Your Horoscope

November 5, 6, 7.—You give up very easily. You grow sad when you do not win, and during this mood you would rather be alone and weep to the one who crosses your path. Be more cheerful and hopeful and everything will turn out well for you in the end.

November 8, 9, 10, 11.—You are an impetuous, insistent person and sometimes get mysteriously cheated and taken advantage of. You are musically inclined but you do things your own way disregarding any method. You would rather see a good comedy than any other type of play. You will not fight for your own rights, but usually have friends who help you out. You love to read and your taste leads to deeper books than most people read. You are civic minded but have little to do with politics.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Good Sink Brush.—A worn whiskbroom makes a fine sink brush if you cut off the worn bristles clear up to the stiff part. Always rinse clean after using.

Washing Windows in Winter.—To clean windows in freezing weather, moisten a soft cloth with kerosene instead of water.

Tapioca Good in Pies.—When making apple or berry pies scatter a tablespoon of minute tapioca over the top before putting on the upper crust. It keeps juice from running out and improves the flavor.

A LETTER TO HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS FROM G. I. JOE

This Business of Necking
 I've just been kicked in the teeth. And by a baby. To me, she's a baby, anyway. My little sister. I don't mean the one I've mentioned to you girls before, the one who's sixteen. I mean the one who laughs like a music box and has freckles on her nose, going on fourteen.

home. Never before felt, even for a time, maybe I might be needed more at home than I am over here on account of a Bobby-Soxer needs her big brother to help her stay as sweet as she is.
 I started a letter to her. Then I thought about all the other kids in their early teens—cute, sweet, good kids—who might be wanting to know if necking pays in dividends. So lend me your ears, youngsters. Here comes Bill, big brother to you all!
 I could cover the problem and nail the lid down with just this bit of truth-and-wisdom: "Kissing is the front door to happiness or trouble, but—whichever—it's not for kids."

 It's not for kids, because your feet haven't been standing long enough on this old earth for you to know the traffic laws. You're not yet big enough to read the road signs.
 Listen, you kid—only the girl with nothing in her head has to depend on petting to keep dates coming. The fibbertigibbet with the loud laugh and the snappy back talk may have the boys beating a path to her door while you sit and listen for the telephone. But don't wonder what she's got that you haven't got. The answer is nothing. What she's doing is making herself so cheap she'll be just a forgotten girl before she's eighteen.
 Don't be jealous, cookies, of the fourteen-year-old Sheba who has a gang of boys on her trail. By the time the boys have made her name a cue for a crack, she'll be all alone by the telephone, while you'll be scribbling names on your engagement pad so fast you won't be able to read 'em right. — (From The Gladiator, Italy, Texas).

STAMFORD BULLDOGS TOPPLE WILDCATS

The Crowell Wildcats were defeated by the Stamford Bulldogs,

34-13 Friday night at Stamford. Stamford scored two times in the first period. These scores were made by Lowe, Bulldog quarterback. The next Bulldog score was made by Ladd, who intercepted a Wildcat pass. The remaining Bulldog scores were made by Lowe in the second period.
 Making two touchdowns, the Wildcats came back strong in the second half and held the Bulldogs scoreless.
 Brock made the first Wildcat score on a pass play which netted about 35 yards. The try for extra point failed.
 Patton, Wildcat tackle, covered a Stamford kick which was blocked by Wharton, and rolled over the goal line. This was the last Wildcat score. Joy made the extra point.
 At the end of the game the Wildcats were on the two yard line threatening to score again. The final score was 34-13.
 Wildcat players who stood out in this game were Mitchell, Patton and Joy.
 The Wildcats have an open date this week.

GLOOMY GHOST GALLIVANT GAILY and WITCHES WANDER WILDLY
Senior Party
 The Seniors had their annual Halloween party Monday night, Oct. 29, at the home of Mrs. R. J. Thomas.
 When the Seniors were taken one by one into the cellar to see the dead man (portrayed by Ed Thomas and Bill Irwin), one might have heard a curdling scream. Also there was a mysterious ghost on the scene in the "spook house." After the blood curdling events, we had much fun playing games. Bobbing for apples was one where every girl got her hair washed free of charge. The "Scavenger Hunt" was more fun than all. Ask Mrs. Wilkinson if she has any hose left or ask Coach Wilkinson if he had any sleep?
 To end this happy party for our "den of Seniors" a plate consisting of hot dogs, pickles, potato chips, and pepsi-cola was served. We thank our class mothers: Mrs. Joe Monkhouse, Mrs. Roy Todd, Mrs. F. L. Brock, Mrs. Jack Seale and Mrs. R. J. Thomas, and Leo Purvis, sponsor, for a very good time. But for the benefit of those who did not have their fortune told you had better beware, for you will not know your future as we do.

Junior Party
 If you heard shrieks of horror and saw ghosts walking around when you passed the Haney residence Monday night, it was only the Juniors having their Halloween party.
 On arriving, each member was conducted through the house of horror. Then tricks, such as making a table talk and finding a key, were performed. Jimmy Cates then told us a true story that happened to him in a cemetery in Germany.
 Refreshments of hot dogs, potato chips, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and cokes were served. We wish to thank the class mothers: Mrs. Walter Thomson, Mrs. Homer White, Mrs. Dwight Campbell, Mrs. Gordon Cooper, Mrs. Roy Barker, Mrs. T. H. Haney and our sponsor, Mrs. Earl Manard, for an enjoyable occasion.

 Saturday night, October 29, the Sophomores had their Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Howard Williams. The room was prettily decorated in the Halloween colors.
 Snappy games were conducted by Mrs. Harold Wilkinson, sponsor, and her husband. Everyone had loads of fun, particularly J. C. Autry, who was dumped on the floor while playing Rock-a-bye Baby.
 The class mothers served coney islands, cookies, and cokes.
 The room mothers responsible for our good time were Mesdames Howard Williams, Herbert Edwards, Roy Ayers and Miss Frances Hill.

Freshman Party
 The Freshman Halloween party was held at the home of Mrs. E. A. Evans, Wednesday night, Oct. 31.
 The Halloween motif—black cats, witches, Jack o' lanterns, and skeletons—were in profusion in the living room. Apples, swinging in the doorways, furnished fun as the crowd gathered, especially for Joyce Smith and Bill Bond.
 A mystic fortune teller came from Waco for the gala occasion. Let Icyphene Wharton (or any other Freshman present) tell you just how much she told them that has already come true.
 Games followed the fortune telling, and Dorothy Thompson, Floyd Borchardt and Martha Schlagal had to lap water from a saucer (imitating a cat) as a forfeit for not being able to do a stunt.
 Refreshments of hot dogs, ginger bread and hot chocolate were served, and the ginger bread contained hidden treasure! Floyd Borchardt found a dime, Martha Schlagal the thimble, Dalton Biggerstaff the button, and Peggy Pittillo the ring.
 Thanks, to our classmothers, Mrs. E. A. Evans, Mrs. Henry Johnson, Mrs. Floyd Borchardt and Mrs. Doyle Kenner, sponsor, for a wonderful time.

THE CAT'S WHISKERS

The top o' the morning to ya, my fine lads and lassies. I see everyone is still alive after the ever famous Halloween and the Stamford game Friday night. Red Paint—Everywhere you look all you see is Seniors and Juniors 46. To begin with let's see just who was with whom Halloween night. Janet and Miles, Booty and Bobby, and Shaney and Larry were triple dating.
 Betty and Brock finally got together. Also Evelyn and Johnny. We wonder why so-o-o many "Fish" had red paint all over them?
 Something new has been added, Virginia and Kendrick. They were together Wednesday and Saturday night.
 There are a lot of other Halloween "doins" that the ghost will have to tell you about. Everyone had a swell time at Stamford Friday night even though the Wildcats were defeated, and so many players were hurt. Saturday night brought on the steadies, Evie and Johnny, Betty and Brock, and Shaney and James.
 Seen double dating Saturday night were Jenny and Kendrick, and it was so dark we just couldn't see who was in the back seat.
 Welcome home, "Doe."
 Tommie Eaton really gets around. First it's Chic (whom most of us don't know). Then it's "Puss," and now it's "Bit."
 We just have a "whole bunch" of new students, and we all want

Rewards From Service

There is a great principle in life, that those who give freely find things returning to them. There is a saying in the Bible which runs, "Cast thy bread upon the waters, and it shall return to thee after many days." There is a profound truth in that saying. Those who cast around their bread in the form of kindly acts and helpful service, find that many times in the future they will remember these things. Many of them take occasion to make a return for these things so generously done.

So it is true in community life. Those who work for the good of the community, who help on its progressive movements, who work in its organizations, may sometimes feel that their bread has been cast on the waters and will never return. But it does return many times in the friends they make, the esteem in which they are held and the reputation they acquire for doing things successfully.

souri, on November 30, 1835. His father was descended from Virginia stock and his mother was of English origin. When Clemens was four years old his family moved to Hannibal, Missouri. When Clemens was twelve years old his father died, and to help support his mother he learned the printers' trade in a Hannibal printing office. At the age of eighteen he set out traveling about the country working at the printers trade. In 1857 at the age of twenty-two he was apprenticed to a river pilot on the Mississippi and spent four years on the river. At the age of twenty-six he went to Nevada where his brother held the position of secretary to the territorial governor. While in Nevada he prospected for gold, reported for a newspaper at Virginia City and wrote sketches which he signed Mark Twain. After securing a position on a California newspaper he was sent by the paper to Sandwich Islands as a free lance writer. Returning to this country he joined a party of travelers visiting the Mediterranean and the Holy Land. Upon his return from this trip he wrote his first book, "Innocents Abroad," which appeared in 1869. "Tom Sawyer" was published in 1876 and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" in 1884. He established a printing business in Hartford, Conn., which failed. To pay his debts he made a lecture tour around the world in 1895 and 1896 and succeeded in paying from its proceeds the claims of all his creditors. In 1905 Harper Brothers arranged for a celebration of his seventieth anniversary. The 100th anniversary was celebrated in 1935 which began with a memorial airplane beacon at Hannibal being lighted by President Roosevelt on January 13, and continued on April 25 when a memorial museum and a monument of Mark Twain was unveiled. The celebration ended on November 30 with meetings and dinners in various cities of the country. Mr. Clemens died in 1910.

Let's tear your electric bill to pieces

GO AHEAD, lady—tear your electric bill apart and see what it's made up of.

This little piece lights all your lamps. This one plays your radios. This cools and keeps your food. This washes your clothes. This takes care of the cooking and ironing and cleaning. And so on.

That's a lot of different jobs to be covered by one small bill. And—hold on! You've paid for more than just electricity. About 25c of every dollar you pay for electric service goes in turn for taxes which benefit your community and help carry our heavy federal government expenditures.

Taxes UP... General cost of living UP... You'd think the cost of electric service would be up, too. But it isn't. The overall rate has even come down a little since the war began. Actually—

The average family gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did fifteen years ago!

This welcome fact comes from the careful planning and progressive spirit of America's business-managed, self-supporting, tax-paying electric companies.

Frigidaire Dealer Announces Receipt of Postwar Model

C. R. Seale, manager of West Texas Utilities Co., local Frigidaire dealer at Crowell, announced this week that he had received his first new postwar Frigidaire and that refrigerators have now been released for sale to the public. "These refrigerators," he said, "have been in production for some time, but have not been available to the public due to War Production Board restrictions.

"Now that restrictions have been lifted, the refrigerators now on hand and those that will be manufactured in the future will be for sale to the public. Right now," continued Mr. Seale, "the demand for new refrigerators far exceeds the supply, and for a short while the supply will be limited, but, every day production at Frigidaire is increasing and in a little while there will be enough new Frigidaires for everybody.

"Frigidaire Division, G. M. Co., began a limited production of refrigerators following termination of its war contract in July. Following V-J Day the all-out job of reconversion and production began at the huge Dayton plants where refrigerators, electric ranges and commercial refrigeration products are being made for civilian consumption. In an unbelievably short period of time, and due to its 25 years of experience in household and commercial refrigeration, Frigidaire reached peak efficiency.

Mr. Seale stated further that, "In that race to serve the American public as quickly as possible, Frigidaire did not lose sight of the fact that quality, dependability, and service are equally as important as quantity. This fact is evidenced by the exclusive developments of Frigidaire which are contained in the new models now available to the public.

"The Meter-Miser, Super-Freezer, Lifetime porcelain Finish, Quickcube Ice Trays, Meat Tender and other advantages that have served to make Frigidaire the world's largest manufacturer of refrigerators are again present, and are made with the same or better material than was used in pre-war construction," added Mr. Seale.

"Little wonder," concluded Mr. Seale, "the public has made Frigidaire the favorite in the past. This year, as always, it will be 'Look to the Favorite, Look to Frigidaire.'"

RIVERSIDE 4-H CLUB

The Riverside 4-H Club met on Friday, Nov. 2, at 2 o'clock in the school building. Miss Elizabeth Elliott and D. F. Eaton met with them.

Miss Elliott and Mr. Eaton demonstrated how to plant and grow strawberries and also demonstrated the making of a frame garden and what to plant in one.

Miss Elliott gave the girls their 4-H Club books. The next meeting will be held on Friday, Nov. 16.

Vegetable crop specialists at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., have devised a means of determining whether or not a potato will be mealy when cooked. The difference is determined by putting the potato in a brine solution. Potatoes that float in a brine solution of 2 ounces of salt to a pint of water are not mealy, those that partially submerge in a solution of 2 1/4 ounces of salt to a pint of water are slightly or medium mealy. Those that sink are mealy. The tests are a valuable aid in selecting potatoes for dehydrating and certain methods of cooking.

Facing this country comes from such demands as those being made by the UAW-CIO. Apparently they are able and willing to enforce their demands.

The most notable event of this week in the Congress was the President's message to the joint session recommending universal military training. This will evoke widespread discussion, debate, and controversy before any definite policy is agreed upon. Few people will disagree that America should be the strongest military power on the face of the earth, and should rely not alone upon just dealings, but also upon strength for preservation of the peace.

A few figures on the costs of the last two world wars are staggering. World War I cost the United States, as of June 30, 1921, 25 billion, 729 million dollars, not counting the continuing cost, such as veterans pensions and hospitalization, and interest on the war debt of 21 billion, 500 million dollars through 1938.

World War I cost other belligerents 113 billion, 204 million dollars.

To date the cost of World War 2 to the United States is over 337 billion, 181 million dollars, and we have loaned-leased an additional 32 billion. The money spent on World War 2 by the U. S. would buy a $10,000 home for every family in the United States.

American casualties in World War I totaled 50,510 killed and dying from wounds, and casualties of all belligerents numbered 8,538,315 killed and 21,219,542 wounded. This war cost America 254,485 killed, 651,189 wounded, 41,889 missing, and casualties of other belligerents are estimated to total 44,000,000.

Certainly we cannot afford World War 3. As the most powerful nation on earth we have great responsibilities for the future world peace.

When we contemplate universal military training we recall that many of the best citizens of this nation fled the old world to escape universal military service. Certainly the sort of universal military training that we may eventually agree upon will not be similar to the old world variety. One of the hundreds of interesting suggestions heard in the Capitol following the President's address was that we create in this country fifteen or twenty naval academies similar to the Academy at Annapolis, and fifteen or twenty military academies similar to that at West Point, and permit all boys to take one or more years of training in these military universities, transferring later, if they wish, to other schools for degrees in military science, engineering or technology.

Other suggestions are that boys

One of these methods would be through four years of military training along with school or college work, and with summer encampments. Whooping Cough Dangerous to Very Young Children

Austin.—There is no other communicable disease as dangerous as whooping cough to the very young, and there is no other disease causing an equal amount of suffering of which parents show such an unaccountable disregard, not only for the safety of their own little ones, but also for the lives of the neighbors' children," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. There is no natural immunity against this disease during the first six months of life as there is against measles. It is at this age that whooping cough strikes its hardest blow and over 80 per cent of the deaths occurring in children are under one year of age. The disease is usually transmitted by direct contact with secretions of the mouth or nose, and only a very short exposure is required to contract the infection. Handkerchiefs, drinking cups and toys also may transmit the infection.

"The infection is communicable from the appearance of the first symptoms and is most contagious at this early period when the nature of the affection can only be suspected. The incubation period is commonly seven days. A slight fever, running of the nose and a cough make their appearance so gradually and insidiously that a diagnosis is practically impossible unless a history of exposure is obtained. When the "whoop" appears there is no mistaking the disease. If there is whooping cough in your community keep other children away from your little children and keep your children at home. Call your physician early. Isolation of all cases for at least two weeks from the development of the characteristic cough should be rigidly enforced.

E-H CLUB WORK

We now have enrolled around 200 boys in this work here in the county. This is practically all boys above eight years of age in the grammar grades of the schools in the county. There are also some 15 boys in high school who are continuing this work. These boys each have individual projects for which each boy is responsible for carrying out. These activities consist of gardening, poultry growing, beef calves, feeder calves, dairy cows and calves, swine, wheat, cotton, sweet sudan, milo and bonita crops, besides studies in rodent and heel fly control and safety practices in home and on farm. In their meetings we discuss with them care and feeding of all types of livestock, and poultry, control of diseases and insects, the latest equipment on farm and in home, also the best economic practices in all farm operations. These boys hold their own livestock show in the spring and arrange for financing the premiums paid. Many of the boys have purchased pure bred animals.

In every case we have had the finest support of teachers and parents. Wherever there is a sympathetic support in the home we have obtained the best results. It is discouraging for the boys to go into the pork barrel for the home meat supply or his calf to go into the meat locker even though he is contributing worthily to the home food supply. It would please him more to have a separate pig or calf to sell himself. He needs to learn to use money. He will soon grow into partnership with his dad.

SOME FACTS ON GRAZING SMALL GRAIN

The possible shortage in many areas of Texas of concentrates, carbohydrates, as well as protein feeds during the coming winter makes small grain pastures the most important item in a livestock grower's plans this fall.

In view of the unfavorable feed outlook, livestock growers stand to gain more from grazing small grains this winter than at any time in the past. November first is close to the end of the season for planting small grains. But if there is no delay, there still is time for many stockmen to plant these crops. Small grain crops cannot be beaten as an abundant low-cost source of high quality protein, minerals and vitamins.

It takes more than thirty sacks of cottonseed meal to equal the protein in one acre of small grain pastures. This was shown in tests made by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. In these tests, yields for the season of six thousand pounds of dry matter per acre containing twenty-seven per cent of protein were common. Wheat, oats, barley and rye were among the small grains used.

FIRE HAZARDS ON ELECTRIFIED FARMS

When materials and labor become more abundant there'll be more rural highlines built, and more Texas farms will install electricity. The effect of new construction may be felt next year.

The coming of electricity will mean that a lot of farms will get rid of a lot of fire hazards. For, when farm folks get electric lights and power they can say good bye to oil lamps, candles and lanterns which have set many fires around farm homes and out buildings. Electricity itself can, of course, be a fire hazard but only when it isn't used properly.

Take the cord of one of your electric lamps or appliances for example. Used properly it will give you safe, dependable service for many years, says M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer for the A. & M. College Extension Service. But if you put it under a rug where it will be stepped on, hang it over a nail, or run it through a door where it's likely to be pinched you are asking for a fire. That isn't the right way to treat a cord!

Bentley suggests three safeguards to insure fire-proof electric service. First, see that your farm is properly wired. Wiring should be done by a competent electrician, and the wire heavy enough to carry as much current as you will need. When the wiring is done have it checked by the power supplier before turning on the electricity.

Second, don't overload any one part of your wiring system. It's a good rule not to connect more than one or two pieces of equipment at one time to one outlet.

Third, keep your fuses on the job, so that if anything goes wrong with your wiring you can turn off the electricity at once. Putting a penny behind the fuse or tampering with a fuse will rob you of this protection.

These simple rules make up top-notch insurance against electrical fires on any farm, Bentley says.

HOW TO CONTROL BIND WEED OR POSSESSION WEED

This mild morning glory plant is one of the most persistent weeds we have to deal with when it is once established and spreads over a larger area each year. No crop will thrive where it grows and when cultivated it spreads more rapidly. This pest can be controlled or completely eliminated, but it takes persistent effort and continuous treatment.

The most successful practice in exterminating this weed is the constant cultivation of the larger
