With complete military collapse, the French government, headed by Marshal Henri Petain, formed a government along with principles like their conquerors, the totalitarian states, eliminated President Lebrun.

Work at the hospital has been progressing rather slowly while approval of the basement plans were being awaited, but in spite of the enforced delays, most of the native stone walls of the building have been erected to the height at which a concrete band will be poured.

Heat Wave Is Broken With Rain Monday

Crops in Foard Still Need More Moisture; 2 Inches at Vivian

Foard County received its first relief from a heat wave of several weeks when rainfall brought cool weather last Monday afternoon.

Only a 4-inch rain was recorded at the Crowell State Bank, but heavy rains were received in the western part of the county, centering in the Vivian community where stock tanks were reported to have been filled.

Thermometers had been standing well over the 100 degree mark every day since the heat wave arrived and the cool weather brought by the rain was a welcome relief, even though enough moisture was not received to aid crops to any great extent.

Crops in Foard County have suffered and burned severely during the past two weeks and estimates as to crop damages have been varied and unusually high. Some farmers are of the opinion that a heavy rain would bring the crops through better than expected, and some believe a good rain would only assure Foard of some cotton, however, rains must come soon or the cotton and feed crops will be very short in this county.

Pioneer Truscott Man Died Monday of Last Week

C. I. Browder, pioneer resident of Truscott, died Monday of last week, July 29, in the Quannah Hospital.

Mr. Browder had lived in the Truscott community for about fifty years and was a charter member of the Methodist Church. He served this church as Sunday School superintendent for twenty years and was active in all community affairs.

Survivors include his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Elmo Todd and Miss Virginia Browder, of Truscott.

Coyote's Greediness for Hens Causes Death

A rather unusual story concerning a coyote which would not be satisfied comes from Bert Matthews of the Vivian community.

Several weeks ago Mr. Matthews owned between thirty and forty chickens, but a coyote started raiding his chicken house. After a few chickens had been caught by the greedy coyote, Mr. Matthews set a trap in the chicken house, but still the chickens continued to disappear and the trap remained un sprung.

Finally, the coyote had eaten all of Mr. Matthews' chickens and all hope for the capture of the coyote was given up. Several nights after the last chicken had been killed, the coyote returned to the chicken house and while hunting for a chicken he might have missed, stepped into the trap which he had been avoiding in all his previous raids.

Young Speeders of Crowell Are Given Warning

A warning to the young people of Crowell has been issued this week by local officials about speeding their automobiles on the stretch of pavement at the school buildings in the northeast section of Crowell.

During the summer months, a large number of cases of this type have been reported, and the number of speedsters turning the pavement at the buildings into a race track have increased to the extent that the officials feel that they must take steps to stop it, as both human lives and property are involved in the reckless driving of the youngsters seeking this thrill.

Numbers of cars have been reported passing the buildings at fast speed and turning corners at unsafe speed.

The officials stated that these streets would be watched in the future, and any person speeding or driving recklessly would be arrested and fined.

A bomb explodes in the background.

Hold That Sneeze You are a hay fever victim? In roadside vistas of golden-tasselled ragweed you see no beauty, for you know those tassels are golden because they are laden with poisonous pollen. And nobody does anything about it. So you do . . . you take after the enemy with a hoe. But pause, and consider facts. Direct attack on the ragweed has been tried before . . . does not work. Why? Because ragweed is a symptom of sick soil, and when you scotch ragweed, you simply attack symptoms, not the malady itself. But there is a cure for the ragweed evil. It is soil conservation. . . Take over vacant lots, remove the cans and rubbish, plant grasses, grow flowers, convert the plot into playgrounds, start flower gardens. — Roger P. Wadehouse, botanist and author, in the Rotarian Magazine.

Pellagra Is Not Contagious, Says Health Officer

Austin.—Pellagra, while not a communicable disease, is of concern to the State Health Department since the Texas pellagra mortality over the last five years shows an annual rate of 697, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. "Pellagra is a dietary deficiency disease caused by insufficiency of the proper foods. The disease infects a person slowly and may not be recognized until the victim begins to have a sore mouth, stomach trouble, and reddening and scaling of the skin. When these symptoms appear, the disease has been present for some time," Dr. Cox pointed out. The longer period of time a person has been infected with pellagra, the harder it is to cure, so one should be on the lookout for the early symptoms, such as nervousness, indigestion and burning of the feet and hands. In its late stages, pellagra may be so severe as to affect the mind. Pellagra is not contagious. If a person maintains the right dietary and is not otherwise diseased, he is in no danger even if he lives with a pellagra patient. The prevention of pellagra is easier than its cure. Simplest rule of prevention is careful attention to the diet at all times. To make sure that your daily quota of foods includes pellagra-preventive vitamins, it should include plenty of milk, some fresh meat, and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, and brewer's yeast are particularly valuable for their pellagra-preventive qualities. Having provided the essentials in your dietary, you should by all means consult your family physician when you need specialized assistance in diet corrections or procedures. The average depth of oil wells completed in Texas in 1937 was 3,700 feet compared with 3,000 feet for the entire United States.

THOUGHTS OF SERIOUS MOMENTS

Rest assured that the good you do unto others you do to yourselves as well, and the wrong you do may commit must, will, rebound upon you. — Mary Baker Eddy.

Never did any soul do good, but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. — Saftesbury.

His daily prayer, far better understood in acts than in words, was simply doing good. — John Greenleaf Whittier.

Nothing can make a man truly great but being truly good and partaking of God's holiness. — Matthew Henry.

Freight rates on fresh fruits and potatoes average lower now than during the decade of the 1920's, but continue high when compared with the prices received by producers of these products, according to a study released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Rates on truck crops other than potatoes are the highest since 1920.

Part of every Texas oil dollar finds its way INTO YOUR POCKET. EVERY merchant in our State—every business and professional man—every worker, shares in Texas oil's huge expenditures. Many Texas cities with all their varied businesses and employment exist and prosper today because of oil. Last year petroleum created a direct buying power in our state of 550 million dollars. Of this, Texas retail merchants received 324 million dollars, landlords 44 million, utilities 38 million and professional men 22 million, while 83 million more went for insurance and savings. This huge sum is distributed and redistributed in an endless chain of income for our State and its people. Texas oil payrolls are over 60 per cent of all the wages paid to all Texas workers. Directly or indirectly, you get a part of your income from oil. If you're a Texan, you're in the oil business. TEXAS MID-CONTINENT OIL AND GAS ASSOCIATION

Hold That Sneeze
You are a hay fever victim? In roadside vistas of golden-tasseled ragweed you see no beauty, for you know those tassels are golden because they are laden with poisonous pollen. And nobody does anything about it. So you do . . . you take after the enemy with a hoe. But pause, and consider facts. Direct attack on the ragweed has been tried before . . . does not work. Why? Because ragweed is a symptom of sick soil, and when you scotch ragweed, you simply attack symptoms, not the malady itself. But there is a cure for the ragweed evil. It is soil conservation. . . . Take over vacant lots, remove the cans and rubbish, plant grasses, grow flowers, convert the plot into playgrounds, start flower gardens.—Roger P. Wadehouse, botanist and author, in the Rotarian Magazine.

Pellagra Is Not Contagious, Says Health Officer

Austin.—Pellagra, while not a communicable disease, is of concern to the State Health Department since the Texas pellagra mortality over the last five years shows an annual rate of 697, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.
"Pellagra is a dietary deficiency disease caused by insufficiency of the proper foods. The disease is not recognized until the victim begins to have a sore mouth, stomach trouble, and reddening and scaling of the skin. When these symptoms appear, the disease has been present for some time," Dr. Cox pointed out.

The longer period of time a person has been infected with pellagra, the harder it is to cure, so one should be on the lookout for the early symptoms, such as nervousness, indigestion and burning of the feet and hands. In its late stages, pellagra may be so severe as to affect the mind. If a person maintains the right dietary and is not otherwise diseased, he is in no danger even if he lives with a pellagra patient.

The prevention of pellagra is easier than its cure. Simplest rule of prevention is careful attention to the diet at all times. To make sure that your daily quota of foods includes pellagra-preventive vitamins, it should include plenty of milk, some fresh meat, and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, and brewer's yeast are particularly valuable for their pellagra-preventive qualities.

Having provided the essentials in your dietary, you should by all means consult your family physician when you need specialized assistance in diet corrections or procedures.

Never did any soul do good, but it came readier to do the same again, with more enjoyment. — Saffesbury.

His daily prayer, far better understood in acts than in words, was simply doing good. — John Greenleaf Whittier.

Nothing can make a man truly great but being truly good and partaking of God's holiness. — Matthew Henry.

Freight rates on fresh fruits and potatoes average lower now than during the decade of the 1920's, but continue high when compared with the prices received by producers of these products, according to a study released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Rates on truck crops other than potatoes are the highest since 1920.

Part of every Texas oil dollar finds its way INTO YOUR POCKET

EVERY merchant in our State—every business and professional man—every worker, shares in Texas oil's huge expenditures.

Many Texas cities with all their varied businesses and employment exist and prosper today because of oil.

Last year petroleum created a direct buying power in our state of 550 million dollars.

Of this, Texas retail merchants received 324 million dollars, landlords 44 million, utilities 38 million and professional men 22 million, while 83 million more went for insurance and savings.

This huge sum is distributed and redistributed in an endless chain of income for our State and its people.

Texas oil payrolls are over 60 per cent of all the wages paid to all Texas workers.

Directly or indirectly, you get a part of your income from oil.

If you're a Texan, you're in the oil business.

DEBUNKING FALSE PROPHETS

The country's self-appointed reformers have been telling us that advertising raises the cost of living. Let's see. Let's take an example that everybody is familiar with.

Cast your mind back to what you knew or what your parents knew of the automobile of the first few years of this century. Then a big, heavy, unreliable gas eater could be bought, without top, windshield, horn or spare tire, for from two to six thousand dollars. Few people bought this expensive luxury.

But automobile makers saw a vision, a nation on wheels. They advertised persistently. More people bought. As production went up, the cost to make each car came down. Part of the saving was put into improvement. Part went into continued advertising. Part went to the public in lower prices. Again more people bought these better cars for less money.

And so it went, year after year. Continued advertising, production and value up, cost and price down, until today you buy an infinitely better, more efficient car, complete, for less than half of the lowest price of a few years ago.

The same is true of the refrigerator, vacuum cleaner, washing machine, oil burner, radio, electric light bulb; of packaged foods, clothes, and many another product that will come to your mind as you think this over. Advertising, says Nation's Business, has helped mass selling and made possible mass production, which cuts the cost and brings the price within the reach of the average family.

In our opinion the discipline alone would justify the existence of the universal compulsory military training. A lot of things change with the years but discipline, like the other time honored virtues of thrift, and honesty, and industry, and sobriety, are still desirable qualities in a young man. Unfortunately in too many homes today the proper parental restraint is not imposed especially in the matter of discipline. Incidentally discipline is the most valuable training that a young man can have. It contributes materially to success in any line of business.

The report is out that drastic reductions are to be made in the salaries of movie stars. One guess is that the screen can get all the movie stars, directors and executives it can use for a fourth the salaries it is paying. We know a half dozen potential stars in this community who would be willing to twinkle at their utmost for a hundred dollars a week.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

Not every one has wealth, the money to travel, to go to the mountains to escape the summer's heat and the south to find relief from the chill. Not every one has the means to afford the kind of a house he would like to have or the means to live on a standard of living that he would like.

Not every one has just the situation and the surroundings in which he would like to work. Not every one has all the things that he thinks would make his happiness complete if he but had them.

Notwithstanding all of this, I think that every one can, if he will, be happy or at least happily resigned to his lot, if he chooses to be. In many instances, in fact, most instances, whether one is happy or content with his lot, depends upon how he wills to be. Happiness, in my opinion, is seldom the result of outward things, outward possessions or conditions. It is more often the result of the life within. In other words happiness springs from within, never from without.

I ran across an example of this recently. A woman who was making the best of an adverse situation in a happy, optimistic, light hearted, courageous way. In the past she had been used to a much better scale of living, she had been used to many home comforts and even luxuries, as luxuries go, in the average American home today. The depression deprived the family of their comfortable home and forced them into a home in which were available only the simplest and most elementary facilities and conveniences. The wife was required to do her own housework, and laundry, and ironing, and other tasks that in the past she had not been called upon to do. Her husband was brought to do a different type of work than he had ever done and the children's status in the matter of clothes, spending money, and the like underwent a complete change.

Instead of complaining about it, and grieving, they adjusted themselves to the situation, pitched into their work with an enthusiasm and courage and optimism that was inspiring. They even appeared grateful for what they had, meager though it was, in comparison to what they had always been used to.

Contrasted with this family is another person who has every comfort that substantial means can provide, a good home, and with it many luxuries, but they are forever complaining over their lot. Instead of being grateful for the good things they have and for a situation that is so far better than it very easily might be, they seek to find some minor thing that they do not have, that they think they want, and complain about it, making themselves, and everyone about them, miserable. Their unhappiness is their own doing. They could correct it in a week if they chose to. Their trouble is they are too selfish to even be happy. They are wrapped up in themselves so much that they cannot see the blessings they have and be grateful for them. They choose to grieve for the inconsequential things they do not have until it becomes a mountain in their selfish mind.

Happiness does not come from possessions or from anything without. It is a product of the spirit, the heart and the soul, a reward of self forgetfulness, of courage, and of will. It is within reach of anyone.

The infallible marks of an amateur writer are found in the use of the expressions "festive board," "the table fairly groaned with good things for the inner man," "the guests came with well filled baskets," "the guests departed wishing the host many more happy returns of the day," a picnic dinner was served to which "all did justice."

We feel sorry for the person who always is searching for the bad and the wrong in people, who is ready to repeat lies and gossip and seldom tells of the good things he sees in people or hears of them. There is something wrong with such a person. The nurse must have dropped him when he was a baby.

Strange, but we only see the income of the other fellow's business, but never his expense. When one knows all the necessary expense that enters into a business it frequently isn't the gold mine that it outwardly appears to be.

Speaking of keeping out of war, it isn't as easy sometimes as it sounds. There was China, Ethiopia, Poland, Finland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, France and England. They all wanted to keep out of war but war was brought to them.

There is little left for a man to live for when he has outlived his friends. Without sympathetic understanding companionship the world is an empty place to any one but a recluse.

When it comes to the matter of vacations the persons who need them most are the least able to take them.

Junk Is A Scraggy Business, and One With A New Future

Do you despise junk? Well, don't, advises McDonald White in the Rotarian Magazine. "It is a big business—and, with wars on, a booming one," he says. "In the United States, for example, it is in the billion-dollar class and still growing. Industrial miracles that shame Aladdin's lamp are recreating from the junk pile useful things in an amazing variety. In fact, almost everything one buys nowadays is partly made from waste materials."

"War always booms the junk business. During the 1914-18 affair, scrap iron leaped from $4 to $42 a ton. History seems about to repeat itself, for already the price is climbing. If it continues, high steel prices may slow down construction work and production of both capital and consumer goods for years to come. Or at least until guns, armaments, bayonets, and 'duds' can be converted into plowshares. As mines are exhausted, as wars irretrievably waste Nature's largesse, as man by political action cuts off his fellowman from sources of much-needed supply, the junk business will continue to grow. It's a business with a future!"

An interesting advertisement is always read.

A Philanthropist; You Can Be One, Too, and You Don't Need Money!

"Most of us are exceedingly generous with the millions we do not possess, and we smugly offer our lack of money as excuse for our lack of generosity," suggests Corinne Updegraff Wells, who writes about "Philanthropy without Money" in the current Rotarian Magazine. "Yet generosity has surprisingly little to do with money. Ingenuity and imagination often provide gifts which make presents purchased with money seem cheap and tawdry by comparison."

But how? There's the spare time on your hands that you can donate to an over-burdened neighborhood mother, to a charitable organization, or at the nearest play park where youngsters long for someone to teach the mysteries of kites and model airplanes. And your car with its empty back seat when you take a Sunday afternoon drive into the country? Why not fill it with convalescent-ward patients from the nearest hospital, or oldsters from the community home for the aged? And hobbies! Here's a gold mine for sharing joys, for philanthropy without money, says Arthur Wells.

If It's Heavily Advertised It HAS to be GOOD

OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy.

One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "polices" itself.

Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios—you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

Brief Bits of News From Here and There

The annual wheat requirements of the United States are about 659,000,000 bushels. It is estimated that this year's crop will produce a total of 728,644,000 bushels which would mean a 69,000,000 bushel surplus or carry over.

The Hatch Act as recently amended bars political activity of some 300,000 state, county and municipal workers paid with federal funds. It restricts campaign contributions to $5,000 per person or organization, limits to $3,000,000 party campaign expenditures, prohibits political contributions from firms under contracts from the federal government and bars contributions in the form of purchases of such articles as the Democrat's 1940 campaign book or of advertising in such books.

All red tape that might interfere at this end of the line in the program to bring war refugee children to this country for the duration of the war was cut when the U. S. State Department got around immigration restrictions by ordering visitor's visas to children. This simplified the whole procedure. The only problem now is the question of securing ships for the transport of the children. American ships are not permitted to sail in English waters because of the possibility of their being sunk by German submarines and the likelihood that such sinkings might lead to our being drawn into the war. Because of the fear the children are going to have to take their chances with the German bombs, another evidence of adult futility.

Approximately 150,000 deaths occur each year in the United States from cancer, 80,000 of these are women.

The new relief act ordered all aliens, Communists, Nazis and advocates of the overthrow of the government striken from the relief rolls. It was estimated that the order would affect 30,000 persons. When the check up was made it disclosed only four work relievers who admitted to being Communists. Officials concluded that a good many had quit their jobs, rather than reveal their association with these groups and that many others had lied.

In his recent address against the threat of Hitler, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, after envisioning the prospect of invasion of England by German forces said: "We shall seek no terms, we shall show mercy; we shall ask none. London will be defended street by street and the war fought through 1942 if necessary."

The Motor Production Corporation of Detroit has designed a frosted food locker for the home. The locker is capable of holding 240 pounds of meat or 120 pounds of fruit and vegetables at a sub zero temperature at an electricity cost of about one dollar a month. Meat, fruit and vegetables can be kept fresh indefinitely in the locker. It is claimed that the cost of operation is more than made up through price advantage gained in quantity purchases and less spoilage.

Worry A New Headache? It Has Plagued Mankind Since Time's Dim Dawn!

No product of the machine age is this word "worry," nor are men of the 20th Century unique with qualm-knit brows amid a world boiling with conflict and confused thinking. Since the dawn of time worry has tormented and plagued mankind, declares James Truslow Adams, noted historian, in a current Rotarian Magazine article, suggesting that we needn't worry about worry, because somehow man has made progress despite it.

There is no yardstick to measure worry, Historian Adams admits, but discovers from "what I have read in history, biography, memoirs, and letters" that man today worries more than his ancestors and the ancients. Why? We are softer, he says, suggesting that we no longer accept suffering as the order of Nature, and that persons on relief today demand things unattainable to the rich a few generations ago.

Other factors conducive to worry are an upset of balanced nervous systems through nonuse of centers controlling physical emotion and overuse of intellectual nerve centers, fearfulness "because we are less self-reliant," unbalance in newspapers and radios playing up the "horror angle," and "the change of emphasis on values and the lack of self-expression," Adams tells Rotarian readers.

More than 100,000 persons are employed in the construction of airplanes in this country. The industries present capacity is about 10,000 planes a year. At this rate production it will require five years to provide the United States with 50,000 planes. Before the end of five years many of the planes would be either obsolete or worn out and would have to be replaced. Thus unless plants are considerably enlarged it will take several years to build up a fleet of 50,000 planes. To produce 50,000 planes a year it is estimated there will be required a factory personnel of 700,000, seven times the present number employed.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:
Section 1. That Article 8, Section 9, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding thereto another Section to be known as Section 9-A, which shall read as follows:
"Section 9-A. Upon the vote of a majority of the resident qualified electors owning taxable property therein so authorizing, the Commissioners Court of Red River County, Texas, may levy an annual tax not to exceed Twenty-five (25) Cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for a period not to exceed fifteen (15) years for the purpose of refunding all the outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County and issue bonds under the provisions of the General Law regulating the issuance of bonds to refund said indebtedness.
"At such election, the Commissioners Court shall submit for adoption the proposition of whether such outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County shall be refunded in bonds, the amount of special tax to be levied, and the number of years said tax is to be levied. The funds raised by such taxes shall not be used for purposes other than those specified in the plan submitted to the voters.
"The provisions of this Section 9-A shall apply only to Red River County; and the provisions hereof shall be self-enacting without the necessity of an enabling act of the Legislature of the State of Texas, but shall become effective immediately after the official canvass of the result has been made and it is determined that this Amendment has been adopted by a majority of the voters of the "Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 11.

The Golden Text is: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness." (Psalms 143:10).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work" (John 5:17).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The calm, strong currents of true spirituality, the manifestations of which are health, purity, and self-immolation, must deepen human experience, until the beliefs of material existence are seen to be a bald imposition, and sin, disease, and death give everlasting place to the scientific demonstration of divine Spirit and to God's spiritual, perfect man" (page 99).

They were members of another band of refugee British children seeking a haven in the United States. Their father is an officer in the King Hussars, now fighting for England against the Axis powers. The young refugees are being cared for by relatives in America.

Catching Fish
Text—Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught.—Luke 5:4.
Jesus was by the Sea of Galilee, and the people pressed upon Him. Two boats were standing by the lake. Jesus entered into one, which was Simon Peter's, and asked him to thrust out a little from the shore, and He sat down and taught the people. It was when He had stopped speaking that He said to Simon, "Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets." Simon replied that he and his partners had toiled all night, and had taken nothing; but nevertheless, said he, "at thy word I will let down the net." When they had done this, they enclosed a great multitude of fishes, so that their nets broke. They beckoned to those who were in the other boat to come and help them, and soon both boats were filled. The effect on Peter was an overwhelming conviction of his sinfulness, and he cried, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord." But Jesus comforted him by saying: "Fear not; for henceforth thou shalt catch men." "And when they had brought their boats to land they forsook all, and followed him."

1. We learn from this charming incident that Jesus is a good paymaster. He borrowed an empty fishing smack and repaid the owner by filling it with fish! On another occasion, addressing His disciples, He said, "There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or land, for my sake, and the hundredfold now in this time; and in the world to come eternal life." In the present instance He seems to have been showing His disciples, and us as well, just what He meant by these words, and giving a demonstration of their truthfulness.

2. We learn also that Jesus is a wise counselor. He told these fishermen where to let down their nets for the most beneficial results. We all need advice every day in our business affairs, our domestic affairs, and countless other problems. Some go to clairvoyants, some to palmists and spiritualists for such advice, but others who know Him go to the Lord their God. He has said, "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord."
3. We learn too, that Jesus is a great benefactor. They who were simply fishers of fish now became fishers of men. What would Peter have amounted to had he remained in Capernaum? But what did he now become? Not only is his one of the three greatest names in the history of the Christian Church, but the same Lord and Master said to him and his fellow apostles, "Ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel." Two Minute Sermon (By Thomas Hastwell)

I Buy Riches With A Penny: Yesterday on my way home I witnessed a most interesting incident. Three poorly clothed children stood two, four and five, were standing looking hungrily into a store window in which were displayed an assortment of attractive all-day suckers. The two older girls had a brief consultation and then one of them went into the store, purchased a sucker and gave it to the baby sister who grasped it eagerly and began to eat it while the two older sisters looked on hungrily watching every move. From my position at the curb I saw the whole scene through my car window. I called the two little girls to the curb and gave each of them a penny and told them each to get a sucker for themselves. They lost no time doing it. They returned to the sidewalk radiant, each clasping tightly in a chubby, dirty hand, a huge sucker. I have never seen a happier group. There was revealed in the incident themes for several sermons. One was the part of selfishness on the part of the two little sisters. It was truly an inspiring thing when one senses the full measure of their cheerful and unhesitating childish sacrifice. The second was the amount of happiness that a little act may bring when done at the opportune time. The penny meant little to me. It might have bought a postal card, but, spent as it was, it brought happiness to two ragged, eager, play-soiled children and reward for their unselfishness, and I, who had the least invested, received the largest reward of all.

All Records Broken in Sale Texas Wheat Flour to Puerto Rico

San Juan, P. R.—Puerto Rico's purchases of wheat flour from Texas and neighboring states broke all records during the fiscal year just ended, totalling 479,000 barrels or 34 per cent more than in the year before, according to the Puerto Rican Trade Council. The previous high mark was set in 1920.

The territory produces no wheat whatsoever, because of climatic conditions, and purchased its entire wheat flour requirements from Texas and other southwestern states, the Council said. Due to its heavy buying of dairy products, wheat flour, pork and lard, Puerto Rico remained the leading Latin American market for surplus farm products from the United States mainland, buying more than any country in South or Central America, according to the Council.

The territory's total purchases from U. S. business concerns also set a new high record during the year, being valued at $100,500,000, or 33 per cent higher than in the preceding year, the Council reported. The greater buying power was attributed mainly to heavy Federal expenditures for relief and national defense and to temporarily increased employment in the sugar industry, resulting from the four-month suspension of sugar quotas last fall.

52 Texas Boys Go to NYA Project in Louisiana

Austin, Aug. 1.—Fifty-two young men have been sent from Texas to enter the National Youth Administration Regional Work Experience Center at the Algiers Naval Station near New Orleans, Louisiana, according to J. C. Kellam, State NYA Administrator for Texas. Of the fifty-two youths eleven were from the Dallas District, six from the Fort Worth District, twenty-two from the Houston District, five from the San Antonio District, and eight from the Waco District.

Permission was granted by the NYA on October 27, 1938, by the Navy Department to use the United States Naval Station at Algiers for an indefinite period under a formal permit prepared by the Judge Advocate General of the Navy.

Kellam said the NYA has at its disposal at Algiers thirty-five buildings which are used for dormitories, shops, recreation centers, and administrative offices. Of these buildings, six are devoted entirely to shop work.

Shop work offered boys at the Algiers Regional Work Experience Center includes the fundamentals of metal trades, wood-working trades, electrical trades, and maintenance work. Related information is given along with the work experience and directly concerns the actual work being done by the boys.

The purpose of the Algiers Center is to permit men to find the work in which they are interested and for which they have the essential aptitudes. The State Youth Administrator pointed out: "A rotation system among the trades is used to find the occupation for which each boy is best fitted. Good work habits and job discipline are stressed."

Shocking plants to juggle their chromosome arrangement is the very latest "stunt" in plant magic, one that opens a brand new vista, not only for the plant breeder, but for gardeners as well. It not only enables the plant breeder to cross distinctly related specimens, but it also increases the percentage of mutations, or spurs, a thousand fold. Every good grower in your garden has been bred from a sport that occurred somewhere. . . In my father's time a "break," as the plant breeder usually calls a sport, was supposed to occur once in every 900,000 plants. But now, by artificial stimulants, we can turn them out once in every 900 plants. —David Burpee, famed seed grower and plant breeder, writing in the current issue of the Hortarian Magazine.

RIVERSIDE H. D. CLUB

The napkin should be placed to the left of the plate with the hemmed edges towards the plate and table edge. When ironing the napkin it should be correctly folded so when the user takes it by the corners it will unfold into the lap with the least effort. Unless the napkin is the size it should always be left folded once when placed in the lap.

The napkin etiquette was a part of the lesson on "Table service for the family," given by the county home demonstration agent, Miss Joellene Vannoy, in the home of Mrs. J. S. Ray Tuesday afternoon.

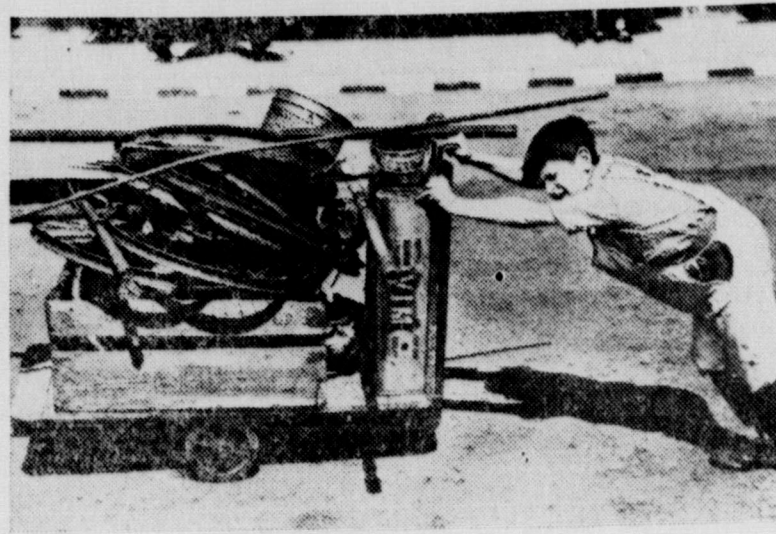

The following points were acclaimed important factors in making meal time a pleasant time: Make the family table as attractive as possible with the dining room clean, neat and properly ventilated; let every member of the family have a responsibility toward the meal and always strive to indulge in pleasant conversation at the table.

At the close of the meeting the members of the Riverside Club revealed their unknown friends much to the enjoyment of all present.

Five visitors were welcomed. They were: Mrs. Grady Halbert of Foard City, Mrs. S. A. Billingsley, Mrs. J. H. Bursey, Mrs. M. B. Karcher and Mrs. J. B. Renels, all of Riverside.

The club will meet at 2:30 p. m., Aug. 15, with Mrs. Otto Schroeder and daughters as hostesses. Miss Vannoy will give a demonstration on the making of cookies.

Young Briton Inaugurates Big Push

This young citizen of Southgate, England, is doing his bit for king and country, following a call by the mayor of his city for citizens to turn in their old scrap metal and help make the sinews of war for the defense of Britain. The youngsters went from door to door with his homemade cart collecting odds and ends. The campaign in Southgate was duplicated in other English towns with citizens turning in scrap metal.

Business Men to Play Softball Tilt Next Wednesday Night

Two teams of business men of Foard County will square off again under the lights at the softball field on next Wednesday night as an encore to the first game played by the business men last week.

The first game drew more attention than any game played in Crowell this season, and the game next Wednesday night is expected to draw an even greater crowd of fans. The team this week will be managed by County Attorney Foster Davis and County Agent John Nagy, both of whom turned in good exhibitions last week.

A small admission will be charged to cover expenses.

Probable starting lineups will be found on page 2.

In the softball game that has drawn the most interest and attention here this season, the business men of Crowell, under the management of Marion Crowell and Jack Turner, battled to a 26-20 finish last Friday night with Crowell's club coming out the victors.

Led by County Attorney Foster Davis, Crowell's team staged a rally in the sixth frame that netted 13 runs and passed Turner's ten. County Attorney Davis, surprisingly fast for his two hundred and some-odd pounds, was the outstanding star of the game with his hitting and fielding. Davis was at bat six times and turned in a perfect night at the plate with five hits, one for a home run, a walk and five hits.

Turner's crew jumped into the lead in the first inning and just before the Crowell team rally, were leading 19 to 12. It was in the sixth frame when Davis, who received an ovation from the crowd, stepped to the plate and blasted out his four-bagger.

He stated that Texas milling concerns are co-operating with farmers in their effort to keep the present high quality of wheat in the state, and that plans are being formulated so farmers who produce poor varieties may exchange seed for preferred varieties.

Others who attended the meeting were, County Agent W. W. Rice and four farmers of Knox County, County Agent Grady Lane of Cottle County, and County Agent R. O. Dunkle and one farmer from King County.

C. V. Ketchersid of Crowell has accepted the agency for the Feather Fluff Quilt, made by the Sanitary Feather Works of Fort Worth, according to an announcement made Wednesday, and the office will be at the Ketchersid Mattress and Furniture Co.

Mr. Ketchersid stated that if a customer furnishes his own feathers for a Feather Fluff Quilt, which allows warm, restful sleep on cold nights, they will be taken, no matter what their age or condition, and put through a special process to cleanse them of all dust and impurities, thus saving the customer approximately one-half the cost of the quilt.

TO SPEAK OVER WBAP

Pierce Brooks of Dallas, candidate for Railroad Commissioner, will speak over radio station WBAP tonight at 8:15, according to information furnished The News. Mr. Brooks held the ticket in the first primary.

Numerous experiments have shown that about the only value of cor neutrication is to control weeds and keep the soil open enough to absorb moisture. Deep plowing prunes the corn roots and decreases the yield, especially in dry seasons. Frequent, shallow cultivation to kill weeds is recommended.

Approximately 43 per cent of all the beef cattle, 71 per cent of the sheep, and 94 per cent of the angora goats in the United States are on range land, and the remainder on farms.

In 1939, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the 32 million people living on farms were able to supply the needs of from 50 to 70 per cent more city people than the same number could supply 30 years ago. Technological advance, plus improvements in breeds of livestock, farming practices, and crop varieties, have contributed to this increase in efficiency, and, by the same token, to farm unemployment.

Ohio's 17 uncompleted projects have a total estimated cost of $28,765,196 and include bridge and highway improvement, school and college buildings, electric plants and waterworks.

Illinois has 16 uncompleted projects, having a total estimated cost of $85,062,250, the major projects being in Chicago's $46,000,000 subway and $12,000,000 filtration plant. University buildings are the other important projects.

The Hammond and Gary sewage disposal plants are the principal unfinished projects in Indiana.

Nearly all these projects are scheduled for completion by January 1 next and will be finished by that time, the Chicago subway, most extensive of all remaining projects now being 77 per cent complete.

Extension vice, were visitors at the Wednesday meeting of the Crowell Rotary Club. Mr. Miller talked improving the quality of wheat for milling purposes. Hear Yourself as Others Hear You "Hear yourself as others hear you" is no idle phrase at Texas State College for Women, where Dr. C. Horton Talley, associate professor of speech, uses a recording machine as a teaching device in the speech laboratories. Students seldom recognize their own recorded voices. A person hears his own voice after the vibrations have been carried directly through the structures of the head and neck to the inner ear and the voices of others after the sound arrives by an air path through the outer ear. The voice is given an entirely different quality by each mode of conduction. After the student recognizes the voices of others as transcribed on the machine and is thus convinced of the faithfulness of the recording, she can begin to eliminate those characteristics and habits which she finds objectionable in her own speech.
