

Fatal Plane Crash Remains Mystery

A 24-YEAR-OLD MECHANIC lost his life June 9 when the 1982 Bellanca Eagle biplane he was flying for the first time crashed into a milo field one mile east of the Munday Airport. The cause of the crash is under investigation by the FAA and the NTSB. The mechanic, Bryan Edward Murphy, was employed by D & H spraying Inc. recently and lived with his wife in Dallas.

By Kirsten Bowden

The life of a young mechanic who had celebrated his second wedding anniversary one day before ended about 8:45 a.m. June 9, 1993 in a plane crash one mile east of the Munday Airport.

Bryan Edward Murphy, a 24-year-old mechanic originally from Arkansas, was pronounced dead at the scene 9:50 a.m. by Justice of the Peace Truman Cypert.

The cause of the crash is under investigation. The stormy weather was determined not to have been a factor, Mark Daniel and Ed Lane, owners of D&H Aerial Spraying Inc. said. Murphy, who lived with his wife in Dallas, was recently employed by Daniel and Lane.

Jim McElvain, investigator for the Federal Aeronautics Administration in Lubbock, said he secured the wreckage and checked three areas that appeared to meet federal regulations--the aircraft, air traffic pattern and the pilot certification. He said he requested an autopsy following normal procedure.

Joyce Smith, of the National Transportation and Safety Board in Fort Worth, started investigations June 10 to determine the effects. She interviewed several witnesses, conducted a field examination on the aircraft released the plane for recovery to Air Salvage of Dallas in Lancaster where it will remain locked and secured in a hangar.

"We'll continue the investigation to look at the air frame. We go through every system," Smith said. Some of the components will go to the NTSB Metallurgical Lab in Washington D.C., she said.

In six months, a compiled investigation report will go to the NTSB five-member board in Washington D.C., Smith said. "If they agree with the findings, they will determine a probable cause," she said. The investigation can then be authorized for release to the public.

Murphy was flying the 1982 Bellanca Eagle biplane for the first time. He was only in the air for about three minutes when the crop duster crashed.

"He was very qualified to fly the plane--he was very competent," Mark Daniel, part owner of the company said of Murphy. Daniel said he had more than 1500 hours of flying behind him. "We were planning to work him into a pilot's position."

Ed Lane, another owner of the company that employed Murphy, said the plane had no problems and was easy to use.

"It was a docile, safe plane," he said.

Lane said he had spent the morning and the night before explaining the different characteristics of this particular plane to Murphy, including the wide wing span and the heavier controlled pressure, he said. He had taken off and landed for about 20 minutes.

"It's one of those planes you just have to get in and take off to fly," Daniel said of the single-seater.

Lane said that Murphy did not seem nervous.

"In fact, he was very anxious to fly it," he said.

Ambulance workers from Munday and Goree found no pulse when they arrived minutes after the accident, said Joel Greenwood of the Munday Ambulance service. Volunteer men of the Munday Fire Department untangled Murphy's body from the wreckage at 10:20 a.m.

Three out-of-state custom harvesters reported the accident to 911 about 8:50 a.m. on their cellular phone, said Highway Patrol Trooper Kam Pierce. They drove to the scene, as did Munday resident Jim Reid, who saw the plane go down.

"He was flying east straight and level, when there was a very abrupt pitch up and he instantly fell off and spun down," Reid said, a pilot himself. "It's one of those situations where you're 99 percent certain that there was no hope."

USDA To Help In Providing Housing For The Homeless

Rural residents who are homeless or inadequately-housed families may now have a chance to become homeowners under a plan being adopted by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), Bobby Cude, FmHA County Supervisor, said recently.

Under the plan, special emphasis will be given to homes that have been in FmHA's inventory at least 18 months. Inventory homes will be offered to public bodies, including housing authorities and nonprofit community-based organizations, for rent to the homeless, or in some cases, FmHA will rent directly to the individuals, Cude said. In addition, homes which were recently acquired by FmHA into inventory but have not yet been repaired will also be offered for lease to the homeless.

The families who obtain the housing from the public bodies or nonprofit organizations may apply to buy the house at any time during the lease. Those who rent directly from FmHA will pay rent based on their income and will be given the opportunity to buy the house they rent. Mr. Cude said that many homeless people work and have incomes, and have the potential to become homeowners.

"By helping people find a decent place to live, we also help eliminate the cost to taxpayers of maintaining vacant houses," Cude said. FmHA officials in Texas are seeking organizations which are interested in providing housing to the homeless and to inadequately-housed families.

Information concerning housing for the homeless may be obtained from the FmHA office located at 1101 E. Main, Knox City. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Have Your Pressure Canner Tested At Extension Office

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be offering free pressure canner checks (for canners with dial gauges) at the Knox County Extension office in Benjamin. Dates and times are Tuesday, June 22, 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon; and Wednesday, June 23, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

It is recommended that pressure canners with dial gauges be checked annually for gauge accuracy. This is a quick, simple procedure and the canner lid with dial gauge is all that is needed for the check.

Man Convicted For Attack On Munday Woman

Robert Earl Boyd, 34, of Knox City, was found guilty for sexual assault of a Munday woman June 8, 1993 in a jury trial in Benjamin.

The six-man, six-woman jury deliberated about one hour before returning the guilty verdict and another 45 minutes before sentencing Boyd to 99 years in the penitentiary and fining him $10,000.

The 20-year-old witness testified that in the evening of February 28, 1992 the defendant persuaded her out of her friend's apartment in Munday. She said he drove to a deserted site in the Sunset community where the sexual attack on her occurred.

The victim reported the attack to Munday police officers Randy Whiteside and Billy Scogin. Later that night the defendant, who was walking westward towards Knox City, was arrested with a large knife on his person.

District Attorney Bill Neal, who prosecuted the case for the state, expressed appreciation to the jury for their decision.

"I think the jury's response to this case may be a real turning point. I think it shows the people in this district are tired of violent criminals and drug dealers and are ready to get them off the street," he said.

State Comptroller John Sharp delivered a total of $109.4 million in June sales tax rebates to 917 cities and 108 counties, a 3.5 percent increase over the payments of one year ago.

Munday's check was $1,177.11 less than last year's rebate in June. We received a total of $4,776.60, a 19.77 percent decrease. However, the '93 payments to date is slightly higher than the '92 total at this time, with a total $40,641.12 thus far.

Knox City received a sales tax check for $5,402.92, a 6.79 percent increase from the prior year. This brings their payments to date $47,792.28.

Benjamin and Goree did not receive a rebate check for this payment period.

The total for Knox County now stands at $95,332.51 after receiving a total of $10,179.52 for June.

Strong, Gusty Winds Mutilate Tackitt's Shed

A.C. "Brownie" and Lena Tackitt of Munday experienced a "scrambled up mess" about noon June 9 when their farm shed north of the Sunset community was destroyed in the 70 mph high winds.

"It stopped raining and we saw some tree limbs down and there laid the shed," Mrs. Tackitt said.

Mrs. Tackitt described the winds as a cyclone. "It lifted the whole thing up and tore it. It sucked it over to one side and pushed it backwards," she said.

Between the two enclosed rooms in the center of the shed was a parking space for a pickup and motor boat that narrowly escaped harm.

"It's just peculiar--the motor boat had no damage and the pickup only had one scrape on one door," Mrs. Tackitt said, explaining that Mr. Tackitt had already left in it.

The shed, formerly a henhouse for more than 400, was converted into a shed for farm tools and used lumber shortly after the Tackitts moved there in 1942.

"We'll have to have something built back," Mrs. Tackitt said.

WINDS DESCRIBED AS STRONG AS A cyclone paraded near the Sunset community about noon June 9 and destroyed the farm shed of A.C. "Brownie" and Lena Tackitt. The shed held mostly tools and used lumber, but a pickup and motor boat parked in the center of the long shed escaped with just scratches. Winds reached as high as 70 mph in the first of two storms that day.

Beta Chi Meets/Hears Speaker On School Initiative Program

The Beta Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met Saturday, June 1 at 10 a.m. at the Haskell homemaking cottage. The invocation was given by Jo Cox. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, members from Haskell, Paint Creek and Weinert.

Wanda Thompson introduced the speaker, Jerry Morgan, superintendent of Paint Creek Independent School District. Mr. Morgan talked about Paint Creek's participation in the Partnership School Initiative Program.

This program was begun in Texas in 1991, when certain schools across the state were selected to try new, innovative approaches to education. Out of 1,000 schools which applied, 83 were selected for this pilot program, and Paint Creek ISD is one of the few grade K-12 schools in the program.

After visiting other schools and observing their programs, the Paint Creek faculty chose the area of outcome-based education to implement in their school. Mr. Morgan described the goals of this program, the techniques being used at Paint Creek, and how this approach compares to education in the conventional classroom.

He pointed out that changing trends in education and in the world affect the way we are teaching and learning today. Mr. Morgan invited Beta Chi members to come to Paint Creek and observe firsthand how well this innovative approach is working

President June Biffle called the meeting to order. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as read. Plans were made for heads of each committee to meet in July to work on the new yearbook.

In observance of Founders' Day, Monique Morgan and Jo Cox shared information about the founders of Delta Kappa Gamma. Jo shared a piece by Edna McGuire entitled "They Hoisted the Main Sail to the Wind", about the founding of Delta Kappa Gamma. Monique handed out a profile of the founders.

Elizabeth Acrec presented the Red Rose Salute to Dorothy Myers, Mary Martin and June Biffle, respectively, for their outstanding service to Beta Chi Chapter. Then, June Biffle presented the Red Rose Salute to the officers and committee chairmen in appreciation of their work during the past year.

The meeting was adjourned by June Biffle.

At Your Service

Dr. Larry Fitzgerald
Minister, Church of Christ

Q: I haven't attended church in several years. Before that I hadn't often anything out of church for quite some time. I know I should attend but I feel like such an inspiritual hypocrite. What do you recommend?

A: Too many people approach a congregation with the idea that they should "get something" from Christianity. It is different from most religions in that the emphasis is on what you can give rather than get. When you commit yourself in service to others and to God, you will know the joys of a spiritual life.

Jesus said that he came to this world not to be served but to serve people. Therefore, he says, you must be a servant and a slave (Matthew 20:26-28). The very purpose of going to church is to serve others and God. By our service to others we encourage them (read Hebrews 10:24-25).

Perhaps it is better to ask yourself: "What can I give to others to make their worship real?" Instead of: "What can I get out of worship?" I recommend that you start by attending worship services with the intent of saying something encouraging to four people. Do this each week and by the end of two months see how you feel about the services. And look for other areas whereby you can be of service to others.

Most important is to find a congregation that worships in spirit and in truth (John 4:23-24). To worship according to man's doctrines is to make vain your worship no matter how good it makes you feel (Matthew 15:9).

If you have a question for Larry, write him c/o Box 211, Munday TX 76371.

Letter To The Editor

I am writing concerning what could be a difference in outlook. It has come to my attention while I go through town that there are a lot of very unthoughtful folks in Munday. Yes, right here in Munday, TX, as in every other town, I suppose.

It seems very rude to me to drive by someone you know that is less fortunate than you are, and stick up your nose at him--even to point and laugh and act like you are better than him.

In recent years, I have nearly lost everything I had. I had to leave my husband due to severe family problems, and almost lost my children. Since then, I have had to go on welfare and food stamps. I am almost down to nothing now.

It really bothers me when people look down on the unfortunate ones. Just because they have cars, trucks, better housing, more money and so on they are not better than me.

I have to walk everywhere I go. I am very thankful for those people who will stop and pick me up, rather than just drive by as I walk to the grocery store, walk my kids to and from school, or walk to church. I am very thankful for one very sweet friend who picked up my son, daughter and myself and took us to Vacation Bible School this morning. We need more people like this!

So, I close with something for everyone to think about. Before you pass someone that is less fortunate than yourself, stop and think that it could be you that has to do without the things that you have now, like your nice car, pickup, home, or anything else you depend on.

Thank you,
Rosalie Golden of Munday

"On A Wizer Note"

by Paul Weiser,
Knox County Extension Agent - Agriculture

Everyone seems to be interested in making money. Some attempt this through investments - stocks, bonds, etc. Have you ever thought about investing in "Dogies"?

"Dogie Calves" make good investments. Calf raising is a 50 million dollar industry in Texas. This includes farmers, ranchers and anyone with the resources to raise five or ten orphan calves.

This is an excellent way for youngsters to learn responsibilities as well as make some money. It also gives school age children a fun job for the summer.

These "dogies" can be purchased at a local livestock auction or directly from a dairy. They may be raised on a bottle or a nurse cow. The mortality is generally around 20% so be familiar with cattle illness before starting.

If these "dogies" are kept long enough they will soon be old enough to graze. This will help cut the cost of feed and the amount of labor needed.

As the number of young livestock increases in an area, so does the amount of predators. If not controlled or watched, the predator - coyote, bobcat, etc., - can cut your profits in a hurry.

The Texas Department of Agriculture will conduct a Predator Management Training Program on Wednesday, June 30, in Turkey. If interested in attending, please contact Murray Walton, Texas Department of Agriculture, at 512/463-0013 or Tadd Knight, Hall County Agricultural Extension Agent, at 806/259-3015.

This program is designed to certify private applicator certificate or license owners to use M-44 sodium cyanide. The M-44 is used for coyote, feral dog and fox control.

Other animals which require control methods are biting insects on horses or other livestock. The most important step in controlling external livestock parasites is proper identification. Some insects are more easily controlled during the larval stage while others as adults. Not all control methods include chemicals. Keeping pens and stalls clean and properly ventilated is very important. Proper drainage and minimized feed and water spillage also helps.

Place black plastic over piles of manure to help control manure breeding insects. The heat which builds up under the plastic aids in killing many insects.

For help in identifying any parasite problem, contact the Extension office or a local veterinarian.

Baby Boomers Swell Benefits For Disabilities

Baby Boomers -- that groundswell to the population born during the postwar period (1946-1964) -- whose numbers have stressed public facilities from schools to housing -- are expected to swell Social Security's disability rolls too. Their presence is expected to be reflected in a significant increase in disability applications in coming years, Social Security studies show.

The oldest of the boomers are now over 45, the age group where disability is most likely to occur. Thus, the number of persons expected to become disabled should increase as the proportion of the disability-age population increases. The number of disability awards is projected to increase from 4.08 per 100,000 persons for a total of 471,165 to 4.76 per 100,000 for a total of 666,250 by 2005.

Social Security disability benefits are paid to people who are unable to work because of a physical or mental impairment which has lasted or is expected to last one year or to result in death. More than 4.3 million persons are currently receiving Social Security disability benefits and another 1.3 million are receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability payments, which are also administered by the Social Security Administration.

And, like the baby boomers,

Social Security's disability program has also come of age. For example, today people can get accurate estimates of any benefits they might be due. With this information, they can plan ahead, adding anticipated savings, investments, private insurance, company pensions, and other sources of income to come up with a good idea of what their income might be if they become disabled. Individuals can now request an application for a "Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement" from any Social Security office and receive a response within two weeks.

Another indication that Social Security's disability program has come of age is the extent to which beneficiaries can work while receiving disability payments. In fact, for more and more people, the disability program becomes a bridge to the workplace rather than the end of the road. To help those beneficiaries who want work but are afraid of losing necessary benefit income and health care protection, a number of special provisions are now part of the law. The provisions, called "work incentives," permit cash benefits to continue until the beneficiary is working on a regular basis, medicare of medicaid to continue until they can afford other health insurance, and help with work expenses caused by their disability.

An additional important element of Social Security's disability program is that benefits increase annually to reflect the cost of living once a person starts receiving them. For example, benefits have increased 20 percent over the past five years for those now on the rolls. However, there is a rule that prevents individuals from receiving more in combined public disability benefits (Social Security and worker's compensation among others) than he or she made while working.

Disability benefits provide a safety net for people to use in planning financial security for themselves and their families. But like any other safety net, it works best when individuals know it's there as something they can count on.

For more information on this protection, call this toll-free number 1 800-772-1213 between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Ask for a copy of the leaflet "Working While Disabled--How Social Security Can Help."

Benjamin Photographer Ponders Old And Young

By Kirsten Bowden.

Some photographers only see life with the camera, but some see it with both the instrument and their hearts.

Wyman Meinzer, photographer and author of The Roadrunner, is of the latter sort. Meinzer, a resident of Benjamin with wife Sarah and two sons, said he learned to appreciate nature and the simplicity of life in his childhood on the League Ranch near Benjamin where his father Pate was a foreman for 30 years.

"Growing up we were happy," he said of himself and brother Rick and sister Patty. "We lived in an environment that was healthy for kids."

Meinzer said he sees a lack of direction in many of today's children. While giving a talk to tenth graders at a high school in Lubbock, Meinzer said he tried to reach out to the students who were unresponsive at first.

"I saw a lot of bored kids," Meinzer said. "It was like they needed a catalyst to spark an interest."

Meinzer, the father of 8-year-old Pate and 10-year-old Hunter, said the experience turned out to be positive because he conveyed motivation to the students.

"When it was over, they were genuinely interested--one kid sent pictures for me to critique," he said with a smile. "One of the things I enjoy is to see people react positively--it gives me a lot of gratification."

Meinzer, a pepperoni pizza lover and Dr. Pepper fan, said he loves to interact with people, especially older people.

"Old people are our connection with times we'll never know," he said. "I feel a sadness and a loss each time one dies because there goes a link to our heritage and our land."

Meinzer said children should pay attention to older people.

"If we forget the hardship and strife or think it was mailed to us, to me that is a step toward something like the burning of the rain forest--you don't appreciate it until it's gone," he said.

Meinzer began photographing when he was researching coyotes in college in the mid 1970's. After obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in wildlife management from Texas Tech University, he hunted professionally for five years. His first photo, of a coyote, was published in 1979.

"After that, I really started working hard," he said. Meinzer worked part-time until he could afford to photograph full-time. Meinzer said he branched out using wide-angle lenses and landscapes. He said he doesn't limit himself to wildlife photography but would rather photograph naturally--in the outdoors with natural light.

Meinzer said his method is two-step--he studies the animal and then takes advantage of the animal's weakness, often shooting in remote places where he has to hike and climb to photograph the animal.

"I prefer to go to areas where people haven't photographed much--I like to hunt these real secretive places in the plains of Texas," he said.

While enjoying the success of The Roadrunner, which goes into its third printing in four months, he has been taking advantage of the recent weather to photograph storms.

"I've loved storms since I was a kid. Each bolt of lightning is different from the last. Man has a tendency to try to control the world around him, but he can not, and has not been able to harness a storm," he said of his next project.

Meinzer described himself as a friendly, open, independent person who is happy because of his work.

"I love what I do so much, it overshadows my worries. To be able to do what I do makes my life very bright."

Offutts Attend Graduation Of Grandchildren

Camille Eggleston Hailey graduated from South Texas College of Law on Sunday, May 9, which was also her birthday.

Lonnie Offutt attended graduation ceremonies at Abilene Christian University, where his grandson, Brian Offutt and his wife, Melanie, received their degrees.

Brian is a Bible major and is youth director at Westgate Church of Christ in Abilene. He will enter graduate school in the Fall. Melanie is an education-art major and will be teaching in the ACU Christian School.

PUMP UP SAVINGS with a Heat Pump

When the dog days of summer put a bite in your utility bills, it may be time to consider an energy-efficient heat pump. Heat pumps transfer heat to the outside air in summer and draw heat from the outside air in winter. This method of transferring heat is much more efficient and means substantial savings to you.

Contact your local electric cooperative to find out about their Centsible Cooling Program! By installing an energy-efficient heat pump, you can collect cash and save on your utility bills, too.

Pathways

by Randy White, pastor
First Baptist Church

I suppose that two words that could help humanity more than any other words are "TRUST GOD."

These words put in a nutshell how we would go about living. These words define for us the bottom line for living in a good relationship with the Lord.

If we will trust God, we will find He is trustworthy. He will NEVER fail us, we will never fall if we lean on Him, we will never have the rug pulled out from under us if we will trust God.

Trust in God would save us from countless difficulties which arise from our poor choices. Trust in God would give guidance through the crises of life we all face. Trust in God would ease our fears about today, and about tomorrow.

In Proverbs, the Lord gives us a promise about trusting in Him. He says "Trust in the Lord with all you heart, and lean not on you own understanding; in all you ways acknowledge Him, and He will direct you paths." That sounds like a great deal to me. If I will trust Him with all my heart, if I will not trust in myself, if I will recognize Him in all I do, then He will make my paths clear before me.

"Lord, give me the faith in you this week to trust you with my life, and with all that comes. Amen."

VERA NEWS

By Mrs. Thelma Coulston

the U.S. Mail as a means of accessing the marketplace, and point out that the vast majority of mail order vendors are legitimate. "We want to drive the rotten apples out of the telemarketing barrel, with vigorous law enforcement and a strong dose of public education," says Inspector John Brugger, headquarters spokesperson for the Postal Inspection Service.

Postal Inspection Service Using Unusual Twist To Fight Scam

The U.S. Postal Inspection Service announced recently that it was taking the fight against fraudulent postcards to the streets with an unusual twist to an old scam.

In an extraordinary effort to educate potential victims about this perennial scourge, inspectors mailed more than two hundred thousand postcards to individuals all over the country, offering recipients a "GUARANTEED PRIZE".

This familiar ruse promises that you have definitely won one of several seemingly big-ticket prizes, such as a luxury automobile, vacation cruise, diamond necklace or cash. To claim your free prize, you simply call an 800 or 900 number furnished on the postcard. At this point, you're connected to a high-pressure "yak" (sales agent) who spells out the real deal.

Guess what? Before any prize is awarded, you'll have to pay the promoter a fee of some kind, be it a registration fee or shipping charge. This is the tip-off to the rip-off. The scheme is aimed at separating the prize winner from enough money to cover the worthless vacation certificate or cheap costume jewelry which may or may not be sent in return, plus a nice profit for the operator.

Those who respond to the inspectors' postcard and call 1-800-448-5656 will get some helpful advice instead:

--Don't pay anything for a "free prize" if you don't know what you're getting. (Remember, calling a 900 telephone number costs money.)

--Don't deal with firms or individuals that make high-pressure demands for an answer RIGHT NOW! (Take time to check them out.)

--Don't give out your credit card number to anyone you don't know. (Callers that want a credit card number or expiration date to verify anything about you aren't to be trusted.)

"Who's Responsible?"

by Officer Tejada
by order of Munday City Council

Recently many issues have come up concerning Munday young adults.

One issue is driving without a license or with an instruction permit. Fact is, if you are not licensed, you cannot operate a vehicle in this state, in this county, or in this city, the latter being our major concern.

A permit has many restrictions, most important the driver. While having the permit in his immediate possession to drive a type or general class of motor vehicle upon the public highways, you have to be accompanied by a licensed person who is at least eighteen years of age, who has at least one year of driving experience, and who is occupying a seat by the driver.

In answer to the question, who is responsible, who is liable in case of an accident or other offense . . . the car owner, the parents and the youngster.

A citation issued to an unlicensed driver while in the process of obtaining his or her license is a very serious issue and could weigh heavily on that person's driving future.

Other major concerns and problems that need to be addressed are, minors drinking alcohol, adults contributing to the delinquency or dependency of a child, public intoxication, consuming an alcoholic beverage while driving, and disorderly conduct, such as using abusive, indecent, profane or vulgar language in a public place. Making an offensive gesture or display in a public place which tends to incite an immediate breach of peace, abuse or threatening another person in a public place, discharging a firearm in a public place on or across a public road, and making unreasonable noise in a public place or in or near a private residence. In plain words, if you as an adult sponsor a party or allow a party to be held in your home or building that you own or reside in, regardless if you are present or not, you are responsible and liable for any minors drinking while there, for any loud noise that disturbs the neighbors and in most cases can be held liable for any accidents that those minors may be involved in after leaving the premises, if they were allowed to drink.

It is this City's Police Department's policy that any violation here unto listed will be dealt with, first with a warning citation issued to the minor with a copy forwarded to the parents; secondly, with a citation issued to the minor and/or adult responsible for said minor or adult responsible for property in question.

We respectfully request you, as adults and young adults, to help us cope with these issues.

Thank you. ***

From A Carpenter's Son

First United Methodist Church - Munday and Goree
Don Whetsell, Pastor

I have been unpacking my office and I ran across an old journal that had been given to me by a member of my last church as a parting gift. It had belonged to her grandfather, who for many years had been the charge elder of the Presbyterian Church in Clarendon, Texas. The journal contains lots of wisdom about the business of running churches and dealing with pastors. I thought I would share with you one of my favorite passages.

THE COUNTRY PREACHER

"The big city preacher may get more headlines,

But the country preacher has fewer headaches.

The big city preacher may get more glory,

But the country preacher will pass through experiences that develop grace.

The big city man may exult in the works of man,

But the country man may meditate on the creation of God.

Country ministry develops the preacher, he will preach to sympathetic, attentive audiences who will appreciate real sermons. There is a subtle but real influence, that emanates from the congregation to the preacher that may make or break a man. The atmosphere is deadly where people are unresponsive or antagonistic.

A congregation with itching ears which desires sensation and entertainment, has a tendency to make a man a time-serving, man-pleasing preacher.

A congregation who craves instruction and spiritual enlightenment will make a man an edifying and inspirational preacher.

Go to the country for ten years. After that you can go where you please."

It was good advice 70 years ago, and it's still good advice today! I think I'd like to stay here for a while!

KNOX COUNTY KONNECTIONS

By Jane Rowan, County Extension Agent

Canning can be a safe method of food preservation if practiced properly. The canning process involves placing foods in jars and heating them to a temperature that destroys microorganisms that cause food spoilage or health hazards. Canning also inactivates the enzymes that cause food to spoil. Air is driven out of the jar as it is heated and creates a seal to preserve the food.

There are two methods for canning. A boiling water bath is used for foods that are high in acid such as tomatoes, most fruits and pickles. Pressure canning is the other alternative. The pressure canner is used for low acid foods such as meats, vegetables, poultry and seafood. Two to three inches of water is placed in the pressure canner and the foods are heated to a temperature of at least 240.

Pressure canners can be very dangerous if not operated properly. If you have a pressure canner, it should be tested at least once a year to ensure that the gauge registers properly and valves are in good working condition.

The guidelines have changed on the length of time for processing foods both in a water bath and pressure canner. If you are using "Grandmother's Recipe" that has never failed, it is best to compare the processing time of that recipe to the new standards. Information is available from the Extension office on the new processing times.

Here are some helpful hints to make canning safe and easy:

- *Use only new lids to seal jars.
- *Use rust-free screw bands to secure lids in place until after the jars have been processed. Once the processing is complete, remove the screw bands and store canned goods in a cool dry place.

*Use only Mason canning jars. Companies that make Mason jars include Ball and Kerr. Mayonnaise or coffee jars are not suitable because the type of glass used is not made to withstand extreme heat.

*Use a magnetic lid wand to remove lids from hot water.

*Use a jar lifter to place jars into and remove them from canners.

*Make sure you adjust the processing time to allow for altitude differences. Most recipes are for sea level processing times--Knox county is at 1300-1700 ft. above sea level. This means processing times will be longer.

REMEMBER: Safety is a must when using pressure canners and boiling water baths. If you are not sure about the recipe, processing times, or have any other questions, call the Extension office at 454-2651.

A Teacher Says "Goodbye"

Madge (Hardin) Weaver a fourth grade teacher at Crosbyton Elementary School, is retiring after 24 years in the teaching field. She is the sister of Dorothy Patterson and Ray Hardin of Munday.

Mrs. Weaver was honored at a staff luncheon, where Superintendent Jerry Scott, also a former Munday resident, read a letter she had written concerning her feelings about teaching and her students. It reads as follows:

I have taught in Crosbyton Elementary for several years, and have learned from my experience many wonderful lessons.

Children have many characteristics; they are interesting and exciting, caring and loving individuals.

They have contributed to my education by teaching me how easy it is to accept people regardless of race, creed or color.

Children often reflect attitudes and behavior patterns encouraged at home and school. However, they quickly learn to accept people at face value.

My students have taught me the real vitality in affection. Affection shown by a smile, a kind word or an encouraging pat on the back. They have taught me that each adult could make this a better world if we only show sincere love for our fellow man.

My children have taught me not to hold grudges and to forgive easily. Children can fuss and fight one minute, then walk down the hall as buddies the next. They don't hold grudges, and they forgive and forget quickly. Each of us should take an important lesson from their innocent love and affection.

Teaching has been a very rewarding experience and a beautiful way to enjoy one's life. I have thoroughly enjoyed my time in Crosbyton Elementary with some of the greatest students, parents, substitutes, and teachers in the world.

Crosbyton is fortunate to have qualified and devoted administrators, teachers, and aides to develop the minds of our future leaders.

I will not be returning to my classroom next Fall due to my disability, but I can wish only the very best for our school and children.

Thank you for trusting your children to my care and instruction. I'll miss each of you.

Sincerely,
Madge Weaver
