Hon. Marvin Jones Speaks to Large Audience Tues.

Hon. Marvin Jones spoke in the interest of his candidacy for reelection to Congress from the 18th district to a fairly large audience in the district court room Tuesday afternoon. The speaker was introduced by W. B. Wisdom, one of our citizens who had grown up with Mr. Jones in Cooke County. The two had been boys in school together and had always been warm personal friends.

Mr. Jones briefly reviewed his record since he has been in Congress, pointing out some of the important measures he has introduced in Congress and fought for until some of them have become laws. He spoke of his efforts to get on the agriculture committee and his failure at first, but through persistence was finally given a place on that committee after three years. He felt that he could best serve the interests of his people on that committee.

It was Mr. Jones who introduced the cotton carry over bill, which became a law benefitting the cotton farmers of the South. He has been instrumental in getting cotton used as baling, which calls for an additional 400,000 bales annually. He has been directing thought and study on other uses of the South's staple which he hopes will mean a still wider use of cotton.

Mr. Jones thinks the South must look after its own interests. He does not favor a tariff for the protection of manufacturing interests while the producers of this country are exposed to the keenest competition without any protection. He favors legislation that will not discriminate that will give due consideration to the full development of all our varied resources. Agriculture with its kindred lines demands first consideration because this is pre-eminently a producing country. He wants more manufacturing activities in the South, nearer the concentrated centers of production.

Mr. Jones is opposed to cotton reports and guesses emanating from Washington that are not based on facts. At one time the South lost millions of dollars as the result of a price prediction given out by one of the departments. He is opposed to the cotton exchange and cotton gambling by unscrupulous speculators at the expense of the producer. He contends for a delivery of cotton at points as near as possible to the centers of production.

Mr. Jones believes an effective means of producing universal peace would be by the elimination of profits from war. Drafting business, as well as young men for service, he thinks would produce the desired result.

Bell Challenges Jones to Debate

"Paducah, Texas, June 12, 1928.
"Hon. Marvin Jones,
"Amarillo, Texas.

"I understand that in your speeches you take issue with me on your salary raise and other questions. I challenge you to meet me in joint debate in every county of the district that the people may know the truth about this issue and others. Wire me your answer at once that we may arrange places and dates.

"J. ROSS BELL."

Jones' Reply

"Amarillo, Texas, June 13, 1928.
"Hon. J. Ross Bell,
"Paducah, Texas.

"Dear Sir:
"Your telegram received. There is no issue on the salary raise. Your suggestion that I voted for it is all wrong. I not only voted against it but gave my reasons for so voting. The Dallas News representative who saw me rise and vote against it published the following in the Dallas News of February 21, 1925, page 3, column 5:

"The following members of the Texas delegation stood and were counted among the ninety-three who opposed the adoption of the salary provision: Black, Box, Birggs, Connally, Garrett, Sanders, Lanham, Jones, Blanton, Mansfield and Buchanan."

"As to meeting you in joint debate, you have been campaigning for months while I have been at my post of duty. I have seven weeks in which to cover the fifty-three counties of this district. Manifestly I haven't time to listen to you speak.

"In the limited time at my disposal I intend to make my report directly to the people and strictly in accordance with the facts.

"Sincerely yours,
(Signed) "MARVIN JONES."

Farmer Unearths Bone of Mastodon

It is not uncommon for one to find buried under the surface of the ground bones of prehistoric animals. In various portions of West Texas these have been found, which fact goes to prove that at one time very large animals, now extinct, made this country their home.

Not long ago Lee Whitman, living south of Thalia, saw imbedded in the bank of a creek on his place a portion of a bone, which he dug out. He was surprised at the immense size of the bone, which looked like the portion that fits into a socket, and the fact that it was almost as large as his head caused no little wonder as to the huge size of the mastodon whose frame it was evidently a part of. Mr. Whitman looked for other bones but found few.

Home Struck by Lightning Is Burned Down

The home of Bill Russell was struck by lightning Tuesday evening during a storm and was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Russell was on his way home from town at the time the building was struck and he nor his wife knew it had been struck until they smelled something burning and when they investigated it took but a moment to discover that the entire top of the building was in a blaze.

The fire department was called and aided in checking the blaze after it had practically ruined the building, only portions of the walls remaining.

With the assistance of neighbors and friends a portion of the furniture was moved from the building to shelter but was badly damaged by the falling rain and hail.

Mr. Russell carried $2,000 insurance on the home and $1,000 on the furniture.

Blair, Oklahoma, Is Struck Hard

The tornado which struck Blair, Oklahoma, one afternoon last week was a tremendous blow to that town. It is reported that seven persons were killed and several others injured, while hundreds were rendered homeless and an estimated property loss of a million dollars.

Many homes were swept away and business houses were wrecked. Headrick was another town to receive a heavy blow.

The tornado seemed to have fallen out of a sandstorm and made an unexpected appearance.

Farm Poultry Raising Soon to Be Lost Science and Art

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Texas)

What will probably be one of the greatest things of importance in the tremendous development of the poultry industry is the invention of a new type of mammoth brooder.

The mammoth incubator has come to stay. They are used in capacities from 12,000 up to 50,000 eggs at one time. Some hatchery operators in Texas have a capacity of 250,000 up to half million eggs at one setting. In nearly every community there is a mammoth incubator doing the work of hundreds of setting hens.

Mammoth Brooder

Now along comes Mr. Pierce with a new type of mammoth brooder, ranging in capacity from 8,400 chicks up to 100,000 chicks all brooded in one building and kept warm by one heater. This brooder is heated by steam, controlled by automatic and very accurate electric regulators. Big fans are used to provide plenty of fresh air without any direct drafts. The brooder comes in units of 8,400 chicks, composed of 120 compartments, and 70 chicks to each compartment. Two and three story buildings may be used to brood chicks with this system. One hatchery in Wisconsin is installing a plant large enough to brood 900,000 chicks at one time. Everything is under one roof including feed room, broiler room, fattening room and killing room. It is possible to brood chicks with this system until they no longer need heat, namely until they are 10 to 12 weeks old.

Brooded Chicks

With the development of this new invention for brooding chicks, come several new phases of the poultry business, namely, the sale of 3 and 4 weeks old brooded chicks, 6 and 8 weeks old pullets, broilers and 8 to 10 weeks old capons. No doubt rapid progress is being made in the development of the poultry business.

Highly Specialized

To all appearance, farm poultry raising may some day be a lost science and art. The giant incubators are putting setting hens on the benches, now we come along with factory methods of brooding chicks. Look at this picture and draw your own conclusions.

In California one man operate an incubator capacity of over one million eggs at one time in one building.

In Wisconsin a mammoth broodery holding 900,000 chicks at one time is under construction.

In the Middle West great fattening stations accommodating 200,000 and more birds in one building have been in successful use for many years.

In New Jersey one poultryman has a three-story egg factory accommodating 10,000 laying hens all under one roof.

A NICE PIECE OF WORK

Not only from a standpoint of mechanical work, but from that of information, the Hardeman County Agricultural and Industrial edition issued by the Quanah Tribune-Chief of a few days ago reached a high point of excellency.

The Tribune-Chief is one of the best equipped publishing plants in the country and its operators know good work. Therefore they can not very well do any other class than high-grade work. The edition reflects high credit upon the printers and the people of Quanah and Hardeman County.

Heavy Rains Cover Many Young Crops

Many young cotton and feed crops were covered by the big rains last Friday. In the early hours of the morning we had an inch of rain and then in the forenoon there was another inch, both rains being hard and causing accumulation of large quantities of water that covered the young crops. In some places terraces broke, causing slight damage to lands, we are told. It will be necessary to replant quite a lot of land over the county. And while it is getting a little late, there is time yet in which to make crops but not much margin. We are told that some cotton was planted last year as late as June 27 and made good cotton, but that gives little time for maturity before the frosts come in the fall.

The ground has a good season practically all over the county and if the farmers can get their crops in right now they have good chance of making fine crops.

Tanks and lakes are full. For the first time in many months the City lake has been running around since the rain Friday, and the country club lake is said to have about 18 feet of water.

Wheat Is Being Cut This Week

The wheat crop, of course, is very light in this county. Those who think it will pay them to go over their land with a combine are commencing to do it this week.

The yield has been estimated all the way from 4 to 10 bushels per acre. A very few have estimated as high as 15 bushels on small acreages. If it were not for the fact that there will be a demand for seed this fall the crop would hardly be worth trying to save. Some farmers think there is enough wheat that can be combined to furnish seed for the fall sowing of the county.

Miss Winnie Self Arrives in London

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Self received a cablegram from their daughter, Miss Winnie, Wednesday saying that she had arrived in London.

She sailed from New York June 9, and arrived Tuesday, June 19th, being on the water for ten days.

She is well and is having a fine and enjoyable trip. Her friends here are glad for her and hope that it may not only be pleasant but highly profitable, as no doubt it will be.

T. E. L. Class

The class met in May in regular business meeting at the home of Mrs. Agnes McLaughlin and Mrs. Jimmie Self. The devotional was led by Mrs. McBurnett, after which the business hour followed. The hostesses served delicious refreshments for the afternoon.

The class met June 14th in the home of Mrs. W. R. Womack. After the devotional we went into election of officers for the following six months: President, Mrs. E. B. McBurnett; 1st vice president, Mrs. Arnold Rucker; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Geo. Hinds; 3rd vice president, Mrs. E. A. Dunagan; secretary, Mrs. Agnes McLaughlin; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Griffith; cradle roll, Mrs. Tanner Billington; home department, Mrs. H. D. Poland; reporter, Mrs. Paul Bishop.

The class voted to have the pictures made of all babies in cradle roll and hang the pictures in our class room. Mrs. Billington reported one new baby enrolled for this month, and urges all members to enroll their babies that are not enrolled, so we may get their pictures as soon as possible.

Our Sunshine Friends were revealed and we drew names for the following month. After the business hour, Mrs. L. A. Andrews had two interesting contests. The hostesses, Mrs. W. W. Griffith and Mrs. W. R. Womack, served brick ice cream and angel food cake.

Our teacher, Mr. Myers, will be a wonderful help to you if you hear his talks every Sunday morning on the lesson. Come to the T. E. L. Class, get you a Sunshine Friend, and speak a word of sympathy, or do a little deed of kindness for her. It will do you good. We need you.—Reporter.

Death Takes Foard County Citizen Away

The death of M. E. B. Jones occurred at the home of his son, M. H. Jones, Saturday night, June 16, at 11 o'clock, a few miles northeast of Thalia.

The deceased was born near Columbiana, Ala., January 21, 1845. After having reached manhood he was married to Miss Minerva Seale. To that union were born eight children, five of whom, two sons and three daughters, survive.

In the year 1892 Mr. Jones and his family moved from Alabama to Whitewright, Grayson County, Texas, where they made their home for 12 years. They then moved to Jones County, in which county they made their home until the year 1906, when they moved to Foard City, this county, and Mr. Jones has claimed Foard County as his home ever since, although he resided temporarily in portions of Oklahoma during the last few years.

The wife of the deceased passed away June 3, 1909, and a portion of the time since then he resided with his children. He had been with the son near Thalia for the last year.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church at Thalia last Sunday afternoon, after which interment took place by the side of the body of his wife in the Crowell cemetery. Rev. Lyons, pastor of the Baptist church at Vernon, assisted by Rev. Frank McNair of Lockett and Rev. Reed of Thalia, had charge of the funeral services.

Mr. Jones was converted and became a Christian, identifying himself with the Baptist church in the year 1872. Soon afterwards he was ordained to preach and was thereafter active in the ministry. Just about one year before he came to the home of his son to spend the remainder of his life he preached his farewell sermon to a church in Oklahoma which he had been serving. He was then 82 years of age.

The deceased is survived by five children, Mrs. J. R. Crawford and Mrs. J. T. Skipworth, Vernon, Texas; B. W. Jones of Marietta, Okla.; Mrs. H. S. Bridges, Rotan, Texas; and M. H. Jones, Thalia. All the children were present at the funeral services. He is also survived by 30 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren. All the great grandchildren and all of the grandchildren except 6 were present at the funeral.

The deceased was well known in Crowell and was loved and honored by all. He was a good and useful man and lived out his life in a manner well worthy of emulation.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

The celebration of the anniversary of Henry Gribble at his home in Vernon last Sunday was the occasion of a gathering of a large number of relatives and friends, the climax of the event being the sumptuous feast prepared by Mrs. Gribble.

We do not know how old Henry is, and it is supposed that he would not object to our mentioning his age if we did know, but he is neither old nor young. He has been here for a good many summers and our wish is that he may see as many more.

Those who were present at the Gribble home were, Jim Gribble and wife of Crowell; L. N. Johnson and wife of Tell; Will Erwin and family, Jim Shook and family, and Tom Miller and two daughters, all of Crowell.

They all report a most enjoyable time.

SINGING WELL ATTENDED

The singing at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon was well attended and good interest was manifested.

Community singing is very fine as a means of developing the musical talent of our people.

It is possible for everybody to attend these singings and then have plenty of time afterwards to get out and take recreation the balance of the afternoon. So these will not necessarily interfere with one's plans for a little drive.

The promoters are anxious that everybody join in the effort to make these singings a great success and thus develop more good singers.

It's an interesting story—Most people think of it in terms of premiums and paying death claims, but I say there is more to it—that the death of the salary will become the birth of the monthly income; that the pay envelope to which the wife is accustomed will be continued to the widow; that the bridging of the valley of the shadow will make it easier for the feet of your children; that we have a special policy to suit your needs.

If and Reason
 (By John R. Carville)

There are 365 days for you to make use of each year, no more and no less. If you throw away or waste 100 of these days through idleness or dissipation, you will have lived but 265 days, and at some time you will have to balance the sheet before Almighty God.

If you get up every morning with a groan, that groan will get you before the year ends.

If you pamper little John and Jane and let them have their own way, they will have a good start on the way to the reform school by the end of the year.

If you constantly keep nagging your husband or wife and keep setting down in your diary for future reference every mistake that the one or the other makes, you will be preparing a case for the divorce courts.

If you keep forgetting God, no matter what else you may think of, you will take 365 steps toward the gates of destruction during the year.

If you stint your contribution to the church to swell some other fund, you will have put your money in a bag with holes in it.

If you knock your preacher or pastor, you will be courting friendship with Judas, who betrayed his Master.

If you think you are too tired or indisposed to go to church regularly, you will be too weak to step into heaven if an angel should come and carry you to the door.

The sun rises every morning and sets every evening. If you will work during the day and sleep at night, you will be a wiser, a better, and a richer man when you have finished.

If you have lived one day at a time, you will get to the end just as soon and be as rich as any corpse. There are no pockets in grave clothes. There is no desire in a cold brain.

The man who lives without God lives on a vacant lot. He is looking down the barrel of an empty gun, and when he pulls the trigger there will be no smoke to hide him from the justice of Almighty God. There will be nothing around him but dry corruption and it will burn like dry pine tops.

If you make it your business in life to mask through the material substance regardless of Divine oversight, you are arranging fuel for the eternal burning. Divine Righteousness is the only substance that will burn. There are two houses for man to live in—God and the Devil. Where do you live?

If you take the Lord as a partner in your business, you will come through the year without failure, and every man you deal with will have 16 ounces. Don't let God catch you with something belonging to the other fellow.

If you weigh your words as carefully as you weigh your silver before you pay it out, you will have a better conscience and more friends at the end of life. If silver and gold takes the word honesty out of your vocabulary, you had better go back home and get the dictionary.

If you win a soul for Christ, you will have won more than all the world is worth. "What doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

If you give the Lord, say the tenth of your income, you will be no poorer in the treasures of earth and much richer in the treasures of heaven.

If you make Jesus your companion every day, you will live safer than under any insurance policy.

Crowell, Texas, June 15, 1928

The News is getting off the press a day early this week in order that it may move to its new home on the east side of the square. We appreciate the co-operation given us in the matter of getting the paper out a little early. You have shown a fine spirit and it is wonderfully appreciated. For the next few days we shall be under a heavy load and we ask your patience. We do not expect to miss an issue of the paper. That's why we are getting an early start. The expense of moving a newspaper plant is pretty heavy, since we feel that it is necessary to hire expert help in handling the press and linotype. We hope to be in our new home one of these days and then we shall want everybody to come and see us.

The month of June has been a very peculiar one. We have had big rains but nearly all these have been followed by terrific sand storms, which have played havoc with the young cotton crops. This is especially true in the sandy portions of the county. But while this is true with Foard County, it is also true with other sections of the State. Rains and floods and storms have come to many sections of the country and this country has in all probability suffered no more than others. We have not a wide margin of time in which to make crops, and yet with favorable conditions from now on there is time.

The last day or two have been days of real growing weather, but much of the crops planted have been covered up and have had no chance to get the benefit of the warm sunshine. The ground is well seasoned and all we need to make good crops is plenty of dry weather and sunshine with an absence of destructive winds. Everything would grow in a hurry if it can have a chance. Who knows but that after all this may be a big crop year. At least we just as well think so, for it will do no good to take the opposite view of things.

The farmer who gets a weekly cream check is on the road to independence. All he needs to do is to increase the volume of his business. The continued development of the cream and poultry industry in this country have made no changes whatever towards a lower market. There is a demand all the time to consume the output, which fact guarantees a strong market.

Controlling Plant Lice
The best control method for plant lice has been the use of Nicotine Sulphate as a spray. When these are first discovered, do not wait to see if they are going to increase. Spray them at once.

This spray is prepared by using 6 ounces, (3-8 pint) of 40 percent nicotine sulphate to 50 gallons of water, to which has been added 2 lbs. of soap dissolved first in the water.

To make one gallon of this spray, use 1 teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate, an inch cube of soap and a gallon of water. This spray is best applied with an angle nozzle which can be turned up so as to reach the under side of the leaves where the insects live in great numbers.

This remedy is not entirely effective in the control of "Honey Dew" on water melons and cucumbers, but is the best known remedy.

White Wash for Trees
Most every one has noticed on orchard trees and also on shade trees sun scald which starts, usually, on the southwest side of the tree. This is due to the extreme hot winds and the sun. The trees are not only weakened, but they do not live as long or make the growth they should.

A good white wash will help to a great extent. An effective white wash may be made as follows:

Quicklime 20 lbs.
Tallow 4 lbs.
Salt 5 lbs.

Water to make a thin paste.
This mixture should be applied with a brush soon after planting and renewed as often as necessary until the shade of the tree is sufficient to protect the trunk.

Under Ground Tile Irrigation
This method of irrigation is not recommended except for small gardens or for flowers, especially in this locality.

Those who have been watering their gardens, flowers and trees by applying the water over the surface of the ground, have realized the ineffectiveness of that method. The chief objections to this method is the volume of water it takes. The quick evaporation. It also tends to bring the roots near the surface of the ground.

Are You Still Living in The Tar Bucket Period?

Grandfather carried a tar bucket under the rear of his wagon, from which he obtained the best lubricant he could find for his wagon spindles.

But today we have speedy efficient automobiles and trucks to replace the labor of horses. These demand lubrication that is as highly developed as the machinery itself but so many do not get it.

You are living in the tar bucket age if you do not use the best lubricants, such as we have. Get it here.

Lath tile is suitable for the sub-irrigation of gardens because the material is easily obtained and the tile being small can be laid shallow for shallow rooting plants. Cypress lath is the best material as it does not rot quickly. The lath are nailed together with small three penny nails. The four pieces of lath forming the first pipe or joint are 1 1/2 feet, 2 feet, 3 feet and 4 feet. This gives you a continuous line without any break in the pipe. Any one line or pipe should not be more than 100 feet in length. These are placed in the garden or yard from three to four feet apart, and from 8 to 12 inches deep, depending on the plants to be watered. They should all be laid level. A cross tile should be laid so as to supply water to the main irrigation tiles from one inlet. More definite information may be secured at the County Agent's office.

PAINT THAT HOME

It is mighty easy to forget to paint your house just when it needs it and let it begin to deteriorate. If you do forget, you are certain to be losing value just as long as it is neglected.

It is very much cheaper to paint your home than it is to buy material and have a new one built. A home is something to be proud of and it is the part of wisdom to see that it is kept under good repair. Paint preserves the surface of the building and prolongs its life, to say nothing of the added attraction in the matter of beauty.

Our line of paints have been tried and found to be of a quality that gives satisfaction to every user. We shall be glad to sell you what you will need for that home. Come in and figure with us.

The Alarmist

To point with alarm is one of the easiest things to do in the world. No great amount of equipment is necessary. Most anybody of reasonable intelligence can do it. And the vocabulary with which to describe the "appalling conditions" which the alarmist is always able to see is not difficult to learn. A few nouns of a horrendous character, some adjectives that shudder on the brink of ruin, a few verbs that move with certain doom toward "the collapse of our present civilization" will turn the trick. Added to this vocabulary a sluggish liver, a good case of constipation and a choleric eye that sees sinister designs in men who have been given places of leadership. The "viewer with alarm" has one guiding principle: "Nearly everybody in the world operates from ulterior motives except me. My motives are always pure. I alone operate from designs that are sincerely philanthropic."

The alarmist can always gather a following. It isn't hard to get a crowd together who are "agin" something. One doesn't have to generate any energy at all to sit on the side lines and howl. They are like the "Arkansawyer's hound who sat down on a cocklebur. It is easier to howl than to move. Howling suits them better anyway. Moving, or doing anything else of a constructive nature, calls for more energy than they are willing to put out.

So when the alarmist gets a word or two of encouragement now and then from the free and independent order of howlers or from the son's of rest he thinks he is leading a great crusade, and so looks about him for something else to be alarmed about, fans himself into another flurry and kicks up some more dust.

The alarmist is always sure of himself. Others may be hoodwinked, blinded, deluded; he sees clearly. And it is positively amazing to him that others can not see as clearly as he does. On top of their dullness insult is added to injury because they will not believe everything he says nor join with him in the grand chorus of croaking. He leaves them to their fate; their blood be upon their own heads!

The alarmist is usually wedded to the past. He will high worships the past. These are degenerate times; degenerate because they have broken with the past. The men of honest purpose in Church and State were the men of the past. The present is poor and shallow and getting worse all the time. The alarmist actually seems to take a morbid satisfaction as he points out the things of degeneracy in this age. He would be terribly disappointed if things turned out better than he expects. Prophecy must be fulfilled.

The alarmist takes himself very seriously. The weight of the ages rests upon him. He feels himself set to his task from before the foundation of the earth. A great compulsion is upon him to point out the signs of doom. Others may take a more cheerful view, still he must do his earnest best to extract as much of the joy of life as he can and point out the signs of impending disaster.

What can be done about him? Nothing. He is bound to go right on. He wouldn't be happy at anything else. And no matter how much better conditions might get to be he would still be able to find matter enough to be alarmed about and to keep him busy.—Texas Christian Advocate.

Published in the interest of the people of Crowell and vicinity by the Cicero Smith Lumber Co.

Manager.

Modern science has devised many substitutes for lumber, but it never has been able to replace it entirely. Lumber made of wood still remains the most satisfactory and economical material for the small building. Science has done this, however, by replacing wood in heavier construction with steel and concrete. It has kept the price of lumber within the reach of the home builder.
