Wildcat-Dragon Game to Be Played Friday Afternoon

Crowell plays Paducah in two important football games this week. The Wildkittens play the Paducah Grade School here tonight (Thursday) at 7:00 o'clock in a conference game that should decide the championship of the western half. The only loss suffered by the little Dragons this season was to Crowell by the score of 7 to 0. A victory for the undefeated Wildkittens will clinch the championship of the western half and a win for the Lizzards will throw this half into a tie.

Coaches Gordon Erwin and Glen Taylor plan on starting the following line-up: Thomas Crowell, center; Jerry Eubanks and Jackie Hickman, guards; Don Tole and Joe Barry, tackles; Bill Graves and Fredrick Youree, ends; Ivan Cates, quarterback; Jim Henry and Roy Ford, fullbacks; and Duane Nichols, fullback.

Wildcats Play Friday

The C. H. S. Wildcats go to Paducah tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 2:30 to play a game that should decide third place in District 1A-9. Both teams lost to Chillicothe by one touchdown. However, Paducah tied Iowa Park and Crowell dropped a thriller to the same team. The "Little Brown Jug" is always at stake when these two rivals meet.

Three hundred reserve tickets for this contest are on sale at both local drug stores, the Deluxe Cafe and L. A. Andrews' office in the court house. They sell for $1.00 each if bought before Friday at noon. This will be the regular admission price at the gate with reserve seats selling for $1.25.

Weather Good for Cotton Harvesting

Up to Wednesday morning the five gins of the county had ginned 4,915 bales, according to reports received from each gin. Harvesting of the cotton crop is estimated to be approximately two-thirds complete.

Weather conditions have been good and the recent cold weather has killed the foliage on the cotton stalks in most places.

The cold spell that blew in Monday afternoon brought thermometers down to below freezing Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Skies were clear Wednesday morning and warmer weather was in prospect for the remainder of the week.

STUDENT COMMANDMENTS

The Boston, Mass., school committee has adopted what it calls commandments for pupils in grades 7 through 12.

The committee directed that the "commandments" be read bi-weekly to all pupils of those grades and a copy be posted in each classroom.

Here are the commandments and they are well worth reading and re-reading:

Don't let your parents down. They've brought you up.

Stop and think before you drink.

Be smart, obey. You'll give orders yourself someday.

Ditch dirty thoughts fast, or they will ditch you.

Show-off driving is juvenile. Don't act your age.

Pick the right friends to be picked for a friend.

Choose a date fit for a mate. Don't go steady unless you're ready.

REFLECTIONS OF A GHOST

Traditionally, this would be written by a tiny mouse, but there doesn't seem to be even one around. So I'm writing. Me? I'm just the ghost of an ex-Crowell High actor, "Hamlet" they call me sometimes. Most of the school's ex-actor-ghosts have departed from its prop room and stage areas, it seems. I ought to know! I've never been able to leave, somehow. Can't get this place out of my blood, I guess. Did I say "blood"? Oh, well!

Mrs. Todd is the funny one. I always was after we'd struck a set when production was over and had no place to put the things we'd worked so hard to get and that always cost us so much time and money. Well, she's in a real spring housecleaning mood this fall. Know why? The Speech Department has fallen heir to the vacated homemaking rooms. I've seen and heard much since they are moving in here.

Apparently, they're fixing the old dining room up for a Thespian chapter room since the awards—two for debate and one a state plaque for one-act play from way back when Mrs. I. T. Graves was here, as well as several one-act play certificates for state honors—are hanging on the walls already. The Thespian Charter for Troupe 1101 is there too. Proud my name's on it, even if the ink is beginning to grow dim.

Heard them say, "Doesn't hurt props and stage equipment if it is cold where they're stored?" So the last period class members—De Anna Ferguson, Roma Jan Spikes, Francine Coffey, Aldon Garrett, and George Morgan—are all moving things lodged in the grade school "catch all" room to the frigid old sewing room. It looks too pretty to store things in since Mr. Huskey varnished the floor so well, but you can't blame the Speech Department for being so happy to get prop shelves, closet space, and roomy storage drawers.

Makes me lonesome for the old days to hear them talking. Kids are pretty much the same, I gather, over the year. They come and go; but there are always some to work sets, sew, etc. And others to act. This last is about all I did. Doesn't seem much fun without an audience. But a guy like Jimmy Franklin—he'd do anything for a play. One year he even risked climbing around in the files re-arranging everything up there for the director. Hear no one has since. Of course, it takes a lot of nerve and, too, one has to be awfully thin hipped to squeeze through the tiny opening in the ceiling of the auditorium. From there on, it takes balance! I can still remember Betty Barker and Marcia Kincaid and how long and hard they practiced to get their roles perfected. They couldn't be beaten! No, sir!

You can learn about each student here now, too, seeing what he does to help out and hearing his remarks as he works. George Morgan and Aldon Garrett are quite practical and energetic as well. Isn't much fun separating a faded old red wig someone has thrown in the wrong box, from a coiled piece of wire, from tedious and exasperating! Little De Anna Ferguson is efficiency plus and as faithful as Don Gohin. I'd love to have an opportunity to play opposite this Fran Coffey. She can really concentrate when she gets into a role she likes. She's a neat arranger of props, too, and is this year's corresponding secretary for Thespian Troupe No. 1101. This Roma Jan Spikes is a peach! Artistic but not always practical—like when she straightened the flowers she had removed from the Madonna vase and spread them colorfully over an entire storage drawer! Of course, I thought they looked lovely. Kept reminding me of Senor Freedom and how heavenly the Senorita Delores seemed when I took that bandage off at last.

You know these students haven't forgotten us, either. They keep mentioning the dramatic activities those of us who went on to college are engaging in now. Guess Betty Sue Bartley's winning that four-year scholarship in speech at Midwestern where V. A. Smith was named most outstanding actor last year has them all excited. Mrs. Todd remembers that beautiful job of acting Mary Cooper did as Bruna in the Dallas regional meet. All of them envy Dr. Hindman, Joe Don Brown, I can tell you. The students certainly miss "Goggie".

A lot of personality and plenty of reality last year for the hungry professor!

Props and so forth? Some objects found have actually been forgotten. Aldon Garrett exclaimed, "Well, here's the vest to that suit of mine. I'll just take it home." A minute later straightening it out, he wailed, "Look, it has a faded spot on the back!"

"Oooh!" squealed Roma Jan. "I'd forgotten these nice curtains. They're in perfect shape, too."

"Well, the typewriter is just not here. Now who would have taken it or the telephone that's missing?" asks George as he rummages around under the stair landing.

"Here's the fur coat Joyce Williams gave us," Fran notes as she hangs garments up in their new quarters. "And the uniforms Mr. Fisch donated!"

"This overcoat is just right for Aldon in 'The Running Tide,'" says De Anna as they work.

Fifth period Mrs. Todd has 32 students in Speech I and II and I heard her say it's one of the best groups yet—all freshmen. They've been having election campaigns—all fictitious. I got a kick out of them. Now they're starting work on the fall thespian initiation service.

Yes sir! They've all got a lot of plans. Of course, some are sort of day dreams, but you never can tell. I surely wish them luck. Anyhow, I'll stick around to find out what happens, you can bet.

The cause for this wonder was a man with magic in his fingers, Raymond G. Bogardus, clay sculptor. Using over 90 pounds of clay and only his bare hands, Mr. Bogardus molded lifelike heads with speed and accuracy. Everyone who saw the program agreed that "Characters in Clay" was a truly outstanding Southern Assembly.

BOOK COVERS APPRECIATED

The seventh and eighth grade students wrote letters of appreciation to the Phillips Petroleum Co. for the Walraven book covers that they donated to the Crowell School this year. The following has been selected for the Wildcat.

Dear Sirs:

Walraven book covers are really appreciated in this school. We wish to express our thanks for the covers.

I think the Phillips Petroleum Company's advertisements of mixing things of the past with the present are clever. I again want to express my thanks. Sincerely yours, The above letter is an example of the many fine notes written by the classes.

Hallowe'en night, ghosts, goblins and witches were on the loose at the Junior class party held in the home of Janis Crowell.

The late ten o'clock guests were greeted at the door by a stuffed jack-o-lantern man. Inside, the room was filled with many festive Hallowe'en decorations, a table with a centerpiece of golden flowers, attractively placed Hallowe'en napkins, and appetizers was the main attraction. The witches' menu consisting of hot dogs and cold drinks was enjoyed by all.

To complete the party, the junior class and their guests attended the midnight movie. Many thanks go to the class mothers, Mrs. Marion Crowell, Mrs. J. T. Brooks, Mrs. Tom Abston, Mrs. Robert Long and Mrs. Henry Fiske, and to the class officers for making this Hallowe'en occasion a big success.

WILDCATS BEAT LOCKETT

Crowell's Wildcat blasted Lockett last Thursday night in an offensive battle led by halfbacks Jimmy Thaxton and Roy Don Payne. This game was originally scheduled for Friday night, but was moved up so that it wouldn't conflict with the Paducah-Chillicothe game. With a halftime lead of 27 points, the Wildcats came back in the next period to show that they weren't slowing down. The Panthers only score came on a 63 yard scamper by Dewayne Bachman. Crowell's longest run was a 52 yard run by Thaxton.

Crowell's reserves finished game which Crowell won. The Wildcats journey to Paducah Friday afternoon.

Management Hints Given on Grazing Winter Pastures

The amount of winter grazing you get from small grains and annual clovers depends in a large measure upon the management practices used.

Give the young plants time to develop a hardy root system before turning in the livestock, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. The plants should be at least six inches tall before they are grazed. Their root systems will be developed to the point that grazing livestock will not materially reduce the stand by pulling up the plants. Grazing the young plants too early can result in depleted stands and a corresponding loss in production.

Trew says that rotation grazing gives the most efficient use of the forage produced by fast growing small grains and legumes. He recommends portable fencing for cutting the pasture into smaller plots because it is easy to move and inexpensive.

If weather conditions continue favorable and the grazing gets ahead of the livestock, mow the excess to prevent early booting. Too, if allowed to make too much growth, small grains are more susceptible to winter killing, says Trew.

Winter grazing usually is very succulent and a little dry hay should be provided to help balance the diets of livestock.

Finally, Trew says that pastures are a cash crop and they should be managed as such.

A recent study of more than 1500 industrial plants over a 10-year period revealed that industries showing the greatest increase in employment also showed the greatest increase in use of water.

The 11 principal ports in Texas served by ship channels handled 141,000,000 tons of cargo in 1953, according to the Texas Water Conservation Association.

Justices of the Peace Deliver Heavy Fines to Game Law Violators

Texas justices of the peace sounded a grim warning on game law violators as the major hunting seasons got underway.

The admonition came jointly through the latest arrest report from the Director of Law Enforcement for the Game and Fish Commission. It revealed severe penalties for assorted violations, principally taking more than the limit and in shooting out of season.

An example of the treatment given to more flagrant cases was the $300 fine plus costs meted out to a Dallas man for having three mourning doves over the ten bird limit. The justice of the peace set the price at $100 per excess bird plus the costs totaling approximately another $100.

Fifteen cases in all of persons exceeding the bag limit was reported in the arrest compilation. The major cases for hunting out of season involved deer raids. The largest levy in one incident involved three men from Harris County in southeast Texas.

Wardens caught this trio with a fawn deer in the trunk of their car. The animal still was alive when the car was stopped although it had been shot twice when headlights at night.

The justice of the peace fined each of the three $200 plus costs. He fined one for shooting a fawn deer, another for hunting deer in closed season and the other for possessing a fawn deer.

Common offenses involved hunting from automobiles, hunting with an unplugged gun, lacking hunting licenses and shooting before and after the legal daily period.

Wardens got into the act in enforcing better water safety by arresting two men for driving motor boats while intoxicated.

BOY, 4, SHOOTS UP TOWN

Glasgow, Mont. — A 4-year-old boy, left alone in a parked car, picked up a .22 caliber rifle in the car and proceeded to "shoot up the town." Deep Plowing Paid Off for Refugio County Farmers

Refugio County farmers are finding from experience that deep plowing and chiseling, done early in the fall, doesn't cost, but pays.

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer reports that during the past five years the practice has been responsible for increased yields and more income. When done early ahead of the fall rains, the additional water stored in the soil has made the difference in crop yields.

Ben Abney of the Woodshoro community deep plowed 15 to 16 inches, 10 acres last fall on which cotton was planted. Yield from this acreage was 77 pounds of lint more an acre than from similar land not deep plowed. The net increase amounted to better than $17 an acre. Abney reports Bredthauer, is deep plowing an additional 100 acres this fall. A special reversible four bottom moldboard plow which leaves no water furrow is used.

Bredthauer says O. T. Smith who farms in the Austwell area is well pleased with results from 14 inch deep chiseling. Smith reports that he harvested an average of 4,393 pounds of Red Bine 66 an acre from 400 acres which had been chiselled. Yields on similar land in the neighborhood which was not treated approximated 3,500 pounds an acre.

Good news spreads and the county agent says that at least 10 other farmers already have made plans to either deep plow or chisel all or part of their cropland.

Bredthauer sums it up this way. "Seed bed preparation is known to have a considerable influence on crop yields under dry land farming. The amount of moisture stored in the soil before seeding and the rainfall absorbed by the soil during the growing season greatly influences crop yields. Any practice which aids in retaining run-off water and storing it deep in the subsoil and improves soil tilth will greatly improve the chances for good yields under dry land farming as done in Refugio County."

Fast Travel Makes Animal Disease Control More Difficult

Travel so fast that it outruns the normal incubation period of nearly all animal diseases presents a special problem in disease control, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Last year, for the first time in history, overseas exports of cattle were greater by air than by ocean vessel, according to the USDA. Also, more than 90 per cent of our imported poultry came by air and about 75 per cent of our imported horses.

Imports and vehicles must be checked carefully both before and after shipment to insure that they bring us no foreign diseases. In many cases insect or other possible carriers are already present, and only the disease agent itself is needed to cause an outbreak with which we have had no experience. The quarantine and inspection activities of USDA guard against such an emergency.

"FOLDING MASTS"

The USS Forrester is equipped with "folding masts" so that the aircraft carrier may pass under the Brooklyn Bridge.

While Texas' population has not quite tripled since 1890, water consumption has increased 7,000 per cent, says the Texas Water Conservation Association.

More than 6,000,000 acres of land in Texas were under irrigation with requirements for a single acre ranging from 300,000 to 2,000,000 gallons per year.

Eighty per cent of the flood and storm waters in Texas rush unused into the Gulf of Mexico, the Texas Water Conservation Association estimates.

by VERN SANFORD Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex. — One thousand education-minded Texans, meeting in Austin, selected "No federal aid, no federal control" as the theme they will take to the White House Conference on Education Nov. 28-Dec. 1.

Texas is one of five states that refuses federal funds for staging state and local education conferences.

Gov. Allan Shivers told the delegates to the conference that Texas did not seek federal aid to education. Further aid to the school system, he said, should come from the state, but without strings of control from the state level upon the local districts.

Rather than federal aid, one leader suggested "relief from the stupendous federal tax burden" to allow states more latitude for school financing. A re-examination of the state's total tax structure in search of additional school revenue was proposed.

Other problems on which the Texas Conference on Education exchanged ideas were: 12-months-a-year or six-days-a-week use of buildings; attracting and holding good teachers; keeping curricula up-to-date.

A consensus of their findings will be compiled into a report to be taken to the White House Conference.

Court Re-Considers

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals is, for the second time, pondering the legality of the Duval Co. grand jury which returned 104 indictments against county officials.

This time it also is considering charges by Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd that it "misrepresented facts" on its Oct. 5 decision, nullifying the grand jury's action.

In a vigorous argument for reversal, Shepperd contended the majority opinion reflected on the "propriety and motives" of himself and Judge A. S. Broadfoot. He referred specifically to statements concerning alleged collusion between himself and Broadfoot.

Judge Broadfoot dismissed one grand jury in Duval County and made arrangements for a new one, which the high court held illegal. Shepperd's office assisted with the South Texas investigations.

Master Plan Outlined

Visitors to Austin will have new sights to see in the Capitol area before long.

Guiding factors for the creation of a "state government center," with the Capitol building at the core, have been outlined by a professional planning firm.

A new state courts building and a state office building are to be constructed in the area soon. In locating them the planning specialists suggested:

1. That none should tower over the capitol dome.
2. That off-street parking be provided.
3. That easy pedestrian access be provided for all buildings.
4. That further commercial development in the capitol area be controlled.

Land Sales Reopened

Requests from over 3,000 veterans were included in a drawing which officially reopened the Texas land program last week.

The first 300 drawn were to receive application forms immediately. The remainder will receive notices of where they stand in line and will receive their application forms at a later date.

Land Office Commissioner J. Earl Rudder looked on as Charles L. Downey, department commander of the American Legion, drew the name of Olin R. Talley of Buffalo Gap as the first on the application list.

Rudder said careful measures are being taken to prevent favoritism. This was one of the factors revealed in the investigations which caused the program to be shut down last November.

Skelton Elected

In electing him chairman of the Texas Democratic Advisory Committee, Byron Skelton of Temple told the DAC they had, in effect, made him chairman of the Democratic Party in Texas.

A resolution at the DAC meeting in Waco, to leave the national committeeman post vacant until the May convention was rejected. In its place, the committee adopted a resolution setting forth "prime qualifications" for a national committeeman and committee woman.

No direct reference was made to the choice of Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, recently named committeeman. Ramsey's appointment had the approval of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who organized the DAC to fill the place of national committeeman after Wright Morrow was ousted from the post.

Johnson Dinner Planned

If plans materialize, a testimonial dinner for U. S. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson will be given in Austin in December.

Meantime, there have been suggestions to name Johnson Texas' "favorite son" candidate for president. Johnson said he had no intention of being proposed as a candidate. He said he had every hope of forming a legislative program in Congress which can be carried to the people. "If we do our job in Congress right, the election will take care of itself."

Texas Schools Praised

A letter to Governor Shivers from Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten at Fort Carson, Colo., praised Texas' public school system.

General Van Houten said outstanding trainees are selected from approximately 1,500 newly inducted soldiers each month in the basic training program.

Keep Your Checking Account Above the "Safety Level"!

Yes, it's embarrassing—and it doesn't make a good impression—to be "caught short" and not have enough funds in your checking account to write the check you want to write.

Maintaining an ample balance at all times is good business practice. Then you are always prepared for any emergency which may arise or any opportunity to make a profit by having ready cash in your checking account.

It pays in many ways to keep your checking balance above what you consider the "safety level."

Watch Out for Others Is Good Traffic Rule

"Be your brother's keeper. Watch out for others in traffic!" E. C. McFadden, president, Texas Safety Association, Inc., made that plea to Texas drivers this week as he urged them to cooperate with the Pedestrian Safety program, the Texas Safety Association, Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council are conducting.

Mr. McFadden reminded drivers to be especially considerate of three types of pedestrians who are extremely vulnerable in traffic. These are children, old people and the blind.

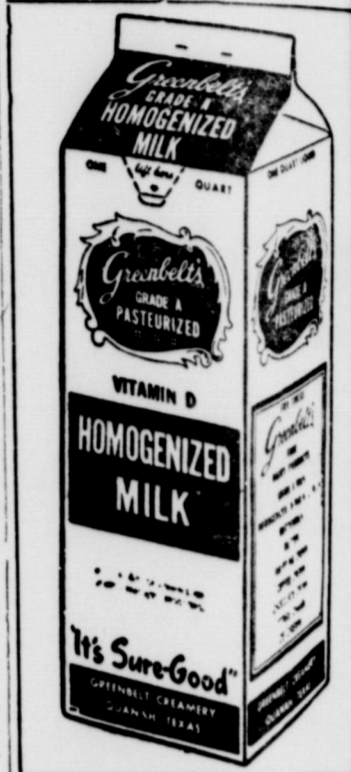

"Youngsters are often heedless and forget safety rules in the excitement of play, and the motorist must keep a constant look-out for them," Mr. McFadden said. He said that oldersters are likely to have slowed reactions and impaired sight and hearing, so the driver must give them plenty of time to cross streets and must not frighten them or confuse them.

"The most vulnerable pedestrians of all, of course, are the blind," Mr. McFadden said. "They carry a white cane to let the sighted know that they must help the blind when possible."

The way in which a driver can help is to realize that although the blind person may look as if he is aware of the traffic situation it is not to assume that he is not and to proceed with extreme caution.

"Although the driver has a special obligation to the pedestrians just mentioned, he also has an obligation to every other pedestrian and driver he meets in traffic," Mr. McFadden said. "Every driver would discharge this obligation to the fullest, there would be far fewer traffic accidents."

Don't Burn 'Em... Pile 'Em—Leaves, That Is

Don't fret when the leaves begin to fall. If properly handled they can be a boost to next year's flower or vegetable garden, says M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist.

It may be easier to burn them but the extra time required to put them in a compost pile will return dividends, explains the specialist. The compost can be used next year to increase the organic matter in the soil or for mulching flowers, shrubs or vegetables. Mulches are valuable for controlling soil temperature and conserving moisture.

Making a compost pile is a simple operation. Scrap lumber or a few feet of net wire and four posts will take care of the enclosure, says Thornton. Start with a six inch layer of leaves and for a four foot square enclosure dissolve a cup of commercial fertilizer, either 5-10-5 or 8-8-8, in water and sprinkle the solution over the leaves. Keep adding these alternate layers until the pile reaches the desired height. Leave the top layer somewhat saucer shaped as an aid for holding water on the leaves. Cover the pile with a shallow layer of soil.

Turning the material occasionally will speed up the decomposition of the leaves and the addition of water, during dry weather, will also help speed up the composting process. In areas where soils are acid, Thornton suggests adding a cup of lime to the fertilizer.

First Traffic Death Involved Pedestrian

The first recorded traffic death in this country was a pedestrian struck after he had alighted from a street car, according to the Texas Safety Association. And pedestrians have been getting themselves killed by automobiles ever since.

You'd think that in the many years automobiles have been part of the American scene, pedestrians would have learned to live with them. But statistics prove they haven't.

Last year 7,900 pedestrians were killed in traffic.

What's the reason behind this whole distressing problem? There are many reasons, of course. Some of them involve the pedestrian... most of them involve carelessness on somebody's part.

But one fact looms large in any study of pedestrian accident fatalities—a great many pedestrians killed each year are non-drivers. They are unfamiliar with the limitations of the driver and his car.

This fact gives both drivers and walkers a valuable clue on the prevention of pedestrian traffic deaths.

Because of it the driver should expect the pedestrian to have faulty judgment in estimating the speed of an automobile, in figuring how well the driver can see him, in determining how long it will take the driver to bring the car to a stop, etc. The driver who proceeds on the assumption that the pedestrian has no appreciation of the driver's problems will act as if the whole job of keeping pedestrians safe in traffic depends on him. And he will keep many pedestrians safe.

In the same way, the walker who realizes that many pedestrian deaths are brought about by ignorance on the part of pedestrians themselves, will not be likely to trust his own judgment of what the driver can see and hear and how he can be expected to react. Such a pedestrian will never venture across a street until he is sure he has ample time to reach the opposite side in safety. He will never assume that just because he can see the headlights of a car, the driver can see him. He will look upon the driver as an unpredictable factor, whose reactions and limitations can not be accurately judged by the man in the street.

If both drivers and walkers would expect the unexpected from each other, many pedestrian accidents could be prevented.
