Is another one of the things that we do well. We have just received a carpet washer and are now prepared to clean your carpets and rugs. Carpets are WASHED, not beaten, which takes out all the grease, dirt, etc., brings back the color and restores them to their original brightness.

We will give a carpet-washing demonstration at our shop Saturday, June 11, 1921, at 4 p. m. and we cordially invite everyone who will to attend. In the meantime take a look at the carpet in our window.

No New-Fangled Notions.

John came from down state to the city schools. He was placed in the seventh grade, and then his teacher's troubles began. His mother thought the course of study should be identical with the one which had held sway in the faraway red schoolhouse. She objected strenuously to physical culture and music, saying they were a waste of time.

And then came John's first day at manual training. The next day came an indignant note to the teacher from John's mother. It read: "Dear Miss — I want you to quit having John waste his time at school. That music and physical torture exercise was bad enough, but now you begin to learn him to whistle. Please stop it immediately or I'll change him to another school. He inherits whistling from his father and his brains from me. I'm paying to educate him, so educate his brains."—Indianapolis News.

Superheated Steam.

Two decades ago few would have admitted the possibility of permanently regularly producing steam at temperatures of from 550 degrees to 650 degrees Fahrenheit within the restricted area of the ordinary locomotive boiler. Now thousands of local motives use this superheated steam, and its use is increasing.

By heating steam 180 degrees Fahrenheit above the saturation temperature "hot steam" is produced. With this increase of temperature the steam is dried and the volume is increased. But the increase of volume is less important than the suppression of all condensation in the cylinders if the superheat is sufficiently high. Hot steam being a bad conductor it also reduces loss by cooling in the cylinders from 25 to 30 per cent, according to type and structure of the engine.

FINALLY SCARED CROWS OFF

Device Employed by Los Angeles Man Was Somewhat More Effective Than Neighbor's Umbrella.

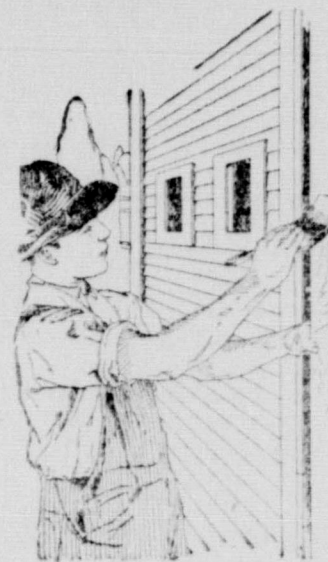

"Not long ago a friend of mine from Birmingham was sitting out on my front porch when a flock of crows flew across one of my fields," said R. B. Posey, "and he remarked that it was the biggest lot he had seen for years, and asked if they did not injure my crops. I replied that until I got onto a way to keep them out of my watermelon patch they ruined a lot of them by pecking holes in one and then hopping for another.

"I tried various ways but without success, until I put poles around the patch and ran just an ordinary piece of cotton around them about eight feet from the ground, and between the poles tied pieces of cotton to flap in the wind. It worked like a charm.

"A neighbor of mine used to say that he was advised to put an old umbrella in the middle of the patch, and he did it, but one day creeping up behind it, he peeped over it and there sat a bunch of crows having a watermelon feast."—Los Angeles Times.

GETTING BACK TO TRUTH

Admiral Sims, commander of the American over-seas navy during the war, says the British are prone to give the American navy too much credit for the part it played in the world conflict. The admiral speaks to the point, but he states a fact that is well known upon this continent. He might have included the army with the navy.

It is to be regretted that periodically some people in this country make a lot of noise to the effect that "America won the war," and our British and French friends are too courteous and generous to call a bluff. America entered the war at a time when victory was tottering in the balance. It was only a question of a short time when one side or the other would be compelled to capitulate, for both were at the point of physical and financial exhaustion.

The arrival of two million American troops, fresh and enthusiastic, was the act that tipped the scales in favor of the allies and caused the Teutons to sue for peace. The Americans fought bravely and splendidly for the short time they were in action, and there was a dash and spirit to their fighting which won the praise of the world.

But they were no braver, no more patriotic, no more dashing or enduring than the magnificent French and British troops who fought at their side.

America aided in winning the war yes. But America did not "win the war."

All talk to the contrary is nonsense, pure egotistical bunk, in which, happily, only a few thoughtless Americans participate.

The war is ended. Let us forget, recuperate, and reconstruct.

A knowledge of the law of health does not come by instinct, says a leading authority. It must be taught. Every child should be taught to desire cleanliness instead of accepting it under protest, for cleanliness leads to health, and health enriches the power of mind and paves the road to success.

It is said that large numbers of government positions are vacant because men can not live on the low wages paid. The fellow who used to live comfortably on $50 a month now finds that sum an aggravation, about enough to feed the mosquitoes in the average home.

A scientist agrees to report the discovery that the earth is 360,000,000-600,000,000 miles from the center of the universe. Happily, however, that fact will not effect the number of eggs your pet hen will lay in the run of a season.

The News is putting on the magazine section, which we have carried before. For a year at least, and probably for a longer time this will come out once a month. We want our readers to read this and express their opinion of it. If you like it we want you to have it. If not, we see no reason why we should continue to bear the heavy expense of putting this section out. We are doing it because we think you will find it full of good wholesome reading matter that is really worth while. It carries a good serial. It has two columns of short Farm News paragraphs from all over Texas. It carries regularly pithy editorials of one of the leading country newspaper writers of Texas. For the pioneer there is the department of Early Texas History full of interest because of its narration of actual facts. Then there are the fashion plates for the housewife. In fact it is a complete magazine well worth the price of the News alone. This will go to you, if you are a reader of the paper, for a year from this date, and possibly for an indefinite time, but without an advance in the price of subscription, at least for the present.

The News is completing the school annual, "The Melting Pot," this week, a book gotten up by the graduating class of 1921, assisted by Miss Una Self, one of their teachers. This is the second book of the kind ever gotten out here, and this year is much larger than the one issued last year. It consists of 125 pages and an issue of 175 copies. The work has been a big task for the News.

Mr. Harding says we should look first to the interests of our own country. That is good advice, and his first act should be to purge the business world of the thieves and rascals who are converting the word "business" into a term of reproach.

Multi-millionaires are becoming too much of a multiplicity in this country. We will have to use greater discretion in this rapid accumulation of wealth, or there will be no men left to do the work.

Marshal Foch wants to visit the United States in November. That ought to be a fitting time, as between seasons the great American thirst is not so all-consuming.

On the heels of Big Bill Haywood's arrival in Russia comes the report that the bolshevik government is financially busted. That ought to make William see red.

Advertisers at First Stry.

It took several years after the establishment of newspapers in America for advertising to become popular. John Campbell, the postmaster of Boston, who, in 1704, started the Boston News Letter, the first real newspaper in this country, had great difficulty in persuading his townspeople to advertise their wares or their wants. William Bradford and Peter Zenger in New York were hardly more fortunate at first, and even Benjamin Franklin, for many years after he began the publication of the Pennsylvania Gazette, found his advertising columns very meager. After 1850, however, the reluctance to advertise died away and all the leading papers showed that they were well supported.

MARGARET METHODISTS OVERSUBSCRIBE QUOTA

From Vernon Record: The Margaret Methodist Church had pledged $200 more than its quota of $3,248 to the educational fund by mid-afternoon Sunday. It is the only community in the Vernon district to report as yet, that it has pledged its quota.

Margaret's action is all the more gratifying when it is considered that the community is entirely rural and the farmers are generally supposed to be more discouraged than are town-people. The act is undoubtedly one of fine faith in an all-wise God and in the productivity of our soil during the next five years.

The only basis on which the attitude of many people toward this momentous question can be understood is that they have not visioned its far-reaching consequences. Few men in Wilbarger county, at least, but believe that within the next five years we shall all enjoy another era of prosperity. They know, too, that they can pledge $10 to $25 a year without any serious inconvenience, because if the $10 can not be paid this year, why it can undoubtedly be paid next year. And if God, or our own misfortunes, scourge us so that it is impossible to pay—why no one will upbraid.

How men and women can refuse to pledge $10 to $50 a year to this—the most far-reaching effort of their church—and spend from two to three times as much in club dues or on social amusements, is an unsolved problem. This is a supreme testing time for men and women of Methodist faith. Just as last year was for the Baptists who pledged $90,000,000, and for the Presbyterians and Christians.

That which is forbidden is often the first to be done.

The easiest thing in this world to make is a promise, and it is often the hardest to fulfill.

WANTED—MORE SPEED

In the annual automobile races at Indianapolis the cars trotted along at nearly a hundred miles an hour. Speed? Very poor. A hundred miles an hour doesn't get you far in these days of lightning activity. The automobile served its purpose when it superseded the horse, just as the truck did the mule. But no one wants to trot when he can gallop, or gallop when he can run, or run when he can go like a streak of blue blazes.

The automobile is confined to roads, and it wheezes and develops heavy heart action on bad hills or in mud holes. It has to wind and turn and twist and cover a lot of useless space in order to get anywhere, and that all consumes time—too much time. We must have something better and more rapid—something that can dart hither and thither or cut across country as the crow flies.

Flying machines? Too cumbersome, and a bad wind is apt to topple them over. We must produce a substance that will control gravitation, a substance that will enable us to ascend or descend at will, or remain stationary between earth and sky.

Then for speed we must find a vacuum in front of us, or to the rear, or in any direction we may desire to go, merely by the touching of a button and the operation of a control lever.

Every one knows that a vacuum creates a tremendous suction power, and, according to its force, irresistibly draws everything within its reach.

Speed? With vacuum as its motive force there is no limit to its possibilities, and there are no hills or valleys or streams or mud in the air to interfere.

Can't be done, you say? It can, and it will be done. There is no such thing as can't. Skeptics have been mumbling "can't" since the beginning of the human race, and yet year after year we continue to accomplish the impossible and put "can't" to shame.

The horse was good, and the automobile is better, but the apparatus of the air will be the invention of the future.

It's the one for us.

As the Editor Sees It

Over in England some of them are feeling justifiably cocky because they beat the Americans at playing golf. Good enough! We are glad they have found something at which they can beat Americans, even if it is nothing more exciting than golf.

It would never do for us to excel our English cousins in everything. It would be ungenerous of us, and very disconcerting to them.

Some day we may tire of doing the useful things of life—of progressing in the sciences, and in industry, and in agriculture, and education, and in accumulating the wealth of the world.

We may even cease our steady grind of work and production, and decide that it is time to enjoy the glories of the present and anticipate those of the future.

Then, perhaps, we may learn to play golf—the pastime of affluence and dignity.

Statistics recently made public show that there are sixty-seven men in the United States with an annual income of more than a million dollars.

It is too much. They can not possibly use it, and they are not likely to give away any considerable amount of it. What the government does not take in taxation simply adds more millions to their pile, thereby reducing the amount in circulation among the less fortunate.

On general principles a man has a right to all of the money he can honestly earn, but there should be a limit beyond which no man can go. If the government would set a reasonable sum as the limit to the size of fortunes and their incomes, and take possession of everything beyond that limit, there would be an end to the accumulation of the wealth of the country in the hands of a few to the detriment of the many.

The principal prop of bolshevism would be knocked from under its feet, and justice, right and harmony would be more in evidence than the growing unrest that is now so prevalent.

We are approaching feverishly near to a state of financial feudalism, and feudalism is the enemy of a republican form of government.

Kanred wheat is said to be proving to give an abundant yield in the Panhandle country. At Hereford one farmer recently brought to town a sample of the wheat which showed 61 heads to have grown from one grain. It is a new variety of wheat for Texas.

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervousness and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stone of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, was nervous, depressed. I was so weak I couldn't walk across the floor; I had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since... I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic on earth and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully in the treatment of many women's ailments.

If you suffer as these women did take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists.

Mrs. W. F. Minnick Joins Husband in Oklahoma

We received a letter from Mrs. W. F. Minnick this week asking us to change her paper from Clarendon to Kenton, Okla., as she and the children were on their way to the Minnick ranch in Colorado. The letter follows:

Clarendon, June 6, 1921.
Foard County News Editor.
Dear Sir:

The all-absorbing topic in our minds and conversation for the last few weeks has been Will Minnick and Colorado. Now we are on our way. Our address for the summer will again be Kenton, Okla. Please send our paper there and let me know when my subscription expires as we still have that "can't miss-a-copy" kind of feeling for the News.

We helped Foard County share her sadness and gladness for nearly seventeen years and now we are hoping you will find oil or gold, and live happily ever after.

Mr. Minnick has a big garden, lots of young turkeys, chickens and some guineas. He turns the labor part of it over to the children and myself when we get there. If any of you can live on that kind of meat, garden stuff and scenery come to see us this summer.

Sincerely,
MRS. W. F. MINNICK.

DAVIS-GARRETT

Account of the marriage of two Foard County young people in Vernon on May 29 is given in the Vernon Record of last Friday as follows:

Miss Mary Louise Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Garrett, and Jess E. Davis of Crowell were married Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on West Wanderer Street. Only a few immediate relatives were present at the ceremony which was performed by Rev. W. T. Rouse. The young couple left immediately for Crowell to make their home.

Mrs. Davis has lived in Vernon two years, coming here with her parents from Crowell. She was born at Tulia, and her parents are planning to remove there in the near future. The bride attended school in Crowell and was graduated from the high school at that place. After coming to Vernon she was in the employ of The Vernon Record for several months. She was a student last year in the

TRESPASS NOTICE
No fishing, hunting, wood hauling or prowling in the Worsham & Johnson pasture allowed.—W. B. Johnson, 52p

On May 30th a hundred million people bowed their heads in tribute to the heroes who have fallen in our American wars. It is custom—the sorrowful gratitude of a nation. On July 4th we will not sorrow. We will jubilate over the glorious acts of our forefathers, who made this country free.

That, too, is custom—a custom born of an excess of joy. And so it is through life.

No matter how poignant our grief may be today, there is always a measure of joy for the morrow.

It is the destiny of life that joy must be accompanied by sorrow, and sorrow must give way to joy. Never are we permitted to know one to the exclusion of the other.

We are in this life but a little while, each one as but a grain of sand on the glistening beach.

The flowing tides of life bring us into being—we tarry a little while—and the outward rush sweeps us into eternity. The sands of life are as those of the beach—ever shifting. They come, they linger, and they go, but never is the movement limited to one direction.

There is joy over our advent today, and sorrow over our departure tomorrow.

Joy and sorrow, hand in hand. Life is nothing else.

In Memory of Grady Short

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Short on the 27th day of May, 1921, and took from them their youngest son, Grady. He was born Dec. 22, 1913, and was 7 years, 5 months and 5 days old at the time of his death. You never did see Grady but what he was always laughing and having a good time. Now when we go there we can't see little Grady and hear his little voice. God loved him best and saw fit to take him away.

He was taken sick on Tuesday and died on Friday at 3:25 p. m. Oh! It was hard to give him up, but it was the Lord's will, or he would have spared him longer. His last words were: "Cecil I'm going home, come and go with me."

Weep not father and mother for little Grady is asleep in Jesus. He is only awaiting our coming and if we live as Jesus wants us to live we will meet him "some sweet day." He was laid to rest in the Crowell cemetery May 28. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Henderson at the Baptist church at Margaret. Written by his cousin, Carrie Ivie.

MRS. SPENCER'S RECITAL

Mrs. Inez Reavis Spencer was hostess to her music pupils, parents and other guests in the home of her mother, Mrs. D. L. Reavis, on the afternoon of June 4th, closing her first term as instructor on violin and piano in the Crowell High School for 1921.

Mrs. Spencer needs no introduction to the people of Crowell as to her musical ability, having lived a part of her life among you, where she has been closely identified with the musical life of the town, giving of her time and talent on all occasions where music was required, gladly and freely.

She has spent the greater part of her life in the study of music under able instructors, and Crowell is fortunate to have her a resident of the town, and an addition to the teaching force of Crowell.

Cake and Cream were served and fittingly closed a very pleasant afternoon.—A Guest.

RECITAL POSTPONED

On account of the very rainy weather I have postponed my musical recital from Thursday night of this week until Monday night of next week. Everybody is invited to attend on that night. The recital will be in the school auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

MRS. S. T. CREWS.

PARROT MADE MUCH TROUBLE

Abilities of Brooklyn Bird Entirely Unappreciated by the Women of the Neighborhood.

For several weeks past young women passing along Hanson place have been much annoyed by loud whistling, apparently coming from someone who wished to attract their attention. The whistling has had a most peculiar effect, depending on the temperament of the women. Some have quickened their pace and tried to get away; others have turned and surveyed the man who happened to be behind with flushed faces and angry glances. One or two have even complained to the police, while a few have lagged to find out what it was all about.

Recently a highly indignant woman complained to a policeman.

"That man behind me has been whistling to attract my attention for five minutes," she said. "I wish you would stop it."

Much to her amazement the policeman laughed unrestrainedly. He pointed with his hand to a window opposite the Hanson Place Baptist church and there sat the culprit, winking and whistling away. It was a gray parrot with a long red tail. He had learned to whistle like a mischievous country boy, but he reserved his tricks for the women passing. For some time the flirtatious parrot has upset the equanimity of the entire neighborhood.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SOUGHT TO ENHANCE CHARMS

Roman Beauties Well Knew the Value of Time Spent at the Toilette Table.

The toilette of the Roman beauty was a vastly important affair. The maids who assisted in it were usually Greek slaves, and the length of time devoted to it may be judged from the fact that, like beauties of France so many centuries later, the Roman woman often had the poets and the philosophers of the day to divert her during its progress, a favor of which they seem to have been less appreciative than their descendants in France.

The equipment for the toilette was both elaborate and complete. Combs, mirrors of burnished bronze, bottles for perfumes and boxes for rouge and whitening preparations are all to be found in collections of Roman toilette articles, and many are the harsh words on the subject of the feminine toilette to be found in the writings of their masculine contemporaries who disapproved of charm in their women, yet seem with masculine inconsistency to have disapproved equally of women without charm.

Watch and Wait.

While it is true that we never know what trouble or disaster may befall us, we likewise never know what great opportunity is going to come into our lives from an unexpected quarter. If we read the lives of the men of our country who have risen from poverty and obscurity to the greatest heights of success, we find that there were certain times in their lives when great opportunities presented themselves, that much of the success of these men was due to the fact that they were able to take advantage of such opportunities when they came.

How often have we witnessed the unhappy spectacle of some man failing to rise to the complete possibilities of opportunity as a result of thriftlessness!

Thriftless habits will undermine any character and eventually lead to ruin.

Artistic Chinese Work.

Little jade trees growing sturdily in bowls of the rarest cloisonne and bearing upon the intricately carved branches, clustered close to the cool green of the jade leaves, wonder fruits of coral and amber and delicately wrought blossoms of the translucent white jade, might be a memory of the Arabian Nights and Aladdin's lamp.

They might be, but they are not. They are tributes to the infinite patience and skill of the Chinese artisan in semi-precious stones, and the zeal of the collector who buys with American gold the treasures of the Far East and glottingly carries them back across the Pacific for the delight of a luxury loving people.

They are expensive, but they represent not only the toil of years but the expression of the artist's soul.

Gloving the Tongue.

A glove for the tongue has been patented by an inventor of Indiana. It is called a "tongue shield," and is designed to enable the wearer to escape the unpleasantness of castor oil or other bad-tasting medicines. The contrivance might be said to have the shape of a miniature slipper without any heel portion, but when placed over the tongue is inverted. The tongue is inserted into the "toe" part and the back part of the "sole" extends over the top of the tongue toward the throat. The device is made of thin rubber, so as to be liquid proof, and is so constructed as to fit the tongue snugly without discomfort. When medicine is taken it passes into the throat without affecting the sense of taste, so that all unpleasantness is obviated.

Thought Teacher Dense.

A teacher tried to impress on the child's mind the sound of the letter "a" by having him repeat it several times in different words. Getting tired of the repetition the child looked at the teacher and said: "Don't you know it yet?"
