the palace of King Farouk and his Queen, which we could not enter, however, luck was with us because we saw the king leaving his palace, in his private car, for some meeting.

Thrilled over our good luck we then went to a sidewalk restaurant and had a regular Egyptian dinner. We then returned to the ship and in five minutes we sailed from Egypt. The ship was then crowded with Egyptian people who were going to the mountains of Syria for the summer. Naturally we were getting very excited because within twenty-four hours we would be in Syria. Everyone had a duty to attend to such as packing and paying our bills on the ship.

The next day, about noon, we arrived in Beirut, Syria. Of course, we rejoiced at the sight of our relatives. There were twenty people waiting to see us when we descended from the steamer into the small cabin boats. One of our trunks almost fell into the water but a sailor standing nearby caught it.

When we arrived in the custom house our Uncle had arranged not to have our trunks searched so we did not have to pay anything as duty. We left the customs house and went to Showfait to see our grandmother or mother's mother. Of course she was thrilled to see us and people came to the house by the bushels.

After spending three days in Showfait we went to the mountains to spend the summer. We went to Arsouh that is called "Little Damascus" because of its beautiful surroundings and wonderful climate.

The first three weeks we constantly had friends and relatives from Beirut, who were in the mountains, visiting us. But after three weeks we had more time to enjoy ourselves and to rest.

One of our specialties during our stay was taking our breakfast and eating it out-of-doors. We would leave the house with some friends and go to the nearby mountain streams where we would enjoy a hearty breakfast. Then after resting a little we would hike up the mountains listening to the sound of the wind rustling through the leaves of the gigantic pine trees.

About every two weeks we would return to Beirut to spend the day. We would go in buses very different from those in America. The mountain curves are very dangerous in a car so you can imagine how it is in a bus. But the driver is the best that any of us have ever seen. The bus is always crowded with people so you never tire or lack for conversation. Every time we go to Beirut mother loses five pounds from the many dangerous curves on the route.

So instead of gaining in the mountains she lost a couple of pounds.

Now we are in Beirut, the greatest city in Syria. Before we came to Beirut we rented a house which is modernized in every respect. The arrangement of the rooms is similar to the American arrangement. There are four bedrooms, two baths, living room, dining room, kitchen, servant room, several pantries and a large veranda encircling the entire house.

Nadine is going to the American School for Girls where she is in her junior year. The teachers are mostly Americans, so she will not be lonesome for her American ways and habits.

Alva took an examination and entered the American College here in Beirut. The teachers here are also from America.

So we are always associating with our dear American friends.

We are all very happy here, missing only two things—our dear friends and relatives in America and dear Dad.

Now the trip is ended but if during our stay here something of unusual interest happens, which is sure to happen, we will be only too glad to continue our writing in the Munday Times.

If you have enjoyed reading this article on our trip across the Atlantic, we would like very much to hear from all of you individually.

Our address is:
 Mrs. George Salem and Daughters
 c-o Abraham Showkeir, atty-at-law
 Saab Building,
 Beirut, Syria

So for the present we will just say "goodbye."

TAX NOTICE

The Munday Independent School District needs MONEY . . . It is having to borrow money to meet the pay roll.

THE FESTIVE BIRD

Is there ever a time to compare with the moment when the Thanksgiving Turkey is brought to the table in all its tender, juicy, golden-brown glory?

Each holiday season brings new suggestions for improving the tempting goodness of the Thanksgiving bird—new tricks in roasting to a glistening, perfect brown—and new ideas for stuffing. This Sausage Stuffing for turkey is an especially delicious one:

- Sausage Stuffing (For a 12 pound turkey) 1 pound pork sausage meat, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons onion (grated), 3 tablespoons parsley (minced), 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 1/2 cups celery (diced-cooked)

Brown the sausage meat in a skillet. Add to the remaining ingredients, with the fat. Fill the small cavity at the neck end of the turkey with dressing. Fold back the skin, and hold in place with a skewer. Fill the body from the lower end, being careful to fill loosely, to allow room for expansion. Fasten the opening with skewers, placing them straight across the opening at regular intervals. Bring the skin edges together by lacing cord around the pins. Truss the bird, and brush the entire bird with melted fat. To prevent the drum sticks from drying out in roasting, wrap a strip of white cloth dipped in melted fat, around the leg ends, bring it well up on the drum sticks. Strips of fat which were removed from the turkey when it was drawn, should be laid over the breastbone, and for even browning and roasting, the entire bird may be covered with a clean white cloth dipped in melted fat. It's good planning to prepare the bird for the oven one or even two days in advance of use. It simplifies the work on Thanksgiving Day itself, and in addition, improves the flavor of the turkey, for seasoning from the dressing has a chance to penetrate the meat. If the bird is stored in a modern, air-conditioned ice refrigerator, it will keep perfectly until time for roasting. Properly moist, clean-washed, circulating air in these new refrigerators prevents foods from rapidly drying out, and guards against the exchange of flavors, too. And storage space in a modern ice refrigerator is ample for even a lordly turkey!

What more could anyone ask for Thanksgiving dinner, than a roasting turkey—roasted to a rich golden brown and stuffed, almost to the point of bursting, with the deliciously seasoned dressing which is such an important part of this festive meal?

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our deep-felt appreciation to our many friends who have so freely administered to us and our precious mother in her last hours, both in words and deeds.

The First Baptist Church

Thursday of next week is Thanksgiving Day, when the nation will be called by our president to pause and give God gratitude for His blessings, both material and spiritual.

"The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad" (Ps. 126:3). "Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee" (Ps. 67:3).

"Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms." (Ps. 95:2).

"I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify Him with thanksgiving." (Ps. 69:30).

We extend to you a cordial welcome to any or all of our services. Next Sunday the service will be in keeping with the Thanksgiving season. Gratitude to our Heavenly Father is the natural expression of the Christian's heart.

W. H. Albertson

Church of Christ

Coming Lord's Day (Sunday) Nov. 20, at eleven o'clock, at the Church of Christ, Munday. Subject will be "Obedience or Disobedience to God."

Belief or unbelief in God. This is a subject all should hear. In both old and New Testaments God teaches belief in Him is to do His command. He also says that to disobey His commands, is unbelief in Him.

Lord's Day night subject will be "Love for God and Love for Humanity."

Evangelist J. W. Ballard, Minister.
