Party Response to Picture Service Book for County

Foard County News hopes to bring a picture of every service man and woman in this county in a picture service book to be published soon. Since it costs nothing to have the picture published in the book, it is hoped that everyone will respond wholeheartedly in order that the book may be a truly representative of the county.

It is announced that the book will be published with an enthusiastic response, and it is expected to become a valuable source of information on this county's contribution to the war. For this reason, it is considered important to have all men and women who served in World War II from this county included in the book, and the response is appealing to all veterans and their families for this reason, if for no other.

The publishers invite all veterans to bring in their pictures. Pictures will be returned to the sender at no cost whatever. Pictures may be brought in by veterans or relatives. The best available pictures are desired, and although they should be in uniform, this is not necessary. If a picture in civilian clothes is not available, one in uniform will be accepted. Pictures are in line with the News' desire to make the book truly representative of the county.

The ten cents a ton royalty on the ton of coal mined demanded by John Lewis would bring in a total of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year.

Instructions on Information and Pictures for Book

Blanks for the information needed for the service record book to be published for Foard County may be had at the Foard County News office. This information must be given at the same time the picture is brought in. The picture may be kept at home until the information is given. Both must be sent in or brought in at the same time, in order to avoid confusion.

The picture will be taken care of and returned to the owner as soon as it has been used for the book. There need be no hesitancy about bringing it in for it will be returned in good condition. The book will be sold to those desiring it at a cost which will not be more than reasonable. It will be necessary to know who wants the book in order to know how many to print.

The Foard County News really desires that each and every service man and woman of the county have a place in this book which will be a true record of the activities of the county in the World War which has just been brought to a close. It is to be a tribute to them and also a record for posterity which will ever be cherished. If it is necessary to write your service man or woman about the information desired, we suggest that you do so immediately, in order that no delay will be necessary.

Analysts now predict that economic conditions as they pertain to the supply of needed items are going to be a good deal worse before they show any improvement. While production in many instances exceeds prewar production, demand is much greater than the increased supply, rendering the shortage more acute. The

740,000 Bushels of County's Wheat Crop Received at Elevators; Harvest Delayed on Account of Rain Thursday

Up until Wednesday afternoon of this week, the elevators of Crowell, Margaret and Foard City had received approximately 740,000 bushels of the 1946 wheat crop for Foard County, which is far in excess of the estimates placed on the total yield for the county at the beginning of the harvest season.

Many Subscribers Check Expiration Date This Week

Many subscribers have called at the News office since last week's issue to check the expiration date of their paper and some found them to be past due. There are others whose time is out and probably a little past due and we hope they will attend to this matter before they miss a copy of their paper.

The newspaper situation for all newspapers is at a critical stage and it is necessary that they save as much paper as possible. The News received 15 bundles of paper this week with instructions from the paper house to make it go as far as possible as they did not know when any more would be available. We want to keep all subscribers on the list who want the paper, but it is not possible for us to always know whether a subscriber wants the paper or not unless it is paid in advance.

Family Reunion to Celebrate Birthday of Tom J. Ferguson

The family of Tom J. Ferguson gathered at the family home Saturday night and Sunday to observe the 80th birthday of Mr. Ferguson, which occurred Saturday, June 1st. The reunion was a complete surprise to the honor guest.

The entire family attended church together Sunday morning, after which a dinner was served. A large three-tiered birthday cake was baked by Mrs. Richard Ferguson. It held 80 candles and centered the table for the noon meal. The family sang the birthday song to their father and grandfather and made wishes for his continued health and happiness.

Those present for the happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwab and son, Charles, of San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ferguson and sons, Earnest Richard and Harold Ray, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Theo Ferguson and children, Billy, Lynda, Bobby and Charles, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Killgore of Gainesville; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ferguson and daughter, Betsy, of Crowell; Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Ferguson and sons, Bobby and Gary, of Crowell and George Ferguson, who resides in the home.

Afternoon callers to congratulate Mr. Ferguson were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Ferguson, Mrs. S. J. Ferguson, H. E. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl ten Brink and two children, Miss Genevieve Ferguson, J. M. Hill Jr. and Mrs. Willie Ryder and daughter, Faye.

Mr. Ferguson is a pioneer of Foard County, having resided here since 1886. He lives on a farm in the same community where his family settled in that year. He is an upright citizen and highly respected by his friends and neighbors.

equipment in many industries, already old, is wearing out faster than it can be replaced. Especially is this true of railroad equipment. Because of the coal strike, the railroad strike and the necessity of shipping embargoes, a heavy demand is going to be made on the railroads this coming fall and winter. Critical is the only word that can describe the situation that faces every business between now and 1947.

W. A. Mussetter, Father of Mrs. Jno. S. Ray, Honored

At the graduation exercises held in the Gardner Auditorium at La Grange, Mo., on Thursday evening, May 16, W. A. Mussetter, pioneer resident of that community and father of Mrs. John S. Ray of Rayland, was honored for his fifty years of public service as a member of the board of education, according to a news item appearing in the La Grange Indicator of May 22.

The Women's Business and Professional Club, the P. T. A. and the local Chamber of Commerce presented Mr. Mussetter with a fiftieth anniversary diploma and a nice fluorescent reading lamp to convey the thankfulness of the community to a man who has so unflinchingly served for so many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Mussetter have recently returned to their home after making an extended visit with their daughter here.

No combining was done after last Thursday until Monday afternoon of this week on account of the big rain that fell over the county Thursday night. The Government gauge at the Crowell State Bank registered 1.75 inches. The rain in the north and northwest part of the county was considerably heavier and reached the flood stage in places and covered up row crops recently planted. In the south and southwest portion of the county the precipitation was much lighter and was only about one-half inch in the Good Creek community. In other parts of the county the rainfall was approximately the same as recorded in Crowell.

The harvest will probably be completed by the latter part of the week and the total yield for the county will come close to 800,000 bushels.

Approximately 280 carloads of wheat have been shipped out of the county, most of which went to Fort Worth. The price of wheat Wednesday was $1.72 per bushel.

Deadline dates for filing application for Smith-Doxey service are August 1, according to F. E. Lichte, cotton gin specialist, Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

While these are the deadline dates, the USDA Production Marketing Administration, which provides the service, has set up goal dates of July 1, and July 15. Applications cannot be filed until cotton is planted, but should be sent in as soon as acreage for a given cotton group can be determined.

The Smith-Doxey Act, now in its ninth year of operation, provides free classing service so that farmers will know the actual grade and staple of their cotton as a guide to selling it. Samples from each bale of cotton raised by members of organized groups are sent to central points by co-operating ginners for classing by government employees. A market news service gives the market price for the various grades and staples.

In 1945 a total of 1422 gins, or 62 per cent of those in the state, signed up for the program as a service to their customers, and 43 per cent of the cotton grown in Texas was classed under the Smith-Doxey Act. Almost five million acres of cotton produced by 96,626 farmers, were covered by the 1945 applications.

CULL POULTRY FLOCKS NOW

The present ceiling prices on corn, wheat and other grains and protein concentrates means that heavy culling must be done in farm and commercial flocks if poultrymen hope to stay "in the black" on egg production, according to S. A. Moore, poultry husbandman of Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

"It takes around 11 pounds of feed to produce a dozen eggs a hen that is laying at the rate of 80 eggs per year," Mr. Moore said. A 200-egg hen will produce 24,000 eggs in a year at the rate of four to five per month, so two birds out now will save a sack of feed in the next year.

The Welcome Home

When people have been away from their home town for a time, one of the best features of their return is the friendly welcome they get. People greet them on the street and express great pleasure at seeing them again. The smile with which they are greeted is a sign that the absent people have been missed.

People work together in the same employment, or are associated together in some organization. As they talk and work together, ties of close friendship are formed. Or they meet socially and enjoy the same activities and thus they grow intimate. Affection for the home town grows out of these relations.

Coronet Spotlights Texas' Silk Industry

The Lone Star State is out to end Japan's silk monopoly and provide America with a new major industry!

The enterprising citizens of Mineral Wells believe that within five years Texas will have about 1,000,000 acres devoted to sericulture—the production of silk. In a June CORONET article, SILK STOCKINGS FOR YOU—FROM WILLARD C. HASELBUSH tells that with this revolutionary impetus from Texas, silk will become a No. 1 American enterprise.

The new industry will provide jobs for thousands of wounded and incapacitated war veterans. CORONET also prophesies that there will be a huge cash crop for farmers who can plant anything from a few rows to hundreds of acres of mulberry trees.

Mineral Wells' unique venture began in 1944—and by last December they had acquired 63,000 leaf producing trees, raised more than 1,000,000 worms, turned out hosiery made of Texas silk, and wound up the year with corporate assets $6,000 greater than the initial investment.

The project's success is due largely to the imagination of Mineral Wells' Chamber of Commerce manager, Ernest Mims, and the enthusiasm of Walter Scott Roberts, president of the American Raw Silk Corporation. The company now controls a new electronic reeling machine which will do to Japan's world silk domination what the atomic bomb did to her war effort. Invented and perfected by Gustaf Beckman, a publicity-shy Swedish technician, this device will enable one American girl to produce as much silk as 20 Japanese working at a top speed.

Experts have known for years that mulberry trees could be grown and that silk-worms could thrive almost anywhere in the world, says the Coronet article. But no country could compete against Japan's low labor costs. Beckman's machine produces in two hours as much silk as the Oriental system turns out in three days. It's better silk and actually cheaper—even when the costs are based on the white man's high wage and hour standards.

Millions of silkworm eggs now in cold storage at Mineral Wells will be hatched next spring. Already Texas silk has been manufactured into hosiery and fabrics, while applications for raw material have poured in from manufacturers all over the country.

Meantime the Mineral Wells businessmen are looking for land and more mulberry trees.

There are many devices in a man's heart; nevertheless, the counsel of the Lord, that shall stand.—Proverbs 19:21.

If, as it has been represented, there are conditions in any of the coal mines of this country which are hazardous to the safety and the lives of miners that can be corrected by the coal operators, it should not require a strike to get this done.

We have always felt that the cause of missions should be liberally supported by industry. When the missionaries go into foreign lands they strive to elevate the standard of living.

As evidence of the fact that efforts to reduce or stamp out the ravages of disease do produce results, it is pointed out that since 1900 the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States has been reduced from 200 to 42 per 100,000 population.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

At the moment the nation is coasting along under a two week's strike truce by the coal miners under the direction of John Lewis.

I do not believe that the coal strike is going to be settled in any such carefree fashion.

When that happens and the tie-up begins to take place in industry across the land, and economic paralysis begins to creep across the nation...

The result is going to be that there will develop a demand upon Congress to do something.

As I see it most of the trouble and interference in the conversion program is due to failure of Congress to serve in its capacity of Congress and to meet with courage and wisdom the real problems which it and everyone else knew it would be faced during the reconversion period.

Congress as I see it has made no contribution worthy of note to the reconversion program.

Congress was asked months ago by the President to set up a plan for handling strikes which would insure continued production while the questions involved in the strike were being negotiated.

I feel that the recognition and the acceptance of such a privilege carries with it a responsibility on the part of the worker to the end that the public, which has no part in his quarrel with management, shall not be caused to suffer loss and inconvenience because of such work stoppage.

Those of us who have worked long and hard for some control over labor bosses are hopeful President Truman will sign the so-called Case bill which was sent to his desk this week.

Our country has many troubles, it can see many dangers threatening it. There is a great fear of inflation, that the cost of living will rise and create great distress in countless homes.

There is no first here in which people have been anxious and troubled about the future of their country.

Then we have had our war troubles. There was the terrible War between the States, with the great loss of life and heavy debt burden it incurred.

Yet so far the country has come safely through these dangers and difficulties, and is today stronger than ever.

Fighting has ceased in Europe and Asia and the South Pacific but the battle against conversion is still in progress in the United States.

Political Interest This is a year when a very lively political campaign can be anticipated.

If very serious mistakes are made, the results can be very harmful to business, depressions and unemployment may result, and taxes will probably be higher than is necessary.

Food, Home Notes

(By Miss Elizabeth Elliott, County Home Demonstration Agent.)

Quick Bread For Breakfast
Many housewives these days are faced with the problem of making a quick bread for breakfast when they are unable to buy bread for the usual toast. Hot biscuits or muffins can be prepared with almost as little effort as toast if one learns the secret.

A biscuit mix which can be stored in the refrigerator and quickly made into biscuit or muffins is the answer. The recipe is: 12 cups sifted flour, 1-3 cup double-acting baking powder, 4 teaspoons salt, and 1 to 1 1/2 cups fat. Sift flour and measure. Add baking powder and salt and sift the three together. Cut in fat until mixture has a fine even crumb. Place in a closed container and keep in a cool place, refrigerator preferred.

For roll biscuit, combine about 2-3 cup milk (enough to make a soft dough) with 2 cups of mix. Turn out on slightly floured board. Knead very lightly about 18 strokes. Roll to 1/2 inch thickness, cut with biscuit cutter first dipped into flour, place on baking sheet either ungreased or only slightly so, and bake in hot oven (452° to 486° F.) for about 12 minutes.

For drop biscuit: Combine about 3/4 cup milk (enough to make a little softer dough than above) with 2 cups of mix. Mix lightly. Drop from a spoon about an inch apart on baking sheet. Bake as

For roll biscuit. Combine 1 slightly beaten egg, 1 cup milk, and 2 tablespoons sugar. Add to 2 cups biscuit mix and stir only until dry ingredients are moist. Fill well-greased muffin tins about 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (400° to 425° F.) about 20 minutes.

This recipe makes about 1 gallon of mix which will keep in the refrigerator at least a month. Whole wheat flour may be substituted for white flour.

Tomorrow's Package
Many types of food now on grocer's shelves are found in containers of some sort, and there is a good prospect that new types of food containers will soon be seen. Some of them . . . like the fiberboard crate . . . came into being as the result of wartime shortages. Others, like water-proof lacquers and plastic films, are the results of new discoveries.

Improvements that may be expected in the future include various types of food. More fresh fruits and vegetables, for example, will be packaged. This is already being done to some extent with oranges in mesh bags and tomatoes and mushrooms in small cardboard boxes with transparent plastic windows. Packing fresh produce in containers at the farm protects it from cuts and bruises during shipping and storage. And the day may come when the farmer will stamp the containers with his name and address and the date the food was packed.

Another prospect for tomorrow is the packaging of fresh meat. The container may be a cardboard boat wrapped in transparent film. Frozen foods may be packaged in plastic film. Dehydrated foods may be packaged in plastic film or in metal cans.

Instead of wooden boxes and baskets more fiberboard crates and baskets and folding boxes made of paperboard will probably be used particularly for shipping fruits and vegetables by air. The new containers will offer high quality protection and will assure freshness.

Orchard Treatment Urged
With trees and shrubs damaged by hail the last few days, F. Rosborough, horticulturist for the A. & M. College Extension Service, urges treatment to prevent infection or fungus growth.

Mr. Rosborough recommends a bordeaux wash made by mixing one pound of Bordeaux mixture, which can be obtained at a drug store, with five gallons of water. This mixture should be applied over the damaged surface with a paint brush or something similar. After treatment, wait for 30 days and then apply orange shellac to the damaged areas.

Where peach leaf curl has been prevalent, the horticulturist recommends fertilizing now to stimulate new leaf growth and to overcome partially the weakening effect of diseased foliage or foliage losses. Excellent control for the following season can be obtained by spraying thoroughly at relatively high pressure with liquid lime sulphur according to directions on the container before the buds burst out in the spring.

For pecan rosette, spray now, when pecan foliage is about full size, using one pound of zinc sulphate to 50 gallons of water. This spray may be used in combination with three pounds of lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water for control of nut-case-bearer.

Treat Bag Worms Now
Arbor vitae and cedar trees in some sections this year have received one of the heaviest infestations of bag worms in several years, and Paul Gregg, assistant entomologist for the A. & M. College Extension Service, urges prompt treatment while the insects are still in the infant stage. The masses of leaf particles, adhering to a tough case, are the cases of the bag worm. This worm lives within the bag, crawling about with it in feeding, during which act it partly emerges from the case.

About August the worm is fully grown, and after firmly attaching the case to a twig, pupates therein. By fall the female insect has entirely shriveled, leaving nothing but a mass of eggs within the bag. These eggs pass the winter and hatch the following spring, producing a great number of small worms, each of which builds a new nest and so repeats the cycle.

Infested trees or shrubs may be treated by spraying with three tablespoonfuls of lead arsenate in one gallon of water. On small trees where spraying is not practical, removing bags by hand is suggested. These may then be destroyed by burning.

On Summer Styles
If you're going to make a summer dress or "do over" an old one, what are some of the style trends you might consider to give that "brand new" look?

For one thing, longer skirts are characterizing new clothes. For after-spring wear, hem-lines are down at the mid-calf, according to stylists. But sleeves probably are the first indicator of the age of a dress. Three types are especially good this season: The full bishop sleeve, the pushed-up sleeve, and the straight "bracelet" length. Rounded shoulders are one of the year's most significant fashions.

Then there's a tendency toward smaller waistlines. And along with that the decorative belt is popular again. In fact, a belt that makes the costume is the season's most important accessory. You can choose one that's wide, narrow, straight, curved, glittering or plain. In a good many instances you'll find belts used to join a blouse and a skirt.

Necklines continue low, and skirts are fuller. Now about hats—the high hat—the cloche—is especially popular—and that has brought about shorter hair, as well. Bangs have replaced the page boy trend—no doubt about that, and most hair styles just now show the shape of the head.

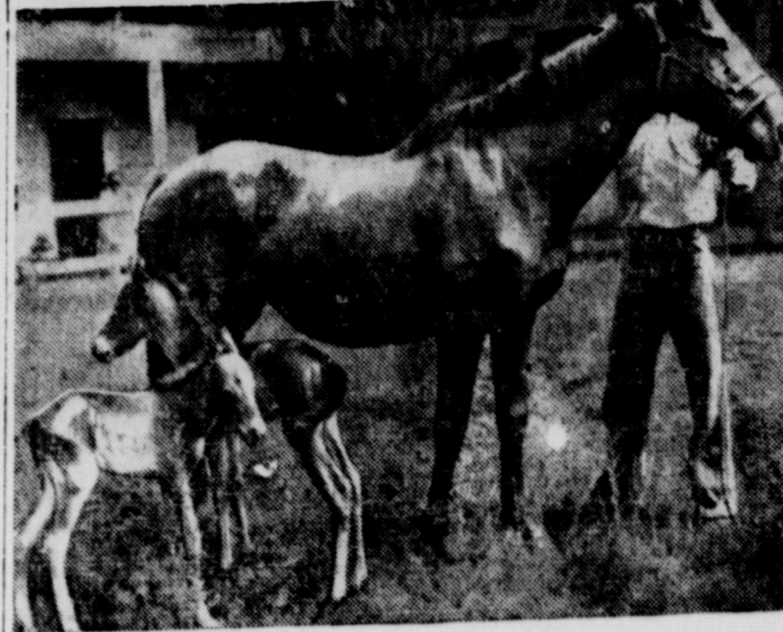

Firearms Kept As Trophies Should Be Registered

The Alcohol Tax Unit, Bureau of Internal Revenue, is charged with enforcement of the National Firearms Act. This Act deals with the importation, registration, possession, sale or transfer by any means of certain types of firearms, imposes a tax of $200.00 on each transfer, and provides a penalty not to exceed $2,000.00 or imprisonment not to exceed five years, or both, in event a person is convicted on a charge of violating any provisions of the Act. Failure to register weapons covered by this law or the transfer of such weapons without payment of the transfer tax is a violation of the Act.

The basic purpose of the statute is the regulation and control of the traffic in machine guns, semi-automatic guns, fully automatic pistols, or any type of gun that will expel more than one shot or bullet with a single pull of the trigger. It also includes rifles and shotguns with barrels less than 18 inches in length and all firearms equipped with a silencer or muffler, and is aimed at preventing firearms such as above described from falling into the hands of gangsters, racketeers, bank robbers and other criminals.

Until our armed forces were deployed over the world in connection with prosecution of World War II, guns of the type mentioned presented no particular hazard to law enforcement officers, or the public of this country. In October, 1945, the Bureau of Customs outlined a procedure which permitted members of the armed services to import into this country as war trophies certain enemy equipment, including firearms of the type described in the National Firearms Act. Such importations were permitted providing certificates were first obtained from the service man's commanding officer and presented to the Customs Officer, before whom the service man would appear and execute what is known as Form 6 (Firearms), which is an application for importation of firearms. In cases where the weapon was mailed or shipped by a member of the armed services to a friend or relative to be held until the owner returned to this country, the Bureau of Customs procedure permitted the friend or relative to file the Form 6 (Firearms) on behalf of the actual owner. Under this procedure, the execution of Form 6 (Firearms) covering the importation of a weapon is construed as the registration of same.

It has been determined that great numbers of firearms falling within the scope of the National Firearms Act have been imported into this country with and without officers' certificates and in many instances, due to the lack of knowledge of the registration requirements. The possessors of the weapons have not yet executed Form 6 (Firearms). The existence of such a large number of these weapons in the custody of private individuals is materially increasing the hazard of their falling into the hands of the criminal element through illegal sale, gift, transfer or theft, thereby weakening or even defeating the purpose of the National Firearms Act. The government believes this hazard can be reduced to a great extent by accomplishing the registration of the weapons and requesting the possessors to have firearms of the type described rendered permanently un-serviceable. As long as machine gun or firearm subject to registration remains in serviceable condition, it constitutes a hazard to the owner's family as well as to the general public and, in particular, to law enforcement officers. The government appreciates the trophy value of weapons of this type brought or shipped into this country by the veteran. Methods have been evolved for making such weapons inoperative, without in any material way interfering with their appearance or value as a trophy or souvenir. Firearms which are made inoperative may be transferred between persons without payment of the tax, but merely upon execution of the proper form (Form 6 Firearms).

The Alcohol Tax Unit in each state functions under the direction of the Investigator in Charge. Each of those officials has a group of Investigators under his supervision stationed at various posts throughout his state. The Investigator in Charge for the Northern and Eastern Districts of Texas is: James M. Shields, 583 Terminal Annex Bldg., P. O. Box No. 5566, Dallas 2, Texas. In this part of the state there are investigators of the Alcohol Tax Unit stationed at the following posts: Dallas, Tyler, Texarkana, Marshall, Beaumont, Abilene and

Human Relations Science

President Truman in a recent address referred to the question of protection against the atomic bomb. He said there is at least one defense, and that is in the mastering of the science of human relations all over the world.

Progress in this science has been far less than in the sciences that cover material forces. People are keen to learn how to manage such things as electricity and radio transmission and modern machinery, but a great portion of it does not seem to realize that it is tremendously important to learn how people and nations can live together harmoniously.

One principle of the science of human relations is that a selfish policy hurts the people of the countries that follow that idea. When people or nations act selfishly, they create antagonism and enmity. Those feelings interfere with commercial and industrial and community life, and are a hindrance in the way of personal and social progress.

People in the High Alps, Central Europe, and Alaska depend upon the dog as a pack animal.

A bee dies after losing its stinger.

Debt to the Home

People's ability to earn or win success in any field is mainly due to their own efforts. Also they usually owe a great debt to the things handed to them by their families, their communities and the organizations with which they are connected.

The people of the past and present who created social institutions and enterprising industries contributed heavily to all that we owe a great deal to the town which has given us benefits, and people should contribute so far as they can to its progress.

Neither the working hours nor the vacation time of the student of the United States has ever been set by law.

There are diamond deposits in many states, but only in Texas is there a working mine.

Home Town Thoughts

There are a great many towns that have organizations formed to promote business and improvement, but in some of them the people do not support these organizations well enough so they can do any great job.

In many towns there are excellent organizations formed to promote town progress, but the people as a whole do not follow their leadership sufficiently well.

A single individual who has faith that needed things can be done in a town, and who will work actively toward that end, will often accomplish wonders in bringing about such improvements.

The Broader Life

The idea once prevailed that it was in some way creditable to live in a large city than in a small city or country town. The notion was entertained that the people from the big city were likely to be more prosperous or successful, or that they probably kept more in touch with the modern world.

That idea has entirely disappeared now. The people of small cities and country towns are likely to be just as wide awake and up with the times as those of the big cities. Their newspapers and radios keep them in touch with all modern developments. They read and hear educational and informative talk on everything that is going on. They have social and civic organizations that keep them in touch with modern life. Small city and country town life is ideal today.

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

The Tea Leaves in the Cup: When I was a small boy at home I remember that for the amusement and entertainment of us children my mother used to read our fortunes by means of the tea leaves in her tea cup. I distinctly recall that we were thrilled and fascinated by the many wonderful things that the tea leaves promised us. My mother who knew our secret ambitions saw in the pattern of the tea leaves a happy fruition of each one of our life's plans. We never tired of hearing of our fortunes as told in the tea leaves at the supper table because to my mother's interpretation always brought the things we wanted and hoped some day would come to pass. When I became older I came to lose much of my faith in the revelation of my future as told by the tea leaves. I came to realize that the fortunes and fate of life is not determined by the pattern the tea leaves in the tea cup or their skillful interpretation. Our lives are determined by what we put into them, the right attitude, the right concepts, the right desires, the right aims, and our sincerity of purpose. It is we, not the tea leaves, who built our lives and our character.

Seeing America First

Before the war a tremendous tide of tourist travel crossed the ocean to Europe. Also a great number took trips to the Orient and around the world. There was something extremely fascinating to millions in the historical scenes, the scenery, and the pleasures of European cities and resorts. There was an atmosphere of antiquity about them that drew crowds.

In the flush times before the war, a tremendous number of young people took trips to Europe, and many spent money freely. Many of them considered a trip to Europe as an essential element in their education. Their foreign trips were not always very educational, and many spent a good part of their funds at pleasure resorts.

The tide of vacation travel abroad was so strong in those days that the slogan "See America First" was widely promulgated. The effort was made to remind people that our country has a vast number of interesting things to see, and that tourists should become more familiar with the United States.

This year the facilities for foreign travel will be limited. The great majority of the tourists will thus see America first. They will find a wealth of interest in their scenery of our mountains, the beauty and pleasant summer life and abundant sports at seashore, lake and forest resorts and elsewhere, give them plenty of the most interesting travel objectives.

Countless simple resorts will be open where people can live inexpensively. American hotels and inns offer entertainment under the most comfortable and luxurious conditions. The tide of travel will be so great that people should make their hotel reservations early. It is estimated that the summer tourists will spend $6,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000. This is a great business opportunity for all who appeal to the tourist trade.

Weekly Sermon

By the Rev. Wendell P. Lovelless, Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Know

As Christians, we have a right to know, when it comes to eternal things. God intends that we shall know.

Paul the apostle could say, "I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day" (II Tim. 1:12). There is nothing egotistical or conceited in Paul's certainty. He spoke with authority and assurance because God, in absolute grace, had awakened him to his utter bankruptcy as a lost sinner. God also had, through the new birth, transformed him, and brought him into eternal relationship with himself.

"We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death" (I John 3:14). The doctrine of regeneration is vital to an understanding of God's purposes in grace. The man who is not born again might stand in heaven itself and have no enjoyment of it, because those faculties required for spiritual understanding and enjoyment are lacking. Hence the requirement for regeneration. It introduces us into eternal life, and it introduces eternal life into us.

"And this is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us; and if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we desired of him" (I John 5:14, 15). We need to remember that God has three answers to prayer—"yes," "no" and "wait." How thankful we should be for the "no's" and the "wait's!"

"We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not" (I John 5:18). Of course, this does not mean that no child of God will ever be disobedient, or get out of fellowship with the Lord, or commit sin. But it does mean that it is no longer characteristic of us, as children of God, to "go on making sinning the habit of our lives."

Teaching Unselfishness

If selflessness is a great cause of our national and international troubles, what can be done to teach people to be unselfish? If public speakers or writers argue that people should be unselfish and learn to make reasonable adjustments and compromises, their words may not have any great effect.

Examples of unselfishness produce a result. During the war period countless people showed great unselfishness in the way they toiled for the benefit of the community. If this spirit can continue permanently, and if it leads many people to give time and energy to the public good and to minister to human needs, it sets an example of unselfishness which many will follow.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Separating Whites from Yolks.—When you want to separate yolks of eggs from whites, break them over a funnel. Whites will pass through leaving the yolks.

Keep Ice Box Filled With Ice.—Don't be afraid you are extravagant when you fill your refrigerator with ice. It is economy to keep the ice chest full, for when the ice gets low and the refrigerator warm it takes twice as much ice to get cool again. Bacteria, multiplying rapidly, cause food spoilage when temperature rises to 50 degrees or higher, and your ice box should be kept at the lower temperature at all times to retard spoilage.

NOT ON YOUR TINTYPE

Grandma looks calm and collected as she poses for posterity, but she wasn't—not on your tintype! Getting her family ready for this picture was a long, weary business.

The day this photo was snapped, Grandma was up at dawn, wrestling with the old wood stove, coaxing the kettle to boil, cooking breakfast. And the day before, she ironed the mountain of starched clothes that had needed such hard scrubbing. The day before that—

But that was Grandma's life. She didn't know any other kind. Her way of housekeeping took lots of time, lots of elbow grease. In Grandma's gayest dreams she never imagined the time would come when a woman would have dozens of electric servants daily for the cost of a bar of soap.

Electric service—ready and willing round the clock and calendar—is a modern miracle Grandma missed by being born too soon. But electrical dependability (and cheapness, too) didn't happen by accident. Not on your tintype! They're the result of plenty of hard work and practical experience on the part of your neighbors who operate this company.

They then registered in the bride's book, before entering the dining room where the table was prettily arranged with the miniature bride and groom as a centerpiece, surrounded by a circle of roses.

Mrs. Jack Powers poured punch and Mrs. Dock Gray and Mrs. Cleo Spears assisted in the serving. Mrs. Greening presided in the gift room where the attractive and useful gifts were displayed.

Mrs. William Ricks played incidental music during the reception hours and Mrs. Moody Bursley gave a clever reading.

hostesses served a delicious ice course to twenty-one ladies, including two new members, Mrs. J. H. Minnick and Mrs. E. W. Kidd.

ADELPHIAN CLUB

The Adolphian Club met Wednesday, May 29, for the last meeting of the club year with Mrs. Doyle Kenner and Mrs. Carrie Hart as hostesses.

During the business session Miss Florence Black gave an interesting report of the industrial art and appreciation work of Grammar School pupils, which is sponsored by the Adolphian Club.

Miss Frankie Kirkpatrick, leader of the program, gave an inspiring report on the life of Edward McDowell, who ranks as the greatest American composer. McDowell was born in New York City, in one of the nicest neighborhoods, during a prosperous period, 1861, and into a very nice family. His father loved to entertain artists, and at an early age, Edward showed talent in both music and art. An art instructor, noticing his sketches on the backs of his French exercise books, was so impressed that he offered to give him three years' instruction free of cost. After much thought his parents decided that he should continue to study music.

At the age of 15, his mother took him to Paris to study music where he had a difficult time until he had a series of lessons in French. Two years later he and his mother went to Germany where Edward was under the guidance of Joachim Raff, director of the Frankfurt Conservatory. At the age of 23, he accepted the post of piano instructor in the conservatory. Among his pupils here was a young American girl, Marion Nevin, who had gone to Germany to study piano. Three years later she became Mrs. Edward McDowell and her devotion to the work and ideals of her husband is today reflected in the lasting memorial, which largely through her personal effort, is found in the McDowell Colony at Peterborough, N. H. This colony is reserved for young musicians of proved ability. After exhausting her personal fortune, she, being a talented pianist herself, gave concerts, playing and interpreting her husband's compositions. In 37 years she has contributed $90,000.00 to the colony.

In Europe McDowell's ability as a pianist and composer was soon recognized by the great critics. However, they returned to America established a small home in Boston, where his European triumphs were soon repeated. In 1896 Columbia University founded a music department and placed McDowell as its head. For 8 years he struggled to maintain his stand that music should be given a place in the curriculum equal to that of any other study. Flouting that his plans were misunderstood and ridiculed he resigned a heart-broken man. He was always happy with nature and, after he retired from the University, he purchased an old farm at Peterboro, N. H., that later became the above mentioned colony. Overwork was doubtless the cause of the mental breakdown which led to his early death in 1908 at the age of 47.

Mrs. William Ricks played two McDowell compositions, "In the Woods" and "The Witches' Dance."

At the close of the program a refreshing ice course was served to members and two guests, Miss Joellene Vannoy and Miss Mildred Cogdell.

One of the reasons there is a shortage in merchandise is the fact that when peace came American citizens were buying at the record rate of $100,000,000,000 a year. Now they are buying at the rate of $120,000,000,000 a year.

Hudgeons, former residents of Foard County, now of Torrence, Calif., and James Lee Clappitt of Long Beach, Calif., were married at Gretna Green Wedding Chapel in Yuma, Ariz., on May 19. In the same ceremony, Miss Helen Joyce Nair of Torrence, Calif., and Harold Carl Bates of Torrence were married, with Rev. L. L. Roberts, officiating with the double ring ceremony.

Following the marriage, a reception was given to honor the two couples. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clappitt and Mr. and Mrs. Bates are making their home in Long Beach, Calif.

Foard City WSCS Meets with Mrs. Grady Halbert Mon.

On Monday, June 3rd, Mrs. Grady Halbert was hostess to the Foard City Woman's Society of Christian Service. Following the business session, with Mrs. J. M. Barker, vice president, in the chair, the introduction to the new study book, "The Cross Over Africa" was given.

A geographical study of Africa was first presented by Mrs. Halbert, which set the stage for the course of study. A large map showing the countries was displayed and the physical as well as the racial characteristics and the products grown were listed.

West Side Africa not for information alone—but to develop a deep concern for the future of an Africa emerging into her rightful place among the nations of the world" said Mrs. Virgil Johnson in the beginning of her report on the new study. She brought out the story of Simon, the Cyrene, an African, and the part he played at the crucifixion, then compared the part the cross is playing in the Africa of today.

Mrs. J. M. Barker will bring the second chapter at the next meeting. Refreshments were served to six members and two guests, Mrs. E. V. Halbert and Mrs. Kenneth Halbert.

Timely Advice to Vacationists During Summer Months

Austin.—Some timely advice to vacationists concerning the proper precautions to be used in water sports during summer months was released from the State Health Department this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

It was pointed out that in view of prevailing travel difficulties, vacation pleasures are apt to be limited to excursions and picnics at nearby lakes, rivers, and ponds of unfamiliar depths and currents, and without the usual lifeguard supervision associated with bathing beaches and commercial swimming pools.

"Swimming and water sports are beneficial to good health provided one's physical condition justifies this type of exercise," Dr. Cox asserted; "nevertheless, they possess dangerous possibilities if the rules of safety, through carelessness or thoughtlessness, are disregarded."

The State Health Officer outlined the following simple rules for bathing and swimming in safety: when swimming, be alert and careful of unknown depths and currents; at least one hour should elapse after a meal before entering the water; upon the first indication of fatigue, come ashore and call it a day; if you become chilled in the water immediately; do not enter the water when overheated; learn to float, this is most important; never attempt to rock a boat in a spirit of fun; never swim in water that may be polluted. Swimming close to or even a few miles below sewage outlets is inviting the possibility of acquiring disease.

"Excursions, picnics, and swimming parties contribute much to a healthy, happy, normal life, which is always desirable," Dr. Cox said. "It is by no means advisable to eliminate these excursions from our summer program, but it is important that they prove beneficial and not disastrous."

Unusual Book Makes a Daring Film

One of the most talked-about books, Charles J. Jackson's "The Lost Week-End," will probably be one of the most talked-about motion pictures, if advance notices are any indication, for those who have seen Paramount's picture-ization of the best-seller, co-starring Ray Milland and Jane Wyman, and due at the Rialto Wednesday and Thursday, June 12 and 13, declare it to be one of the most unusual and daring films ever made.

The story concerns the shocking experiences of a sensitive, intelligent man during his five days' abandonment to an insatiable hunger for liquor. The devotion of his sweetheart, the patient understanding of his brother, cannot keep him from going off the deep end into an abyss never yet intrepred on the screen. It is not until he sinks to the depths of degradation that he finds himself. By then, according to reports, you will have lived through a picture experience so exciting, you will never forget it.

WEST SIDE H. D. CLUB

The West Side Home Demonstration Club met on May 22 in the home of Mrs. G. L. Scott, with "Fun with Flowers" the topic of discussion. Mrs. Henry Ross, president of the club, conducted the business session after which the program was rendered.

Each member answered roll call by naming a wild flower of Foard County. A poem, "A Bowl of Roses" was given by Mrs. Homer Johnson. "The Woman of the Flowers" was given by Mrs. Henry Ross. "Cut Flowers Last Longer When" was given by Mrs. M. O'Connell. "Move-about You Can Make" by Mrs. Herman Kinchloe, and a demonstration on "Fun with Flowers" by Mrs. S. E. Tate; "Vases You Never Thought of" by Mrs. Charlie Bryson and "Flower Tips" given by Mrs. Humphrey Dockins was the concluding number.

At the conclusion of the program, the birthdays of Mrs. Henry Ross and Mrs. Madge Ross were celebrated.

Refreshments were served to the members and the following visitors: Mrs. J. L. Kinchloe, Mrs. E. E. Chapman, Mrs. Jess Chapman, Mrs. M. E. Dockins, Mrs. James Joy, Mrs. G. R. Webster and Miss LaRue Scott.

The next meeting will be on June 12, in the home of Mrs. L. Kamstra with Mrs. John Teague as hostess. All members are urged to attend and visitors are welcome.

Building Up Business

There are countless instances of great stores that have built up a big business by advertising. Most of them probably started as small concerns, but they kept advertising. They won public attention, and people kept coming to them to see the bargains thus announced. When they came, they saw many more things that attracted their attention. They inquired the price of these things, and they were likely to buy them. So the business of these stores grew and grew. Many of them are located in small towns.

Any concern that advertizes consistently, can expect its business to grow and become a good deal larger. It will draw trade from a wide area, and reach far out into the surrounding country.

"The House on 92nd St." Outstanding Picture of Year

Darryle F. Zanuck, vice president in charge of production for 20th Century-Fox, has released the following message to the theatre-goers of America concerning the picture, "The House on 92nd Street," which will be shown at the Rialto Theatre on Tuesday, June 11:

"To have known this story a year ago would have meant your life . . . to know it today . . . is a thrilling experience.

"For it is the story of the protection of the atomic bomb . . . and how its secret was almost stolen by the enemy.

"With the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Japan, we of 20th are permitted to present "The House on 92nd Street." Produced in secrecy, behind closed doors, the story of this motion picture was adapted from cases in the espionage files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and was filmed with the complete co-operation of the F. B. I.

"Told with a new technique of dramatic picture-making, we believe its action, suspense and human interest have seldom been equaled.

"To J. Edgar Hoover and his great F. B. I. organization, to Producer Louis de Rochemont Director Henry Hathaway the cast headed by William Lloyd Nolan, Signe Hasso, Carroll, and to the entire 20th Century-Fox Studio which participated in the production, go my highest commendation and admiration."

Home Town Thought

People sometimes get their home town and could go elsewhere and they call a broader life. At a time, they are almost glad to get back.

Many companies who that when they drop their tising, their sales fall off. A suggestion that one advertising is a paying proposition. A little less true spending the home town, and more spent in praising people do things for the home would promote progress.
