YOUR ENTHUSIASM WILL IMPROVE WILDCATS' CHANCES

The Crowell Wildcats will play Chillicothe there on October 21. This is a well-known fact.

The big question — which may or may not be answered at the ball game — is whether the students are going to support our team any better this Friday night than they did at Seymour last Friday night?

School spirit has lagged here the last week. School spirit isn't necessarily a matter of yelling one's lungs out at a football game nor is it necessarily 100 per cent attendance at the football games. Of course, both of these things help in making school spirit.

Last Friday night when we journeyed to Seymour, there were only fifteen girls who went on the school bus. Since about twenty-five girls left early for the Fair, we realize this was an excuse for some; however, what about the other seventy-three? In the preceding years, there were so many girls that very often there were two busses taken.

The Wildcats need the student's support. Any football player will tell you that a crescendo of noise coming down from the grandstand can be a deciding factor in the outcome of the game.

We like to see the whole campus buzzing with energy on the day of a game, the atmosphere alive with tension. Let's change all this now—today. You don't have to have a dating acquaintance with the Wildcats before you can yell for them Friday night at Chillicothe.

From all indications it's going to be a hard row to hoe before the final whistle. Crowell could be on the little end of the count when it's over.

We sincerely hope not. CHSites, let's turn out to honor the Wildcats Friday night. Show them the student body is behind them all the way.

TYPICAL TYPES OF CHS

There are several types of CHS-ites. Many students, however, cannot recognize the various types on sight. In order to aid them, this writer spent several hours observing the students between classes, and going to and from school. This made it necessary for me to leave some classes early and arrive late at others in order to complete my observations. (What an assignment.)

First of all is the typing student. This is the character who has a nervous twitch in his hands, and also the habit of mumbling. "Now is the time . . ." as he rushes to the fountain for a shot of sky juice between third and fourth periods. He is well-known for mooching money from friends to buy another package of typing paper.

That girl over in the corner who is taking off her saddle oxfords is one of our brighter business students. She has discovered, that if she forgets her Clint adding machine, she can count to twenty by counting both fingers and toes. She ought to wear barefoot sandals and make the counting easier.

The chemistry student may be rather difficult to recognize. Two of them together, however, will begin speaking in formulas, which they don't understand either. If the same two students are given some very interesting, er, perfume.

The student who just made that dramatic entrance is suffering a hangover from studying Shakespeare in English class. He got so engrossed in the study of Macbeth that his friends don't trust him with a knife until at least two hours after English class.

Pencils and rulers are the stock in trade of the math student. He is likely to stop in the Wildcat Den to study the terrain and complete the shortest distance to the rail. He can often be found on the front lawn looking over figures.

The three students who meet in the typing room every morning aren't in there just for the fun of it, as they can tell you. They are busy learning to read, write and speak "El Espanol" (Spanish to you.) Sometimes words are pronounced just enough wrong to produce some very funny sentences.

This is an example of only a few of our typical CHS students. There is, however, one other type whom we think you ought to know. This is the character who works on the Wildcat, who wanders around apparently unconcerned about everything, while all the time he is using his X-ray eyes to peer through the walls and see girls flirting with their best boy friends, sweethearts, Mr. Black talking to Mary, Blackie White slipping out the side door to play hooky, and with the aid of his super-ears, he can hear what they are saying. These characters really get around. The story of what they see appears in the Wildcat every Thursday. Sometimes, it gets a little mixed up, but it's there.

SANDERS, CHS PIANO TEACHER

CHS is indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Allen Sanders, who is one of the outstanding pianists of our town, to teach piano on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in Room 104 of our High School building.

Mrs. Sanders has been teaching piano in the Crowell schools for the past two years. The course is popular, especially among the grammar school students who seem to have more time for music than high school students.

Edna Sanders was born in Waco, graduated from Crowell High School and later attended Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, Okla., and TSCW at Denton. This past summer she attended West Texas State College at Canyon, where she studied under Pauline Brigham. Her favorite composer is Dvorak, and her favorite composition is Largo, from New World's Symphony by Dvorak.

Mrs. Sanders taught the third and fourth grades for three years in the Crowell schools, from 1943 to 1946.

At the present time she has a son, Jon, in the junior class who is a member of the football squad. Another son, Hardy, an alumnus of CHS, is now working in the office of the Container Corporation in Fort Worth. Mrs. Fred Carr, her daughter and also an ex-CHSite, and former CHS office secretary, now lives in Crowell with her husband and three children, perhaps we should mention Mr. Sanders, who is District Field Officer for the AAA.

With her pleasing personality and love for children and music, Crowell schools are fortunate to

FHA GIRLS ATTEND FAIR

Sixteen sleepy girls were dragged out of bed Saturday morning at 4 along with Mrs. Ruth Kenner, Mrs. Geneva Potts to make the annual trip to the Fair at Dallas. Allan Taylor and George Fox drove the bus which made this trip. There were some girls along who had a little sleep the night before and insisted on serenading the girls who were trying to sleep.

Stopping at Wichita Falls for breakfast, we arrived in Dallas at the Fair Grounds at 10 a. m. Some of the sights enjoyed by the girls were Spike Jones and his City Slickers, Ice Cycles, Health Exhibit, the Aquarium, General Exhibit, SMU and Rice football game and other exhibits. One of the most interesting parts of the Fair was the Midway where most of the girls spent their time, especially after it was lighted.

Everyone separated into small groups at the Fair grounds. Several saw the six girls who came in cars. The central meeting place was the Cotton Bowl Cafeteria.

Maurine had a hard time finding red and white hats for her and F. L., but she finally got them. Wanza and Eva Rae tasted all the free food samples in the Food building.

It seems that some of the girls saw some John Tarleton students who are from Knox City, nice? Yes, Mrs. Kenner and Mrs. Potts said the Ice Cycles were as beautiful this year as last. Camille Todd, Pat Owens, Norma Jones and Faye Black got a big thrill watching the SMU and Rice game.

After a long, happy day at the Fair, the girls left on the bus at 10:30 p. m. The trip home was quieter. The girls in the car enjoyed their side trip to TSCW, where Texas A & M students seem to like to stay.

PEP SQUAD ELECTS NEW OFFICER

The need of a secretary-treasurer for the Wildcat Pep Squad has at last been filled. Clara Jones, attractive blonde senior, was elected as the most efficient for the job.

Checking the roll at every pep meeting, she will keep a record of each girl's attendance. Passes to home games will be issued to the members who attend two out of three meetings a week.

Clara has quite a responsibility, but we are sure she is the one for the position. However, the pep squad can make checking the roll easier if they will arrive early at pep meetings instead of waiting until half way through the meeting.

SECRETARY RATES TOPS

Students, have you noticed our dark haired office girl? If you haven't considered her this year, here is the "low down."

Mary was a part-time worker in the office last year with a high scholastic record in school besides. She is very efficient in keeping the office and cafeteria records besides being very understanding about looking up how many days you ate last week or maybe what you've forgotten.

We all know that she is very patient; she must be to stand up to the stampede every day at noon.

Since we see J. C. Thompson driving to school at noon to chat a few minutes with Mary, we feel sure this is fast becoming a serious romance. Could anyone blame him?

Of course, office routine isn't all work; she's sure to enjoy a good joke on Mr. Black. To sum it all up, she's just another indispensable person we couldn't do without around CHS.

DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE ELECTED BY BAND

The Wildcat Band has elected a discipline committee for persons in the band who break rules. If they have done so, they come up before this committee and they decide what should be done.

Persons for this committee were elected because they were considered dependable students who would act impartially in any case. They are Bobbie Abston, Charles Wishon, Don Brisco, Jenny Webba, Rondyn Self and Wayne Shultz.

CROWELL WILDKITTENS DEFEAT SEYMOUR PANTHERS

The Seymour Panthers were defeated 20-14, Thursday, October 13 on the home field of the Crowell Wildkittens. The Crowell Kittens' line was defensively weaker because of the absence of George Scott, left tackle.

The Wildkittens made 13 first downs to Seymour's 4. Crowell gained 143 yards rushing, 18 yards on passes. Crowell punted twice for 62 yards and were penalized once for five yards. Crowell attempted five passes and completed three.

Welch ran a touchdown for Seymour from the 3 and Millican kicked an extra point. Welch passed to Millican in the third quarter and Thorn ran the third point over. Seymour lost 27 yards and Crowell lost 60 yards. Graves passed to Harper for a Crowell

JUNIOR ROTARIAN OF THE QUARTER SELECTED

As is the custom each year, the Crowell Rotary Club selects an outstanding senior boy as the Junior Rotarian every three months. This quarter he is Rouse Todd, a star football player and an all-around guy. The purpose of this selection is to acquaint the boys with the organization and purposes of the Rotary Club, and to let them meet some of the outstanding citizens of Crowell. Rouse meets with the Club every Wednesday and says that he enjoys it very much.

OCTOBER 21 IS ANNUAL DEADLINE

Your deposit of two dollars on the Wildcat Annual will be taken through October 21. These annuals may also be bought by public individuals as well as students. Come on students, let's show our spirit and enthusiasm for an annual that we will be proud of by getting our deposits in by October 21. Remember—October 21 is the deadline.

FHA YEAR BOOKS

At last, after many hours of hard work, the FHA year books are ready to be typed. The FHA Club wishes to thank LaVerne Owens and Joline Lanier, who are typing the books. These books, tell who is the president, vice president and all of the members and honorary members. The theme of this book is "Understanding FHA Purposes." In the back of this book you will find the club song and prayer.

The FHA Club has a meeting the first Tuesday of every month at 7:30 p. m. in the Homemaking room. These books will be used in this club.

Mrs. Kenner, Norma Jean Matthews and Mary Katherine Chowning planned these books for the use of the club.

STRANGE 'MONIKERS'

Have you heard any strange utterings coming from a fellow student's mouth? Nine chances out of ten he is calling someone by his nickname; where they come from, no one knows.

Some of the ones you hear every day are: Joline "Stinky" Lanier, Tommie "Rosie" Meason, Kent "Mole" Adams, E. W. "Dubber" Kidd, La Verne "Vernie" Owens, Lewis "Chops" Hunter, Billy "Holly" Halenack, Buddy "Rodent" Rader, Raymond "X-Ray" Carter, Thomas "Blackie" White, Billy "Willie" Lynch, Jimmy "Booger" Rasberry, Jimmy "Kildee" Cates, Jon "Squeaky" Sanders, Joe "Spider" Williams, James "Fresh" Weathers, James "Ding Dong" Bice, Gordon "Bubba" Bell, Kenneth "Pee Wee" Polk, Rondyn "Lolly Pop" Self and W. C. "Bugs" Lankford.

Change in Flight Training for G. I.'s Been Changed

Men now may take flight training under the G. I. Bill without necessarily submitting to a complete physical examination. The change in connection with their or contemplated business occupation.

The change in flight training is contained in Public Law 266, passed by Congress and signed by the President August 24 by the President.

Law 266 is the Independent Offices Appropriations Act of 1949 which provides VA's approval for the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1949.

Under the complete justification of a veteran planning to take flight training now may submit an affidavit signed by the present or contemplated business or occupation — rather than affidavits authorized by the new law.

VA emphasized, that with the exception of flight training, Public Law 266 continues for another year the restrictions on vocational and recreational training, which first went into effect July 1, 1948.

The law specifies that no part of the appropriation may be used to pay for any courses which the Administrator of Veterans Affairs determines to be avocational or recreational.

If a veteran wants to train in any course which is frequently pursued for avocational or recreational purposes (with the exception of flight training), he must continue to submit to the VA regional office complete justification that the course he wants is in connection with his present or contemplated business or occupation.

Prior approval of the regional office must be obtained before such training may be started.

When the justification that the veteran submits is not adequate to justify the training desired, he will be notified that he may request advice and guidance before a final determination is made.

In the latter case, the opinion of the VA vocational adviser as to whether the course is in connection with the present or contemplated business or occupation of the veteran will be acceptable evidence for determining the case.

Such persons also are to have "no interest whatsoever, either personal or by association, in the pursuit of non-pursuit by the veteran of the desired course of flight training," VA said.

Affidavits by members of a veteran's family, or by owners or employees of flight schools do not constitute evidence of disinterested persons.

The corroborating affidavits must establish clearly and definitely the following points:

1. Identity of the applicant for GI Bill flight training.
2. The character of the relationship between the veteran and the person supplying the affidavit.
3. The basis and source of asserted knowledge of the matters to which the person supplying the affidavit is testifying.

VA said that veterans desiring flight training under the GI Bill may, if they wish, submit complete justification that the training would be in connection with their present or contemplated business or occupation — rather than affidavits authorized by the new law.

or so. New wage demands, if successful, and continued record-breaking government spending, might reverse the trend and cause price increases. The experts have been wrong in the past, but it is worth recording that most of them are optimistic now.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE

Late in July, according to a New York Times dispatch, "British labor's increasing demand for more wages were answered with a small cut in the cost of living." What happened was that the government ordered a 5 per cent reduction in the retail price of a small line of "utility" goods — standardized articles which are made to government specification for the masses. According to government estimates, the order would reduce the cost of living by only one-half of one point — a figure which will hardly seem a great boon to British consumers.

What makes this interesting, however, is the method used to effect a tiny cut in living costs. In the socialized state, there is no real competition. Directly or indirectly, the government fixes the price of everything, and has the whip hand over all producers and distributors. What the politicians in power say is the only thing that counts.

In a free, competitive economy the situation is entirely different. For example, retail prices on a long list of commodities—food, clothing, furniture, appliances, etc.—have been declining in this country. Some of the drops have been very sharp. But that wasn't the result of a government fiat. On the manufacturing level, competition has been getting tougher. The same thing has been true on the retail level, with all kinds of stores, from the biggest national chains to the smallest one-man independents stepping up their efforts to get business. Natural economic forces, in other words, pushed prices down. That is the way free enterprise works.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has prepared a pamphlet on "What people spend for clothes during the year." Single women, the book says, are the biggest spenders, averaging $300 this year. Single men, $230. Married women,

Business Week, in one of its recent issues, said, "The six-month slide in business has ended . . . It's evident that a vigorous upward movement is underway."

"The real question becomes: Is business going to climb back onto the upward slanting plateau of full employment it occupied from mid-1946 until the end of 1948? Or are we seeing nothing more than a brief rally, after which business activity will again begin to sag?"

"Whether or not it's just a rally or a real recovery, the upturn has now gained so much momentum that it's hard to see how it can fail to carry through most of the remaining months of 1949."

The magazine goes on to point out that the year-end will be a crucial period. At that time, according to the forecasts, exports will drop, automobile sales—which have been a very important fac-

British Plans for Oil Distribution Bad for America

Houston, Tex., Sept. 9 — The American oil industry, the people of Texas and public education in the state will "take a severe beating" at the forthcoming conference on the British dollar crisis in Washington unless American officials block reported British plans for a reorganization of world oil distribution, it was charged today.

D. W. Hovey, president of the Gulf Coast Refiners' Association, said a British proposal to increase her refining capacity in order to limit her imports of oil, as reported in news dispatches from London, is a "back door effort . . . to push American oil out of its markets and thus further reduce American production and employment and Texas revenue for education."

His statement, sent to Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee and other members of the Texas congressional delegation, said the dollar crisis sessions should be open and that oil men, oil state officials and representatives of the general public should be allowed to sit in as observers and be given a hearing.

He charged also that the British are attempting, through the economic negotiations, to bring about the same degree of international oil control which was the objective of the Anglo-American oil treaty, negotiated in 1945 and 1946, and which the Senate refused to ratify in 1947.

Hovey quoted news reports from London which said the British attempted some time ago to obtain aid under E. C. A. to finance an increase in refining capacity and production facilities in the Middle East which would have enabled her to dispense with $400,000,000 per year in oil imports and provided products for export to former American markets. This program, Hovey said, was rejected by American officials, but the British are attempting to revive it.

He also quoted news reports which said British officials plan to present to the dollar crisis conference such questions as "regulation of production . . . allocation of markets . . . fixing of prices . . . strategic defense of such exposed oil producing regions as the Middle East . . ."

"These objectives have a familiar ring," Hovey said. "American oil men and diplomatic officials know that these objectives are the same as the objectives of the Anglo-American petroleum treaty which Britain tried to put over in 1945 and 1946, and which the Senate in 1947 refused to ratify after a storm of protest from the independent American oil industry . . . The independent oil men and refiners who fought the treaty pointed out that it was a first step toward internationalization of American oil reserves, imposition of production and price controls through the device of a treaty and a long step toward complete government control of the American oil industry . . . Having failed to attain the objective through a treaty which had to be ratified by the Senate, the British apparently are trying to attain the same result through economic agreement . . . which, unlike the treaty, would not have to be ratified by the Senate."

Independent refiners are particularly likely to be hurt by the British proposal, Hovey contended, because "the present disparity between sagging oil product prices and the price of crude is . . . partially due to the unnecessary import of residual fuel oils." The situation, he added, may well be aggravated by "fixing of prices and proposed allocation of international markets for petroleum and products."

Hovey pointed out that the Anglo-American treaty aroused a storm of protest in Texas and other states in 1945 and 1946. The then governor of Texas, the state land commissioner, the superintendent of public instruction, the members of the Railroad Commission, the State Democratic convention, the State Board of Education, trustees of State colleges and universities, teachers' associations and school administrators joined in an attack upon the treaty, Hovey said, because they considered it a threat to public education in Texas and a step toward nationalization of the oil industry.

Many Patients Being Cared for at Warm Springs Foundation

One hundred and nineteen patients are registered this week at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation. Coming from all parts of Texas, patients at the Foundation represent the babies, children and young people who are most often affected by poliomyelitis or other crippling diseases.

Forty-eight patients are in the building reserved for infants and children up to school age. Thirty-seven boys and girls are attending regular school at the Foundation, educating their minds as well as their muscles. Three boys are just beyond school age. They are studying photography through the aid of a professional photographer who visits the Foundation weekly from San Antonio. Their spare time is spent in the photo lab of the treatment center, doing all of the developing and printing from their wheelchairs.

Twelve of the patients are young mothers, two arriving during the past ten days from San Antonio and Goliad. The other ten are "old timers," having been at the Foundation for several weeks.

Several patients are in the reception center, waiting to be transferred to wards in other buildings where age groups are separated. Four patients are colored children under school age. Many of the babies and younger children are Latin Americans. All are Texans.

Rearrangement of rooms and equipment has been made continually all summer to provide the most convenient care of patients and to add a little more bed space. There are more young Texans who are waiting to be admitted for treatment at Texas' own Warm Springs.

The campaign which will be under way this month in all parts of Texas, led by our own Governor Shivers, will provide the additional buildings which will make the Foundation readily available to all who apply. Contributions to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis emergency fund drive, also being held this month, will aid the Gonzales treatment center, as many of its patients are polio victims whose treatment costs are sponsored by local chapters of the Infantile Paralysis organization.

Built entirely by Texans and supported largely by Texans since its opening in 1941, the Gonzales treatment center has quickly taken the lead in providing complete care for children requiring long hospitalization for rehabilitation of paralyzed muscles. Its present six buildings are all air conditioned. Each of the four bed units has its own indoor therapy pool, plus a table therapy room. The big, well equipped gymnasium and the large outdoor pool are two of the most popular treatment features for the patients. It is in the pool that a child often feels he can walk easily again, for the buoyant, warm water relaxes weak muscles and holds up paralyzed limbs with ease.

In the gym, patients must do for themselves, with as little aid from the supervising physical therapist as possible. Here a youngster may work with any type of equipment, designed for the exercise of various muscle groups. A large wheel is turned around and around to strengthen shoulder and arm muscles. A renovated sewing machine and a stationary bicycle give exercise to legs and feet. Pulleys of all types make muscles work with weighted, directional pulling. Since patients may roll or walk anywhere on the grounds on one level, a special stairway had to be constructed to teach them step-climbing. They begin on two-inch stairs, then graduate to the regulation four-inch stairway.

Everything is adjustable for the size of the patient, even to the school desks. Whether a stretcher or a wheelchair case, the patient's desk can be adjusted for his utmost comfort.

The Foundation has been developed into a complete community—except for mothers and dads, however. This phase of the rehabilitation program has been the aim of the founders and medical advisors, giving treatment to the "whole" patient, not just to his physical ailments. In addition to the school, the culture building is the community center for other activities, church services, music lessons, dramatic productions, movies, occupational therapy, the library, and the patient's own newspaper.

All activities at the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, however, are sandwiched in between treatments and medical check-ups, for every patient, no matter what age, knows that the all-important thing is to be self-sufficient again. "When I go back home, I'll be just like the other kids," says one little boy; "I'll play marbles anyway, and go on errands for mom, and do lots of things." And this is all the young patients ask of their elders—the chance to "do lots of things again."

ERAS IN FARM MECHANICS

There have been three eras in farm mechanics: human or hand-power prior to 1850; animal power, 1850-1910; and mechanical power, starting in 1910-1920 with continued expansion.

Two Minute Sermon (By Thomas Hastwell)

The Poison of Selfishness: I met the other day, an individual who seemed to me to be most unhappy. His face gave every indication of a deep inward discontent and dissatisfaction with life. I asked a friend, after he was gone, what was the matter, what great burden of unhappiness he was carrying in his heart. "That man's trouble," he said, "is selfishness. All his life, he has been selfish, concerned only with himself, and with no regard at all for others. All his life he has made his family and himself unhappy because of it. The family is gone now and he is alone with himself." I thought, how strikingly it was shown in the face of this individual that a life of complete selfishness is the most unsatisfactory life anyone can live. Its poison kills every noble and generous impulse that might attempt to express itself. Such a life becomes smaller and smaller as the years come and go. What a contrast to the wholesome, generous life that seeks happiness in unselfishness. Such a life, instead of shriveling up within its own narrow self becomes bigger, and fuller, and happier, and more wholesome, with every passing day and year. It is the only life that brings real happiness and lasting contentment.

CUTTING THE PIE

In many cases, the biggest, or nearly the biggest, beneficiary of the money that corporations take in is the government.

This is well illustrated by the 1948 experience of a leading power and light utility. Its largest single item of expense was wages and salaries to 16,797 employees, which totaled $36,972,000. Its second largest was taxes, which came to $36,149,000. In other words the government received practically as much as the thousands of men and women whose work made the utility's service to millions of consumers possible. This fact is of particular significance when viewed in the light of the drive to socialize and destroy the heavily taxed private utilities and replace them with tax-subsidized and tax-free government systems.

Furthermore, in most industries the stockholder gets the smallest part of the financial pie. One of our best known manufacturing concerns provides an excellent example of this. Of each dollar of income, the company pays out 37 cents for wages, salaries and other benefits to its 196,798 employees. It pays 5.7 cents in taxes. But it pays only 3.1 cents in dividends to the stockholders who own it—not much more than half as much as the government gets, and less than a tenth as much as the workers get. Then the government finally gets another big cut through personal income taxes levied on

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that estimated monthly fire losses dropped to a new low for the year in July. Even so, the destruction during that month was just under $50,000,000.

For the first seven months of the year, our fire losses were about nine per cent less than in the same period in 1948. Yet the total was nearly $400,000,000.

What this means is that some encouraging progress has been made in fire prevention—but the waste is still disgracefully high and an enormous amount of work must be done in the future if it is to be effectively curbed. A part of the reduction in loss was undoubtedly due to the fact that material and commodity prices are lower this year than last, so there is not yet any reason for patting ourselves on the back.

There is another kind of fire loss whose money value cannot be computed. It lies in the destruction of natural resources—forests and recreation areas and the wildlife which inhabit them. We have had a number of forest fires this year, including one in which 13 paratroop fire fighters were burned to death. Due to dry conditions in many parts of the country, the danger period in the forests may last longer than usual. The responsibility that falls upon campers, hunters and picnickers in the woods should need no elaboration.

Private and governmental agencies have intensified their war against fire. They will be defeated unless the public—which means you, not just the people next door—joins wholeheartedly in the fight. Will you do it?

These are facts of public record, and they are typical of industry as a whole. The "bloated plutocrats" certainly don't get much of industry's financial fruits. —Industrial News Review.

STRENGTH IN COTTON FIBER

Cotton fiber, far finer than a human hair, has almost unbelievable strength in itself. Cotton fiber strength is approximately the same as that of structural steel. Cotton fibers have been tested which did not break under a pull of 100,000 pounds per square inch.

The odds in favor of a child being killed in an automobile accident are eight times greater than of his dying of polio. A child under 14 is twenty-three times more likely to be killed in some type of accident than he is to die of infantile paralysis. Present polio figures indicate that the total number of youngsters under 14 who will die this year of polio may rise to 600. Other tables indicate that 14,000 will be killed in accidents of all types.

WILDCAT PURRS

Hi students — How does it feel to wake up at the crack of dawn and breathe that fresh, crisp Dallas air before you've brushed the sand from your eyes? Brrr, cold isn't it? Perhaps it is early but look at all the new sights you see. Speaking of new sites, J. P. Bartley, an ex-senior of '49 left Monday morning to make his home in Prairie City, Oregon.

Peggy Eavenson and Floyd Oliver were seen around Friday and Saturday. Did you have a good time? Nile Bryant seemed to be hunting Josephine Halenak Saturday. Kay Cribbs seems to be interested in Hack Norman. What about this, Margaret? Mary Ermine Cooper thinks Kenneth Hopkins is tops.

Dorothy Wilson's heart beats for her OAO, Vernon McCurley. Why not give the other boys a chance? Virginia Tamplin has been playing catch with the new math teacher.

Just in case you wonder why Clara Jones was all smiles Thursday, it was because Pfc. Jack Brown was home from Ft. Lewis. Jack Henderson and Patsy Carroll have been whispering sweet nothings to each other lately.

We wonder who has been playing cupid for Billy Johnson since Rusty has been in the hospital? Has anyone else noticed Loretta Lyons making eyes at Donald Werley and Dwayne Cates in first period English class.

We wonder why Frankie Mabe was so happy Friday? Could it be that she got a letter from Farwell, Texas. (Old flames burn again).

Betty Brock was seen making the rounds Sunday night with Tommy O'Connell.

Seen over the week-end were Sharon Haney from Tech and Clifford Ohr from A and M. Joline and J. P. LaVerne and Billy Joe were seen double dating at the ball game Friday night for the last time.

The pep squad was turned into a reading library Friday night when several little books were taken out of different girls' purses and passed around.

LaVerne Farrar and her family had a narrow escape Sunday when she had an accident at a country crossroads. High weeds should be cut from intersections. If anybody wants to know who made the last two touchdowns Thursday night in the eighth grade game, just ask Betty Guthrie. Don't you think that Jane Cooper and Coy Payne make a cute couple?

We hear that Jean had a good time over at Wanda's Friday night.

We wonder if Vernon and Rodyn enjoyed the Fair over the week-end. (Parents along.)

Melba Ward and Layton Holt were trying to get a pass for Melba to get off of the band bus Friday night.

Marcia and Martin were seen taking in the picture show Sunday evening.

Has anyone else noticed Maurine's and F. L.'s little hats? Cute, agree? Agreed!

It seems as though Blackie, Kenneth, Lowell and Buddy have arranged a new version to "You're Breaking My Heart." It is now "You're Breaking My Back."

Don and Martha have called it quits for good, they say.

Mr. Sylvester seemed to be enjoying himself in Vernon Saturday night.

Jon Sanders, Kildee, Bubba and Bobby Jack were seen cruising around in Bobby's dad's convertible with the top down. That's what I call class. We might put in a kind word for Bubba's sun shades he had on, too. But it sure won't be class.

Have a heart, Bobby. Aren't you going to give Virginia another chance?

Everyone, don't forget that tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 21, is the last day you can pay your down payment on your annual.

We hear that V. W. Lattimer and Jimmy Clifford have quite an ability to eat cherry pie.

Billy, who is it that you were looking for the other night? Come on, Caddell, you can't keep it a secret always.

Another night of fun and dancing was enjoyed by some CHSites Saturday night at the Hill Crest Country Club in Vernon.

Say, Neva Lou, what were you carrying in your purse Saturday at the Fair.

We missed Sweetpea Owens in the halls of CHS Monday. She went to Wichita Falls to have her glasses fitted.

V. W. Lattimer wonders why Marcia Newland can't move back to Crowell because he did enjoy being with her over the week-end while she was visiting.

So long till next week. The Cat's Whiskers.

Charles Wishon was helping his father on the ranch by driving the chuck wagon. One day he reached home very late in the afternoon and Mr. Wishon demanded an explanation.

"Well, you see, Dad," said Charles, "on the way back to the house, I picked up a preacher and after that the horses couldn't understand a word I said."

Tommie: Jimmie admires everything about me—my voice, my hair and my eyes.

Violet: And what do you admire about Jimmie?

Tommie: His good taste.

Mr. Sylvester was in the barber chair to get a haircut. "Please remove your hat," said the barber. "Oh, are there ladies present?" asked Mr. Sylvester.

Mrs. Kenner (Teaching first aid to her class): What would be the first step if a child swallowed a pin?

Jean Hughston: Feed it a pin cushion.

Coach: You are a great player! The way you hammer the line, dodge, tackle your man and worm through your opponents is simply marvelous.

Rouse (modestly): I guess it comes from my early training, sir. You see, my mother used to take me shopping with her on bargain days.

Rosemary: Here's your ring. I love someone else.

Dee Powers: Who is he?

Rosemary: You're not going to kill him?

Dee: No, I'm going to try to sell him the ring.

Twenty-two months ago the printers of Chicago went out on a strike. They were receiving $85 a week and were demanding $100 a week. The strike was settled by the employers increasing their pay to $95 a week. The strike cost the workers $10,000,000. The publishers continued to print their pages from photographic plates prepared by girls. As a result of the strike large publishers have financed the working out of a system by which linotype operators may for the most part be eliminated from large daily newspaper printing plants.

Fifteen million war veterans will be entitled to a share in the two billion dollar insurance refund. The refund will equal 55 cents a month on each thousand dollars of insurance for each month the insurance was in force. Some refunds will amount to as much as $500. Payment is promised after the first of the year. The refund results from the fact that in determining the amount of the premium to be paid, the actuaries estimated the rate to be higher than was found necessary. The refund consists of the difference between what was actually required and what was paid in.

What We Think
(By Frank Dixon)

Britain is about to go broke and is calling upon us for more financial help. She is about out of money with which to pay for needed imports and cannot sell enough abroad to get the needed money. The request for more money from this country naturally provided a lively discussion in Congress, on the street and in the press of this country.

The British are sharply critical of the American press and take violent exception to the charges made in the American press that the condition of England and her inability to make recovery is due to the Socialist-Labor government now in control of the empire. The newspapers of Great Britain contend the economic state of the country is due entirely to the attrition caused by two wars and not to its Socialist-Labor government.

Briefly summed up there are two main reasons why England has not been able to make the recovery that might be expected of her under normal conditions.

First, the Socialist-Labor government has imposed upon industry and employers excessive taxes to support its social and welfare program.

These taxes are so oppressive that they all but strangle industry. Second, the conditions that have come into being since the Socialist-Labor government came into power have resulted in a marked let down in production and with a correspondingly higher labor cost. Labor under the benign protection of the Socialist-Labor government seems to have the idea that the way to recovery is less production at a higher cost.

The result of these two factors is that British industry, which must export its goods to other countries, if it is to produce food and other necessities, is unable to do so because its cost of production is such that it cannot sell its manufactured products in any market of the world.

In spite of all her protests against the criticism leveled at her by the press of this country England has a lot of cleaning up to do on her own doorstep before she will become self-sustaining. The unbecoming situation which the Socialist-Labor government has produced renders self-support difficult if not impossible. So far the leaders of the Socialist-Labor government refuse to recognize the fact that their theory of government is impractical and that the nation cannot continue to live under it. Its leaders seem to cooperate on the theory that the Socialist-Labor government theory must continue even though the country is economically destroyed.

Here is the situation that faces the Congress of this country: our leaders believe that if we give help to England we will pay for it in taxes for some time to come. If we don't give help, we will lose our export business to England since she won't have the money to buy our manufactured products. The loss of this business will result in unemployment in this country. In other words our money will be channeled from England, through our industries to American workers.

Help will probably be given if England meets some conditions such as devaluing the English pound, cutting high production costs, reducing trade barriers and generally cleaning house.

TRAGIC STORY

Socialism always creates far worse problems than those it is supposed to solve. As an instance of this, witness Britain's experience with her socialized coal mines.

A Scripps-Howard correspondent, writing from London, states that production and profits under socialism are increasing at a snail's pace. Britain probably will not meet this year's coal production quota set for her under the Marshall Plan. And the small gains she has made have cost so much that British coal is being priced out of world markets.

Labor is particularly disillusioned. Morale and discipline is poor, and general unrest and absenteeism are prevalent. Wildcat strikes cost England over a million tons of production last year. Fewer and fewer new workers are being recruited. The government has spent huge sums of money in order to put American methods of coal production into effect, yet the output per man has barely reached the pre-war level, when practically all the work was done with the pick and shovel.

By contrast, America's soft coal mines, where private enterprise still prevails, produce about six times as much per man day as the nationalized British industry — due principally to advanced mining methods. The American miner earns more than twice as much as his British counterpart, and is the aristocrat of industrial labor the world over.

Socialism may be an engaging theory. But it's a horse of a very different color in practice. It saps the vitality, the strength, and the economic resources of any people. The British coal mines are just part of that tragic story.

The average consumption of coffee in the United States has risen from 11 pounds per person in 1929 to nearly 20 pounds.

Of all the disasters that take human lives, nothing has yet been discovered that beats an American weekend holiday.

(By Sen. George Moffett)

There will be two elections of interest to you between now and Christmas. On November 8th, the people of Texas will vote upon ten proposed changes in our State Constitution, and will elect twenty-one members of the new state Board of Education. Early in December, cotton farmers will vote upon the establishment of the 1950 crop, and the acreage restrictions which go with it. The first election concerns Texas Governmental and School affairs only, while the second is held through the fourteen (14) cotton producing states, and is required by a national law, passed by the Federal Congress. I am intermittently asked what has Texas done about the cotton situation and the correct answer is that Texas as a state government has no connection with acreage reduction, quotas, etc. The State of Texas in the past three or four years has caused some research to be done to find new uses for cotton and the expansion of old ones. Research is slow work, but it has resulted to date in the usage of about one million more bales of cotton annually than would have otherwise been used. I was the author of the bill which got this research work going in Texas and it ought to be expanded, for the nylon and rayon manufacturers are constantly expanding their efforts to find new uses for these fabrics and have met with more success than is healthy for the cotton producer. If about five million additional bales of cotton could be consumed in the United States each year there would be no need for acreage reduction.

Among the ten proposed amendments to the constitution is one which provides that women may serve on juries in Texas, as they do in thirty-seven other states. Those who support this amendment say that women receive practically the same educational training in our schools and colleges as the men, go to the same picture shows, read the same newspapers, listen to the same radio and work along side men in most trades and occupations, and hence are as well qualified as men to serve on juries. They also can vote, just as men can. Those who oppose this amendment maintain that woman's place is in the home and not in the jury room. They also dwell on the point that every courthouse in Texas will have to be remodelled, as has occurred in other states, so that separate and suitable sleeping quarters will be available for women jurors, that are retained overnight, as is often done in lengthy criminal cases. It has already developed that some women are opposed to this amendment (the last one on the ballot) while a considerable number of men are for it.

The other nine amendments will be discussed in succeeding articles. It is to be hoped that a large number of people will go to the polls. The best way to insure good government is for a high percentage of the people to take part in it.

home town, shouting and shooting a pistol into the air. He was arrested and charged with unlawfully carrying a pistol.

The charge read, in part, as follows: "... that Joe did, on or about the 4th day of October, 1939, in the County of Harrison, the State of Texas, then and there unlawfully, on or about his person, carry a pistol..."

Joe was brought to trial, but then the charge was dismissed and he was released.

The reason for this action was that the word "and" should have been used instead of the word "or" in the sentence about "did then and there, on or about his person, carry a pistol." Joe couldn't be convicted of the charge because the court ruled this should have read, "did then and there, on or about his person, carry a pistol."

Technicalities like that one often defeat justice. The State Bar is working for the elimination of such technicalities by seeking to bring about revision of Texas' criminal statutes.

Weekly Sermon

WHOSE FAULT IS IT?
By Hallaren King, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

Have you ever heard something like this—"Oh, I used to pray, but I never got an answer, so I don't bother doing it anymore." Perhaps you yourself have said words to this effect.

Do you ever wonder why there is such seemingly fruitless prayer? First of all, if you will search your Bible you'll find God has not promised to answer your prayer unless you are a child of His. The only cry of those who aren't His that He will answer, is that asking Him to be merciful and to save for Jesus' sake. In Isaiah 59:2 we read, "Your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid His face from you, that He will not hear."

Once we have accepted Jesus Christ—not only man but also God—as our Saviour and Redeemer and have had our sins forgiven through faith in His shed blood, we are on praying ground, but not until then.

But that isn't all. There are other conditions to be met, in order to have our petitions granted. "And this is the confidence that we have in Him, that if we ask anything according to His will, He heareth us: and if we know that He hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desire of Him (I John 5: 14, 15). The Bible doesn't say God will answer your every whim and selfish desire. He is righteous and just, and only your requests that are in His will shall be answered in the affirmative.

Then don't forget I John 3:22, "And whatsoever we ask, we receive of Him, because we keep His commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in His sight." There is more than asking in prayer; we must be in right relationship with the Father.

The next time you complain of God's not answering prayer, stop a minute. Check up. You'll often find the fault is yours!

R. H. Cooper IV Weds Miss May in Vernon on October 12th

Robert H. Cooper IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cooper III, of Thalia, and Miss Verna Deanne May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert W. May of Vernon, were married at 5 p. m., October 12, in the chapel of the First Methodist Church of Vernon.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Marshall Rhenw, pastor of the church, before an archway, with a white satin kneeling bench, flanked by baskets of white gladioli and asters and tiers of tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a tarnished gold velveteen two-piece suit with a matching shaped helmet hat and brown reptile skin shoes. The skirt of the suit flared softly and the fitted jacket had a covered button closing. She carried an arm bouquet of tansman glameila.

Bettie Jo May, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of wine satin with a quilted satin collar outlining the low neckline. She carried yellow peni-mums.

Jane Cooper, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore an aqua velveteen street length dress trimmed in seed pearls. Her flowers were similar to those of the maid of honor. Duane Capps of Thalia served as the groom's best man. Waldon Johnson and Edgar Long were ushers.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Ann Thomas sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Guy Puckett at the organ. As the bridal party entered, Mrs. Puckett played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin and "Claire De Lune" was played softly during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the recessional.

The bride's mother wore a dress of black crepe with a corsage of white carnations and peni-mums. Mrs. Cooper, mother of the groom, wore a brown dress suit with matching brown accessories. Her flowers were the same as the bride's mother's.

A reception followed in the parlors of the church. The white three-tiered cake, topped with a bell arch, centered the white maderia linen cloth-covered table, with arrangements of white gladioli, tapers and crystal. Fuschia and bronze dahlias decorated the reception room.

For her going-away costume, Mrs. Cooper wore a shoulder corsage of orchids on her velveteen dress and carried a brown bag and gloves. Following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Fort Worth and Dallas.

Mr. Cooper has been with the U. S. Air Corps since April, 1948, and has participated in the air-lift operations in Frankfurt, Germany. He is a 1947 graduate of Crowell High School and attended a business college. The bride is a former employee of Rogers Abstract Co. in Vernon. She is a graduate of Vernon High School with the class of 1947 and attended N. T. S. C. at Denton.

Dan Pechacek and Miss Green Marry on October 5th

Joseph Daniel Pechacek and Miss Jackie Louise Green were wed in a morning ceremony read by the Rev. Father John Duesman in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Abilene on Wednesday, October 5.

The bride is a cousin of Bates Lowry Hoffer Jr. who gave her in marriage and the bride-groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pechacek of Crowell. The couple was united in double ring rites as they knelt before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and pink roses.

The bride wore a dark blue suit with cocoa blouse and cocoa accessories. She carried a bouquet of Tansman roses.

Miss Dorothy Pechacek of Quannah, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a brown suit with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Warren Wilson of Vernon was best man and Bob O'Laughlin of Abilene served as usher.

Judy Galbraith and the St. Joseph Academy choir sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" accompanied by Sister Tarcisius, organist, who also played traditional wedding music.

A wedding breakfast was given for the bridal couple in the home of Mrs. Carleta Cogdell of Abilene. Upon their return from a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Abilene.

The bride, a 1947 graduate of a Dallas high school, has been employed by the National Biscuit Co., while Mr. Pechacek, a graduate of Crowell High School, is employed by the West Texas Utilities Co. in Abilene.

Rose Theme Stressed at Garden Club Meet

Mrs. R. L. Hunt, president of the Crowell Garden Club, presided at the meeting last Friday, when 35 members gathered at the Community House and enjoyed a program stressing roses, their care, growth and treatment.

Reports of the various chairmen and the adoption of the By-Laws and Constitution as recently revised, occupied the business session.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Sub-Junior Adelpian Club for the donation of the nice card tables to the Community House. The same gesture was made to the members of the Garden Club year book committee who were responsible for the clever year books, distributed at this time.

Mrs. George Carlile was leader of the day's program, and presented Mrs. L. A. Andrews who gave a most interesting talk on "The Story of the Rose," concluding with some remarks on the subject, "If you're planting roses."

Mrs. Claude Callaway chose as her subject, "Roses for the Home," and proved herself a most well-informed rose grower, as the rose garden in her yard substantiates.

At the conclusion of the program, the hostesses for the day, Mesdames M. M. Welch, Maude Rasberry, Ray Duckworth, J. H. Shults and L. Kamstra, served a delicious dessert course to the guests. The tea table was covered with a white linen cloth, centered with a madonna vase holding an artistic arrangement of red, white and pink roses. Mrs. Rasberry presided at the coffee and tea service.

On November 4, the Crowell Garden Club will be hosts to the Quannah Garden Club at a one o'clock luncheon, at the Community House.

His ancestors were from the north of Ireland. The family name, originally Pollock, was shortened to Polk. Polk graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1818. He then went to Nashville where he engaged in the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1820. Three years later he was elected to the state House of Representatives and in 1825 was elected to the national House of Representatives. He was Speaker of the House in the Twenty-Fourth and Twenty-Fifth Congresses. During his term, he supported the policies of the administrations of Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren who succeeded Jackson in the presidency. After serving fourteen years in Congress he was elected Governor of Tennessee in 1839. He was defeated for election in 1841 and again in 1842. He was defeated for the presidency by William Henry Harrison in 1840. In 1844 he was again candidate for the presidency and was elected over Clay by a narrow margin. During his term the dispute with England over the Northwest boundary line was settled and the war with Mexico which resulted in the acquisition of California and Mexico, was fought. He favored a tariff for revenue and was opposed to the expenditure of public money for improvements such as the improvement of harbors, rivers and roads. He died in Nashville on June 10, 1849, a little more than two months after the expiration of his term as President.

County clerks in a number of counties in Kansas have succeeded in getting considerable property on the tax rolls of the counties by checking the cars of their owners who secured licenses for the year with the assessor's report the same year. In some counties it was found that as many as car owners had failed to report their cars to the assessor's taxes.

Only in America do seven of ten farm families drive to town in their own cars.

Lanier gave a drill of posture and Bobbie Abston and Betty Barker played a piano duet. Mary Alice Rader gave a report on the Federation Counselor.

The next meeting will be on October 26 which will be in the form of a social meeting, the first of the year.
