

HATS

Don't throw that old hat away.

The proper, sensible, economical thing to do is to bring it to our "Hat Hospital" this week.

We can cure it of any ailment. We will remove the dents and repair the rents.

We have with us this week, Mr. Hancock, who is an expert hatter. He will clean, reblock and retrim your old hat and make it look like a new one. We keep the dirt and grease as part pay. The other little payment you can make with real money.

if the old one is beyond repair we have a new one that you will like.

AND
The price is right.

"They Satisfy"

WHEN THE FLESH "CREEPS"

Sensations of Fear and Horror Cause Progressive Contraction of the Erective Muscles.

When one is greatly frightened and impulses go out from the brain centers to the erector muscles the progressive contraction of the latter can be distinctly felt. This sensation commonly attends the emotions of fear and horror and is popularly described as a "creeping" of the flesh.

Impulses which pass out over the nerves from the brain affect various muscles in addition to those attached to the roots of hairs. This fact accounts for the peculiar behavior of the heart when one is badly scared, for the tenseness of the throat and the vocal cords and for the trembling of the hands, etc. A contraction of the muscular tissues controlling the blood vessels partly closes them and so shuts off the supply of blood to the skin. This, of course, results in paleness.

At the same time the numerous sweat glands in the skin are excited and pour forth an unusual amount of perspiration. This causes the oft-mentioned "cold sweat." In reality it is no more cold than any other sweat, but it seems so because it occurs when the skin is chilled, due to the constriction of its arteries and capillaries.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

D. 1917, the plaintiff and defendant were legally married in the State of Washington, and continued to live together as husband and wife until about the 30th day of April, A. What it Costs to Stop Train.

An ordinary passenger locomotive consumes a pound of fuel for every 52 feet it travels. Each unnecessary stop made with a heavy freight or passenger train represents a fuel loss of from 500 to 750 pounds of coal, depending on the weight of the train, the length of the stop and the grade conditions. A brake-line air leak on a train of 50 freight cars has been known to cause a loss of as much as 2,540 pounds of coal in a ten-hour period. The loss of coal each time a modern locomotive pops off for five minutes is about 75 pounds. If locomotive firemen were to save a little more than one shovelful of coal out of each ton used the total saving would be equal to nearly 1 per cent of all the coal handled. Floyd W. Parsons in the World's Work.

A Moral Victory

Did you ever see a pluckier fight than our high school squad put up in our football game with Paducah at the ball park last Friday? Up against a team of several years training, one that has already played three games this season, the new Crowell eleven fought to the last ditch. The Paducah squad showed surprising speed in the back field and our boys were bewildered at first by the rapid triple passes and trick plays of the visitors. This cost us three touchdowns in the first quarter.

Right here is where we found what kind of stuff our high school team is made of. They tore into enemy lines for every possible inch of gain when we carried the ball, and heroically fought down the attempted gains through our lines, when the enemy carried it. The second quarter showed a decided improvement over the first, and in the last half we out-talied the visitors seven to six. All of which means that our boys held faster and hit harder every minute of the game. How would you play some of life's games, brother, if the enemy had scored on you twenty to nothing in the first quarter? Would you put up the plucky fight that the little bunch of high school youngsters in Friday's game did, or do you imagine that you might have weakened a little under such discouraging, overwhelming odds? Some of the oldest and most seasoned of us might well profit by that heroic uphill battle and its moral victory—for it was, after all, truly a moral victory.

Scurry County will have a fair. It is reported that considerable interest is being manifested in this, the first fair for that county. The Chamber of Commerce is offering $800 worth of prizes for this year's exhibits.

The explosion of an oil stove was the cause of a fire at Lockney that destroyed the home of T. T. Threat recently.

Testimony was taken in Vernon and Quanah last week relative to the Red River boundary by a commission representing Texas and Oklahoma. The testimony was sufficient to warrant the statement by Attorney General Cureton that according to his opinion lands so long settled as are those in the Red River valley will never be given to another state. The question of boundary arose over disputes as to whom the oil wells in the bed of the river belonged, whether to residents of Texas or Oklahoma.

A very good practice by some of the city schools of the country is the fire drills which have been put on in Quanah is one of them. Lectures on fire prevention and practice in vacating the building will be had from time to time.

A potato curing plant has been opened at Memphis, Texas, for the benefit of the farmers of that community who are engaged in the growing of potatoes. The farmers are said to be realizing splendid profits from their potatoes, one man received $190 per acre net.

T. E. L. Class Social Meeting

Mrs. Frank Long and Mrs. Archie Williams entertained the T. E. L. class in the home of Mrs. Long, Thursday, Oct. 13.

Mrs. Tom Bell led the devotion, stressing the thought that we live by faith and not by sight. Mrs. Steek presided in her usual pleasing manner.

The officers gave good reports and especially the treasurer.

Mrs. Long and Mrs. Williams are fine hostesses and everything was arranged for the class for comfort and pleasure. After enjoying a very interesting contest, honors going to the two Mrs. Bells, a very tempting plate of chicken sandwiches and fruit salad was passed to class members and visitors. The class enrolled two new members.

Our next monthly meeting will be with Mrs. Will Womack.—Reporter.

MOB SPIRIT CAME NEAR ASSERTING ITSELF

It was at Benjamin, the county seat of Knox County, that mob spirit really did assert itself Saturday night when the report went out that a negro prisoner had injured the wife of the sheriff, but when the true situation was known the mob was easily quelled.

According to reports it happened about this way: There were several prisoners in the jail, one among whom was a negro, who was in jail on the charge of burglary. Sheriff Britton and his family live in the jail and Mr. Britton was away when feeding time came and Mrs. Britton and her daughter, who is about 15 years of age, was going to feed the prisoners. As they went into the jail they locked the door behind them and upon opening the door where the negro was confined the negro ran out over the girl and down stairs taking the key which he undoubtedly supposed was for the outer door of the jail, but it happened not to be the right one. In the meantime Mrs. Britton placed herself between the negro and the door and he seized her and threw her against the wall. The little girl about this time came running down stairs and picked up the key for the outer door, which was lying on a bed nearby, and pitched it out through an opening. The negro, seeing that his escape was impossible ran back upstairs and made no further attempts to gain his freedom.

In some way outsiders got the idea that the negro was trying to harm Mrs. Britton, and consequently a mob was gathering when correct information stopped it.

The Texas Chamber of Commerce has passed resolutions declaring that the Ku Klux is a menace to the State and that its acts are in violation to the Federal Constitution.

The report comes from the State University that that institution has 3,898 students, as against 3,090 last year, which indicates a healthy growth.

The Methodist conference at Amarillo appropriated $8,000 for Clarendon College to be used in furthering the work of the institution.

Essentials.

What do "successful" men think made them succeed? What qualities in other men would they think promised an important and useful future? Perhaps the opinions of no group of persons on such matters could be more valued than that of the membership of the American Society of Engineers. Fifteen hundred of these key-men of industry answered a questionnaire on "The Eight Qualities Essential for Success." The voting on a dozen or more qualities, worked out in order of the relative frequency of their selection, resulted in this list being preferred by the engineers: character, judgment, initiative, resourcefulness, ability to handle men, enthusiasm, industry, technical training. From this piece of testimony it would seem to be a question of the "man" first, the "engineer" second.

American Legion News

To make former doughboys feel at home, unique plans were laid for the Nebraska state convention of the American Legion at Fremont. Military police were stationed about the city that the soldiers might have the pleasure of blithely disregarding the red arm bands of one time authority. Officers in Sam Brown belts and shiny puttees were conspicuous, but privates passed them by, cigarette in mouth, with a nod of recognition answering for the old snappy salute. Wooden shoes clattered over cobblestones to bring back memories of French villages and to strengthen the illusion, small boys in street corners pleaded: "Give me one cecigaret, plects?" Signs on tumble-down buildings advertised "Vin Blanc" and "Vin Rouge" and other all but forgotten commodities of the French countryside.

C. R. Baines, general manager of the American Legion Weekly since February, 1920, has submitted his resignation, effective November 12, to become vice president and business manager of the Army and Navy Journal. The business and editorial policies of the Weekly were approved by a surveying committee which last week made a thorough investigation of the organization's national publication. Daniel F. Steek, national executive committeeman of Iowa, was chairman of the committee. In face of the industrial depression, it was shown, the magazine is making a profit and has virtually wiped out a deficit incurred before the reorganization of the Legion publishing corporation in February, 1920.

Construction of two national hard surface highways, one from the Atlantic to the Pacific and the other from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada, is urged upon the government in a plan originating in Denver, Colo. The national organization of the American Legion has been asked to endorse and support the proposition, the originators pointing out that it would give work to thousands of unemployed ex-service men.

Marshal Foch has been voted a member of George Washington post, the American Legion, Washington D. C., the first Legion post in the world to receive a charter. The post held that the marshal was eligible because he had commanded American troops in action. A motion to make the Generalissimo's dues 5,000 centimes was voted down, however.

Another local Chamber of Commerce which will not be in harmony with the national organization's fight against adjusted compensation for ex-service men is that of Auburndale, a suburb of Toledo, O. The Chamber of Commerce there has just been organized by members of an American Legion post. Formation of the commercial body was undertaken by the Legion men, they said, purely as "part of our duty to the community."

For the burial of one of their war dead, American Legion men of Marshfield and North Bend, Ore., posts are required to travel seven miles in an open boat and then hike two miles with the casket over a muddy road in a drenching rain. All roads were impassable for the stage which is the sole means of travel.

Use of one of the Shipping Board's wooden "war vessels" tied up at a wharf for more than a year as a home until permanent quarters can be constructed is being sought by Rainier-Noble post of the American Legion Seattle, Wash.

To honor Marshal Foch and other distinguished visitors, a squadron of six mail airplanes will fly from Washington to Kansas City during the American Legion national convention there this month, by order of Postmaster General Hays.

Unable further to witness the suffering of her invalid husband, an ex-service man, Mrs. Madelyn Taylor, living in the country near Little Rock, Ark., published in newspapers an offer to sell herself into servitude to get hospital treatment for him. American Legion posts of Little Rock immediately brought Taylor to a hospital and ordered treatment for him. They will foot the bills.

A strong French heritage of the A. E. F. was responsible for a touching scene during the Oklahoma convention of the American Legion. Pinning a gold medal for service on H. B. Fell, retiring state commander, James A. Ingraham, Cleveland, heard shouts of "Kiss him, kiss him" from 1,100 delegates present. He did—on both cheeks.

Wounded in action and left permanently maimed, John Hansen was only able to do a house-cleaning job found for him by the American Legion em-

POLITICAL POSITIONS.

THERE are many civic positions which will certainly be open to women in a short time, not only here and there, but everywhere. In many of our smaller cities and towns the women's clubs have done a great civic work already, proving that women are well fitted to do such work. There is no reason at all why a woman should not be commissioner of street cleaning and there seem to be many reasons pointing to the fact that she would be an excellent one. As factory inspectors, as recorders, and in positions having to do with the household side of the community, women can do excellent work.

Women who go into politics should go with a sense of service to the body politic. If they do that and can point to results that prove them square, honest and devoted, many women are going to find themselves elected to city jobs.

If you have a bent toward civic work, study the problems in your own community. The past generation saw the marvellous development of women as to the business world. The coming one is sure to see an equally amazing entry into the world of political work.

So far women who have been appointed to various city or state positions have not had to play politics. They have been given such positions because they were fitted for them and had the necessary training. That is the right spirit. Get your training and do your studying, know your problems and the type of people with whom you must work. If you are fit for the job, you have as good a chance as your brother to get it—or you will have before old time is much older.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

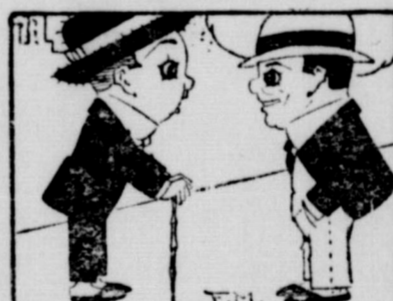

THE MAN YOUR BOY WILL BE.

YOU sometimes worry, wonder what your boy will be a man; You like to look ahead a lot, The future try to scan. You hope he'll be a man in fact As well as man in size, And so his every boyish act, You watch with anxious eyes.

But do not worry—you can tell The man your boy will be, If he the truth will follow well. You try to make him see, You need not watch his nights and days In search of guilt or guile— You only need to turn your gaze Upon yourself awhile.

There is the place for men to look, For fathers to inquire, Sons do not learn life from a book They learn it from their sire. The rule you make your boy obey Must be the rule for you— For he will heed the thing you say, But more the thing will do.

It is not difficult to know The future of the lad, For he will very likely grow Exactly like his dad. The life he leads as time unfolds, When boyhood days are fled, Will be the life he now beholds— The life his father led. (Copyright.)

WHERE THEFT IS UNKNOWN

Rare Standard of Honesty Prevails in Brazilian Diamond Town of Diamantina.

If ever a native of Diamantina (Brazilian mining town) has stolen a diamond, even as a boy, he is blackballed in the community all the rest of his life. It is a long way to anywhere else, even since the advent of the railroad, so that the stealing of the town's chief product is extremely rare, writes Harry A. Franck in the Century.

Men from far off country often come in with thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds or black carbons on a pack mule, which legs far behind with its negro driver, and though everyone along the way knows what it carries, for decades no negro has run away, nor has any one "framed" a hold-up.

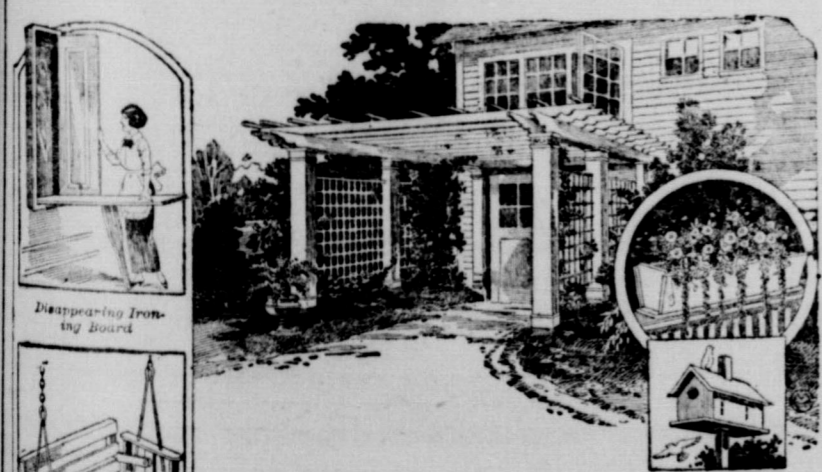

Gold and precious stones are handled in the town with a casual carelessness equaled only by the Bank of England. A local jewelry shop, famous in the trade the world over, looks like a miserable little tinker's den, where a dozen men and boys, all with more or less African blood, work at dirty, worn benches. About them is a wilderness of junk, where cigarette butts, gold nuggets, iron tools, gold wire, and worthless odds and ends lie jumbled together with diamonds of all sizes, cut and uncut.

Old tin tobacco boxes, with fortunes in diamonds, lie loose among them, and precious stones wrapped in dirty bits of paper can scarcely be distinguished from the dusty rubbish on the tables. A tiny show window, recently put in as a concession to modern ideas, has a six-carat diamond stuck against the glass, with several smaller ones about it, day and night; a tin can that originally held soap, but is now full of emeralds, amethysts, topazes and the half dozen other precious stones found in the region, was kicking about the floor.

Yet there was no sign of lock or key except those used to fasten the outer door at night; the owner came only and on during the day, and amid this disordered jumble of wealth his dozen workmen and boys toiled from 7 in the morning until sometimes 9 at night at ludicrous wages without a loss ever having been reported.

New Perfection oil stoves are cheaper now. Let us show you what they will do.—J. H. Self & Sons.

DEPOSIT OF POTASH IN ODESSA FIELD

Worth More Than All the Gold and Silver in Nation

Odessa, Oct. 17.—More valuable to the United States than all its gold and silver mines, is the estimate which John Lathrop of New York, noted economist, traveler and writer, places upon the potash deposits of West Texas, after an examination of the Odessa field this week.

Lathrop, who in the last seven or eight years, has visited fifteen countries on three continents, studying and gathering material for articles on economics and financial conditions, was decidedly impressed with the possibilities of developing a potash deposit here.

He stated that if the potash which has already been discovered, comes up to the expectations of the United States department of agriculture, the discovery will mean more to this country than its gold and silver mines and will outrival in importance the finding of the famous Klondike lode.

Lathrop was at one time political adviser to the new republic of Poland and was later on the staff of the Financial Times of London. For more than ten years he has devoted his attention and energies to the fertilization of wornout soil and it is in this connection that he is now making a thorough study of Texas' most recent discovery—potash.

Potash is necessary, according to Lathrop, is one of the trio of minerals that is absolutely necessary, if the breadbasket of the United States is to remain full and the cost of living prevented from mounting still higher. Two of these, the nitrates and phosphates, are to be had here in sufficient quantities, but potash has, up to the present time, been found in large quantities in Germany and Alsace. In 1913, according to Mr. Lathrop we imported 1,660,000 tons. In 1920 we imported 135,000 tons, all the importing countries could spare, and as a result less than 5 per cent of our needs were taken care of.

If the potash is found in large quantities, he said, there will be no difficulty in securing finances to develop the find and big interests all over the country are prepared to start development.

While the discovery of potash in West Texas has created country-wide interest few people have realized the tremendous value of a large bed of potash, and although considerable land has been leased, development has been slow to start.

Potash in the Odessa field was found in three wells, the Midland well, the Wari county well and the Dawson county well. All three wells were being drilled for oil and potash was found by men in the employ of the United States geological survey in the drill cuttings. The drillers, unaware of the value of the salt kept no accurate log of the thickness, so consequently, the value of the deposit here yet remains to be determined. Because the government men predicted that Odessa would probably be the center of the deposit, activity has naturally centered about Odessa, and thousands of acres of land have been leased surrounding the townsite.

In order to stimulate development, the Odessa Commercial club has blocked 20,000 acres of land which will be offered to a reliable company for a deep test, President McKinley announced this week.

Numbers of visitors have stopped at Odessa this week. The Stanley-Ranger Oil company is the latest company to secure acreage in the Odessa field, this week securing a large block in Crane county.

The Johnson Investment company of Philadelphia has representatives at Odessa this week who announced that the company would start drilling on an acreage in Crane county within thirty days.

The finding of oil in the Loving county well is proving a boon to the Odessa field which has been favorably passed on by eminent geologists. The combination of both oil and potash makes the Odessa field one of the most desirable in Texas.

SLEEPS IN PEACE

Resting Place of Tecumseh Long Undisturbed.

Great Chief Was Buried on Thames Battlefield and His Sepulchre Kept a Secret.

What boy of Canada or the United States has not thrilled to the exploits of Tecumseh? The conspiracy of the great chief of the Shawnees to unite the Indian tribes into one vast confederation for a last desperate stand against the whites, a plan smashed by Harrison's victory at Tippecanoe, is one of the most absorbing chapters of early American chronicles.

The field where Tecumseh fought his last fight and where he sleeps his last sleep is soon to be transformed into a park. It is in southern Ontario, near Moraviantown, on Thames river. The fight is known in Canadian annals as the battle of Moraviantown and in American, as the battle of the Thames.

Every day trains whizz over it on the Grand Trunk railway and autoists traverse it by the Longwoods road, but few know that the farm lands that now divide it are classic ground over which the Americans waged hard-fought battles against the British and their Indian allies in the war of 1812. The Tecumseh Memorial association of Moraviantown has recently taken steps to co-operate with the Ontario government in converting the battlefield into a highway park.

Tecumseh, according to tradition, was killed in the battle by a shot from the pistol of Col. Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky, later vice president of the United States. He was buried on the field, but the exact location of his grave is unknown.

"After the battle," said Chief Tobias of the Moraviantown Indian reserve recently, "the Indians retreated three days up the Thames. Then they sent three warriors back to bury Tecumseh. One of these, a Delaware named Snake, was left to guard the canoe while the other two, who were of Tecumseh's own tribe, located the chief's body and buried it. The two Shawnees told Snake where the grave was dug and the three Indians took an oath never to reveal the spot. This was to prevent possibility of desecration.

"The Shawnees went back to Ohio, where they rejoined the Prophet, Tecumseh's brother, and with him were transferred by the American government west of the Mississippi. They never revisited the battlefield. Snake lived to old age on the reserve at Moraviantown. Until his death he kept faithful but clandestine watch over the grave. When the Grand Trunk railway was built through the battlefield he was afraid it would pass over the burial place. But this did not happen and Tecumseh still sleeps in the secret grave where his warriors laid him to rest more than a hundred years ago."

Boundary Witness Tells of Balfour's Visit to His Ranch

Vernon, Texas, Oct. 15.—What was termed by Attorney General of Texas C. M. Cureton as one of the most interesting bits of testimony yet offered in the Red River boundary dispute came here Wednesday during the cross examination of Captain C. F. Doan, one of the earliest settlers in Wilbarger County.

Captain Doan was first postmaster in the community which bears his name today and experienced many thrilling visits from Indians and desperadoes during his regime at the trading post. In connection with describing these episodes, Captain Doan, who is 73 years old, related an episode which occurred in 1884 when Lord Arthur J. Balfour came to this country in connection with ranching interests he owned in this vicinity. Balfour was at the head of an English syndicate which was being constantly robbed by those intrusted to care for the ranch in this country so, unknown to the American operators, he came to Doan settlement in Wilbarger County, donned the garb of a cowboy, and hired out as an employee on his own ranch.

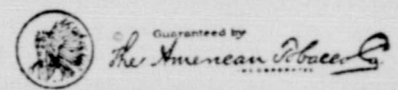

After laboring for a period, Balfour became familiar with the methods in vogue in handling the ranch, disclosed his identity, and instituted a material shake-up. He at once became vastly popular with the local residents who admired his pluck in undergoing the hardships of an unusual life in order to protect his own and others' interests.

Details of this visit from the British nobleman were carefully explained by Captain Doan in offering his testimony. The points brought out tended to prove the age of the present Doan valley, and its early character. Balfour became a personal friend of the hardy Doan pioneer, and often visited his trading post. Balfour's recent acceptance of the post as head of the British delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern affairs makes the testimony of Captain Doan at this time doubly interesting.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—"

"... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

AMARILLO WELL BLOWS OUT TOOLS

Amarillo, Texas, Oct. 16.—The Panhandle Refining Company's Terry Thompson No. 1, in the southern part of Moore County, about forty miles north of Amarillo, blew the tools out of the hole when a gas production, estimated at between 100,000,000 and 150,000,000 cubic feet by conservative oil men, was encountered. Although Amarillo claims to have the largest gas field in the world, this is the first time in its history that the tools have been blown from a well by pressure of the gas.

This well encountered a gas flow of about 30,000,000 feet last summer, but was shut down. Recently, drilling was resumed and, after only twelve feet had been drilled, the tools were blown from the well. This is considered especially significant by Amarillo oil men since the Masterson No. 4, said to be the largest gas well in the world, with a Government test showing 107,000,000 cubic feet a day, did not blow out the tools.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN YOU TELEPHONE.

IN THE business world it is no longer considered good form when you telephone to use the word "Hello"—designated by one of the telephone directors as "an ungraceful and rude little word." Much less then ought it to be used in social telephoning and the telephoning that takes place after business hours and in the home.

"Remember—telephone courtesy begins when the bell rings," says a little booklet recently got out by one of the telephone companies. Now this is something that the young man or woman in business has to remember. He knows, for instance, if he is dealing with possible buyers that he is far more apt to get an order if he does remember it. If he responds to the telephone with a surly, "What do you want?" before he knows who is calling and then, when he realizes that it is a customer, changes the tone of his voice and his mode of speech, he has made a bad beginning, and he is less apt to make a sale than if he opens the conversation with courtesy and cordiality.

Now here are some things that you should remember whether you are using the telephone for business or purely social or personal purposes.

If you open the telephone conversation do not ask any one to give his or her name until you announce your own.

If you are calling a certain person in a household and another member of the family whose voice you recognize answers do not ignore that person, saying, "Hello, I want to speak to Mary," but rather something like this: "Good morning, Jane; this is Claire speaking. May I talk to Mary?" If another person opens the telephone conversation do not make the mistake of prolonging the conversation after she has finished her errand. Especially if an out-of-town wire is being used, be careful not to cause the other person to have to pay double tolls because of your verbosity.

AN EXCEPTION.

Sire: You should practice self-denial. When ever anything costs me more than it should I do without it.

Son: How about the excessive cost of living?

Motorists

are often at the end of their wits to know where they can have the repair work on their cars properly done—how to avoid the absolute butchery that is so often inflicted upon cars by incompetent persons who hang out a sign and call themselves "motor mechanics."

This garage offers you the opportunity to have your repairs made in the proper manner by mechanics who DO KNOW THEIR BUSINESS and who have long since passed the experimental stage in motor mechanics.

You pay only for the actual time honestly consumed in the work.
