

Kracker Krumbs Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

The clean-up drive was a success in lots of instances.

In lots of instances, too, it wasn't!

But we feel that the $125.00 which the C. D. A. spent for labor, truck hire, gasoline, etc., was money well spent.

Many people cooperated, too.

You see less piles of rubbish, grass cuttings, tree limbs, tin cans, etc., about the town as you drive around.

You see less high growths of Johnson grass, sunflowers, careless weeds, etc., too, as you drive around.

Yet they weren't eliminated by any means.

The work that was done on vacant lots, however, makes those that weren't touched look rather obnoxious and conspicuous.

The effect of those who did cooperate gives you an idea of what a clean-up drive could do with 100 percent cooperation by everybody.

And cooperation the year round could make an annual clean-up drive unnecessary.

And we could all cooperate by observing a few of the details of the city's ordinance, such as:

Do not burn anything in the business section of town. Place it in the alley, behind your place of business, or where it can be easily reached and picked up by the garbage pick-up man.

Burn everything that can be burned in the residential area. There's less chance of fires being left unattended at your home than in the business area, after closing time.

Place your "wet garbage" in a separate container, always. This is already being practiced rather extensively throughout the town.

Place your cans, etc., that you want hauled off in a separate outfit than that in which you burn your papers and trash.

When it's all placed together and burned, it won't be hauled off. The worker's truck has caught fire on several occasions because of picking up fire along with the other stuff.

Place your stuff to be hauled off in containers that are easily handled. A 50-gallon drum is too much to expect one man to handle.

And a 50-pound container of "stuff" might seem light enough early in the morning; but lift them, one after the other, continually and constantly, and they'll get pretty heavy by midday.

When mowing your lawn, do not pile grass cuttings in the alley and expect them to be hauled off. On the other hand, they will be hauled away if placed in boxes or sacks, so they can be handled.

By observing these rules—and the Golden Rule—we can have better service all the way 'round.

And the clean-up drive is not over!

The C. D. A. voted Monday to "foot the bill" of having the dirt and stuff cleaned away from the curbs in the business district. This is to get under way at once.

And another thing—have you missed the street sweeper lately?

It no longer decorates the north side of the city lawn. It's in the hospital! It's having a major operation!

It was towed off to the "hospital" several days ago. It was not in any shape to go under its own power.

Conducting Open Air Meeting At The Church Of Christ

DEAN BROOKSHIRE

The Church of Christ is engaged in an open air gospel meeting located at their building. The preaching is being done by Dean Brookshire, of Plainview, Texas. These services began August 16th and will continue through August 27th.

You have a most cordial invitation from the Church of Christ to attend all of these services that you possibly can, and be profited by the same. There are two services daily, one in the morning at 10:00 a. m. and one in the evening at 8:15 p. m. Come and bring the whole family.

Season Tickets For Grid Games Are Going Fast

Those in charge of sales of season tickets for Munday's football games report that sales are going fast and comparatively few tickets are yet unsold.

Starting out with 500 reserved seats in the new stands, the committee reports that less than 100 remain unsold. With football season starting here on September 8, those who desire reserved seats are urged to secure them this week. It is hoped to have all the reserved section sold by the end of the week.

Those who have secured tickets and who have not yet paid for them are urged to turn the money in to some member of the committee as early as possible.

The new stands are almost completed, with only the finishing touches remaining to be done before opening of the football season.

Boll Worm Does Damage To Grain

According to reports from various farmers in Knox County, the boll worm is doing considerable damage to grain sorghum heads.

Mr. Allen C. Gunter, Extension Entomologist states that fair control of these worms has been obtained in some areas by using any of the insecticides recommended for boll worm control with the same rate of application. Either spray or dusts may be used.

Mr. Gunter says that any insecticide used on milo should be applied at least two weeks and preferably 30 days prior to harvest in order to be sure that there will be no toxic effects from the poison, if the grain is used as livestock feed.

Jamboree To Be August 21-22 At Benjamin

Everyone who attends the home talent show, Hayloft Jamboree, will have an opportunity to help select the most popular entertainer in Knox County. The show is being sponsored by the Benjamin Fire Department and will be given on Monday and Tuesday, August 21-22, at 8:15 p. m. at the Benjamin High School.

Different from most amateur contests, where applause or judges decide the winner, the audience casts votes for their favorite. Tickets purchased for the entertainment are good for votes. Tickets sold in advance will be one color; those at the door another. The price of both the advance and door tickets will be the same, but advance tickets are good for two votes while the door ticket just one vote in selecting the most popular entertainer.

The three top contestants are announced the first night, then on the second night the total votes are checked and prizes of $10, $7.50 and $5 are awarded the high contestants.

Although there is an exciting element of competition in "Hayloft Jamboree", it is not an amateur contest only, and there will be an impersonation of some of the famous stars of popular barn dance programs Joe Kelly, Uncle Ezra, Lula Belle, Hiram Hicks. There will also be square dancing and singing.

Anyone who sings, plays any instrument, dances or does imitations, either as an individual or in a group, may take part in the amateur contest. Notify Mr. Hertel, Mrs. Lee Snallum or Mrs. Allie Moorhouse of Benjamin as soon as possible if you are interested in taking part.

Mrs. Jim Proffitt of Goree was called to Dallas last week to the bedside of her grandson, little Henry Collander, son of Mrs. Inez Collander, who underwent a brain operation.

Mrs. David Penick of Abilene visited with friends and relatives here the first of this week.

OUR NEEDS FOR 1950

1. Completion of our portion of the Throckmorton road, giving the farmers of that area an all-weather outlet.
2. A farm-to-market road to the north and east of Munday, possibly connecting with the Hefner road.
3. A U. S. Federal building. Munday needs a new post office home.
4. More homes in Munday. We did a good job in 1949, but there's still a housing shortage.
5. A new telephone system, giving the town adequate telephone service and tapping the rural area surrounding the town.
6. Greater cooperation of business man, farmer, and citizen toward long-range development for our community.

THE COUNTRY PRESS SAYS

SOUTH BEND, IND., TRIBUNE: "Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia democrat, is among those arguing that the need of economy in the non-military spending areas is more pressing now than a military crisis has come. 'Purely domestic expenditures,' Senator Byrd remarks, 'have been increased 77 per cent since 1948. With a war on our hands some of these outlays must be cut or we are going to spend ourselves into the kind of bankruptcy the Russians are counting on.'"

SANTA FE, N. MEX., NEW MEXICAN: "The U. S. lack of men and weapons in South Korea has raised the question everywhere of what has been done with the huge defense appropriations since the close of the war. . . . At the close of the war it cost $1,900 a year for the maintenance of a soldier—it costs $4,000 now; a bazooka cost $36.26—$122 now; a carrier $65 million—$120 million now."

ENCINITAS, CALIF., COAST DISPATCH: "Intelligent selling is the very backbone of American industry and commerce but feverish buying tends to unsettle our economy."

RADFORD, VA., NEWS JOURNAL: "Mr. Miller, former Democratic Governor of Wyoming and former chairman of the National Resources Committee of the Hoover Commission, is of the opinion that the Columbia River Authority, as planned by the Federal Government, is of utmost concern not only to the people of the northwestern states but to all Americans. . . . He sees the project as 'one more step in an ambitious plan to socialize the electric power industry as a big stride toward socialism.' . . . This should be especially emphasized while we are deploring the socialistic tendencies and communistic preachments in other parts of the world. We must be on our guard against the infiltration of foreign isms right here in our own country."

BE A POT WALLOPER

In days gone by, our citizens would walk miles through the wilderness to vote because they knew their vote was important to good government. Nowadays there is dangerous laxity on the part of a great number of voters who think that a single vote has no value. This is just what minority groups seeking power want the voters to think. A light vote given an organized, designing minority a chance to gain power.

A heavy vote is the best assurance of representative government because then a minority cannot "steal" an election. Voting may not seem important to some who have lost sight of what it cost in blood and suffering to gain the liberties we all enjoy, but they are sadly mistaken. The more apt are we to fall prey to the snares of those who would destroy our liberties.

The tragedy is that the promoters of our destruction generally accomplish their ends with tax dollars under the guise of offering beneficent handouts.

We lose our freedom if we permit a minority to saddle us with socialism as the result of a light vote.

So become a staunch pot-walloper (see dictionary) and get out and vote a every election to save your own bacon.

ALL TO THE GOOD

This year, it is estimated, our per capita meat consumption will be a trifle larger than last—by only 1 per cent. The amount of beef eaten by the average person will remain approximately the same, and an expected increase in pork consumption will more than offset decreases in veal, lamb and mutton.

A graph showing our consumption of meat during the past half century presents some interesting variations. The all-time high was reached in 1908, at 163 pounds. The low came in 1935, during the depression, at 117 pounds. Since that year the tendency has been upward, and in late years the figure has fluctuated in the neighborhood of 150 pounds.

The average American eats considerably more meat than his counterpart in most of the rest of the world. Our consumption, however, is much below that of a few nations in which meat is the principal industry, such as Argentina. In the future, according to government and other forecasts, the trend will continue in the upward direction.

The fact that meat is so important an element in the American diet is, from the point of view of dieticians and the medical fraternity, all to the good. It is now known that the consumption of large amounts of whole protein, which is found in meat and a brief list of other foods, has a strong bearing on physical and mental health and well-being.

The University of Wisconsin's nationally known carillon bell tower is a favorite subject for campus artists. Art student David Suits uses a dry-writing Parker "51" pen to capture much of the tradition and atmosphere surrounding the tower. One of the stories told of the tower is that "no girl is a true Wisconsin coed till she has been kissed under the bell tower."

One old book store keeps unusual hours. A sign reads, "Open 6 p. m. to midnight."

Remarkable in flavor are the hamburgers that one litt stand sells. They are simmering on the griddle, the back row being always ready to serve. As fast as that row is exhausted, the others are slid back a space and a new row is started. The secret is that the odor of fried onions sets the nostrils quiver—no, the onions are not shoved on raw, as an after-thought, but are cooked with the hamburgers and the flavor blends.

Your columnist was a guest on a radio quiz program, and spoke to the Memphis Rotary Club, the men of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and to the student body of Tech High, where my former instructor, James L. A beautiful custom is the planting of trees as memorials. There is a tree that is a memorial to "Miss Alice", who was the beloved assistant principal; and another tree to Mr. Highsaw.

With proper respect to all other occasions, however, the climax of the visit to Memphis came when I walked out in the platform of Central High where, many years before, I had said a few words as president of the graduating class. Principal Jester was most generous in his introduction. My mind was thronged with memories of some, "the loveliest and the best", who are

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says Miracle Drugs Might Be All Right, But Hospitals Still Seem Crowded

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses medicine this week, a topic he knows as much about as he does international finance.

Dear editor:
I was out here resting up for the winter, most folks have single-track minds and can't look ahead and consequently rest only when they're tired, but I rest before I get tired and while I'm at it throw in a little for the months ahead, and right now while I'm getting through August restin I've also done my restin for next December, although understand when December gets here you won't catch me fallin down on the job and I'll be restin then for spring and summer, but what I started out to say was that the wind blew a newspaper over my face yesterday while I was workin on my December restin and when I woke up and decided I might as well pull it off a article caught my eye and I sat up and read it.

Accordin to this article another new miracle drug has been found.

Now I ain't no filing clerk and don't keep such information stored away but in the last few years I can recall readin about at least ten new miracle drugs, each one was gonna revolutionize sickness and cure practically whatever was ailin you.

As far as I know, every one of them new drugs has lived up to its claim, but I can't help noticin there seems to be just as many sick people as there ever was, in fact the hospitals is more crowded now than ever before in history, we got hospital rooms, and we got more doctors than ever before.

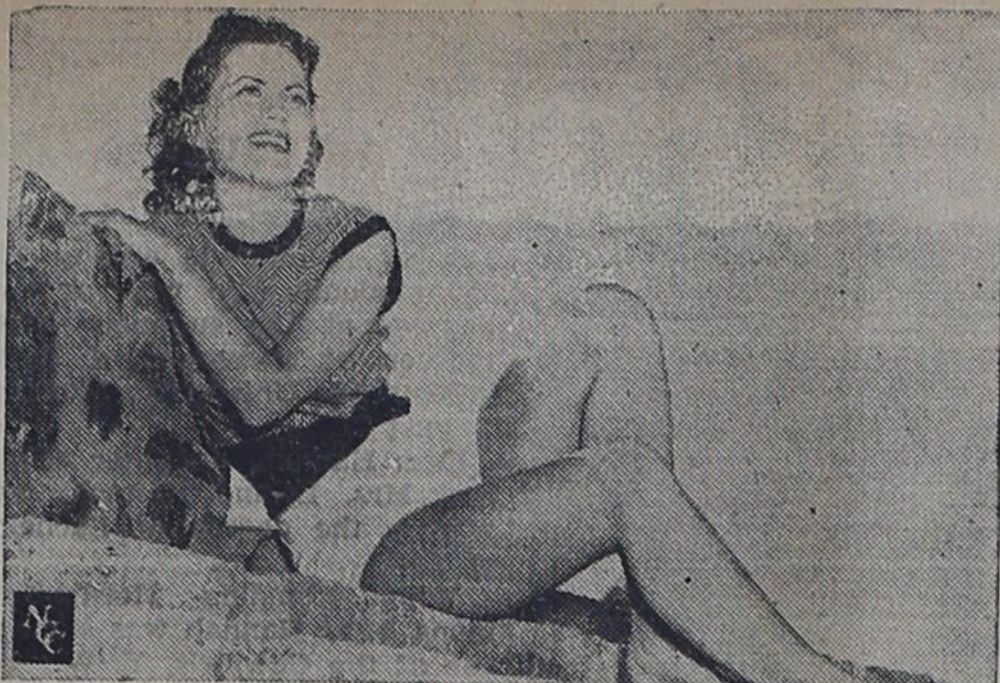

The way I see it is about the time one scientist discovers a new miracle drug, another scientist discovers a new disease, and the human race winds up with just as many afflictions at it had before. I guess this is what you'd call progress.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Hints Given On Culling Of Poor Layers

Hens that are not laying now are likely to be early molters and thus poor layers, and there is no profit in feeding hens that do not produce eggs, says Professor E. D. Parnell of the poultry husbandry department of Texas A. & M. College. These non-producing hens should be removed from the flock by culling and now is a good time to do the job, he adds.

Poultrymen who maintain breeding flocks and produce hatching eggs should keep birds that are good representatives of the breed and are free from standard disqualifications. Breeding birds must also be free of diseases, such as pollorum, that are transmitted through the hatching eggs. For this reason says Parnell, health is more important in the breeding flock than in a flock that is kept solely for egg production. Another point that should be given consideration at the time of culling, says Parnell, is the age of the birds. In some farm flocks the old hens may be finishing a year of production and in the same flock will be pullets that were hatched this past spring. Parnell says to handle this situation just as if you were culling two separate flocks. The old hens should have frayed, worn plumage, and well faded beaks and shanks the pullets would be expected to have bright, clean new feathers and yellow shanks.

If the entire flock is culled, it is best to do the job during the early morning hours or late in the afternoon or even at night. The job should be done quickly yet carefully, says Parnell. Too much handling during hot weather, he continues, may cause a drop in egg production.

While you are checking such production characteristics as red combs, faded beaks and shanks, worn plumage and soft abdomens, look for vitality and health in the birds. Bright, full eyes are a mark of vigor and

Mrs. Marvin McAfee Attends State Home Economics Meet

Mrs. Marvin McAfee flew to Houston last Monday to the State Home Economics Convention, headquarters in the Rice Hotel. The home economics teachers throughout Texas studied what they could do to help boys and girls adjust themselves in this insecure world. The teachers were told by many experts such as Dr. Earl Koos, Prof. and chairman, Dept. of Sociology, University of Rochester, New York, that realistic education finds ways of satisfying the topmost interests of normal, healthy-minded adolescents. Youth interests are often identical with youth needs.

At the same time that realistic education helps to develop balanced personalities, it also teaches basic skills in figuring, reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Equally essential, it brings to the curriculum the actual life situations that give youth practice in developing good work habits and good social attitudes.

Life adjustment education gives boys and girls necessary rehearsal time for performing their adult roles with confidence.

At the end of the conference, which lasted a week, the teachers were praised by Miss Ruth Huey, State Homemaking Supervisor, for the splendid piece of work on life adjustment and its implications to the family-centered program of homemaking.

Popular Food Freezer.

One of the most popular home freezing units available today is the Firestone 19-foot upright freezer which has met with tremendous acceptance because of its greater capacity in a cabinet which requires a minimum of floor space. With the modern trend in home design toward the ranch style, basementless dwelling, there is considerable less floor space available for appliances. Firestone was among the first to meet this problem with its streamlined upright freezer. Extra capacity was made possible by use of the new and efficient Monsanto insulation, "Santocel," which gives greater insulation protection and about twice as much storage space as would be available with conventional type insulation. The new 19-foot Firestone upright food freezer is on display

Your Home

Do you know that there are more than 50,000 different kinds of flies? That's a little terrifying, isn't it, when we stop to think that flies are carriers of some of our most deadly diseases. Of course, we homemakers are not apt to find more than five kinds about us—but these pesky insects that come right into our homes and carry dysentery and diarrhea, have been known to carry polio, typhoid, rabbit fever and many other dreaded, sometimes fatal diseases.

Did you know that one single fly can carry as many as 500,000,000 bacteria? That fact alone is enough to make every one of us on the alert for the first fly in our homes. I know that it has made me doubly cautious, for with small children at home, I simply can't take chances on any diseases! That fact, too, is why scientists in the Black Flag laboratories have combined the newest ingredients discovered by science with powerful DDT to produce a really effective weapon against the deadly housefly, a new insect killing solution, that really works. It's sudden death for all such insect pests as flies, mosquitos, moths, roaches, gnats, silverfish, spiders and the like.

We've been using this solution a our home since it was first introduced and it's very effective. I like the handy push-button spray tops that make it very easy to use. This summer, with the help of this new product, we've kept our house free of flies and other insects. That's very important to me, for it relieves my worries of the children catching one of the diseases that so often prove fatal. It's such a comfort to know that Black Flag laboratories have provided convenient anti-insect weapons. Let's use them. We just can't take chances, can we?

Iced tea, made in a jiffy with tap water and new Instant Tender Leaf Tea, is enjoyed by popular model after a strenuous day. Delicious drink is made in as much time as it takes to pour water over the new, soluble powder and stir, following "cold water" recipe instructions on label. Art In Growing Fall Gardens

In most sections of Texas, there are from 60 to 90 days of good growing weather during the fall season and that is sufficient to grow a good fall garden. Today's high prices may mean, says John Hutchinson, extension horticulturist of Texas A. & M. College, that if we don't grow our vegetables, we may not have them.

He says that in most areas of the state there is more art to growing a fall garden than a spring garden when nature may be in a more cooperative mood. He points out that there is real satisfaction in having cool, crisp tender vegetables on the family table for the vitamins and minerals they supply not only add that fresh color to the cheeks but are just naturally good for everyone. Then there is another very important item, that fall garden will cut dollars aplenty from the family's food bill.

but now is the time to begin operations. It is best, says Hutchinson, to start with some of the old spring vegetables provided they can be rejuvenated and made to produce on into the fall. Tomatoes, okra, peppers, and egg plants if properly cared for, will make good production records in the fall.

The soil around each individual plant should be worked and at the same time an application of about a half teacup of some complete fertilizer, like 5-1-5 should be made. Work it into the soil, then put a two to three inch mulch of hay or similar material around the plant. The mulch will help to conserve moisture and to keep the ground cool. They should be irrigated every 5 to 7 days.

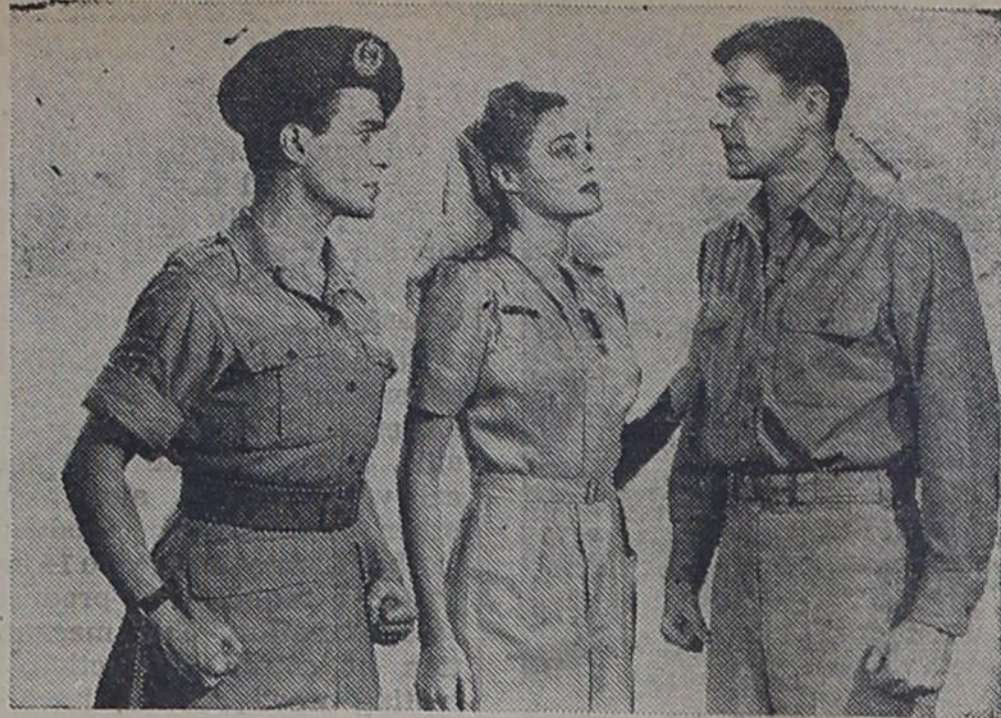

In the case of tomatoes, Hutchinson says it is best to select two or three suckers or sprouts that are growing near the base of the old plant and then remove the parts of the old plant which have lost their vigor. Give them the same treatment recommended for rejuvenating other plants.

Before new plantings are made, he says the garden area should be cleaned up. Remove all trash, weeds, and grass and if barnyard fertilizer is available, broadcast a three or four inch layer over the plot and either spade or plow it under. In areas where commercial fertilizers can be used, he recommends the use of three to four pounds of 5-10-5 for each 100 feet of row space. It should be applied prior to planting.

Dry weather complicates the seed bed building process, but a thorough irrigation will help solve the problem. He says you will be wise to use from 20 to 25 percent more seed than you do in the spring and to cover the seed a little deeper.

Hutchinson cautions against overplanting and says the wise gardener is one who plants just what he can properly take care of. Prepare the rows so irrigation water can be run down the middles and at the same time make the beds gib enough to keep the vegetables from drowning out when the heavy fall rains come. Check your seed catalogue or with your lo-

New 4-Point Cotton Ginning Program Slated

A four point program for improving cotton ginning is now being promoted on a belt-wide basis, according to F. E. Lichte, extension cotton gin specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

This program was initiated because of complaints received from the spinners about the spinning qualities of the 1949 cotton crop.

Lichte says that the first point in the program is to maintain uniform loose rolls. In addition to giving better grades of cotton and higher income for the producer, this practice reduces the power cost of ginning.

The overflow should be kept to a minimum. A by-pass on ginning machinery allows overflow cotton to be ginned without the redrying and recleaning which often cause two-sided bales and damage to the cotton fiber.

If valves and by-passes are installed in the ginning machinery a selection of machines is possible, and only the necessary equipment must be used. Rough or machine-finished cotton may require the use of 12 to 22 cleaning cylinders plus extractors. Clean hand-picked cotton should be handled carefully and with less equipment.

Only enough drying should be used to insure smooth ginning. Green, damp or dew-laden cottons require drying only for smooth preparation. Mid-seas on trashy or machine-harvested cottons may require extra drying for better cleaning. Late-season harvested, weather-damaged cotton can stand more drying than earlier premium cottons. Net values from drying should be measured in terms of both grade benefits and weight losses.

Lichte says that practically every giner in Texas will be contacted in regard to this program through scheduled meetings of district cotton ginners' associations.

He states that planning, maintenance, and repair plus good operation on the part of the ginner should result in better prepared cotton for the spinner and higher grades for the producer.

Screw Worm Nips State Deer Herd

AUSTIN—The Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission reported Saturday that some summer losses to the state's deer population have been caused by screwworms.

He said that while the death rate of the animals from the infestation is "abnormally high", that the situation is not alarming from the overall viewpoint. However, some Texas counties have been hit hard, including Lavaca County.

The Executive Secretary said little can be done to help curb the threat to the whitetail deer herd. "Nature causes it and nature will find a way to check the outbreak," he explained. "About all we can hope for, so far as the deer are concerned, is to have dry weather since moist weather enhances the danger."

The Director of the Commission's Wildlife Restoration Division said that the past mild winter apparently caused the present infestation. Normal winter weather usually kills the screwworm fly, except in lower South and Southwest Texas. This year, however, flies survived in such numbers as to bring on an early and heavy outbreak of worm infestations.

The screwworm attack begins when the flies infest wounds, some of which are caused by tick bites and barbed wire fences. The flies lay their eggs on the edges or on a dry portion of the area attacked. The eggs hatch within less than a day and the young whitish worms burrow into the flesh.

The victim is sometimes so weakened by the parasites that it dies. Deer are so wild that ranchers and others seeking to aid infected animals, seldom can seize them until they are in the last stages of a fatal attack.

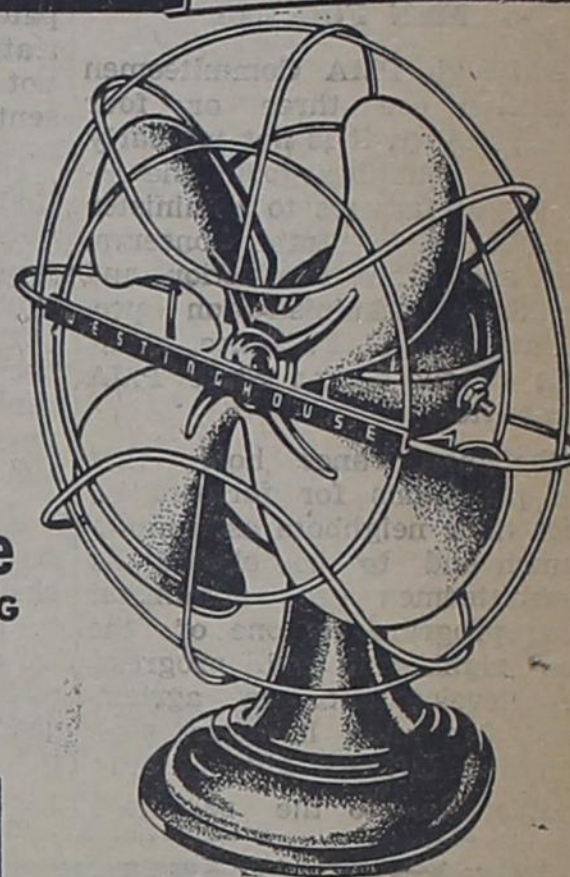

More farm accidents occur in the home than in any other single place on the farm and the kitchen and steps and stairways are the most dangerous places in the home.

FARM PROGRAM NEWS

From the County PMA Committee

SELECTING COMMITTEEMEN FOR 1951

Although PMA Committeemen elections are three or four months away, it is not too early to begin thinking about the selection of farmers to administer the 1951 Agricultural Conservation and other Production and Marketing Administration programs; says B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas State PMA Committee.

Chairman Vance holds that the provisions for farmers to elect their neighbors as committeemen and to be elected as committeemen to administer farm programs is one of the most significant and progressive developments in agriculture. He adds, however, that "unless farmers give careful consideration to the selections of committeemen and participate in elections, the administration of the farm program is not truly democratic or representative."

He calls attention to the fact that many administrative positions in the Nation's agricultural structure ranging from state committeemen to the Under Secretary of Agriculture have been filled from committee ranks, indicates the relatively new farmer-administrative system he has attained.

As representatives of the farmers in their community, the chairman points out, community committeemen are called in to consultation to discuss and make recommendations on provisions of the various PMA programs as well as to help carry out the resulting programs in their communities. County committeemen, he explains are largely elected from the ranks of the community committeemen, and these farmers administer PMA programs on a county level.

The Army's New 'Eager Beaver'

"Here's a brand new Army Ordnance vehicle—the 'Eager Beaver'. The 2½-ton truck, now in full production at Reo Motors' plant in Lansing, Mich., is built for high speed on and off the highway, and is designed to operate normally in sub-zero cold, blistering heat, or with its Gold Comet engine completely submerged in water. Reo has been awarded contracts for approximately 8,900 of them at a cost of about $55,000,000. In the top panel, the 'Eager Beaver' is shown 'cruising' in Chesapeake Bay, Maryland.

State committeemen, although appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, usually are selected from the county committee ranks. State committees administer PMA programs at the state level and have a voice in formulating and administer ing national programs. Vance says that he is sure that if farmers realized the importance of the "committee way of administering farm programs" and what it means to the farmers of (state) to have these programs administered by farmers they have a voice in selecting, "there would be no need to encourage great attention and more participation in com-

Chemicals May Cut Cotton Costs In Weed Control

Final perfection of chemical weed control may cut by more than one-third the manhours required for fully mechanized production of an acre of cotton, the National Cotton Council has revealed.

Council spokesman said that experiments at the Delta Branch Experiment Station near Stoneville, Miss., indicate that chemical weed control, along with other mechanized production methods, may reduce to 14 hours of labor required to produce an acre of cotton. Full mechanization of cotton production, excepting weed control, have already cut manhours per acre in the Delta to about 22 from 150 required by old production methods.

With the exception of harvesting, weed control is the most time-consuming operation in cotton production. Perfection of chemical weed control would speed up this slow phase of production and cut the farmer's production costs, Council officials point out.

"Man labor is the big factor running up costs," a Cotton Council representative explained. "As we reduce manhour requirements, we cut costs and make it possible for cotton farmers to meet the threats of competing fibers. Chemical weed control offers the farmer an excellent opportunity here."

Extensive experiments are being conducted at the Delta station on chemical weed control methods. The scientists are working closely with oil companies in the development of the oils now being used in weed control. During the past few years hundreds of oil combinations have been tested. These tests have made possible further refinement of the oils to remove

Farmers Planting Crops In Areas To Prevent Erosion From High Winds

Farmers and ranchers in the wind erosion areas of Oklahoma and Texas are taking advantage of good moisture conditions in their fight against soil blowing next fall and winter.

Field men of the Soil Conservation districts in Texas and 28 of the districts in Oklahoma have reported to Regional Director Louis P. Merrill of SCS that plantings of grain sorghums and sudans in wind erosion areas will be 3,239,000 acres more than the acreage in these crops in 1949.

The total plantings to grain sorghums and sudans in the wind erosion portions of the states are 7,611,000 acres, the Soil Conservation Service men estimate. In Texas the plantings have totaled 5,703,000 acres, in Oklahoma, 1,907,000 acres. The 1949 plantings in these crops in the wind erosion areas of the two states were: Texas, 3,045,000 acres, Oklahoma, 1,325,000 acres.

The huge gain in plantings of wind resistant crops means that more than one-fourth of all the cropland in the area in which wind erosion is a hazard, has been put in crops that will leave a protective stalk cover after harvest, Merrill explained. The total acreage in sorghums and sudans is over 1,000,000 acres more than the total area of cropland in the two states which is considered highly subject to blowing.

Rainfall has been extremely encouraging for the growth of grain sorghums, Merrill pointed out. Even on land which remained bare during the last winter's blow season heavy crops of weeds are growing. They will help to some extent in reducing 1950-51 wind erosion, the regional SCS head said.

in grain sorghum acreage were reported in the soil conservation districts in the Lubbock area and to the west and southwest. In the Cochran-Yoakum-Terry Conservation District 1950 plantings have totaled 550,000 acres, with 1949 plantings in these crops only 138,000 acres, according to District Conservationist John A. Perrin at Littlefield. Erosion resistant crops is the Lamb County Soil Conservation District jumped from 35,000 acres in 1949 to 350,000 acres this year.

In the Lubbock Soil Conservation District grain sorghum acreage, 104,500 acres in 1949, totaled 253,000 acres this season, Homer A. Taff, acting district conservationist at Lubbock, said. Toff said Lynn County Soil Conservation District plantings gained from 120,000 acres in 1949 to 235,000 acres this year. Crosby County SCD gain was from 51,000 to 122,000 acres, and the gain in Hockley County SCD was from 83,000 to 154,000 acres. In the Oklahoma Panhandle area, District Conservationist J. F. Rainey reported the following gains in erosion resistant crops for 1950: Beaver County Soil Conservation District, 200,000 acres from 100,000; Texas County Soil Conservation District, 210,000 from 120,000, and Cimarron County Soil Conservation District, 118,000 to 57,000.

Regional Director Merrill pointed out that the increased plantings of grain sorghums not only would help protect the soil against wind but it also would help in the return of hazardous land to grass cover by giving protection to the fine grass seed. The wind erosion problem last winter has spurred many a farmer to consider putting his less productive shallow and light soils in grass. In the Grady County Soil Conservation District in Oklahoma, for example, district supervisors estimate native grass plantings will pass the 60,000 acre mark

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Parents, has your child had a physical examination this summer? Next month he will be starting to school, and if he is in good health he will have a happier, more profitable year. It's up to YOU to give him a healthful send-off, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

After he has his check-up by the family doctor, be sure to take him to the family dentist. Teeth are mightily important, and decayed ones often cause a heap of trouble. They may start infection in other parts of the body. Strong, healthy teeth add attractiveness to appearance and personality. Help your child to grow up with good teeth . . . see that he has a dental examination twice a year.

Sometime children need glasses and their parents don't realize it. An examination by an eye specialist is important. A child who needs glasses, if taken to an eye physician now, will have time to get used to them before school starts.

When children are grouped together in a classroom, they expose each other to communicable diseases. Has your child been immunized against diphtheria and smallpox? Does he know he should use only his own drinking glass? Does he know he should avoid boys and girls who are victims of colds? Do you keep your child at home when he shows signs of a cold? Plenty of exercise and recreation, the right kind of foods daily, and 12 hours of sleep a night, are necessary for a child of elementary school age.

Get your child an appointment for a check-up today . . . the first day of school is not far away!

G. W. (Pop) Haney Writes Friends Of Activities At IOOF Home, Ennis

G. W. (Pop) Haney, well known former resident of Munday, recently wrote Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hobert, telling them of activities at the I. O. O. F. home at Ennis. "Pop" has been in the home several months and says it's too good to be true. The following is a portion of a letter which he authorized the Munday Times to print, so friends here might know where he is:

We have about eighty in the home, and about five hired hands. I do not know how many cooks, the ladies here at the home who are able help a little.

I do not have to do a thing, only put my laundry at the front of the door. Everything is paid for by the home. We also have a hospital. Our medicine, clothing, hospital bill—all paid for by the home. The only thing you pay for is if you have your suits pressed, you pay for that. (Naturally some would wear a pressed suit every day if they were free.)

They ring the first bell of a morning at 6:30 to get up; one at 6:45 to get ready; one at 7 for breakfast, one at 11:45 to get ready; another at 12 to eat; evening at 6:45 to get ready and last at 7:00. A person graces the table at every meal.

We have preaching every Friday night here at the home. Denominations at Ennis take it turn about, then the home furnishes cars to take us to church every Sunday.

It all seems too good to be true. The manager told me they come from all over Texas and a lot of northern states to see this home. There is hardly a day passes that they do not have visitors. You and L. W. ought to come and look it over, many room therefry w Hsfud I will not try to tell you how many rooms there are. The married men stay downstairs, the single ones upstairs. Each room has hot and cold water, nice dresser, little table and two rocking chairs.

Duster Pilot Dies In Crash Last Thursday

Ray Hilton, 47, was killed early Thursday morning, August 10, when the Piper Cub dusting plane he was flying crashed and burned on the Bobby Barnett farm east of Benjamin. The accident occurred about 8:30 Thursday morning.

Hilton, who lived in Houston, had been flying for several years and had served as civilian instructor of aviation cadets during the war. He is survived by his wife and two children.

The pilot was associated with the Southland Dusting Co. of Plainview, and had done quite a bit of dusting in the Munday area. He was working out of Munday with E. E. Lowe and son.

H. T. Williams of Rochester and W. E. Taylor of Benjamin witnessed the accident. They stated the pilot was flying near a highline when he made his turns on the east end of the field he was dusting. As he made the turn, he flew under a highline and topped a mes-

Other duster pilots who visited the scene expressed the belief that, since Hilton was flying into the sun, he flew too close to the wire and was faced with the alternatives of crashing into the line or flying under it.

Taylor was first to reach the plane, which caught fire when it crashed. Hilton was still alive and an unsuccessful effort was made to get him out of the burning plane. Sheriff Melton and other workers, who rushed to the scene of the accident, spent more than two hours extricating the body.

The body was prepared for burial by the Mahan Funeral Home and was returned to Houston for burial.

But it's getting along pretty good, thank you. And the recuperation period is expected to be over by the time the broom and shovel gang are through with our streets.

Then the rejuvenated street sweeper is expected to take charge. The plan is to operate it at least once a week in the business area.

And if its health holds out we hope we never see collections of dirt and trash that extend clear up over the tops of the curbs. Such a sight is plumb distasteful and disgraceful.
