Texas to Be Organized for Best Participation in National Defense Contracts; WTCC to Assist

Organization of the West Texas territory for fullest possible participation in national defense contracts is actively under way, said an announcement this week from the headquarters office of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

The regional chamber has been designated by Chas. R. Moore, coordinator, and A. J. Langford, district manager, of the Dallas Federal Reserve office of Defense Contract Service as assisting organization agency for West Texas. Today D. A. Bandeen, WTCC manager, announced six area meetings for manufacturers and fabricators, to start next week. The schedule:

Wednesday, July 9, at San Angelo.
Thursday the 10th, at Brownwood.
Friday the 11th, at Waco.

The second week's schedule calls for meetings at Abilene on Wednesday, July 16; Lubbock, Thursday the 17th; and Amarillo, Friday the 18th. Not yet scheduled is a meeting for the DCS area centering on Fort Worth.

Langford to Each Meeting
The meetings as announced will start at 10 a. m. Langford, as district manager for Defense Contract Service, will attend and be the principal speaker at each meeting, giving information on how prospective bidders on defense contracts may qualify themselves.

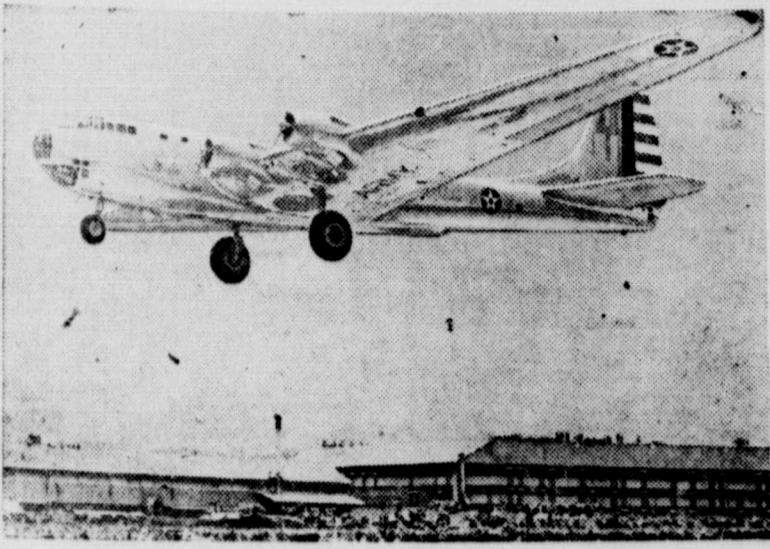

Round table discussion will follow. With the federal government establishing priorities on raw materials for defense purposes, and extensively contracting for defense supplies, the area meetings will bring discussion of proposed formation of pools of manufacturers and fabricators for bidding on prime and sub-contracts. The pioneer for Texas is already in process of organization, heading up in Wichita Falls, following a meeting there Tuesday this week, but not confined, as to membership, to that area. Langford has expressed the hope that other pools will be formed speedily, possibly one for each area in the jurisdiction of the Dallas reserve bank district office.

To date, eight Defense Contract Service areas have been organized in West Texas by Langford and Moore with assistance of the West Texas chamber of commerce. In each an adviser, who is a business man, living in the headquarters city, and a co-adviser, who is an active chamber of commerce manager or staff member in the headquarters city have been appointed.

standing. Munson Welch. Before announcing the committees, President Powers made a talk in which he expressed his ambitions and hopes for the progress of the Rotary Club for the coming year and called on the following committee chairmen for short talks: John Rasor, public service; Jack Seale, vocational service; Irving Fisch, community service; Merl Kincaid, international service.

Only one member was absent, Rev. Hugh Longino, who is holding a revival meeting at Tell.

The mighty plane lifted from the concrete runway amid a rousing cheer from Douglas workers and army officials. Army air corps ace test pilot, Stanley Umstead, was at the controls.

Boy Scouts Called to Make Canvass for Aluminum

The District Scout chairmen have been notified by Dr. James E. West, calling upon the Boy Scouts of America to conduct a house to house canvass for aluminum to help make airplanes for defense. The slogan is "Let's Keep 'Em Flying."

July 24 and 25 has been set as the dates for the actual collection of the aluminum from households. Prior to that time, about three to four days ahead of this date, a canvass will be made to obtain a pledge of donation of scrap aluminum and then the Scouts will actually collect the aluminum on July 24 and 25.

The function of the Boy Scouts will be to collect the metal. The office of production management will assume complete responsibility for the processing, storage and transportation of the material.

J. E. Long, commissioner of District 12, desires to contact all Scout Masters in the county on July 21 at the Board of Review meeting in his office, at which time necessary arrangements for the drive will be made. Everybody is urged to assist in this campaign.

The things that should be collected are: pots and pans, washing machine parts, parts of old vacuum cleaners that do not work any more, toys, salt and pepper shakers, old aluminum in picture frames, bookends, ice trays, measuring cups, soap dishes, camera equipment, kettles and double boiler, bottles and jar caps, refrigerator plates, electric appliance parts, and all things like that.

Thalia Baptists to Begin Revival on Sunday, July 13

A revival meeting is scheduled to begin in the Thalia Baptist Church next Sunday, according to an announcement made this week by the pastor, Rev. T. J. DuBose, and officials of the church.

Rev. A. C. Huff, pastor of the Highland Heights Baptist Church in Wichita Falls, has been engaged to do the preaching for the meeting. Charles Belles will act as music director and Mrs. Gus Neill, pianist.

The announcement stated that "Rev. Huff comes to the congregation highly recommended and already quite popular with the men of Brotherhood. There is nothing sensational in his messages. He does not try to appeal to the emotions, and has nothing 'showy' about his preaching. In a plain, understandable manner, he preaches Christ and Him crucified."

Rep. Grady Roberts Was A Visitor in Crowell Tuesday

Representative Grady Roberts of Munday was in Crowell Tuesday, meeting his friends and constituents of this section of his district. He and Mrs. Roberts returned to their home in Munday last Saturday night from Austin, where he represented District 114 in the Forty-Seventh Legislature which adjourned sine die last Thursday.

Mr. Roberts, who served as chairman of the conservation and reclamation committee and a member of the agriculture, appropriations, game and fisheries, and public printing committees, again held the distinction of being the only member of the House of Representatives to be present for every roll call and every record vote during the entire session.

As a member of the appropriations committee and the free conference committee, Roberts helped in providing new wards to take all insane persons out of local jails. It was his pleasure to help write the final version of this bill, which made it possible to solve this old-age problem. On this and on the other committees he did much work in committee rooms while the legislature had adjourned for week-ends. He pointed out that this was the time when committees did their work and it enabled him to be present while the house was in session.

The Forty-Seventh Legislature was the longest in the state's history, lasting for 171 days. The Forty-Sixth was in session 163 days which was the longest session at that time. Roberts said in speaking of the session that the House of Representatives did a good work this year, but its members should have come home six weeks ago, as their work had been completed at that time.

Roberts voted for adjournment every time the question came up in the house. He stated he always voted for sine die adjournment, and not for recess, as he believed their work accomplished and he wanted to come home.

Mrs. India Bell, wife of the late R. R. Bell, died at her home in Farmington, N. M., on June 25, according to an item appearing in the Farmington Times Rustler July 4. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Baptist Church at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Bell was born India Hood, July 7, 1859, at Cobbs, N. C., the third of ten children, six boys and four girls. She was converted at the age of 14 years and joined the Baptist Church of Notley, N. C., and was a member of that church for many years. One of her brothers was a Baptist minister of a large church in Orangeburg, S. C.

India Hood was married in 1884 to Howard Carson, at Cobbs, N. C. To this union were born three children, Robert Howard, Samuel Homer and Mamie. Mr. Carson passed away in 1892, eight years following the marriage.

In 1896 Mrs. Carson married E. R. Bell, a pioneer resident of Foard County, and with her three children moved to this county where they lived until 1907. Mr. Bell died in 1905. Two years after Mr. Bell's death Mrs. Bell and children moved to Telluride, Colo., and the following year moved to Durango. In 1925 the family moved to Farmington, N. M., where Mrs. Bell made her home up to the time of her death.

She is survived by her three children, four grandchildren and two sisters who reside in North Carolina.

Claude Barry, Vernon salesman, and Mrs. Mike Williams, also of Vernon were seriously injured last Thursday night in a wreck involving three automobiles on U. S. Highway 76, two miles west of Thalia. They were brought to the Foard County Hospital in Crowell for treatment.

Two Crowell men, Dwight Campbell and Dan Callaway, who were en route to Vernon, were not seriously injured and were released from the hospital after treatment for minor cuts and bruises. The two cars were going in opposite directions when both swerved to avoid a third automobile parked on the highway, resulting in a head-on collision. Both cars were demolished.

Officers failed to locate the parked car, which disappeared shortly after the accident occurred.

Mrs. Williams' condition was critical, but has gradually improved during the week. Dr. Charles Clayton of Fort Worth, orthopedist, was here Wednesday afternoon and with the assistance of Dr. Hines Clark and Dr. Robert G. Moses reset Mrs. Williams' broken limb. She is reported to have stood the operation well and her condition is satisfactory.

Revival Meeting in Progress at First Christian Church

The revival meeting at the Christian Church, being conducted by Rev. Paul J. Merrill and Mrs. Merrill of Henrietta, Texas, assisted by the local pastor, Orval Holt, is getting under way very satisfactorily, according to reports. The meeting started last Sunday and interest seems to be increasing with each service.

Rev. Merrill is a former pastor of the Crowell church, having left here in 1918 to serve in the World War No. 1. He now holds a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps, and if called into the service, will be assigned to duty as a chaplain. This is the tenth revival Rev. Merrill has conducted for the Crowell church.

Special services have been planned and will be given as follows:

Friday, July 11, will be Out-of-Town Night, and delegations from Quannah and other nearby cities are expected to attend.

Monday, July 14, will be Men's Night, and the subject will be "Tackling a Man's Job." A special invitation is extended to men to attend this service.

The following night, Tuesday, July 15, will be Youth's Night. The young people will be special guests at this service and the subject will be "Forward March." Then on Friday night, the 17th, there will be a special Child-Parent service, at which time children are to invite their parents to attend. The subject for this service will be "Home."

Services for children and young people are being conducted at 9:30 a. m. each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and the evening services each night, Saturday included, begin at 8:15. The building is air-cooled and comfortable and everybody is cordially invited to attend these services.

One hundred and twelve dollars have been raised toward Foard County's quota of $150 for United Service Organizations for National Defense, Inc., in a campaign in the United States to raise over ten million dollars for the operation of service clubs for soldiers and sailors, it was announced Wednesday by A. Y. Beverly, county chairman.

Those who have not given anything to this worthy cause are urged to see Mr. Beverly or L. E. Archer, treasurer, at once and make a gift. Any amount will be appreciated and those in charge of the campaign here are anxious to raise the quota for this county as soon as possible.

'PREHISTORIC MONSTER'

Austin, June 23.—Catching of a twenty-five pound paddle fish, commonly, but erroneously called a shovelhead catfish, by H. F. Sims, an interior decorator of Electra, Texas, in Diversion Lake near Wichita Falls, not only created much comment in that part of the state, but caused considerable interest in this strange-looking fish.

The paddle, or snout, of the paddlefish is shaped exactly like a duck's bill. The snout on the fish caught by Mr. Sims was fourteen inches long. The mouth was about six inches in diameter and the hooded gills made the head appear almost a foot wide.

Paddlefish formerly were common, but due to the fact that their eggs are used as domestic caviar and that their flesh brings the highest premium on the eastern markets the species is becoming more rare each year, the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission points out.

Paddlefish, along with gar, sturgeon and grunde, have survived all stages of evolution. Each is still shaped exactly as it was during prehistoric days when mastodons and saber-toothed tigers roamed the world.

The unusual appearing fish have been recorded as weighing as much as 162 pounds. One that size was caught in Indiana. It was six feet, two inches long and had a circumference of 4 feet.

Get the GOLDEN TAN favored by fashion

Golden tans that everyone admires are the result of careful exposure to the sun's rays—avoidance of burns. Limit exposure the first few times you tan and use one of the Rexall Gypsy Tan products—oil, lotion or cream. For those tanning lotions shut out much of the burning rays of the sun, but allow tanning. They are delightful to use, too. Pleasant odor.

SAFETY SLOGANS

An accident maker is a chance taker. Electric irons may be sad irons if you don't watch out.

When men strike they "go out," but matches don't. To keep well and healthy, breathe plenty of fresh air. Bonfires are catching.

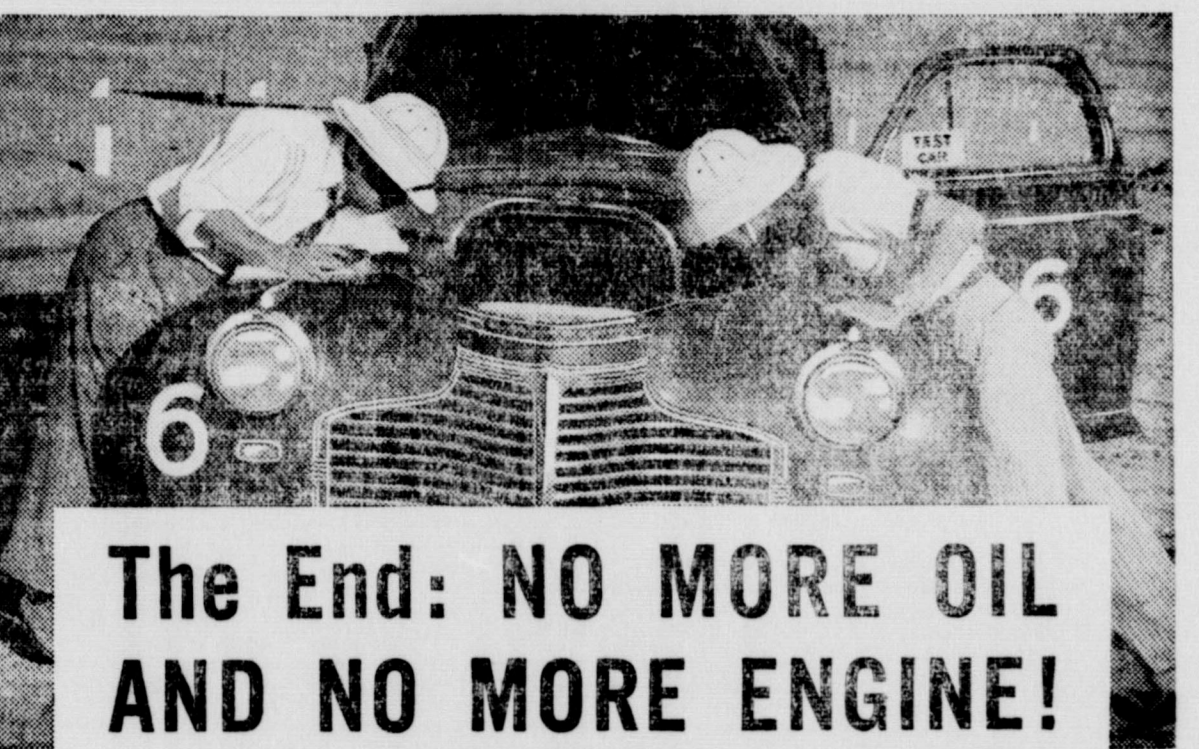

The driver dies but once although the engine may die several times. Prevent fires by watching yours. In every fire there is a "I might have prevented it."

People who knock—like motors—need adjusting. To remember means not to forget to be careful. Make motoring a pleasure—not a peril.

The End: NO MORE OIL AND NO MORE ENGINE!

Ruthless Death-Test proves this New oil good for more than Twice the mileage averaged by 5 other big brands

In fiery Death Valley the dry heat hits extremes. And there's where 6 identical everyday cars, using 6 different big-name oils, were burned out on purpose to give you fair and square mileage comparisons on great new

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL Now making Sales Records right Here

Death-Test cars—new—same make, same model—were taken apart for the Referee, to check uniformity; then were broken-in alike. Each got one 5-quart fill of some one big brand—bought retail by Referee. He kept engines under lock—no oil could be added. Cars held the same 57-mile speed, over the same desert, getting the same handling (by alternating the drivers). And there wasn't any end till there wasn't any lubrication... till engine after engine became a hunk of junk.

Conoco Nth oil kept on 5,683 miles longer!—any other oil in the Death-Test... Certified. And all five competing Death-Tested oils didn't average half the mileage of Conoco Nth oil. Certified.

Man-Made new Life-Giver does it

Now think a moment of Vaccination—putting protective substance on guard to keep a trouble from starting. And the trouble aiming to start on motor oils lurks in every engine's normal firing. Filth forms that can spoil one drop; then two drops "catch it"—then four—then SIXTEEN... faster, faster, FASTER. As the whole fill weakens, the oil-level sinks too fast... but not when the start of this oil-fouling trouble is inhibited—held back—by life-giving Thialkene

Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts: And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting.—Psalm 139:23-24.

If man could but realize that all of the injunctions and admonitions contained in the Bible are laid down for his well being and happiness and are based upon the very essence of human experience for thousands of years, what a different world it would make. Man everywhere would cease bringing to himself the grief and the we that always comes to him who persists in trying to find some other way of life. The Bible contains the only way of life. If another way were possible it would be recorded there.

We catch ourselves wondering what would happen if the business men and women of the country should decide to go on a strike and refuse to permit any one to conduct the business. Ninety per cent and more of the business men of the country work from ten to eighteen hours a day and draw less return from their business, time and worry and investment all taken into consideration, than the average employee in the business receives.

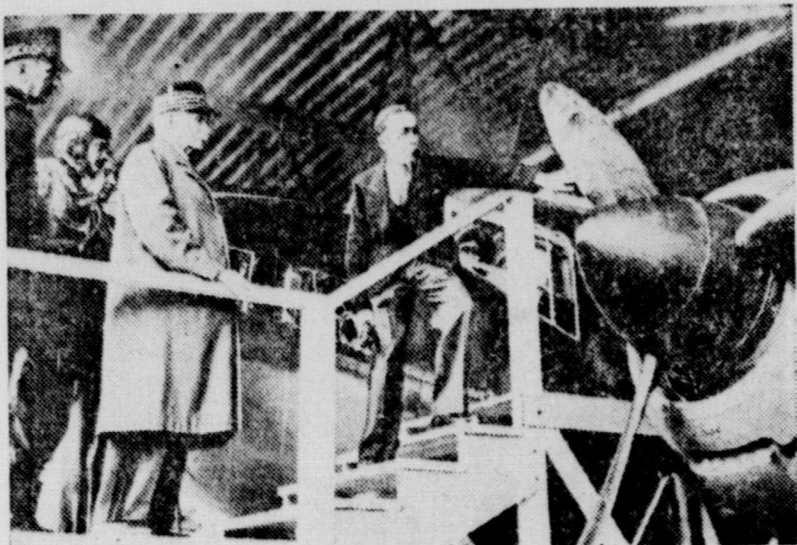

Farm population in the United States has increased but one-tenth of one per cent in the past ten years according to an estimate made from the recent federal census. The recent census showed 30,475,266 persons lived on the farms of the United States or 29,856 more than the farm population ten years ago.

What a help it would have been to industry and the country seven or eight years ago if the defense program would have been launched then as it is now—and what a howl would have gone up from one end of the country to the other that the administration was heading hell bent for war.

One of the easiest ways to court death is to walk on the wrong side of the highway at night clothed in dark clothing. Under such circumstances a car driver doesn't have a chance to miss the walker—especially if a car with bright lights is approaching from the other direction.

French Premier Visits Air Base

With Nazi permission, a French air force is being rebuilt "for defense of the French empire," and here Marshal Henri Petain inspects the Aulin air base near Clermont-Ferrand. On his visit here he looked over 15 planes recommissioned by Nazi authority, including a Dewoitine 520, fastest French pursuit plane now in service.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

One of the dangers that faces this country in the present crisis is the belief held by some that even though Hitler succeeds in defeating England and the rest of Europe and become the dictator of all the world except the United States that we can continue to do business in the world as usual, and even with Hitler himself.

Those who hold to this belief point out that we have always met competition in the past and will be able to do so in the future.

For this reason those who profess to hold to this belief point out that we do not need to be concerned whether or not Hitler defeats England since trade relations will not be interfered with, and our present liberties will be in no wise affected.

Several points, I think, are overlooked by those who hold this point of view.

In the past our trade relations and our commerce have been, it is true, on a more or less competitive basis, but at the same time it should be held in mind that normal and logical business rules have applied to those transactions, exercising restraints upon competition that have applied equally to all parties, requiring

The brief life of the British battleship Hood, after it got into action is dramatic evidence that nothing but the latest models in war equipment stand much chance of survival in modern warfare. The Hood was Britain's largest ship but one of the older models.

Here is a trick question that will fool most folks. Two pieces of United States money totaled 55 cents. One of the pieces is not a nickel. The catch is that one of the pieces is not a nickel, but the other one is a nickel.

The United States is in a measure responsible for the present war in Europe. If it had collected its World War debt from Germany she wouldn't have had the money to build her air force and equip her army.

The only man who can fool all the women all the time is the man who designs the types of women's hats. What a man. However ridiculous they are, he makes them wear 'em and like 'em.

that the well defined rules of business be more or less closely followed.

Another point, I think, those who hold to this thought overlook, is that Hitler has dedicated himself to conquer and rule the world. Once Hitler conquers England he will not deny himself the effort to make the victory complete, by bringing to time this country. This, it appears to me, is a wholly logical conclusion borne out by every rule of human psychology and human conduct. Having gone thus far in a program for which he has, as we say, "put himself on the spot," why should he fail to attempt to complete it when completion is almost within reach?

Another point that is being overlooked is that no reliance can be placed upon any treaty, or promise, or agreement that Hitler might make. There is ample evidence of this, the most recent of which is the invasion of Russia with whom slightly over a year ago he had completed a ten-year non-aggression pact. Up to the very moment of the attack upon Russia, Hitler had been availing himself of the privileges of the pact. He had been receiving food and oil from Russia and immense quantities of supplies from Japan, who acted as a broker, shipping them to Germany over the trans-Seiberian railway. When Hitler felt it would serve his purpose he forthwith repudiated the pact and invaded Russia.

This act is typical of Hitler. It reveals the ruthless directness that he invariably applies when his own needs or ambitions suggest.

I do not think America wants to face alone this man and his machine. I am in no sense a defeatist. I haven't any doubt that we would manage somehow to survive, but I think the cost in the years to come would be many times greater than the cost of all out aid to Britain, however great that may be. The burden will be great. There will be heavy and heavier taxes from which there will be no escape for years to come, but it will be better, it appears to me, to work out such a debt in a free world, with our liberties intact and unchallenged, than it would be to attempt to live in a world where they were constantly circumscribed and constantly jeopardized by a man who has no sense of honor or truth or honesty—only ruthless greed, and a mad and insatiable ambition to one day rule the world.

I would rather this country take this chance with England than take it alone.

IN THE NEWS...

42 YEARS AGO

The items below were taken from the issue of the Foard County News of Oct. 7, 1898, when A. F. Barkley was editor and proprietor. This issue of the paper was preserved by the late Joe W. Beverly.

John Terrell of Vivian was in town Wednesday with cotton.

Jas. Self of Thalia was in the city Wednesday with cotton.

Bud Thompson was in town with a bale of cotton Tuesday.

H. M. McCrory was in the city Monday.

Judge Roberts was sick last week, but able to be in town Tuesday evening.

P. S. Witherspoon, who has been away some time, returned Tuesday evening.

A norther came in due time Wednesday morning about 3 o'clock.

B. F. Allison, brother of Jno. and Jas. Allison, was in Crowell last week. He left for his home Monday.

John Bell, who is attending school in Quanah, came home Saturday and returned Sunday evening.

Dr. Grace, Mark Hill and Chas. Thompson left Monday morning for Waco where they will attend the Baptist State convention.

Jas. Gilliam has accepted a position in Quanah with A. F. Fuqua and went over Wednesday to take his place. His brother will take his place with R. B. Edwards & Company.

John W. Klepper, the efficient constable of Precinct 1, made a trip to Thalia on official business this week.

Two weeks ago we announced that Prof. H. A. Meyers had been employed as principal of the public school of Crowell and we announce now the completion of the faculty.

For the second place, Prof. F. M. Moyer has been chosen, and Prof. S. P. McLaughlin will "teach the young idea how to shoot." We believe the right men are in the right place, and we anticipate a prosperous school.

The Moyer brothers are well trained and experienced teachers—not only trained, but trained together. Their labors will certainly be more successful on that account. Prof. F. M. Meyers' recommendations are of the first class. From his appearance and conversation, we judge him to be a teacher of high type. Prof. McLaughlin needs no recommendations. He has been employed in the school here for several years, and is known by all as an excellent teacher.

The school has now been in progress two weeks, and under existing circumstances the work has been first class.

The work on the new school building is in progress and we believe Contractor Barmore will exert every effort to have the house ready for use by the specified time. (School was being held in the court house following the destruction by fire of the "old college."—Ed.)

Red Cross First Aid For Newspaper Plant

Winston-Salem, N. C.—As a step in aiding National Defense, Gordon Gray, president and publisher of the Journal and Twin-City Sentinel here, has made available Red Cross first aid training to his employees.

Following the announcement in the plant, 50 employees, representing all departments of the two newspapers enrolled for the course. Instructors were provided by the Winston-Salem Red Cross Chapter.

"All of us—management and employees—are glad of the opportunity to take part in this first Aid training program of the Red Cross," Mr. Gray said. "I recommend it to every employer as an effective method of increasing efficiency through reduction of accidents and the boosting of morale. I advocate it as a vitally important contribution to this country's program of National Defense. And looking at the future in terms of possibilities—no matter how remote they seem to some—will anyone contend with me that it is better to be sorry than to be prepared?"

Invention Speeds Production Work

Bridgeport, Conn.—Thanks to an ingenious device adapted by Theodore E. Steiber, husband of a Bridgeport, Conn., Red Cross executive committee member, lifting heavy bolts of material for war relief garments is child's play now to the women of the local Red Cross Chapter.

With the help of a simple hand chain hoist on a moveable frame a woman single-handed can move a bolt of wool, so thick that 70 women's skirts can be cut from it, from the floor of the Red Cross cutting room to the top of the cutting table.

Water in which peeled potatoes have been boiled is excellent for reviving worn silk. Sponge silk with this water. It will freshen it up and make it look almost like new.

To clean greasy coat collars, sponge with alcohol in which salt has been dissolved.

Rich or Poor?

Text: "Thou sayest, I... have need of nothing."—Revelation 3:17.

The picture before us is of the falling earthly church of Laodicea. It is shown as boasting that it was succeeding, until it came to the climax of its elevated claim in these words—"need of nothing," and then the truth was set forth that it was "wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked." Surely if wretched it needed comforting; if miserable it needed vision; if poor it needed clothing. Yes, it is a picture of the captive of deception, imagining what was not true. The fact is, it was all need.

The lesson is imperative—man cannot stand on his own. He is a dependent. It is not only that he must under adverse circumstances acknowledge his dependence, but it is that all the time, his whole life through, he is a dependent. The most resourceful man of any generation grew from helpless and frail babyhood. Surely there was need then. And, tell me, when did the need cease? It is just this fact that starts men to become Christians. But so long as it is not apparent to a soul that the need is so great that he cannot get along without Christ, just so long will that soul fall for the delusion that he can succeed without Christ.

It is the sense of need that stands at the door of real prayer. Self-satisfied people dream that they can succeed on their own. So long as that false idea prevails in a church or a family or an individual, so long as the marvels of answered prayer from God cannot be known, "Ask and it shall be given you" must mean that there is need of something to be given.

Man may imagine to present to

From Ecuador

Juan de Dios Martinez, member president of Ecuador, shown here in New York with Mrs. Martinez, aboard the S. S. Esata

God a thousand plans and purposes that all that shall meet a response of approval really he is presenting an offer until he awakens to say:

"I need Thee, O I need every hour I need Thee." There is no substitute for this. What God asks us to bring need. When we acknowledge need, what riches there are us, for the Word says: "My shall supply every need of yours according to his riches in Christ Jesus."

Fights Polio

At the invitation of President Roosevelt to take treatment for polio, Higinio Morinigo Jr., son of the president of Paraguay, arrives at Miami airport with his mother and Maria Carmen Pena, four, en route to Warm Springs, Ga. Austin.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that infantile paralysis is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any time of the year, over half the total number of cases occur from July to October. Through June 30 thirty-one cases of poliomyelitis (Infantile Paralysis) have been reported to the State Health Department from city and county health officers over the state. Direct contact between persons form the chief factor in the spread of infantile paralysis. Because of the seasonal prevalence of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been scientifically demonstrated. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this paralytic disease. Carriers are difficult to determine and this fact makes it advisable to reduce to a minimum all human contacts during any outbreak of the disease. Early symptoms of infantile paralysis are headache, fever, vomiting, drowsiness and irritability followed by stiffness in the neck and back. Prompt medical care, early recognition of the disease, and reporting of cases to local health authorities make possible the use of preventive and control measures. After the acute state of the disease has passed and the patient is permitted to walk, it is most important that the affected part of the body not be fatigued. The secret of rehabilitation lies in the continuance of professional medical care and large doses of patience. Children under five years are most susceptible to the disease and all children under twelve should be watched for suspicious symptoms. Your family physician should be called immediately if infantile paralysis is indicated. Local health authorities should be contacted immediately and patients isolated for at least twenty-one days. Children should not visit homes where the disease or symptoms of the disease exist. Promptness in diagnosis of poliomyelitis is one of the most important factors in its control measures.

TOOL-USING ANIMAL

"Man is a tool-using animal... without tools he is nothing, with tools he is all." It was Carlyle who made this shrewd observation. How shrewd it was he probably did not know himself. Tools and eyes are inseparable. True, blind men and women can tune pianos, typewrite, weave, sew, grope their way through rooms. But a blind bird, a blind fish, a blind insect is helpless. The reason why the blind man can use tools is found in his brain. It is a brain which was evolved to make the most of eyes and is damaged or lost the other can still function. But nature cannot stop us from overstraining eyes—nor does she make any attempt to correct the deterioration that inevitably sets in with advancing years. The brains and hands that make man a tool-using animal come to the rescue. Eyeglasses, the product of optical science—give him back his vision. (This article contributed by Dr. W. F. Baber, of Vernon, optometrist, whose regular visit to Crowell will be on July 16.) Texas refined more petroleum last year than the three next largest refining States combined.

Did you ever think of advertising as a short cut, a time saver? As a matter of fact, that's all it is. It enables a store or factory with a lot of merchandise to sell to find a lot of people who want it. The people who use advertising find it the cheapest way of doing this job. Which helps to keep prices down.

Off for Joint Maneuvers With Marines

Troops of the first division are pictured as they boarded a U. S. Army transport vessel in New York, before sailing to take part in joint maneuvers with United States marines along the coast of North Carolina.

This Week In Defense

President Roosevelt told his press conference he still hopes the U. S. can stay out of the world conflict. His statement was made in answer to a reporter's question if changing international situations had caused the President to alter his belief, stated in 1939, that the U. S. could and would stay out of the war.

Navy Secretary Knox told his press conference reports that Navy vessels were engaged in convoy duty were "absolutely untrue," and said reports that the Navy had lost lives, material and equipment or had been involved in any encounter with belligerent craft, were "most decidedly" not true.

OPM Director Knudsen issued a statement urging greater defense efforts and said "nothing could be done from the truth" than to "bring Russia's entry into the war has averted danger to this country." Mr. Knudsen said "we are in somewhat better shape than we were last summer but we need the spark of enthusiasm—yes, of patriotism—to carry the program forward faster."

Aid to Russia, France, China
Acting Secretary of State Welles announced Russian requests to buy strategic materials had been received and brought to the attention of the proper Government officials. Mr. Welles also said the U. S. has under consideration a plan to relax export restrictions on Russian commerce to permit the flow of war materials to that country. He also announced U. S. and North African French officials have arranged a plan calling for continuous movement of two ships carrying tea, sugar and other food to Africa, and two carrying strategic materials to the U. S.

President Roosevelt suspended duties on British Burma vessels reaching the U. S., to aid the flow of supplies to China over the Burma Road. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau extended China's $50,000,000 credit here for another year. Assistant Commerce Secretary Hickey asked commercial airlines for 12 transport planes to meet "emergency defense requirements of the democracies."

Army
In his bi-annual report to the Secretary of War, Army Chief of Staff Marshall urged that Congress pass legislation permitting use of armed forces outside the Western Hemisphere and permitting holding selectees, National Guardsmen and Reserve Officers in the service for more than one year. Gen. Marshall said that conditions have changed to such an extent that a "grave national emergency" exists of a more severe character than the public realizes.

The War Department announced it will promote its officers on the basis of merit instead of seniority and permit re-enlistment for Regular Army men only if they are qualified for promotion in order to weed out those not able to take advantage of further training.

Air

The War Department awarded contracts totalling more than $478,000,000 for planes, engines and parts. The OPM announced its aircraft specialist, Merrill Meigs, will go to England to confer on production methods.

Gen. Arnold, Chief of the Army Air Forces, lowered requirements for pilots of heavy bombers so that fliers with 750 hours military air experience could man the ships to be built at a rate of 500 a month. The Air Forces also announced experimentation with glider training for its personnel.

Selective Service
More than 750,000 men who reached 21 since Selective Service registration last October, registered for service this week throughout the nation. President Roosevelt ordered 900,000 men inducted into the Army as selectees now in service finish their year of training.

Pending final action by Congress on legislation deferring men who were 28 on July or before, Selective Service Director Hershey ordered temporary deferment of this age group. He also advised local boards to defer registrants with one or more dependents to whose support they make "any substantial contribution." The only exception to this, he said, would be men who married in the hope of evading service.

Army Recreation

The War Department announced a program of stage shows at Army camps throughout the country and said civilian contributions to soldiers' welfare will be co-ordinated by the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, Inc. Outstanding theatre men have made arrangements for five road shows to visit camps, using equipment built on trucks, the Department said.

Congress passed legislation designed to prevent prostitution with a "reasonable" distance of military and naval reservations.

Defense Area Public Works

Congress voted $150,000,000 for construction of schools, water works, sewers, hospitals and other necessary public works in localities over-crowded by defense workers. Works Administrator Carmody established 11 regional offices to handle the program and select projects suggested by the communities and for which the communities will help pay.

Defense Housing

OPM announced defense housing projects will be given priority to assure availability of necessary building materials. Defense Housing Co-ordinator Palmer issued a pamphlet explaining how defense housing needs are met.

Materials

OPM recommended building eight new aluminum plants, in Arkansas, the Booneville-Grand-Coulee area, Upper New York State, Alabama, California and North Carolina to produce 600,000,000 additional pounds annually.

Price Administrator Henderson announced a series of conferences beginning the week of July 7 with representatives of makers of automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, oil burners and steel furniture to get information on their needs for materials. He said allocations of essential raw materials essential to civilian welfare—such as transportation companies, telephone companies, farm equipment manufacturers, fire and police services, hospitals and schools—will be made as soon as amount of scarce materials needed are ascertained.

Labor Supply

The U. S. Employment Service reported serious shortages of workers in shipbuilding, 16 aircraft and 26 machine shop occupations such as ship fitter, template maker, boatbuilder, aeronautical engineer, aircraft riveter, tool and die maker, and lathe operator.

Labor Training

The National Youth Administration announced allocation of $4,040,000 to finance July operations of a new program to train 368,000 out-of-school youths for defense jobs in the next year. The program is operated in co-operation with U. S. Employment Service and the U. S. Office of Education and local public educational officials.

The Office of Education reported that 1,500,000 persons were trained for defense work by existing educational facilities in the past year.

Pan-American Relations

The Assistant Co-ordinator of Commercial and Cultural Relations between the American Republics, speaking in Pennsylvania, said that in April Latin America said $101,000,000 worth of goods to the U. S.—a rate of trade sufficient to absorb the wartime loss to the other Americas of the continental European markets.

Food Conservation

Agriculture Secretary Wickard, Associate Price Administrator Elliott and Paul McNutt, Co-ordinator of Health Activities, outlined a plan for community action to save for immediate or future use, quantities of food ordinarily wasted. The officials urged community leaders to check local fruit and vegetable surpluses, plan for distribution through school lunch and play ground programs to meet nutritional needs of small-income families, and make arrangements for preserving products not used in fresh form.

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

Man's Happiness the Goal: Man's happiness is the goal of the Christian religion. Every "Thou Shalt Not," has as its purpose man's happiness. Man is asked to worship God not because God needs the worship of man, but because the worship of God is good for man. Man is asked to serve God, not because God needs the service of man, but because the serving of God is good for man. Man is commanded to forgive his enemies, not because God has any interest in man's enemies, but because in the forgiveness of those who have wronged him, man receives a blessing. Man does not do God a favor by observing and keeping his commandments, but himself. The whole aim and purpose is man's happiness. They constitute a complete formula for human happiness. They have never been improved upon or amended. As interpreted by Christ they constitute the Magna Charta of human liberty and happiness.

Consumers Should Know- The Facts About Advertising Costs

Advertising Federation of America

This is the third of a series of studies prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education of the Advertising Federation of America in response to the increasing interest of consumers in the factors affecting advertising and its costs.

A very few years ago, the public was no more interested in the cost of advertising than it is today. In the cost of delivering newspapers, or in the cost of book-binding, these are ordinary costs of doing a business.

Lately a great many people have come to be very much interested in a lot of questions about how businesses are run. With other questions comes the thought that the cost of advertising must be included in the price which we pay for the products advertised. Unless a consumer is losing money, it certainly is not fair to charge enough for its services to cover all the expenses of business, and advertising is one of these expenses.

Looking over the census figures for the past ten years, we see that the average of about $25 million per year has been paid for advertising in newspapers.

Periodicals, which include all of magazines, farm papers, business journals, the average expenditure for advertising during the past ten years is about 200 million dollars per year.

Radio has no census figures but records furnished by advertising companies indicate that advertising has increased something like 50 million dollars ten years ago to a present figure of around 200 million dollars a year.

Another medium is outdoor advertising, which includes signs, boards, and painted panels. The amount of money spent for advertising in this field amounts up to about 50 million dollars a year.

These four mediums, newspapers, periodicals, radio, and outdoor advertising, the total advertising adds up to a sum of approximately 975 million dollars, little less than a round billion per year.

There is another important fact about advertising which is very interesting because the figures on total costs are not common. This is advertising literature through the mails. The estimates of the amount spent for this form of advertising are the total expenditures at between 300 and 400 million dollars a year. This covers the cost of circulars, postage, advertising letters, and the like.

Another type of advertising on which it is difficult to obtain figures is merchandise premiums. The estimate from a competent source sets the amount spent for advertising at about 350 million dollars a year.

There are a number of miscellaneous kinds of advertising which smaller amounts are spent on. These include car cards, store display materials, programs, directories, sky-writing, and advertising specialties. The total of all these miscellaneous forms of advertising is estimated at something over 100 million dollars a year.

Putting together all of these figures covering advertising in newspapers, periodicals, radio, direct mail, premiums, and miscellaneous, we have a total of a little over one and three-fourths billion dollars per year. In the peak year 1929, this total was somewhat higher, and at the bottom of the depression it was lower. Taking the present figure and allowing enough extra to cover advertising services and any other items we may have missed, we finally arrive at an over-all cost of about 2 billion dollars per year for all the advertising in this country.

This is a large figure, as anyone must admit. But it doesn't mean much unless we compare it with something else. Probably the best way to look at it is in comparison with the total amount of goods bought during the year, which is in the neighborhood of 70 billion dollars. This comparison shows that the total cost of advertising is less than 3 per cent of the value of all goods.

This 3 per cent figure has more meaning than the total in dollars and cents. It means that all the work that advertising does in connection with selling goods is done at a cost of less than 3 per cent of the value of the goods.

What is perhaps an even more interesting comparison is the cost of advertising compared with the total of all costs of distribution. Advertising, of course, is a part of the whole cost of selling and distributing goods. The price of every article we buy must cover the cost of distribution as well as the cost of production. The act of producing an article is not a useful effort unless that article is finally put into the hands of the ultimate consumer. It must be transported, sold, and delivered. This process is called distribution, and many wage-earners take part in it. The effort of selling is an important part of the work of distribution, and so is advertising.

In studying the costs of distribution, an interesting discovery was made by the Twentieth Century Fund, an independent research institution. It was found that the total amount spent for advertising is only one-twentieth of the whole cost of distribution. In other words, the entire cost of getting goods from those who have produced them into our hands as consumers is twenty times as much as the cost of advertising alone.

This makes the cost of advertising seem very small, since advertising performs such a large part of the work involved in selling and distributing goods.

Another way of looking at advertising costs is to figure out what it actually amounts to on particular products. It is interesting to see how these actual unit costs, of advertising familiar articles compare with the commonly held ideas about them. A business journal called Sales Management recently made such a study, conducting a poll to find out what the public would guess to be the amount spent for advertising certain individual items, and then checking with the facts.

Taking Sunkist oranges, for example, it was found that the typical guess by consumers was 1 1/2 cents a dozen for the advertising. Actually the cost of advertising is only four-tenths of a cent per dozen. In this case the guess of the public was nearly four times as high as the actual advertising cost.

Gardenia Queen Chooses Chevrolet

Pretty Martha Mitchell, Queen of the Gardenia Festival at the famous Cypress Gardens in Florida, has just put her royal seal of approval on the Chevrolet Convertible Cabriolet—the outdoor car—by purchasing a new one for her own use. Ever willing to oblige by posing for the hundreds of camera fans who consider the Gardens a mecca for picture-taking, Queen Martha can now reach location quickly and flood herself with sunshine by rolling back the vacuum-operated top at the touch of a dash button.

On Camel cigarettes, the guess averaged around one cent a package, while the actual amount spent for advertising is about half a cent.

For an Ingersoll two-dollar watch, the public guessed an average of ten cents for the advertising, while the actual amount is about five cents.

On a ten-dollar pair of Florsheim shoes, the typical guess by the public was that 50 cents is spent for advertising, and the correct figure is only 25 cents.

The advertising cost on a bottle of Coca Cola was guessed at about half a cent, whereas actually it is less than one-tenth of a cent.

On Ethyl gasoline the representative guess by the public was one cent per gallon for advertising, while the actual amount spent by that company is only half a cent per gallon.

These are only a few of the well-advertised products familiar to us all. On each of them the actual amount spent for advertising is comparatively small—much smaller than the amounts as guessed by representative public opinion. The same thing is true of many other well-known articles.

While the total amounts spent for advertising seem to be very large in dollars, these amounts become exceedingly small when figured on a unit basis. Some companies pay out as much as several million dollars a year for advertising their products, but they sell a great volume of goods and the resulting advertising cost for each article is therefore small.

For instance, one cigarette manufacturer spends about 10 million dollars a year for advertising, which is a lot of money. But his sales are about 200 million cartons a year, which certainly is a lot of cigarettes. This makes the advertising cost half a cent per package, which is small, especially when you think of the large amount of work which that half cent does.

In any consideration of advertising costs, we should take into account the necessary work which advertising performs, and which would have to be paid for in any event. Goods have to be sold, by one method or another. Nearly every business has something to sell, and it may be taken for granted that each business concern sells its products by the most efficient method known to its managers, and saves money wherever possible. No firm can continue successfully on any other basis.

So it appears that advertising must be an economical selling method, if only from the fact that nearly all businesses use it. If there were any cheaper or better way of getting the same volume of goods sold, we may be sure that the heads of wide-awake business concerns would quickly adopt it. In a free competitive system such as we have in America, those who use inefficient methods have to make way for those who are more efficient. This automatically forces business to adopt these methods which get the most work done at the least cost.

Modern advertising is the only means by which large numbers of people can be reached quickly by those who wish to sell goods. It is the only economical way in which a manufacturer can build up a large sales volume that will enable him to make his goods in great quantities and to apply the most efficient mass-production methods. This means that in many cases advertising is necessary if products are to be made at lowest possible cost.

In some industries which advertise extensively, such as automobiles, radios, refrigerators, and cameras, for instance, prevailing prices have gone down rapidly over a period of years, accompanied by great improvements in the product. While giving all due credit to engineering skill, the fact remains that the remarkable progress made in these industries toward better products at lower prices has only been possible through the large volume of sales and the increasing popularity of these products built up with the help of advertising.

On most articles, the unit cost of advertising is almost negligible, so far as the consumer's pocket-book is concerned, and on all goods combined the total advertising cost is less than 3 per cent of their value, and only one-twentieth of the complete distribution cost.

For this comparatively small expenditure, advertising performs a very important part of the necessary work of bringing products from makers into the hands of users, and does it more economically than any other known method. The average effect of advertising on prices is to make them lower.

While Texas has approximately 53 per cent of the nation's oil reserves, it was able to market only 36 per cent of the total oil production of the nation last year.

Mrs. Karel tin Brink Honoree at Shower Given Wednesday

With Mrs. Karel tin Brink, who was Miss Ruth Ferguson prior to her recent marriage, as honor guest, Mesdames Henry Black, J. M. Hill, J. R. Beverly, M. S. Henry and H. Schindler were hostesses at a lovely miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Black on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Schindler presided at the guest register at a table on the front porch. The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Henry while Mrs. Black, Mrs. tin Brink and her mother, Mrs. H. E. Ferguson, composed the receiving line.

Miss Dorothy Wingham play, "An Invitation to the Dance" as the first number of a pleasing program. Inasmuch as Mr. tin Brink is a native of Holland, the program conformed to that theme and Mrs. Henry, as a prelude to several Holland numbers, spoke of the interesting and attractive features of that country. Then, DeAlva Thomas and Billie Billington, in Dutch costume, sang three songs and interpreted a Dutch dance, Miss Wingham accompanying them.

Mrs. Beverly gave advice to the bride in a clever reading, using the letters of the alphabet as suggestions for the advice.

Upon invitation of Mrs. Black, the honor guest and her mother preceded the ladies into the dining room where punch was poured by Mrs. Sam Bell from a beautifully appointed table which further carried out the Holland motif in its decorations. The centerpiece consisted of a boat on a simulated canal, which was bordered with flowers, and on the banks of which stood small Dutch figurines. Dainty flowers were used in the decorative scheme, which emphasized pink and white. The punch was served with pink and white sandwiches and angel cake with pink icing. Mrs. Jeff Bruce and Mrs. John Rasor served in the dining room. From the dining room the bride

Induction of Men Reaching 28 on July 1 to Be Deferred

General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, this week announced that all Texas' local boards have been instructed to defer induction of men who, on July 1, 1941, had reached the age of twenty-eight years.

General Page said that National Selective Service Headquarters has been assured by Congressional leaders that the age provisions of the bill to defer men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, will be passed in substantially their present form since there is no difference of opinion as to the merits of these provisions of the bill.

As the bill is now written, General Page pointed out, such men will be subject to discharge if inducted on or after July 1, 1941.

Based on the statements of Congressional leaders and the provisions making the bill retroactive to July 1, 1941, for discharge, Texas' local boards have this week been informed by State Headquarters that the induction of all men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, shall be postponed for a period of thirty days pending final action on the bill.

"Of course, in the event the bill is not passed," General Page added, "such men will be subject to induction in the normal manner upon the expiration of the period of postponement."

In Texas, it is estimated, approximately 400,000 of the 825,429 men who registered last October are affected by this order.

'41 Seymour Cowboy Reunion Will Be Held on July 24 and 25

With the 1941 Seymour Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, July 24-25, still more than two weeks in the offing, finishing touches are being put on what promises to be the fastest rodeo program and most varied list of attractions ever seen in Seymour, according to Cedric Harrison, publicity chairman and junior editor of the Seymour Banner.

The program of rodeo events finds calf roping, saddle bronc riding and steer riding the same as in 1940. The ribbon roping contest of last year has been replaced with a faster bell roping contest; and bareback bronc riding is a brand new event. The cutting horse contest will again be held the morning of the second day.

An innovation is that all contestants in roping events will rope during the day, ten in both calf and bell roping at the afternoon show and the balance between shows. At the night performance the ten fastest ropers in both events during the day will compete for special added purses.

An increased prize list is found in all events, with special added purses in addition. The handsome purses are expected to attract a record number of contestants.

Several special attractions are being arranged for the rodeo shows, which will be held at 2 and 8 p. m. both days on the dustiest turf arena on Fair Park hill. The Baylor County Old Settlers' Ass'n. will have its annual meeting the morning of July 24, according to President I. O. Newton. Secretary R. O. Tolson states that more than 700 invitations have been mailed to pioneer residents of this section, and that most of them are expected to attend.

Downtown parades each day, dances each night, sponsors' contests, chuck wagons, and many other features will round out the full program in Seymour July 24-25.

Twentieth Call on Texas for Negro Selectees Made

State Selective Service Headquarters this week announced the Army's twentieth call on Texas for 169 negro selectees, to be inducted on July 17.

When this call has been completed, Texas will have 31,964 men actually in training under the Selective Training and Service Act, according to General J. Watt Page, State Director.

Gross quotas for the States, General Page said, have been re-adjusted and from time to time will be recomputed so that the actual requirements of the armed forces may be filled promptly and, at the same time, no State or local board will furnish a disproportionate share of men to the land and naval forces.

General Page pointed out that a quota is not a requirement that must be filled by any given date, but rather a "bank account" upon which the armed forces may draw from time to time. The latest adjusted gross quota for Texas, determined on the basis of data available May 15, 1941, is 136,488 men. Against this number, in addition to the 31,964 inductees, Texas is credited with 80,140 members of the armed forces, which includes those who entered the service before the first registration date last October as well as those who have volunteered under Selective Service, General Page said.

30,000 Nurses For Defense Needed By U. S.

Washington, D. C.—In an appeal for young women to enter the nursing profession to strengthen the defenses of the United States, Surgeon General Thomas A. Parran, of the U. S. Public Health Service, declared here that 30,000 nurses would be drained from civilian life to fill needs of the defense program.

Dr. Parran said the total of nurses in the United States does not begin to be enough to meet "all eventualities."

"We need to double or triple the number of women competent to do some nursing task," he declared.

He reported the Civil Defense Agency needs an unlimited number of women trained as nurses' aides. To meet this shortage of trained women, the American Red Cross has launched a program of instruction for nurses' aides in key metropolitan cities.

With funds allocated by the Congress, Dr. Parran said a four-point program was being developed to provide increased nurse power.

"First," he said, "we shall begin 'refresher' courses in various parts of the country to equip inactive nurses to return to duty, releasing younger women for military service."

"Second, we shall proceed as rapidly as possible to increase the capacity of nursing schools for training thousands of additional nurses yearly."

"Third, the Red Cross First Reserve of Nurses will mobilize for military needs the nurse power now available. This is the official register from which the Army and Navy select their nurses. Every nurse who is qualified to enroll in that Reserve owes it to herself, her profession and her country to enter her name upon the register immediately. She must not postpone it, thinking that there is no emergency. For the nurses of America there is a very real emergency. Their skilled help is needed now."

"The fourth front upon which it is proposed to increase our nurse power is in the training of nurses aides. In England at war ty Court, who deals out justice with a firm hand, is a whiz with the sewing machine.

When Mrs. Murphy became interested in Red Cross work, Judge Murphy decided sewing garments for foreign war victims would be a splendid form of relaxation.
