Coast-to-Coast Record Broken by Hawley

Right on the heels of Captain Hawks' record-breaking coast-to-coast flight in the Texaco No. 13, comes a new champion, a champion of the highways—"Stu" Hawley. Driving a stock Buick Eight, Hawley crossed and recrossed the continent in 141 hours and 44 minutes. This is 17 hours faster than the fastest train time and 15 hours under "Cannon Ball" Baker's record.

Hawley left New York City at 12:01
a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) on August 14 and arrived in Los Angeles at 4:39 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time) August 16. The total time for the western trip was 67 hours, 38 minutes. After resting only 4 hours, 46 minutes at Los Angeles he began his return trip. Unfavorable weather conditions prevented him from equalling the splendid time made in the journey west. His time from Los Angeles to New York was 69 hours, 20 minutes, almost two hours longer.

Asked if he would become a professional driver, Hawley laughingly said "No." He believes that any capable driver could equal his time if he knew the roads as well, and enjoyed the advantages of a modernized lubricant such as the new crack-proof Texaco Golden Motor Oil which he was testing.

Broke No Speed Limits
Neither in his trip east or west did he break a speed law, is Hawley's claim. He kept his speedometer always at the highest limit permissible, and did not let it fluctuate above or below when out of traffic. Having long been engaged in national highway and automotive work, Hawley's knowledge of detours and large cities stood him in good stead. He knew how to pick the roads to avoid wait and delays. "Give any professional driver the road knowledge and the superior lubricants that I had," said Hawley, "and he will snip as much off my record as I have clipped off Baker's."

Not a Professional Driver Hawley's purpose in making the trip was the ability of modern lubricants to withstand constant high speeds in high compression engines.
Hawley attributed much of the glory of his achievement to the crack-proof endurance of the new Texaco Motor Oil he was testing at the time. This lubricant is a revolutionary new oil developed by The Texas Company expressly to resist the heat and pressure of modern high speed, high compression automobile engines.

FARM TOPICS

In 810 Texas pasture improvement demonstrations last year, involving 9235 acres, the owners estimated that they got an average of $5 an acre more out of this land than before.
How much good pasture is actually worth is hard to figure, but that it's enough to make the cost a good investment is the testimony of hundreds of poultry flock and dairy herd demonstrators. September sown oats and barley and wheat have been shown to be worth many times their cost from late October until spring.
"Slap 'em in early, and thick, if you want good pasture," declares E. A.
Miller, Extension Agronomist.

Developing new sources of income is one way to meet the farm problem.
For every successful venture into new farm enterprises there are likely ten failures, yet farm life would be dull without these trials. What works in one place won't in another, and what one man can do well another just can't make go. Last year East and Central Texas went wild on tomatoes. Most folks thought the growers would be disappointed, but evidently they did fairly well. It may be different next year, yet tomatoes for many people will remain a good crop. Bill Yoe in Baylor County recently harvested 2460 pounds of Irish potatoes on a half-acre at a cost of $16.50. He attributes most of his success to four inches of cotton burs turned under, but whatever the cause it shows that even potatoes can be grown most anywhere in Texas, and that every now and then there's a farmer ready and able to cash in on another source of income.

They've found down in Cameron County, where farming is very intensive, that even in that rich soil, legume cover crops turned under increase yields and profits from many truck, fruit and general crops. In 1926 the county agent got 100 acres of cowpeas turned under for soil improvement purposes, last year 3011 acres, and so far this season 3487 acres. It takes faith to let a splendid field of peas disappear beneath the furrow in the expectation of a bigger yield of something else later, but these farmers aren't risking much after all, for demonstrations have removed the gamble.

One of the gallant art conventions of ancient Egypt required that portrait statues of women should never show them as fat or aged, says an Egyptologist of the Field museum.

THE GRAHAM LEADER

One of the best papers on the exchange list of The News, The Graham Leader, celebrated its fifty-fourth birthday last week.

The Graham Leader has an exceptionally remarkable record in the fact that it has changed hands only twice during the 54 years since its establishment. Its first issue came off the press on August 16, 1876, and at that time it was published by Major J. W. Graves. Since then the paper has never missed an issue. This is especially remarkable when one considers the numerous difficulties encountered by the pioneer publisher of 50 years ago.

Major Graves' retirement it was sold to F. H. Bowron, who later had as his associate in the business, Edgar McLendon. They took up the task of chronicling the current history of Young County where Major Graves left it and continued until they sold the paper to the present owner, George T. Spears, several years ago.

The Leader's record and its paper today are models that any weekly newspaper could do well to follow.

MR. FOSTER ERRS

Seemingly to violate all the accepted traditions of formal architecture, there is perched atop the Press Building in Houston a sort of sentinel-box office. It is the sanctum sanctorum of M. E. Foster, familiarly known as Mefo, who is editor of the Houston Press and once upon a time was editor and publisher of the Houston Chronicle.

From these sublime heights where he woos the Muses and steeps himself in lofty contemplation, Mefo issued a diatribe against the editorial integrity of the weekly press.

Stripped of its Mefonian symmetry and beauty, the charge was that the lure of a substantial ($15,000) check for political advertising had swung the state's weekly newspapers into line with the forces which supported a certain wealthy candidate for the governorship.

In other words, Mr. Foster weighed the editorial integrity of the weekly newspaper against the power of thirty almighty dollars, and found the integrity wanting. In view of the depression, it was observed, many publishers were certain to be in "distressed financial circumstances."

In an hour of vicious abandon, other men, in other times and other places have tumbled down upon their heads the friendship of a tremendous following—a structure they had spent a lifetime building.

To some extent, Mr. Foster has done a comparable thing. Men who have admired him, and men who have loved him, were impaled upon the poisoned shafts of his insinuations. It was wholly unnecessary and unjustified sacrifice of life-time friendships.

A storm of protest followed. Texas editors might pardon reflections upon their ability or their reasoning but an attack upon their motives and their integrity was a thing which could not be condoned.

Said the editor of the Mabank Banner: "The Banner editor may be poor as h—, but there isn't enough money this side of that place to buy its editorial policy."

Somewhat similar was the reaction of the editor of the Brady Standard: "The Standard accepted the Sterling advertising—and the Standard editor voted for Jim Young in the first primary. The Standard would accept Ferguson or any other candidate's advertising. Its advertising columns are its stock in trade; they are for sale to any legitimate buyer. Its editorial columns and opinions are for sale NEVER!"

Upon this same subject the editor of the Yorktown News had this to say:

The country editors of Texas should resent the charge being made in some quarters that the editorial opinion of the said country papers was being influenced on account of the advertising that was placed by friends of Ross Sterling. We are surprised that M. E. Foster, well known columnist of the Houston Press, would assert that such was being done. Foster, among other things, stated that some of the country papers were in great financial distress and would probably support Sterling because of the advertising money spent in their columns, or something to that effect. There are darn few country papers in Texas that would barter editorial opinion. The few that would do this are without influence and could do very little one way or the other. The big papers can stake scads of advertising money on that's perfectly all right, but let the little fellows lay off of it—it might influence them and cause them to go wrong. It's too rich for their blood—they are not used to it and can't stand a dollar's worth of political advertising.

All in all, it appears that Mr. Foster unjustly clouded the motives which actuated a great number of his contemporaries. More than that, he is guilty of a stupendous tactical error.

It is most regrettable that Mefo acted so grievously. He should retract at the first opportunity.—Editorials of the Month.

OUR GUESS

About one week before the election last Saturday the Dallas Times-Herald carried a forecast on the governor's race, taken from the estimates of the newspapers of the state. In this forecast The Foard County News estimate on the Foard County vote was 750 votes for Ferguson and 700 for Sterling. The final results were 787 votes for Ferguson and 719 for Sterling. The difference in the vote of the two candidates was missed by 18 votes.

Styles Changed for Motor Tags

Austin, Tex., Aug. 28, (UP).—Texas motorists will carry neat black plates on their automobiles next year with white letters and numbers.

There are two noticeable changes in the "tags" for 1931. They will not be marked "front" and "rear" like the present tags. A front and rear tag are required, but they are made small when, one night, his foot was entangled in his lariat and he remarked that he had rather have the rope around his legs than around his neck.

Another change has been made which is expected to make the numbers more easily read. As the Texas numbers now run into the million, it has been decided to use letters for hundred thousands.

A tag that would read 142101 under the old system will be A4-2101. The highway department claims it is easier to read and remember that way.

It will be a memory-breaker, however, for many motorists who have been arranging to get the same number each year. Many motorists did so by making arrangements with the county clerk. They left him a check for the license fee. When the number they wished was reached, the clerk would set it aside for them. This year all numbers will be different.

The old practice of retaining low numbers for "administration" has been continued. State Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist insists that motor cops will be just as diligent to catch a speeder with an "administration" number as with any other number—that it confers no privileges. There will be 300 of these.

The others are assigned to counties. Anderson County will be assigned numbers from 301 to 5500; Bexar County is the first to get a combination letter and number tags. They get tags from 5-1301 to A1-3300. Dallas County is assigned the most numbers. They will be from E7-5901 to F5-9900. Tarrant County cars will bear tags from L3-4901 to L8-5900.

Commercial vehicle tags will have numbers only.

AN INFANT GROWN UP

The United States has definitely grown up. The swaddling clothes stage of its existence is forever past.

Not so very long ago we were the precocious child among nations. It was the general custom to kindly pat the growing child on the head and remark that it might amount to something some day if it carefully emulated its elders.

The order of things has been suddenly reversed. The one-time baby of nations is the center of the amazed eyes of its once patronizing elders.

It was a healthy child and grew to man hood with unforeseen rapidity. It left the nursery to become a world leader in industry, in business and in finance.

We took the best the old world had to offer and embellished it with new qualities of shrewdness, progressiveness and unprecedented foresight. The result is the greatest industrial civilization the world has known.

At the beginning of any life there is bound to be experiment. It is necessity of eager youth. What waste it causes is the price of progress.

We have sifted the good from the bad. We have found stability; we have blazed our trail and striven toward an ideal—the uttermost along sound economic lines. We have exalted efficiency.

America produces 70 per cent of the world's petroleum and 5 per cent of the copper. We have 85 per cent of the world's automobiles and also an overwhelming majority of the telephones. Our railroads are beyond comparison. We have displayed unparalleled ingenuity in the production and use of gas and electricity.

We have set ourselves a standard of living that has made necessities of luxuries.

Centuries ago, a royal proclamation in London forbade the burning of coal because of the unpleasant odor it produced.

Visiting dirigibles may be a good thing, but wonder when Uncle Sam is going to repay some of these visits?

A way of making moistureproof glue joints is sought by specialists in wood-working problems.

The central railroad of Peru crosses the Andes at one point at 15,865 feet above sea level.

In strengthening the dome of St. Paul's cathedral, London, 120 tons of steel was used.

America has almost half of the world's 21,600,000 radio sets.

PASSING OPPORTUNITIES

The leadership in every community consists of men who recognize their opportunities and took full advantage of them.

Those who complain that they have never had a chance were unable to discern it when it passed. They were looking in some distant place when it may have been under their feet.

Will Rogers, famous cowboy comedian and humorist writer, was quick to see his opportunities or he would still be an obscure performer in a wild west show.

His former employer relates that the show was playing in Madison Square Garden, New York. A wild steer broke loose during the performance and rushed madly in the direction of the audience. Rogers lassoed the steer and prevented a panic. It was his opportunity and he was not slow to recognize it.

The next night Rogers got a big ovation when he appeared for his lariat swinging act and a vaudeville booking agent, happening in at the moment, thought it was his act that won the applause. Rogers got a vaudeville contract, but he still had to make good.

His cowboy buddies went the first night and "whooped'er up" for him, but he couldn't afford to carry a crowd of claqueurs. His chances for continuing as an entertainer were small when, one night, his foot was entangled in his lariat and he remarked that he had rather have the rope around his legs than around his neck.

The dry humor of the remark and the way it appealed to the audience was the turning point for Rogers. He is now nationally known as a humorist through his newspaper writings.

The big opportunity comes to everyone. Poor judgment, lack of vision and confidence, fear of work are the walls that keep many of us in a narrow life circle.

If we can't recognize our opportunities and make the most of them, we should at least admit our faults and blame them on to others or bad luck.

CHALLENGE TO PARENTS

A challenge has been issued to the parents of the United States by the bureau of education, which says that half of the four million children who enter the first grade in the elementary schools each year fail to reach the second grade.

This represents an enormous waste in education from a financial standpoint because the cost of educating a child amounts on the average to $75 a year.

It also means a useless waste of time for a child to spend two years where one year should suffice.

The solution lies in the hands of parents. How well they will meet the challenge remains to be seen.

In the majority of cases, failure of children to make passing grades the first year, investigation has shown, is due to physical and mental defects.

The appeal then, is to parents to have children as near perfect as possible, physically and mentally, before entering school for the first time in September.

It is a problem that should com-

CONOCO GASOLINE

WHEN THE CONOCO MAN ASKS "ETHYL?" say Yes! and you'll say it again . . .

THE next time you drive into a CONOCO station, the man at the pump will ask you a one-word question. "Ethyl?", will be his query.

And in justice to yourself and the car you drive, we urge you to answer, "Yes!"

For Ethyl, added to CONOCO, the gasoline we're proud of, is like seasoning added to food. As seasoning brings out taste and deliciousness, so Ethyl brings out the qualities which have made CONOCO Gasoline famous.

Ethyl stops the knock that makes the foot retreat from the accelerator when you would rather "bear down" harder. Ethyl stops the knock that forces you to shift gears on hills. Ethyl stops the knock that embarrasses you when you let in the clutch in traffic.

So when the CONOCO salesman asks, "Ethyl?" . . . Say, "Yes!" . . . and you'll say it again.

VARIED INTEREST IN LIFE

The mother who says, "I care for nothing in the world except my child," and shuts out all other interests from her life, is really doing the child more harm than good.

This is the dictum of Dr. Alfred Adler, noted Viennese psychologist who is recognized as the world's foremost authority on the mental hygiene of children.

The ideal mother must cultivate outside interests for the child's sake, says Dr. Adler. She must keep pace with the developments in religion, education, science, and even sports and business in order to guide youth wisely into the outside world which it must ultimately enter.

"Your child will later meet other problems than the ones he is now facing in his protected home atmosphere," the psychologist points out. "You must have enough vision and understanding to help him grow up flexible and broadminded."

Children, being most impressionable and most influenced by the mother in their earliest years, will invariably pattern their conduct from her example. If the mother indicates that they alone are important, they inevitably gain an inflated sense of their own importance which will make normal contacts with the world painful in later life. If the mother has lost her interest in what goes on outside the home, their natural curiosity about outside life will be stifled and their imagination curbed.

Particularly the wise mother will watch the early interests of her child and learn all that she can about it, advises Dr. Adler, whether the tendency be toward art, mechanics, business, or the sciences. Only by doing this will she be able to guide the child's inclination wisely and, at the same time, enjoy his progress herself as he grows and learns along his chosen line.

WEEDS AND HAY FEVER

Hay and weeds—even golden rod, the national flower—have been definitely cleared of the charge that they are the whole cause of hay fever. Dr. N. P. Herman, of the Johns Hopkins hay fever clinic has announced this in connection with the statement that for the first time the annoying disease can be decisively checked by immunization.

Hay fever can be contracted from horse dandruff, pigs, dogs, cats, feathers and even furs, he declares. Certain kinds of meat also bring on the malady, he adds. For a long time it was thought that hay fever was caused only by pollen and that asthma was in some way associated with colds and bronchial infections. Now, however, it has been definitely proved that the two maladies are closely related and that they may be brought about by many other things.

In one of the early tests, the case of a farm boy proved puzzling. By the process of elimination, however, it was finally discovered that the pollen of corn tassels was his botanical

Coronated Letters are Good Form

No longer is an apology expected for a typewritten letter to a friend. On the contrary, most of us have to apologize when we write in longhand.

Love letters are the only ones that people are willing to take the time to decipher. All others should be coronatyped. And if more love letters were coronatyped, there might be fewer breach of promise suits.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE

enemy. He was immunized and his recovery was speedy. Another case, a woman's hay fever was traced, after exhaustive research, to an expensive fur coat. She paid dearly for her cure, however, for the expensive coat was found to be only rabbit fur which is one of the sources of the disease.

After isolating the cause of the fever, scientists of the clinic insert a small portion of the pollen, cat or dog hair, pig bristles or whatever the offending material may be, beneath the skin of the patient. If a hive forms in ten or fifteen minutes the test is positive and the procedure is clear. The next step is to immunize the patient with an extract of the material that causes the fever. Usually one part to ten thousand parts of water are used for hay fever patients and one to one thousand for asthma sufferers. Immunization from pollen lasts for a year while other treatments give permanent cures.

J. E. Atcheson Expresses Thanks

I wish to thank those that so loyally supported me in the last campaign. I lost, but it is gratifying to know that those who knew me best gave me their influence and support.

I hold no ill feeling toward anyone, but I do regret that it was necessary that a few had to resort to unfairness to defeat me. I will further ask that we all forget the past and work together for the advancement and happiness of the people of this county and community.

Sincerely yours,

RURAL BEAUTY The time is not far away when the golden hues of Autumn will begin to tint the landscape. Many regard it the most beautiful time of the year. Certainly it is the most delightful time for automobile touring and most pleasant for people who live in the country. The average person living in town or city enjoys the natural beauty that the countryside offers, but most of us are not thoughtful enough in helping to preserve it. Careless motorists will stop along the road or in a cool, shaded spot in the woods for lunch and leave papers, boxes, cans and other debris scattered about. Others may climb over or through a fence and pull the wires askew, or break off a limb of particularly beautiful leaves. Residents of cities and towns do not countenance throwing waste paper or anything that will detract the beauty or cleanliness of their home town. They do no break limbs off shade trees in main street or deliberately walk onto private lawns and pick flowers. It must be realized that farmers take as much pride in their premises as do people living in centers of population. Their rights must be respected. In addition, they should be encouraged in beautifying their farms so that visitors will always have a favorable impression of this county as they pass through.

CHURCHES

Christian Science Sunday, 11 A. M., Subject for Sunday, August 31, "Christ Jesus." Sunday School at 9:30. Wednesday evening service at 8:00. The public is cordially invited.

The Christian Church Vacation days are just about over now, so we need to begin to make plans for work. In the last few Sundays attendance has dropped off a little, but now we want to climb right back to where we were and then some. If all will get into the harness and do their part the church will increase. I am expecting everyone to be present next Sunday morning at 9:45 for Sunday School. Let's top the hundred mark. 11 o'clock worship service. Christian Endeavor at 7 and night service at 8:15. The Friendly Church welcomes you all. JOHN G. CLARK.

Baptist Church News Pastor's Study, Crowell, Texas Last Sunday was a get-ready day with Crowell Baptists. We had the matter of get-ready for our revival meeting which is to start next Sunday. A plan was worked out where by the church is meeting in prayer meetings each evening at 7:30. These are 15 minutes assembly meetings at which time a brief devotional service is held, then we break up into departments and hold department prayer service. At this latter meeting the time is given to intense praying for the revival. Something like fifty people have been in attendance each night so far, with an increased attendance each night. Bro. A. G. Bell is responsible for the Sunday School, Bro. E. C. King for the B. Y. P. U. and Mrs. C. C. McLaughlin for the W. M. S. We trust that before the week ends we will be able through these organizations to enlist every member of the church. We welcome people of other churches in these prayer services. The next matter was get-ready for our association which met at Thalia Monday night and Tuesday. This was done in the evening service. Our church letter to the association was read and adopted. The letter shows marked progress during the past year in all departments of the church. Our church made the best financial record of any church in the association during the year. May we keep this good work going in the lead.

The next was get-ready for the coming year. This includes the election of officers and teachers for the coming year. Some forty people were elected to fill these important places. The pastor spoke at the morning hour, his theme being: "A Revival that Will Last," and at the evening hour on "The Need of Evangelism." Mrs. Gladys Thane and Lowell Woodie Smith of Chicago, rendered special music at each service. They are children of Rev. and Mrs. Smith. Duke Wallace led the singing and Mrs. Adolphus Wright brought special message in song. The evening service was of necessity a little too long, but that is the exception and not the rule of our church. Don't forget that our revival begins next Sunday. Rev. F. G. Rodgers, pastor-evangelist of Spur, Texas, will do the preaching and the music will be under the direction of the pastor. Come and welcome. WOODIE W. SMITH, Pastor.

Twenty-five Years Ago in The News

September 2, 1910 A Good Milch Cow Tom Bell is the owner of a milch cow whose record for milk and butter, we venture, is not equalled in Crowell. We are authorized to say, let it be understood at the beginning that the cow is not for sale, and what is said here is merely a news item and proves that a good cow pays. Read these figures: Butter, 30 1/2 lbs. at 30c..... $ 9.15 Butter milk, 54 gal. at 10c..... 5.40 Sweet milk, 15 gal. at 40c..... 6.00 Total.....$20.55 This is the total receipt of milk and butter sold from the cow for the month of August, besides feeding Tom and his family. Our observation is that a good cow pays her way and puts money into the pockets of her owner.

League Organized The young people of Crowell met on last Sunday afternoon and organized an Epworth League with the following officers: Beaty Andrews, president; Rob Wells, secretary; Willie McKown, first vice president; Eula Ferebee, second vice president; Bess Campbell, third vice president; Bettie Allee, fourth vice president; Mattie Klepper, press reporter; Josie Wright, organist; Bob Moore, Era agent.

House Burns J. H. Tanner's residence in the western portion of town was completely destroyed by fire Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The roof of the house caught early in the morning from a stove flue and the fire was thought to have been extinguished. The fire did not break out again until late in the day. It was one of the best residences in town.

T. N. Bell passed by the office Wednesday with an 8-inch centipede bottled by which he had been bitten the night before. This is the second time within a month that Tom has been bitten by a centipede.

Miss Emma Perkins arrived Wednesday and will be in charge of the millinery department of R. B. Edwards & Co. again this season.

J. H. Shults Dies On Friday, August 26, the Death Angel visited the home of Sister Shults and took from her, her devoted husband, Bro. J. H. Shults. Mr. Shults lived a devoted Christian life and was a kind and loving husband. He was laid to rest in the Thalia cemetery. He leaves a wife and three little boys.

Before another year Crowell should have a broom factory. There is absolutely no reason why we should have to buy our brooms from other sources when our soil will produce just as good an article. All we need is a factory. Let us get busy.

Indicated Supply of Cotton in U. S. Is 18,892,000 Bales Austin Texas, Aug. 28.—On August 1, the indicated supply of cotton in the United States was 18,892,000 bales, against 17,856,000 bales on August 1, 1929, and a seven-year average of 16,862,000 bales, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, in a report for the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau.

The world's carryover of American cotton on August 1 was about 6,100,000 bales; this added to the estimate of 14,362,000 bales makes a world supply of American cotton for 1930-31 of about 20,500,000 bales, Dr. Cox said. "The carryover in the United States on August 1 was 2,217,000 bales more than last year. However, the prospective crop of 14,362,000 is 1,181,000 bales less than the 15,543,000 bales as estimated on August 1, 1929. "Indicated price of New Orleans spot cotton is about 12.80 cents. On August 1, stocks in and afloat to Europe were 170,000 bales less than on August 1, 1929. Applying the ratio of 24 deflated price points for each change of 100,000 bales in supply to these figures would indicate a price of about 13.30 cents for New Orleans spots. "Figures released by the Associated Textile Merchants of New York City for July are the lowest on record, but they are encouraging in that sales and shipments are ahead of production. Production was only 166,000,000 yards, but sales were 180,000,000 yards, or 108.6 per cent of the output. Shipments were 106.5 per cent of production, stocks decreased 2.3 per cent or to 454,000,000 yards, and unfilled orders increased 1.6 per cent to 222,000,000 yards." Corpus Christi Lady Glad to Praise Konjola

Old Resident Eager to Tell What New Medicine Did for Her After Others Failed

"I was badly run down and even the simplest foods brought on attacks of indigestion," said Mrs. H. L. Dryer, for more than fifty years a resident of Corpus Christi, Texas, residing at 1337 Ocean Drive in that city. I bloated terribly after meals and suffered severe belching spells. Constipation was a source of constant worry and I had severe pains in my abdomen after meals. I was unable to sleep at night. "I have taken Konjola but a week and I can say that every ache and pain in my stomach is gone. I can now rest well at night and eat what I wish without any of my former miseries. I have never used a medicine like Konjola and although I am 68 years of age I can do plenty of work. I am more than glad to pass my praise for this medicine on to others."

MRS. H. L. DRYER Because of the variation in the size of teaspoons and tablespoons, druggists advocate use of a graduated "medicine glass" for measuring medicines. There are from two to five eclipses of the sun each year.

NO TRAFFIC LANGUAGE A Wisconsin man wants those with keen imagination to picture what a tragedy would be enacted if the catastrophe of Babel were repeated in the present century. Yet, he correctly affirms, such a condition exists in our traffic life; we are without a language — we are deaf and mute on highways and streets. The point he makes is that due to the absence of a uniform code or without symbols to display positive intention in motion, we are taking the lives of innocent persons and the cost of damages is reaching to appalling totals. The need of a constructive, symbolic, dogmatically built language to reach the sense of every human mind within the shortest time is so apparent that it admits of no argument, but how to get it is another question. The greatest problem is how to take the uncertainty out of traffic. The driver of an automobile who is not positive in his actions is the greatest menace to life and property. When he hesitates and then takes the course opposite to that which his actions have indicated, he is most likely to be the cause of an accident. National traffic conferences have been held to consider ways and means to reduce the alarming loss of lives and property, but nothing so constructive as the suggestion of a national traffic code has ever come out of the conference. It is of utmost importance that those who control the national lever devise some way to create a national traffic code which calls for certainty in decision on the part of persons at the wheel. Railroads of this country are saving $145,000 a day through the practice of chemically treating timbers used for cross ties and other purposes.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES CO. One Town or Many Electricity is required at different times for different purposes. This simple fact explains why a widespread electric system, serving many communities over a wide area, can operate more efficiently than small plants each serving a single community. Serving a larger number of people, with a greater variety of demands, the widespread system keeps its facilities working over more hours of the day. There is another important advantage of the widespread transmission system over the small plant serving a single community. The transmission system can meet increased demands at once. No delay is necessary for increased facilities, as so frequently is the case with the small plant. Community growth is thus encouraged and hastened. The West Texas Utilities Company places at the disposal of 116 prosperous cities, towns and communities in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity", 100,000 horsepower of electrical energy — generated by three Major Generating Stations and 22 Auxiliary Plants, and distributed over a network of more than 2,500 miles of transmission lines. Owens and Hatchell Speak in Interest of Gov. Candidates Austin C. Hatchell, an attorney of Dallas, and formerly district attorney at Plainview, and Jesse Owens, local attorney, were the principal speakers at a political rally here last Thursday night. J. E. Stone of Foard County presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. The speaking took place on the court house lawn.

Mr. Owens was the first speaker and spoke in the interest of the candidacy of Ma Ferguson. He upheld the record of the Fergusons and strongly denounced Ross Sterling. Mr. Hatchell spoke in the interest of Sterling. He paid tributes to Sterling's life-time record and attacked the Ferguson record. Mr. Owens was given a short rebuttal. An excellent crowd was present and good applause was given both speakers. The applause was especially loud during Mr. Owens' rebuttal. The meeting had been advertised as a Ferguson rally and an invitation had been issued offering to divide time with Sterling speakers.

Texas Men Developing 98,000 Acre Farm Project Near Nogales

F. M. Dougherty, Foard County land owner, and well known to many Foard County people is now associated with T. T. Pendleton of Fort Worth in what is expected to be the largest single agricultural development project in all Arizona. A 98,000-acre tract, in the Baca Flats district, north of Nogales, Arizona, is now in the preliminary stages of development by these men. Mr. Dougherty is a former resident of Gainesville. The new town, Dougherty, on the new line of the Quana, Acme and Pacific Railroad, southeast of Floydada, was developed by Mr. Dougherty.

M. S. Henry and Edward Huffman have just returned from Nogales, where they visited Mr. Dougherty, a personal friend of Mr. Henry. Experiments with the growing of lettuce and other produce are now being made on the tract and a series of irrigation wells are now being arranged for.

A long article in a last week's issue of the Arizona Daily Star, published at Tucson, gave a detailed account of the new project.

COMPLEX PROBLEM

Why is it that the average young man when near the age of maturity, has an intense longing for life in the big city?

Why is it that millions of men of maturity in the city have an equally intense longing for the peace and quietude of the rural districts they left in their younger days?

The country town does not blaze with the bright lights of life as do the big cities. It is quiet and subdued in comparison. Its citizens' words are as good as their bond and their reputations stand high in the sight of their fellowmen, but the variety and excitement that appeals to youth is too often missing. Hence young men and women become fretful and impatient of restraint, and finally break the home ties and rush into the maelstrom of metropolitan existence.

Once in the large city, possibly one in ten meet with a comfortable measure of success as the world views it, and a few forge gradually to the front. In time these few are known to the world as self made men. The other nine are not so fortunate.

Opportunities are numerous, it is true, but where there is one opportunity there are scores of young men waiting to grasp it. Competition is highly developed. Thus the real majority of young men from the country go to the city expecting to set the world on fire find that about the best they can do is to burn the candle at both ends.

Too proud to go back home and confess failure, they plug along and do the best they can, disillusioned and wiser, but no better off.

They are the millions who later in life long for the peace and quiet of the home town they left in their youth.

The comedy is simple enough. Every small community can hold its young people by supplying some of the things that lure them away; by not expecting them to work any harder than they would have to if they went to the city for employment; by making the hours of employment no longer than the city's.

Young men and women will keep "up with the times." They demand the conveniences and the recreation that their big city brothers and sisters enjoy. If they are not supplied at home, they will seek them elsewhere when they grow old enough to support themselves.

Life is full of changes and there is only one end for the people who are not willing to change with the times.

Charlie Rogers Bites Dog for a Bet

Edinburg, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—When a dog bites a boy, that isn't news, according to the staid fore-runners of modern journalism, but when a boy bites a dog—well, that is news, any how.

Charles Rogers, 19 year-old high school youth here, bet that he would catch the first dog that happened to pass him on the school campus and bite the animal. His bet was promptly covered.

Pretty soon along came a yellow cur and Rogers proceeded to grab the "purr" and take a generous mouthful of hide, hair and all. The dog resented it and snapped at Rogers. Rogers is now recovering from an attack of blood poisoning caused by the bite, from which he almost lost his right arm.

MANY THANKS

Realizing that I am without words that would express my appreciation for that has been said and done for me in my campaign, I am using this method to thank my many friends for their expression of friendship, confidence and good will, which was manifested in the majority vote that gave me the Democratic nomination for County Judge.

I assure the people of Foard County that I will do my very best to care for each and every duty of this office in a way that you will not have any reason to regret that you voted for me.

THE SIZE OF THE APPLE

Commercial apple orchardists have long wanted to know how big their apples would grow. Sales of apples on the trees are contracted in some sections of the country early in the season, and errors in judging the probable supply of large and small apples have frequently "upset the applecart" and disturbed the financial expectations of orchardists.

According to the study made by the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the Hood River Valley the amount of moisture during the fruiting season is held practically constant by irrigation and the little variation in summer rainfall, and summer temperatures have a marked effect upon the growth and development of the apples. Extremes in temperature, either hot or cold tend to check growth with consequent maturity at similar sizes. In some years the length of season and amount of rainfall in summer apparently have some influence upon size, but the effect of these factors is not as pronounced as that of temperature.

Thinning, cultural practices, and the use of fertilizer were management factors found to have an important influence upon the development of fruit, but the conclusion is reached that unless there is a marked shift in these practices from one year to another they are not likely to be important for the entire valley in any one year. No systematic record of thinning or other cultural practices, however, is available so the influence of these factors can not be measured.

It is the better part of wisdom to laugh when your friends tell a joke, because you may have one to tell some day.

BEN G. ONEAL THANKS THE VOTERS OF FOARD COUNTY

I desire to thank the voters of Foard County for the votes given me in the run-off primary.

I am sure that no candidate for public office ever had more loyal friends than I had in Foard County. I am deeply grateful for all that they did for me. I have no criticism for any voter who did not vote for me. The right of free choice in voting is the very foundation of our Democratic government.

It is my desire, by earnest and faithful service in the State Senate, to justify the confidence that my friends had in me and to re-pay the voters of Foard County and the entire 23rd Senatorial district the debt of gratitude that I owe them for my nomination to the State Senate. It is my intention to serve all of the people of the 23rd senatorial district.

Burglars Don't Seek the Limelight

DARKNESS is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.
