The unemployment compensation law as it is administered in some states is a reproach. It is the victim of chiselers and racketeers who deliberately bleed the fund for every dime they can wring out of it. The law was designed to give aid to men who were involuntarily temporarily out of employment, but the chiselers moved in and have in many states plundered the reserves. The next thing we will hear of is that industry will be assessed with an additional lag to build up the depleted reserve. The only hope seems to be that some day there may be enough statesmen in Congress to make the necessary changes in the law and stop the raids of the plundering leeches.

We are beginning to discover that while the value of a dollar fluctuates up and down the value of bread and meat and clothing and the things we use remains the same. When dollars become plentiful and easy it takes more dollars to buy a given amount of merchandise, but when dollars are dear and hard to get it takes less of them to buy a given quantity of merchandise. Thus it isn't the value of the item that changes, so much as it is the value of the dollar.

HISTORY

BIRTHDAY OF THOMAS JEFFERSON — APRIL 13: Thomas Jefferson was born April 13, 1743 at Shadwell, Albemarle county, Virginia, and died at his home, Monticello, in Virginia July 4, 1826. He attended the College of William and Mary at the age of seventeen. On leaving college he took up the study of law, but followed the profession only a short time. He was more interested in scientific farming. At the age of 26 he was elected to the Virginia House of Burgesses. He was elected to Continental Congress in 1775 and while a member of this body drafted the Declaration of Independence. In 1779 he was elected Governor of Virginia. In May 1784 he was sent to France with Benjamin Franklin and John Adams to negotiate commercial treaties. He remained in France five years when he returned to this country and entered the Cabinet as Secretary of State. He resigned from this position before completing his term and became vice president. In 1800 he was elected president and again in 1804. At the expiration of his second term he retired to his home in Monticello, Virginia.

What We Think

(By Frank Dixon)

There appeared in my daily a few days ago the account of a talk given by Miss Ruth Ellen Halter, a senior in William Jewell College, given at the national intercollegiate forensic tournament at Bowling Green, Ohio, which I think contains the most thought provoking statements that have appeared in the press for some time. Especially do Miss Halter's remarks sound a new note in the present muddled thinking. Because the thoughts expressed in Miss Halter's talk are a radical departure from the muddled thinking of the day, I desire to include a few of them in this column.

Though prepared for presentation before a college oratorical contest Miss Halter's remarks have attracted the attention of thinking bodies of the nation to the extent that she has been called upon on seventeen different occasions to deliver her talk before large city Chamber of Commerce, Bankers Associations, Lawyers Associations and the New York Board of Trade. Those who have heard the talk agree that close attention is compelled — as a result of choice material, carefully organized, and a charm of delivery which seems to come naturally to the unaffected brown-eyed young speaker.

Miss Halter's theme is developed at the start of her talk. "Has this country its Homer, its Virgil, its Dante, its Milton? Don't be too sure of your answer. Germany tried with Mein Kampf, Russia is trying with Karl Marx."

"Since 1900," Miss Halter asserts, "there has been a growing sentiment that the man who earns $100 a week should be penalized because he does not make $25 a week."

"Now," she says, "we have laws enforcing this idea. We have gone further. The standard of achievement is set by the least competent and enforced by the law. The greatest crime of the age is the constant search for effortless security — a progressive security to be established by getting more for less and less."

"Our politicians in Washington seek every stamp of approval except their own, enshrine mediocrity and prejudice as the twin gods of the mob, and swing to and fro every time Gallup releases a poll of public opinion."

Miss Halter recites from Ayn Rand's novel, "The Fountainhead" what she terms as a particularly revealing sentence: "Such is the whole moral atmosphere of our century — the century of the second-rater."

"Collectivism is swallowing Europe," Miss Halter says. "Its processes are at work in America. Every person who does not have an abounding belief in his own individual destiny is fertile ground to nourish this foreign monster. The spirit of the times is not to multiply for ourselves but to subtract from somebody else — the subconscious thinking of the second-rater — a process of mental intoxication of England."

"That process," Miss Halter says, "may be the main issue in the campaign of 1948."

"If this is the century of the second-rater," she declared, "the only source man can go to in order to reclaim their self-respect is the Carpenter of Nazareth. The Christian spirit is the only means by which man can cast aside a parasite, passive role and regain their power as individuals capable of dynamic thought and action."

"Foxes of Harrow" Scores; Charged with Blood and Fire

With its brilliant filmization of "The Foxes of Harrow," Twentieth Century-Fox has set the screen ablaze with an excitement, passion and power that adds up to one of the finest motion picture entertainments of the year. The film, based on Frank Yerby's sensational best-seller, and starring Rex Harrison and Maureen O'Hara with a superlative supporting cast opens Wednesday, April 14, at the Kialto Theatre.

In "The Foxes of Harrow" we have a story set in the atmosphere of gay New Orleans of the early 1800's. It is to this fabulous domain of the Creole aristocracy that there comes a man, Stephen Fox, with only a ten dollar gold piece and a pearl stick-pin to his name—which is itself cast in doubt. Possessed of the face of an angel and the cunning of a cardsharp, he is dashing, daring and reckless.

Rex Harrison as Stephen Fox, is, as might be expected, just about perfect. In the role of the dashing, impetuous yet moody master of Harrow, the British actor, who won such terrific acclaim for his "Anna and the King of Siam" and "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" performances, provides an excitingly convincing and moving portrayal that are bound to win for him the year's top acting honors. Maureen O'Hara's cameo-like beauty and hauteur makes her the perfect Odalis, the Creole beauty who is tamed and conquered by Stephen and made mistress of Harrow.

Party Unity Theme of Austin Meeting of Texas Democrats

Texas Democratic leaders showed forward the cause of party unity at a conference in Austin Mar. 29.

Present and agreeing that "a united front at our state convention will mean more to us later than anything else" were: Governor Beauford Jester, Arthur Stevenson of Dallas, president of the Texas Association of County Chairmen; Mrs. R. A. Thompson of Goliad, vice-president of that association; Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee; and Jimmie Briakley, of Houston, State President of the Young Democrats.

"The people of Texas should forget past animosities and think of Texas first," said a statement issued jointly by the group. The statement continued: "If the people of Texas will only forget personalities and think of principles and Texas first, then for once in our lives we can go to the national convention with unified strength."

"At present, an un instructed delegation, with very few resolutions, seems to be the only way," Jester commended the 254 county chairmen and the 7,000 precinct chairmen for their outstanding work in the past as trustees of Democracy.

Goodyear Introduces Two New Lines of Automobile Tires

Announcement was made March 31 of the introduction of two new lines of passenger automobile tires for renewal sale was announced here today by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. Names of the two new lines are Corsair and Marathon.

In a letter to its dealers, Goodyear has advised that limited stock of the Marathon are available and that production on the Corsair line has begun. It is indicated that some of the new tires will be in the hands of dealers shortly after the first of April.

At the present time Goodyear's Deluxe line of automobile tires in the popular 6.00-16 size retails at $15.25 plus excise tax. In the same size the new Corsair will list at $13.95 plus excise tax and the new Marathon will be $12.40 plus excise tax.

Try Growing the Unusual in Your Garden This Year

"Try growing the unusual vegetables in your garden this spring to dramatize the garden," says J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist of Texas A. & M. College. The usual garden has carrots, beans, tomatoes, beets, cabbage, spuds, and other well-known foods that the children fuss about eating.

Chives, the first of these unusual vegetables, is a small onion-like plant that grows in dense clumps any place onions will grow; chives are very good for flavoring soups and stews. Just plant a part of a raw chive on one side of the garden out of the way, and a small amount is all that is necessary for the whole family. Space the plants one-half to one inch apart in rows 16 to 18 inches apart. Then every 4 or 5 years — that's years — take up the old clumps and re-set them so they won't get too thick and matted. Chives grow best in areas of considerable spring rainfall.

Corn salad, also called lamb's lettuce, is an annual that may be sown with lettuce or water cross as a mixed salad. It is sown in the early spring in 16 to 18 inch rows about a foot apart in the row and is handled about the same as lettuce or mustard in the garden and cultivation. The flavor of corn salad is very mild, and may be improved some by mixing with various salad plants.

Endive is another crop similar to lettuce, but is more tolerant to the summer heat. It should be planted about the same time as lettuce, and thinned to 8 or 10 inches in the row. The other instructions are the same as the plants already named.

Garlic is another of those onion plants, and the main thing to remember about garlic is that a little goes a long way. They are planted and handled like onions and chives. When the tops break and fall over, the bulbs are pulled, dried, and braided into strings by their tops or tied in bunches and stored in a cool, dry place. Be sure they don't freeze.

Garlic is an unusual vegetable that is not commonly grown anywhere in Texas, but will do well in the Panhandle. It's rhubarb, sometimes called pie-plant. This is a hardy perennial that will live for several years; the small, rooted crowns are planted about this time of the year, three to four feet apart each way. Give them plenty of space, and six crowns will be enough for the entire family. The edible part is the leaf-stalk or petiole, and the gardener is reminded not to eat the leaves. After the plants are out, give them a year before harvesting, so there will be plenty year after year with-

West Texas Utilities Asking Permission to Issue Bonds

West Texas Utilities Company, a Texas Corporation, today, filed an application with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C., for permission to issue and sell $5,000,000, principal amount, of its First Mortgage Bonds, Series B. It is proposed that the bonds, which will be dated March 1, 1948, and which will mature in 1978, will be sold by competitive bids, according to announcement made March 29.

In announcing the filing of the application, Price Campbell, president of the Company, said, "The growth of the area served by the West Texas Utilities Company has been phenomenal, but we think the greatest growth of West Texas is still ahead. The proceeds of the bonds proposed to be issued will provide a portion of the cash required to pay for additional generating capacity and other facilities for supplying the electric service necessary for the industrial and agricultural growth of West Texas."

The proposed $5,000,000 bond issue is one phase of an $18,000,000 construction program, Mr. Campbell pointed out. This huge construction program, which is to be completed within the next four years, calls for the installation of additional generating units, construction and rebuilding of major transmission lines, extension of rural lines, and the enlarging of various other existing facilities. Through a system of inter-connections and power loop services, additional power will be provided from main generating stations. In most instances, power will be available to communities from two or more sources.

"Tycoon" Is Vivid, Romantic Drama

Romance and adventure are the twin themes which spark the exciting action of "Tycoon," RKO Radio's big Technicolor drama co-starring John Wayne and Laraine Day.

Wayne plays a two-fisted construction engineer building a railroad in the Andes, and Miss Day is seen as a half-Yankee, half-Latin heiress with whom he falls in love while working for her stern, and uncompromising father.

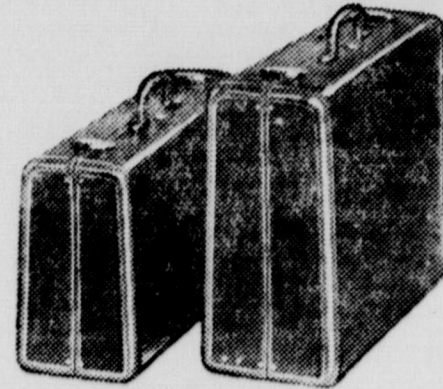

The conflict between the two men over the engineer's methods and over the girl, motivates many thrilling episodes, with Wayne doggedly striving to build a tunnel and a bridge within the limits of his contract while his opponent seeks to ruin him. The climactic results make the offering unusually dramatic.

Mrs. Mark Henry, Mrs. R. L. Kincaid and Mrs. Merl Kincaid went to Pampa Monday to attend the convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The State Department is making preparations to broadcast the facts about the American way of life to Russia and Communist Europe. The purpose is to counteract the misinformation that is spread abroad by enemies of this country. The hope is that enough people of these countries will hear the broadcast to justify the cost. It is planned to use a powerful 250,000 watt transmitter in the broadcasts.

Although American men are living longer than they used to, they still do not live as long as the women, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. In 1900 the average boy baby had forty chances in 100 of reaching age 65. Now, the company report his chances are sixty in 100. In 1900, however, the average girl baby had forty-five chances in 100 of reaching age 65. Now her chances are seventy-five in 100.
