More Water Being Developed to Supply Future Needs of City

One of the most fortunate discoveries ever made touching the present and future of Crowell is that of a water supply.

Not every one knows the extent of that supply, as indicated now. It is enough for the present to feel assured that we shall not be forced to look beyond the place where our water is now coming from at least for many years, if ever. It is remarkable that Crowell did not discover many years earlier that there is a water-bearing strata of sand rock more than twelve to twenty feet beneath the surface only a few miles from her door. Yet that is a fact.

As the News stated a short while ago our city authorities decided it would be wise to see what could be done to develop more water in case the town needs it. This was done in view of the fact that more people are using water for domestic purposes, a new ice plant going in and sewerage on the way, all of which means a heavier tax on the water supply. It is gratifying that undreamed of discoveries have been made by sinking other wells and extending tunnels under the ground.

A short while ago the News stated that in one well sunk some 60 or 75 feet the bed of the big lake a very fine flow of water was found measuring 14 inches, coming like a creek out of the sand rock. An effort was made at that time to tunnel west from this well and direct the water to the concreted well near the center of the lake but it was a matter of great surprise that quicksand was encountered and the tunneling had to be abandoned. A new well 65 feet west of where the sand was found was put down and several fine veins of water found. Tunneling is now going on from this new well towards the concreted well where the water will all be thrown together. No sand has been found. After this tunnel is finished Mayor Schlagal says they are going to tunnel back east to the first new well and get the big vein and bring it also to the center well.

With this supply of water added to the already undiminished supply it seems reasonably certain that we need not fear a shortage for several years. It might be said just here that the Orient Railroad has asked for a daily supply of 45,000 gallons in addition to what the road is already using, which will possibly amount to that much, and Mr. Schlagal thinks there will be no doubt that the Orient's needs can be met with safety. It is understood that the Orient wants this water to supplement its needs at Altus, Okla.

There is another important feature about the water in the new wells, and that is that it is much softer than that in the older ones, which makes it much better for domestic purposes. It is interesting to one to see the water pouring from the sand rock and it is more interesting to think of its probable source. A geologist who recently visited the well says the rock strata is traceable from as far south as Sweetwater. How far west it extends is not known but some think it goes back to the Plains country and if that be true we are getting our water from the Plains country in rock through which it is filtered for hundreds of miles.

It is gratifying to every Crowell citizen to know that the city is now using three times as much water as it used the first year after the water-works were put in and that there is no signs of its having failed at any time.

Nephew of Mrs. Gaines Killed in Car Accident

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gaines were called to Shamrock Wednesday of last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Gaines' nephew, Eugene McElmore, who was killed in an automobile accident at Davenport, Okla., Sunday, March 15. The deceased was a worker in an oil field near Davenport, and with a brother was on his way to work when the accident occurred. The car ran off a culvert, killing one occupant and seriously injuring the other.

The Foard County Poultry Association will meet in F. L. Rennels' office at 3 o'clock Saturday, March 28th. It is hoped that every member and every one interested will be on time as this is a very important meeting and it is expected to get right down to business at 3 o'clock.

Officers Raid Still, Destroy Big Quantity of Whiskey and Mash

Sheriff L. D. Campbell, City Marshal R. J. Thomas and Deputy W. G. Chapman, in company with three officers from Knox County and two from Wilbarger, destroyed a 100-gallon capacity still, 25 gallons of whiskey and 2,000 gallons of mash over in Knox County about a mile and a half over the Wichita River Thursday of last week.

The still was a new one, just having been put in and had run a little more than a week, according to information procured, and it was in a very secluded place in the Waggoner pasture. The still was in the bed of a lake and was surrounded partly by hills, one of which was rather high and from which a vigilant watch was kept by one of the crew. From its height objects could be seen for many miles and that fact made it difficult to capture the distillers. So the blockaders escaped.

The outfit was a large one and it appeared that they were going into the business of making whiskey on a commercial scale.

In addition to the property destroyed 1500 pounds of sugar were taken. The entire value of the property destroyed and taken amounts to at least $1,300.

New Postal Rates Go Into Effect April 15th

For the benefit of the public the News is publishing some of the new postal rates which will go into effect April 15th, and it has been suggested that they be cut out of the paper and kept, as they may not appear again, and familiarity with these rates will be a wonderful help to those in the postal service.

4th class mail was 1 cent up to 4 cents an ounce; new rate will be 2 cents for each 2 ounces up to 8 ounces, all zones.

The old rate on postal cards was 1 cent each; the new rate will be 2 cents. Letter mail is not effected.

Registered mail will carry a charge of 15 cents up to the amount of $50.00, instead of 10 cents as heretofore. From $50.00 to $100.00 the charge will be 20 cents. There will be an additional charge of 3 cents for return card.

Third class postal rates will be 1 1/2 cents instead of 1 cent, as heretofore.

Fourth class rate rates will take a service charge of 2 cents above the regular rate.

C. O. D. packages will be 12 cents when not exceeding $10.00; 15 cents when not over $50.00; 25 cents when not over $100.00.

Money orders up to $2.50 will cost 5 cents, instead of 3 cents; $2.50 to $5.00, 7 cents, instead of 5; $5.00 to $10.00, 10 cents, instead of 8 cents; $10.00 to $20.00, 12 cents, instead of 10 cents; $20.00 to $40.00, 15 cents, instead of 12 cents; $40.00 to $60.00, 18 cents; $60.00 to $80.00, 20 cents; $80.00 to $100.00, 22 cents.

Insurance on packages will be 5 cents on amounts not over $5.00; from $5.00 to $25.00, 8 cents; $25.00 to $50.00, 10 cents; $50.00 to $100.00, 25 cents. There will be a charge of 3 cents for return card. The original charges on insured packages were 3c, 5c, 10c and 25c, corresponding to the above.

The News is publishing only the items in which the general public is interested. There are many other changes. For instance the rates on newspapers has been increased but the general public is not interested in that. It is a matter that concerns the publishers.

Crowell Booster Band Making Good Progress

The Crowell Booster Band, under the direction of Fred H. Roberts of Paducah, is still making good progress in their work and it will not be many months until the boys will be playing for the town.

The first few months are the hard ones for them but they have been getting the fundamentals and thus laying the foundation for real success.

What is still needed is a base horn, baritone and drums. With these instruments the band would be complete. Mr. Roberts is anxious to get these pieces in order to make the band complete.

A man can never pull himself out of the mire by his own bootstraps. Neither can a man get any good out of co-operation unless he co-operates.

Dual Killing at Clovis Included a Former Foard County Man

The announcement of the death of L. H. Mickey at Clovis, N. M., last Saturday was an item of news that brought sadness to some Foard County homes. Mr. Mickey was a son-in-law of the late W. M. Wisdom of this county, having married one of Mr. Wisdom's daughters, and upon the receipt of the news here A. B. Wisdom left for the Mickey home in

Mr. Mickey made his home in this county for a year or such a matter about three or four years ago, moving afterwards to Clovis, N. M., and he is remembered by many of our citizens, especially by those in the Thalia community.

Following is an account of the killing, as given in the Star-Telegram of last Sunday:

Special Santa Fe Officer L. H. Mickey and Leslie Starr, 16-year-old youth, shot each other to death here Saturday morning when Mickey attempted to arrest Starr in the Santa Fe yards.

Authorities here were notified from Mountain Air, N. M., to look out for Starr, and Mickey found him in a car of a freight train icing at the railway ice plant.

While searching Starr, Mickey overlooked an automatic strapped around his neck and Starr shot six times. Mickey drew his gun as he fell and killed Starr after he hit the top of the car on which they were standing.

Mickey lived long enough to explain the circumstances before he died at the Santa Fe hospital shortly afterward.

Paducah Woman Sleeps 21 Days Without Waking

Childress, Texas, March 20.—Mrs. C. R. Angel is awake after 21 days and nights of continuous sleep and will leave the Morgan sanitarium here for her home in Paducah Friday.

Mrs. Angel awoke from her long sleep Wednesday morning after several days treatment at the local sanitarium. She is apparently in good health except for loss of strength. Attending physicians say that cases of recovery after such prolonged sleep are rare.

W. A. Cogdell's Brother Died at Olney Friday

H. B. Cogdell, brother of W. A. Cogdell of this city, died at his home in Olney last Friday night, death being sudden.

Mr. Cogdell was a graduate of the State University of Texas and spent a number of years as teacher and superintendent in the public schools of the state. He resigned the superintendency of the schools of Graham in the spring of 1924 after four years of service. Since that time he has been engaged in business at Olney.

W. A. Cogdell and his son, Allen, of this place attended the funeral Saturday. Also the mother, Mrs. N. J. Cogdell, now more than 80 years of age, of Truscott, three sisters, Mrs. R. T. Haynie of Truscott, Mrs. C. Haynie of Streetman and Mrs. Stringer of Alvord were present at the funeral. Only two of the members of the family could not attend, a brother and sister, one residing in Arkansas and the other in Louisiana.

Boys' Encampment to Meet July 14, 15, 16

The county agents met at Vernon Tuesday and decided upon the time for the Club Boys' encampment this summer and fixed July 14, 15 and 16, as to dates for the encampment. The place will be at Vernon.

In addition to the regular program as usual there will be a short course on poultry, dairying, seed selection and cotton root rot. This will be especially for adults, a good number of whom it is hoped will attend the encampment. There will be a program for boys and one for the adults.

Nine counties will be represented at this encampment, Wilbarger, Foard, Wichita, Baylor, Knox, Hardeman, Cottle, Motley and Childress.

The encampment is expected to be a much larger affair this summer than it has been heretofore on account of the addition of other counties and the increased interest generally in the boys club work and the enjoyable and profitable times they have at these encampments.

Foard County's 1924 Cotton Crop Almost Doubles That of 1923

According to the figures given out by the Government Foard County made 18,191 bales of cotton last year, as against 9033 for the year 1923.

This is several thousand more bales than was estimated after it was a certainty that the crop would be a big one, and three times as much as was thought possible at one time.

Crowell Lays Plans for Clean-Up Campaign

A meeting of the city council Monday night was held to lay plans for the coming clean-up campaign, and while all the arrangements were not perfected, the matter in general was discussed and the outline of a campaign decided upon.

Sentiment has been growing in favor of a real clean-up in Crowell and if present tentative plans are carried out that will be done.

The women of the city are to have a part in the direction of the work this year, something that is new. They have always been recognized as authority on plans and methods of procedure in matters of this kind and their valuable help has been solicited.

A program is to be prepared and published in next week's paper, so the News is informed. Clean-up week starts April 5th and closes the 11th.

It is the opinion of some that the town ought to be grubbed. Just what will be decided in regard to that is not yet known. There is no question about that matter. The town ought to be grubbed. Whether that is practicable at present remains to be seen. The News favors that if it is at all possible.

School Trustees to Be Elected April 4

Saturday, April 4th, is the day for the election of school trustees over the county, including the Crowell Independent district.

The patrons of our schools will find this an opportunity to do some good work. It is a thing of more importance than is ordinarily given to it. Too often folks are busy and care little about an election of this kind, unless, of course, some warm stuff can be injected into it, which in that case is too often the fruits of selfishness on the part of somebody. That kind of stuff always ought to be eliminated from the election of school trustees. The modern name for it is "politics." Well, suppose we don't have any politics in it.

Good judgment will have an opportunity to select men of real worth to the community if selfishness is eliminated from the election. Go to the polls Saturday, April 4, and cast your vote honestly for good people to fill these important positions.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PRESENT PLAY MONDAY NIGHT

N. L. Swortant's three act farce, "The Arrival of Kitty," which has been played professionally and which is a high-class royalty play, will be presented by local high school talent at the opera house Monday, March 30, at 8 o'clock.

Bobbie Baxter, pursuing his little love affair with Jane, against the opposition of her uncle, has occasion to disguise himself in female costume and is taken for Kitty, an actress and close friend of the uncle, to the vast confusion of everything and everybody.

This great amount of fun will be presented by five boys and four girls in modern costumes. The one scene for the play will be the lobby of The Halvcon House in the Cat-skill Mountains.

The cast of characters includes: Ralph Hunter as Mr. William Winkler, the uncle; J. P. Walling as Bobbie Baxter, the pursuing lover; Thelma Jo, Merritt, as Jane, the niece; Christine Campbell as Aunt Jane; Marion Cheek as Miss Kitty Benders, the play actress; Catherine Clark as Suzette, the maid; Roscoe Brown as Sam, the porter; and Howard Benham as Ting, the bell boy who acts as "It" while the proprietor is away.

The proceeds of the play will be used to place some necessary volumes in the libraries of both the high school and intermediate grades.

N. J. Roberts and J. R. Beverly made a business trip to Wichita Falls Monday.

Crowell Team Wins Again When Crossing Bats with Paducah

It was an interesting game the boys played with Paducah Thursday, according to reports. This time the game was played on the Paducah grounds and this was the second game of the season and the second with Paducah. The scores stood 5 to 11 in favor of Crowell when the last inning had been played.

The team has started out well and if they keep it up they are going to make a record this season.

Chamber of Commerce Luncheon to Be Given at M. E. Church Tonight

The ladies of the Methodist church will serve luncheon in the basement of the church tonight and there will be some matters of interest to consider at the meeting. One of these will be the election of two representatives to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting at Mineral Wells.

Another matter that will probably come before the body for discussion will be that of a hotel for Crowell.

There will possibly be other matters of importance and interest to the people of Crowell.

New Residences Are Soon to Be Started

Leo Spencer is putting the material on the ground for his new residence in the east part of town. Mr. Spencer contemplates building about a $4,000 residence.

S. S. Bell is making preparations to start his new residence at the site of the old one in East Crowell. The original building was moved off some weeks ago, preparatory for the building of the new one. He has not decided what kind of house he will build, but it will probably be a brick.

M. S. Henry recently purchased lots south of Dr. Clark's residence and will build a $10,000 or $15,000 two-story brick, the work to start within the immediate future.

These three buildings will represent an outlay of several thousand dollars and will add much to the town in appearance as well as value.

The News is glad to know that these splendid residences are to be built. It means that there is confidence in the future of the town and country. It looks like a town is going to be built and that means that there is something back of it, and there is. It is a country that can be depended upon.

Brother of J. P. Tye Dies at Quanah, 19th

J. T. Tye, brother of J. P. Tye of this city, died in a sanitarium in Quanah March 19th, after an illness of seven days following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Tye's home was at Paducah and he had been taken to Quanah for an operation and placed in the sanitarium at that place.

He was a man 57 years of age at the time of his death and had a wife and ten living children.

Besides these he is survived by his mother, three brothers and one sister. All were present at the funeral but the mother and one son.

Funeral services were held at Paducah Methodist church March 20th, Rev. Foote, pastor at Paducah conducting the services.

The deceased had been a member of the Methodist church since he was 16 years of age and had been a faithful and consistent member. The general verdict of the citizens among whom he had lived for the last thirteen years is that they had lost a good man and a good citizen.

THOMAS ANNOUNCES FOR CITY MARSHAL

R. J. Thomas announces this week for the office of city marshal.

Mr. Thomas has served for the last two years, and in all four years. He has been faithful in his service and has made the city a good officer. He needs no commendation further, because his record has been made and the citizens of Crowell know what that record is.

The News commends Mr. Thomas for re-election.

Philadelphia boys caused damage of $47 and were sentenced to 47 spankings each. Sparing the fine and applying the rod is one way of reducing the crop of boy bandits.

Theme of Sermon "The Adventurous Life of Faith"

The discourse delivered by Rev. Fuller Sunday, the theme being "the adventurous life of faith," was based upon the 8th, 9th and 10th verses of the 11th chapter of Hebrews.

In this discourse lessons were drawn from the adventurous life of Abraham in obeying the command of his God to get up and move to a new country. The outstanding characteristics of that great man that commends him to all people of the years since his time was his faith in God. That is strikingly illustrated in his obedience to God's command. He went, not knowing where he was going, but it was not his to inquire the whys and wherefores and to contemplate the outcome of the venture he was making under the call of God. His duty lay in the path of obedience to a specific command.

The first great lesson to be drawn from the scripture is that of wisdom. "Men must have a vision bigger than themselves," said the preacher, and that means that they must get out of themselves. They must recognize that there are other people who have rights. And it is necessary further to include others than one's family and kin. The selfish family will never be a God-blessed family. The principle applies to the church. "The selfish church will die," said the preacher, and the statement was substantiated by reference to a certain sect that had been opposed to missions, schools and every means of enlightening and Christianizing the world, which sect is now practically dead. The church must have a vision.

Men must come to see the world's needs and then have a desire to supply those needs and help bring to others the same good things one would have for himself. The heart must include all others, regardless of circumstances, if one would lay claim to that high title of Christian. Then it is not enough to be interested in material progress.

The sacrificing spirit of Abraham was pointed out in many instances, but the great test of his life was that in which he was called on to make sacrifice, seemingly of his son. But in that case, as in every other one in life where Abraham was found obedient, God took care of the situation.

His vision was measured by his faith in God and his service by his willingness to obey.

Another lesson drawn is that man should have the courage to stand for conviction. It is a hard matter sometimes to stand for the right when the world is against you. It is easy to follow a blazed trail. Abraham blazed the way. The world is in need of men who will not wait to see how somebody else is going to stand upon a public question, or a matter in which a moral principle is involved. It is cowardly to halt and contemplate the outcome.

More Sidewalks Are to Be Started Soon

More sidewalks will be constructed in the near future. At least that is the wish of the owners of property extending east from the square.

Dr. Hill who owns the corner lot has signified his willingness to build. The ice plant people owning the next property and L. A. Beverly & Co. following on the east have been wanting sidewalks fronting their businesses and now the consent of all the property owners is given and the walks will be built, so the News is informed.

This will make that portion of town begin to look like a real city and bespeaks the enterprising spirit of those people.

A pleasant surprise awaited P. P. Cooper, one of the old time residents of Crowell, Wednesday afternoon when he and family visited at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. M. Hearing on Orient Purchase Is Opened

Kansas City, Kan., March 23.—Hearing on the confirmation of the sale of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad to Clifford Histed, Orient attorney, began in Federal District Court Monday before Judge John C. Pollock.

Mr. Histed, who bought the Orient at public auction at Wichita Kansas, March 28, 1924, for $3,000,000, and W. T. Kemper, receiver, were present to introduce plans for reorganizing the road.

Representing the English note-holders, who will oppose confirmation of the sale, was Frank M. Swacker, lawyer, of New York.

James M. Clifford, attorney of record for the trustees' corporation, another group of creditors, also was at the hearing.

A. H. Skinner, Assistant United States District Attorney, represents the Treasury Department of the United States, which holds the first mortgage of $2,500,000 against the Orient, to satisfy which the sale of the road was made.

The Kansas Public Utilities Commission is represented by Jesse W. Greenlea, a member of the commission. E. A. Boyd, attorney for the Orient, represents the railroad.

An intervening petition was submitted by Elliott Jones of this city, who represented certain locomotive firms. The petition offered amendments to Mr. Histed's plan for reorganization.

Cyrus Crane, local attorney, offered on behalf of Mr. Swacker another objection to confirmation of the sale.

A lawyer representing P. S. Woods of Smithville, Mo., offered another. Mr. Woods was an unsuccessful bidder at the auction.

Judge Pollock denied all of the petitions, stating that ample opportunity would be given later for objection to procedure.

Mr. Histed began to tell the story of the Orient, beginning with its organization in 1905.

Before the hearing was under way Mr. Clifford offered to file with the court a list of the stockholders of the railroad with the amounts they invested. He termed it a "legal representation of $62,000,000," and insisted upon its acceptance when the judge said it might be filed later. He said he did not know what to do with such valuable papers.

Judge Pollock smiled and suggested that Mr. Clifford turn them over to "some more able-bodied person."

Crowell, Texas, March 27, 1925

A railroad survey does not always mean the building of a railroad. Whether the Denver is going to build or not, their survey alone will make it difficult for the Powell railroad to get the necessary funds for building. The $300,000 Fort Worth is raising now will not build many miles.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

The News has never been a booster of the Powell proposition because it has looked like its promoter wanted to miss this town. Naturally we could not boost a thing we thought would hurt us, but Mr. Powell says he is going to consider Crowell. In that event we are boosters for Mr. Powell's road. Not just because he says we shall have an opportunity to get the road but because this is the logical route. But in the matter of this proposed road and the Denver's announced intention of extending a line into the Panhandle from Estillene, it may be said that in neither case will surveys have all or much to do with the matter. The Interstate Commerce Commission has a way of expressing a voice in such things, and if that body takes into consideration all the facts in the case it will discover that Mr. Powell's road would be a line that would extend service to the same territory and a much larger one than would the Denver's extension. Oh, no, the $300,000 will not build many miles but it will build more than the first ten dollars subscribed, and it may build as many miles as the Denver will build when it satisfies itself that the other prospect is killed.

One can not keep from having a feeling of sympathy for Frank Collier, but there is another one for whom one's heart goes out, the mother whose son was butchered like a wild animal. Our laws will suffer and our country will suffer if justice fails to find expression in dealing out the deserved punishment in the case. Everybody has a right to be interested in this case because law is for the protection of the rights and the lives of every citizen. And when its purpose is thwarted the citizenship of the entire country receives a blow.

That was a pretty good attendance at the Methodist Sunday School last Sunday when 204 of the enrollment of 205 were present. It was a good attendance but it lacked one being good enough. And even if that absent one had been present there would have been no grounds for boasting. There are too many at best who never see inside a church either at Sunday School or at preaching. It is doubtful if 600 have ever attended Sunday School on one Sunday in Crowell. Where are the other thousand or more people on Sundays?

It will be left up to the jury in the Collier trial to believe and disbelieve some testimony. We can not think it probable that a jury of upright and honest men could be found who could accept the testimony of criminals, one of whom served a year in the pen and another one now on his way, in preference to the testimony of citizens of long standing in the community. But even if the testimony were true and if the character of dead boy's mother were timony were true and if the character of the dead boy's mother were bad, we fail to see how that would justify cold-blooded murder.

Thousands of people are going to the Rio Grande Valley. The immigration to that favored land has almost assumed the proportions of a stampede. Better be careful. He and his 16-year-old son were en route to Wichita Falls in search of work.

Old Japanese Legend of Lantern and Fan

A story of the origin of the lantern and the fan, as told in Japan, concerns a public official who had two beautiful daughters. As the story goes, the girls, who were the treasures of the father's heart, longed to pay a visit to a friend in another city. The father, however, was unwilling for them to go, as he feared some young man of high degree would win their love and thus take them from him. In reply to their entreaties the father told them they could go, providing they promised to bring back to him fire wrapped in a paper and wind wrapped in paper.

The girls did not know what to do. They were in despair until one of their maids told them not to worry, but go and consult a certain wise woman who lived near the home of the friend whom they were to visit. After promising their father they would fulfill his wishes they set out for the friend's home. The father was greatly surprised when, upon their return, the daughters presented him with fire enclosed in a beautifully designed paper lantern and wind in a quaint-shaped paper fan. Thus, it is said, according to a story printed in the Pathfinder Magazine the lantern and fan came into use.

The similarity of voices is not confusing (to the blind) as a rule. Many are similar, to be sure, but I have never encountered absolute doubles, and in general voices are as sharply differentiated as faces—in fact, often far more.

ing to our mood and condition. But in some the change is dismayingly marked. One woman, for example, has as many as five voices, each quite distinct.

The physical condition is also revealed by the voice in a striking degree, both as to change and normal characteristics. Fat people, for example, have a voice quality which is all but invariably detectable.

Character, too, is easily read. In fact it seems that character is revealed in the voice even more fully and accurately than in the face, no doubt because the subject, failing to recognize this, makes less of an attempt to mask the voice.—Charles McGee Adams, in the Atlantic Monthly.

Odd Garden Products

Little Johnny, who was of school age, was on his way home from the week-night prayer meeting, where he had fallen asleep, a writer in the Youth's Companion reports. His father, who had had great difficulty in waking him at the close of the service, was walking by his side, holding his hand. Fearing that the boy would go to sleep again and that he should have to carry him, the father quickened his pace and, twitching the little fellow's hand vigorously, asked him briskly where he had been that day.

"Over to Mr. O'Neal's," was the drowsy reply.

"And what were they doing at Mr. O'Neal's?"

"Makin' garden," Johnny replied listlessly.

"And what did they plant?"

Johnny yawned. "Planted lett's an' onions an'," he stammered, and his tongue grew thick.—"an' rad'shes an' peas—an' q's—an' r's—an' s's."

At that point the father picked him up and carried him.

The Adelphian Club met March 25th with R. D. Oswalt as hostess.

"The Taming of the Shrew" was begun as the study to continue for several lessons. Mrs. Henry led the discussion. The map study of the play was told by Miss Purcell. "Is the play Shakespeare's?" was discussed by Miss Woods. Mrs. Beverly's allusions to Shakespeare's home and his home life were interesting.

In "The Taming of the Shrew" we find the only Shakespearian play with an induction and a moral. The Induction and Act I were discussed by the club.

At the conclusion of the study Miss Woods told of the art study contest put on by the public school. The Adelphian Club sponsored this movement. COUGHS Quick Way to Stop Them

Persistent, racking coughing, which by rapidly weakening your entire system lays you open to more dangerous infections, can be checked often with the first dose of that old-time tried and proved remedy—Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. And there's a reason. Doctors say there is nothing like pine-tar to quickly loosen and remove the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing, while the honey both gives a pleasant taste and helps soothe irritation. It is often astonishing how quickly this combination relieves the stubbornest cough.

But be sure you get the original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey, and no substitute. Dr. Bell's has been known for over a quarter of a century as the best. It is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine-tar, honey and other quick-acting healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. Contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, so can be given even to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. If you want the best, a medicine that often relieves the severest cough overnight, make sure you get Dr. Bell's. Only 30c at any good druggist's.

Pickwick Not Entirely Creation of Dickens

Among the great humorous characters of fiction, which include such world-famous creations as Mr. Pickwick, Dominie Sampson, and Falstaff, there stands a grocer-sportsman whose acquaintance many of the present generation have never made, except by name. Mr. Jorrocks "of St. Botolph Lane and Great Coram Street" was created by Robert Smith Surtees, who died 60 years ago.

Not liking his profession of the law, Surtees took to editing a sporting paper, and later to writing sporting novels, by far the best known of which is the famous "Handley Cross." He introduced John Jorrocks to the public in a volume called "Jorrocks' Jaunts and Jollities, being the hunting, shooting, racing, driving, sailing, eating, eccentric, and extravagant exploits of that renowned sporting citizen, Mr. John Jorrocks."

The success of Jorrocks led other publishers to look for similar material, and we find Charles Dickens confessing that a proposal was made to him to write about a certain Nimrod club, "whose members were to go out shooting, fishing, and so forth, and get themselves into difficulties through their want of dexterity."

The book which Dickens wrote was entitled "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," and it is unlikely that it would have been written had not Surtees made such a success with his immortal Jorrocks, the Dickens of the hunting field.—London Answers.

Beauty at Least Had Her Interest Aroused

They were dancing lightly and he held her tightly in his manly arms. He closed his eyes for a time and danced here and there in ecstasy. She looked up into his face and suddenly his eyes opened. The music stopped.

"Come, let's go out on the porch," he muttered thickly. He stole a glance at his partner. Never had he seen so ravishing a beauty. He could resist no longer. He took her in his arms.

"Oh, darling, I love you so. Say you will be mine." She looked again into his eyes.

"I'm not rich like Jawn Brown, and I haven't a car, or home, or cellar like his, but I do love you and want you terribly."

Two soft, snow-white arms reached around his neck, and two ruby lips whispered in his ear: "Where is this man Brown?"—Boston Beacon.

Ancient English Custom

The term "Trial of the Pyx" is applied in Great Britain to the official inquiry annually made to determine the weight and fineness of the standard coins issued from the mint during the preceding year. It is so called from the "pyx," that is, the box or chest in which are preserved the specimen gold and silver coins of the realm.

The first trial is said to have been ordered by Henry II (1154-1189). The earlier tests occurred at irregular intervals, but since the passage of the coinage act in 1870, the examination has been annually made at Goldsmiths' hall, by a jury of goldsmiths presided over by the King's remembrancer.—Kansas City Star.

Have Faith in Time

Tennyson once wrote this wise line: "Wait; my faith is large in time." Well might it be. If we work faithfully, time will bring good results. If we have sinned and repented, time will remove the consequences of our sin. If some great sorrow has come to us, time will heal the wound. If we are misunderstood, time will show of what sort we are. Time is the great healer. Time brings results. Time has done so much that it may be trusted to do much more. Have faith in time.

Few People Really Not "Marrying Type"

"I doubt if Lucy will marry; she is not of the marrying type." "Of course John will not marry; it is impossible to imagine him as a husband."

These are the remarks that most of us hear made sometimes of certain of our friends. It is taken for granted that Lucy, happy in her work, a delightful friend with many interests, has decided that marriage is not for her; that John, a pleasant person, popular with men as well as with women, enjoys being a bachelor.

We believe that there are certain people who might even be spoiled by marriage, and it is always with surprise, and occasionally with a little regret, that we hear that, after all, they intend to embark upon the great adventure.

Are there any men, any women, of whom it can be accurately said that they do not belong to the marrying type?

Behind the "I am really rather glad I am not married" of the spinster, or the "I think perhaps it is a good thing I did not marry" of the bachelor, the penetrating observer may detect a little wistfulness. The brave gaiety of the unmarried woman, the philosophical indifference of the unmarried man, may conceal a sense that the sweetness of life has not been fully experienced.—Sarah Speed, in the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Old Wedding Customs Have Kindly Meaning

The throwing of rice as the happy couple who have just been married emerge from the church, or set out on their honeymoon journey, has almost given way to the throwing of the more harmless confetti.

The custom of throwing rice probably came from the East, where rice is the staple food and where plenty of rice means comfort and prosperity. Thus, to throw rice means: "May you never lack a good meal" or, in other words, "May your married life be prosperous."

The Romans used to scatter corn in a bride's path, and in Poland the neighbors throw handfuls of wheat, barley, oats, or even beans, at the bride's door.

In Italy nuts take the place of cereals, and one can imagine that the Italian children have a happy time picking them up, just as German children, in country places, pick up the cakes and tin tins flung from cottage windows at a passing bride.

Celibates by Choice

I think that it is true there are men and women who wisely realize that, having reached the approach of middle age, it is better to remain unmarried rather than marry from any but the most serious reasons.

Marriages made in middle age may be extremely happy. But there are women, as there are men, who have through experience, through adversity, through the need of self-dependence, attained so great a degree of individuality that they feel that in marriage, with its enormous need of adaptability, they would become lost.

We ought not to dismiss such people as necessarily selfish and self-centered. Probably they know that their capacity for friendship, their ability to be of real service to many widely differing types of human nature, their wider leisure, makes it possible for them to express themselves more generously as unmarried people.—Exchange.

Man-Made World

If I believed in change, I should sketch a world where women would live upon shelves, studies without ladders. One would take them down when one wanted them. They would be delighted to be taken down, clapping their little hands, crowing like hoolies, and yet understand one's deepest thoughts.

One would also take them down in the morning to do the housework. At other times one would live sternly and bravely with other men as stern and brave, until one came to need again the women who would be akin to those very expensive dolls who say "pa-pa" and "ma-ma" when you press a spring.

South African Tells of Odd Sea Monster

One morning I saw what I took to be two whales fighting with some sea monster about 1,300 yards from the shore. I got my glasses and was surprised to see an animal which resembled a polar bear, but in size was equal to an elephant.

So writes H. C. Ballance of Natal, Africa, in a Natal newspaper. Continuing, he says: "After an hour the whales made off and the incoming tide brought the monster within sight, and I saw that the body was covered with hair eight inches long, exactly like a polar bear's and snow white."

Next morning Mr. Ballance found the carcass lying high on the beach. He measured it and found it was 47 feet from tip to tail. The tail was ten feet long and two feet wide, and where the head should have been the creature had a sort of trunk 14 inches in diameter and about five feet long. The end being like the snout of a pig. The backbone was very prominent and the whole body covered with snow-white hair.

"For ten days," said Mr. Ballance, "this mass lay inert. On the eleventh day there was not a sign of the creature. I met some natives, who told me that while fishing they had seen the monster out at sea, going up the coast, and that is the last we have seen of it."

Matter Was Obviously Question for the Deer

Representative O'Connor was discussing in New York his plan for an investigation of telephone and telegraph companies.

"These companies need investigating, if only for their own good," he said. "They have such a bad habit, when questioned, of giving haughty and evasive answers."

"They're like Colonel Carter of Cartersville. The colonel sat in the lounge of a New York hotel one evening with a New York banker.

"Yes," he was saying, "it's a powerful fertile country down round Carter hall. Why, sah, I know woods down there where the trees grow so close that you can't shove your hand between the trunks. And game, why, sah, I've seen deer in them woods with a ten-foot spread of antlers. Yes, sah, a ten-foot spread."

"But, colonel," said the banker, "how can the deer get those antlers between those trunks?"

"Colonel Carter drew himself up. "That, sah," he said, "is their business."

'Laughter a Low Thing'

According to one authority, Moltke, the famous German general, only laughed twice after attaining years of discretion. The first occasion was when he heard the news of his mother-in-law's death; the second, when some one told him that a military construction just outside Stockholm was considered by the Swedes to be a strong fortress.

Moltke would have indorsed Lord Chesterfield's indictment of laughter as "a low and unbecoming noise, not to mention the disagreeable noise that it makes, and the shocking contortion of the face that it occasions. . . . I am sure that since I have had the full use of my reason nobody has ever heard me laugh." Charles Sumner, the American statesman, could make a similar boast; while, according to John Martineau, who was for some time a pupil at Eversley, Charles Kingsley never laughed.—Family Herald.

The First Circus

The traveling circus originated in London and was kept by a man named Philip Astley, who lived at the end of the Eighteenth century.

From the very beginning, the circus was held in a tent, the center of which formed the arena where the performance took place. The seats for the spectators were arranged in tiers ascending from the central space.

The same exhibitions which characterized our own circus were found in the first one. There were feats of horsemanship, such as leaping through hoops from the back of a galloping horse, standing with one foot on each of two horses, as they gallop side by side.

Actor Badly Rattled

A young man had to take part in some amateur theatricals. His part was quite a minor one and there was really not a great deal for him to do or say.

After the shooting scene the young man had to enter the wings and say: "Hark! 'Tis the pistol!" Now, during rehearsals a real pistol was never used, and the youth, on receiving his cue, walked in and performed his part quite efficiently.

Children Need Sunlight for Their Development

Recent experiments on chicks demonstrated the importance of sunlight to human health, particularly as a factor in the physical development of young children.

The chicks were divided into three groups. All were given the same diet, but one group was kept in natural sunlight, the second in natural sunlight passing through window glass, while the third was kept in natural sunlight and exposed at intervals to strong ultra-violet rays.

The first group of chicks developed normally. All of the second group—those that received the sunlight through window glass—developed rickets. Those of the third group reached in two weeks the same stage of physical development that those raised in natural sunlight attained in twelve weeks.

The rickety chicks were cured when subjected to ultra-violet ray treatment. Between 97 and 100 per cent of the children born in the summer and autumn develop rickets in some degree by the following spring. Through the winter the mothers fear to subject them to the bitter cold; hence the babies receive their "sunshine" behind closed windows.

Of Course Minister Had to Heed Flock's Opinion

The late Odum Wagnalls, the New York publisher, reproached a magazine editor one day for never printing translations in his magazine.

"Here are Anatole France and Knute Hansen and Gorky and a dozen other wells of genius for you to draw from," he said. "Why don't you draw?"

"Because," said the editor coldly, "the public prefers native talent." "You remind me," said Mr. Wagnalls, "of the country minister who never used the Lord's prayer."

"Why don't you use it, man? a friend from the city asked."

"Well, you see, we don't need it," said the minister.

"A sublime prayer like that! And you don't need it. Come, now, even a chap as gifted as yourself can hardly equal a prayer like that can he?"

"Ah—er—no," the minister simpered, "but my flock thinks otherwise."

Scientific Sherlock

The Post Office department was faced with a mystery in the continual rifling of registered letters in the Southwest. The theft was narrowed down to one of six post offices, but the question as to which one was hard to solve. A few weeks later an inspector took one of the letters that had been rifled and resealed, held it to his nose and calmly announced that the thief would be taken within a week. He was. The inspector had prepared six lots of nuclilage, each having a different perfume. This was distributed among the six offices under suspicion. The thief used the perfumed nuclilage to reseat the letter and gave away the location of the office. The rest was easy.

Simple Explanation

This joke, which was recently forwarded to prove that scientific men can be witty as well as wise, should be read aloud: A colleague of Dr. Crun Brown, the famous Edinburgh professor of chemistry, once came to him concerning an Indian medical student whose English was defective.

"We cannot pass this man," he said. "He is quite illiterate; he simply cannot spell. Why, he has spelled proceed with one 'e'."

"From what place does he come?" asked Doctor Brown.

"From Ceylon." "At once Doctor Brown flashed back: "That explains it. That's the land of the Cingalese!"

His College!

I have just come across this story in "Twenty-Five Years in Six Prisons," by that well-known chaplain, Mr. Eustace Jervis: In a London omnibus one day the chaplain recognized a stranger-langer as a "dodent." "Hello, Jack!" he said. "Got work, I see."

"Oh, yes, sir," was the reply; "getting on all right. You're still at the same college, I suppose? How are the students? Well, I sha'n't be coming back to see you for some time, I hope."

Are You All Run Down?

Many Crowell Folks Have Felt That Way

Feel all out of sorts? Tired, achy, blue, irritable? Back lame and stiff? It may be the story of weak kidneys!

Of toxic poisons circulating about upsetting blood and nerves. There's a way to feel right again. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many Crowell people:

Mrs. Mark Wilcox, Crowell, says: "My back was awfully weak and darting pains went across my kidneys when I tried to lift. Mornings my muscles were lame and stiff and I was unable to stir around very much. A run down, played out feeling was always present and my nerves were on edge, too. I had dizzy spells time and again and also my kidneys acted frequently. Several boxes of Doan's Pills strengthened my kidneys and stopped all the other troubles." 60c. at all dealers. Are You Saving Regularly?

All great men of the age have testified, out of their experience that success is not possible without thrift.

The treasurer reported the association made $80 in the style show. The proceeds of the show was turned over to the primary and intermediate grades to buy some needed school supplies.

After the business session Mrs. B. W. Self gave a very interesting paper on teaching the children the value of money. It was followed by a round table discussion.

Ostrich Model Husband

The male ostrich is very domestic in his tastes. When he marries he marries for life. The ostrich makes his primitive nest with but little trouble. He lies on his breast and kicks the sand out backward and sidwise, thus scooping out a saucer-shaped hole in the sand about four feet in diameter and ten inches deep in the center.

The Lowly Potato

It seems rather strange that the Irish potato, which is now such a common article of diet the world over, was once a pilgrim and a stranger, so to speak. When it was introduced into Europe in the Seventeenth century it encountered bitter prejudice and had a hard struggle to reach popularity.

All plants require some light. Sunlight supplies the energy which causes chemical reactions to take place inside the leaves. These reactions convert the raw food elements into the food elements available to the plant.

Poor Little Rich Boy Has His Troubles, Too

Though there never is a second's let-down in making chivalric manners second nature to the boy of society parents, there are two schools influencing his education, says the New York Times.

One, predominant, is the school to make a man of him; and this school sees that the boy has a competent boxing instructor and frequent lessons in the art of flatstuffs.

The other school emphasizes dancing and music lessons for recalcitrant young heirs who would rather be tumbling about in athletic fun. There was one hot summer day—one of the biggest town houses on Fifth avenue—the family at home for a day or two, between summer flitings—and the ballroom opened for a ten-year-old boy's dancing lessons.

He wept, but his mother was obdurate. Here was the beautiful big reception room, a blaze of sunlight coming in the windows. A young woman, specially engaged, played the piano and the dancing instructor, also a young woman, monotonously demonstrated steps, called out "one, two, three," and led the suffering, perspiring boy in dolorful jazz dances for an hour in the morning and another in the afternoon.

And he wore white kid gloves.

Ragtime First Devised to Speed Up Workers

Military bands never played slow music except at a funeral. The object of the drum and fife band, as of all military bands, is to keep up the marching spirit.

An industrial magnate once tried the effect of a band on his operatives. He found that they did twice as much work to a dance as they did to a march. Singularly enough, jazz music and ragtime owe their origin to this idea. Both began on the cotton plantations, where idleness in picking the bolls meant so much to the owners.

The negro pickers were forbidden to sing anything but music of a lilting, galloping nature, to which their hands would naturally keep time. In this motion of the hands of the cotton pickers lies the origin of ragtime, and it was presented to the public in the first place by purely negro choirs.

Name of a Knight

The calling of knights by their Christian names dates back to the early creation of knights; surnames did not come into common use until long after knighthood was established. In the very old days, a man was known only by his Christian name—the surname was added later as a means of distinguishing different people of the same Christian name.

Famous Writer's Relatives

Thomas Scott, the favorite brother of Sir Walter Scott, is buried in a Quebec cemetery. Thomas Scott came to Canada in 1814 as paymaster of the Seventieth regiment, which was eventually transferred from Kingston to Quebec. Having for some time been suspended by his superior officers, he was confirmed in his position by Lord Palmerston in 1817.

Long Memory

Old people often take great delight in reverting to the scenes of childhood, and vie with one another in early recollections. Sometimes they assert confidently that they can remember things that occurred in their infancy.

One remarkable instance of this sort of memory is recorded in an old family Bible in a New England household. The Bible was published in 1855, and on one of its family record pages there may be read the following entry, made in a trembling hand:

"Mary Anne Taylor, born on the 10th of January, 1782, according to the best of her recollection."

Early Street Lighting

The first street lighting on record was in 1568, when the people of Paris, France, were ordered to place lighted candles in front of their houses. In 1788, pitch or resin bowls were substituted for the candles. The first use of illuminating gas for street lighting was in London in 1809.

Work and Happiness

Happiness loves to see men at work. She loves labor, weariness, self-sacrifice. She is found not in palaces but on farms, in factories, and mines. If one looks up from hard work he will see her, but if he looks too long, she will fade away.—Grit.

MUSIC MEMORY NOTES

"Good music is a vital element in the education of the people."—P. P. Claxton.

The music memory notes next week will contain full information concerning the musical program to be given April 10th. It is hoped that every person in the whole community will make an effort to be present at this program. One who is at all interested in music or who appreciates good music cannot afford to miss the opportunity of spending an evening listening to the numbers which will make up the program.

Parents whose children are hearing the music memory selections in the various schools are urged to come with the children. It is hoped that the schools who are in the music memory contest will be represented by delegations of parents, children and teachers.

Plans should be made whereby conveyance may be furnished all children and parents who desire to attend from the outlying districts, and who might otherwise not be able to attend. Seating space will be reserved for the different schools if they wish to attend as a unit. "Lohengrin Fantasy" is a collection of melodies contained in the opera, "Lohengrin," from which the familiar and popular "Bridal Chorus" is also taken.

1925 SPECIFICATIONS

Prospective husbands of the day desire wives with home-making talents and girls who hope to be brides regard education as a secondary matter, but demand appropriate incomes. These are deductions from answers to 200 questionnaires sent out by a St. Paul, Minn., minister.

The young men generally were of the opinion that "looks" didn't count, although there was no pronounced aversion to cosmetics, but the majority insisted on a single standard of morals.

The girls wanted "fair, sane, thrifty, industrious, Sabbath-keeping, refined, resourceful, athletic, healthful, earnest and sincere" men for husbands.

If this is typical, it may give pause to the girl with matrimonial ambitions, who thinks of nothing but the date of the next dance, and it may let some light in to the young man who thinks he has to carry along a box of candy every time he calls.

If these be the true standards, they are not far different from what they have always been. Girls may enjoy the role of a social butterfly, but when they find the right man, the mask comes off.

And by the same token, young men are not slow about changing their scheme of living when they have serious intentions in the direction of matrimony.

The young generation may be "light-headed" and going to perdition, as some of its severe critics claim, but it would be difficult to find a better model for prospective brides and bridegrooms.

The salvation of most of us lies in the fact that we are not so good as we think we are and other folks are not so bad as we think they are.

WHAT YOU BELIEVE

A very gifted public speaker was once asked how he was able to speak so fluently upon occasions when he was called upon to make public addresses.

He explained that it was a simple thing to do because he always spoke about things with which he was familiar and said only that which he believed.

How true that is in every phase of life. It's never possible to be convincing on any subject unless you believe in it and are thoroughly satisfied that whatever you are saying or doing is right.

No citizen of this community can be a thorough-going booster for his home town and the undertakings in which it is engaged, without being a loyal citizen.

It's quite impossible to enter into any project whole heartedly unless you believe in it and are willing to do all within your power to make it a success.

Why is it poor folks always regard their rich relatives as stingy?

Social Service Program

The Missionary Society met Monday March 23, at the church in a social service program led by Mrs. Stovall. The special topic for the lesson was the Belle H. Bennett Memorial at Nashville, Tenn. Johnson gave an interesting talk on "Women of Korea in the Methodist Sisterhood" and we were made to see that the women of Korea are willing workers for the Master.

"LEST WE FORGET"

The first celebration of the winning of Texas freedom was held April 21, 1837—one year after the battle of San Jacinto—in the infant town of Houston. There, in an unfinished building, the celebration and ball took place—headed by Sam Houston, then President of the Republic of Texas.

"Lest we forget," this newspaper is going to review some stirring historical events preceding and following the Battle of San Jacinto, in an article written by A. T. Jackson of Houston, Texas, who has studied his subject well and who is a graphic and accurate writer. The article will appear in the Magazine Section of the News of April 3.

We hope each one of our subscribers will read this article—for it will create within them a greater appreciation of the men who fought and died that Texas might be what she is today—the bright lone star in the galaxy of nations.

Appointment of Judge Cole Has Been Approved

Robert Cole, member of the law firm of Cook, Cook & Cole for the past several years, has been appointed judge of the Forty-Sixth district court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge James V. Leak, according to press dispatches from Austin yesterday.

It is stated that Governor Ferguson sent Judge Cole's nomination to the Senate for confirmation after consulting Senator J. D. Parnell, of this district, who is said to have given his endorsement of the appointment. Judge L. P. Bonner was appointed to the vacancy several weeks ago by Governor Ferguson, but his nomination was rejected by the Senate due to the opposition of Senator Parnell. Press dispatches from Austin state that this was the only Ferguson appointee who was denied confirmation. Judge Cole has been acting as special judge since Judge Leak's retirement, having been selected by members of the bar at Crowell and Quanah, where court has been in session since the resignation of Judge Leak to enter the practice of law here.

Prior to coming to Vernon Judge Cole was for years engaged in the practice of law at Crowell. He was at one time county judge of Foard County and has been active in legal and political circles of this judicial district for many years.

The appointment of Judge Cole and the announcement that it had the endorsement of Senator Parnell is taken as finally disposing of the uncertainty surrounding the district judgeship since the resignation of Judge Leak and the failure of the Senate to confirm the appointment of Judge Bonner. Judge Cole will serve the two remaining years of the unexpired term of Judge Leak, who was elected in 1922 for a four-year term. —Vernon Record.

The Orient R. R.

THE KANSAS CITY, MEXICO & ORIENT COMPANY serves the public as a necessity and must be sustained in rendering the service that is demanded by the people.

The MOTOR TRUCK and the AUTO SERVICE CARS are undependable conveniences, burdened with no obligations similar to that of the railroad.

The interest of the people and that of the railroad is mutual, and the public should recognize the necessity of that measure of patronage of the railroad that would entitle them to the service that they demand.

some weight to the rules she recommends.

When visited by a newspaper reporter, the countess had just finished a three mile run over the ice-covered streets of an Indiana city where she was visiting.

A small boy accompanying her as a guide was panting for breath, but she said she felt like challenging Paavo Nurmi for a marathon.

She is vastly different from the woman who thought she was 94 years old, and upon learning she was ten years older, promptly took sick and died.

The physicians would be idle, the undertaker would not be so busy and the country would be more thickly populated if it were possible to make people see the logic of living up to such a program.

But the great majority of us are humanly frail. We are Christians though the outward manifestations are sometimes those of heathens. We permit our appetites and not our bodily needs to control what we eat. We never have the time to take the proper care of our bodies. We naturally look for misfortune instead of sunshine. And we make ourselves a target for disease by failing to take the proper exercise.

Vernon Fire Claimed Fourth Victim Sunday

Vernon, Texas, March 23.—Hardly had her brother been buried here, when Mildred Paschall, 14, succumbed to injuries sustained when her home burned in the South Vernon oil field two weeks ago. The girl was the fourth victim of the fire, which trapped the mother, a baby brother, the girl and her 12-year-old brother in the house.

The boy died Friday and was buried Saturday. He had escaped from the blazing house, only to return and try to save his baby brother. The mother and baby were killed during the fire.

The Highest Court

Worthy merchandise is the only kind that can successfully stand trial at the highest court in the land—the court of public opinion. All others are soon condemned and sentenced to oblivion.

The merchant who advertises, deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He invites your critical inspection. He makes publicly certain claims upon the fulfillment of which depends his commercial success. If he were not sure of his goods, he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career.

Advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It saves you money by presenting for your consideration only the best products.

Well-informed buyers seek news of good merchandise in the advertising columns and are guided by the advice they find there.

Wind Storms Are Coming

Although windstorms may occur at any time, records show that they are particularly likely to come during the spring and summer months. It is impossible to tell where or when a devastating storm will strike and it pays to be prepared. Remember that windstorm insurance adds but a relatively small amount to your regular fire insurance premium.

Made Synonyms Only by Common Consent

In popular usage the words "thoroughbred" and "purebred" are practically synonymous. The dictionaries as a rule make no distinction between them. In fact the word "purebred" is not recognized at all by most dictionaries. Webster's International dictionary, which does not contain "thoroughbred" as follows: "Bred from the best blood through a long line; pure-blooded—said of animals." The same authority defines the noun "thoroughbred" as a "thoroughbred animal, especially a horse." According to this dictionary it is equally correct to speak of a thoroughbred horse, a thoroughbred dog or a thoroughbred cow. This undoubtedly is the general and accepted usage. But scientists and breeders usually try to make a distinction between the two terms. According to technical usage, "thoroughbred" is applied only to the breed of running horses eligible for registration in the standard stud books. On the other hand, "purebred" is applied to pure-blooded animals in general. This distinction is ignored by practically all the dictionaries and is not observed in popular usage.—Pathfinder.

Wind Force and Speed by No Means Identical

"How strong was the wind?" is the question asked after a destructive storm. The answer to this question is likely to be misleading, says Nature Magazine, because it is nearly always stated in terms of speed rather than force, and the two things are not identical.

The force of the wind can be indicated accurately by saying what pressure it exerts (in pounds per square foot, for example) upon a surface at right angles to its path. This pressure varies approximately as the square of the speed.

Thus a wind of 20 miles an hour blows about four times as hard as one of 10 miles an hour, and a wind of 30 miles an hour blows about nine times as hard as one of 10 miles an hour.

Bank on Shipboard

Among conveniences for the comfort of passengers on board the ocean liner Leviathan, one of the latest is a branch bank. This bank has been established by an eastern trust company. About 4,000 persons use the bank each trip. The cashing of checks, the changing of money from one country into the currency of another, issuing of letters of credit, the paying of money on wireless orders, these are some of the chief activities of this sea-going bank. In addition to this the bank issues bulletins of stock quotations day by day, as they are received by radio.—Boston Post.

"Ad" Exclusiveness

Cookery and Slang in Odd Relationship

Why the business of the cook should be used as a vehicle of scorn and revenge is a mystery of our mysterious language.

We boast that we "have settled his hash" when we have "squashed" a man and when counsel very severely cross-examines a witness, or a mistress gives a servant what is commonly called "a piece of her mind," we say that both got "a jolly good roasting." If anyone has been thoroughly bamboozled or made a fool of we say he has been "done brown."

Why do we say that certain circumstances or happenings have put a man "into a pretty stew," or that a certain young man has "got himself into boiling water," which almost certainly refers to the dropping of some living animal, like the lobster, into the pot? And why do we refer to some one who has shown a lack of intelligence as only half baked?

The phrase "I've cooked his goose" has an ancient origin. When Eric, king of Sweden, reached a certain town with very few soldiers, the enemy hung out a goose for him to shoot. Finding, however, that it was no matter for jest, the townsfolk sent heralds to learn what he wanted. His reply was: "To cook your goose for you."—London Tit-Bits.

Calvaries of Paris Are Rapidly Passing

Slowly the calvaries of Paris are vanishing. The old walls on which penitence and adoration erected them have crumbled, have been swept away, and the new walls know no calvaries. Here and there, however, writes "E. G. H." in the continental edition of the London Mail, the great and sorrowful symbol of the Christian faith may still be seen.

In remote corners, just out of the swift current of the city's life it stands unheeded by the busy crowds. Only the birds sometimes flutter round it, and in the manner of some medieval legend, we might believe the feathered things cared for something that humanity had almost forgotten. Of such calvaries one may be found at the corner of the Rue d'Aubervilliers and the Rue de l'Evangile.

It has its place not in one of the loveliest parts of the great city, and we might be disposed to question the work itself from the standpoint of mere art. But there it stands, and a creeper droops half caringly around the head of it. It breaks suddenly the level contour of an ugly wall. And sometimes it may seem that nothing was ever broken in a manner more wonderful than this poor wall is broken by the dolorous calvary.

Police Dogs "Wolfish"

The police dogs are not a distinct breed, but are shepherd dogs police trained. The German police dog should stand 22 to 24 inches at the shoulder and show in every line the qualities which he is supposed to possess—intelligence, alertness, loyalty, gentleness, courage, obedience, willingness and devotion. While the standard allows great range of color, those most often seen in this country are of the so-called "wolf" colors, dark tipping of hair over a tawny or buff ground. The muzzle (unlike that of a wolf) is usually blackish. Both the German and Belgian dogs may be divided into three general types—namely, rough-haired, wire-haired and smooth-haired. By their erect ears and general expression they betray their near relationship to the wolf.

Honest at Last

Her blond prettiness and dainty attire attracted a woman as she stood beside her in the public library. From her chic satin hat to her trim little shoes she was the last word in feminine smartness.

She had asked the librarian for the most widely read book of the day and the librarian was doubtful whether there was a copy in at present, but after searching a few moments returned and handed her the desired book.

"Oh, goodness, no! It has too many pages; I heard so much about it I just thought I should read it, but that's too much of a job," and thinking the girl very sweetly, tripped out of the building leaving a faint trace of perfume and a wide-eyed librarian behind her.

Musical Instruments

Certain musical instruments are used almost entirely by one sex others by both. The harp is largely a woman's instrument, but when men do take it up they show marked ability to master it. The piano is very evenly divided between the sexes. Brass instruments are played mainly by men, ukuleles by women. The banjo is a man's instrument, while mandolins are well divided between the sexes. The saxophone, the most popular of all instruments at the present time, is played by both men and women.—John Howe in the American Magazine.

Eagle Gobbles Golf Ball

A possible eagle on the course of the Tallahassee Country club was made impossible by a real eagle, the big bird swooping down on the eighth green to seize a golf ball, as it was trickling in the general direction of the cup, says an Associated Press dispatch from Tallahassee, Fla. Frederick C. Elliot was the victim and gained scant comfort from the assurance that the eagle was "an agency outside the match" and the incident could not be held "a rub of the green."

Tailteann Games

The Tailteann games which have been successfully revived in Ireland are so called in perpetuation of the name of Queen Tailte, who tradition says reigned over Ireland some hundreds of years before Christ. Being childless, she adopted a youth named Lugh, who succeeded to the throne at her death. In grateful memory of his foster-mother, King Lugh organized an "Aonach Tailteann"—that is, Tailte's festival—to which each Irish chieftain brought his star athletes, his best horsemen, his most expert harpists. The festival, once established, was continued, with certain interruptions for nearly 2,000 years. Then it lapsed, to be revived by the Free State government.
