Navy Recruiter to Be Here July 22nd

Chief Specialist Jack Cravens, recruiter in charge of the Wichita Falls Naval Recruiting District, will be in Crowell on Thursday, July 22, from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m., and will be located in the office of Self Motor Co.

Chief Cravens will have important news for 17-year-old youths

The American Red Cross, in an emergency, is now able to feed nearly eleven and a half million people a day. This was announced in June by Chairman Norman H. Davis, who added that even this large figure is incomplete.

Chairman Davis based his statement upon a summary of disaster preparedness reports recently compiled in the four Red Cross area offices. There are 3,755 Red Cross chapters in these areas and the report thus far covers only 976 chapters.

"A disaster, as our organization defines it," said Mr. Davis, "is any situation—usually catastrophic in nature—where numbers of people are plunged into helplessness and suffering and, as a result, may need food, medical care, clothing, shelter and the other basic necessities of life. The recent flood in the Mississippi Valley is a case in point."

To meet any such emergency, it was explained, the 976 chapters are prepared to bring into use great quantities of equipment, in addition to the facilities for feeding refugees. For example, 23,228 shelters with accommodations for 2,556,215 persons, more than half a million blankets, nearly 150,000 cots, and 27,000 stretchers are among the facilities available for emergency use.

The survey covering disaster preparedness activities is now being made in all Red Cross chapters. The goal of making disaster facilities available in all local chapters will dovetail to produce a nationwide blanket of preparedness for any emergency.

Christmas Parcels Can Be Mailed to Soldiers Overseas

Christmas packages and Christmas cards may be mailed to the Army personnel overseas, according to information furnished by Postmaster Alva Spencer this week. The following rules must be observed:

Time of Mailing—Christmas parcels and Christmas cards for the Army personnel overseas must be mailed during the period beginning Sept. 15, 1943, and ending Oct. 15, 1943, the earlier the better, while they may be mailed to members of the naval forces as late as Nov. 1. No requests from the addressees are required in connection with Christmas parcels mailed to Army personnel during this period only. Patrons should be encouraged to endorse each gift parcel "Christmas parcel."

Size and Weight—Christmas parcels shall not exceed the present limit of 5 pounds in weight or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. These departments have pointed out that members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing, and the public is urged not to include such matter in gift parcels. However, not more than one Christmas parcel or package shall be accepted for mailing in any one week when sent by or on behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee.

Preparation—Owing to the great distance this mail must be transported and the handling and any storage it must undergo, it is absolutely necessary that all articles be packed in metal, wood, or solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard or strong fully telescoping cardboard boxes. Furthermore, as each parcel is subject to censorship, delay in handling may be minimized by securing the covering of the parcel so as to permit ready inspection of the contents.

Perishable Matter—Perishable matter will not be accepted.

Prohibited Articles—Intoxicants, inflammable materials (including matches of all kinds and lighter fluid), and poisons, or composition which may kill or injure another, or damage the mails, are unmailable.

How to Address Parcels—Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee, and the post office through which the parcels are to be routed.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church at Gilliland Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. R. Balch, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Seymour, assisted by Rev. Joe English, pastor of the Truscott Baptist Church.

Interment was in the Gilliland cemetery with the Womack Funeral Home of Crowell in charge of arrangements.

A special musical number, "Farther Along," was rendered as a vocal duet by A. T. and Myra Sue Hseng. Mrs. Ila May Garrison was piano accompanist for the duet and other songs sung by the choir.

Full bearers were Sam Hayman, Marion Ryder, Omar Cure, Abb Ihseng, Arthur Ihseng and George Solomon. The list of flower girls included Faye Ryder, Ellen Grace Martin, Annie Tomaneck, Aline Horne, Ethlyn Cook, Clara Walker and Ora Mae Eubank.

Saturday, July 31, Will Be Last Day to Transfer Children

Saturday, July 31, 1943, is the last day upon which children may be transferred from one school district to another, according to Judge Leslie Thomas, county school superintendent. Margaret, Four Corners, Riverside and Thalia have been classified as eighth grade elementary schools and as such will teach only elementary grades including the eighth grade, therefore, all children residing in either of such districts who will be in high school, junior or senior, must be transferred to the proper receiving school prior to July 31.

All transfers must be made either by the father, mother or guardian of such child or children.

Transfers can be made in the office of Judge Thomas in the court house.

Navy Recruiter to Be Here July 22nd

Chief Specialist Jack Cravens, recruiter in charge of the Wichita Falls Naval Recruiting District, will be in Crowell on Thursday, July 22, from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m., and will be located in the office of Self Motor Co.

Chief Cravens will have important news for 17-year-old youths

The American Red Cross, in an emergency, is now able to feed nearly eleven and a half million people a day. This was announced in June by Chairman Norman H. Davis, who added that even this large figure is incomplete.

Chairman Davis based his statement upon a summary of disaster preparedness reports recently compiled in the four Red Cross area offices. There are 3,755 Red Cross chapters in these areas and the report thus far covers only 976 chapters.

"A disaster, as our organization defines it," said Mr. Davis, "is any situation—usually catastrophic in nature—where numbers of people are plunged into helplessness and suffering and, as a result, may need food, medical care, clothing, shelter and the other basic necessities of life. The recent flood in the Mississippi Valley is a case in point."

To meet any such emergency, it was explained, the 976 chapters are prepared to bring into use great quantities of equipment, in addition to the facilities for feeding refugees. For example, 23,228 shelters with accommodations for 2,556,215 persons, more than half a million blankets, nearly 150,000 cots, and 27,000 stretchers are among the facilities available for emergency use.

The survey covering disaster preparedness activities is now being made in all Red Cross chapters. The goal of making disaster facilities available in all local chapters will dovetail to produce a nationwide blanket of preparedness for any emergency.

Christmas Parcels Can Be Mailed to Soldiers Overseas

Christmas packages and Christmas cards may be mailed to the Army personnel overseas, according to information furnished by Postmaster Alva Spencer this week. The following rules must be observed:

Time of Mailing—Christmas parcels and Christmas cards for the Army personnel overseas must be mailed during the period beginning Sept. 15, 1943, and ending Oct. 15, 1943, the earlier the better, while they may be mailed to members of the naval forces as late as Nov. 1. No requests from the addressees are required in connection with Christmas parcels mailed to Army personnel during this period only. Patrons should be encouraged to endorse each gift parcel "Christmas parcel."

Size and Weight—Christmas parcels shall not exceed the present limits of 5 pounds in weight or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. These departments have pointed out that members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing, and the public is urged not to include such matter in gift parcels. However, not more than one Christmas parcel or package shall be accepted for mailing in any one week when sent by or on behalf of the same person or concern to or for the same addressee.

Preparation—Owing to the great distance this mail must be transported and the handling and any storage it must undergo, it is absolutely necessary that all articles be packed in metal, wood, or solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard or strong fully telescoping cardboard boxes. Furthermore, as each parcel is subject to censorship, delay in handling may be minimized by securing the covering of the parcel so as to permit ready inspection of the contents.

Perishable Matter—Perishable matter will not be accepted. Prohibited Articles—Intoxicants, inflammable materials (including matches of all kinds and lighter fluids), and poisons, or composition which may kill or injure another, or damage the mails, are unmailable.

How to Address Parcels—Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee, and the post office through which the parcels are to be routed.

especially, since new instructions for their enlistment in the Navy have been received. He urges all 17-year-olds to visit and talk with him during his visit here.

He would also appreciate talking to men 18 through 50½ years of age for the Navy construction battalion. Any men who have had any experience at all in construction work, are urged to contact Chief Cravens.

The Greyhound Bus Company has made an application to operate helicopter lines on a nationwide scale.

AGRICULTURE (D. F. Eaton, County Agent.)

More Meat from the Range We hesitate to advise the average successful ranchman, however, there are some sound economic practices that contribute to the success of ranching. For example, the maintaining of a proper balance between the number of livestock and the grazing capacity of the range. Beyond a certain point, the more cattle on a given range, the less feed or forage per animal is available. If this balance is maintained a herd of breeding cows can be maintained and a sizeable calf crop turned out each year. In good management a part of each year's grass production is left to maintain the soil and plant vigor. By this wise provision part of the forage goes to maintain the herd and part to the growth and development of the range itself. It is well to remember that any time the herd is increased, the grass requirements will increase. This could mean less forage for calves later in the season, and this is where his profit comes from. Any grass shortage here effects the future prosperity of the ranch. Actual tests and experience shows that overstocking means smaller calf crops, lighter calves at market time, higher death losses and more supplemental feeding. Also range productivity will decline slowly but surely. All of this, effected by seasons of course, but we are looking at this from a long-time basis. Therefore, we conclude that the surest way to get more meat is not to overcrowd the range, but to use the range more efficiently through careful management and improved breeding.

with sulphur for the flea hopper. They are using about ten pounds per acre. When the ball weevil appear a little later, these farmers will add around three pounds of calcium arsenate per acre. We have found this insect over the entire county in varying numbers from a slight to a heavy infestation. The cotton crop is doing fine and the crop is now being set, in the older cotton, some of it now has one-fourth bale of forms on it and within a couple of weeks will have a half bale if weather conditions remain favorable. The Lockett Gin Company is supplying its customers in the Rayland area. Here in the Crowell territory arrangements have been made to handle the material through the local gins. The same thing will probably be done at Thalia. Those in the Crowell territory should leave their orders for sulphur and calcium arsenate here at the office so the gins will have some idea how much supplies to keep on hand.

Mail Reaching Yanks in Japan

Washington, D. C.—The American Red Cross has announced that there is substantial evidence that letters written by the next of kin to American prisoners held in Japanese prison camps have been received by them in considerable number. The greatest assurance rests in the fact that relatives within the last week have received letters from prisoners held in Japan acknowledging receipt of mail. Among these was Mrs. Royal C. Johnson of Washington who received a letter from her son, Lt. Harlan T. Johnson, Navy aviator, held in Zentsuji Prison Camp, Japan. Writing to his wife and his mother he said: "I have received six of your letters. It is impossible to say what letters mean to us here. It is such a grand pleasure that it hurts at first. Then you read, re-read and re-read the letters until you are again happily at home." The American Red Cross urges next of kin to continue writing regularly to imprisoned members of their families, even though they may not yet have had a reply from the Far East. The delegate of the International Red Cross Committee in Japan has notified the American Red Cross that many thousands of letters have been delivered to the Americans, as well as other United Nations prisoners held in the Far East. The mail route has been long and difficult, but the American Red Cross announces that a new and faster route has been opened only during the past month. This new route is capable of handling only a limited cargo of first class mail, so the American Red Cross emphasizes the importance of using the lightest weight paper and envelopes, thus permitting a greater volume of letters to go through. Censorship is expedited if letters are typewritten or block printed. Relatives are requested to follow closely directions issued regarding the proper addressing of mail to prisoners of war. Publication ARC 316, available at all local Red Cross chapters, gives full directions. Chicago.—"Bet you'll miss those vacation mosquitoes this year," said the radio comedian, ribbing his partner about spending his vacation at home. "Naw," was the reply, "I'd rather give my blood to the Red Cross."

Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man.— Luke 21:36.

Remember when we sat back in snug complacency and said it was none of our business when Japan attacked China, and Mussolini invaded Ethiopia several years ago? Was it or wasn't it our business then? We think it was. If world peace ever comes to stay it will come when the rest of the world is ready to rise up and stop all such unlawful invasion whenever and wherever it is made. We can't hope for world peace if national hoodlums are going to be permitted to operate on the loose at will. If we are going to have to fight for world peace we had better fight first instead of waging a more costly war later. This is one thing about which we can well afford to be realistic instead of starchy eyed dreamers.

The World Food Conference attended by delegates from 45 Allied nations proposes among other measures that a buffer surplus of the world's principal food products be maintained at all times. According to the plans suggested, in times of abundance the international organization would buy and store the surplus, protecting the producer from ruinous low prices. In times of famine the surplus would be released protecting the consumer from excessively high prices. The plan has merit. Any plan that protects the people from the greedy profit takers who corner the food when there is an abundance in order to reap a big profit when there is a scarcity has merit whether it is applied to a single nation or to all nations of the world.

In 1939 Herman Goering, Germany's air minister, promised the people of the industrial Ruhr district that not one enemy bomb would be permitted to fall within its borders. To date more than 100,000 tons of bombs have been dropped in this same Ruhr valley. This promise, made by Goering, has, at that, been kept as well as any of the promises that German leaders have made to the world and their own people.

Whatever the plans may be for the world after the war the things that the United States, Great Britain, Russia and later perhaps China decide and do will determine whether the world can have a comparatively long term of peace or just another preparation for war. These four powers can control the world of the future, but to do so they must first control themselves and get along together.

Congress has taken two or three matters out of the hands of the President. When Congress recovers from the burst of rebellion that prompted the action it will begin to realize that while it has rebuffed the President it has also taken on a job for itself—a job which it is much easier to criticize the manner in which some one else handles it, than it is to have the responsibility for doing it.

It is well to remember that this country is in the war in spite of the isolationists and the conscientious objectors and after its own liberty and the liberty of all the world will have been preserved in spite of isolationists and in spite of the conscientious objectors.

HISTORY

Frontier Day in Cheyenne—July 25. The Frontier Day celebration in Cheyenne, the capital of Wyoming, had its beginning in 1897. It was designed as an annual celebration to keep alive the sports and customs of the early days of the state. Every year since its institution forty-six years ago large crowds have attended. In the past forty-six years it is estimated that more than a million persons have attended its celebrations. It began with the annual Potato Day celebration at Greeley, Colo., in August of 1897. The first program consisted of cowboy races, a pony express battle, riding bucking horses, and a scene from the Overland Trail including an ox team and vigilantes fighting highwaymen, trying to hold up a stage. The celebration has grown until four days are required to stage the program. Some hundred contestants take part, expert horsemen, cowboys and cowgirls. The program is held at Frontier Park which has a half mile race track. The program usually opens with a parade of the performers about the track. The parade consists of mounted cowboys, cowgirls, Indians in native costumes, covered wagons and other vehicles reminiscent of early days. This is followed by bronco riding, steer roping, calf roping, bull-dogging, bareback riding, relay races, potato races and similar sports. Many from all parts of the country attend the celebration each year. Visitors from the east have said, "Unless you have seen Frontier Dty, you have not seen America." A set of rules has been developed which are strictly adhered to in all contests. While there are several other such celebrations in the West the people of Cheyenne insist that Cheyenne's Frontier days is the original show.

Brief Bits of News From Here and There

A stove food dehydrator is on the market. The dehydrator when in use is mounted upon the kitchen stove in which there is a small amount of fire. The heat dries out the trays of fruits and vegetables. As soon as priorities will permit an electrically heated model will be put on the market. Dehydration in the future will take the place of canning with many fruits and vegetables. The dehydrator is less trouble and storage space required for processed foods is small compared to that required by the canned food.

A full crew of track workers is employed by the Long Island Railroad. The Pennsylvania railroad employs 13,339 women in typical men's work as machinists and welders assisting boiler makers, pipe fitters, sheet metal workers and tinsmiths. In the Philadelphia yards there are women freight brakemen. The New York Central employs 5,000 women. Among these is a gate woman at Detroit, a turntable operative at Pittsburgh and 100 women reading cars in the Indianapolis shops. Most of these women workers come from railroad men's families in which the vocation is traditional.

It develops that instead of receiving $187,000,000 in taxes from the Edsel Ford estate the government will receive about $12,000,000. The bulk of the Ford fortune, about $200,000,000 will go to the Ford Foundation which will be tax exempt since the money is used for charitable and welfare purposes.

A questionnaire sent out by the United States War Department asked 1,295 men in the service as to their preference for gifts sent them from home, to cost two or three dollars. Cigarettes topped the list at 26 per cent, money 10 per cent, toilet and shaving articles including razor blades, tooth brushes and shoe polish, 8 per cent, candy 7 per cent, pocket-books 7 per cent, clothing particularly socks 5 per cent, stationery, pen and pencil sets 3 per cent. Other suggestions included sewing kits, containing needles, thread and clothing repair material, decks of playing cards and subscriptions to the home town papers. This is a good list to keep for suggestion when remembering the boys on future birth-days and holidays.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

Over the door of the great Goodyear Research Laboratory at Akron, Ohio, is the legend, "The Best is Yet to Come." This, it seems to me, is more than a prophesy, it is more than an apt phrase born of a common human desire. It is a fundamental fact that strikes at the very foundation of human faith and all worthwhile religious philosophy.

Not only is it fundamentally true, and we must believe it is true, else we must abandon most of our religious belief, but its moral and physiological effect is most far reaching.

It appeals to me not only as a great and challenging motto, or legend, or slogan, for a great industry but for every individual who holds it up before himself as well.

Great and wonderful things have been accomplished by American industry. Many times in the past fifty years the leaders of any one of a hundred of our great industries might have stopped and said this is it. We have reached our ultimate goal. There is nothing better than this. Such a policy would have resulted in industrial stagnation. It would have been equivalent to adopting a defeatist attitude.

The best is yet to come, assumes at once that present accomplishments, regardless of how good they may be, are not the end, that something better and more excellent lies ahead.

Though the industries of America may not have had this legend carved above the doorways of the plants, or mounted on a brass tablet on the office walls, it has been impressed in a more lasting and enduring fashion on the hearts of those whose genius has made America what it is. Even while achieving what seemed at the time perfection, there has been the call to still greater achievement, to lure, and to beckon them on.

Singularly enough the legend, while it tends to lead to better achievement, does not tend to discourage by belittling or talking down present accomplishments. It concedes that that which has been done is good, but that better things are in store ahead, over the hill, around the corner of next year.

The legend also appeals to me as a wholesome philosophy for any individual life. Whatever one's disappointments, there is something in the thought that the best is yet to come, that adds interest and lure to the future, and inspires one to go on and keep trying and keep trying even though one's best efforts seem to bring scant reward. The best is yet to come, holds out a helpful, wholesome promise.

This, I think, is the theme of all of the world's religions especially of the Christian religion. The best is yet to come, assumes that no normal individual is static. There is always a vision or a dream of better things ahead. Regardless of one's achievements this legend assumes that there is still a desire for something better and more satisfying. With such a motto, no industry or individual is in any danger of stagnation because no one is going to be satisfied with present achievements and conditions when it is known something better lies ahead.

In the hour of our triumph or our deepest disappointment we can still receive new inspiration and comfort, and a call for better and greater effort, in the knowledge and the conviction that "The Best is Yet to Come."

30 YEARS AGO IN THE NEWS

Items below were taken in whole or in part from the issue of The News of July 18, 1913:

The local military company left Crowell the first day of July for Camp Mabray, near Austin, where it went into camp for ten days. Crowell Company has received distinction in a number of instances since the company has been organized, and each year at the encampment it has been one of the best companies in the entire State Guards.

What might have been a serious and ghastly accident was narrowly averted Tuesday when a freight or the Orient came near running into the procession that was following the corpse of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Presley's baby. The procession was on the track when the train that was coming down the grade rushed upon them. The driver whipped up the team in an effort to cross ahead of the locomotive, and the engineer threw on the brakes of his engine in an effort to stop it. This was indeed a close call, but fortunately no one was hurt.

Prospectors have been here this week looking over the field with the view of putting down two or three wells in this part of the county. They appear to be asking for no bonuses, but are asking for leases only, and say that they will begin work of putting down the wells as soon as the leases can be secured.

Miss Leona Young, one of the teachers in the public schools, and Miss Essie Thacker, one of Crowell's popular musicians, left yesterday for Chicago where they will study this summer.

Prof. Hollingsworth, superintendent of the public schools of this city, has purchased the "Knox City Journal." Prof. Hollingsworth has been employed as superintendent of the Knox City schools for the coming year, and his paper is to be run in connection with his school work.

San Angelo, July 13.—John Corbet, a famous West Texas trapper, has just returned from a trapping expedition to the Pecos country, where he captured "Big Ben," a blue Mexican lobo wolf that ranchmen have been anxious to have out of the way for several years. For doing so he received a cash award of $400. The animal was so large and vicious that he could pull down a horse with the ease other lobos pulled down steer yearlings. His hunger caused him to kill at least three large animals a week.

J. A. Stovall, the newly-chosen rural carrier, made his initial trip over his route Thursday. Mr. Stovall is a fine young man and his many friends are congratulating him on his success in securing the position.

On the evening of July 16th at the closing of the normal work, the spacious double-parlors, halls and veranda of the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Martin were open to the summer school students and teachers from 8 to 11 p. m. The three hours were completely occupied with contests, refreshments and general merriment.

Col. C. P. Sandifer returned Wednesday from a business trip to Dallas. Mr. Sandifer says that

TEXAS PRODUCES TEST TUBE RUBBER

Back of the scientists on the "front" in the synthetic rubber program is another and even larger group of research experts, constantly experimenting to improve known processes of American Made rubber manufacture. The men at the front are those who actually operate the machines and direct the operations at synthetic plants such as that which will open June 28 at Baytown, Texas, under the management of The General Tire and Rubber Company. The men behind the front are the chemists in the universities of the country such as the group pictured above. These men, from the chemical department of Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh are working with General Tire's own chemist to develop new processes and new synthetics. Already great strides have been made in improving the processes known to the industry when war shut off our supply of natural rubber from the far east. Attention of the nation is being called to the role Texas is playing in the American Made rubber program in ceremonies to be held in Houston and the Tri Cities June 28. Pictured, left to right, seated above are: Dr. Harry Seltz, professor of chemistry; G. H. Swart, General Tire chemist; Dr. J. C. Warner, head of the department of chemistry at Carnegie Tech; and Dr. James P. Fugassi, assistant professor of chemistry at Carnegie Tech; standing, F. A. Mayfield, General Tire and Rubber Co.; Dr. Guido H. Stempel, Jr., assistant professor of chemistry at Carnegie Tech.; T. E. Grotenhuis, General Tire, and Dr. Robert C. Jones, Carnegie Tech.

Over Exposure to Sun Is Dangerous

Following last week's suggestions for comfortable and safe living during hot summer days, Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, today released a statement concerning the danger of over exposure to the sun.

"Sun stroke is not thought to be due to the heat of the sun, but to certain direct effects of the sun on the human brain. It is likely to occur after the sun has shone excessively on the back of the head and neck," Dr. Cox explained. "This can be prevented by protecting the head and back of the neck from the sunshine," he added.

Dr. Cox asserted that exposure of the skin to the sun has some virtue since the action of the sunshine tends to kill the germs on the skin. Further, sunshine produces vitamin D from the fats in the skin and this product is absorbed and used by the body.

"In general the good effects of sunshine are not due to the heat rays but ultraviolet rays," Dr. Cox stated. "It must be remembered, however, that it is these same rays which burn the skin and extensive application of direct sunshine to the skin may produce painful and severe burns which actually may endanger life."

The State Health Officer advises those who wish to obtain an extensive suntan to get it by slow

Reporting Symptoms to the Doctor

Today, the doctor's schedule is so crowded that home visits are necessarily infrequent. To make the best use of his knowledge and time therefore, you must know how to observe and report symptoms, according to the following article prepared by the American Red Cross for the rural press section of OWI.

Today, the doctor's schedule is so crowded that home visits are necessarily infrequent. To make the best use of his knowledge and time therefore, you must know how to observe and report symptoms.

First, keep clearly in mind the signs of good health: mental and physical vigor, good appetite, quiet sleep, clear color. The absence of any one of these may indicate trouble even before definite symptoms of illness appear.

Continued mild symptoms may suggest serious trouble just as do the short periods of marked symptoms.

Learn how to read a fever thermometer accurately. The rectal type is safest for children and for the very sick; but remember never to let go of the thermometer while the temperature is being taken by rectum. Recurrent or continued fever even if low or a sudden elevation show that conditions are abnormal.

A surprising number of people cannot count a pulse. Are you one of these? Practice on your family while they are well. The doctor is interested in regularity and strength of pulse, as well as rate. Learn to count the number of beats taken in a minute, without the patient being aware you are doing so, and note whether they are even, labored or shallow. Observe facial expression, condition of skin, appearance of eyes, throat, nose, ears; the picture you give may help the doctor to complete his diagnosis. The number, color and consistency of bowel movements, the amount and color of urine, and the amount and general appearance of vomited material should concern the good nurse, also.

Form the habit of writing down the points to be reported. The doctor will appreciate your ability to report fully and accurately; your patient will be benefited by it.

Soft Drink Hauls Made by Barges

The bottle barge, each one of which releases for the haulage of Navy supplies fourteen large trailer trucks which formerly made wholesale deliveries of soft drinks, has joined the commerial flotilla of New York Harbor as a result of the gasoline shortage.

Walter S. Mack Jr., president of the Pepsi-Cola Company, said that the idea of floating the bottled goods upon the local waters had come to him "as a brain-storm" a few nights ago as he wrestled with the problem of meeting the truck mileage and delivery cuts ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation. The next morning he hired a barge.

There are now six barges, towed by coal-burning tugs, which deliver the bottled soft drink, 7,000 to 8,000 cases to a boatload, from the East River bottling plant in Long Island City to piers on the Bronx, at Coney Island and other points in the metropolitan area, where the local distributors pick up their orders for short haulage to stores and fountains. Already, said Mr. Mack, he has degrees. Expose small portions of the skin to the sun for a short period of time. When tanning is established, exposing a greater area for a longer period of time should prove safe and comfortable.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

5 Ocean Navy

When Pearl Harbor burst upon us our great expanse of territory was protected by a one ocean navy of about 350 first line ships with an addition of an approximate number building.

Now we are in a five ocean war and we are required not only to pay for the building of enough ships of the line but also for hundreds of Liberty ships and auxiliary craft. The amount of money you invested in War Bonds when we had a one ocean navy was all right then, it isn't enough now. Buy more and more War Bonds.

cut his truck mileage and gasoline consumption by 25 per cent, and he thinks the barge delivery system may be extended up the Hudson River many miles.

"We have the greatest harbor facilities in the world, and it seems we might take fuller advantage of them during a high-way transport emergency," Mr. Mack said. "Maybe some other businesses can do something like this, too, not only here but in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago and other cities which have waterways."

A delivery by barge from the Long Island City Bottling plant to a Bronx pier at 188th Street and the East River took one hour, Mr. Mack said. This was the same time which a truck used to

Maternity Care for Servicemen's Wives

More than three-fourths of the states have received approval by the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, of programs for medical and hospital maternity care for wives of men in the four lowest pay grades of the armed services. The programs also include medical care for babies. A serviceman's wife may make application for complete medical care during pregnancy and childbirth, and for six weeks after childbirth. She may also apply for medical care for her child to extend throughout the child's first year of life. To get such care, all that the wife needs to do is to fill out simple forms, which, if her own doctor is unable to furnish copies, she can get from the State health department.

No Gas To Go To Gardens

Special rations of gasoline for travel to Victory gardens were designated July 12, although rations already issued for this purpose may be used as long as valid. This action was taken by OPA upon advice of the Department of Agriculture that gardens planted after that date would be too late to produce enough food to warrant extra use of tires and gasoline in cultivating them.

Co-ops Can Replace Stocks

Farmers co-operatives and any other dealers who sell farm supplies at cost or at a markup of not more than three per cent, are permitted to replenish stocks on farmers' certificates on a dollar-for-dollar basis, under a recent amendment of Priorities Regulation No. 19. Previously, the dealer could use the farmer's certificate to get supplies only up to 75 per cent of his sales. The amendment enables farmers' co-operatives which sell approximately at cost to make full replacement of their stocks.

Grower Prices For Berries

Wholesale prices for various types of berries, including raspberries, blackberries, and strawberries, have been announced by WPA. Growers will pay prices ranging from 15 to 25 cents per bushel, depending on the variety and quality.

Winter Cover Crop Seed

Large supplies of winter cover crop seeds, acquired by the Government in stabilizing prices for the 1942 crop, will be released for planting this summer and fall. AAA will release about 20 million pounds of Austrian winter pea seed for sale by the CCC to dealers at $5.65 per hundredweight. F. O. B. Oregon points. Bandage Cloth Supply Assured

Adequate supplies of bandage cloth, both for civilian and military use, will be available. Looms making cotton cloth suitable for bandages and other specified uses will continue to do so, by a recent WPB order.

Farm Supplies Pro-Rated

A distributor of farm supplies is now authorized to pro-rate deliveries on the basis of normal shipments in cases where the amount of farm supplies set aside for him does not completely cover all the orders he receives. Before this recent amendment to General Preference Order M-330, OPA price regulations for fill orders solely on the basis of preference ratings.

Local Poultry Prices

Regional Administrators of the OPA now can adjust local processors' prices for dressed poultry. Regional Administrators also have the power to change definitions of sellers and types of definitions. They are not empowered to change the farmers' selling price for live poultry, however, and may not increase the selling price of poultry at retail, or to any ultimate consumer.

More Fertilizer To Be Available

From 5 to 10 per cent more chemical fertilizer will be available in the year ahead according to WFA officials. It is estimated that U. S. farmers used about 10 million tons of chemical fertilizer during the 12 months beginning July 1, 1942. Although the supply of nitrogen and phosphates will be greater, potash is expected to be less plentiful.

Enough Floor Coverings

Smooth durable linoleum and printed floor coverings are being produced in substantial quantities to meet the greatly increased demand, WPB has reported. Used in new housing projects and in reconditioning old buildings, smooth surface floor coverings save lumber, nails, and labor, and contribute to sanitation.

Many Ships Launched

The Nation's shipyards delivered 148 cargo vessels totaling 1,476,500 deadweight tons in June, the Maritime Commission has announced. This may be compared with the record total of 175 for May and 157 in April. The June figures brought production for the first half of 1943 to 879 ships totaling 8,818,622 deadweight tons. In the entire year 1942 the yards produced 746 vessels totaling 8,089,732 deadweight tons.

Two Minute Sermon
(By Thomas Hastwell)

In Our Own Image: Of the creation of man it is said, God created man in his own image. Ever since his creation man has been, in turn, creating in his own image. I do not have in mind his offspring, but rather the character and the quality of work done as he goes about his daily task. He pursues his life's vocation. Whether it is the simple task of washing the dinner dishes, repairing an automobile, or building a beautiful home, the quality and the character of the work done reflects the inner character of the person who does it. If the work is done in a careless, slipshod or slovenly manner it is because the worker has not taken the time to be clean, neat and orderly. If the work is well and faithfully done it reflects that kind of a life. We create in our own image. Not only is this true of the work we do, but it is true of the life we live. If we are mean and selfish toward others it is because there is a mean and selfishness in our hearts. If we are generous and charitable, and kind it is because there is generosity and charity, and kindness in our hearts. The things we do and the life we live, are done and lived in our own image.

Casualties of War

Casualties of the United States Armed Forces from the outbreak of the war to July 3 total 31,944. This total, based on War and Navy Department reports, includes 16,096 wounded, 21,828 missing, 31,576 prisoners of war, 23,541 of those Army casualties total 94,621. Navy casualties total 27,423.

Traffic on rural roads in the East decreased from December through May to less than half of normal, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Major road traffic was down 72 per cent of normal. Traffic on rural roads in the West decreased 70 per cent in the same period. In 1942 the total number of accidents on rural roads was down to less than two-thirds of normal.

Mystery of Noah's Ark Solved By Russians!

(From Paducah Post)

(Editor's Note — The article below was brought to us by J. J. Biddy, who copied it from the Seury County Times, Snyder, Texas.)

In an age of astounding discoveries and development the story related below is easier to believe than many that have proved to be true. This, while not the first we have heard of it, is the most definite. We give it for what it's worth.

For years there has been a lot of speculation among Bible scholars as to what became of Noah's Ark. Some have denied the authenticity of the Bible record of the ark and flood, others have believed that some day the ark would be heard from. In all the realm of discovery there has been nothing so profoundly impressive to the religious world and the thinking people than the article appearing recently in a religious periodical, "Voice of Prophecy."

The report is that a huge wooden structure has been sighted by Russian aviators who flew over Mount Ararat, where the ark was said to have been rested when waters subsided. (Gen. 8:4). Here is the startling story written by Vladimir Roskovitsky.

The following story by Mr. Roskovitsky, a converted Russian, speaks for itself. He is now engaged in selling Bibles, etc., and is an American citizen, having severed all ties with Godless Bolshevism, from which he escaped after fleeing with his life after discovering the ark. He gives this discovery credit for opening his eyes to the truth of the Bible, and we pass it along trusting that you, too, will find it of interest and value.

"It was in the days just before the Russian revolution that this story began. A group of us Russian aviators were stationed at a lonely temporary air outpost about 25 miles northwest of Mount Ararat. The days were dry and terribly hot, as August days so often are in this semi-desert land. Even the lizards were flattened out under the shady sides of rocks and twigs, their mouths open and tongues lashing out as if each panting breath would be their last. Only occasionally would a tiny wisp of air rattle the parched vegetation and stir up a choking cloudlet of dust.

"Far up the side of the mountain we could see a thunder shower, and snow caps of Mount Ararat, which has snow all the year around because of its very great height. How we longed for some of that snow!

"Then the miracle happened. The captain walked in and announced that plane No. 7 had its new supercharged engine installed, and ordered my buddy and me to make the test. At last we could escape the heat!

"Needless to say, we wasted no time in getting on our parachutes, strapping on our oxygen cans and doing all the half dozen other things that have to be done before going up.

"Then a climb into the cockpit, safety belts tightened, a mechanic gives a prop a flip and yells, 'contact', and in less time than it takes to fall in, we were in the air. No use wasting time warming up the engine when the sun had it nearly red hot.

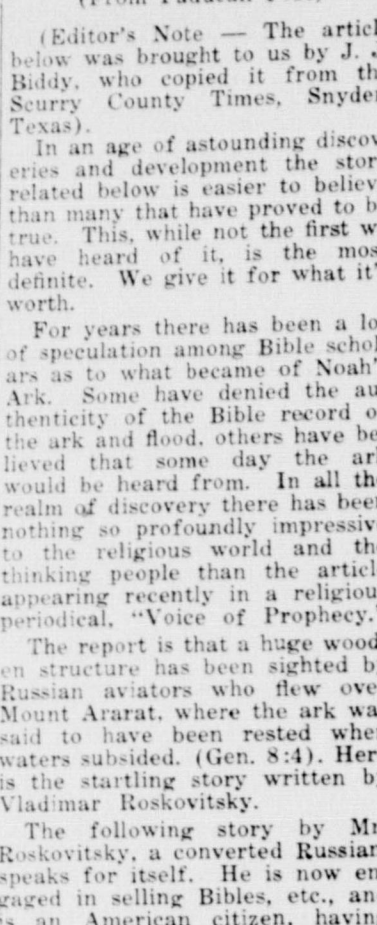

"We circled the field several times and then hit the 14,000 foot mark and stopped climbing for a few minutes to get used to the altitude. I looked over to the right at the beautiful snow capped peak, now just a little above us and for some reason I can't explain, turned and headed the plane straight toward it.

"My buddy turned around and looked at me with question marks in his eyes, but there was too much noise for him to ask questions. After all, 25 miles doesn't seem much at a hundred miles an hour. As I looked down at the great stacks of battlements surrounding the lower part of this mountain I remembered having heard that it had never been climbed since the year 700 B. C., when some pilgrims were supposed to have gone up there to scrape tar off an old shipwreck to make good luck emblems to wear around their necks to prevent their crops being destroyed by excessive rain-fall. The legend said they had left in haste after a bolt of lightning struck near them and they had never returned. Silly ancients. Who ever heard of looking for a shipwreck on a mountain top?

"A couple of circles around the snow-capped dome and then a long swift glide down the side and we suddenly came upon a perfect little gem of a lake; blue as an emerald, but still frozen over on the shady side. We circled around and returned for another look at it. Suddenly my companion whirled around and yelled something and excitedly pointed down at the overflow end of the lake. I looked and nearly fainted.

"A submarine! No, it wasn't, for it had stubby masts, but the top was rounded over with only a flat catwalk about five feet across down the length of it. "What a strange craft, built as though the designer had expected waves to roll over the top most of the time, and had engineered it to wallow in the sea like a log, with only enough sail to keep it facing the waves. (Years later in the Great Lakes with a waxlike paint resembling shellac, and the workmanship of the craft showed signs of a high type of civilization. The wood used throughout was olean-dr, which belongs to the cypress family and never rots, which, of course, coupled with the fact of its being painted and being frozen most of the time, accounted for its perfect preservation.

"The expedition found on the peak of the mountain above the ship the burned remains of the timbers which were missing out of one side of the ship. It seems that the timbers had been hurled up to the top of the peak and the other group of 100 men attacked the big mountain from the other side. Two weeks of hard work were required to chop out a trail along the cliffs of the lower part of the mountain, and it was nearly a month before the ark was reached. Complete measurements were taken and plans drawn of it, as well as many photographs, all of which were sent to the Czar of Russia.

"The ark was found to contain hundreds of small rooms and some rooms very large with high ceilings. The large rooms usually had a fence of great timber across them, some of which were two feet thick, as though designed to hold beasts ten times as large as elephants. Other rooms also were lined with tiers of cages, somewhat like one sees today at a poultry show, only instead of chicken wire, they had rods of tiny wrought iron bars along the fronts.

"Everything was heavily painted

I saw the famous 'Whaleback' or carriers with this same kind of rounded deck.)

"We flew down as close as safety permitted and took several circles around it. We were surprised when we got close to it at the immense size of the thing, for it was as long as a city block and would compare favorably in size to the modern battleships of today. It was grounded on the shore of the lake with about one-fourth under water. It had been partly dismantled on one side near the front, and on the other side there was a great doorway nearly 20 feet square, but with the other door gone. This seemed quite out of proportion, as even today ships seldom have doors half that wide.

"After seeing all we could from the air, we broke all speed records back down to the airport. When we related our find, the laughter was loud and long. Some accused us of getting drunk on too much oxygen and there were many other remarks too numerous to relate. The captain, however, was serious. He asked several questions and ended by saying, 'Take me up there. I want to look at it.'

"We made the trip without incident and returned to the airport. 'What do you make of it?' I asked as we climbed out of the plane.

"'Astounding,' he replied. 'Do you know what ship that is?'

"'Of course not, sir.'

"'Ever hear of Noah's Ark?'

"'Yes, sir, but I don't understand what a legend of Noah's Ark has to do with our finding this strange thing 14,000 feet up on a mountain.'

"'This strange craft,' explained the captain, 'is Noah's Ark. It has been sitting up there for nearly 5,000 years. Being frozen up for nine or ten months of the year, it couldn't rot, and has been on cold storage, as it were, all this time. You have made the most amazing discovery of the age.'

"When the captain sent this report to the Russian government, the story aroused considerable interest and the Czar sent two special companies of soldiers to climb the mountain. One group of 50 men attacked one side and the other group of 100 men attacked the big mountain from the other side. Two weeks of hard work were required to chop out a trail along the cliffs of the lower part of the mountain, and it was nearly a month before the ark was reached. FROZEN, BAKED AND BOUNCED!

If someone were to take your radio and drop it on the floor, beat it in the oven, and then freeze it in the refrigerator, you would assume that its useful days were over. Yet that, in principle, is what wireless sets for the Canadian Army must go through before they are placed in production by the Department of Munitions and Supply.

The idea, of course, is not to wreck the radios, but to see that they will stand up to the grueling conditions of actual warfare. Knowing well how tubes can work loose and soldered joints break under the constant pounding received in a tank, how parts freeze up and insulation cracks in sub-zero weather, and how condensers melt in extreme heat, not to mention a dozen other varied troubles, technicians at the Canadian Signals Experimental Establishment have devised a variety of test equipment to duplicate service conditions. They take pride in their work, these professional radio-wreckers. Their satisfaction is great when, after hours of punishment a future tank or armored car radio is still standing up and functioning well.

A set which comes through the tests with flying colors is not apt to go wrong in the field. Testing a wireless set for modern warfare is no haphazard job. In a mechanical "shaker-upper" the radio receives shocks gauged to simulate the pounding of a tank or some such fighting vehicle. When in the experimental oven, the heat treatment is carefully controlled to match conditions which might be met in desert warfare. And every time a set goes into the freezing chamber and the temperature until the rime and frost collect on the chassis, it is the laboratory reproduction of possible operating conditions on some battlefield.

Throughout such tests, the radios are kept in operation and after "workout" an exhaustive check is made with precision instruments to determine if effects, if any, have been produced.

This rigid testing is part of the process of development of all radio equipment designed by the Directorate of Signals Design, Army Engineering Branch, Department of Munitions and Supply. Sets from "foreign" sources are similarly tested to be sure that they are up to the specifications of the requirements of the Department of Munitions and Supply and the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom of Canada.

Look! Listen! Live!

For five years the grade crossing involved in the accident shown here had been on the driver's route. He drove over it every day at almost exactly the same hour and minute. He never met a train there before, and that old monster familiarity bred contempt for possible accident hazards.

But we're in a war and far more trains are running than in peacetime. It's "train time" at crossings much more frequently. Just before he lost his life, this driver drove onto the crossing in the path of a freight train. The accident occurred in daylight and the view of the truck driver was unobstructed. The train was delayed two hours.

For safety's sake, figure that it's train time all the time at all grade crossings.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these accidents, which every day delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a damaging blow to the nation's war transportation efforts. Driver-carelessness is the cause of all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council. To help Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start to cross.

CORRECTION IN SIGHT—A few powerful labor leaders have made monkeys out of the people of this country and our Congress. Their technique is to cause untold damage to the nation and the war effort, and when Congress is ready to crack down with legislation controlling their irresponsible acts, the labor bosses will ease up the pressure to block Congressional action.

The Administration has been largely responsible for this condition. It has failed to supply leadership or national labor legislation, and its blanket opposition to correctives has invited hastily drawn remedies. How much longer labor leaders can defy government and intimidate Congress remains to be seen.

With any faults that the recently passed House anti-strike bill may have, it has some good provisions. These include the requirements for financial statements by unions, control of political contributions and the granting of statutory authority to the National War Labor Board. It has been the lack of such authority which enabled John L. Lewis to thumb his nose at the Board and treat it with contempt.

Commenting on the situation, the New York Times says: "If a measure similar to the House Bill should now become a law, it would at least break the long-standing taboo against corrective labor legislation. Once this was done, the Administration and Congress should proceed to work out a more comprehensive and better balanced program."

If labor leaders are wise they will not provide another exhibition of defiance of government as witnessed in the last coal strike.—Industrial News-Review.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent" (John 17:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life" (page 324).

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Save now to buy later, after the War. That's good common sense because if you spend now, you help to drive prices up for everything you buy. Durable goods are scarce so invest in War Bonds today and do that house remodeling when Victory is won.

If you have not done so, join a Payroll Savings Plan at your office or factory. If you are not investing at least ten percent in War Bonds, increase your regular deductions on your Payroll Savings Plan. Let's "Top that ten percent."

IMMORAL TAX PRACTICES

R. J. Aller, President of the American Power & Light Company, criticizes discriminatory taxation policies of the Federal government against electric utilities, and urges that the present formula used for the computation of such taxes be corrected. He stresses the unfair taxation of investor-owned utilities as compared with government-owned projects, and declares that this "favoritism" shown to publicly-owned utilities "creates a powerful incentive toward public ownership and the socialization of an industry which has been an outstanding success in the American system of free enterprise."

If it were proposed to exempt investor-owned utilities from taxation, there would be a terrific roar raised because of tax funds that would be lost to city, county, state and Federal government. But the people, probably because they do not fully understand the issue, permit government-owned utilities to be tax-exempt, thereby destroying tax-paying properties and private enterprise, and increasing each individual tax bill.

Mr. Aller further pointed out that "before the war a regulated utility may have earned just 6 per cent. . . . Today Federal tax rates on net income, exclusive of the excess profits tax, are more than twice the 1939 rate and, therefore, such a utility must have substantially increased net earnings to meet such increased taxes; but even if earnings are realized, in many cases the excess profits tax of 81 per cent absorbs most of the increase."

It is easy to imagine the millions of dollars in increased taxes that must be loaded onto the general taxpayer to make up for the tax exemptions granted great Federal and municipal utilities when such governmental projects escape payment of the percentages of their earnings in taxes such as are charged against the investor-owned companies. It is unfair, un-American and a robbery of the taxpayer.—Industrial News-Review.

Son of Truscott Couple Married in Sweetwater June 26

Granville Westbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benton R. Westbrook of Sweetwater, Texas, in a double-ring ceremony performed by L. N. Moody, minister, in the home of the bride's parents at 10:30 p. m., Saturday, June 26, 1943, Mrs. Westbrook is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hart of Sweetwater.

The bride wore a pink silk street dress with white accessories and carried a corsage of white carnations on a white Bible. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Dorothy Dean Westbrook, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and wore a white linen suit with white accessories. DeWain Brown of Taboka was best man.

Miss Shirley Hart, sister of the bride, accompanied Misses Dorothy Young, Louise Grimes, Maxine Bonner and Elizabeth Connolly on the piano as they sang "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver." She then played the wedding march which was followed by the "Flower Song" played softly during the candle-light ceremony.

About forty guests, including the parents, immediate relatives and a number of friends, were present. Following the ceremony, the wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom and served by Mrs. H. D. Williams of Fort Worth. Mrs. Verline Mundy of Norman, Okla., presided at the punch bowl.

Many wedding gifts were opened and shown to the guests.

The bride and groom spent the week following the wedding visiting in Truscott and Sweetwater. They have returned to Fort Worth where they are living at 2709 Hennip.

Pupils of Mrs. Sam Crews Presented in Recital Tuesday P. M.

On Tuesday evening at her home, Mrs. Sam Crews presented her pupils in a piano recital.

The reception suite of the home was beautiful with artistically arranged flowers in evidence. Mrs. Merl Kincaid furnished and arranged the flowers which formed a lovely setting for the well-ordered program of children's classical music. Each pupil gave every evidence of careful training and rendered each piece with credit to themselves and to their teacher. Crowell is fortunate in having in her midst well trained talent to help in the rearing of the youth.

The guest list consisted of about fifty relatives and friends who registered in a lovely guest book.

The following program was presented: "The Mouse," "The School-boy," "Daddy's Shoes," "Augustine," "Hary Serenade" and "The Log," all by Wagness, were played by Billy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith, also "Step Lightly" by Cramm and "All Aboard" by MacLachlan were played by Billy.

Frankie Mabe played the following selections, "Sunshine" by Geo., "The Quail" by Bragdon, "My Daddy" by Maskell and "Rais Song" by Rebe. A duet, "The Cricket and the Bumble-bee" was played by Jean Hughston and Marcia Kincaid. Jean also played "Home on the Range" by Webster, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" by Bland, "Listen to the Mocking Bird" by Renson and "Cotton Pickers" by Martin.

Marcia Kincaid played for her numbers on the program, "Little Girl Dancing" by O'Hara, "Hark, Vesper Bells" by Johnson, "Minuet in G" by Beethoven and "Lohengrin Bridal Chorus" arranged by Wagness.

"Beautiful Dreamer" by Foster was played by Barbara White as her first number. Other numbers were "The Sleepy Top" by Gregor, "At the Organ" by Felicitas, "A Song of India" by Korsakov and "The Star Spangled Banner."

PTA STORY HOUR

The Story Hour for children which is being sponsored by the Crowell Parent Teacher Association will be under the supervision of Mrs. W. E. Johnson on Friday afternoon of this week. It will be held on the lawn at the rear of the Methodist Church between 6 and 7 o'clock.

There was a large attendance at the first of the story hours held last Friday and every child in town who cares to attend is given a special invitation. Mrs. Johnson will tell the story and also have charge of the recreation.

Charles West meets the approval of Miss Florence Hilsop, New Zealand member of the American Red Cross who instituted a program of occupational therapy for convalescing service men in a U. WESLEYAN SERVICE GUILD

The Wesleyan Service Guild met in a regular meeting, Thursday evening, July 8, in the home of Mrs. M. S. Henry.

After the business had been disposed of, the program leader, Mrs. Henry presented an interesting program "Day is Dying in the West," was sung after which Miss Florence Black gave a devotional from Mark 14:6.

"She had done a beautiful thing," which emphasized the friendship of Christ and His appreciation of friends. No deed done out of love and loyalty for Jesus falls to the hands and heart can be the most helpful thing in the world.

"Getting the Bible to a World at War," by Mrs. J. B. Harrison, proved to be enlightening and encouraging. She told of the Bibles especially prepared for the Merchant Marines, in water-proof envelopes, to be stored away in life boats against the hour of need in the day of calamity, for spiritual ministry to the men set adrift at sea.

Mrs. A. S. Hart presented "Fall of Singapore," telling how the Chinese and American Christians were awake to their duty during the perilous times. In China, the Christian religion has been accepted by a large enough number of natives that it will never die.

In a Bible quiz conducted by Miss Mayne Lee Collins, many interesting features were brought out.

Misses Eaton and Lenogene Green were out-of-town visitors at the meeting.

A refreshing drink was served at the close of the meeting during the social hour.

LIBRARY NEWS

Several new books have recently been added to the library. "The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan, is one of the cleanest and most popular books of today. It can be enjoyed by all ages and will be an outstanding book of the year. "The Valley of Decision" by Marcia Davenport is a novel of love and devotion. In time, the story covers almost seven decades of American life—from the origin of Black Friday to the guns of Pearl Harbor. "On Being a Mother" by Gertrude E. Hays Fowler, is a national best-seller. Harry Emerson Fosdick's ministry at Riverside Church, New York, is known all over the world. One of the best contemporary reviewers says of its pages, "It gives more medicine for the rehabilitation of personality than is contained on all the shelves of all the corner drug stores in the land."

The library of the home town needs and deserves the support of the citizens.

FOARD CITY H. D. CLUB

Despite the warm weather, members of the Foard City Home Demonstration Club enjoyed a meeting and demonstration at the club house on July 6. Songs for the music program on July 20 were practiced and convention plans were discussed. Mrs. Floyd Borchardt was elected delegate by acclamation. It was announced that the County Council was making plans for the annual entertainment.

In the demonstration on weaving chair bottoms, Miss Elizabeth Elliott showed several varieties of materials which may be used—Hongkong grass, corn shucks, cat tail grass, raffia, fiber. Methods of weaving were taught and everyone was enthusiastic over the afternoon's work.

On July 20, the club meets again at the club house.

Plans Being Made in Texas for 3rd War Bond Drive

Austin, July 12—Free-working women of Texas already are actively engaged in a campaign to put their state's quota of War Bond sales to individuals over the top, Frank Scofield, Texas War Bond Administrator, emphasized today.

His announcement was made following conferences with Miss Harriet Elliott of Washington, the U. S. Treasury's War Bond Saleswoman-in-Chief, who has been in Texas mapping War Bond drive plans with women leaders. A goal of 18 billion dollars has been set by the Treasury for bond sales to individuals during the remainder of this year, and both the men's and women's War Bond Divisions of the Nation have received a challenge from Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., to meet it. The Treasury Department is laying full stress on the importance of bond purchases by individuals.

Mr. Scofield pointed out to Miss Elliott that Texans led the Nation in sales to individuals in the recent Second War Loan Drive.

"And they'll do their share, and more, in this particular drive," he said.

To do it, Mr. Scofield and Miss Elliott agreed, the home front must sacrifice in dead earnest.

"The goal can be attained, but not by wishing," Miss Elliott said. "It can be attained only if each of us buckles down to a very serious job of doing without a lot of things to which we grew accustomed in days of ease and plenty."

"Wearing last year's clothes, shrinking household budgets, giving up pleasure trips, doing with less spending money—these are the sort of sacrifices we are going to have to make, and I'm sure every woman in Texas will be proud to make them."

Miss Elliott, well known educator, has served for more than a year at Washington in her present capacity. She is on leave from the post of Dean of Women and Professor of History and Political Science at the University of North Carolina.

"Every bond purchase by an individual serves a double purpose," Miss Elliott asserted. "It helps provide our soldiers with the equipment they must have, and turning the money over to war purposes instead of spending it on supposed personal needs and luxuries helps stem the tide of inflation."

"I would like to see every woman in Texas draw up a chart of the things for which she is now spending money, or for which she is planning to spend money, and then see how many items she can blue pencil in favor of bond purchases. Call it a "sacrificing chart," and preserve it among your souvenirs of the war—for it surely will deserve preservation."

Volunteers Needed in W. A. A. C.

Final decision by the War Department on whether fathers must be drafted in large numbers this fall for the armed forces may depend upon how many women volunteer their services in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in the next few months, Col. Claude K. Reinhardt, North Texas Army recruiting officer at Dallas, declared this week.

"The Selective Service System has reached a point where the wholesale drafting of fathers is an imminent prospect," Colonel Reinhardt said. "But it can be avoided, if the unencumbered women of the nation respond wholeheartedly to the call for volunteers in the WAAC."

"Now that the bill taking the WAAC into the Army and changing its name to the Women's Army Corps has become a law, effective Sept. 20, there is no limit on the number of women that can join. Every woman who does join, and takes over the duties of a soldier, means just one less father that will have to be drafted."

"Women who have no young children of their own should be proud to offer their services to their country in order that some father may remain with his family—and of course, the WAAC won't accept a woman if she does have any children under 14 years old."

"Also, there are many Army jobs that women actually have demonstrated they can perform with greater efficiency than men. In many cases, too, women are trained much more quickly than men for an Army job which they are unfamiliar with.

"There's another thing to consider, too. Many men are from the draft are engaged in plant jobs which cannot be done by women. It would be better to take such men and put them into the Army to do a job that women could do as well as better."

"We are fighting a war in which every individual should be such that those who leave present homes and go to the front without regard to whether men or women."

She wants to win an unpopularity, contest!

Elizabeth Jenkins seeks title of "Most hated by Axis in 1943!"

THE AXIS has probably never heard of Miss Elizabeth Jenkins—but she's doing her level best to change that!

For example: Elizabeth works in an essential industry thereby releasing, in effect, a fighting man. And out of the salary she draws for that work she puts 22% into War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. She figures that her investment may help to maintain the three fighting men who are closest to her—her two brothers and her father.

They're fighting for me, so the least I can do is to help buy the tools they fight with!" says Elizabeth.

Her father commands a brigade of the North Carolina State Guard. He saw action overseas in the last war and his stories have made Elizabeth keenly aware of the importance of her investment in War Bonds. Her father has explained that no matter how much spirit and fight a soldier has, he needs the best equipment that money can buy. He has also pointed out that American soldiers are the best equipped in the world.

Miss Jenkins wants to keep them that way, because in addition to her father, she has two brothers in the Army.

Lieutenant Tom is an anti-aircraft artilleryman. Captain Jack is in the Air Corps. So Elizabeth is reasonably sure that in one way or another, the Axis will hear from the Jenkins family in the near future. It makes no difference to Elizabeth whether her War Bond investment buys bombs or shells, either one will get her a few more votes for the title she's seeking.

Are you doing as much for America's future as Elizabeth Jenkins? Are you as anxious as she is to get the war over and get the war won? Every dollar you can contribute hurries Victory, so...

Figure it out for yourself: Weren't there a few more dollars in your last pay envelope that could have gone into War Bonds—but didn't? Get out a pen and paper right now, and see if you can't boost the percentage you're putting aside for Uncle Sam—and yourself!

Each pupil gave every evidence of careful training and rendered each piece with credit to themselves and to their teacher. Crowell is fortunate in having in her midst well trained talent to help in the rearing of the youth.

The guest list consisted of about fifty relatives and friends who received in a lovely guest book.

The following program was presented: "The Mouse," "The School-boy," "Daddy's Shoes," "Augustine," "Harp Serenade" and "On The Log," all by Wagness, were played by Billy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith, also "Step Lightly" by Cramm and "All Aboard" by MacLachlan were played by Billy.

No deed done out of love and loyalty for Jesus fails to be beautiful. To give what the hands and heart can is the most helpful thing in the world.

"Getting the Bible to a World at War," by Mrs. J. B. Harrison, proved to be enlightening and encouraging. She told of the Bibles especially prepared for the Merchant Marines, in water-proof envelopes, to be stored away in life boats against the hour of need in the day of calamity, for spiritual ministry to the men set adrift at sea.

LIBRARY NEWS

Several new books have recently been added to the library. "The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan, is one of the cleanest and most popular books of today. It can be enjoyed by all ages and will be an outstanding book of the year.

"The Valley of Decision" by Marcia Davenport is a novel of love and devotion. In time, the story covers almost seven decades of American life—from the origin of Black Friday to the guns of Pearl Harbor.

Another book, "On Being a Real Person" by Harry Emerson Fosdick, is a national best-seller. Harry Emerson Fosdick's ministry at Riverside Church, New York, is known all over the world. One of the best contemporary reviewers says of its pages, "It gives more medicine for the rehabilitation of personality than is contained on all the shelves of all the corner drug stores in the land."

The library of the home town needs and deserves the support of the citizens.

Army Nurses Back from South Pacific Enjoy Conveniences

San Francisco. — Shopping, modern plumbing and hot water milkshakes were the objects of a city "speek," when forty-four Army nurses arrived here after sixteen months in the South Pacific. They were stationed on New Caledonia, the Hebrides and Fiji Islands, and in Auckland and Melbourne, Australia.

They got a thrill out of light switches in hotel rooms, bath tubs and upholstered chairs. They hadn't shopped for so long, they insisted on carrying each package separately instead of in one large bundle, "just to get the feel of packages again."

"It's the first time in months and months we've been able to walk on real rugs, or sit in real upholstered chairs," exclaimed Lieut. Joan Douglas, Philadelphia. "Boy, this is simply wonderful!" "On New Caledonia we lived in Army tents," Lieut. Hottie Hopkins, Goode, Virginia, recalled. "But they weren't bad. One of the boys built a little white picket fence around ours, and it was homey."

"Between three and five of us lived in a tent," she continued. "Each tent had a dog for a pet. The dogs went by a variety of names, Askit, Rodgers, MacGregor. Then we had a couple of parrots; a pair of love birds who weren't very much in love, two cats and one billy goat."

Baths were terrible, according to Lieut. Constance Finney, of Philadelphia. "We bathed in a sheltered place up the river. But we had to bathe in pairs. One of us would take some leaves and fan the other to keep from getting eaten up with mosquitoes."

Plans Being Made in Texas for 3rd War Bond Drive

Austin, July 12.—Free-working women of Texas already are actively engaged in a campaign to put their state's quota of War Bond sales to individuals over the top, Frank Seefield, Texas War Bond Administrator, emphasized today.

His announcement was made following conferences with Miss Harriet Elliott of Washington, the U. S. Treasury's War Bond Saleswoman-in-Chief, who has been in Texas mapping War Bond drive plans with women leaders.

A goal of 18 billion dollars has been set by the Treasury for bond sales to individuals during the remainder of this year, and both the men's and women's War Bond Divisions of the Nation have received a challenge from Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., to meet it. The Treasury Department is laying full stress on the importance of bond purchases by individuals.

Mr. Seefield pointed out to Miss Elliott that Texans led the Nation in sales to individuals in the recent Second War Loan Drive, and "And they'll do their share, and more, in this particular drive," he said.

To do it, Mr. Seefield and Miss Elliott agreed, the home front must sacrifice in dead earnest.

"The goal can be attained, but not by wishing," Miss Elliott said. "It can be attained only if each of us buckles down to a very serious job of doing without a lot of things to which we grew accustomed in days of ease and plenty."

"Wearing last year's clothes, shrinking household budgets, giving up pleasure trips, doing with less spending money—these are the sort of sacrifices we are going to have to make, and I'm sure every woman in Texas will be proud to make them."

Miss Elliott, well known educator, has served for more than a year at Washington in her present capacity. She is on leave from the post of Dean of Women and Professor of History and Political Science at Women's College of the University of North Carolina.

"Every bond purchase by an individual serves a double purpose," Miss Elliott asserted. "It helps provide our soldiers with the equipment they must have, and turning the money over to war purposes instead of spending it on supposed personal needs and luxuries helps stem the tide of inflation."

"I would like to see every woman in Texas draw up a chart of the things for which she is now spending money, or for which she is planning to spend money, and then see how many items she can blue pencil in favor of bond purchases. Call it a "sacrifice chart," and preserve it among your souvenirs of the war—for it surely will deserve preservation."

Volunteers Needed in W. A. A. C.

Final decision by the War Department on whether fathers must be drafted in large numbers this fall for the armed forces may depend upon how many women volunteer their services in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in the next few months. Col. Claude K. Reinhardt, North Texas Army recruiting officer at Dallas, declared this week.

"The Selective Service System has reached a point where the wholesale drafting of fathers is an imminent prospect," Colonel Reinhardt said. "But it can be avoided, if the unnumbered women of the nation respond wholeheartedly to the call for volunteers in the WAAC."

"Now that the bill taking the WAAC into the Army and changing its name to the Women's Army Corps has become a law, effective Sept. 20, there is no limit on the number of women that can join. Every woman who does join, and takes over the duties of a soldier, means just one less father that will have to be drafted."

"Women who have no young children of their own should be proud to offer their services to their country in order that some father may remain with his family—and of course, the WAAC won't accept a woman if she does have any children under 14 years old."

"Also, there are many Army jobs that women actually have demonstrated they can perform with greater efficiency than in many cases, too, women can be trained much more quickly than men for an Army job with which they are unfamiliar.

"There's another thing to consider, too. Many men leave from the draft are engaged in plant jobs which cannot be done by women. It would be a waste to take such men and put them into the Army to do a job that women could do as well or better."

"We are fighting a war in which every individual should do his part. Division of labor should be such that those who leave present homes and employment with least dislocation, and without regard to whether they are men or women."

She wants to win an unpopularity, contest!

Elizabeth Jenkins seeks title of "Most hated by Axis in 1943!"

THE AXIS has probably never heard of Miss Elizabeth Jenkins—but she's doing her level best to change that!

For example:

Elizabeth works in an essential industry thereby releasing, in effect, a fighting man. And out of the salary she draws for that work she puts 22% into War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. She figures that her investment may help to maintain the three fighting men who are closest to her—her two brothers and her father.

"They're fighting for me, so the least I can do is to help buy the tools they fight with!" says Elizabeth.

Her father commands a brigade of the North Carolina State Guard. Lieutenant Tom is an antiaircraft artilleryman. Captain Jack is in the Air Corps.
