Well Rotary Club to Present Grady Halbert As Candidate for Dist. Governor

The Crowell Rotary Club will present a Crowell Rotarian, Grady Halbert, as a candidate for District Governor of the 186th District for 1953-54 at the Annual Conference of the Rotary Clubs of the district which will be held in the spring of 1953.

Mr. Halbert is past president of the Crowell club and during the past several years has served as chairman of practically all of the club service committees and has been in demand as a Rotary speaker in clubs throughout the district. He was a speaker on the program of the annual conference recently held in Wichita Falls.

It is unusual for a small Rotary club to have a member who is qualified and can spare the time and expense of serving as District Governor for one year, but Mr. Halbert has consented to give a year's time to this important service to Rotary, and members of the Crowell club believe he is well qualified to fill the place with credit to the Crowell club as well as to all clubs of the district.

Mr. Klepper, 62, was a veteran of World War I, having served overseas in the 36th Division. After the war, Private Klepper received a citation to attend the Peace Center at Bellevue in Dallas, where he had been admitted on the morning of his death. Annual Meeting of Cemetery Association Held Monday, June 9

The annual meeting of the Crowell Cemetery Association was held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Christian Church with the president, Mrs. N. J. Roberts, presiding. Minutes for the 1951 meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. C. C. McLaughlin.

She also told of the building of time and labor that have been made to the project.

During the business session it was voted to elect officers for a period of two years. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Roberts was re-elected president; Mrs. Blake McDaniel, vice president; Mrs. C. C. McLaughlin, secretary; Lee Black, treasurer. Rural Homemakers Find Ways to Do House Work Easier Rural homemakers and girls in Texas are finding ways of doing housework more easily and in less time. This is the result of the work simplification program sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service. The purpose of this program is to encourage interest in management of time, energy and equipment in the home so that work may be done simpler, easier, quicker and more safely.

Figures from the annual report of the Extension home management specialists show that 83,505 homemakers and 4-H members in 1951 applied work simplification methods to the improvement of their homemaking jobs. The program commenced in 1946 when the specialists held training meetings for home demonstration agents and adult leaders in counties where interest was shown. Due to increased demands, it was necessary to limit training by specialists to two counties in each Extension district.

Last year in 134 counties, 28,558 families improved housekeeping methods. For example, it was found that house cleaning could be made easier if all members of the family were trained to hang up clothes; put articles back in proper places; clean washpans, lavatory and bathrooms; clean shoes before entering the house; keep waste paper and trash off the floor and help with all house cleaning jobs.

After the home management specialists gave a two-day training meeting in Childress county to 15 leaders, the home demonstration agent reported that these leaders gave 26 work simplification demonstrations to 410 people and helped 75 members.

The people taught reported that they simplified their methods of setting tables; washing dishes; producing, preserving and serving of food; caring for clothes and shoes; keeping the yard and washing and ironing.

Mrs. John Thomas Rasor left last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sentell of Snyder, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Morris of Haven, Brownwood, for New Conn., where the family will attend graduating exercises for a son and brother, Gordon Sentell, who will receive his degree in architectural engineering at Yale University this week. They will visit New York City and points of interest in Canada before returning home.

1952 Grasshopper Infestation Over State Expected to Be Light

Forecasts based on surveys and actual egg bed counts indicate that grasshoppers will not be a threat to crops and pastures in Texas this year. In only a few spots were enough eggs found to rate the areas as threatening, says Allen C. Gunter, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The areas are small and are found in the upper northwest Panhandle, in the Trinity bottoms of Ellis and Kaufman counties; in Hill, Falls, Milam, Robertson and Washington counties along the Brazos River. In these areas farmers should watch for the early hatches and if the young hoppers show up in large numbers, they should be controlled before they leave the egg bed areas, says Gunter.

Other counties in these same general areas may expect light infestations and some damage is possible. Serious damage may develop in the fall if the weather is hot and dry.

Gunter advises farmers and ranchmen that control measures, if needed, should be used before the grasshoppers leave the egg beds and scatter. Wiping out this year's hatches will reduce the chances for major outbreaks next year, points out the specialist, and from this standpoint, the use of control measures is justified.

For information on the best insecticides to use, Gunter suggests that farmers contact their local county agents. They can also advise on whether control measures should be used.

Wheat Harvest in Foard County Almost Completed by Wednesday Afternoon; Over Million Bushels Combined to Date

The 1952 wheat crop for Foard County had been combined by Wednesday afternoon of this week. The few crops remaining in the fields will be harvested as soon as the grain matures and is dry enough to cut.

With the exception of hail damage suffered by a few farmers, the wheat yield in the county has been very satisfactory, according to reports by farmers, although the dry weather during the winter did do some damage.

By Wednesday afternoon the grain elevators of the county had received approximately 1,200,000 bushels which includes an estimated 100,000 bushels stored in bins on the farms.

With the exception of a few showers, the weather this year has been ideal for harvesting. Plowing is now in full swing and the wheat fields will soon be in good shape to receive the summer rains.

Where Are the Spuds?

The housewife who can't find any potatoes these days at her grocer's no doubt wonders where they are.

A potato grower was asked that question a few days ago by a Congressional committee. The grower is Sol Lavitt, who appeared before the committee as spokesman for the National Potato Council. His farm is near Ellington, Connecticut. This is what he told the committee:

Potatoes recently have been the only perishable vegetable on which there are ceiling prices. A ceiling was established last January after potato prices had passed the parity price by 5 per cent. It was the first time in three and a half years that potatoes had ever reached parity.

Meanwhile, the Department of Agriculture was viewing the potato situation calmly despite the excitement evident around the Price Stabilization Agency offices. The supply was short, but the department said it could be met by a production increase in the early producing states.

The early state growers would have stepped up production and overcome the shortage, but for the fact that a ceiling was clamped on prices. Had there been no ceiling, prices would have jumped for a short period, but a large new crop would have sent them tumbling. The Agriculture Department now predicts that because of the ceiling price total spring plantings will be the smallest since 1867.

The Office of Price Stabilization has given the housewife price ceilings, but in doing so has taken away her potatoes.

It won't be long now before somebody will declare that the U. S. has sold out to Japan.

Blessing and Burden

The automobile, boon to humanity that it is, probably has brought on more municipal headaches than any other single thing.

"Business and property owners," says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, "are feeling today the impact of an avalanche of traffic that is literally destroying billions of dollars worth of property values. The present year is bringing a vast increase in street traffic, with a promise of still more congestion as time goes on."

The National Chamber will hold at Portland, Oregon, June 22 and 23, a fourth National Businessmen's Conference on Urban Problems for an interchange of experience in handling problems of city traffic and of slum clearance. Downtown slums are largely due to the movement of business from downtown areas to city outskirts.

Conference speakers will describe successful remedies that have been applied in different communities to knotty problems that go with congested streets and with deterioration of downtown districts.

Businessmen are urged by the Chamber to assist their city officials in solving urban problems by mobilizing public opinion in support of plans to bring relief.

"In the fields of off-street parking and urban redevelopment," says the Chamber, "businessmen often themselves undertake solutions through collective action under free enterprise."

"Businessmen are the natural leaders in creating better cities. They support local chambers of commerce which give much attention to municipal betterment. Besides desiring the best possible living surroundings for their families, they have a heavy financial stake in business property."

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States maintains at its headquarters in Washington a special staff which studies municipal problems and extends aid to its local chamber of commerce membership in their approach to community affairs.

Grass Roots Opinion

Denville, N. J. Herald: "It really surprised us to read in the New Jersey Power & Light Company magazine that 'If the Company had been forgiven its tax bill for the year 1951 it would have been able to provide FREE electric service to every residential customer for five months of the year.'"

Hood River, Oregon, News: "In this, the greatest tax collecting year in the history of the world, the United States Federal government is claiming to be exacting much of its 'extra tax dollars' from the rich. This can't be true. The 'little guy' is suffering. The Oregon Business and Tax Research reports if the U. S. gov-

Some Difference

Many newspapers recently carried an article by William L. Ryan of the Associated Press which dealt with conditions in Moscow. It was based on information gained from a man who had recently left the Soviet capital. According to him, the Kremlin makes a point of raising living standards a trifle each year. Even so they are far below the level in the United States and many other nations. A constant barrage of propaganda is employed to convince the Russian masses that "nobody else in the world ever had it so good."

Mr. Ryan dealt briefly with the situation in Russian retail stores. One leading department store, he wrote, "opens at about 11 a. m. At 9 a. m. there is already a queue running far back from the entrance. The store is invariably crowded, as are the food stores. There are some attractive displays in the windows, but usually the purchaser fails to find these items on the shelves."

Contrast this with the average American store — whether it be large or small, a chain or an independent. Long waiting lines are unknown, except in the case of some terrific bargain sale. There is plenty of goods for all who want to buy—and a very wide selection of styles, colors, qualities and so on. There are no phony window dressings — whatever is displayed there is on sale inside. If the consumer doesn't like one store, he is free to go to a competitor's shop. He could not do that in Russia, where everything is a state monopoly.

Next time you shop, whether for such daily necessities as food or for a season's wardrobe, think of the vast differences between freedom and communism. It should make you mighty glad you live here—not in the "workers' paradise" the Kremlin bosses.

ernment took all the taxable income in excess of $6,000 from all individuals that would raise less than $6,000,000,000."

Birmingham, Ala., Industrial Press: "We cannot understand why the leaders of organized labor have not been able to recognize their duty to their members and the American public. We believe that any intelligent worker knows that what he and every other American needs most is a decrease in the cost of living instead of an increase in pay. Why the leaders refuse to see this is a mystery."

Elkton, Md., Cecil Whig: "Mr. Murray, the union leader . . . orders the members of his union to work or not to work, as he sees fit. . . . For any one individual to be vested with and exercise the authority to tell thousands of American citizens, from day to day, whether they shall or shall not go forth to win their daily bread . . . is extremely difficult to fit into the pattern called 'American.'"

44 Years Ago

Taken from the issue of the News of June 12, 1908:

R. R. Waldrop returned Sunday from a business trip to Fort Worth.

The Parlor Meat Market has suspended business for a few months.

Crowell has been pretty well blessed for a few days with life insurance agents.

Mrs. S. H. Puryear and children left yesterday for their home in Taylor, Texas.

Ed Cates came in Tuesday from New Mexico where he has been looking after his claim.

The Benjamin Post says it has information from headquarters to the effect that trains will be running from that place to Kansas City by October 1.

The Public Be Damned

"Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in this country is coming as surely as night follows day if the present trend continues," wrote Marquis Childs in one of his late columns. "It will come not because any group or individual wants it. But the plain fact is that nationwide strikes in vital industries can no longer be tolerated. In steel, oil, the railways, or the utilities a strike across the board can shut down the economy—and in a relatively short time. . . ."

"Add to this the precarious balance between what is left of the free world and the Communist threat of total aggression and the situation becomes not just intolerable. It begins to look like self-destruction. . . ."

Mr. Childs then suggested that compulsory arbitration might be exercised by labor courts, with judges appointed for life and subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Recent labor excesses have demonstrated that the system of voluntary arbitration of disputes has broken down—labor, backed by the Administration, is out for the whole hog. The pendulum has swung to the opposite extreme since certain businesses worked on the "public be damned" idea. Now certain big labor groups are working on that outlawed principle.

As Mr. Childs said, no one really wants compulsory arbitration—it goes against the American grain. If it does come, it will be because labor leaders have shown an incredible arrogance of mind and spirit—and a contemptuous disregard of the national welfare and our very security as a free nation. Labor monopolies must be broken—just as business monopolies have been broken.

Point of No Return

Upwards of 200 radio stations, with many millions of listeners, have carried a broadcast produced by America's Future, Inc., and featuring Wheeler McMillen, editor-in-chief of Pathfinder Magazine and The Farm Journal.

Mr. McMillen spoke of the steel seizure and the vast possibilities arising from it. He said, "The question I have been asking myself is this: Which industry will be seized next? Will it be coal—or oil—or what? And if these seizures go unchallenged, when will the point of no return of private property be reached? That point of no return has been reached in other countries where people believed their property rights would not be violated."

Mr. McMillen went on to deal with such subjects as past seizures of private property by government, and with the rock-bound attitude of union leaders. Then he showed the tremendous and ominous consequences that could follow nationalization of industry, using coal as one example. He quoted, with full approval, a statement made five years ago by a coal man, who said, "If the coal mines were nationalized, the government, through its control of prices and supply of coal, could force any industry in the country dependent on coal to dance to its tune or face financial ruin. The government could completely control the economic life of the nation."

Such matters as the prices charged for steel and the wages paid the steel workers are debatable questions. What is not debatable is that the steel seizure stems from a philosophy that could utterly destroy our free enterprise system and lead to economic distastefulness on an unlimited scale. That is why the seizure is one of the most important and far-reaching issues this country and its people have ever faced.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Laws are necessary to keep the unprincipled from taking advantage of other people.

The trouble with some of the diets that reduce poundage is that they cut down on longevity.

A treaty of peace is worth exactly the value that one attaches to the character of those who sign it.

What has become of the civic-minded people who used to urge that the old home town be improved?

Some people carry grudges throughout life, and in time, retain the grudge without being able to explain it, even to themselves.

son, Dexter, and Mrs. Clark Brown and children, Jessie, Cioma and Jimmy Jack, spent Tuesday evening of last week with their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Daniel, of the Margaret community.

Recent rains over the state have improved the chances for a hay crop and farmers and stockmen should remember last year's drouth and make hay while the sun shines. But the failure to use proper harvesting, curing and storage methods, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, can result in great amounts of low quality hay being produced. Such hay has a low feeding value and when sold brings less money and both add up to losses for the producer.

Cutting time is very important, says the specialist. If the hay crop is left too long, it becomes coarse and loses much of its feed value, especially protein and vitamin A.

Sudan and johnsongrass should be cut as soon as the first seed heads begin to form, or even a little earlier to get the full feeding value of a high quality, protein-rich hay. Cowpeas should be left until the first seed pods begin to ripen. Prairie grass, adds Miller, can generally be left until time and labor are available for harvesting, but if left too long, it will lose quality.

Alfalfa should be cut for hay when the field is one-tenth to one-fourth in bloom or when young shoots begin to show up at the base of the plants. Miller says it's a good idea to let at least one cutting "go to seed" or at least to the full bloom stage on new fields of alfalfa in order to allow for the development of stronger root systems and longer lived plants.

One of the real secrets of producing high quality hay is getting rid of the excess moisture in a hurry. Speed in drying means a good curing job and aids in retaining the green color. In humid sections of the state, the use of artificial driers makes possible the production of high quality hay that contains plenty of vitamin A and protein.

Harvesting at the proper time, rapid curing and storing under proper conditions will mean extra money for hay producers. The increased number of livestock and the short crops of past years are incentives for hay producers to save every possible bale, says Miller.

with all their agony and sure fatality, might either be prevented or, through the substitution of different living regimens, be rendered tolerable.

RUSS RECALL ENVOY—Soviet ambassador Alexander Panyushkin walks out door of State Department in Washington after informing U. S. he had been unexpectedly called home to Moscow. The reason? Only Dictator Stalin knows. Panyushkin, who was here five years, will be succeeded by Georgi Zarin, envoy to London.

Rains Improve Chances for Good Hay Crop

Home Towners Make Marbles for Defense

Parkersburg, W. Va. — Home-town workers here are turning out 7,136,640 marbles a week, enough for all of the lads in the land, but these taws are not being produced for play. They are going into military products.

The manufacture of the marbles is the first step in producing fiber glass at the new plant of the Libbey - Owens - Ford Glass Company, which is working on military contracts. After the transparent little globes are inspected carefully for quality, they are subjected to 3000 degrees of heat and drawn into filaments that are too fine to be seen by the naked eye.

Each marble yields about 42 miles of filament. With plant production running about 1,019,520 marbles a day, that's a total of 43,227,684 miles of gossamer glass for textile yarn turned out each 24 hours. It's enough to reach to Mars with several million miles to spare.

Although the Parkersburg workers are making their first fiber glass, many of them previously had experience in making glass, having been employed in the L-O-

Health Letter
Texas State Department of Health, Austin, Texas, Geo. W. Cox, M. D., State Health Officer.

In the past, medicine and public health have concerned themselves largely with the health and disease problems of youth and middle age, said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. We have neglected our aged population, and have waited upon the devastations of time before extending aid to the old.

Our population each year includes an increasing number and percentage of older people. In 1950 in the United States, it is estimated that there are 11,000,000 persons over sixty-five years of age, as compared to 3,000,000 in 1900. In absolute numbers, aged persons among us have almost quadrupled in the last fifty years, whereas the proportion of elderly persons to the remainder of the population has merely doubled.

Dr. Cox stated that preventive medicine, private medical care, and social service have assisted in extending the life span. As encouraging as this fact may be, there is an accompanying tribulation: the aged are subject to the chronic diseases which, because of destroyed tissue structure, are especially weakened. Heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and other long-term illnesses resist the physician's most skillful attack and are notably disabling and lethal.

To insure health and peace of mind to our old people, preventive and curative medicine and social service can contribute techniques should properly include the early discovery of beginning disease processes through periodic examinations that begin in early life and continue for one's remaining years. By such means many cases of chronic disease,

TIMBER MONEY

Nine Towns Will Divide Forest Income

Bristol, Vt. — Nine Addison county towns will get $13,142 as their share in the Green Mountain National Forest receipts for the fiscal year ending last June 30, according to the forest supervisor. A total of $33,961 will be awarded to 39 towns as their share of 25 per cent of the gross revenue of $159,845.

This total represents an all-time high due to the abnormal revenue realized from the sales of timber blown down by the November, 1950, hurricane.

The towns sharing in the money are: Bristol (pop. 1,200) $886.25; Goshen $597.19; Granville $2,473.03; Hancock $2,571.03; Leicester $486.40; Lincoln $1,179.62; Middlebury (pop. 2,200) $465.24; Ripton $3,291.21; and Salisbury $573.17.

Salvage Operations

The salvage of blow-down timber on the National Forest started as soon after the hurricane as the stumpage could be appraised and sold. About 90 per cent of the wind-thrown timber that can be salvaged has already been sold and about 40 per cent of this has been cut into logs and pulpwood by logging operators. Of the 18 million board feet of blow-down timber that occurs in amounts and in locations where it can be salvaged, 16½ million board feet have already been sold and 7½ million board feet have been salvaged.

The clearing of the Long Trail, which runs the entire length of the National Forest, was a big job and it took three crews working with power saws five months. However, it was ready for use on August 1.

The clearing of National Forest and town roads in the blow-down area was a substantial job and in addition many roads suffered extensive washouts as a result of the heavy rains that accompanied the windstorm. The roads were all cleared by late spring and all of the roads but one opened to traffic. The Stratton Turnpike, running from West Arlington to West Wardsboro, is still closed to traffic due to washouts in Stratton and in Sunderland. Plans have been made to repair the damaged section in Stratton this summer.

Revenue to Drop

The division of this $33,961.44 between the towns amounts to 19 cents per acre. This is the highest return per acre since the establishment of the National Forest and is 9 cents above the 10 year average.

The shares of the towns for the year ending June 30, 1952, will be somewhat less than for the current year, but will exceed the 10 year average. The following year will probably show a slight decline and it is possible that by the end of the fiscal year 1954 the earnings will approach or be less than the 10 year average.

The study of the amount that can be cut safely from the National Forest, giving full consideration to the hurricane damage, may necessitate some adjustment in the annual cut. In the meantime, communities that benefit from sale of timber from the forest will have to plan budgets with the cut in revenue in mind.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Parking difficulties in American cities and towns increase as traffic congestion grows worse. Adequate parking facilities are important in downtown areas to protect property values. Private enterprise has established 90 per cent of the country's downtown off-street parking space.

The diamond is the hardest stone.

Village Is Being Moved to Make Way for Road

Agnew, Mich. — The 100-year-old village of Agnew on U. S. highway No. 31, seven miles south of Grand Haven, is being moved to make way for a modern highway.

Plans call for hauling to new sites a little white frame church, a tavern and a dozen houses to make way for widening to 200 feet highway No. 31. The Agnew school and a gasoline station are among the structures that will not be moved. But the school will be flush on the new highway.

William Brolick, operator of a 30-year-old feed and grocery store, said he would benefit from the road widening. His store building will be torn down and a new structure erected for him on a site near by.

The state will pay for moving the buildings, which are to go on new foundations already put in. A dozen houses clustered in the village will be set back several hundred yards.

Agnew is one of the many communities that sprang up along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan during the beginning of the sawmill industry a century ago. Many of these towns have disappeared completely and some like Agnew, consist of a few stores and a cluster of houses.

During the present century Agnew has served as a trading center for farmers and of recent years has benefited from the growing tourist trade in west Michigan.

EVER buy a telephone? Ever receive a bill for telephone repair or maintenance, or the many feet of wiring that connect your telephone within the house? The answer, of course, is no. These are items of cost you never have to contend with.

Now, ask yourself the same questions about any of your other home appliances—refrigerator, kitchen range, radio, water heater. Original cost and month-to-month maintenance of such items amounts to a sizable investment.

But, you don't have to buy the telephone or its wiring—that's part of your telephone company's investment. And, monthly telephone bills take care of all operating expenses, as well as a return to investors. No matter how often you use local telephone service, you pay the same for it each month.

Considering all this, don't you agree that telephone service is the biggest value in your budget?

ACCEPTABLE SERVICE

from Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

So often we attempt to serve God, but in our own way and in our own strength. Such service is barren. On the other hand, service in God's way and in His strength is fruitful. It must be remembered, of course, that only the service of those who have accepted Christ as their own personal Saviour from sin is acceptable to God.
 When Simon Peter and his friends, all followers of the Lord Jesus, went fishing after His resurrection, we gather from the Scripture in John 21, their failure was turned into victory. Jesus came and stood on the shore, "but the disciples know not that it was he." He called to them, asking if they had any fish. Their discouraged answer was "no." Then the Lord directed them to cast their net on the right side of the ship and they would find some fish. Following His directions, they found their net so full they were not able to draw it up; then they recognized Him.
 The lesson is evident. Are you and I serving Christ in our way, in man's way, or in His way? The results are always blessed when we serve Him as He directs, and rely on Him for strength.

Are We Ready for Socialism?

Is there any rhyme or reason in spending hundreds of millions of dollars of our tax money for projects which can be built economically, efficiently and quickly by private enterprise — and which, instead of being tax-eaters, can be big taxpayers?
 It's a cinch bet that, in these days of strangling taxation, the great majority of the American people will answer that question with a loud and unequivocal No! Yet men in high positions in the government want the taxpayers to needlessly foot the bill for two such projects which are now pending.

One lies way out West in Idaho. The government proposes to build a $357,000,000 dam and hydroelectric plant on the Snake River at Hell's Canyon. If that happens, every American will be forced to put up part of the money. Little or no taxes will be paid to any unit of government. The rates charged for the electricity will not be regulated by state commissions. And, if past precedent is any arbiter, more and more tax subsidies will be required because government cost estimates are usually notoriously low.

On the other hand, a local power company wants to develop the Idaho power with a series of smaller dams. The company and its investors will pay every nickel of the cost—and, once the project is completed, the company will pay millions a year in taxes to government. The power rates will be determined by public service commissions.

An almost identical situation exists on the other side of the continent. A large amount of additional water is now available for hydroelectric development on the Niagara River. This project, incidentally, has no connection with the St. Lawrence seaway project, and does not involve navigation, flood control or anything except power. If the plant and other facilities are built by the government, the taxpayers will again be forced to cough up hundreds of millions. Little or no taxes will ever be paid by the socialized system. However, if the project is built by a group of publicly-regulated utilities, which are ready to go ahead tomorrow if Congress gives its approval, not one cent of tax money will be spent—and great new sources of taxation will be created.

Mrs. Dale Kitchen Honored with Shower at Truscott May 28

A popular Truscott bride, Mrs. Dale Kitchen, was feted Wednesday afternoon, May 28, with a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Edgar Jones. Hostesses were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. A. S. Tarpley, Mrs. Warren Corder, Mrs. Q. D. Williams, Mrs. W. R. Owens, Mrs. Irene Gerald, Mrs. Newt Bryant and Mrs. Homer Black.

Mrs. Kitchen, the former Miss Mary Lou Woods, was presented to the guests by her mother, Mrs. Seth Woods. Also in the receiving line were Mrs. H. A. Smith, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Homer Black, who was assisted by Mrs. W. R. Owens. At the white bride's book, Mrs. A. S. Tarpley registered the guests. Pastel garden flowers decorated the living room.

Mrs. Allie Moorhouse, Benjamin, another aunt of the bride, alternated with Mrs. Smith in pouring punch at the refreshment table in the dining room. A white madras embroidered linen cloth covered the table which was centered with a dainty pink net parasol encircled with old fashioned nosegays of pink rosebuds, green maline, and white lace. Punch and party cakes were served at opposite ends of the board. Tiny white napkins were inscribed "Mary Lou-Dale." Assisting with the serving and other duties were the remaining hostesses, Mesdames Bryant, Jones, Williams, Gerald and Corder.

Junior members of the house party included Misses Nettie and Faye Black, Elba Caddell, Nora Davidson and Norma Jones. These young ladies wore corsages of rosebuds, as did the hostesses. The honoree and her relatives were presented corsages of pink and white carnations. Attired in pastel colored formal gowns the young ladies directed guests to the gift room, assisted with the serving, and entertained with a medley of love songs.

Mrs. Carl Hudson recorded the party with flash bulb pictures of the honoree, guests and hostesses. Many lovely gifts were presented to the newly married couple by their friends from Truscott, Crowell and Benjamin.

ALPHA CLUB MEMBERS ATTEND DIST. WORKSHOP

The Phoenix Club of Aspermont had as their guests, the president of First District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and members of several nearby clubs at a meeting recently in Aspermont. Members of the Alpha Club of Truscott who attended were Mrs. V. W. Brown, Mrs. D. S. Ellis and Mrs. J. M. Chowning.

Upon arrival the guests were served a delicious refreshment plate and all enjoyed an hour of visiting. Following the social hour the guests were taken to the church auditorium where each one took an active part in the workshop. The district president, Miss Lillie V. Lillard of Stephenville, presided throughout the afternoon program. She was assisted by four district chairmen. Miss Lillard gave much information as well as inspiration to those present for the meeting and each one was asked to present her problems and ask any questions that might help to make next year's club work better.

This meeting was held in the First Methodist Church in Aspermont on Friday, June 6.

BEAUTIES FIGHT OVER COMEDIAN — Night club singer Toney Carroll examines damage to costly silk gown, ripped, she said, in tussle with actress Abigail Adams at a Hollywood cafe. Miss Maurine Youree Gives Dinner Party on Friday, June 6

First Principle

Speaking at a stockholders' meeting, the chairman of the board of one of our large oil companies made this significant observation: "The most serious danger we and all business face is the rapidly growing government control . . ."

"Some believe an increasingly big and powerful central government is necessary to deal adequately with the complexities of the times in which we live, and that businessmen are so avaricious and lacking in good citizenship and human decency that they require rigid government inspection, supervision and control. And they see no reason why one of the most potent controls — taxation — should not be employed to the point of confiscation. This seems to be the philosophy of many honest and capable men soon after they become associated with the government in Washington . . . they develop a tendency to consider themselves wiser and more filled with the love of mankind than the rest of us mortals who are not in government."

Oil happens to be conspicuous example of how dynamic, competitive enterprise flourishes in the air of freedom—the traditional air of America. It is also an example of how the profit motive drives men to take great risks which have resulted in achievements and discoveries of immeasurable benefit to the nation and everyone within it. This could never have happened under a system where the government controlled and directed everything—and where confiscatory taxes made fair profits impossible.

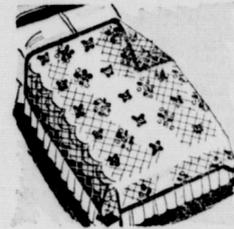

This nation was founded on the principle that the government which governs least governs best. That is a first principle—and it's high time we returned to it.
