TWO ROWS EACH TRIP—OVER THE FIELDS IN QUICK TIME

with a McCormick-Deering 2-Row Cultivator

An Ohio Extension Service Bulletin shows that two horses on a single-row cultivator cultivate approximately 5 3-4 acres per day, while three horses on a two-row machine will do 90 per cent more. It costs 31 cents more per acre to cultivate 40 acres with a one-row machine than it costs with a two-row.

No farmer can afford to ignore such an opportunity to increase his operating profits. We suggest that you let a new McCormick-Deering Two-Row Cultivator help cut down your overhead expenses this year. These labor-saving, modern machines are on display at our store now.

The drones and queens in a bee hive are those which lie around and eat what the workers bring in. They are called the big bugs. They are bigger in meat but less in energy, real service and worth. It's bees we are talking about.

More air-line mail service is being inaugurated and we wish Uncle Sam would see that all incoming checks to us be sent that way. As to out-going ones overland star routes will best serve us.

In all probability the average farmer would get his most needed farm relief from a discontinuance of the superabundance of advice as how to get that relief.

A headline in a daily said that a preacher would speak on the "devil" at a certain church Sunday. Well, he can be found at most any of them on any Sunday.

The many pounds of one-and-a-half-cent-stamped mail we get these days never brings a thrill, but the aggregate accumulation often drives out the chill.

"Decision on Big Dam Contracts This week," is a headline but just from the description we are not to infer that it is a Texas Highway contract.

Lieut. Com. R. E. Byrd has succeeded in flying over the North Pole. But why should he not accomplish such feat as that? Look at the name.

A very striking cartoon by Fitzpatrick in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch represents war as always being on the job. He is either killing or collecting.

The political bee buzzes loudest around the candidate for office, but it is usually the public that gets stung.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Many of the styles of today that cost more cents than formerly are bought with less sense.

The good country is just over the hill, but it's on this side.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

J. R. Coffman was in the office recently and paid five subscriptions, three for his sons, one for W. I. Bounds and his own.

Mr. Coffman deserved special mention for this, if for nothing else, but it is not the subscriptions that we want to speak of here. It is something more important.

Mr. Coffman has reared a family of ten. Four of the boys and two of the girls are away from home making good in positions they hold. One of the girls is in Shoshoni, Wyoming, teaching school, another one is at Huntsville, Texas, teaching and the boys are holding positions in various portions of Texas and Oklahoma with business firms, having taken business courses. There are three more younger ones at home coming along to take their places in the affairs of the world when they arrive at maturity. One daughter is now in a Normal school preparing to teach. It is hard to find a family of so many children, all of whom have made good and are preparing to make good.

Another thing interesting about the Coffman family is that Mr. and Mrs. Coffman have found it necessary to call a doctor into the family with only two of the children at two different times in their lives since they came into the world. Still another thing about relatives of the Coffman family is that about 20 years ago Mr. Coffman's brother lost his wife, his sister lost her husband, and his father lost four children within a period of ten days, all these people residing within a mile and a half of each other. That was in Lee County, Texas.

Mr. Coffman thinks the remarkable health of his family is just fortune. His family has always been one that worked hard. His children shared with him and his good wife financial misfortune in earlier days when they moved to Southwest

Texas, losing all they had by reason of crop failures, and worked hard to help get started again when they 20 years ago. Mr. Coffman now moved back to Foard County nearly has two splendid farms in the Rayland community and is living comfortably and is proud of the boys and girls he has sent out into the world to take their places as substantial citizens. He attributes their success largely to the school of experience they have been forced to go through and thinks now that those dark days were a blessing in disguise.

THE MESSAGE OF THE TREE

To some folks a tree is just a tree, a stick of wood carrying foliage. If it is slightly in the way, they remorselessly cut it down, as if it had no value other than firewood.

To others a tree is a spot of refreshment in the heat of summer, a touch of beauty out of the hands of God, in the towns that man has made. Many of the older trees are associated with people now gone who planted them years ago, and left this noble monument to their love for their home towns. The older places have famous trees that go back into early history, like the Washington elm recently removed in Cambridge, Mass., which dated back to days when this country consisted only of a few scattered colonies.

The trees of Crowell are one of this community's most valuable possessions. They transform the scenes of daily life into homey neighborhoods, and give the touch of affection to streets that otherwise might seem prosaic. Our people should watch carefully over these trees, and see that they get the best protection that can be given against the insect enemies that raise so much havoc.

The trip is a continuation of his section-wide campaign begun nearly a year ago. The present trip carries President Lee into Throckmorton, Munday, Crowell, Truscott, Benjamin, Knox City, Rochester, O'Brien, Rule and Weinert. He was accompanied on the trip by E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager, and Col. C. C. French, livestock expert.

A NATURAL CONCLUSION

The national crime commission, after an investigation covering nine months, has arrived at the very natural conclusion that there is no universal panacea for crime.

The newspapers have been and are great aid in stamping out crime. The commission was told that there had been a great improvement in the crime situation in New York during the past four years due to the newspapers giving as much prominence to convictions and sentences as they do to crime and criminals.

There is a school of thought in this country which believes that crime would soon be reduced to the minimum if the newspapers would cease to publish crime news.

Harriet Sherrill MacMurphy, 78-year-old newspaper woman of Nebraska, believes that the newspapers are examples where they do print too much drivel and arouse sentiment favorable to the accused, but this charge can be placed honestly only against some of the sensational yellow sheets of the large metropolitan centers.

The small city and town dailies and country weeklies publish only such crime news as is of general interest and do not color it to the point where it becomes little shirt of fiction.

The newspapers as a whole are not going to solve the crime problem, but they are going to be a helpful agency if they stand for honest law enforcement and clean politics. It is the duty of the press to support the law to the utmost, as President Coolidge so well expressed this view, in addressing the National Press Club:

"As an obligation coupled with the very greatest self-interest, the press ought always to stand as a supporter of the constitution and as the firmest advocate of a reign of law. On that principle there should be no weakness and no wavering."

Heads never get large nor soft from over-work.

ALL IN TWENTY YEARS

Twenty years ago few people dreamed of what present day automobile traffic would be and a still smaller number had the vision to foresee the modern achievements of the automobile.

Two decades ago the purchase of an automobile was an event worthy of being chronicled in the newspaper. No trip of any consequence in an automobile escaped the eagle eye of the newspaper editor. It was duly "written up" in his best style because it was news.

In those early days there were few venturesome people who would attempt to drive to a town twenty miles away and back all in the same day. It was a common occurrence for the operators of horseless carriages of that day to brave bad roads and irate farmers whose horses ran away and demolished buggies and wagons.

Today there are almost twenty and a half million motor vehicles being operated in the United States. During 1925 automobiles in use increased in number in every state of the Union except the District of Columbia. The automotive industry ranks first among all business enterprises, based on the value of its finished product.

Verily, times do change.

Supremacy in Fine Steel

In the percentage of Costly Chrome Vanadium Steel used, Dodge Brothers Motor Car outranks any other automobile in the world, regardless of cost.

It is everywhere conceded that Chrome Vanadium Steel is the toughest and most enduring metal ever created for use in the vital parts of a motor car.

It may not be so well known, however, that Dodge Brothers Motor Car ranks first in the world in the use of this costly and fatigue-proof material.

Dodge Brothers power assembly is almost entirely Chrome Vanadium—motor, connecting rods, crankshaft, transmission, universal joint, drive shaft, differential and rear axle.

Even the front axle is Chrome Vanadium—the entire steering unit—and every leaf of the springs.

In fact, wherever any manufacturer uses alloy steels, Dodge Brothers use costly Chrome Vanadium. And in numerous instances Dodge Brothers employ it where plain carbon steel, even in the costliest cars, is commonly thought sufficient.

This has been true from the day Dodge Brothers built their first motor car.

This explains why the words Long Life, Safety and Dependability are habitually associated with the name Dodge Brothers wherever motor cars are serving mankind.

Pains disappeared

"SEVERAL years ago I was badly run-down," says Mrs. John Bunch, R. F. D. 3, Columbia, S. C. "I could not do any of my work. I was so weak I could not wash a dish. My back and sides hurt me at times dreadfully. I dragged around until I finally got down in bed." Then, explains Mrs. Bunch, she happened to read about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and decided to give it a thorough trial, the results of which she describes below:

"It seemed to reach the cause of my trouble at once. I did not take it long before my appetite began to improve. I gained in weight from 114 pounds until now I weigh 125 pounds. I soon was able to be up around the house. I took up my household duties and was delighted with my returning strength."

"I now do all my own work. The pains in my sides and back have disappeared and I feel like a different person." Cardui has been helping suffering women for nearly 50 years. Sold by all druggists.

THE RIO GRANDE VALLEY

R. B. Edwards, A. L. Cook, H. E. Black and Henry Black returned Tuesday of last week from a 20 days trip to the Rio Grande Valley.

Since the Valley is such a place of interest I shall attempt to give a description of it.

"The Magic Valley" is truly an appropriate name for the Rio Grande Valley. It seems as if a fairy has waved her magic wand over a wilderness that was recently covered by Mesquite, Ebony, Wild Olive and Mesquite trees, as well as cactus and other growths and converted it into a veritable paradise with many beautiful towns, ideal homes, citrus groves and other fruits, and all kinds of truck farms.

The homes are unusually beautiful. Most of them are of the Spanish type and are surrounded by stately palm trees. A lovely driveway leads to many of the homes. In the yards can be seen a riotous mass of many colored blossoming flowers. Practically every kind of flower that grows can be seen.

Nearly every place has an orange grove that is either bearing or soon will be. In front of many of the groves are planted a date palm tree, then an oleander, date palm, etc. This makes a very attractive sight. There are numerous nurseries, and if the people continue planting orange trees as they are, the entire valley will soon be an orange grove. The freeze that came in the winter did not damage the orange trees very much, however, the lemon trees were damaged to a great extent. Many of the groves have a wind break of canes, from which we obtain our fishing poles, which grow to an enormous height, while others have oleanders for a wind break.

The fertility of the soil surpasses that of the Nile Valley. The manager of the State Experiment Farm said that the soil 300 feet below the surface was practically like that on the surface. Numerous small shells can be seen all through the soil.

I visited the farm of Mr. R. B. Edwards three miles from Weslaco. The crops on his place were fine. The corn was in silk and tassel and was just as good as it could be. Most of the beans and cabbage had been harvested, but the tenant had cotton growing in between the rows. Something is kept growing on the land all the time. The tomatoes on Mr. Edwards' farm were as fine as could be, and they were almost ready to be shipped.

The Valley is divided into water districts and each district has its own pumping station. Each station has 6 or 8 pumps. The pumps are from 40 to 60 inches in diameter. The water is pumped into a huge canal about 30 to 40 feet wide and about 8 feet deep. The water flows by gravity over the district from the pump and is carried to all parts of the land by smaller canals called laterals.

We spent most of our time in Weslaco. We rented a house across the street from Mr. Gaines. While there I became ill with the flu, but the Gaines family cared for me as well as if I had been at home.

Criticizes Child Labor in Texas

W. L. Hughes, head of the Department of Rural Education, who attended the meeting of the Texas Education Commission in Ft. Worth last week, had the following to say relative to child labor in Texas:

"If the State had the same child-labor condition existing in factories, everybody including the Legislature would be up in arms," Hughes said. "But the cotton must be picked, the farmer looks upon his child as an economic asset and the Legislature continues to create more independent school districts. There you are," he threw up his hands in a gesture of despair.

"The rural school efficiency is largely due to the operation of the independent school district," he accused. "A community has one good school and the poor kids at the very tail end of the district have to put up with the crumbs that fall from the rich man's table. There are 1,500 of these independent districts in Texas."

"By putting forth every effort we can, it will take 30 to 40 years to remedy the condition in Texas," Hughes continued. "In the first place the ambitious farmers are moving to the cities with their children to educate them, which means they rent their farms. Either that or they send their wives and children to the cities which is a sad arrangement. This simply means that our system is robbing the farms of the best brains and blood. It means that we are developing a peasantry very like that which has existed in Europe for hundreds of years. Certainly this is not to be desired in a democracy."

"We need a professionally trained county superintendent instead of a politically elected one. We need supervisors."

Hughes pointed out that Texas A. & M. College is training young men for teachers in rural schools, and that it is the only institution giving a degree in rural education.

"Whether or not these trained rural teachers will be willing to teach in these one-room schools is another matter," he deplored. "I taught school in a one-room country school. I've done everything all the way up the line, and that's why I am so rabid on this subject of improvement of schools for the 500,000 children in rural districts of Texas."

The BULL'S EYE

Editor and General Manager
WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Zig-zag, folded in the screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

The BULL'S EYE is a publication that goes to print. When does it go to print? It goes to print when ever there is something to print. A lot of papers, in fact to be exact, all of them, have a certain time to be issued, regardless of the news. If nothing has happened that day or that week they have to come out just the same. They want you to pay for them whether they are any good to you or not. Why should a paper be printed if there is nothing new to print?

Sing Sing don't electrocute a man at a certain hour every day. They wait until they get a good man and then electrocute him. They don't have a set time or custom, and that is the way the BULL'S EYE is operated. We don't go to press at ten o'clock tonight just because we want to press at ten last night. No, sir! We wait until we have something that is worth while to our myriads of readers. We get them accustomed to the fact that when they see the BULL'S EYE, they say to themselves, "The BULL has seen something worth while," and that is why the Paper is out today. Because it has news for you.

We saw a man smoking a sack of "BULL" DURHAM and he was getting so much satisfaction out of it that we feel it our duty to tell those that never used "BULL" DURHAM just how they too can get satisfaction.

P.S. Remember, you won't see us again until we have something worth while.
