Crowell Property Owners Cooperate Satisfactorily in Campaign to Secure Street Markers and House Numbers

The voluntary purchase of house numbers on Friday and Saturday of last week was most gratifying. Enough responded to the call to prove that the town as a whole is behind the movement and desirous to have the streets of Crowell marked. Very little adverse criticism was heard and the enthusiasm expressed by the citizenship in general was encouraging to those in charge of the campaign. More than half the amount needed to finance the program was raised. It is hoped that those who have not yet applied for house numbers will call at the Chamber of Commerce office in the near future and do so, thus joining their neighbors in this very progressive project. Failure to do so will necessitate a personal call by the sponsors, a thing it is wished to be avoided.

A check-up of the list of subscribers revealed the fact that some property owners failed to provide numbers for their rent properties. This failure was not doubt involuntary, and due to the fact that their duty as landlords was not called to their attention, and they will yet secure the necessary numbers.

Special recognition is due Mrs. C. B. Graham for her very fine spirit in this drive. She made the largest purchase of house numbers, buying not only for her residence, but for thirteen rent houses and business houses as well. Several other citizens bought numbers for as many as four houses. One person who has moved to Crowell recently expressed surprise that the charge was so small and assured the collector of his willingness to pay more if needed.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Business and Professional Women's Club wish to thank the people of Crowell for their splendid co-operation in this campaign, and to especially thank the ladies who gave so generously of their time to serve at the booth on the street. The manifestation of such fine public spirit cannot help but make this community grow.

J. R. Beverly, chairman of the campaign, stated Tuesday that the streets of Crowell will be marked as soon as the material can be secured and the work of installation completed.

RAILROADER . . . William T. Farley, president of the Association of American Railroads, emphatically denied an assertion by Robert Young, chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and stormy petrel of the industry, that those who run the railroads are withholding steel from their own roads because of their interests in other industries.

Concerning Your CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Chamber of Commerce has received many encouraging letters during the past few weeks. State Senator George Moffett writes: "I am glad your town has reorganized the chamber of commerce. It is needed there. I will surely advise you of any useful data that becomes available to me. From all accounts you must have just gathered an awful good wheat crop."

Ray L. Miller, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce, sends the following: "We congratulate the business men of Crowell in organizing the Foard County Chamber of Commerce. It is a pleasure to add your name to our mailing list to receive our Bulletin of Commerce. We will accept requests either through your office or direct from interested merchants. Please feel free to call on us at any time we can be of help."

The following is taken from a letter from Congressman Ed Gossett, Washington, D. C.: "I am pleased to know that Foard County has organized a Chamber of Commerce. I will get around to visit with you at my very earliest and first opportunity. I want you to feel absolutely free to call on my office for any assistance we may be able to give you any time, in any way."

To quote Charles G. Cotten, manager of the highway department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, he states "I am happily in receipt of your letter of June 22 advising the organization of the Chamber of Commerce of Foard County, Crowell, Texas. We are glad to hear from you and sincerely hope that your organization will be able to do something that we have long since been interested in and that is, a means of shortening the distance between Fort Worth and Crowell and points west along U. S. 70."

Dr. Robert W. French, director of the Bureau of Business Research in Austin writes: "We want to assist you in any way that we can. Your name has been placed on the mailing list to receive the 'Texas Business Review,' a monthly summary of business and economic conditions in Texas, and two supplements to the 'Review' on employment and pay rolls and retail trade. We are also placing your name on the list to receive monthly releases on Texas Dairy Manufacturing and Canned Movements of Texas Poultry and Eggs, along with Small Business Aids. Let us hear from you if we can be of any further assistance to you."

Since the 4th of July falls on Sunday this year, the Chamber of Commerce approached the merchants of Crowell about closing on the fifth as it is the only occasion in the hot summer days where this occurs.

A wonderful response on the part of all merchants was the result. Each one gladly cooperated and accepted the responsibility of closing to give their employees an opportunity to celebrate the 4th in true American fashion.

Now that the Chamber of Commerce is solidly and firmly organized and functioning in Foard County, there may be a number of citizens who are groping in the dark as to what the Chamber of Commerce is and should I join this organization? Thus spoke Hubert Brown, president, to a reporter from The Foard County News.

The answer put briefly, he continues, is this: The Chamber of Commerce is an organization of business men and others who join together to work for the solution of their mutual business and community problems.

In other words, the Chamber of Commerce has two primary functions. Mr. Brown stated: "First, it acts as spokesman for the business community and translates into action the group think-

At least one out of every four persons will probably spend beyond his income this year, the Federal Reserve Board predicts. Signs of the trend, according to the board are: Last year about 3,000,000 families cashed out completely their government savings bonds. Out of 17,000,000 persons buying furniture, refrigerators, radios, washing machines, ranges and other appliances, 9,000,000 did so on the installment plan. This was a 50 per cent increase over 1946.

City-Wide Health Program Will Be Launched Soon

Spurred by the extensive drive going on throughout the state in regard to a clean-up, health and sanitation drive, the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the City Council is planning a drive to halt the outbreak of polio before it even gets a chance to rear its ugly head.

Considerable literature has been received in addition to letters from leading citizens of the state, including Governor Jester, requesting that everything possible be done to keep down the attack of polio this year.

Governor Jester wrote, "It is too late for some child in some Texas family, if we wait until the disease appears in our respective communities before beginning the preventive campaign."

Work is still in the planning stages on this project, but the aim is an extensive program to rid the community of any and all disease carrying pests.

Cooperation of every citizen will be sought in carrying out this most vital and urgent program in the near future, it was announced Wednesday by officials of the city, county, and Chamber of Commerce.

As a matter of fact, quality may be lower in eggs after three days of improper handling than in eggs which have been properly stored for as long as six months.

Quality egg rules for the flock owner include: Keep hens in the laying house until late afternoon on rainy days; put ample clean nesting material in the nests; remove broody hens from nests; cover dropping pit with wire; gather eggs three to five times a day; cool eggs promptly after gathering and store them in a cool place.

For business firms: Handle eggs carefully; store eggs in good cases with clean flats and fillers; keep eggs at proper refrigeration

Nation's Church Bells to Ring Heritage of Freedom

New York. — An invitation to churches of all faiths throughout the nation to observe Sunday, the Fourth of July, as a day of rededication to our American heritage of freedom by the ringing of church bells and special sermons and prayers, was extended today by the American Heritage Foundation through Thomas D. Arce Brophy, president.

The Foundation is a non-partisan, non-controversial organization established for the purpose of sponsoring a year rededication to our American Heritage, including the year-long tour of the Freedom Train. Its aim is to help raise the level of active citizenship.

"We of the American Heritage Foundation believe that this year, when Independence Day falls upon Sunday, all Americans of every faith and creed have a particularly fitting opportunity to give a striking demonstration of faith in God and country," Mr. Brophy stated.

"This year of the Freedom Train tour with the most cherished documents of our history has been a year of rededication for millions of Americans to our great heritage of freedom. This is a year when we are realizing anew the meaning and value of our free way of life, and the duty of all Americans to protect and strengthen our freedom through conscientious observance of our obligations as citizens.

"Let this be a day of national prayer for peace, for freedom, and for rededication to our ideals."

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

In my opinion the housing situation in this country is a reproach upon some one. If we're going to specify definitely upon whom it is a reproach I would say that it is the Congress.

We have talked a lot about the American home being this and that, the foundation of society in this country, and the bulwark of our democratic form of government, yet we have done nothing about it.

Congress has dipped into every other known subject. It has fiddled its time away debating the roll tax, the matter of whether it should do a real job or fiddle away at aid to Europe. It has wasted hours of time debating the question of whether there should or should not be tax on oleomargarine.

Thousands of families are living in garages that were never intended for human habitation. Thousands of families are living in tenement districts that would be a reproach to any nation that did not anywhere near assume to our standard of living.

Thousands of GIs who left home and went through hell on an indescribable battlefield to preserve a democracy have come home to find that democracy is impotent to even make available a decent place in which to live.

I am not contending that it is the duty or the function of Congress or the administration to provide for everyone a modern home for the asking, but I do feel, and it is a conviction with me, that the matter of decent housing is a thing that is closely enough tied in with the foundation of the family life in this country to be worthy of vastly more intelligence and immeasurably more constructive action than it has been accorded by the Congress.

I believe that the government should make possible through local agencies the construction of low moderate priced homes, suitable for small families just getting started. These homes could be sold on long time terms and would be paid for like rent.

A nation is great because of its home owners. Why not make home owning a possibility? Why not quit stalling, quit all of this political hypocrisy for the sake of votes in November? Why not do something constructive, something sensible, something sound and worthwhile? Why not make possible homes for the people of this nation? Why not, Congress?

A wage increase seems to benefit the workers only until the increased prices caused by the wage increase make the circle and get back to the worker. Then another increase is asked for. It would seem that the simplest way would be to hold down costs. If this were done wage increases and the disturbances that go with them need not happen. Just how to start the march in the opposite direction is one of the experts to figure out.

A new postage stamp has been authorized honoring the chaplains who during the recent war died at sea. The stamp bears the likeness of four chaplains who lost their lives on the sinking troop transport Dorchester that others might live. They are: John P. Washington, a Catholic priest, Alexander D. Goods, a Jewish rabbi, George Fox and Clark V. Poling, Protestant ministers. The stamp is a 3-cent commemorative printed in several tones of gray. It shows the heads of the four chaplains above the sinking vessel. The story is that one cold night in February 1943 as the Dorchester plowed through the North Atlantic toward Greenland a Nazi U-boat torpedo struck the ship. Panic gripped the 904 soldiers and crewmen. The chaplains taking their stations passed out the life belts as the ship went down. When the last belt was handed out the chaplains stripped off their own life belts and handed them out to the four remaining men who had received none. As the passengers swam away from the rapidly sinking ship the last glimpse showed the four chaplains standing at the bow with linked arms.

Russia's losses in the war might be taken as a cue to her present concern to successfully barricade herself against a repetition of it and may account in a measure for her hatred of the German people and her determination never to allow them to again assert themselves. Russia lost: Killed 7,500,000; wounded and missing 13,000,000; deported 3,000,000. She also lost 15,000,000 cattle, hogs, horses etc., and 6,000,000 dwellings. Her total loss is estimated at $253,000,000,000.

The new weed spray is being used effectively by many counties to kill the weeds along the roads of the county. It is also being used to kill the weeds in pastures. Weedless pastures are especially desirable where they are pastured by dairy cows. Weeds in a pasture will taint the milk.

Some one has figured it out that the average American woman lives 69 1/2 years and the average man lives 64 1/2 years. The woman, some claim, lives longer so that she can have the last word.

If all our wishes were gratified, most of our pleasures would be destroyed. — Whately.

AVOID CLOSET CATASTROPHE

Clothes moths feed upon animal hair, fur, feathers and articles made from these materials. Woolen lint and hair, which has accumulated in floor cracks, under the quarter-round and baseboard, and other hard-to-reach places are often fertile breeding grounds. The batch of dog and cat hairs may yield a supply of moths, it is stated by Mrs. James Welch, Home Demonstration Agent.

After cleaning the clothes closets this spring, apply a DDT spray to the walls, woodwork, baseboards and shelves as a protection against clothes moths for the warm weather season. Approximately one-half pint DDT spray is necessary for an average size closet. An oil spray is preferred because it does not leave a white deposit as a water spray does. The best DDT spray for this purpose is a residual spray, rather than one of the "aerosol bomb" or space spray type, if it is to be effective over a period of months in killing insects which come into contact with the closet surfaces. The aerosol spray is fine for killing flying insects, or those which happen to be exposed at the time, but it does not have the lasting effect because it doesn't leave a residue.

DDT solutions may also be sprayed lightly on wool clothes without injuring the fabric. Too much of the solution, however, may show up in whitish traces on dark clothes, but these can be removed by brushing or dry cleaning. DDT spraying is useful for protecting clothes hanging in closets, while the more familiar moth flakes or crystals are advised for clothes stored in tight bags, trunks or other containers where a fumigating effect is desired. Added protection may be given stored clothes by spraying them and their container with DDT.

All woolen clothing, of course, should be treated before storing in either treated closets or tight containers.

The news that car prices would be increased from $75 to $125 did not surprise anyone. Such an announcement might be expected since there are four buyers for every car produced. As long as this condition exists a reduction in car prices can hardly be expected.

The better health a man has enjoyed during his life time the more difficult it is for him to cope with illness and physical incapacity when it comes. He cannot realize that this thing he has seen happen to others so many times during his healthy, rugged lifetime has at last happened to him.

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

Hoing the weeds out of our lives: I remember as a boy that my father used to raise quite a garden. He was a good gardener and took a lot of pleasure in it. He used to take me out with him and allot to me a portion of the ground to hoe and to keep free of weeds. It seemed to me sometimes that the weeds grew faster than the crop and that it was a constant battle to keep the weeds down that the crop might have a chance to grow. I remember one day I asked him what the weeds were made for. I argued that if there were no weeds it would not be necessary to hoe the garden. He explained that unless the garden were hoed regularly it would not produce well. It was necessary to loosen well, to give the roots to give the soil about a chance to grow, and that except for the weeds, which made regular cultivation necessary, some people would never hoe their gardens. I have thought since that this must be the answer to a lot of things that happen in our lives which at the time we do not understand. We are required to strive to overcome them and by so doing we produce sturdier and more self-reliant lives. They are the weeds that we are forced to hoe out in order to produce the kind of a life that we later will enjoy living.

The powers that are profiting by the unprepared and disorganized state in which the last two wars found this country are determined that it shall not be so again. While the army and the air force and the navy are all below war time strength the plans are not. Complete plans have been worked out and are placed in an indexed file on a standby basis. Deaths from Cancer on Increase in Texas

Austin, Texas — An increase of more than 18 per cent in Texas cancer deaths during the five years between 1943 and 1947 has been announced by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Texas mortality tables compiled by the Texas Department of Health show 1943 cancer deaths at 5,557, as compared to 6,770 for 1947.

"The greater part of this tremendous increase in cancer deaths is attributable to needless delay in seeking treatment, once a person has reason to suspect he has a cancerous growth," Dr. Cox said. He added his belief that advertising of patent medicines and so-called cancer quacks puts dangerous and misleading information before the public, thereby adding to the cancer mortality rate. This is because people are lured by such propaganda and do not receive proper diagnosis and treatment until too late.

Dr. Cox said that almost two-thirds of all cancer cases rely on surgery to remove the cancerous tissue, while the other third may respond to X-ray or radium treatment.

"These three methods are the only means by which the disease can be treated," he said. "Self-medication, serums, colored lights, pastes, and diets are absolutely useless."

The Health Officer pointed out that the greatest defense against cancer is an early diagnosis and competent treatment by a reputable physician. He urged special attention to any unnatural bleeding from any body opening, lumps in the breast, and skin sores which fail to heal normally.

On the average, 80,000,000 gallons of oil are being supplied each day to the consumers of the United States. That is an incredible figure, and represents an all-time high. Yet demand has kept up with production and the race is close.

The efforts of the industry to establish a comfortable margin of supply over consumption deserve national recognition. Expenditures for new construction during 1947 and 1948 will total some $4,000,000,000. Last year 33,000 new wells were drilled, and about 37,000 will be sunk this year. And this number will be increased if sufficient tools become available.

The job of making usable oil products only begins when the crude comes out of the ground. So the industry is working overtime on building new refineries and modernizing old ones, on construction of storage plants and pipe lines, and on the expansion of its marketing facilities. This is the reason why, in spite of doleful predictions, we have not had a real oil shortage, and have been inconvenienced only by temporary and localized "dry spots."

Next winter, when the heaviest demand comes, there will be need for voluntary conservation of fuel oil by users. Unexpected developments may make the supply-demand situation tighter than can be foreseen now. But the public should know that all the resources and energies of this highly competitive industry are being devoted to the enormous task of seeing that no one really suffers for lack of oil.—Industrial News Review.

Weekly SURPLUS NEWS WAA

Wheat ranchers and others in the Texas Panhandle area will soon be able to reap a harvest of surplus camp buildings from the Amarello Army Air Field. The War Assets Administration is announcing this week plans for staging a spot bid, location sale of about 700 of these air field buildings July 7 and 8. No priorities will be needed to buy any of these buildings, which include many suitable for conversion to grain storage and other agricultural usage. Public inspection of this property is scheduled to open June 28 and continue through July 6.

The government is so concerned with keeping an accurate record of what happens to every part of its war surplus that sales slips, descriptions of materials, and many other documents are required to be kept in permanent storage. This poses a big problem for War Assets employees charged with filing away thousands of such documents resulting from disposals. One employee in WAA's Grand Prairie office, Verna M. Landry of Dallas, agreed at a time-saving solution through the construction of a simple rack for holding record boxes. Her design, submitted in a War Assets Administration employees' suggestion campaign, won an award of $100 and is being adopted nationally.

Unusual activity of top priority federal agencies including the military has resulted in withdrawal of more than half the inventory of surplus property originally planned for a South Texas War Assets offering on June 25. About 100 tons of assorted consumer goods, with a valuation cost of $125,000, still remain for buyers, however. Inspection is invited at various sites where the property is stored, including Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio Warehouse Number One, Crystal City Internment Camp, the Port Aransas Naval Installation, Chase Field (near Beeville) and the Hondo Army Air Field. All bidding and awarding will take place at the San Antonio warehouse.

Cities, counties and other eligible priority claimants, will get a chance to acquire another piece of airport property now up for disposal in WAA inventory. The property is the Somerville Auxiliary Field number one which originally served Bryan Air Field and is located 16 miles south of Bryan, Texas. Applications must be directed to the Grand Prairie regional office of real property at Box 6030, Dallas.

Houston will be spotlighted by disposal activity during the next two weeks. Auto parts, electrical, valve and pipe fittings will go on sale at the Sheffield Steel plant on June 30 and July 1. The following sites in Houston will be cleared in another War Assets bid sale July 9: Reed Roller Bit plant, WA Warehouse 6, Hughes Tool Strut Plant, Goodyear Rubber Co., Converted Rice Factory, and the former War Assets Customer Service Center. Hand tools, portable phonographs, aviator bags, furniture and marine equipment originally costing nearly half a million dollars are being assembled for this big clearance.

Surplus airfield buildings at Aloe Airport, Victoria, and Jefferson County Airport, Beaumont, are currently up for disposal to priority applicants or other buyers who will use them in place. At the Aloe Air Field, the priorities have until July 5 to submit purchase offers on 36 buildings with their attached fixtures and utilities. Offers from the priority claimants and the general public will be considered for various buildings and improvements at the Jefferson County Airport until June 28. Awards will be made by WAA's Grand Prairie office.

VETERANS' QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. When is National Service Life Insurance considered lapsed?
A. It is lapsed when a veteran fails to make a payment or premium within 31 days from the date it was due.

Q. If I do not receive National Service Life Insurance premium notices or receipts promptly, should I continue to send my premiums?
A. Yes. You also should clearly identify your payments by giving your insurance policy number, but if that is not available, you should give your rank, organization and your service serial number.

Q. If I filed a change of address with the VA hospital or regional office where my claims folder is on file, will the same change be made on my insurance records?
A. No. Change of address for purpose of compensation or pension is not a notice of change of address for insurance purposes. VA Form 889, "Change of Address," should be executed by the insured to notify the Insurance Service in the appropriate Branch Office.

Q. When may a veteran decide whether he will pursue training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act (G-I Bill) or under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act?
A. After eligibility has been established under both laws.

DON'T BLAME PROFITS

A short time ago a survey was made of the way families are attempting to meet current living costs. Heavy majorities reported that they were buying only necessities, doing without things, and trying to make food and clothing go farther. They also reported, generally speaking, that it was necessary to spend a higher proportion of their income for food.

This is the inevitable consequence of an inflation which has not yet spent its course. Some groups have managed to increase their earnings sufficiently to offset price increases. Some have bettered their positions. Millions of people, on the other hand, have been forced to steadily reduce their purchasing, and there is no relief in sight.

It is easy and perhaps natural to blame business for creating this problem. From various quarters, we hear ominous talk of the size of industrial profits. Retail stores have been picketed by people with angry banners protesting the going prices of food, clothing and just about everything else. Natural or not, this attitude is based on serious misconceptions. For the truth is that the net profits of industry, the money which can be retained by the owners of the tools—millions of investors who have put their savings in industry—are one of the smallest items in the cost of doing business. And surveys of retail trade, including both the chains and the independents, show that most stores earn a profit of only one to five or six cents, according to type of goods sold, out of each dollar they take in. Certainly, there is no margin there that will permit price cutting.

Business of all kinds is as worried about high prices as any consumer. It knows that mass production and mass distribution cannot survive if people cannot afford to buy. Prices have gone up in spite of its efforts to hold them down.—Industrial News Review.

PIECEMEAL COMMUNISM

There can be little doubt that socialized medicine is one of the goals of the communist program, both within and without the United States. The political importance of government control of this vital service has been emphasized by Lenin and other communist intellectuals. It is part and parcel of an all-inclusive plan which envisions the step by step regimentation of peoples in preparation for the great day of victory when the commissars are to take over and make the police state secure.

It is important to remember that intelligent communists are hard-headed realists. They know perfectly well that they can achieve ultimate success only by disguising their schemes with appealing arguments. They know too that they must move carefully, and make their gains on a piecemeal basis. This is true of socialized medicine, as it is of everything else. And the start to that goal is found in the current proposal for compulsory government health insurance.

It would be absurd to argue that the known proponents of the measure are communists. Many of them do not understand the difference between socialism and a free society. They have been misled by half truths and false interpretations of health statistics. But it would be equally absurd to argue that the measure does not directly serve the purposes of those whose golden dream is dictatorship and the total, all-powerful state. Compulsory health insurance would inevitably require a large measure of political control over our doctors, hospitals, etc. Once that happened, socialization would be just around the corner.

We are spending tens of billions to protect ourselves and our allies from aggression from without. We must not let this blind us to aggression from within.—Industrial News Review.

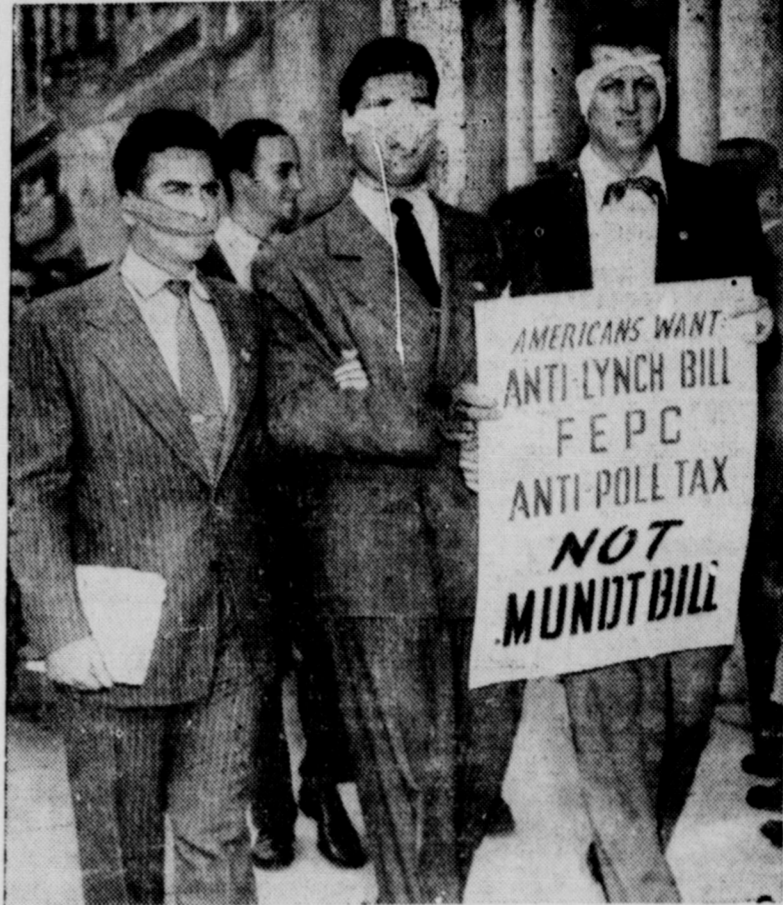

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Packing Picnic Sandwiches—The paper carton in which the quart of ice cream arrives, when washed out with hot water and dried quickly, will prove just the thing for packing picnic sandwiches. They can be saved and individually lunches packed in each one, if time is at a premium and lunch must be eaten while traveling. It would save a great deal of distributing and passing of food.

MONKEY SHINES . . . Three pickets, emulating the three fabulous monkeys who "see no evil, hear no evil and speak no evil," are shown in front of the Republican national headquarters in Washington as they protested against the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill. Whether they meant to apply the three monkeys symbolism to the anti-Red bill or to their own sentiments is not clear. Also, they aren't lined up in the correct "see, hear, speak" order. Still, it wasn't a bad stunt as stunts go these days.

KING-SIZE FIGURES

"The United States economy can not be air-lifted or truck-borne," says the San Francisco Chronicle editorially. "If it is to move it must move by rail or not at all."

Back of that statement lies what the Chronicle terms "king-size figures." This country has 227,000 miles of railroad—29 per cent of the world's mileage. It has 1,750,000 freight cars, which transported 654,000,000,000 ton-miles of freight last year. Along with it, the lines rolled up nearly 46,000,000,000 passenger miles. And the value of the railroads is something like $28,000,000,000, according to conservative analysis—or almost $120,000 per mile of line.

It would take an astronomer to visualize figures such as these. But there is one easily assimilated comparison which points to our dependency on the railroads. They haul seven-tenths of the nation's freight. All the other carriers—the waterways, the trucks, the pipe lines, the air carriers, the lake steamers—move all together only three-tenths of the whole.

The Chronicle's editorial was occasioned by the threatened strike which was prevented by government action. As it said, "We would find even a week's rail strike inconceivable and intolerable." Going farther, all the activity in this country is tied in one way or another to efficient railroad service—the kind of service that moves the goods when we want them moved, and takes them swiftly and safely to where they are needed. That is the enormous stake we Americans have in our railroads.—Industrial News Review.

DOING THE WORK

Those who have been bemused by the wild claims made on behalf of government power development should consider a recent release from the Edison Electric Institute. According to it, the job of taking electricity to rural America will be practically complete in 1951. Work now in progress or definitely planned will connect an additional 1,330,000 rural dwellings, most of them on farms, to power lines by the end of that year. What that means to rural America needs little amplification. Electricity is the cheapest most efficient servant ever devised. It can revolutionize life of the farm family, away with much manual drudgery and increasing production and income. And one of the most interesting aspects of this revolutionary process is that it is responsible for it.

At the end of last year, 900,000 rural dwellings were being served by electric service. REA's Municipal and other government agencies brought power to 600, or about 2 per cent. Another 10,600,000 dwellings, representing 82 per cent of the whole—were served by the privately managed electric companies. In other words, free enterprise as represented by the heavily-taxed utilities, is the driving influence behind the step up rural electrification program. The tax-subsidized government power ventures get most of the propaganda, while the private companies are doing the work.

A cat, under favorable conditions, is estimated to live from 9 to 10 years old.

The federal appropriation for the operation of the year is $43,900,000.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES CO. Declaration of Independence! He's on his own. It's a wonderful feeling. He can go places now. And he'll keep on going places all his life—as long as he keeps his sense of independence. That's America's richest resource—not forest, field or mine, but the spirit of her people. Ambition, energy, self-reliance are the reasons why individuals—and industries—grow great from small beginnings. Take the electric industry—this company, for example. A few practical dreamers opened up an "electric frontier" when in 1915 they strung the first transmission power lines in West Texas. People of faith and vision risked their savings. Other folks combined skill and hard work to produce better and better service—at lower and lower costs—creating more and more jobs—and carrying the burden of electric living to more and more West Texans. That's the American way of progress. Free enterprise, vision, and hard work. They are what built America and the American way of life. It is the highest standard of living in the world. FARM AIRPLANES
 More than 9,000 airplanes are now used on farms and ranches, according to the Civil Aeronautics Authority. In addition, over 300 companies do such contract jobs as dusting, spraying, sowing, and fertilizing from the air. In California alone, nearly 99 per cent of the rice crop is seeded from airplanes.
 U. S. Navy scientists expect soon to be able to produce temperatures within .001 degrees of absolute zero (-459.7 degrees Fahrenheit).

FARM PRODUCTIVITY UP
 Farm productivity has been increased 40 per cent above any previous peak the Department of Agriculture records show, despite the fact that a million workers have left farms and ranches since 1935. This increase has been obtained, it was pointed out, through use of oil-powered farm equipment.

Micaiah, A Prophet of Israel
 Lesson for July 4, 1948

WE BEGIN a new series of studies this quarter—a series of lessons based on less known Bible characters that have much to offer us. Such a character is found in Micaiah, about whom we learn in 1 Kings 22:1-40.
 Ahab, king of Israel, planned an expedition to recover the city of Ramoth in Gilead, which the Syrians had taken. He invited Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, to join him. Ahab relied upon his court prophets to predict victory; but Micaiah, the prophet of God, whom Ahab had shut up in prison, when he was summoned, at the insistence of Jehoshaphat, told Ahab the truth—the unpleasant truth—which subsequent events verified.

TRUTH DISREGARDED
 Ahab scorned the words of Micaiah, and ordered him thrown back into prison. But scarcely had the prophet of God been thrust again into prison, until Ahab was bleeding to death in his chariot.
 Men not only take their own lives in their hands when they disregard the truth, but, like stubborn Ahab, they bring grief to countless others. Had Ahab heeded the words of truth which Micaiah proclaimed, Ahab might have lived. Indeed, had Ahab heeded the words of truth, he might have recovered Ramoth, and more beside.
 Truth may appear forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne, but time always proves a hard taskmaster to the man who regards wrong instead of truth.

THE SOURCE OF TRUTH
 God is the source of truth—all truth. If we miss this, we miss the lesson of the lesson. Note the words of the golden text, "As the Lord liveth, what the Lord saith unto me, that will I speak," said Micaiah.
 Let us remember that it was God speaking through his prophet. Ahab could not have doubted that Micaiah was speaking what God had told him to speak. But Ahab did not want to hear the truth. He wanted to hear pleasing words that would encourage him in his evil plan.
 God speaks the first and the last word on every subject, because God is truth. "I am the truth," said Jesus. And he went on to say, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."
THE PENALTY OF DISOBEYING THE TRUTH
 Horrible, indeed, was the penalty which Ahab suffered for disregarding the truth. The way of the transgressor is hard—always hard. The wages of sin is death. Be sure your sins will find you out.
 Take down your cherished books of history. What do they say to you? That the straight line of truth is the only safe way in which to walk. It is applicable for the individual, for the family, for the community, for the nation, for civilization.
 Thus every great prayer must be, "Thy will be done." God's will is the way of truth. Micaiah declared it. Every true prophet must declare it. It is the only way to peace and joy in this world.

Things Written for Our Admonition—Out of Egypt Into Canaan

By Walt Hanchett, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago
 "Now all these things happened unto them for ensamples; and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come" (1 Cor. 10:11).
 The "these things" of the New Testament are the things spoken of in the Old Testament which happened unto and in relation to the children of Israel, and which are so clearly illustrative of the principles working in the experiences of Christians today. There are "ensamples" applicable under any given circumstances for they cover the whole gamut of spiritual experience.

As we look back in the Old Testament, we see Israel in Egypt—a type of the world; in bondage—a type of sin; to Pharaoh—a type of Satan; delivered by the application of the shed blood of the lamb—a type of Christ as Saviour. The Israelites passing through the Red Sea were a type of identification with Christ in burial and resurrection, they were delivered from Egypt and its tyrant but brought face to face with the wilderness through which they must journey to reach the promised land.
 It was never God's pleasure that they should remain long in the wilderness for it was His purpose that they should be brought out of Egypt into Canaan in the shortest possible time. The wilderness was but to try their faith. Upon abundant evidence that God would do as He had promised, had they, in trust gone forward without murmuring or unbelief, they would have shortly come into their possessions. But their unbelief and self confidence prolonged their journey into an extended stay of forty years in the wilderness. They were sustained with the necessities of life but fell short of the "rest of God."
 He could not allow them to possess "the land flowing with milk and honey" until such time as "all that generation had passed away" because of their unbelief. Does this not speak to us today of many of us who are living a wilderness existence when we should be enjoying the fruits of Canaan, our rightful place in the "Heavens" purchased for us by Christ and made sure by the promises of God? We have come only part way when we are saved out of the world but have not entered into rest through absolute trust in God.

PANCAKES AND WAFFLES

It's getting around to the time of year again when the sorghum syrup cane is ready for cutting and the odor of cooking juices drifts through the trees and over the fields in the sorghum areas of Texas, so says the Foard County Home Demonstration Agent.

There is no better sweet on the market today than sorghum cane syrup. It is highly nutritious and furnishes one of the best forms of sweetening needed to round out the diet.

When properly made, sorghum syrup has a delicious taste and furnishes copper and iron so essential to the diet.

In order to get a high grade of syrup, there are a few important things the syrup maker should do to make his product a smooth, light brown color, sweet, high grade, wholesome syrup.

The sorghum cane makes the best syrup when harvested in the soft dough stage. It is at this stage that the juices have the best quality, even though you won't get the highest yield. However, if the syrup is made correctly, this is one time quantity can be sacrificed for quality.

Crush the cane as soon as possible after harvesting, and don't let it stay in the sack too long. If it does, the cane will dry out and may heat. Drying out will lower the yield and heating will lower the quality.

One of the most important things to remember about syrup making is to keep the equipment thoroughly clean every day. If the pan is allowed to crust there is a big chance for scorching and scorching will result in a bitter flavor.

It is best to strain the juice two or three times before cooking and treat it with a little milk of lime. The milk of lime takes away part of the acid, lessens the whang of the syrup and gives a brighter color. The juice may then be treated with malt diastase to remove the starch, make the syrup sweeter and eliminate the slow boiling and make the syrup cook easier.

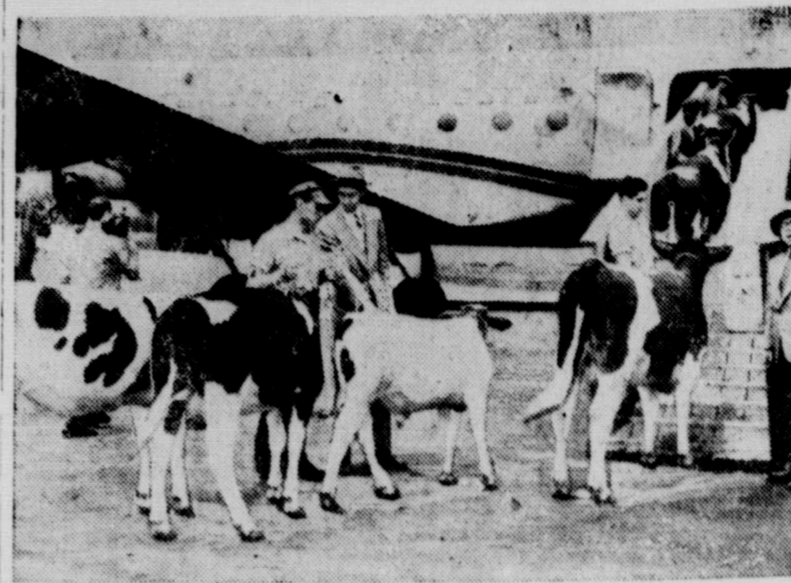

The treated syrups should be cooked as fast as possible and a good aid in cooking is a thermometer and hydrometer. After the syrup has finished cooking, it should be cooled to 175 or 180 degrees Fahrenheit before putting it up in buckets and sealing. After it has been sealed, cool it at room temperature as rapidly as possible.

If the syrup is sealed when it is too hot, it may turn dark in the bucket and have a scorched flavor. If you're using barrels, cool the syrup at 120 degrees F. although the bung may be put loosely in the opening while at a higher temperature. The loose bung should be covered with a cloth while cooling. This lets in air but keeps out dirt and bacteria. And you can leave the cloth on when the bung is driven into place.

And, so this is the way to produce sweet syrup, free from the bitter whang. Made this way, it will keep longer and will be ready to pour over the pancakes or waffles at mealtime whenever you decide it's syrup and waffles for breakfast.

The feeling generally over the country is that too much attention to politics and the coming election has prevented the consideration of a lot of legislation, that, for the good of the country, should have been given the right of way. Many people view with considerable impatience and disgust the political shadow boxing indulged in by Congress the past year. Everything that was done was done with the idea of its effect on the voters in the coming election. There is a belief in the minds of many that the members of one party have spent more time trying to devise something that would put the members of the other party in a hole, than they have tried to take care of the nation's real needs.

LOADING A FLYING ARK... Destined for farms in Italy, these cattle are being driven aboard a Seaboard and Western airlines DC-4 at La Guardia field, N. Y. They were flown to Italy to help replenish that country's livestock, dangerously depleted during the war. HAS THE NAVY BEEN MUZZLED?

The Buffalo Evening News recently ran a long news story and a feature editorial on a matter which is vital to a sound national defense—yet, which, apparently, is little understood by either Congress or the American people.

The editorial carries the descriptive title "The Story Navy Couldn't Tell." It deals with the controversy over the relative combat merits of land-based versus carrier-based aircraft. During the hearings on our military expansion program, the Air Forces and the Army have insisted that carrier-based planes have largely outlived their usefulness and that huge, land-based bombers are capable of performing any conceivable mission.

The Navy's side of this controversy was never clearly presented. According to the Evening News, "The implication is clear: The Navy had been muzzled by the Air Force, apparently with the backing of the Army and the Administration high command. The News then goes on to sum up the Navy's flying achievements in the Pacific war—and it's a story that should be known to every American.

Naval aviation, including the Marine Corps, destroyed 15,401 Japanese planes, as against 10,343 for the Army Air Forces. Eighty per cent of the Navy's total were destroyed by carrier-based planes—and of these, 33 per cent were Japanese land-based craft. That means that our carrier planes alone got rid of 19 per cent more enemy planes than did the Army Air Forces.

For every one of our carrier planes lost in combat, 14 enemy planes were shot down. This 14-to-1 combat superiority compares with a ratio of about 7-to-1 for land-based Navy and Marine planes and 5-to-1 for the Air forces.

Finally, U. S. carrier planes destroyed 5,649 enemy aircraft on the ground, as against 2,981 so accounted for by the Army Air Forces.

To quote the News again, "Naval aviation, and especially carrier-based aircraft, played the major role in the winning of American air supremacy in the Pacific war—and thereby demonstrated the vital importance of Naval air power in any future war strategy. If Congress doesn't know what Naval aviation has done and can do, it's time it found out. And it also had better be inquiring who tied a gag on the Navy—in flagrant violation of the spirit of the unification program."

This country's security depends upon the balanced development of all the arms. Both carrier-based and land-based aircraft have vital roles to play. The kind of inter-service jealousy that exaggerates the achievements of one while it attempts to minimize the deeds of another cannot be tolerated.

—Industrial News Review.

May 8, 1911, has been selected as the official birth date of U. S. Naval aviation. It was on that date that the order for the Navy's first aircraft was placed with the Curtiss Company.

Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappy of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use. — Samuel Johnson.

"BACKWARD AMERICA"—BUNK

All the proponents of socialism, communism and the other what-have-you isms argue that their systems offer the "common man" greater security and material benefits. As Al Smith used to say, let's look at the record.

England has gone in for socialism in a big way. And what has happened? Once a great coal exporting nation, she can now hardly produce enough for her own needs. Her electric power industry has gone downhill and rates are higher than under private ownership. Her whole socialized economy is as shaky as a tree in a storm.

Russia, of course, has gone whole hog in its version of a "people's government," to own or control all productive activity, and only a miserable minimum of consumer goods is produced. Her retail stores—all of which belong to the state—are stocked with only a few necessities and even these are strictly rationed. Prices, measured by average earning power, are far higher than in this country.

"Backward America," on the other hand, still clings to representative government and a capitalist economy. The "tragic" results of this are seen on every hand—the most efficient industries on earth, the highest standards of living in the world in spite of inflation, more leisure and opportunity for all, retail stores groaning with every kind of commodity, and a competitive system which has to please the people or go out of business—no "take it or leave it" system.

The socialists have a sad story. It just doesn't make sense. And yet they are working here to have government monopolies supplant private enterprise. Will we fall for it?—Industrial News Review.

Humphrey Bogart Blazes Trail to Mexican Gold

Tense, undiluted drama throbs in Warner Bros.' newest hard-fisted offering, "Treasure of Sierra Madre" starring Humphrey Bogart with Walter Huston, Tim Holt and Bruce Bennett, which opens Wednesday, July 7th, at the Rialto Theater. For real, dramatic fare, nothing like this entertainment has ever been seen before.

The film is realistic to the nth degree, with all the performers completely submerged beneath their rugged characters, and telling of man's pursuit of gold. This drama, adapted from the novel of the same name by B. Traven, is shot against a vivid panorama of hinterland Mexico. Scientifically, it has a wild beauty. Dramatically, it is gripping.

Briefly, "Treasure of Sierra Madre" is the story of three Americans, all stranded in Tampico, who set out to strike it rich. They meet in a flop-house, pool their lottery winnings and head for the hills. After the gold dust begins piling up, greed and distrust creep in until there is gunplay. Finally, Bogart (Humphrey Bogart) goes it alone with all the treasure, but the trip back to civilization turns into a nightmare of trouble.

John Huston's direction is masterful and exacts much out of the story which reveals man's frailties. Ted McCord's photography is excellent in capturing the raw beauty of Mexico. The Natural appeal of the natives who filter through the drama also adds effectively to the finished production. Bogart injects a bite into his assignment which is very impressive. "Treasure of Sierra Madre" is not to be missed by anyone.

It is being reliably predicted that as a result of the aid to Europe plan, and the defense program in this country, that there will be a shortage of many items for civilian use within the next six months. This will become more acute next year as the two programs get under way. Among the items the supply of which will be reduced for civilian consumption are steel and all things which enter into the production of which steel enters in any way. This shortage will extend to all metals. Automobile production will be reduced.

It is also predicted that the shortage of skilled workers will begin to make itself felt by the end of the year and will continue through next year as the defense program expands. This means that prices will continue high in most lines for the next year at least and will in all probability go higher.

A vertical strawberry bed has been designed by Henry Hayward of San Fernando, Calif. Hayward laid up two parallel walls of cement blocks a foot or so apart. The space between the walls is filled with soil. The strawberry plants were set in the holes in the cement blocks.
