Agent Tells How to Remove Odors from Home Freezers

If your home freezer accumulates unpleasant odors from spoiled food, you may have difficulty removing them.

Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent, suggests several methods of dispelling the odor from the freezer. First, try washing all the interior surfaces of the freezer with plenty of soap and water. Then go over them with a cloth wrung from clear water. Wipe dry. If this doesn't dispel the odor, wash the freezer with soda water, using 1 teaspoon baking soda to each quart of warm water. If the odor persists, try using about 1 cup to a gallon of water, or household ammonia in the same proportions.

But if none of these suggestions prove effective, don't give up. Put something like a charcoal or electric heater inside the freezer to heat. Then use an electric fan for about 2 hours to get the air out.

The agent says activated charcoal in the warm freezer will absorb odors released by the freezer. If a commercial, wick-type freshener may be used.

When the odor has been moved or reduced to where there is no consequence, the agent suggests a final washing of the surfaces of the freezer with water. Activated charcoal for a while will pick up any residual odor.

other kinds of obligations may be deferred, the owners may get nothing on their investment—but the worker is always paid in full.

This is as it should be. The old saying that the laborer is worthy of his hire has literally found its reflection in the law and in universal business practice. It is indicative of the place that labor holds in our free enterprise system under a representative form of government. In most businesses, the payroll is the largest single item of expense aside from the purchase of materials and supplies—and much of the money for those requirements winds up in pay envelopes all over the country.

Labor in America gets more money than labor anywhere else. It has far better living standards. It receives many valuable benefits—unemployment compensation, pensions, old age payments, sickness compensation, and so on. No group has a greater stake in the American economy and the American system of doing things.

THE TREND IS TOWARD JUDGE FRANK IKARD FOR CONGRESSMAN

The Gainesville Daily Register, first daily paper in the district to endorse any candidate, said Friday, August 24, 1951:

"IKARD FOR CONGRESS"

"That District Judge Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls is the best selection for election to the office of Congressman from the 13th District is the belief of the Daily Register.

"Judge Ikard is a man of imposing appearance, a forceful speaker and of a friendly disposition.

"He is opposed to socialized medicine and socialization of any business, profession, labor or industry. He opposes any national scheme for education. He supports state rights and state ownership of the tidelands.

"He is in favor of government economy and elimination of all non-essential spending. And he favors a strongly developed foreign policy designed to secure world peace."

The second daily paper in the district, the Denton Record-Chronicle, to openly endorse any candidate, said on August 30, 1951, on its editorial page:

"ANALYZING THE CANDIDATES: IKARD IS BEST MAN TO REPRESENT DISTRICT"

"Judge Ikard has a splendid background for the job which has already been outlined in the Record-Chronicle. He is a dignified, high-type gentleman with a good Democratic Party record of the more conservative type and would be a man the citizens of this district could probably depend on for several years of good constructive service in the Halls of Congress."

Health Letter

State Department of Health, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

Texas farmers and ranchmen in the Red River Valley and in Southwest and Central Texas have been warned to be especially vigilant against skunk rabies in barns and outhouses.

The rabies morbidity report is something new in disease control. Modeled after the method used to keep tabs on cases of human communicable diseases, it is part of the general protection the state health agency is providing.

For July the report shows: 77 dogs, 6 foxes, 6 cats, 4 skunks, 4 calves, 3 pigs, 2 civit cats, and 1 cow were diagnosed as rabid at the state Bureau of Laboratories.

Bexar and Harris counties were hardest hit during July. Each reported one case of dog rabies each day of the month.

Tampa, Fla. — As she was greeting a few friends who had gathered to help her celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday, Mrs. Eve McGrew suddenly said, "Here, take my glasses," and fell to the floor. At a hospital she was pronounced dead of a heart attack.

Farmers Urged to Take Part in Meetings of Dept. of Agriculture

College Station — Farmers and others interested in long time improvement of agriculture are urged to take part in the meetings now being held throughout the state for the purpose of reviewing the programs and policies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

County Agricultural Mobilization Committees are in charge of the meetings and discussions in the counties. Membership on these committees is composed of representatives from state and Federal agencies who work with rural families. Officials of the USDA point out that the population of the nation is growing steadily and by the end of the century is expected to be near 200 million, or approximately double the 1900 total.

Then, too, most of the country's arable land already is under cultivation and the extra food and fiber needed to feed and clothe the growing population must come from increased acreage yields and more efficient production.

This increased agricultural production must come from the family farms for they make up almost 98 per cent of the nation's total. These are the farms which are operated by family units and supply the bulk of the family's income, with the family providing most of the labor needed on the farm.

It is the family farm operators and their families, therefore, that are now being asked to make suggestions for improving the services and programs of the USDA. The best suggestions for dealing with local farm problems come from local farmers and all are urged to attend and participate in the meetings being called in the communities. The recommendations from these meetings and discussions may form the basis for improved farm programs and assurances to the millions that America's family farms can provide the nation's future needs of food and fiber.

How well white shoes survive the summer depends considerably on how they are cleaned, clothing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say. Shoes make a dent in any family's clothing budget, and white shoes, which take so much cleaning, need to be treated so that they will last and look well.

A good time to clean or polish is in the evening, the specialists say, so that shoes will be thoroughly dry for the morning's wear and have a firm finish to resist soil. Because moist leather is weak and easily stretched out of shape, liquid cleaner should not be applied to shoes on the feet—or just before wearing. A damp surface also has the disadvantage of soiling easily.

First step in cleaning is to brush off dust, mud, and old, dry cleaner. The dressing or polish best to use depends on the type of shoes. No one preparation suits all white shoes. The label should tell the kind of leather or fabric on which the preparation is to be used. Generally, white shoe soap is best for smooth leather because it cleans without drying or hardening leather. Cleaning powder may be better than liquid cleaner for white suede or other napped leather. Dressing that contains whitening or chalk may be used successfully on cloth shoes, but, before applying, brush off the leavings of previous applications.

Shoes worn without stockings need cleaning inside as well as out, unless protected by socks that fit inside shoes. Rub out the inside of shoes frequently with a cloth moistened with soapy water, but take care not to get shoes wet with too much water. Powder in shoes helps against perspiration damage.

H. D. Agent Tells How to Cook on a Stick

Have you and your family ever tried cooking on a stick? That is a good way to cook meals out of doors, and Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent, suggests it as an easy way.

What kind of a stick? Mrs. Brown suggests a strong green twig, about one-fourth inch thick, sharpened to a point at one end. Or, if you prefer, make a skewer of heavy wire or have your guests make them when they come to eat.

Now for the food. The agent says you have many possibilities for the food in your meal on a stick. You can have different combinations like beef, tomatoes, bacon and onion. Cut the beef in cubes, quarter the tomatoes, fold the bacon, and slice the onions for the stick.

Have a bed of hot coals, or a very low fire in the barbecue furnace, and hold the stick or skewer of pieces of food over the coals, turn slowly and cook until done. The time depends on how near to the hot coals you hold the stick.

Complete the meal with a tossed salad and a good dessert with fruit punch or iced tea, and your meal on a stick will become a popular feature of outdoor cooking.

WEEDS AND MEN

From Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

"If I have made any worthy contribution to the world," Luther Burbank once remarked, "It is the advancement and proof of the great principle in botany that a plant degenerated by the conditions of nature does not have to remain degenerate."

"Does that not apply to human beings as well?" he was asked.

"Yes," replied the great botanist. "Heretofore, in the plant world, when we have found a dwarfed plant or a weed or fruit that seemed to have degenerated until it was worthless, we have assumed God meant it to remain so, or it would never have reached that deplorable state. So we allowed it to remain a useless thing — a down-and-out — a parasite on plant life, an obnoxious, ill-smelling outcast — but I have enunciated and proved the principle that there is no plant so great an outcast that it cannot with skill and care be reclaimed."

The above conversation with Luther Burbank was recorded some twenty-five years or more ago. Good illustration of God's grace and power in the gospel! Men who have been defeated by sin have heard of God's gift of eternal life in Jesus Christ, and receiving Him have found life transformed.

No illustration of Scripture truth is ever exact and this one comes short. For the sinner who comes to Christ by faith there is improvement and more—there is a new life. It is not reformation, but transformation. "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away, behold, all things are become new." (II Cor. 5:17).

Survey Proves Texans Like New York City

New York — Nearly 158,000 Texas residents will visit here this year, a New York City hotel survey indicated recently.

"During the year, New York's population will be swelled by 13,000,000 out-of-towners who will spend well over a billion dollars seeing the big-city sights," declared Floyd W. Jefferson, president of the New York Board of Trade, in commenting on the 1951 travel season.

Ranking in popularity with the Statue of Liberty, Times Square and the Empire State Building as favorite attractions are the RCA Exhibition Hall in Radio City, where visitors view a free display of the latest electronic wonders and can see themselves on television; Rockefeller Center, a complete modern community within itself, and the new United Nations Building, which looks as though it were made of glass.

A good indication of the comparative popularity of various tourist centers is seen in attendance figures. The survey revealed that approximately 450,000 people take the tour of Rockefeller Center each year. The RCA Hall attracts 1,250,000, while another 600,000 view the Museum of Modern Art. More than 200,000 visitors annually ride the sightseeing yachts around Manhattan Island.

The estimate of the number of visitors from Texas was based on a hotel survey conducted over a one-year period.

The survey showed that June is the most popular month for Texas visitors. They stay an average of four days and spend about $100 each in New York, it was reported.

"Guys and Dolls" to Show at State Fair October 6 through 21

"Guys and Dolls," the nation's top musical comedy sensation, will be the Auditorium attraction for the 1951 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 6-21. There will be 24 performances of the show.

Tickets can be ordered by mail beginning Aug. 13. The mail order sale will last through Sept. 9, when the box office will open.

Allan Jones, movie and radio singing star who is familiar to Southwestern theater fans through his appearances in summertime musicals here, is starred in the role of Sky Masterson.

Others in the cast include Jan Clayton as Sgt. Sarah Brown, Pamela Britton as Miss Adelaide, Julie Oshins as Nathan Detroit and "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom as Big Jule.

The show is a tuneful, witty concoction that spoofs the assorted characters that hang around the bright lights along Broadway. It was adapted from short stories by Damon Runyon.

Some of the more popular songs from the show are "A Bushel and a Peck," "If I Were a Bell," and "I've Never Been in Love Before."

The story of the show is really one of two guys and two dolls—Nathan Detroit and his 15-year betrothal to Miss Adelaide of the honky-tonks, and Sky Masterson and his sudden love and redemption through Sgt. Sarah Brown, a fervent Salvation Army lass.

"Guys and Dolls" is the winner of the annual Donaldson Award as the best musical of the 1950-51 theatrical season and is the popular successor to "South Pacific," that broke all kinds of records at the state fair last year.

The national edition of "Guys and Dolls," now appearing in Los Angeles, has been described by critics as "even better than the New York production." Dallas will be the show's only appearance in this part of the country. From the fair, the show moves to Chicago.

Sunday and Thursday of the fair. Mail orders should be sent to P. O. Box 7755, Dallas, Texas. Ticket prices are $4.90, $4.30, $4.00, $2.80, $2.20 and $1.30. Each order should include 25 cents to cover handling and mailing costs. Prices include admission to the fairgrounds.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. American . . .
Don't let anybody tell you that, if I'm elected this year, I cannot be reelected next year. This story, and other rumors, are being circulated by agents of the Fair Dealers because they are scared to death that an anti-Fair-Deal congressman will go to Washington who will really fight their corrupt machine.
This time, I will be able to serve you in the House for one full year. During that time, I will have built up a congressional record that you and your family can be proud of. When I return next year, I will be able to stand on that record with pride, and I know that then, as now, you won't have a single doubt in your mind to reflect a congressman who has kept his promises and who has fought for your principles, for your freedom, and for your individual rights.
In May, 1950, another special election was held. Ben Guill of Pampa was elected Republican congressman for the 18th District. Ben was able to serve five months in the House before he had to return home and start campaigning all over again in order to be reelected. In the meantime, his "Democratic" opponent, Walter Rogers, for five solid months, campaigned against Ben on a strictly anti-administration platform.
Yes, while campaigning, Walter Rogers played the role of a strictly anti-administration candidate; he was as strongly opposed to the Fair Deal as Ben was. He, too, was against compromises, corruption, inflation, and higher taxes. For this reason only, the supposedly conservative, anti-administration "Democratic" candidate, Walter Rogers, beat Ben Guill in the general election by 2,000 votes.
Then, a typical professional political switch took place. The moment this man Rogers arrived in Washington he reported to Sam Rayburn; he has worked for the Fair Dealers ever since, and has voted with them 90 per cent of the time.
This confidence trick took place in the 18th Congressional District only a year ago. It must not happen here. It must not happen to you.
Don't be fooled by the platforms of my opponents. The very party my opponents have allegiance to, is against the very platforms that are being preached to you. If you vote for any one of my opponents, Harry Truman MUST believe that you are showing, once again, blind approval of his primrose path into the land of socialism.
Is that your desire? What else CAN Harry Truman think? All he wants from you is another Democratic congressman, any kind of a Democrat. All he wants from you is another vote to increase his power. Is that your desire? Do you want to send a congressman to Washington whose boss will be Sam Rayburn?
How can you show the Fair Dealers that you are disgusted with corruption, reckless spending, higher taxes, and the big steal of our tidelands, if you send a congressman to Washington who is a member of the Fair Deal party, and whose every wish will be denied if he doesn't play ball with Bill Boyle and his Pengergast gang?
There is only one way to register your protest, and that is to vote for the only anti-Fair Deal candidate, the only anti-administration candidate. Let us all tell Harry Truman, "This is the end of the line."
I just cannot sit by any longer and watch our country being destroyed economically from within, and being outfoxed from without. This is the eleventh hour. If we do not return to sanity now, we may never have that chance again.
The road back can start right here, Saturday, September 8th. Let us show the whole country that we Texans refuse to continue to vote for the new socialistic wolf, the wolf that gobbled up the old traditional donkey.
Let us show the whole country, by our individuality, that we demand the return of a government that will conduct the affairs of this country, once again, according to our traditional constitution. With God's help, we will succeed.
Yours sincerely,

Starved Land Does Not Produce, County Farm Agent Says

Plants need plenty of the right kind of food in order to thrive and produce profitable yields. It is not possible, says Joe Burkett, County Agent, to produce good crops unless sufficient amounts of the right plant foods are available, regardless of how good the seed or cultural methods used.

In addition to the plant food, plants also need a good home in which to live and lots of water to drink. Burkett says, one of the best ways to provide these important items is to feed the land by planting inoculated and fertilized legumes. Legumes not only furnish plant food—especially the high priced and badly needed nitrogen they get from the air—but also make a better home for the crops that follow them. The action of the organic matter supplied by legumes when plowed under improves the tilth of the soil, increases bacterial action and provides more water by increasing the water holding capacity of the soil.

Burkett points out that the test of any program aimed at increasing crop yields and farm profits come with results and cites as examples of research findings and hundreds of Extension Service demonstrations as proof that it pays to feed the land. Cotton yields on the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations at Nacogdoches and Tyler were increased by more than 100 pounds of lint per acre and corn yields doubled when planted following inoculated and fertilized hairy vetch.

At the Temple Station in the blackland area, cotton, following Hubam sweetclover, which was harvested for seed, produced a five year average of 315 pounds of lint per acre as compared with a yield of 165 pounds per acre from cotton grown continuously without clover. The yields of corn, oats, barley and wheat following clover were also increased.

Aside from increased yields, certain of the legumes also provide the best known method for controlling cotton root rot. The use of sweetclover in the rotation plan for the farm is Burkett's suggestion for controlling this disease. The recommended varieties of sweetclovers for Foard County are Hubam and Madrid.

Hairy vetch, winter peas and other legumes also increase yields and reduce root rot losses but are not as effective as sweetclover. This is due to the fact that the clovers with their extensive and deep root system opens up the soil and this in turn permits better soil aeration, allowing faster and deeper water penetration, in addition to adding nitrogen and organic matter. This leaves the soil in a very favorable condition to produce.

Letter from Brooklyn Housewife Gives Red Cross Flood Slogan

Washington, D. C. — A Brooklyn housewife's vivid recollection of childhood days in Mississippi and a narrow escape from death when flood waters wiped out an entire village prompted her to write a letter to President Truman which resulted in the adoption of a national slogan by the American Red Cross in its special appeal for $5,000,000 for flood relief.

"Give a Disaster Dollar to Meet Human Needs," the slogan which Red Cross chapters throughout the nation began using recently grew out of a letter which Mrs. Amelia McKenna, 377 Argyle Road, Brooklyn, N. Y., sent to Mr. Truman on July 18. Mrs. McKenna is a fashion copywriter and industrial design artist in addition to home-maker. Her letter was turned over to the Red Cross by Raymond M. Foley, federal flood relief administrator.

In urging that every American contribute "A Disaster Dollar," Mrs. McKenna told of passing through a small Mississippi country town and being greeted by a group of happy children playing in the street. A few hours later a levee broke and flood waters wiped out the entire village.

"To this day I experience the deep empty feeling of horror and disbelief following such disasters," she commented.

President E. Roland Harriman of the Red Cross said that Mrs. McKenna's letter and the resultant slogan should serve as an inspiration to millions of Americans. He urged everyone who has not yet contributed "A Disaster Dollar" do so promptly through local Red Cross chapters.

NOT AWAKE YET

Young people of the present generation have seen communism engulf country after country. When this takes place the citizen simply loses his right to be an individual. He works, acts, thinks, breathes and worships as the government tells him to.

Socialism and communism creep upon a nation before the masses are aware of what is happening. Quite often the people vote themselves into this form of political slavery through an entire lack of understanding of what they are doing. Out of sheer weariness they give up battling the relentless pressure of powerful political forces.

It has been said over and over again that such a situation cannot happen in the United States. But it is happening here now. Advocates of socialized electric power started in a small way with taxpayers' money after the first world war. Today they are using billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money to blanket the United States with nine super-valley authorities. They have managed to circumvent every attempt to limit their aggression on the rights of states and individuals. They escape state regulation, and state and Federal tax laws. As these tax-exempt monopolies expand, they destroy or prevent the normal growth of taxpaying private enterprise.

The true intent of the Federal power socialization program has now been made clear by the Tennessee Valley Authority. It started as an agency to furnish power as a by-product of a government flood control and navigation project. It will now spend in three years two-thirds of a billion dollars of public funds expanding its activities and building five giant steam plants to generate nearly 50 per cent of its annual power output. It is not bothered by corporation taxes, state income taxes, public service commissions or any of the other rules and regulations that apply to the average citizen and business.

Small Grain Leaders Fight Diseases

An educational program to fight diseases of small grains is being conducted this fall in Texas by agricultural leaders. The objective of the campaign is to reduce the annual losses which small grain producers suffer because of seed borne diseases and from planting seed that is mixed with weeds or other undesirable plants.

Proper seed treatment with a seed disinfectant can reduce the effects of seed borne diseases. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is taking an active part in the campaign and Joe Burkett, Foard County Agent, can supply information on how best to do the seed treating job. In view of the great need for the continued high production of all grain crops and the shortage of manpower on the farms of the state, it is highly important that all known steps be taken that can mean larger yields with the least amount of labor. Planting cleaned and treated seed will help.

Small Businesses to Get More Protection by New OPS Policies

Fort Worth — Small businesses will get further protection of their interests by the Office of Price Stabilization through new policies and standards adopted this past week, says Ellis H. Boyd, director of the district OPS office at Fort Worth.

WHY I, A DEMOCRAT, Will Vote for Joe Jackson, A REPUBLICAN

After checking the background of each candidate, and reading their declaration, I find that only two of them declared their faith in the Almighty God. All others claimed faith only in the Administration or the Government.

You may ask, what has this office got to do with God?

It has as much to do as if the sun would fail to shine any more.

A movement is now in progress to blot out all Church affiliation, as Christianity is not recognized under Communism.

Joe Jackson has expressed his faith in God, and for that reason I will cast my vote for him on Sept. 8th.

As he was under orders to go abroad, the ardent young soldier begged his girl friend to marry him at once. Rather worried about it, the girl sought advice from the maiden aunt who brought her up. "Tell me what you'd do, aunty," she asked. "I suppose you think it wouldn't be good sense to marry because I'm so young?" "Well, dear," said the aunt, "I dunno! If I had my time over again, I think I'd get married before I was old enough to have sense not to."

THE CHANCES FOR ANOTHER WAR

What are the chances of another world war? Testifying recently before a Congressional committee Gen. George C. Marshall was asked whether the likelihood of a global war was being considered. His reply was that "from the viewpoint of the enemy's buildup, it is increasing."

With this background the armed services want a budget of $60,000,000,000 for the year that began on July 1st, last. This does not include replacements for Korea or troops in Germany and Japan. Despite the amount involved the Navy and the Air Force will probably ask additional sums, especially the former if air groups are jumped from ninety-five to 150.

Apparently our military leaders have decided to proceed with the production of weapons and other "hardware." Nearly half of the proposed budget is allocated for supplies and paraphernalia of battle.

RED SCARE FRIGHTENS LIBERALS

The extent of the current phobia against liberal doctrines is illustrated by the experience of two newspapers which attempted to get people to sign a petition, containing extracts from the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights that form the first amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

There has been so much loose talk about "communists" and the "trend toward socialism" that many Americans are afraid to sign their names to any document, lest they be hauled before an investigating committee under accusation of being a Communist sympathizer. It is silly, of course, but it tends to prove that too many citizens are letting somebody else do their thinking for them.

There has been an astonishing letdown in the defense of the rights of individuals in the United States. Because of the over-emphasis placed upon a few Communists, most of them concentrated in a few states, the average American has been almost convinced that the only way to protect the freedom of this country is to abandon our ideals of individual liberty.

It should not be overlooked that the Communist-scare has been used extensively by conservative propagandists in this country to create suspicion of all liberal legislation. It has been used as a sort of smear campaign against anybody who suggests that improvements can be made in our economic and social orders. It has been a whip to belabor almost any proposal to take care of laboring people and to fool the people into supporting reactionary legislation.

THE NATION HAS TO TAX SOMEBODY

Every time the hard-pressed Congressmen attempt to find some source of revenue to enable the government to meet its tremendous expenses, there are loud objections and pessimistic prophecies of what will happen if the tax is voted.

The National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce are among the first to yell disaster when any tax threatens to touch the pocketbooks of manufacturers or business men. The same story is heard about almost any tax that touches any object. It is asserted by paid representatives of the associations that the result will be utter ruin and that the producer will be priced out of the market.

This is the natural reaction of nearly everybody but what the critics seem to overlook is that the government has to have money and to get money there must be taxation. It would be nice for the manufacturers and business men if all the taxation could be borne by the consumer but, before the government gets what it needs for defense and other operations, there will be additional taxation for everybody.

Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce Is Non-Political

Officials of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce have called attention to a paid political advertisement in the August 30 issue of this newspaper bought by Elmer Parish in behalf of Walter Jenkins, candidate for congress, 13th congressional district, which carried a commendation from the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Officials of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce called attention to the fact that the commendation was dated January 17, 1950, and was given to Mr. Jenkins at that time on the occasion of a visit to Wichita Falls by the former Secretary for Air, Stuart W. Symington. Symington declared SAFB a permanent installation on this occasion, and Jenkins, who was then assistant to Senator Lyndon Johnson, was a member of the visiting party. Officials of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce point out this commendation has no connection with the present political campaign and should not be construed as an endorsement or recommendation. Under its state charter as a civic development organization, the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce is a non-political organization and has no authority to state political preferences, and none of the actions of its members should ever be so construed, the officials said.

The political advertisement was run without the knowledge or consent of any official of the Chamber of Commerce.

HELP FLOOD DISASTER FUND

In an effort to relieve the suffering and distress of the victims of the Midwest flood disaster, the American Red Cross is asking the people of the United States to make contributions to its emergency relief fund.

While the fund has passed well above the $2,000,000 mark, the estimated total cost of relief is around $10,000,000, which is nearly double the sum originally thought necessary.

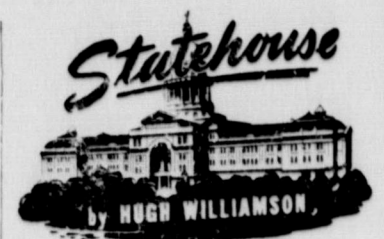

While the Federal government will probably seek to work out a river-management program, nothing in the future meets the present need of the people in the flood stricken areas. They must have food, shelter and clothing now and no legislation in the future will take care of them today.

If the reader of this article, like many others, has assumed that there is no urgency in the appeal of the American Red Cross, it is time to think again. Promptness in contributing your gift, will add to the efficacy of your gift.

There is no method of accurately forecasting the future, but the past, if carefully studied, will give you more than a haphazard view.

Austin, Texas — If you were visiting your capital city for the first time in a couple of years, you would notice a few changes.

The skyline is growing. A wave of construction began when E. H. Perry and his associates erected the Commodore Perry Hotel, a modern, first class establishment. Then they added the Perry-Brooks office building across the street in downtown Austin.

Nearly, an insurance company is putting up its tall home office building. The Capital National Bank will soon move into new quarters, extended from its own building which old-timers will remember as the Norwood Building.

The Brown Building, named for Herman Brown of the well-known construction firm of Brown & Root, is adding stories.

These are a few of the outstanding examples of construction. Austin is growing rapidly in population. Several factors contribute to this growth. Of course, the capital and the university have always been the backbone of Austin's development.

Because this is the capital of the state, nearly a hundred statewide trade associations are located here.

The State Teachers Association has its headquarters in a handsome new building. The State Medical Association is constructing a large headquarters.

Another factor in the city's growth is Bergstrom Air Force Base, home of jet planes that swirl through the sky.

Further expansion of the city may take place with the annexation of several suburbs.

Austin's population, which went above 130,000 in the last census, is far greater today and still climbing at a rapid rate.

So fast has been the population climb that utilities and other services are hard-put to keep up with the demand.

The telephone company, for example, received a permit two years ago to raise its rates.

Since that time the company has spent $4 1/2 million to expand its plant. Now, the company is asking for a further increase.

Telephone company officials explain that Austin's growth is far more than anything they had anticipated, and that additional revenue is imperative to make possible the installation of more equipment.

In the residential areas, new houses are going up by the hundreds, and have been for the past several years.

Some areas that were pretty much isolated a few years ago are now well-developed, complete with community shopping centers.

These are some of the things you'll want to see the next time you come to Austin.

If you haven't been here for ten or fifteen years, you'll hardly know the place.

PLENTY EXPENSIVE

During the first half of this year, the gross revenues of the electric utility companies were some 10 per cent greater than in the comparable period of 1950. But net income was down about four per cent. This situation is almost entirely due to the increase in Federal income taxes. The utility's tax bill for those six months amounted to approximately $575,000,000—rate well in excess of $1,000,000,000 a year. Several important deductions can be made from this fact, and one of them has to do with the enormous difference between taxing private enterprise in the electric power field, and the socialized power projects carried on by the government. The taxpayers don't subsidize the business-managed utilities—they must pay all their bills whether they earn adequate profits or not. And those

THE OTHER SIDE

A short time ago President Truman wrote a long letter to a Senator protesting against certain changes that had been made in the Interior Department's new appropriation bill. He was especially concerned with an amendment which was designed to prevent Interior, and its sub-agencies, from constructing transmission lines to carry electric power from government plants when arrangements could be made for moving it over the existing lines of utility companies. He also opposed cuts that were made in Interior's budget affecting government power development. These actions, he wrote, "would seriously restrict the operation of Federal hydro-electric power projects for the national defense and in the public interest." The President is entitled to his views, and it is his prerogative to urge Congress to carry them out. However, there is another side to this important controversy, and a great many thoughtful people subscribe to it. How, in the name of common sense and simple justice, can the public interest be served by squandering huge sums of money and vast quantities of critical materials on the construction of transmission lines which would simply duplicate lines that are already in existence and are capable of transporting the juice to the consumer at the lowest possible cost? And how in the name of common sense and simple justice can the public interest be served by pouring more money down the bottomless rat hole of socialized power development when the heavily-taxed, publicly-regulated utilities can and will build whatever new plants and related facilities are needed—and pay taxes on them. The strongest kind of a case can be made for far heavier cuts in government power appropriations than have so far been proposed—and for iron-clad Congressional restraints on Interior and the other departments which are seeking to socialize enterprise, at a murderous cost to the people.

ANOTHER POLITICAL LUXURY

Representative James C. Auchincloss of New Jersey, a member of the House Public Works Committee, recently said on the floor of the House that it has been demonstrated conclusively that construction of the St. Lawrence Waterway and Power Project is not in the best interests of national defense or necessary for transporting iron ore from Labrador to the Great Lakes. He said further that the project would cost hundreds of millions of dollars and would be "definitely inflationary." Mr. Auchincloss went into some detail in showing how existing railroads are able to take care of the transportation needs of the region which the waterway would serve and emphasized that the job can be handled "without the expenditure of any money by the government and with the expenditure at this time of no scarce materials and manpower." He was especially critical of the waterway as a defense project. Its 15 locks and two dams would be highly vulnerable to sabotage or enemy air action. Severe damage would stop all traffic for a long time and destruction of the dams would probably put the system out of service for the entire duration of a war.

Mr. Auchincloss also called attention to the fact that the proposed channel would be only 27 feet deep—which means that only about 441 per cent of foreign vessels and less than 10 per cent of American vessels could use it when fully loaded. A deeper channel is not advocated by the waterway's proponents, he said, for the reason that its cost "would be so great that Congress would then readily recognize that the proposed project could never have an economic justification."

In short, the St. Lawrence is just one more unnecessary political project which should be shelved and forgotten.

business-managed utilities must pay ever-increasing taxes, regardless of what that does to their net earnings—while the socialized power systems either pay no taxes of any kind, or make relatively insignificant "donations" to local government. In no case, of course, do they pay a single penny in Federal taxes.

The politicians talk about the "cheap power" the socialized plants provide. It is "cheap" only because it is tax-free and tax-subsidized in many ways. Actually, if an honest accounting were ever made, it would be shown up for what it is—extremely expensive power, paid for in part out of every citizen's pocket. Socialism always comes high!

H. D. Agent Tells How to Make a Braided Rug

Can you make a braided rug? Do you know how wide to tear the strips of material? "From Rags to Rugs" is an Extension Service publication answering this question and many others about rug making, says Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent. Braided rugs are suitable for any room of the house if they harmonize with other furnishings, but they are particularly practical for a bedroom floor.

Braided rugs may be made of old woolen blankets and garments. Corduroy makes a beautiful braided rug. Wool, cotton, silk and linen can all be used, according to Mrs. Brown, but only the material of the same fiber should be used in a rug. Regardless of the type of material used, it must be cleaned before it is torn into strips.

Directions are given for cutting or tearing the material on the straight of the goods into even strips which will work up into a braid about one inch wide. The weight of the material is the guiding factor in deciding on the exact width of the braid to be used in the rug, so it is well to cut a few widths and try braiding them in order to decide if the braid will be what you want.

Braids too small are tedious to sew together and are apt to make the rug cup on the floor. Braids too large give an unattractive and coarse appearance, and make the rug hard to clean.

Now, for making the strips into braids: after you decide on the width and have the strips torn or cut, fold the raw edges to the center of the under side, then fold the strips down the center, making a strand of four thicknesses. This keeps the raw edges or ravelings from showing. Begin with strands of different lengths so no tow joinings will occur at the same place.

For further information on rugs, contact Mrs. Brown for a copy of the bulletin, "From Rags to Rugs."

PROFIT OR LOSS MARGIN

The operators of more than 700 stores, including chains, department stores and specialty shops, were recently asked what they thought their most acute problem would be in the near future. The majority of them gave it as mounting overhead expenses. Next in line they put customer price resistance.

What gives this particular significance is the idea, held by many people, that the retailers are having a field day in this time of high prices and big business volume. The fact is that the cost of carrying on a retail business—wages, rents, taxes, etc.—has gone up just as far, and in many cases farther, than the price level. And it is still going up.

This might not be of any great moment if retail profits were as fat as many of us seem to believe. Actually, those profits are very moderate, and the difference to the retailer between making money and losing his shirt is only a few cents out of each dollar of sales. Last year, for instance, the typical department store had a net profit of only 3.7 cents out of every dollar of income. And 1950 was a good year—much better than 1949, when the net was 2.7 cents. Reports issued by various food chains show that in this field the profit is not much more than one cent on the sales dollar.

You might keep that in mind next time you're tempted to curse some retailer because his price tags seem exorbitantly high. He has plenty of headaches too.

WALTER JENKINS says

"The Taxpayer Must Hold the Pursestrings"
READ WALTER JENKINS' PLAN FOR ECONOMY

WALTER JENKINS

Everybody talks about economy. But, in politics, most candidates don't get specific.

Walter Jenkins—the candidate who knows the job—has a specific plan for cutting government spending.

Here's his plan:
I. Give Congress control over the Federal Budget.

Today the pursestrings on the taxpayers' money are held by the Bureau of the Budget, an Executive Agency. This agency prepares the Federal Budget, decides how much money shall be asked for, determines what is needed, what is not needed.

The director of the Bureau of the Budget is appointed by the President and works for and with the President.

The result is we have a budget the President wants, not necessarily a budget the people want.

Congress is closest to the people. Congress knows what the people want, what they need, what they can afford to pay for in taxes. Congress ought to establish a staff of its own, supervised by a committee of Senators and Congressmen, to examine every item in the Budget—and cut out those that aren't needed and those that can wait.

Under the present set-up, the people who spend the money are the ones who decide how much to spend. We must change that. The people who pay the bill—the taxpayers—ought to hold the pursestrings.

To do that, Congress must control the Budget.

II. Put cut-off dates on all emergency aid programs.

One great fault with present practices is that once the United States begins a spending program on an emergency basis, the "emergency" seems to become permasave billions by establishing a holding firmly to a definite cut-date on all emergency spending.

II' Provide incentives for Federal employees to cut spending.

At present, it is standard practice in Washington for all Federal agencies to spend every cent of the money appropriated by Congress. It's a rare agency that turns up with a surplus at the end of the fiscal year. The tradition of free spending is deep rooted.

Substantial savings could be realized if Federal employees were given bonuses—as private employees in industry often are—for any action, recommendation, decision that resulted in a saving. Federal employees are now awarded solely on the basis of seniority. This bonus for economy would give them real incentive for saving. No one can save more quickly, than the people who spend the money.

The road back to a balanced spending program—where the Federal outgo matches the Federal income—is a long, hard one. Spending is a habit, not easily cured.

The meat-axe approach will not succeed. You may cut off some program that is unpopular, but for every dollar saved that way another dollar will be spent in increased appropriations for so-called "popular programs."

We have got to save money, not only on what we spend abroad, but on what we spend on ourselves here at home. We must save money on operations, save money on administration, save money by increased efficiency.

This requires thoughtful, painstaking, tireless endeavor on the part of your Congressman—to do the job right, your Congressman needs to know the job.

SCREEN FOR SOCIALISM
One of the most effective commentaries in the recently-published 2023-page report of the President's Resources Policy Commission has been made by the National Reclamation Association. The Association's directors appointed a six-man committee to study and analyze the lengthy report. They found that it proposes complete socialization of the water resources of the nation's principal river basins, plus nationalization of the electric power industry, and that nowhere does it reveal the slightest consideration for the rights, accomplishments or wishes of local irrigation agencies. These findings are similar to those of other authorities who have carefully studied the report, including the executive director of the Isaak Walton League.

What gives the report importance is the fact that it is supposed to be a complete blueprint for the nation's future water policy. And water policy is an extremely broad term, affecting as it does all land, all agriculture, all our principal rivers, almost all natural resources. Whoever controls the water, obviously controls the very life of the country. It is clear that the President's Commission believes that this control should be a Washington monopoly, in which local government and local groups would be allowed to make suggestions and offer advice, but would have absolutely no power of decision.

Here is a plan for bringing about the total super-state with a vengeance and it is promoted by top government officials. It is indicative of the philosophy of those who believe that the Federal Government should boss everything and everybody, regardless of what happens to state and local rights—and the rights of individual citizens. It is a philosophy which says, in effect, that government should be the master, not the servant, of the people.

Texas Department of Public Safety Explains Responsibility Law
Austin —Homer Garrison Jr. Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has announced his intentions of calling upon the state's newspapers and radio stations to assist his Department in putting the "damper" on the false rumors and misinformation that is currently being spread in some circles concerning Texas' new Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law.

Garrison emphasized that the State will conduct a thorough educational program in November and December to acquaint the public accurately and adequately with the purposes and requirements of the law which will become effective next January 1st.

At the same time, Director Garrison warned the public not to believe statements that the statute is now in effect or that it is a compulsory insurance law. He emphatically pointed out that the law will have no effect upon motor vehicle owners and operators until January 1st and declared that under no condition or circumstances will it compel motorists to carry automobile liability insurance.

According to Garrison, the new regulations bear no resemblance to a compulsory insurance law. He pointed further to the fact that only one state has such a law but that Texas became the 35th state under a security-type Safety Responsibility Law. It is true, according to Garrison that, beginning January 1st a motor vehicle owner or operator who is involved in an accident resulting in death or injury, or property damage exceeding $100, must furnish proof of his ability to meet claims up to $15,000 or have his motoring privileges suspended until he does. Proper insurance may be accepted as sufficient proof of such financial responsibility but the law also offers several other choices of furnishing such proof. Among these are the posting of a bond with the Texas Department of Public Safety or the depositing of satisfactory security with the Department. Also, under certain conditions, individuals or firms may qualify as self-insurers under the terms of the law.

The alternatives will be clearly set forth by the Safety Department as a part of the education program beginning in November. All such information released by the State will be clearly identified as such, and it will be official, according to Garrison.

In calling upon the press and radio for assistance, Garrison stated: "I am asking the public-spirited newspapers and radio stations of Texas to cooperate with the Department of Public Safety, on behalf of the State, in a plan to give our people all the true facts. I am confident that they will do so. This educational program will begin November 1st, two months before the law becomes effective. In the meantime, I hope the people of Texas will not permit themselves to be misled again about this new law, which was enacted for their greater safety and financial protection."

Agent Gives Recipe for Salt-Rising Bread

Salt-rising bread is a variation of wheat bread, but it is not a yeast bread, says Mrs. Mary D. Brown, Acting County Home Demonstration Agent. Many homemakers get a starter from corn meal, which contains bacteria that cause the necessary fermentation. Bakers use a special culture of this micro-organism to produce salt-rising bread of more uniform quality than can be expected with home grown sponge.

According to the Farmers Bulletin No. 1775, Homemade Bread, Cake and Pastry, salt rising bread is never so light as bread raised with yeast, and is more moist and crumbly. The temperature used for the sponge and dough is higher than that for yeast bread.

For 3 1/2 pounds of salt-rising bread, make a starter by scalding 1 cup of milk and stirring in 1 tablespoon sugar, 7 tablespoons corn meal and 1 teaspoon salt. Put this in a clean covered jar and place in a bath of water as hot as the hand can bear. Keep this mixture in a warm place (115 degrees F.) from 6 to 7 hours, or until it shows fermentation. You can hear the gas escaping when it has fermented sufficiently, says Mrs. Brown.

Then add two cups of all-purpose flour, 2 cups lukewarm water (100 degrees F.), 2 tablespoons sugar and 3 tablespoons melted fat.

Beat this sponge thoroughly, put the jar into the warm water bath (115 degrees F.) and let rise until the sponge is very light and full of bubbles. Add 8 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, which will give a stiff dough. Knead for 10 or 15 minutes, cut, mold into loaves, place in greased pan, and allow to rise until two and one-half times the original bulk.

Bake for 35 minutes in a moderately hot oven (385 degrees F.) for 10 minutes, then lower to 350 degrees to finish.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody Bursey and daughters, Carolyn and Sue, have returned from a visit with relatives in Kilgore. They were accompanied by Mr. Bursey's mother, Mrs. Tom Bursey, and by an aunt, Mrs. Horn of Truscott.

RETURN FROM SO. DAKOTA

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stinebaugh and two sons, Bobby and Jimmy, returned last Thursday from Wankamaker, S. D., where they had been for several months. Some wheat in that section made as high as 55 bushels to the acre.

BOOST USE OF DIESEL FUEL

Fuel economy and easier maintenance of equipment are the primary reasons for the strong trend toward dieselization of U. S. railroads. While the switch to diesel fuel is nationwide, it is especially pronounced in the area roughly east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Eastern railroads bought five million gallons of diesel fuel in 1949, every four gallons in 1949, year these roads used almost a million gallons of diesel fuel. About a third of that amount was purchased by all Class I railroads in the country.

"Thank You" - from All the Jenkins Family

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jenkins and Beth, Walter Jr., and the Jenkins twins, John and Joe.

"We appreciate your help..."

For more than two months, we have been engaged in the campaign for Congress. Marjorie has been working at our little headquarters in Wichita Falls. Marge's mother has been taking care of Beth, Walter Jr., and our twin sons, John and Joe—and I have been out meeting with you, talking with you, listening to you, telling you where I stand.

The campaign ends Saturday, when the polls close. We know that you will cast your vote for the candidate you think will best serve you and best serve the nation in these critical times.

Before election day, though, we want you to know that we are forever grateful to the thousands of friends who have encouraged us, who have gotten out a 116-degree weather to work for us, and who have done so much to make our campaign successful. We would like to thank each of you, individually, but that will take some time—so we have bought this space in your paper to say, "Thank you—thank you from the bottom of our hearts."
