Hope That Castro Will Be Repulsed by Cuban People

Having nothing to offer the Cuban people but the unhappy fact that he is power, Castro has sought to make hating America a positive policy.

Again, America and all free lands must hope that, as it becomes daily clearer he does not serve those aspirations but only his own and the Communists, the Cuban people will repulse him and cast him into the oblivion where all political fakery and petty tyrants belong.—Sterling, Ill., Gazette.

Major Crimes in Texas Show 10.3 Per Cent Increase During 1960

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported this week that major crimes in Texas increased 10.3 per cent during the first six months of 1960 as compared with the same period last year.

The most pronounced increase, according to reports reaching the department from January 1 thru June 30, was a 19.2 per cent hike in the number of burglaries. However, the report showed a 15.1 per cent decrease in murders and homicides.

It is estimated that for the first six months of 1960 there were 96,681 major crimes committed in Texas, compared with 87,679 for a similar period in 1959. Projecting the six-months crime experience over a period of one full year, a crime rate of 2,096.4 crimes per 100,000 population is indicated, compared with 1,891.2 for 1959.

The department gave the following breakdown of the comparative totals of the seven major crimes tabulated: murder and homicide, 479 in 1960 through June, 564 in 1959; rape, 561 this year against 548 in 1959; robbery, 1,458 against 1,412 last year; burglary, 27,048 against 22,696 last year; aggravated assault, 5,851 against 5,818; theft, 53,789 against 48,996; and auto theft, 7,595 against 7,645.

An overall percentage increase in major crimes in Texas of 12.5 per cent was reported for the urban areas including all cities of 2,500 population or larger. This was offset only slightly by a decrease of less than one per cent in the rural areas of the state.

The territory of Alsace-Lorraine has changed hands four times in the past century.

Cemetery Report

Extra help has been employed and the entire cemetery has been given a thorough going-over. Now that weed growing season is over, it should be an object of pride throughout the winter. With lot owners' permission, the caretaker will gather up all old flowers and decorations.

Grave levelling and native grass planting is encouraged.

Saturday will be the last day of the rummage sale. All our collection of clothing must go. We have been open eight Saturdays and barely realized enough for our efforts.

Friends are urged to go out and see what has been done in the way of upkeep. We try to be very conservative with our general fund which must go for caretaker's hire, tools and water, and occasionally extra help.

Thanks to those who make this possible.
Mrs. N. J. Roberts.

The Blanche Groves Circle, the Lois Hart Circle and the Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary met together Monday afternoon at 3:30 in the home of Mrs. Norman Davis for mission study. Mrs. James Welch, mission study chairman, showed a very interesting film, "Evangelism in Latin America."

Refreshments were served to the group by the hostess, Mrs. Davis.

4-H Club Meeting

5th grade 4-H held a meeting in Mrs. Bounds' room Friday, Nov. 11, from 9 to 10 a. m. The president, Lynn Rader, called the meeting to order. Secretary Joe Ray Burkett read the minutes and called the roll. Bob Bird and Gary Tole gave a program on gun safety, boating safety, and camping safety. 5th grade 4H had a film on rescue breathing.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS HUNTING SEASON GOOD TIME TO MENTION BIRDS

This is about birds . . . "screwy" birds. Birds you've seen, but seldom read about.

They are called several names . . . most of them unprintable. Hunting season is a good time to mention them. If you recognize yourself as one of these birds . . . well and good . . . especially if you're man enough to change your feathers, or at least change your thinking or your attitude.

All of us have our faults. None of us possesses all these failings . . . thank goodness. But, if you are one of these birds . . . maybe you shouldn't go hunting at all. Maybe you should stay home and give some thought to correcting your faults.

On the other hand, maybe you can do something about it. If you can you'll gain the respect of your hunting companions as well as all the other men and women in the field and on the stream.

First bird we want to call attention to is the heavy-footed FENCEHAWK. He rides the fences for all they are worth. He spreads the barbed wire enclosures so wide you could drive a truck through them.

Crawling through one of the openings he makes in a barbed wire fence is a snap. In fact, he is so heavy footed and so strong armed that he pops the staples clear out of the posts.

Then he is wont to say, "They just don't make them staples like they usta!"

Another fine - feathered - friend is the SNIPEFLICKER.

He's the bird who tosses away cigarette stubs and cigar butts with reckless abandon.

This addleheaded snipeflicker has cost Uncle Sam (that's you and me, Bub) millions of dollars in fire damage to timber and wildlife.

He's not careless in our book. He's just one bird that doesn't give a hoot. If his grandchildren have no place to hunt, it makes no difference to him. What the heck does he care about the future! He won't be here anyway.

This bird's even worse than the MIGRATORY LITTERBIRD. That creature has the same attitude, true enough. Also—the same lack of respect for the property of others. And the same lack of appreciation of what has been made available to him by the farmer, or the parks board, or the game and fish commission. He's a litter-bird wherever he goes.

Often wonder what his home looks like inside . . . don't you? Betcha there are banana peels everywhere, apple cores all over the house and empty beer cans scattered about every room.

Goodness knows what the messy place really looks like. Sure couldn't be a very tidy spot . . . inside . . . judging by the way this bird litters up the outdoors.

There are plenty of other creatures of the woods and waves.

For example . . . the REDEYED SWALLOWER . . . better known as the BOOZEYBIRD.

No need for him to wear heavy hunting clothes. He's fired up internally.

Why be a comfortable 98 degrees, body-temperature bird, when you can feather your nest with 100-proof alcohol and feel oh so light headed?

Actually this bird isn't light-headed, he's empty headed. There are just no brain cells in that ivory-covered skull. Couldn't be, or he wouldn't be out hunting in that condition.

And, anyone who hunts with him better be a ROADRUNNER and in the finest trim. Otherwise, he'll never make it back to camp . . . alive.

The BOOZEYBIRD, incidentally, is more often than not . . . in part SNIPEFLICKER and part LITTERBIRD. They seem to team together in the roughest sort of way.

The REDEYED SWALLOWER also has many traits common to the LARGE MOUTH GROUSE . . . a very loquacious and vociferous animal. Much of his time is allocated to complaints that are reminiscent of the BELLYACHING BULLFROG, who's not even a part of the feathery tribe.

While we're at it, let's not overlook the DIMWITTED WOODS-RUFF. He the hot-tempered animal who clobbers the park fountain if it fails to work. He does so with the park bench and he doesn't care which collapses first, so long as his temper is not restrained.

You've seen this bird I know. I'm talking about the SNEAKY-EYED WOODPECKER. He transfers shrubbery from the field to his own front yard.

Not to be overlooked is the LARGE-POCKETED CAMPROBER. He is known to have carried off the grate from the roadside barbecue pits, to appropriate it for his own use. Neither does he think anything of totting all the extra state park firewood home with him.

Then there's the REDHATED LOON who doesn't know the difference (or care) between a 12-point buck and the farmer's choice Jersey cow. He's the farmer's delight. But only if the cow is heavily insured.

Too, let's not forget the ROOST-TAILED WATERTHRASHER. He's the speed demon of the waterways. This gink "wakes up" the fishermen with mammoth man-made waves. He boils them up as close to the angler's boat as the law allows . . . if not closer.

All these birds are fun-spoilers for everyone else. Evidently all they are out for is a lark.

These birds are not legal game. But more than one hunter thinks they should be. Among those who think so are the farmers whose cows are killed; the landowners whose fences are torn down; and the hunters whose lives are endangered.

Let's not spoil the fun for anyone. As we take to the field for a day of pleasant hunting, let's be more considerate of "the other fellow." Let's give thanks to those who make this great sport possible.

And let's do our part to make it an event for all to enjoy and all to live to remember.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin, Tex.—Like a debutante many charms have been wrapped in a lavish, full-color booklet and presented for the attraction of free-spending visitors.

First of its kind ever published in Texas, the 32-page brochure was compiled by the State Highway Department and is being distributed free. First printing of 400,000 copies is being sent to travel agencies, clubs, newspapers, anywhere that it may be used to draw tourists to Texas.

It is one of the first big steps in a program to reverse Texas' decline in tourist revenue.

Texas is "twenty years behind the times" in advertising tourist attractions, says Tom H. Taylor, director of the Travel and Information Division of the Highway Department. Next goal is get the Legislature to appropriate $300,000 to be used for media advertising over the country, as other states do.

Requests for copies of the brochure should be sent to the Travel and Information Division of the Texas Highway Department in Austin. Taylor said the Department expects heavy demand and will not be able to furnish the booklet in quantities.

MORE WATER AID IS GOAL—Gov. Price Daniel said he will ask the next Legislature to take action aimed at speeding up local water conservation projects.

Speaking to the Texas Water Conservation Association, the governor said he would urge more money for water projects and a more flexible financing program.

Marvin Nichols of Fort Worth, chairman of the Texas Water Development Board, urged that the present ceiling of $5,000,000 on any one water loan be raised to $15,000,000. Under the present water development program the state sells bonds to raise money to lend to local governments to help pay for water conservation construction. Lending is limited to one-third the total cost and $5,000,000 on any one project.

Nichols said the Water Development Board was "admittedly disappointed" in the small number of loans (eight for a total of $14,840,000) completed since the program was passed in 1957. Abundant rainfall has caused many local governments to lose a sense of urgency about water conservation, said Nichols.

Several speakers warned of the certainty of another drought. "Biggest problem in many cities by 1980 may be getting a good drink of water," said one.

INSURANCE RATE HIKE REJECTED—State Board of Insurance turned down by a unanimous vote a proposed 30 per cent increase in auto insurance rates.

Board will re-study the problem in June, 1961. Until then the present rates will continue.

Board also turned down by a 2-to-1 vote a proposal by Chairman Penn J. Jackson to allow companies to make the merit rating system optional. It is asking for an attorney general's opinion on whether optional merit rating would be legal.

Board member Robert W. Strain said he felt an across-the-board raise in auto insurance rates would be unfair to law-abiding, accident-free drivers.

DPS MEMORIAL PRESENTED—A 6-by-8-foot bronze plaque commemorating Department of Public Safety men killed in line of duty is to be mounted in the lobby of the DPS headquarters in Austin.

Private citizens paid for the plaque which was presented to Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director, at an honor banquet.

Names of 21 men are inscribed

Watch for Prussic Acid After Frost

The first frost of the winter should be here before long, and when it comes it could mean trouble for livestock producers. Johnsongrass and sorghum sometimes develop a high prussic acid content after a frost, and this is very dangerous to livestock. This condition can also be caused by anything which alters the normal growing pattern of sorghum.

Joe Burkett, county agent, explains that certain chemical changes occur in the frost-wilted plants, and these changes produce prussic acid. The poison acts quickly and can kill an animal within a very short time after the damaged plant is eaten.

Frosted Johnsongrass or sorghum should not be grazed until it is completely dry, warns Burkett. If it is ready to cut before a frost, it may be cut the first day after the frost. Even so, care must be taken to see that it is completely dry before baling.

Silage is another way to use the frosted plants. Generally, enough prussic acid is lost during the ensiling process, and as silage is removed and fed, to make it safe for livestock. Animals shouldn't be allowed to self-feed from a silo filled with frosted sudan or sorghum, however. If there is any doubt about the silage it should be tested. This may be done by a local veterinarian or by feeding the silage to one or two inferior animals.

Keep Our Counsel and Be Armed

"The American people... fully well that we are engaged in a deadly war, after seeing Khrushchev's outrageous onslaughts vilification of everyone and everything that stood in his way, the United Nations General Assembly. His greatest weapon in cold war is secrecy. To beat us we must use Theodore Roosevelt's policy, to talk softly and carry a big stick—in other words, to our counsel and be so armed no one would dare test our intentions anywhere in the world." —International Falls, Minn., journal.

Anise seeds, taken from a native to the Mediterranean area, are used extensively for soaps, dyes and medicines.

the Tale of a Mouse

Once upon a time, there was a mouse called Funnyfoot. He was given that name because his hind legs dragged. He had muscular dystrophy. Now Funnyfoot and his brothers and sisters are helping scientists find the cure for this crippling sickness. Won't you help, too? You can do so by contributing what you can to the
