Why "Wiggletail?"

"It does away completely with the leg-weariness caused by other cultivators." That's what one man said of the P&O Wiggletail Cultivator. He said a mouthful, and he touched on but one feature of this cultivator.

That word "Wiggletail" is an odd name for a cultivator, but it fits this one to perfection. Cultivators are made to loosen the ground and to destroy weeds. Can you imagine a better way than by wiggling a hoe or a cultivator shovel along between the rows?

Dodging in and Out Among the Crooked Rows

On the Wiggletail Cultivator, the tongue is pivoted both to the frame and arch. When the rear end of the tongue is moved sideways to the right or left by the shifting of the seat, the same movement angles the frame in the opposite direction and with it the arch and gangs. In crooked rows, the gangs can be instantly thrown out to prevent the destruction of growing crops, and in straight rows it is the easiest running cultivator ever made.

No cultivator on the market is so easily controlled, has such a wide range of adjustments to suit every condition, nor affords as great comfort to the driver as the P&O Wiggletail. And what we say about the "comfort" of the driver also applies to the team.

Crowell, Texas, April 13, 1923

WHERE ARE THE CHILDREN?

There is one matter to which the grand jury calls attention in its report that should not be overlooked, and that is the growing practice of the young boys and girls going car riding at night. It may be charged that this matter is none of the News' business. We answer that any matter that has any bearing on the morals of the country is some of this paper's business, whether it has to do with our children or our neighbor's children. It is not improbable that that very attitude of some people towards this matter is responsible in a measure for the liberties being taken by the youths of the country. Too many are disposed to act on the principle that they are not their brothers' keepers. Oh, they say, "that's none of my affairs," but when some life is besmirched with sin every individual in the community is hurt by it. No man lives to himself. When the morals of a community are corrupted the community suffers. Likewise when the morals of a community are raised the community is benefitted and blessed. Then it is a matter of concern to every citizen, not only what one's own, but what his neighbors' children do.

In our judgment the first fatal mistake that is made by the parents is in not knowing where their children are. If they are under the home roof at night you know. If they are not under the home roof you may think you know, but you may not know. That does not mean that all or that any children would deceive their parents but it does mean that any of them might yield to influences that would lead to hurtful consequences. There is no harm in restraint, but on the contrary it may be the saving from ruin of the child. All children not held by strict home government do not add to the human wreckage along the pathway of life. Neither do all who are reared under the strictest discipline avoid the pitfalls of sin, but this is the general rule, and the general rule is safest to follow.

Humility never recognizes itself and is therefore never conscious of its existence. If that were possible it would instantly cease to be humility and would become pride. Humility is always discovered here by the man out yonder.

Take the ego out of some men and you have nothing left but a wad of meat and bones. Take the vanity from some of the female tribe and you have the same thing left but usually it is protected by a good, thick coat of paint.

No truer words were ever spoken than that an idle brain is the devil's workshop, and he seldom ever leaves it long enough to go home to dinner.

It must be mighty hard on the devil when he tries to hand the other fellow a dose of medicine which he himself is speedily forced to swallow.

We have heard of no one having lost his "goat" recently, although there was a pack of wolves after some the other day.

And why should one love his old Kentucky home "still" since modern contrivances in Texas have eliminated that necessity?

Man was made in the image of God but in many instances he has been besmirched with sin until he looks like the devil.

Any man can claim the monkey as his ancestor if he wishes, but some of them should have more respect for the monkey.

It is hard to say who is cheated most in a deal where cheap praise is the price, the purchaser or the seller.

Columbian Club

Mrs. Jack Roberts entertained the members of the Columbian Club Wednesday afternoon. A large percentage of the membership was present, and the usual club enthusiasm prevailed.

The subject of the lesson was "The Little Theatre" and was handled in a most capable manner by the leader, Mrs. C. R. Ferguson. Not only has this movement been a boon to the cities, but the rural districts as well.

The club voted to subscribe five dollars toward the expenses of each "Old Soldier" of Crowell who wished to attend the Confederate Reunion at New Orleans this month. The ranks of those who fought for the Southern cause are rapidly diminishing and we hope that Crowell will follow the example of our neighboring cities after this and see that every soldier may attend these annual reunions. The members of this club have the patriotism and zeal to back up the movement and we'll be heard from again. After adjournment Mrs. Roberts served devils food cake and parfait for refreshments.—Reporter.

"42" Club

Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Beverly entertained the "42" Club in their home on last Friday evening. Six tables of players enjoyed the game for an hour or two, after which a social chat was engaged in. Besides the regular members, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kinsey, Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hughston, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughston and Miss Lottie Woods were guests. The hostess served delightful refreshments at the conclusion of the game.

What Preacher Needed

"Between emotionalism and formalism in religion," remarks a Washingtonian, "there is, of course, a golden mean, and almost every preacher thinks he has found it. So, probably, thought a white minister who preached to a colored congregation in North Carolina; but after the sermon he invited an old colored deacon to offer prayer.

"O Lord!" prayed the deacon, 'give dis pore brother de eye of de eagle, dat he spy sin afar off. Give his hands to de gospel plough. Tie his toggue to de line of truth. Nail his ear to de gospel pole. Bow his head 'way down between his knees, O Lord, an' fix his knees 'way down in some lonesome, dark and narrer valley, where prayer is much wanted to be made. 'Noint him with de kerosene ile of salvashun an' set him on fire.'" —Philadelphia Ledger.

Bolt of Lightning in Louisiana Home Cuts Up Freakishly

Shreveport, La., April 9.—During a recent electrical storm at Bethany, about fifteen miles west of here, the home of Murry Brosette was struck by lightning and it was only by a coincidence that the building escaped without being completely destroyed. The bolt of lightning came down the chimney, jarring loose from the house and dislocating some of the bricks, and fell on the floor in form of a large seething ball of fire. It rolled through the house, literally burning its way through everything it came in contact with, and left a trail of soot and cinders in its wake. Coming to a trunk, it burned its way through, scorching garments and articles on the inside and melting off the corners and finishings on the outside. It then passed on through the wall and burned a hole through it, melting off the heads of nails, bending others, and jarring planks from their places.

The bolt also melted its way through wire screens and burned in two the chain of a porch swing and went down through the floor and disappeared, having jarred vases and other things off the tables and left a patch of smoke, burned wood and seared metal throughout the house.

Notwithstanding the damage to house and contents, it left the inmates of the building absolutely uninjured.

Adelphian Club

Mrs. Fred Rennels was hostess to the Adelphian Club Wednesday afternoon, April 4th.

During the business session, the club voted to place two rocking chairs in the sanitarium for the comfort of persons who are caring for or visiting patients.

An open forum on Texas History was conducted by Mrs. C. J. Yoder. Mrs. Archie Campbell then conducted an interesting lesson on "The Vale of Content" by Suderman, a German playwright. This play presents a phase of the "eternal triangle" and sets forth the author's favorite theme that while the individual has a right to happiness in spite of conventions, yet true contentment or happiness is attained only through a philosophical compliance with conventional demands.

Refreshments consisting of a salad course followed by an ice course were served by the hostess.

Of Course It Pays

If you tell some people that it pays to trade at home they will question the accuracy of your statement or merely content themselves with a careless "perhaps."

For their benefit here is one of the whys.

In modern days the prosperity of a community depends upon the amount of money in circulation in that community.

If a man goes to a nearby city to buy a suit of clothes the money he pays for the suit is ALL taken out of the town. It is gone, and the town doesn't see it again.

But if he buys the suit from a home dealer the wholesale cost only goes out of town. The merchant's profit and overhead expense remains in the home town.

5 1/2 Per Cent FARM AND RANCH LOANS

by the Federal Land Bank of Houston. Easy terms—5 to 35 years. Dependable service. This Bank has loaned $75,000,000.00 to 25 thousand Texas farmers in 5 years—Foard, Knox and Wilbarger Counties.

Let me tell you about it. J. C. THOMPSON, Crowell Nat. Farm Loan Ass'n. Office Bell Bldg.

Figured on the basis of a single suit for a single individual, it amounts to nothing of importance, but if multiplied into hundreds and hundreds of suits, and other articles of wearing apparel, and shoes, and hardware, and millinery, and farm implements, and building supplies, and all of the other articles that enter into our daily life, it can readily be seen that the two items of overhead expense and profits, if all kept at home by the patronizing of home dealers, would mean an enormous amount of money kept in circulation right in our own community.

And YOU would get a part of that money. It's worth thinking over, because it pays to trade at home.

Civilized Barbarians

Ask the average citizen if there are any barbarians in this country, and he would at once say "no."

But there are such monsters here—in the guise of civilized people. They are the motor car killers, those drivers who tear along at terrific speed in congested districts, maiming and killing pedestrians who do not jump with sufficient celerity.

If a man walks up to you and kills you with a gun or a knife, we call him a murderer and hang him.

If a speed maniac runs over a person and kills him, we call it by some other name, the most charitable one we can think of. And generally we do not punish him with anything more severe than a nominal fine.

The courts, the prosecutors, and even the people themselves are entirely too lenient with such killers. That is the reason so many people at the wheel of a car seem to lose all regard for the rights of pedestrians where those rights interfere with the reckless speed at which they like to drive.

The barbarian maims and kills because he has never been taught any better. It is a part of his nature. He has never been civilized.

The motor killer is even worse than the barbarian. He is civilized, and he knows better, but he doesn't do better because it interferes with his speed and his pleasure.

We haven't much use for a barbarous barbarian.

We have even less use for a civilized barbarian—the speed maniac of today.

Federal laws should be passed requiring every motor vehicle to be fitted with a device that would make it impossible for a car to be driven at a speed greater than twenty-five miles an hour, and any violation or evasion of that law should be punishable at nothing less than a term in a penitentiary.

And the speed regulators should be manufactured and sold by the government in order to prevent gouging and profiteering by private manufacturers and dealers.

In no other way can the safety of pedestrians be insured.

Big words are all right, provided a fellow is as big as the words he uses.

ANNOUNCEMENT

of Interest to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude" said Henry Ford in 1903--Read how the fulfilment of that prophecy is made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

"Well! Strong!"

Mrs. Anna Clover, of R. F. D. 5, Winfield, Kans., says: "I began to suffer some months ago with womanly troubles, and I was afraid I was going to get in bed. Each month I suffered with my head, back and sides—a weak, aching, nervous feeling. I began to try medicines as I knew I was getting worse. I did not seem to find the right remedy until someone told me of

The Woman's Tonic

I used two bottles before I could see any great change, but after that it was remarkable how much better I got. I am now well and strong. I can recommend Gardui, for it certainly benefited me. If you have been experimenting on yourself with all kinds of different remedies, better get back to good, old, reliable Gardui, the medicine for women, about which you have always heard, which has helped many thousands of others, and which should help you, too. Ask your neighbor about it; she has probably used it. For sale everywhere. E 93

Keep the Guard Fit!

It is well known that in 1917 the country was in no way prepared for the war into which it entered. In spite of the universal assertion made at that time that such a condition must not be allowed to exist again, there is a drift towards the same situation. The same indifference, the same lack of responsibility, on the part of many citizens, is apparent. The country is ineradicably opposed to universal training in peace times; it is equally opposed to any but the smallest Regular Army. There is left as a fundamental part of the defense system the National Guard. Having decided to put reliance on the Guard it rests with the citizens of the country to make it fit for the great responsibility that they have put upon it. The War Department alone can not make the National Guard effective, though it is devoting great effort to achieve all it can. It is a problem for the citizen, the community, and the State.

To make a good National Guard Unit, one in which a city can take pride, three things are necessary—a good personnel, an adequate armory and continuous and staunch moral support.

The Guard wants good, clean energetic young men. To be a good Guardsman a man must be willing to make some sacrifices; he must have a sense of obligation, a feeling of responsibility, and a conviction of his time. He must be loyal and willing to do work for which the compensation is not the governing motive. It has never been contended that such impulses were not laudable ones; and those persons to whom we owe much have been guided by such a spirit. But, excepting periods of great emergency, many persons give little unremunerated service to the country, and seem to feel that such service while necessary, is the exclusive duty of another. Their dollars and their time are to be devoted to their own advantage or their own enjoyment alone.

It is not contended that military drill is an entertaining or as attractive as shows or loafing; but service is not measured by enjoyment. The service rendered, however, is not without some remuneration. A member of the National Guard can earn $60.00 a year for his weekly drills, from the standpoint of time, the rate of pay being perhaps greater than that of his regular occupation. But no man will make the best soldier who is attracted only by the pay he can receive.

The officers of the Guard believe that it is the duty of the community to help find those young men who do have some of the spirit of devotion and service that has been described. They should come from all levels of society, for there is nothing democratic or very ennobling in a condition where the well-to-do allow peace-time military service to be the exclusive concern of those less fortunately situated. The National Guard Units ask that you do all that you can to put into its ranks some one in whose willingness to serve, you can take pride. It wants you not only to approve of what it is trying to do, but to help, for you as a citizen are a beneficiary of all parts of the system of National Defense.

A proper armory with some club and athletic features is necessary for a good organization. An adequate armory, if partly supported by the community, would meet a great need.

Before the war the Guard struggled against great odds, and was kept alive for the service of the entire country of the loyal sacrificing efforts of a few, who were not discouraged by the apathy and even reproaches of fellow citizens. In spite of such treatment from a public which has always been ever ready to call on the Guard when they became a bit frightened, the Guard rendered service in the war that should be appreciated by every one who gives a moment of thought to anything besides his own affairs. Of the 75,000 men who went over seas, 50,000 were Guardsmen. Two of the Divisions in the First American Corps were Regular Army, the other two were National Guard. Of the nine divisions that has casualties exceeding 10,000, four were National Guard, four Regular Army and one National Army. Two American Guard Divisions are credited by a well-known British writer for leading the advance and breaking the Hindenburg Line at Bellecourt, its strongest point. The best way for you to show your appreciation for such service is by helping keep the Guard fit. Tell some young man that he has a peace time responsibility, and that the country needs a little service at all time. And if you are an employer of any Guardsmen try to arrange to let them off for their two weeks at camp in summer.

Things to Think About

One great trouble with country towns is the fact that many of them are burdened with social cliques, and anyone not a member of one of the cliques is left stranded—high and dry.

This doesn't do a town any good. Instead, it does any community a lot of harm through the creation of social friction and jealousy and hard feelings.

A good way to overcome much of this detrimental influence would be to hold a "Get Together" meeting once each month. It could be given in whatever way the people most desired, and everybody could get acquainted with everybody else.
