Crowell Wildcats Win Over Memphis Cyclones 20 to 6; Play at Quanah Friday

Crowell High School football defeated the Memphis Cyclones 20 to 6 at Memphis last night. The score was tied at halftime but the Wildcats outplayed the Cyclones during the last half. The Cyclones were not able to score a single first down during the last two quarters.

Memphis
First downs	138
Yds. rushing	30
Yds. passing	2-1
Passes completed	2-1
Punt average	25

The Cyclones' lone score came on a 30-yard pass from David Davis, quarterback, to right end Bobby Scott in the second quarter. Crowell scored once in the third quarter and twice in the fourth quarter.

The real feature of Crowell's playing was the defense in the last half. Sophomores Ivan Cates, Tom Crowell and Jim Henry came through in this department in a magnificent manner. However, the blocking of Billy Everson, Jerry Pittillo, Dale Rettig, and others should be recognized. David Kilgore played a good game at tackle for the Cyclones.

The Wildcats will journey to Quanah this Friday night to play their old 2A rivals. The Indians have lost to Stamford and won over Paducah thus far this season. Crowell played this team to a 21 to 20 game last year. In case Crowell's cripples recuperate, this one should be close, too.

Deal to Women Is Key to Success Modern Retailing Business merchandise have to show more respect for the hand-bag than the wallet. Macy's of New York reports that women buy 80 per cent of the men's shirts sold by that store. A national survey shows that women buy 90 per cent of all household supplies and 62 per cent of all hardware.

Even the lumber companies in Chicago are slanting their newspaper advertising to women. The reason: women initiate 90 per cent of all home remodeling jobs and boss the buying and building.

The research designed to help business men become women experts tells why women buy as well as what they buy. For one thing, it shows that women believe in advertising. The research shows that women like advertising in their publications, and that they depend upon advertising to guide them in their shopping.

For most women, advertising is an integral part of magazines and newspapers. Newspaper readership research conducted by universities and independent agencies shows that over 70 per cent of women readers may be expected to peruse the retail advertising in the typical small newspaper. It shows that more women read local advertising than read the society section, and that advertising is the first feature a woman often turns to when she opens the paper.

HOW'S OUR SCHOOL SPIRIT?

Do the students of CHS have school spirit? Believe it or not the answer is SOMETIMES. Just what is school spirit? It is the pride that the students show in being a part of CHS, in taking part in all its activities. School days are not so bad when there is something to do—something to work for—something to look forward to—something to break the daily grind. No student will, I am sure, forget the excitement of last year's student council election—why? I can tell you why—everybody was doing something—everybody was working—everybody was having fun being a part of the student body of CHS. It is this interest in a common cause that shows true school spirit—this pride in being a part of the group. Of course a few hate to get off their "high horse" and admit they're proud of their school. This brings us to the subject of school spirit in connection with football. Sure we support our team! We cheer—when they are winning. But what happens when they are losing? How many followed our team to the game at Monday last year? Yes, the going was rough; odds were against the team, and what did the so-called high school football student enthusiasts do? Well, if I remember right, most of them stayed at home. But—back to this year—where was the school spirit at last week's pep rally and later at the game at Memphis? To be frank—it was rather "puny." Now football is no game for the lukewarm. If you care for your team, support them when they are winning—support them with a greater effort when they are losing—and if you really care nothing about football—go to the picture show and enjoy yourself. If you come to the game don't look down your nose at those who cheer their team. If you are a real ball enthusiast, let's hear about it. Let's go to Quannah tomorrow night! Let's back our Wildcats—win or lose! Let's show true school spirit!

listening to Leo Spencer talk about the field of insurance. Thank you, Mr. Spencer.

SENIOR GIRL OF THE WEEK

 L—likeable.
 I—intelligent.
 Z—zealous.
 A—amiable.
 B—becoming.
 E—esteemed.
 T—trustful.
 H—helpful.

D—aring.
 A—attractive.
 V—versatile.
 I—industrious.
 S—superb.

Yes, all of these little traits spell one thing when combined—Elizabeth Davis, our senior girl of the week.

"Lizzy," as her classmates call her, is the vice president of the senior class, president of the Thespian Society, and last year, was elected band sweetheart by members of the Wildcat Band.

Any type of Spanish food meets Lizzy's approval as does listening to rhythm and blues records, preferably "Diana," her favorite song. Her favorite sport is basketball, both in participation and from a sideline's point of view.

In school, home economics is her favorite subject, and English IV is her most difficult. She is a good writer and last year was state winner in the soil conservation essay contest.

After graduation, Lizzy plans to attend North Texas State College, and her desire is to study child psychology. In anything that Elizabeth Davis does, we all know that she will be a success.

SENIOR BOY OF THE WEEK

He's 17 years old, stands 5'9" tall, has blue-green eyes, has dark brown hair, which has been peroxidized black, and he was vice president of the band for a year. His favorite food is fried chicken, and he likes rhythm and blues music.

In school, he considers English as his hardest subject, while band is his easiest.

He likes to participate in either baseball or tennis; football is his best sport as a spectator.

Any kind of hunting meets his taste, and it wouldn't take much to persuade him to go fishing.

After graduation, our senior boy plans to go to West Texas State College, and his secret desire is to be a professional baseball player.

Who is this senior boy of the week? Well, it's none other than our own Eugene Davis!

SIDELINE (NOT SO) SILLIES

(Editor's note)—This article and the editorial were written by different students, neither knowing that the other had chosen the subject of School Spirit. Therefore the staff decided to publish both as it must be a pretty important subject right now. What has happened to Crowell's School Spirit?

The so-called pep rally Friday afternoon was a disgrace, and it was no fault of the cheerleaders, who work harder than anyone I know, or the band, which practices just as hard. It was the fault of no one but the students. (In other words — YOU). Oh, granted, some half-heartedly yelled, but the majority just sat there, doing nothing. It was so dead that I thought that they would play the funeral march instead of the fight song. Come to think of it, maybe they should have and then should have carried the whole school out in a casket. It would have been quite appropriate.

Now, no fooling, we can do something about OUR spirit. All that has to be done is for each student to show just a teeny-weensy bit of pride and enthusiasm for our school. (You may not like it, but you've got to admit that it is a whole lot nicer place when there is a little fun involved.) So, let's get together and prove that we're proud of our school. And, too, let's not wait until next year to do it. Let's do it Friday night!

Incidentally, we won a game last Friday night. Can you beat that?

STUDENT COUNCIL SPONSORS BON FIRE

Attention everybody! The Student Council is sponsoring a Bon Fire Thursday night at 7:30 p. m. The purpose of the bon-fire is to stir up school spirit. If the townspeople and the student body will cooperate, this project can be a success. In order to make things more lively, the Crowell Wildcat Band under the direction of Earl Hesse, will play.

I have been asked to please tell all freshmen to be at the bon fire. —pd. adv. by Seniors.

CAT SCRATCHES

Hail, fellow cats! Here I am, "tag-along Tabby, the Wildcat," back again for more adventures.

Monday morning I had a very pleasant experience. I crawled into the car of one of the girls before lunch and received a free meal at the Down Town Bible class room. Why? Well, the county Federation gave all the Columbian and Adelpian Club girls a luncheon. The food was delicious and the program was good.

The other day I was prowling around the school when I saw TV broadcast, a visit to the Will Rogers State Park, a drive through Hollywood and Beverly Hills, a long drive along the coast with Cliff Crowell and his sister, Maebel, and a church service, all made our week's visit with our friend, Mrs. Dorsey, a perfect week.

In San Francisco, there are many "mysts." Highlights there included Fisherman's Wharf, Golden Gate Bridge, Knob Hill, Oakland Bay Bridge and a nice view of Alcatraz Island, which is about a mile from the mainland, where one may get free room and board with bars in every room, no parking or traffic problems. It looked like a good place not to be.

Two weeks in Sacramento

beautiful clarinet solo. Who was playing it? I just had to see! I darted out of the uniform room and who do you think it was? Mr. Hesse. Yes sir, that music was the most!

It was 10 a. m. Wednesday—time for the Coke break, so I slumped inside the typing room for fear I'd get my right ear knocked down. When all was quiet, I ventured down the hall. I saw something shiny in the corner—and another something in the door, and I decided to investigate further. I scurried upstairs—and the next thing I knew, I was tumbling headlong down the steps. What had happened? I had stamped my paw on one of those curious objects—what? A Coke bottle left on the stairs. So please put those empty Coke bottles where they belong. See you next week.—Tabby.

BAND BEATS

After a hard week's work at marching and playing, the band performed for the first time under the direction of Mr. Hesse Friday night at Memphis. We all think he's doing a wonderful job.

We hope everyone enjoyed the band's part in the pep rally Friday. It gave you and us a chance to see how talented Mr. Hesse really is. Wasn't he great?

The band enjoyed being back out on the field at halftime again and we hope to keep on improving enough to make a very good showing for Crowell at the marching contest later this year. Our thanks to the students, teachers, and merchants for their help and backing in getting off to a good—even if it was late—start this season.

MRS. DAVIS VISITS CALIFORNIA

This was the privilege of Mrs. Davis to make a trip to California this past summer. We asked her to relate the highlights so that you too might share in her experiences.

Fort Worth, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento are all great vacation spots, and when one gets to visit them all in one summer, it's wonderful, especially when accompanied by a sister. "Around the World in Eighty Days" gave us a three-hour rest in a Dallas theater.

In Los Angeles, we had no time for rest. Forest Lawn with world famous art treasures, Clifton's Garden for Meditation, Farmer's Market, a trip to Disneyland, two TV broadcasts, a visit to the Will Rogers State Park, a drive through Hollywood and Beverly Hills, a long drive along the coast with Cliff Crowell and his sister, Maebel, and a church service, all made our week's visit with our friend, Mrs. Dorsey, a perfect week.

In San Francisco, there are many "mysts." Highlights there included Fisherman's Wharf, Golden Gate Bridge, Knob Hill, Oakland Bay Bridge and a nice view of Alcatraz Island, which is about a mile from the mainland, where one may get free room and board with bars in every room, no parking or traffic problems. It looked like a good place not to be.

Two weeks in Sacramento brought many new experiences. Strawberry Lodge, Placeville, Lake Tahoe, Lodi, Stockton all had their special reasons for existing.

Now that my vacation is in the remembrance stage, I am still enjoying every minute of it.

Thanks, Mrs. Davis, for this account of your trip. We'll let you readers in on a secret. We asked her for her opinion of Hollywood and her reply was "It seemed no different from any other place."

IS YOUR CHILD INSURED?

A number of students and faculty members have taken advantage of the Schooltime Accident Insurance made available at the low cost of $2.00 per person.

The policy covers any accident that occurs while attending school, while traveling directly to or from the insured's residence, while participating in school sponsored activities. It does not cover accident of athletes as they participate in sports; however, the athletic department carries a special policy for these students at the cost of $8.00 each.

F. H. A. ORGANIZES

The 1957 F. H. A. members met for the first time Monday, Sept. 9, at the Home Economics Cottage. The president, Roxiann Adkins, selected an entertainment chairman, Elizabeth Davis, and a financial chairman, Shirley Fox. Suggestions were made for making money in the future.

Unable to go with the girls to the Dallas Fair on Oct. 5, Mrs. Kenner suggested selecting mothers as chaperones. Those selected are Mrs. Marvin Myers, Mrs. George Sledge, Mrs. Houston Adkins and Mrs. Bill Sledge. Reservations are being made for those who plan to go. Our next meeting will be with our chaperones Thursday, Sept. 19, to plan for the "Big Trip."

Before recessing until next January, Congress decided to keep general farm legislation unchanged for another year, and instructed Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson not to make important program changes.

The understanding is that Congress will place new general farm legislation at the top of the list of problems to be taken up in January, but that whatever changes are made will be dated to become effective in 1959.

It will be difficult to avoid another farm legislation stalemate next year. This congress has made it emphatically clear that it does not intend to follow Benson's recommendations, and President Eisenhower has indicated he will veto any bill not approved by his Agriculture Secretary.

Benson and the splintered Farm Bloc in Congress did not get along well in the first session of the 85th Congress and there is little prospect that relations will be better in the second session.

Congress will be back January 7 and all indications are that Benson will still be here, and that he intends to be around for another couple of years after that. President Eisenhower says he plans no further Cabinet changes before his term ends.

There are wide, and sometimes sharp, differences of opinion on how well present farm laws and programs are working. Benson claims all that needs to be done is to give him unlimited authority to set price support rates. He would lower supports, he says.

Both farm prices and income apparently will average out for this year at very little different from 1956, but at something like 25 per cent under 1953, the first year of Benson-Eisenhower farm program management.

Congress would have liked to make changes this year in the farm laws, but violent bickering broke out early in the session over a corn bill and the result was the smallest output of new farm legislation in more than 30 years.

Out of the more than 500 farm bills introduced, only five managed to squeak through, and none of those was of much general importance. The bills themselves reflected the wide and varied thinking on what ought to be done.

Congress considered and debated farm issues exhaustively. The log of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees show that more than 700 hours were spent in hearing over 500 witnesses testify on farm bills.

A dozen or more farm bills were reported out by the committees, but failed to reach a vote in either the Senate or House, or both. All of those will be ready for floor debate when Congress returns.

The biggest stumbling block to new farm legislation this year was not only differences between Benson and Congress, but even sharper differences between the farm organizations and other "spokesmen" for farmers. The farm groups are farther apart than in many years.

It is apparent, too, that Congress much prefers that the farm groups take the lead in proposing new legislation. That way the congressmen can escape the responsibility for failure if things go wrong. But when the farm groups start fighting each other, Congress gets out of the way.

TREND TO MORE FEDERAL AID

"Today the trend of many, many people to assume that the federal government should furnish the money . . . your money and my money . . . for the financing of our schools, for furnishing subsidies to farmers, for building roads and in other ways supplying us with things which early citizens once considered their personal obligations is already breaking down the rights of states to maintain a normal degree of sovereignty, which was a cardinal principal among gifted men who wrote the Constitution of these United States . . . too great a leaning in this direction can only bring about socialization . . ." —Bartow, Fla., Democrat.

Austin, Tex.—For the 72nd time in Texas, the Legislature will convene in special session Oct. 14.

Throughout the summer there was lively debate as to whether such a step should be taken. Gov. Price Daniel put an end to speculation by setting the date. Purpose: to enact laws in regard to lobby control, representation before state agencies, crime study and water development.

Calling special sessions has been more the custom of Texas governors than not. Of the 71 previously called since Texas became a state, 41 have fallen in the 46-year period since 1911—almost one a year.

Almost all Governor Daniel's predecessors in the past 30 years called lawmakers back at least once. (Exceptions: Beauford Jester and W. Lee O'Daniel.) Gov. Dan Moody holds the record for keeping the Legislature busy. In 10 months of 1929 and 1930 he called five special sessions.

Runners-up are Gov. Miriam Ferguson, who called four in 1933 and 1934, and Gov. Ross Sterling, who called four in 1931 and '32. Gov. James V. Allred called three in 1935-'36 and two more in 1936 and '37.

In those days a legislator had to keep his bag packed.

What were the issues that kept the lawmakers so busy in those days? Mostly, the same ones they're working on today.

In the day of Governor Moody's five calls, regular sessions were only 60 days, so a lot of routine business overflowed. But he also called their attention to special problems. Many sound familiar—improvement of the Prison System, "along modern and scientific lines," regulation of securities sales, investigation of charges against a state official. At one time Governor Moody vetoed all the appropriation bills and told the Legislature to try again—within the budget.

Governor Sterling asked legislators to enact a program to conserve natural resources, particularly oil and gas, and to help farmers, hard hit by sagging cotton prices. Sterling also had a states rights vs. federal courts problem in that the U. S. Supreme Court had negated Texas' oil production laws.

Mrs. Ferguson had to call lawmakers back again and again to wrestle with the "hard times" of the thirties. Relief bonds to help the unemployed and destitute were passed. In one of her calls, Mrs. Ferguson, with an eye for housewifely problems, called on lawmakers "to make needed appropriation for refrigeration in the Governor's Mansion."

Governor Allred's special sessions dealt with some of the most stirring issues of the thirties. He asked for liquor selling regulations following the repeal of Prohibition and for a law banning pari-mutuel betting at race tracks. He also asked for money for old age pensions ($15 a month in those days) and for more taxes to get the general revenue fund out of the red.

In most cases, the governors got the laws they wanted passed—sometimes by calling one session on the end of another, sometimes in a session as short as nine days.

WATER PROGRAM OKAYED
—In one area—water development—legislators have their work cut out for them.

A 150-member statewide water committee approved a three-point program proposed by the governor. It calls for:

1. Appropriating $1,024,000 to set up a planning division under the State Water Board.
2. Laws enabling the state to contract for water storage space in federal reservoirs.
3. An all-out push to rally support for passage of the $200,000,000 water bond amendment to be voted on Nov. 5.

Harry Providence, Waco editor, is chairman of the campaign committee. Lon C. Hill, Corpus Christi businessman, is co-chairman.

WINDOW - JUMPING DEFERRED — Several people in Austin have suggested forming an "I'm bored with BenJack" Club.

Their attitude stems from Promoter BenJack Cage's refusal to testify about his part in ICT affairs during his appearances in Austin. During his flamboyant return to Texas several weeks ago Cage promised to tell things about the bankrupt companies' affairs that "would have people jumping out of windows."

Cage stayed only 10 minutes when he appeared before the Travis County grand jury. When called by the House investigating committee, he invoked the Texas brand of the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify.

If sensational information is to be revealed, it apparently will not come until Cage comes to trial in Dallas on charges of embezzling ICT funds.

OFFICER HITS TRAFFIC LAWS — Texas is behind other states in traffic regulations and ahead on traffic accidents, says a Texas safety official.

C. G. Conner, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol, said Texas has one of the highest traffic death tolls in the nation. It's as much as three times as safe to drive in some other states where more up-to-date laws are being enforced, he said.

Texas had 250,000 accidents last year, Conner reported. He suggested more driver education courses for teen-agers, more traffic courts, more arresting of drunk drivers.

OFFICER LICENSING PROPOSED — Serving as a peace officer should be a profession, like law, medicine and teaching, says Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

Wilson suggested a state licensing program whereby would-be peace officers would have to meet certain requirements.

It would be slow getting established, said Wilson, but would raise standards and emphasize the importance of the officer's work.

New Publications on Irrigation Now Available Here

Irrigation is a means of maintaining a continuous supply of available moisture in the plant root zone of the soil throughout the growing season. The irrigator should keep a careful check on soil moisture conditions, for irrigation must be started soon enough to arrive at the last portion of the field before its available water has been exhausted, says Joe Burkett, county agent.

A practical method for estimating the available soil moisture is to take a small amount of soil, squeeze it in the hand so as to form a ball; then refer to a chart that is given in a leaflet, L-355, "How to Estimate Soil Moisture by Feel," for a description of the feel and appearance of different textured soils for various moisture percentages.

Another leaflet that will be of interest to irrigators is L-358, "Irrigation Siphon Tubes." These tubes are used to divert water from a supply ditch to the land. They permit easy control of water and reduce labor and ditch maintenance.

The leaflet gives a description of the tubes and contains sections on the flow from siphon tubes and how to start siphons. It also contains a chart that is helpful in determining the rate of flow from siphons.

Paragraphs Taken from Richardson Autobiography

The following paragraphs from the autobiography of the late T. C. Richardson, 1877-1956, associate editor of the Farmer-Stockman, from 1943 to 1956, which concern Crowell and its early-day school, are being reprinted from the September issue of the Farmer-Stockman, Sam Whitlow, editor. Mr. Richardson, known as the rambling editor of the farm paper, was not only one of the pupils to attend the first school in Crowell, but before his sudden death in November last year, he was a frequent visitor in Crowell and Foard County and was well known and loved by many people here. He claimed to have started his newspaper career by helping to print The Foard County News on occasions during his early-day schooling here.

Mr. Richardson had just completed his autobiography shortly before his death. The Farmer-Stockman is printing a portion of it in its monthly editions. The following paragraphs are taken from Chapter Seven and concern Crowell's first school and pupils of that day. They follow:

"Somehow the study of Latin grammar and English simultaneously began to enlighten my understanding of the whys and wherefores of the grammatical rules. Or maybe my adolescent mind was just becoming capable of reasoning instead of merely memorizing.

"Anyway, the smattering of Latin that I got under Prof. B. R. Blankenship was another landmark in my erratic educational career. It has influenced my knowledge of my native language out of all proportion to the time I spent with it. Prof. Blankenship led me deeper into my beloved plane geometry and algebra.

"We 'trapped' in the Latin class, as in spelling. A few of us were good enough to hold our rank day after day, moving from foot to head together. Fannie Meason was head and I was next one morning when Prof. Blankenship came to 'hear' the lesson. 'Fannie, you've got measles,' he exclaimed as he looked us over. Whereupon he sent Fannie home and fled the room—he hadn't had measles either! He and I came down with the measles the same day, just when term exams were coming up.

"From his bedroom, Prof. Blankenship sent out the examination questions, putting us on honor. A fellow-student brought mine to the house and picked up the finished papers for 3 days, while I was running a fever and breaking out with measles. I made passing grades, but it left my eyes so badly weakened that I had to use glasses for several months.

"'Commencement' was upon us, a term I had never before heard for what we called the close of school. It still seems odd, but I understand it means 'commencing' a new life rather than closing the formal educational career. Crowell College had an ambitious commencement program which lasted 3 nights and put every student from tiny tot in the primary to young men with mustaches and grown young ladies through their paces.

"I was assigned 'Marco Bozaris' as a declamation, and my coaches struggled manfully to develop my dramatic delivery. Somehow I could never rise to the exaggerated gestures and orotund artificially demanded, so when my time came I recited it in a monotone that must have disgusted the 2 good ladies who had worked on me so faithfully. To be honest, I was delighted with myself, but stage fright had me in its relentless grip.

"No parties, no dates, was the rigid rule at Crowell, except on 2 or 3 special occasions during the school term. There was at least one engaged couple, and several of both sexes of 'dating' age. Johnnie Boatwright was a cowboy grown, with a mustache, who bravely stood up in classes with third and fourth graders. His fiancée had already finished school, and his boss had promised Johnnie that when he was able to keep accounts and write reports, he would be made foreman of the ranch. It took nerve to start school with the a-b-c's, but Johnnie had it.

"When the rules were suspended, romance had its hectic day. Telephones there were none, and besides the social mores of that time and place demanded a high degree of formality. You didn't just ask a girl for a date by word of mouth, and probably would have been snubbed if you had.

"You took pen in hand and indited something like the following: 'Mr. Tom Whoosie requests the pleasure of Miss Judy Whatsername's company' at such and such a place and hour, 'R. S. V. P.' gave a freckled-faced urchin a dime to deliver the note and bring back the reply. Oh, we were socially 'au fait' at Crowell in those days.

"When the family moved back to the ranch at the end of school, I remained to try my business wings as a photographer. I built a dark room and tent on a vacant lot, which used up all my cash capital. Only when I was all ready for business, the sheriff (who was also tax collector) strolled over and informed me that I would have to pay a stiff state occupation tax, plus half as much more to the county. So my first business adventure died aborning, and I began to learn the legal facts of life.

News items below were taken from the issue of the Foard County News of Friday, Sept. 16, 1927:

He played third base with the Texas-Oklahoma League, and made an admirable record in batting and fielding. The Denver Post ran a picture of him recently as the most sensational fielder of the 1926 tournament.

"I hung my camera and equipment on my saddle horn and shook the dust of Crowell off my boots. At Quanah I got a job with the local photographer which lasted until after the Fourth of July rush. Among the many pictures Mr. Bonner made and I finished at that time was one of Quanah Parker, the Comanche chief for whom the town was named, and two of his wives, all mounted on cream-colored ponies. (They call 'em 'Palominos' now). Forty-odd years later the picture appeared in The Cattleman with John Hendrix's story on Texas cowtowns."

This concludes the reminiscences concerning the early day school system in Crowell. Mr. Richardson continued his studies in the Quanah schools.

Harvest Cotton for Top Profits

Proper harvesting and handling of seed cotton can add from $2.50 to $19 a bale to the income from this year's cotton crop, says Joe Burkett, county agent. Careless methods of harvesting and handling on the other hand can cause great damage to lint quality and lower its value.

Here are his suggestions for maintaining the inherent qualities of the crop. Do not harvest cotton when it is wet. Wait until 9 or 9:30 to start harvesting operations regardless of whether hand or machines are used. Cotton harvesting machines should not be operated at night when dew is present.

Machines should be kept clean and in good repair and serviced at the end of each day in accordance with the operator's manual. It must be remembered that the most elaborate gin cannot be expected to remove grass from lint cotton. Burkett advises defoliating when necessary. It will check or prevent boll rot and aid in preventing green leaf stain which lowers quality.

If a stripper is to be used, the agent advises waiting from 7 to 14 days after penta or other desiccants are applied before starting the stripping operation. A green boll box should be used on the front of a wire-sided or slat-sided trailer and bolls caught. The stripper should be equipped with a blower under the elevator and cotton should not be tramped in the trailer.

Mechanical harvesting of cotton, points out Burkett, means much more than putting machines into the field. It includes all aspects of production including plant breeding, field arrangement, soil care, crop residue disposal, seedling preparation, planting, fertilization, weed, insect and disease control, harvesting and improved ginning.

Sept. 30 Deadline for Applying for Gas Tax Refund

Farmers and ranchmen are reminded by Joe Burkett, county agent, that September 30 is the deadline for submitting applications for a refund of the Federal tax on gasoline used for farming purposes since July 1, 1936.

Farm operators who have not filed a claim may obtain Form 2240—the reporting form—from local county agents or Internal Revenue Service offices.

Burkett points out that claims will be checked for accuracy and claimants, therefore, should be certain that figures are correct. Sufficient records should also be

Fall Application of Fertilizer is Aid to Beautiful Lawn
A beautiful, well-kept lawn adds to the material value of a home and is a basic requirement for an attractive yard. A properly established and well-managed turf also provides a cool, restful cover and prevents soil blowing and washing.
Fertilization is the main practice to emphasize in the fall care for lawns, says Joe Burkett, county agent. Lawn grasses will go into the winter in a vigorous condition if they are well nourished. The grasses will remain green longer in the fall and will grow off earlier next spring.
The fertilizer should be applied about a month before the first expected frost, which would be about October 10 to 15. When summer grasses are pushed into lush growth by late fertilization, some grass may be damaged by a hard freeze. Also, applying the fertilizer too late prevents the grass from getting the most out of it before going dormant.
Apply a complete fertilizer with a 2-1-1 or 1-1-1 ratio at a rate to supply pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn, recommends the agent. This amount of nitrogen would be found in 20 pounds of 10-5-5 or 10-10-10, or in 25 pounds of 8-8-8.
After the fertilizer has been spread, Burkett advises watering it down. Soak the soil at least six inches deep. Plenty of moisture is necessary, for the plants can't use the fertilizer until it is dissolved. If the soil is already wet, just wash the fertilizer off the grass and onto the soil.

CHEVROLET PICKUP CLIMBS PIKES PEAK THE HARD WAY ...OFF THE ROAD!
An off-the-road run up Pikes Peak was called impossible by people who know the mountain well. But a production Chevrolet pickup actually did it ... to prove its pulling power and ruggedness!

All the way to the top without using the road! Here the truck scales high boulder pile near the 14,110-foot summit.

Steep grade near timberline—a rugged test of power. The power and torque of Chevrolet's famous Thriftmaster 6 proved more than a match for the most difficult grades.

Miles of loose boulders and thinning air offer extreme challenge. Yet the big Chevy engine never faltered; it performed flawlessly mile after mile, all the way up the mountain!

Final effort achieves summit! Pickup conquers Pikes Peak ... shows why Chevrolet trucks are famous for staying and saving on tough jobs! Talk trucks with your Chevrolet dealer.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK BY TED GOULDY

Trade was moderately active on most classes of cattle and calves at Fort Worth Monday. Slaughter steers were slow and steady to weaker, and there was some weakness reflected in the fleshy feeder cattle in sympathy with recent bearish trade on finished beefs.

Comparative prices included: good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings $20-23; medium and lower grades, $13-19; fat cows, $12.50-14.50; canners and cutters, $8-12.50; bulls, $11-15.50; good and choice slaughter calves $18.50 to 22; cull, common and medium, $11-18; stocker steer calves $24.50 down; stocker steer yearlings $21 down.

Choice butcher hogs topped at $20 and $20.25 at Fort Worth Monday, or 50 cents to $1 under levels late last week. Medium to good butchers drew $16.50 to $19.50. Packing sows sold from $18.50 downward.

A very small offering of sheep and lambs arrived at Fort Worth Monday, and prices were steady, quality considered. Good to low choice lambs topped at $20 to $21, and cull to medium lambs were sold from $13 to $19. Stocker and feeder lambs cashed at $15 to $20.

Soil Conservation News of District

Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District, Lower Pease River District Board: W. C. Howard, Grady Halbert, O. T. Holmes, O. H. Brandon, H. L. Ayers.

There are 490,575 acres of fire hazard in the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District. Heavy rains this spring have produced a weed crop on our rangeland that has not been equalled in many years. This tremendous crop of weeds creates a serious threat to many district cooperators.

A lot of damage is done when grassland is burned. Much of the valuable grass seed produced by desirable grasses during the year are ruined. Litter, which protects young grass seedlings, increases moisture intake of the soil and decreases runoff, is burned. Wildlife, livestock, equipment, fences and buildings are often burned along with the vegetation.

The supervisors of this district urge that cooperators take all the precautions possible to prevent their grassland from burning.

Fire lanes provide a great deal of protection against fires. It is extremely important that fire lanes be placed next to all highways and public roads. These lanes act as a buffer zone against fires started along these roads. Fire lanes should be at least 9 feet wide in tall vegetation such as broom weeds, for if they are not wide enough, the fire will jump them.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cerveny and girls and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matus and boys, all of Vernon, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Matus Sr., and family Sunday.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bartley, Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pennington, Longview, are parents of the groom.

Officiating at the ceremony performed before an improvised altar of palms, greenery and candelabra was Rev. Grady Adeock, pastor of the church. The brides were marked with candies, white satin bows and cascades of greenery. The altar held the bride's family Bible crossed with a single long-stemmed rose.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Paul Shirley, organist, and Mrs. Delmar McBeath and Mrs. Howard Ferguson, vocalists, who sang "Walk Hand in Hand with Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin sheath with a sabrina neckline and floor-length skirt, which extended into a train. A crown of seed pearls held a fingertip veil. The bride also wore elbow-length net mitts trimmed with rhinestone and pearls and carried a white Bible topped with white gardenias and love knot streamers.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Alta Nell Bartley, Crowell. Her street-length gown fashioned similar to the bride's, was a shrimp-colored peau de soie. She wore matching mitts, feather crownlet and veil.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sherman McBeath, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Travis Vecera, Crowell, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Jimmy Baulinghouse, Winona, sister of the groom. Honorary bridesmaids, who also lit the candles marking the vows and in the candelabra, were Misses Roberta Thompson, Mary Ann Leese and Betty Waldrip, all of Wichita Falls, and Gail Henderson, San Angelo. They were dressed in fall-colored formals.

Nieces of the bride, Donna Gail Vecera, Crowell, and Malinda Nell McBeath, Wichita Falls, were flower girls. Sidney Rhea McBeath, the bride's nephew, Wichita Falls, served as ring bearer.

Jimmy Baulinghouse of Winona was best man. Ushers and groomsmen included Sherman McBeath, Wichita Falls and Travis Vecera, Crowell.

The reception following the wedding was held in the church basement. The bride's table, centered with an arrangement of wedding bells encircled with white carnations, featured appointments in the bride's colors, shrimp and blush brown.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Lubbock where the groom will continue his studies in petroleum engineering at Texas Technological College.
