Jeep-Tractor Collision June 30 Near Hereford Claims Life of Roy Fergeson, Prominent Foard City Resident

The collision of a tractor and a Jeep in which Roy Fergeson, a prominent Foard City resident, was killed, occurred near Hereford on Thursday, June 30, 1949.

The tractor, owned by Roy Fergeson, was being driven by the deceased when it struck the Jeep, which was being driven by Mrs. Howard Fergeson, his wife.

The men were brothers and sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fergeson.

Both the tractor and the Jeep were traveling in the same direction when the tractor made a left turn just as the Jeep started to go around it. The impact threw Roy Fergeson out and caused injuries which resulted in his death soon after being taken to a Hereford hospital.

Mrs. Howard Fergeson was more seriously injured than her husband, receiving a brain concussion. However, she is much improved and it is thought that she will be able to move home within a few days. Other than bruises and shock, the injuries of Howard were found to be slight.

The Foard City men had a combine crew near Hereford. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Marlow, parents of Mrs. Fergeson, have been in Hereford since the accident.

Aspirers Need Additional Salt

A deficiency of salt in the human system can have serious consequences, and this is the reason Dr. Geo. W. Cox, Health Officer, advises each person whose work is such that it causes excessive perspiration to add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water during the day.

Farmers, mechanics, carpenters, construction men and all others whose work causes them to sweat are in danger of having a body salt content seriously depleted, and as a result may suffer from heat cramps or heat stroke.

Salt is a prominent constituent of sweat, and when the thermometer hits the high register, human body may lose as much as 10 to 50 grams of salt during the day.

In many industrial plants, workers are furnished with and urged to take a tablet of pure salt or a mixture of salt and dextrose with each drink of water. Many of these pleasant ways of taking salt, but others prefer to add the needed amount of extra salt to their food and drink.

Take your extra salt in any form that is agreeable to you," Dr. Cox, "but take it. Heat cramps are very painful and exhausting. They are characterized by aching in the abdominal region, headache, and in severe cases may be nausea and vomiting. Body salt losses occur without the knowledge of the individual until a deficiency exists; the abdominal muscles become cramped."

According to the State Health Department, it is a wise precaution to keep the body supplied with salt and thus avoid much possible suffering and loss of time from heat cramps.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

(By Congressman Ed Gossett)

Washington, D. C., July 1, 1949—The big fight in the House this week was over the Public Housing Bill, H. R. 4009. The fight on this bill was over slum clearance or over Federal loans in financing of home building. I have always supported P.H.A., i. e., Federal guarantee of loans to promote home building. The big fight on this bill was over public housing. This bill as finally passed, obligates the government to build 810,000 homes. These 810,000 homes will be owned and maintained at government expense and rented to so-called low-income families. The minimum cost of these government owned houses will be 10 billion dollars. Some have estimated it will cost nearly 20 billion dollars. It is generally conceded that it would be much cheaper to build these homes and give them outright to said low-income individuals than it will be for the government to maintain and operate them as now provided.

This public housing feature sets a most dangerous precedent. It will be followed in years to come by other bills for homes for more people.

An amendment was offered to the bill to strike out the public housing feature. Time for debate on the amendment was limited, and those of us speaking had only two and one-half minutes to present our views. My speech in support of the amendment to strike public housing from the bill was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the amendment. The gigantic public housing feature of this bill is, in my judgment, a two-edged sword, one edge of which cuts the heart out of the American economy, and the other the heart out of American character.

"The distinguished majority leader addressed himself to human values, the human equation. That, too, gives me the greatest concern because all other values are relative. You do not have a favor if you fill his stomach and empty his backbone in the same operation. When we build gigantic public housing projects and subsidize the tenants who live in them, we tend to destroy thrift, initiative, ambition, and many other worthwhile attributes of character and citizenship. Think what would have happened to you as a boy if you had been told when you became a man if through circumstances or otherwise you were unable to build a home, that the Government would furnish it to you. I submit that this public housing feature of this bill pushes us many miles farther down the road into national socialism. The chips are down on this, gentlemen. You will have to choose whether or not you want American democracy or choose to embrace some sort of statism. This is simply the first installment on this matter of subsidizing low-income families in the matter of housing. If you subsidize John Doe this year and not Richard Doe the next year, you make Bolsheviks out of both of them. The time has come when we must call a halt on unrestrained public expenditures, or else we will be called upon in the next session of Congress to raise taxes, and ultimately to repudiate debts. If carried to its logical conclusion the public housing provisions of this bill mean economic and social chaos."

This amendment was adopted by a vote of 188 to 165. It was then stricken out by a vote of 209 to 204.

On this vote, 13 of us Texas members voted "yea" with only 6 Texas members voting "nay." It is significant that Thomas of Houston, Wilson of Dallas, and Lucas of Fort Worth, all voted against public housing. Kilday of San Antonio, who is in the hospital with a broken leg, if present, would have also voted against public housing.

The Marshall Heights section of Washington is a Negro settlement. Most of them own their homes. Some of these homes are better than the one in which I was reared. Public housing officials of Washington have repeatedly attempted to take this area for the slum clearance project. These Negroes have appeared before Committees of Congress in opposition to the project. They do not want the homes which they own condemned and torn down, even if it means they are to be furnished an apartment in a government-owned and controlled project. Under the bill passed, they will probably lose their fight and be forced to abandon their relatively good community.

Route Carrier C. H. Wood Comes After Papers on Thursday

For many years the Foard County News has been printed early Thursday morning so that the papers could be taken to Thalia by the Star Route carrier, Henry Ross. Since the train schedules on the Santa Fe have been changed, and the Star Route carrier has to wait for mail on the morning train, it has been impossible for him to reach Thalia before Rural Route Carrier C. H. Wood has to leave the Thalia Postoffice on his daily delivery.

During the past few months since these train schedules have been in effect, Mr. Wood has been coming to Crowell early Thursday morning to get the papers so that patrons on his route and also the subscribers who get their mail at the Thalia post office would not be inconvenienced or disappointed in not getting their home paper on Thursday as usual.

This act of accommodation on the part of Mr. Wood is beyond the line of duty and is greatly appreciated by his rural route patrons as well as by the Thalia people and the Foard County News.

So, when subscribers in Thalia and on Rural Route No. 1 from the Thalia post office receive their papers on Thursday, instead of Friday, please give Charlie Wood full credit for being unselfish enough to see that they get their papers when they expect them.

1949 Wheat Crop for Foard County Is 1,250,000 Bushels, According to Conservative Estimates Made Today

Harvesting of more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat in Foard County for the year 1949 has come to a close. According to figures released by the Farmers Elevator, Foard County Mill and the Kimbell Elevator, the total yield for the county is conservatively estimated at 1,250,000 bushels. This estimate includes approximately 150,000 bushels stored on the farms and elsewhere.

The heavy rains in May damaged the wheat crop to a large extent, otherwise the total yield for the county would have been considerably more. The last of the Foard County combine crews moved out last week, some going to northwest Texas, others to Oklahoma.

The Truscott community harvested approximately 350,000 bushels, it has been estimated. The market price of wheat here Wednesday was $1.70 per bushel.

Foundation School Program Compels Consolidation of Many School Districts Within the County of Foard

Information released this week by Judge Leslie Thomas reveals that the New Foundation School Program as provided for by Senate Bill No. 116, which such bill effects many wide-sweeping changes in the school systems of the State, compels the consolidation of many school districts within the county which heretofore have contracted their entire district or transferred their children therein by parent or guardian transfer to the Crowell Independent School District. Black, Good Creek, Claytonville, Vivian, Margaret, Foard City, Gambleville and Four Corners are the districts affected by this legislation. For the past several years all of the above districts, with the exception of the Four Corners School District, which has transferred its pupils by parent or guardian transfer, have contracted with such districts to Crowell Independent School District and by virtue of such have retained their identity as individual school districts within the county, but under the new Bill it is mandatory that such districts be consolidated by order of the County Board of School Trustees with an adjoining district or districts. Article VIII of Senate Bill No. 116, reads as follows:

"Within thirty (30) days from the effective date of this Act, the County Board of Trustees of the several counties of the State are hereby authorized and required to consolidate by order of said Board each dormant school district within the county (as here defined) with an adjoining district or districts. The term 'dormant' as used herein shall mean any school district that fails, for any two (2) successive years subsequent to 1946-1947 school year, to operate a school in the district for the race having the greater number of enumerated schoolistics in the district. The Board of Trustees for the district with which such dormant school districts is consolidated shall continue to serve, and be, the Board of Trustees for the new district. In each such case, the consolidation order of the County Board of Trustees shall define by legal boundary description the territory of the new district as so enlarged and extended, and said order, including the description of the district, shall be recorded in the minutes of the County Board of Trustees and otherwise as provided by law. Elections shall be held in such consolidated districts for the assumption of outstanding bonds, if any, for the levying of taxes therefor, and for the levying of a local maintenance tax, said elections to be ordered and held as now provided by law."

All of the above contract and transfer districts come within the meaning of the term "dormant" and the County Board will be required to consolidate such districts with an adjoining district or districts. The County Board will meet this week to effectuate such consolidations.

Eleventh Season for Altus Cotton Classing Office

This week marks the beginning of the 11th season of operation of the Altus, Okla., cotton classing office, according to John A. Albritton, who is in charge of the local work of the Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Altus office serves cotton farmers in 17 counties in this area.

Last year 88 per cent of the cotton ginned in these counties was classed by the Altus office, Mr. Albritton said. This amounted to 263,513 bales.

Farmers belonging to organized cotton improvement groups under the Smith-Doxey Act can get their cotton classed without cost. Also, they can get free market news service.

Applications for these Smith-Doxey Act benefits should be filed immediately after the group members have planted their cotton, with the Production and Marketing Administration, Cotton Branch, P. O. Box 249, Altus, Okla. Applications can be secured from the Altus cotton office or from your county agent.

"To make sure farmers secure all the benefits due them under this program, their group application should reach our office by July 1," Mr. Albritton said. However, applications will be accepted until August 1.

HORNFLY COSTLY PEST

The hornfly is one of the costliest of livestock pests. Cattle are its chief victims. In some instances hornflies have caused a drop of one-fourth to one-half in the milk production of dairy cattle. The hornfly also causes loss of weight. The sores caused by hornflies also give rise to increased screw worm infestation. Such sores often originate when cattle injure themselves by rubbing against trees, running through brush, or scratching against barbed wire fences in an effort to rid themselves of hornflies.

In railroad parlance, a round-house is a building having stalls for the housing of locomotives.

A good cotton insect control program will increase the yield 15 per cent. How big the profit will be depends on a couple of things: (1) what price the farmer gets for his crop, and (2) the cost of producing and harvesting his crop.

A TEAM In every American community the physician and the pharmacist are a team, combining their knowledge and skill to make this nation's health the finest in all the world. The efforts of the physician rest on his certainty that the solutions he may inject, the salve he may apply, the tablet he may prescribe have been carefully and accurately dispensed by his pharmacist. The pharmacist and the physician, each a master of his craft, constantly exchange views, opinions, and knowledge in order to render finer and more modern service to the patient. This strong bond of mutual interest is ever strengthened by continuous stimulation and pride of accomplishment. This freedom of activity and cooperation is typical of America and the principles which make it great. FERGESON DRUG STORE

Service clubs in many localities are making a fine contribution to the safety of young bicycle riders by providing Scotchlite tape for the bicycles of children. The tape is attached to the rear of the bicycle. When a car approaches from the rear of the rider at night, the tape glows in the dark from the reflection of the car lights. The Scotchlite tape is easy to apply and is good for several months. The sponsoring organization sets a date for the application of the tape and the bike riders all meet at the designated place. The application of the safety tape requires but a few seconds. It is a worthwhile project for any local club or organization. The Scotchlite tape is obtainable from any source that sells the familiar Scotch tape.

Hospital rates at ten to twelve dollars a day seem terribly high, but few hospitals ever make any money. It's the service that goes with the room that costs.

The appointment of Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, of Kansas, to the office of United States Treasurer, is regarded by those who know Mrs. Clark, as a splendid appointment. Mrs. Clark is a thoroughly competent business woman. She has operated a general store, an elevator, and has been president of the bank in her home town, Richland, Kansas, for a number of years. She has been Democratic National Committee woman from Kansas for a number of years. Her charm, poise, intelligence and social graces will be a fine contribution to the official circles at the nation's capitol.

Mickey Rooney, on the occasion of his recent marriage, his third, is reported to have said: If this one doesn't work there must be something the matter with me. This is the first admission that such a thing could be possible that we have heard coming out of Hollywood—and we do not refer to Mickey Rooney alone.

What We Think

(By Frank Dixon)

Advertising, in my opinion, is the most potent builder of American business. I think that because of it American industry has been able to place its products in more homes in this country than are the products of any other country in the homes of those countries. One can take any one single item produced in this country and general distribution is in direct ratio to the aggressiveness of the advertising campaign that has promoted it.

This is not only true of the nationally distributed products of industry but it is also true in local communities. The merchant who makes regular advertising a daily part of his sales program, who puts sound thought and selling into his advertising, and who backs it up with the right goods at the right price and with modern merchandising methods is the one who forges ahead and who builds the best business in the community. In fact I have seen such merchants take the business away, so to speak, from their less progressive and less energetic competitors who seemed to be more favored at the start.

Advertising, to be effective, must be backed by a good product worth the money asked for it, and be promoted by modern merchandising service. Proof of this is to be found in every community. Every community has examples of businessmen who at one time enjoyed the big end of the business in their community only to lose it to another. The reason has not been that the loser carried an inferior class of merchandise, because he didn't. He carried excellent lines, but he failed to back them up with modern merchandising methods and advertising.

The reason that these things mean so much these days is that people have been educated to them. They want to be sold. They expect to have the merchant present the superior points of his product in a modern fashion. They expect when they go to the store to find things well arranged and properly displayed in the latest and most approved manner. If they find this they are half sold on the merit of the product. If they do not, there is at once built up a resistance which no amount of good advertising and personal salesmanship can overcome.

Whether we give much thought to the real reasons for the formation of our opinion of a store's merchandise by its surroundings, the fact never the less remains that these things do count and do influence sales as much as the quality of the merchandise. This being true every merchant who spends money for advertising should spend an equal amount to modernize and dress up his store and the improvement of his merchandising methods. They belong together. He can't build a business merely by taking space in some publication and he can't build a business by advertising alone. They are complementary "Musts"—one helps the other.

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

When You Build, Choose a Good Architect: I inspected, recently, a house that is being built in the community in which I live. I was surprised to discover that although in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars was being spent in the construction of the house that there will be a number of features in connection with it that have been abandoned for some years by modern home builders, as not the best construction—features that extensive experience in the business has shown are not desirable. In talking with the owner of the home, he stated he had drawn the plans for the house and that the contractor was building it just as he had planned it. I feel that a man building a house has the right to build it the way he thinks he wants it, but I think that he would have done well to have talked with an experienced builder. I am sure a good architect could have saved him money and have given him a better house and a house with which he would, after he had lived in it awhile, been better satisfied with. I think a good many people make the same mistake in planning their lives. They choose what, in their inexperience, they think they want only to discover that in the plans they have overlooked some important things and left out some things that they should have provided for.

Man is a strange creature. He doesn't notice it when the price of motor cars moves up $60, but he tells the whole world about it when pork chops advance six cents.

As it is the mark of great minds to say many things in a few words. So it is that of little minds to use many words to say nothing.—La Rochefoucauld.

HISTORY

Frontier Day in Cheyenne—July 25: Back in 1897 a number of the progressive spirits of Cheyenne, Wyoming, conceived what has since come to be known as Frontier Day. Its purpose was to keep alive the sports and the customs of the early days of the west. The celebration, which began in a small way has grown each year until it is rated as one of the big annual events of the west, and has been attended in the last fifty years by around a million and a half people. At the present time the program consists chiefly of western events made colorful by cowboys and cowgirls gaily costumed in typical western garb. The program is held in Frontier Park near the city. It consists of a big parade followed by bronco riding, steer roping, calf roping, bulldogging, bareback riding, and races of all types. Some three hundred contestants participate in the contest which lasts three or four days. A set of rules and regulations has been formulated based on the experience of the previous years, to which all contestants must conform. A queen is chosen annually to preside over the celebration. She is called Miss Frontier. In addition to the contests the Burnt Thigh tribe of Sioux Indians participate in the celebration with native dances in full regalia. According to the rules a bronco rider must draw for a horse. He cannot ride the same horse twice. He must remain on the bucking bronco at least ten seconds. The saddle is of a prescribed type. There is but one rein to the bridle, and the rider is not permitted to touch any part of the horse with his hands. Bulldogging requires that the cowboy leap from his horse to the horns of a running steer and by grasping the horns and putting his shoulders to the steer's neck, twist the head until the steer falls on the ground. A contestant is allowed two minutes to throw the steer. In calf roping the calf is given a thirty foot start on the rope which must throw the rope over the calf's head. The roper must not throw the calf head over heels or "bust" it as it is called. The calf must be thrown by hand by the roper and three of his feet must be tied. The time limit is two minutes.

SCRAPPING OF RIVETS SPEEDS NAVAL AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION

One way in which the production of military and naval aircraft may be tremendously speeded, at reduced cost, while at the same time increasing the structural strength of aircraft was pointed out at the annual meeting of the American Welding Society.

The process would involve the scrapping of almost countless rivets, bolts and nuts, and assembling the parts by fusing them together through the use of "resistance welding"—a process in which the parts are merely pressed together, and an electric current is passed through them for a fraction of a second.

The process, according to Prof. A. R. Hard of Washington State college, produces a joint that is over 30 per cent stronger than the riveted joints used mainly up to now in the production of military and naval aircraft.

General adoption of the process for aircraft production, it was admitted, would mean a virtual revolution in manufacturing methods for military and naval aircraft, particularly in view of the tremendously higher assembly speeds possible.

NOW WE HAVE CATTALO

First experiments in crossing buffalo and cattle were made a number of years ago. Buffalo bulls were crossed with domestic cows, but the calves had such tremendous heads and forequarters that most of the cows were killed in giving birth to them. Subsequently, domestic bulls were crossed with buffalo cows. Altho the first hybrid "cattalo" calves proved sterile at maturity, cross-breeding has, at last reports, produced a species of cattalo that can reproduce its kind.

Green Cards for Cotton Improvement

College Station, June 30 — There is no doubt about grades, staple and value of cotton when it's identified with a "green card," Texas farmers were reminded this week.

The "green card" means the cotton has been classed by a U. S. Department of Agriculture cotton classer who certifies the grade and staple.

Farmers belonging to Smith-Duexy cotton improvement groups receive this classification without charge. Also they receive daily market news service to keep them posted on day-to-day prices.

CARROTS APLENTY

The 1948 carrot crop in California, Arizona and Texas was the largest on record—50 per cent above average. By the pound, in bunches or canned, raw or cooked, carrots supply large amounts of vitamin A. So do spinach, kale, broccoli, squash, and sweet potatoes. Nutritionists recommend eating one vegetable from this group every day.

organized cotton improvement groups, McCollum explained. They may be sent to cotton classing offices at Corpus Christi, Austin, Galveston, Lubbock, Abilene or Dallas, or county PMA offices, county agents and ginners. Latest date applications may be received by the Dallas area office is August 1 for all East Texas counties and August 15 for West Texas. After they reach the Dallas office it takes about 15 days to process them and get sampling supplies to the field. For these reasons, McCollum pointed out, applications should be filed early so farmers will get both benefits on cotton ginned early.

Weekly Sermon

A Not-So-Simple Question

by Charles S. Trimmer, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

"And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked" (John 5:9).

No mere coincidence or chance led the Saviour to the miracle pool at Bethesda where great numbers of sick and dying lay in despair. The crowds thronged the streets, unmindful of the individual tragedies that were taking place in the five porches of this ancient hospital. But for the worst case of all the tragedy of thirty-eight wasted years was about to emerge in a triumph of faith. "Jesus... knew that he had been now a long time in that case and saith unto him, 'Wilt thou be made whole?'"

The question is not as simple as it appears at first glance. It might seem that Jesus was wasting precious moments of the three years of His earthly ministry. Such was not the case. The Master of men knew the mental and spiritual decline that comes with prolonged physical disability, and the question was a deliberate one. It might be paraphrased, "Do you want to be well?"

For this friendless man, health would mean new responsibilities, new situations to face, and a new challenge to take his place in society again. Jesus wanted this man's heart to throb with a will to live. "Do you want to be well?" means that a positive answer must be forthcoming, else the healing is a mockery.

Now, for us, what slant may this question have in a twentieth century world? Perhaps this might be one thought: "Do you want to see the world won for Christ?" Have you been on the sidelines, waiting expectantly, hoping timidly that some miracle might come from above and suddenly evangelize the world? Have you wasted your Christian life in a futile state of wishful thinking? Hear the Saviour say, "Rise... and walk." Walk before the world with the winning comeliness that should mark the child of God. Rise from the level of unyielding living to a higher plane of true holiness and walk with the One who "loved us and who loosed us from our sins in his own blood."

UNPALATABLE MOTORBOAT WINS FAVOR OF ESKIMOS

You can't eat a pryontelerak. If things get really bad in Eskimoland, however, you can eat an umiak.

Despite this fact, the umiak, the large open boat of skins and driftwood which has served the Eskimo so well for centuries, is gradually being replaced by the pryontelerak, or motorboat. Translated, pryontelerak means "smelly, smoke propelled boat," says the National Geographic Society.

The pryontelerak, plying Greenland waters in increasing numbers, caused a Danish official recently to lament that "modern technique is outdistancing the national, the interesting, and the picturesque" among Greenland's Eskimos. At the other end of Eskimoland—in Alaska—the trend toward motorization started before the war. Bering Sea umiaks were fitted with outboard motors, thus combining the best of old and new.

For seaworthiness, resilient strength, shallowness of draft, ease of movement, and load carrying ability, few boats match the umiak. From small bushes growing along Arctic coasts and from driftwood washing ashore, Eskimos build a simple framework with little distinction between bow and stern.

Then, with sinew, they sew together skins—from seals, walrus, or white whales—and stretch them over the worm while still wet. As the hides dry, they shrink to make a skintight cover.

HONEY BEE PLAN

Importance of honey bees for pollination is indicated by a new plan being tried in Ohio. Bees are needed so badly in that state that the federal government is now paying owners a subsidy of $1 for each hive maintained and $3 for each hive moved into a field of red clover.

DIFFICULT TO CULTIVATE

Although rododendrons and azaleas are favorite plants of many flower-lovers, they are among the most difficult to grow and respond only if given soil and climatic conditions favorable to their development. They are comparatively easy to grow in the southern states where the climate is less rigorous, but in the northern states they are grown with difficulty, and some of the tender Asiatic species cannot be grown outdoors the year around. In the North the evergreen often suffer from windburn in the winter and drought in the summer.

Chamois are small goat-like antelopes of the Alps.

Miss Julia Rose Johnson Weds Joe C. Roper in Home Wedding, Sunday, July 3

The marriage of Miss Julia Rose Johnson to Joe C. Roper of Henrietta was solemnized at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, Sunday afternoon, July 3rd, at 2 o'clock in a wedding smilax and white flowers outlined the passageway and tall wrought iron baskets of white and pink glads stood at each side. White ribbon bows completed the decoration.

As pre-nuptial music, Misses Joline Lanier, Betty Barker, Frankie Mabre and Bobbie Abston, attired in pink formal gowns, sang "Oh, Promise Me" with Miss Abston accompanying at the piano. She played the traditional wedding march for the approach of the wedding party, and soft strains of "Claire de Lune" during the ceremony.

Mrs. Eugene Owens was her sister's matron of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Betty Brock. Both wore pink gowns and white corsages. The bride entered on the arm of her father. Flower bearers were Jennie Johnson, sister of the bride, and Jo Riemschneider, a niece. Both wore formal dresses of pink and carried white and pink baskets of rose petals, strewn them in the path of the bride. Train-bearer was Marcia Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Carroll, attired in a long pink dress. The little girl attendants wore hairdresses of flowers.

Mr. Roper was attended by Eugene Owens as best man. The double ring ceremony was performed by Bro. W. L. Baze, minister of the East Side Church of Christ, in an impressive manner. The bride was prettily gowned in a wedding dress of white slipper satin, modeled with tight bodice, a lace yoke, tiny collar, tiny covered buttons down the back and with long fitted sleeves. The full skirt fell into a long train. Her shower bouquet was of carnations centered with orchids and a cascade of satin ribbons. Her veil of illusion fell from a coronet outlined with seed pearls. She followed the old custom of wearing something old, new, borrowed and blue and also wore a penny in her shoe for luck.

A reception immediately followed the marriage with Mrs. Jim Shook heading the receiving line and introducing the newly married couple; her mother, Mrs. Henry Johnson, and his mother, Mrs. Mattie E. Roper, of Henrietta. Guests passed into the dining room where the beautiful white and pale-pink three-tiered wedding cake and an oblong floral arrangement occupied either end of the lace-covered table. After the wedding cake had been cut by the bride and groom, the young ladies of the wedding party served it with pink frosted punch to the guests.

For going-away, Mrs. Roper wore a light gray summer wool suit and white accessories. Her corsage was white orchids. After a wedding trip to points in Colorado, the couple will establish residence in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Roper is a 1919 graduate of Crowell High School. She has been prominent in all school activities. Mr. Roper received his schooling in Henrietta. He is connected with the E. B. Clark Drilling Co. and is said to be the youngest driller in Texas.

Out-of-town attendants at the wedding included Mrs. Mattie E. Roper, Bill Roper and Mr. and Mrs. Tyra Roper of Henrietta; Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilson and daughter, Glenda, and Mrs. Johnny Roper and daughter, Gaylene, of Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Spud Spivey of Joy.

Mrs. Harold Thomson Complimented with Bridal Shower Friday

Mrs. Harold Thomson, who was Miss Peggy Pittillo before her recent marriage, was honored on Friday afternoon, July 1, by a group of girl friends at a pretty bridal shower given between the hours of 5 and 7 p. m. in the basement auditorium of the Methodist Church which was decorated in arrangements of giant Shasta daisies, advantageously placed to make the auditorium attractive and inviting. Assisting in hostess duties were Mrs. Jeff Hardin and Mrs. T. B. Klepper.

Miss Mary Edna Norman greeted the guests and directed them to the receiving line which was headed by Miss Peggy Weaver who introduced the bride; Mrs. J. R. Pittillo, her mother, and Mrs. H. E. Thomson, the groom's mother, all of whom wore white corsages.

Miss Joyzelle Thomson, sister of the groom, secured the signatures of the guests in the bride's book at a table decorated with a Fostoria bowl of Shasta daisies. More than sixty guests registered during the calling hours.

Miss Rodynn Self directed the guests to the serving table which was laid with a lace cloth over pink where the Fostoria punch service was entirely surrounded by circlets of deep pink and light pink rosebuds. Pink and white predominated in all appointments of the party. Misses Anna Owens and Virginia McKown alternated at the punch bowl and in serving cookies and mints with the frosted punch. Miss Tommie Meason also assisted.

Misses Bobbie Ruth Abston and Betty Barker provided incidental piano music during the hours of the shower. The many beautiful wedding gifts were arranged in an adjoining room where the guests lingered before leaving. All members of the house party wore white corsages.

Nut grass, or coco grass, can be choked out by growing plants that will smother it. Cowpeas and sudangrass will do the job in the summertime, and in the winter, wheat, oats, barley, rye or rye-grass can be planted to control this yard pest.

Shower Honors Miss Johnson, Bride-Elect, Wednesday Afternoon

Miss Julia Rose Johnson, whose marriage to Joe Roper, was an event of Sunday, was honored at a delightful miscellaneous bridal shower at the Adelpian Club-house on Wednesday afternoon, June 29, with Mrs. Glen Shook, Mrs. J. T. Brooks, Mrs. Walter Thomson and Misses Betty Barker, Betty Brock and Bobbie Ruth Abston acting as hostesses.

Floral arrangements of shasta daisies and crepe myrtle in the entertaining rooms featured the chosen colors of the bride-elect, pink and white.

Mrs. Brooks greeted the guests and presented them to the receiving line composed of Miss Johnson; Mrs. Henry Johnson, her mother; Mrs. Mattie E. Roper of Henrietta, mother of the groom-elect, and Mrs. Spud Spivey of Joy, the groom's sister.

The guests were asked to register in the bride's book where Miss Betty Brock presided. They were then directed into the dining room by Miss Maurine Youree.

The table was laid with a lace cloth over pink and from the center where rested an arrangement of white daisies extended three pink satin streamers. One bore the name "Judy," one "Joe" and on the one between was the marriage date "July 3rd." Branched candelabra holding pink candles were placed at either end of the buffet. Misses Rodynn Self and Joline Lanier served at the punch bowl. Dainty cookies and mints were served with the punch.

In the gift room where the many beautiful gifts were displayed, Mrs. Glen Shook, Mrs. Walter Thomson and Mrs. Bob Abston alternated.

Background music was provided throughout the entertaining hours from 4 until 6 by Misses Abston and Barker.
