All 1944-crop cotton still under loan on July 1 will be pooled for producers' account and sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation, according to Foard County ACA Administrative Officer. Meanwhile, producers may redeem their cotton under terms of the loan program.

Based on the present market, farmers should be able to sell much of this cotton at prices that will net them substantial profits. Producers may either sell their cotton or redeem the cotton and sell it in the open market. They are urged to market the loan cotton before it is placed in pools.

After final liquidation of all cotton in the pools, the net proceeds, after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, will be distributed among producers in proportion to their interest.

The seniors scored first in the game early in the second quarter with a touchdown pass from Charles Nelson to Carlos McBeath. The extra point was good. The High School boys went into the lead later in the same quarter when Kendrick Joy threw a long pass to R. L. Ballard for a touchdown. Joy ran the extra point over to make the score 7 to 6 in favor of the Wildcats.

The seniors went back into the lead again late in the third quarter when they backed the High School boys over their own goal line for a safety and two points. The third quarter ended with a count of 8 to 7 for the seniors. The Wildcats cashed in on a fumble late in the fourth quarter. Joy ran three plays at the middle of the line and picked up eight yards and the last score of the game. The final score was 13 to 8 in favor of the High School team.

Mack Taylor of Wichita Falls This Week Entered Race for Congress As Representative from 13th District

Issuing Saturday a formal statement of his political beliefs and projected policy, Mack Taylor of Wichita Falls, candidate in the Democratic primary July 27 as congressional representative from the 13th District, declared that, if elected, he will support "the Democratic party in every effort to forward the plans and policies of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Taylor's application for candidacy in opposition to Ed Gossett, incumbent, was filed last Thursday with M. L. Tittle, chairman of the Wichita County Democratic Executive Committee. The 13th Congressional District comprises Archer, Wichita, Baylor, Clay, Cooke, Denton, Foard, Hardeman, Jack, Knox, Montague, Throckmorton, Wilbarger, Wise and Young Counties.

Considering in detail major and minor legislative problems now confronting congress, Taylor declared, "I follow General MacArthur in his recent assertion that all nations must renounce war as an instrument of national policy. This is the first and biggest of all public issues," he continued, "and it must be settled as the foundation of all other constructive national or international action."

shores to deliver an inflammatory, imperialistic plea for our co-operation should be ignored."

Higher Soldier Pay

In reference to the Selective Service Act, Taylor asserted that the present measure should be allowed to expire, but that voluntary enlistment should be encouraged by the establishment of a higher minimum pay bracket for enlisted men.

"Since we have the biggest and best navy in the world, the largest and best air force and the atomic bomb," he said, "I believe that all military personnel requirements could be met on a voluntary basis, doing away with the drafting of men, if the minimum enlisted man's pay was set at $75 per month."

"I am in favor," he continued, "of abolishing the Army caste system and all present uniform differences, in favor of distinction by insignia only."

"I also believe that a more equitable system of privileges should be worked out for enlisted men," he said.

Taylor has included in his platform the establishment of a positive, U. S. civilian control over atomic research, the atomic bomb and all other secret, U. S.-developed weapons.

"We want to take these things from the control of the Washington brass-hats," he said.

75-Cent Hourly Wage

Discussing the current labor scene, Taylor said he will support the fullest extent "all legislative action to establish a wage and hour law in support of a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour for a 40-hour work week, with time-and-a-half for all time in excess of 40 hours."

"This is but a subsistence wage in relation to present living costs," he said. "Consider the case of a laborer, the head of a family of five, who earns this minimum basic pay. At the end of a standard 40-hour week he would gross $30. Present withholding taxes average about 20 per cent of wages. Thus your laborer would earn a take-home pay of approximately $24 a week. I, for one, would not like to see the result of a man with a family trying to live on anything less than this amount," he said.

"Mack Taylor will also give his full support," the candidate continued, "to all legislation limiting certain presently opportunistic labor practices of utilities and corporations. I have been told by employees of certain Texas utilities that these companies do not pay overtime in excess of 40 hours."

"Turning to the consideration of present federal rent and price controls, Taylor expressed the conviction that rent controls should be maintained "until the present acute housing shortage is eliminated. This can be done by a positive government building program in co-operation with local private contractors. Once such a program is achieved, I believe that all rent controls should be abolished," he declared.

Farm Prices

"Regarding OPA food subsidies and controls, I believe the federal government should put a floor under farm prices that will be satisfactory to the farmer, and should remove farm price ceilings. I am convinced," he continued, "that this should be a basic policy, applicable as well to the oil production industry. I advocate the establishment of a per-barrel floor of $1.58 and removal of all present OPA ceiling prices on independently produced crude."

Taking a stand for reduction of federal tax machinery, Taylor declared that the present plan requiring taxpayers to file estimates on future earnings should be abolished.

"I am also for the exemption from income tax payment of all married persons with annual incomes of less than $5,000," he said.

Taylor stated emphatically that if elected, he would especially concern himself with the expansion of rural electrification projects, as well as a program to supply directly to all rural consumers "the surplus power now being generated at the $55,000,000 Denison dam and the $12,000,000 Mineral Wells dam."

"This current," he asserted, "is now being purchased for distribution by private power utilities at a price they are ashamed to make public. I propose to halt this practice, which is a matter of dollars-and-cents interest to every farmer and rancher in Texas."

"Get A Power Saw"

"Expansion of this program means that every farmer and rancher would have available a low-cost power source for refrigeration, lighting and machine operation," he said. "To the farmer, I say, Let's cut out the wood cutting and get a power saw!"

"I am in favor of exempting all poll taxes and I think all boys and girls of 18 years of age should vote. And I also believe that voters over sixty years of age should have a permanent exemption from paying poll tax and not go to the court house every year for renewal."

"You'll never find Mack Taylor straddling the fence like some politicians. I fear nothing on earth or in heaven except to do wrong."

In conclusion, Taylor said he believed the interests of farm, ranch and independent business in the 13th District could be better served in congress by the election of a "successful, independent businessman, who from direct experience knows and can correctly evaluate such problems, than by the election of a lawyer."

Citing a recent Jackson Day speech by Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace, who deplored the harm done the Democratic party by "those who have joined in a coalition against progress," Taylor charged that Congressman Ed Gossett "has clearly indicated by his record that he is a mugwump of the worst sort."

"I also pledge myself," he concluded, "not to wear a Texas Regular necktie in Texas, and in Washington, out of sight of my constituents, a Hoover cravat."

AGRICULTURE (D. F. Eaton, County Agent.)

4-H CLUB SHOW PROGRESS

Quite a nice sized group of 4-H Club boys and their Dads met in Crowell Saturday to complete plans for the show.

They checked the entries for the various departments of the show and found that to date they have seventeen calves, twenty-four hogs and twenty pens of poultry, making a total of sixty entries. This will make a very creditable show.

These boys selected their committee to co-operate with the committee from the Rotary Club to secure funds to finance the show.

They were very appreciative of the voluntary support they have had in the past and welcome the same hearty co-operation in this year's show. However, it will cost slightly more this year than last, because the show has grown. The money received is prorated to the various departments after all expenses are paid. In this way no debts are incurred and the amount of the prizes depend on the generosity of the community in its individual contribution.

The question of the sale of the animals offered was also discussed and the advice of the fathers present sought. They supported the idea of an auction sale and appointed H. L. Ayers, Jack Stinebaugh and Bob Abston to act with the committee selected by the Rotary Club to develop interest in and plans for the sale, especially a wide publicity campaign in adjoining towns and communities.

The boys who have calves plan to bring them in Saturday to clip their heads and get the weight of the calves so they can know where to make the weight break between Senior and Junior calves. They approved retaining the poultry division since there was a good interest and a number of exhibits. They asked Marvin Myers, local Vocational Teacher, to judge the poultry exhibits.

The chairman of the meeting was R. C. Schlagal, and J. C. Autry was secretary.

They appointed their finance committee: R. C. Schlagal, J. C. Autry, Floyd Borchardt, Charles Wishon, Wayne Shultz and James Pittillo. They will co-operate with the Rotary committee, A. V. Sheppard, R. R. Magee and Marion Crowell. They will begin at once to solicit contributions.

They selected Charles Wishon as superintendent of poultry department and Carroll Polk as secretary to assist him.

CONTROL THE HORN FLY This is the common small blood sucking fly now found around the base of the horns and along the upper surface of the animal. They sometimes occur by the hundreds on the animal. Since they can penetrate the skin of the animal with their mouth parts they cause pain and loss of blood as well as cause the animal to be restless, interfering with the animal's grazing or feeding.

They usually feed twice per day and sometimes more frequently. On one ranch in Texas a checkup was made to see what the exact damage to cattle was. This ranch ran about 500 cattle and the infestation was approximately 4,000 flies per animal. The loss of blood per animal was seven quarts per day besides the annoyance to the animal. This loss runs into millions annually.

These flies can be prevented and the fly controlled. Since the fly only leaves the animal to deposit its eggs in the animals' droppings it may be treated on the animal.

They may be trapped effectively in a specially made trap but one of the best and most effective remedies lately developed is the use of DDT as a spray.

For this purpose a 2 1/2 per cent (two and one-half per cent) DDT suspension at the rate of about 1 quart per animal. This may be applied with a good spray machine or hand spray. For flies in buildings the same strength solution may be used on the walls, ceilings, etc., as a wet spray.

DDT should be used with reasonable caution. It should not come in contact with food. Do not use oil emulsions on cattle.

DDT used as directed above will continue to kill flies for 10 to 15 days with one application and for 2 to 3 weeks after the second application. These are no danger to cattle in its use.

Home Improvement In the development of a town, the condition in which homes are kept is a very important factor.

A town in which the homes are attractive, in which home grounds are kept in neat condition and are suitably beautified, makes a very pleasing impression on the outside world. People comment on it as they visit it or pass through, and say it is a nice looking place, and they wish they could live there.

It is a helpful thing when that idea gets around about a town. If many people think they would like to live there, some of them are likely to do so some time. They look for chances to do work and carry on business in such a community. So when we clean up our home places and remove disorder and make them more attractive, we help the progress and development of the town.

May Day—May 1: The observance of May Day had its beginning in Old World Rituals but the observance of the day today has departed entirely from any resemblance of the early day observance.

Result of Organization

When the country gets into a war, it takes a tremendous organized effort and general co-operation from the people to win victories.

In a small way the same thing holds true in the life of a town. If it is to win victories over the difficulties of the present time, there needs to be a strong and efficient organization.

What We Think (By Frank Dinco)

This article, though it may sound like it, is not written as an advertisement for life insurance—unless to express one's approval and belief in a thing could be construed as an advertisement for it.

My observation, extending over a period of forty years, has been that life insurance constitutes the best means of creating an estate available to a man regardless of whether his income is small or large.

I have seen, and so has everyone else, property left in forms other than life insurance disposed of after the death of its owner in a manner entirely different than he directed in his last will.

In arranging for the distribution of a life insurance estate there is no hurry, no confused thinking. The creator of the will has the time to exercise his best judgment to plan carefully every detail of its distribution.

From the standpoint of the beneficiary, life insurance is desirable for the reason that there is no concern about investments, fluctuating markets or depreciated resources.

It is not possible to go into the various types of insurance estates in a short article of this kind except to say that there is an insurance policy to fit every need and any qualified and reputable insurance counselor can explain the type of policy which will best fit the needs of the individual case.

My observation and study has taught me that it is not advisable for the husband to leave his insurance estate to be paid to his wife in a lump sum. Such estates are often lost or frittered away by the beneficiary through poor judgment, or poor management or misfortune.

There is no other form of an estate available to the average man that provides all of these advantages and safeguards. There is no other way by which the creator of an estate can know for a certainty that his estate will be handled after his death in the exact manner that he desires and that it will provide sufficient income through good times and bad times to the family that he has left behind.

Rah-rahing for Home Town The football games and athletic sports generally hear a tremendous amount of cheering. The crowds yell mightily for their home town players, which cheers them on, and indicates that the home crowd has confidence in them and believe they are capable of winning.

It is a good deal so in promoting the progress of the home town. It needs plenty of rah-rahing for all the good causes, and for the useful organizations and movements. If the workers in local movements get this warm applause from the public, it gives them the feeling that their efforts are appreciated, that the town is backing them, and that useful movements will be well supported.

Washington News

By Congressman Ed Gossett, 13 District of Texas.

Washington, D. C., April 5.—Since I have been in Congress I have made many speeches supporting bills and amendments which sought to regulate, control, and, in so far as possible, to prevent strikes. The last one of these speeches was made on Monday of this week, and is as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, when the history of this generation is written the most shameful chapter thereof will be the government's absolute failure to deal with management-labor difficulties in our big industries. All authorities agree that our biggest problem and our greatest need is full production. Still we permit powerful labor unions and big industries, one after the other, to stymie and bottleneck such production. The steel strike set us back six months. The coal strike, if continued for more than a week, will set us back another six months. If long continued, such strikes will absolutely destroy all the hope we have for full and peaceful reconversion."

"We force men to fight and die for their country. We even draft them in peacetime and made serve for $50 a month. But we refuse to interfere with jobs or profits of civilians. The politicians in both parties are afraid to do anything about strikes or work stoppages."

"We ought immediately to act upon the suggestion of Bernard

Baruch for a year's moratorium on strikes. However, the President and the politicians apparently would see this nation in Hades before they would pass such a law, without, of course, first clearing it with Hillman, Murray and Lewis.

"We are urged to extend the draft, to extend price controls, to enact compulsory peacetime military training, in order to win the peace and promote the security of this country. None of these things compares in immediate importance with full production. Full production and rapid reconversion is the very foundation upon which our national strength and hence our peace and security must rest. Still the government vacillates, pussyfoots, and evades this biggest and most serious problem."

"The big corporations and all-powerful labor bosses continue to ride recklessly and ruthlessly over the American people. Mr. Speaker, how much longer will we continue to tolerate these abuses?"

Apparently the coal strike is going to be of longer duration than many anticipated. It will result in closing down steel mills and other industries producing critical materials. This in turn will shut down small shops, and will deprive every man of goods he needs to sell or things he needs to buy. It will seriously aggravate inflation.

On Tuesday of this week I served as chairman of a large meeting of Southern Democrats to protest an official editorial in a magazine published by the Women's Division of the National Democratic Committee. In this magazine, in bold black type, appeared the statement that a vote for the Case bill (a bill which seeks to settle management-labor difficulties and facilitate reconversion) was a vote against the American people. 107 Democrats in the House, including most of the so-called leaders, voted for this bill. This attack in an official party organ sounded as if it came directly from the PAC-CIO and most of us felt it should not go unchallenged.

The following day Mr. Robert Hannegan, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, who was in Arizona, sent me the following wire:

"I regret that my absence from Washington prevents a conference with you at this time. I want you to know, however, that I personally consider most unfortunate the statement which recently appeared in 'The Democratic Digest' in connection with the Case bill. The statement was written by a former employee who is no longer with the Democratic National Committee and it was placed in the publication inadvertently and without approval. I wish to assure you that it does not represent the attitude of the Committee or of any member of its staff, and I shall be grateful to you if you will convey this thought to all of your colleagues in Congress who have expressed an interest in the matter."

When an atom is exploded, as in an atom bomb, the explosion of one atom communicates with the next, setting it off as in the case of a row of dominoes. The first one in falling strikes the second and the second the third and so on. Because of this fact the fear has been expressed by some that when the atom bomb test is made in the Pacific the explosion of the bomb might set off atom explosions in the ocean water, which communicating with each other would result in the explosion of the entire water surface of the earth. A number of scientists announced recently that this would not happen, that there would be no explosion communicated to the atom in the sea water. The reasons given by the scientists for their belief are highly technical and difficult to understand, but it is hoped that in as much as the test is to be made that they know what they are talking about, and that the test bomb does not set off a series of atom explosions or separations that will destroy the entire world.

Experienced nurses will be in attendance at all shows of "Mom and Dad" at all performances during the engagement of "Mom and Dad," which is scheduled for one day only, Wednesday, April 17, the management has announced.

"Units of the new hygiene show, "Mom and Dad," a Hollywood production with an all-star cast, carry their own nurses on tour with the picture. The young ladies are present to aid any of the "weak-hearted" who find the powerful medical sequences in the picture over-coming. Oftentimes patrons do faint, the theatre management has been warned.

The nurses also assist in handling the crowds and answering questions many patrons like to ask. "Mom and Dad" is presented to segregated audiences only. There will be performances each day at 2 and 7 p. m. for women only and high school-age girls. There is one show scheduled for men and high school boys only each night at 9 p. m. Each performance is two hours in length. Elliot Forbes, noted radio hygiene commentator, is to appear in person here during the engagement, and will speak briefly from the stage at each showing.

"Mom and Dad" is a new release, but already has captured many theatres attendance records and the local management is preparing to handle capacity crowds.

Howard Gamble in Race for Sheriff of Foard County

The News is authorized this week to announce the candidacy of Howard Gamble for the office of Sheriff, Tax Assessor-Collector of Foard County, subject to action of the Democratic primary in July. Mr. Gamble released the following statement to the voters of Foard County relative to his campaign for this office:

"Having been solicited by a number of the voters of Foard County to make the race for the office of Sheriff, Assessor and Collector, I hereby offer myself as a candidate for this office.

"If I did not feel that I am fully capable and qualified to fulfill the duties of this office I would certainly not offer myself as a candidate.

"I have been practically reared in this county and have spent most of my life here, except for three years spent in the Marines in World War No. 2. I have recently been discharged from service and am in a position to devote my entire time to the office, which I propose to do, if elected.

"I have no promises to make, other than that I will use my efforts to enforce the law with favor to none and justice to all and this will be my constant endeavor.

"Your support and influence is solicited and I will make an effort to meet and discuss my candidacy with each voter in the county, and your vote will be appreciated."

The U. S. and Canada are the only large exporting countries where agricultural production was above average. That explains why these two countries are the principal sources of surplus food products this year. Food supplies in the U. S. continue at record levels with per capita consumption exceeding that of any previous year.

Farmers have done the first part of the job—producing large crops, among them the largest wheat crop in our history. Now, all Americans are asked to do two things:

(1) Remember the seriousness of the world food situation when they are tempted to be impatient with temporary inconveniences.

(2) Save food—don't waste it. Every pound of bread saved means almost a pound of wheat saved for people who will need it desperately during the next few months.

Some people believe that money should be equally divided, and that all people should have the same income to depend upon. What shall be said to those who entertain such views?

When people get high pay, it is in most cases because they have shown superior efficiency and success in doing some line of work. The offering of high pay to those who have achieved these results, is a tremendous incentive to people to improve their own powers. It usually takes effort and study and acquisition of knowledge or skill to obtain these results. Many of them have had to take long and costly courses of education to acquire these superior powers.

The result of offering such rewards for superior efficiency and skill and knowledge is to greatly increase production, and to improve the quality of service given the public. If all the people were put on one money level, production could be expected to greatly decline, which would make goods cost more, and the average run of people would be worse off.

When a business company earns a profit, it is a sign that the public likes its goods, and feels it is entitled to a reward for its skill and efficiency. If the government owned all business, goods or taxes would probably cost more, and the people would be worse off.

It is the American idea to produce the greatest good for the greatest number. If at some future time some foreign country should produce more human welfare under some different economic system, the American people might be persuaded to adopt such a system to some degree. So far the American people have been giving the highest welfare existing in the world. They will in all probability stick to their present capitalistic system so long as it produces such superior welfare.

Winston Churchill, former premier of Britain, declared in his recent address at Westminster college in Missouri, that the United States stands at the pinnacle of world power. The United States and Britain, he felt, should maintain their power to enable the United Nations Organization to maintain peace and realize its objectives of freedom and security.

There can be no doubt that the United States is today the most powerful nation on earth. Russia may have more manpower, but the industrial system which provides the material with which wars are fought is far stronger in the United States than in Russia. It is not damaged by war as Russia's industries were. Also the United States possesses the secret of the atomic bomb, that terrible weapon which in wrong hands could menace the world.

No nation is going to attack a country so equipped. But to hold its position, it becomes necessary to maintain a greater power than any possible enemy could possess.

Dirt In The Works: One day recently my alarm clock, which had given good service for years, stopped. All the shaking and winding I could do didn't help it. It still refused to run. I took it to the repair shop and told the repair man that it would not run. "It probably has some dirt in the works," he said. "Leave it and I will clean and repair it." About a week later I called and picked it up. It was ticking along in its same old manner and was apparently as good as when it was new. "What was the matter," I asked the jeweler? "Nothing," he said, "but a little dirt in the works. It is a good clock and should serve you for years and give good time, but it can't run with dirt in the works." I thought as I picked it up and started home with it, how like clocks are people. They are able to click along and do a good job until they get dirt in their works. Dirt in the life of a man doesn't mean a grain of sand or gummy oil. That sort of dirt doesn't affect a man, but the dirt that gets into his mind and heart, the wrong habits and the unhealthy thoughts are the things that clutter up the working of his mind and conscience and interfere with his efficiency. When this happens a man can't take his heart to the dry cleaners or the jewelry store to get it dusted off, but he does have within his own mind everything necessary to do a thorough job of cleaning up the dirt in his works.

Youth Troubles

Boys and girls are often told that they are living through their happiest years, and they should realize the joy of youth. Many will say they have their own troubles.

One thing that troubles some youngsters of a shy and reticent nature, is the difficulty they have in taking part in athletic sports. Some of them feel a real interest in these sports and a desire to participate in them, but they feel a certain shyness about doing these things.

They may be afraid of making themselves ridiculous by some blunder. So some boys will stand on the side lines and watch their mates play baseball, wishing they could do it, but fearful they would drop the ball or make some mistake if they did so.

Youth organizations and leaders tell such boys to take hold and play themselves, and not mind it if they do make mistakes. Thus many youngsters conquer this trouble of youth.

DISTRICT 9-A INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

Crowell has long been known for its prowess in the various fields of athletics. Its student body pep squad that cheers the Wildcats down the field; the enthusiasm and interest displayed by the town people at the games; and the wonderful playing itself all announce that Crowell is interested in sports. It is obvious that sportsmanship is stressed in the training of the players.

We quote from a letter sent to Mr. Graves by the superintendent of the Seymour High School, "We appreciate your fine spirit of sportsmanship and co-operation during the meet, and assure you that it was a genuine pleasure to have you with us."

The schools that entered in the Interscholastic League at Seymour are the following:

Archer City, all round champ	71 1/2
Seymour, runner up	57
Valley View, 3rd place	49
Crowell, 4th place	40
Towa Park, 5th place	39
Chillicothe, 6th place	24 1/2
Holliday, 7th place	23 1/2

The following essay won first place in Ready Writers' contest at the district meet recently held in Seymour:

A HOT SUMMER DAY

It was early morning. Outside the mockingbirds made a chorus of tinkling sounds. The trumpet vine sent a cheering blast of color as the sunbeams sifted through its orange flowers into Lee's bedroom. From the next room she heard her tall, handsome father dressing, pulling on his levis and trim fitting boots. A few minutes later the sound of the cistern bucket clattering against the stone sides of the well brought her mother from the world of dreams where no dishwashing, sewing, or house full of noisy teen-age children even existed. In an hour her mother would call her. Thirty minutes later her mother would demand that she get up and dress. An hour later her mother would come in and tell her to dress and drive to town on an errand. The pattern was the same, always.

Lee kicked off the single cotton sheet that covered her and lifted one leg to examine the satin tan on it. The rumpled white shorts and shirt she slept in had seen better days, judging by the stains of grass, and coke, and Texas red mud that no amount of washings had removed. She crawled from her bed, careful to make no sound to cause an early appearance of her mother from the dining room. At the record player she lifted a black disc that concealed one of Charlie Spivak's renditions. After a brief grinding, the music started pouring out into the room. From the other twin bed, her sister, Clara, poked her head out from under a tangle of long, wheat-colored hair to see how high the sun was, and then went back to sleep. Lee stood gazing around the bedroom, at the pale green walls, at the starched white curtains tied back with nosegays of flowers from the five-and-ten, at the dressing table that she and her sister kept bare on top, except for a picture and three perfume bottles, but stored everything from hair brushes to forbidden books within. Finally, she selected a book from the generous bookcase and jumped back into bed.

Later, when she returned to the ranch house from her trip to town, she gave her mother and sister an animated description of who had been doing what in town. Her mother finally gave a glance at the clock and told her to start cleaning the living room, for goodness sake!

It was time for dinner. Lee and Clara carried in the platter of smoking fried chicken, the enormous wooden bowl of chopped lettuce and tomatoes, the bowl of mashed potatoes with a volcanic center of melted butter, the dish of velvety cream gravy with golden flecks of cracklings left from the fried chicken, and a napkin covered plate of crispy, browned biscuits. The tall, tinkling glasses of iced tea came next, then the butter, the lemons sliced into wedges and a tiny brown bottle of sachrine tablets. Her tall, gangling brother came in, drying his hands on a thick, white towel labeled HERS, in green thread. After the radio had been turned on, the shades lowered so that the breeze from the open windows blew against them in lazy whippers, the family was seated about the large dining table. Thanks to God for the food was given by their father in what the girls secretly called the unknown tongue, because it was said so rapidly that they had never been able to decode it. Oh, well, God understood it and that was what mattered.

It was Clara's turn to wash the dishes, so she began to put water on to heat. The table was cleared, the dishes washed, dried, and put away. Another hot summer afternoon stretched ahead.

Lee went into her bedroom and commenced taking off the striped seersucker dress she had worn that morning. Her feet had been bare since she came back from town. A quick rummage forth from the bottom of her closet brought forth a blue bathing suit, slightly damp. Clad in bathing suit, ripped chenille robe, and with a faded bath towel in one hand and a bottle of sun tan oil in the other, she started over to the dam where her father had stretched a fence to keep out the cattle, thus providing a place for swimming. Clara was coming over later, after she had written some letters.

The home-made diving board was a perfect place to get a tan. The reflection of the sun on the water soon turned her exposed skin to a delicate pink. The oil kept her from being burned. When Clara came into view, she climbed down from the diving board, tucked her hair into a bathing cap, and waded to the water.

Noticing that the sun was getting low, the girls started back to the house. It turned out that the sun had only gone under a cloud, and it was now shortly after mid-afternoon. The girls took turns at the shower. They wanted to go to town, but they didn't want to risk seeing any boys since their bathing caps later, after she and washing away the curl. They finally decided to braid their hair and call on one of their girl friends to discuss what they would wear to the picnic Saturday night, two days off.

When they were starting away in the car their mother called, reminding them to come home in time for supper.

As they drove over the bridge, they could hear the locusts humming. The trees cast down a friendly, happy shade. The afternoon breeze caught at the delicate cologne on Clara's throat and wafted it to her sister at the wheel. It was summer, and youth.

THE CAT'S WHISKERS

A big hunk of smile for you people this fine (morning — I thought you'd need it — being as it's report card day.

To start things off with a bang let's print—"Everyone had a super-special time at the picnic Friday night. Thanks, Mr. Graves, and the faculty for making it so much fun!"

Evie and Johnny seemed to have a little trouble over the week-end, but from the latest reports everything is o. k. now.

JoAnn and Ed are another one of our "regulars."

She's sweet, she's lovely, she's engaged—Martha Johnson.

Booby, Bobby, Janet, Miles, Joan and Larry really took in the town Friday and Saturday nights.

More peculiar things happened Saturday night. For instance, we heard that two gals went—well, we'd better not say but for further information ask "Dee" and "Shirley."

Danny, Kathy, Shaney and M. W. were seen at church Sunday night.

La Juan Denton still seems to be true to Weldon—Weldon who? Lots of kids went skating at Vernon, Saturday night. Everyone had a swell time, especially Betty and Brock, Kathy and Danny and Jenny and Joe Harris.

Gerald and Carlos were seen together Saturday night. With them were those two cute kids, "Jenny" Bell and Jesse Moore.

Both Saturday and Sunday nights Peggy and Travis were together. Oh Those busses, Peggy.

Congratulations to Vera and Gordon on their new romance. They were together Saturday night.

Sunday we saw none other than Don Wilkins and Gerald.

Swimming in mud was a lotta fun—Wasn't it, Mary Ruth and Jo Ann?

Julia seems to still enjoy Thalia or is it Vernon, Julia?

Who's this guy from Quanah, Mary Ruth? Is his name Charles?

Marlene really goes in for the J. C.'s. It happened to be none other than J. C. Thompson Saturday night.

R. C. Schlager and Edna Lee Dunn were together Saturday night. Whee! What a couple!

Maggie, who's that cute kid from Vernon? Wow, he's strictly hubba, hubba.

Our steadies were together as usual Saturday night. We're speaking of "Eddy" and Kenneth, Betty and Grover double dating with them.

We thought we saw Bobbie and Floyd peeking around the corners Saturday night. Could this really be a steady?

Mary Ray was seen at the skating rink in Vernon Sunday. She had most fun!

We think Tommie Eaton and Pete Collins make a cute couple. Agree? I thought you would.

Betty and Brock are still the Maggie and Jiggs of CHS. They fight one minute and romance steps in the next.

Boys, stand up and take notice, Mary Johnson is as cute as pie.

Hazel and Horace are still whispering sweet nothings into each others ears—along with them we hear Kendrick and Janet yelling at each other.

Whoops! There's the bell—I'll be seeing you, Freshman and Sophs in the funny paper, but I'll

SIDE SPLITTERS

"Doctor, I'm scared to death. This will be my first operation."

"Sure, I know just how you feel. You're my first patient."

Small Boy: "What is college bred, pop?"

Poy (with son in college): "They make college bread, my boy, from the flour of youth and the dough of old age."

Stout Woman: I want to return this washing machine.

Salesman: Why, what's wrong with it?

Stout Woman: Every time I get into the thing the paddles knock me off my feet!

A boy was about to purchase a seat for a movie in the afternoon. The box-office man asked, "Why aren't you in school?"

"Oh, it's all right, sir," said the youngster earnestly. "I've got measles."

Teacher: Why did the ancients believe the earth to be flat?

Bright Boy: Because they did not have any school globes to prove it was round.

DING DONG BELL! SHE'S A CHS BELLE

With eyes of blue, and the murmuring music of "Skylark" in her energetic step, this belle of Crowell High School dreams of Senior Day and graduation. She is really a quiz kid. Civics is her favorite subject, but she goes in for her other classes with determination and comes out as one of the top twenty-four most intelligent students in school. This senior from Thalia believes in being broad-minded; reading and traveling everywhere are just two of the activities that she gets enthusiastic over. A fast game of basketball will bring her cheers for the players.

When fried chicken and pecan pie are mentioned, she simply drools. A good movie with Greer Garson or John Boles is a good way to make the hours fly, in her opinion, but people who are always borrowing things annoy her beyond description. Her ambition is to go to Howard Payne College and later become a business administration teacher. A person with all this ambition could be no one but Billy Jean Starr.

NAVY BOUND FROM CROWELL TOWN

This very well known senior states that he has been eating breakfast every day for the last seventeen years, so he must be seventeen years old. He goes in for movies with Betty Hutton, the whistle gal, and Earl Flynn, the dream man. His liking for geometry is outstanding. The song in his heart is "June is Bust-in' Out All Over." Although this character has one of the friendliest personalities in CHS, he cannot stand anyone who is a hard sport. His ambition is to be an agriculture engineer, but he expects to be Navy bound after graduation. Do you recognize him? Why of course, it's Henry Write.

Christian Church

Bible School at 10 a. m.
 Lord's Supper and Preaching at 11 a. m. Subject: "Why We Exist."
 If scripture would be considered by all churches it would be evidence that few would have any divine grounds for their existence. A study of this kind is most important since the World requires that we all speak the same thing and be of the same mind and judgment. If we do not abide by the Word what excuse do we have for existing? How will we give an account at the final day? Away with confusion and let us get back to the Word.
 We are changing the hour for our evening service. It will be at 4:30 o'clock. The subject will be, "What We Believe About God." Bring your Bibles and come at 4:30.
 Grant L. Slagle, Minister.

ed on each corner with four silver candleholders with green candles. Basket bouquets of blue-bonnets completed the central decoration and the whole was edged with a white wreath.

Attractive place cards marked places for the guests and each grapefruit lime cocktail plate held a pretty corsage of sweet peas. The luncheon consisted of three courses.

An hour of informal entertainment followed the luncheon. Mrs. D. D. Denison assisted the hostess in entertaining. Renewal of old friendships was enjoyed during the afternoon.

Guests at the luncheon, other than the named honor guests, included Mrs. Denison, Mrs. A. Y. Beverly, Mrs. S. S. Bell, Mrs. John S. Ray, Mrs. C. R. Ferguson, Mrs. J. R. Beverly, Mrs. T. N. Bell, Mrs. B. W. Self, Mrs. W. L. Thurston, Mrs. M. O'Connell, Mrs. W. B. Johnson, Mrs. E. L. Kincaid and Mrs. R. R. Magee.

Co-Laborers' Class Has Social Meeting At Mrs. R. Thomas' Home

The monthly social meeting and lesson study of the Co-Laborers' Class of the Methodist Sunday School was held in the home of Mrs. R. J. Thomas on Thursday evening, March 28, with Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. G. L. Cole and Mrs. W. R. Ferguson as joint hostesses.

Mrs. Will Erwin, class president, presided over a short business session. Mrs. Charlie Thompson was leader for the lesson on the book of Numbers. She was assisted by Mrs. T. B. Klepper in the consideration of the lesson. Others joined in the general discussion.

The hostesses served a delicious ice course to the members present. Mrs. E. W. Kidd was greeted as a new member.

ADELPHIAN CLUB

"Take Time to Worship—it is the Highway to Reverence" was the theme of the program of the Adelpian Club on Wednesday, April 3, with Mrs. T. B. Masterson, Jr. as hostess.

Mrs. Meri Kincaid, president of the club, was in charge of the business session. Mrs. E. C. King, Federation Counsellor, gave a report from the State president, Mrs. Scott, reviewing what club women have done in Texas in the last one hundred years. The club women are urged to give more recognition to Fine Arts in the future.

Mrs. Jeff Bruce, leader, introduced Mrs. W. A. Dunn, who gave a vivid description of "A Twentieth Century Church," located in Tulsa, Okla. The entire architecture expresses highest spiritual ideas, peace, comfort and meditation. A research of early Methodism is shown in the structure.

"Influence of the Bible on Literature" was discussed by Mrs. A. S. Hart, in which she said that literature of the age is but a mirror of its prevalent tension. She gave as examples, Shakespeare's work during the Elizabethan age, Burns, Shelly, Keats, Byron and many others have saturated their works with the Bible. The influence of the Bible on poetry is also great.

Mrs. William Ricks gave an interesting talk on "Hymns We Love Best," listing as first, "The Old Rugged Cross" by George Bernard written in 1915 and made very popular by Rhoades. As second, she named "Nearer My God to Thee," which has been translated into about 25 languages. It was the favorite song of President McKinley. The third hymn listed was "Abide With Me."

Following the program, Mrs. Masterson invited the members present and one guest, Mrs. L. B. Taylor of Margaret, into the dining room for delicious refreshments. The table was laid with beautiful linen cloth and held a centerpiece of pink roses and white candles in crystal holders. Assisting the hostess in serving were Mrs. Meri Kincaid and Mrs. J. E. Stover.

The next meeting will be on April 15, when a book review "Bayou of Louisiana" by Kane will be presented.

COLUMBIAN CLUB

The Columbian Club met in regular session Wednesday afternoon, April 3, in the home of Mrs. H. A. Smith in Truscott.

"The Best in Current Fiction" was the roll call response and proved to be quite interesting. Mrs. M. O'Connell gave the biography of James Ramsey Ullman and Mrs. Smith told of some novel traits of animals from an article "Wild Life Excerpts."

The highlight of the afternoon's program was a book review by Mrs. R. L. Kincaid. The title of the book was "The White Tower" written by James Ramsey Ullman. So convincingly did she portray the characters, that they seemed to come to life, as they attempted to climb the mountain, "The White Tower." Mrs. Kincaid prefaced her remarks with the statement that the purpose of a book review was to interest the listeners to the extent that they would be inspired to read the book.

After adjournment, the hostess invited the members and guests into the dining room. The refreshment table was laid with a lovely linen cloth and centered with a tastefully arranged bowl of spring flowers. Tapers burned at each end. Each one served herself from a number of delect-

CHAIR REPAIR

The warm, dry heat of houses during the winter often is hard on the furniture. It shrinks the wood causing the glue to dry out, and chairs often begin coming to pieces. These can be repaired at home with regular cabinet glue.

Since the glue comes in flakes or cakes, it must be soaked overnight and then heated until it becomes liquid. The inner vessel of a double boiler will serve as a container for heating. For best results, it should be used while comparatively thin and applied hot.

All old glue should be removed before fresh glue is applied. Larger pieces can be chipped off with a knife and the rest can be dissolved with a warm vinegar solution.

When the parts to be glued are clean and thoroughly dry, put them together to test for proper fit. Best guide for this is to make sure all surfaces touch each other. After this apply the glue. When putting in a chair rung or dowel-pin it should be applied both to the end of the rung or pin and to the hole.

Final step in the repair job is to apply pressure that will make the glue stick. For a chair, a turniket of rope or stout cord will make satisfactory pressure. Thick pads under the rope will protect the wood and finish from the rope. This should be left on until the glue is dry, usually about 24 hours.

CHICKEN IN THE CAN

With more chickens than we can feed if we are to ship grain overseas, we need to eat chicken now and to can the plump, stewing hens.

Canned chicken is a wonderful time-saver. In no time at all you can have toasted chicken sandwiches, chicken pie, or chicken salad. And canning chicken is not a complicated job.

You need a pressure canner to process chicken. Either glass jars or tin cans are suitable containers.

It's best not to fry the meat before you can it. The brown crust that tastes so good on fresh-cooked chicken becomes dry and hard in canning. And it may even have a disagreeable odor. Livers should be canned alone to preserve good flavor in your chicken, but it's all right to put the rizzards and hearts up together.

Step by step instructions for canning chicken are found in the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service Bulletin called "Poultry—Dressing, Marketing, Canning, Cooking." Ask your local county home demonstration agent for a copy.

With warm weather approaching in most parts of Texas, it is about time to pack away woolen clothing and blankets for protection against moths. Upholstered furniture, too, may be a good hiding place for moths, and precautions should be taken in both cases.

If you have a spare clothes closet for storage, put the cleaned woollens in it, use a preparation to kill the moths, and then seal it up tight. One point to check is the door tread. Moth repelling preparations—naphthalene for example—give off gas that's heavier than air. It sinks to the floor and can escape if the door tread does

GILLILAND H. D. CLUB

The Gilliland Home Demonstration Club made plans for twelve members or more to attend the district meeting which will be held in the First Baptist Church in Seymour on April 10. The club met in the home of Mrs. Marion Ryder on April 8, for the regular business meeting. The club's achievement report was brought up to date.

There were seventeen members present and two new members were accepted into the club, Mrs. Buck Denham and Mrs. L. B. Eaty. Each club member contributed a gift to be sent to a former club member, Mrs. Kelton, who has moved from the Gilliland community.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dudley Ellis on Wednesday, April 12 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

able dishes and Mrs. Smith presided over the punch bowl. Guests for the afternoon were Mesdames R. L. Leonard of Memphis, Tenn., Moorehouse of Benjamin, and Tom Bell of Crowell. The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Ferguson, Mrs. C. R. and Mrs. S. J. Ferguson as hostesses.

not offer good protection. You may want to seal this with paper.

If you pack clothes in garment bags for summer storage, make sure they are clean before you put them in. Then be sure the bag is tightly sealed. If both of these precautions are taken, the paper will keep moths out indefinitely.

When packing woollens away in boxes or trunks, be generous with moth flakes or crystals. Under ideal conditions, four ounces will give ample protection. But these chemicals are cheap, and it often pays to over-use and be safe.

In the case of upholstered furniture remove slip covers every now and then and go over the furniture with a good brush or the vacuum cleaner.

BUYING POTS AND PANS

With more pots and pans coming to the market all the time, homemakers may be wondering what kinds will give them the best service.

Aluminum pots and pans are among the most popular, but there are marked differences in kinds of aluminum.

The heavy "cast" aluminum vessels are made by pouring the molten metal into castings or forms. "Stamped" aluminumware is stamped from sheets of the metal and then pressed into shape. It comes in three grades—light, medium and heavy.

The heavier the aluminum, the more durable the utensil. The thin, lightweight aluminum is less expensive and lighter to handle, but it also dents and bends more easily.

Stainless steel will wear better than aluminum of the same weight and thickness. It doesn't darken as aluminum does when in contact with alkaline foods are cooked in it. But once it's darkened—it cannot be brightened as aluminum can. Aluminum also has the advantage of spreading the heat more evenly.

A commercial standard has been set up for porcelain enamelware. A label will tell whether the vessel has a multi-coat finish or a single-coat finish. In the multi-coat finish, one or more coats of white enamel are applied over a first dark coat. The single-coat has a speckled finish.

It's the surface that counts in enamelware. Air bubbles or an exposed base are signs of poor manufacture and might cause tiny chips to break off while cooking.

CHOOSING THE VACUUM CLEANER

With the supply of vacuum cleaners increasing all the time, homemakers probably are wondering whether to choose the straight suction type cleaner or the motor driven cylinder type. It all depends on the kind of cleaning to be done.

Either type of cleaner is satisfactory for general household use, but each does some jobs a little better than the other.

The straight suction cleaner has no moving parts inside the nozzle, and practically all the cleaning is done by suction. This type cleaner is good for removing surface dirt from rugs, sweeping bare floors, and cleaning draperies and upholstered furniture. The motor-driven cylinder type, on the other hand, is especially good for cleaning rugs with a heavy nap, because, in addition to the suction action, it has a rotating roll inside the nozzle lips that beats and sweeps the rug and loosens imbedded dirt.

All motor driven cylinder cleaners are upright, with the motor, fan, and nozzle in the same compartment and attached to an upright motor.

Straight suction cleaners are available in both upright and cylinder-type models. The upright suction cylinder type is light to handle, because only the motor is moved back and forth during cleaning. However, the cleaning efficiency of the cylinder type largely on the skill with which it is operated, while that of the upright model is not affected by the operator.

When using a cleaner of the upright model of the cylinder type, the nozzle is adjusted to the length of the pile in the rug. Special adjusting devices provide for this.
