FOARD COUNTY HAS NEAR 2,000 SCHOLASTICS

The state department of education has officially approved 1,880 names in Foard County's scholastic census. Of this number 711 are in the Crowell Independent School District, leaving 1,169 for the other schools of the county. This does not include 60 children of scholastic age in the England community that are included in the Five-in-One district, whose school is in Wilbarger County. Counting these names Foard County has 1,940 children of scholastic age, according to the latest school census that has been approved by the state officials.

The enrollment in the schools of Foard County follow:

District 1, Four-Corners	21
District 2, Thalia	282
District 3, Gambelville	75
District 4, Fish	28
District 5, Margaret	166
District 6, Black	40
District 7, Vivian	96
District 8, Aversville	77
District 9, West Rayland	151
District 10, Foard City	30
District 11, Beaver	30
District 12, Good Creek	47
Crowell District	711
Foard County Scholastics in 5-in-1 District	60
TOTAL	1,940

The scholastic census for the last three years is as follows: 1928, Foard County, 1,262; Crowell, 648. 1929, Foard County, 1,057; Crowell, 624. 1930, Foard County, 1,169; Crowell, 711.

State aid will be awarded according to the school census that has been approved. Last year aid was awarded to the amount of $17.50 per scholastic and it is thought that the aid this year will be near that amount.

Foard Schools Elect Teachers For Next Season

Most of the schools of Foard County have selected their teachers for the coming year and have filed their contracts with the county superintendent, J. E. Atcheson.

W. C. Jones has been re-elected superintendent at Thalia. The other Thalia teachers are: John Hugh Banister, Mrs. W. C. Jones, Miss Mattie Russell, J. J. McClendon, Miss Tommie French, Mrs. Bob Abston, Mrs. J. Carl Matthews. The contract for another teacher is yet to be filed.

Charles T. Tucker is again the superintendent of the Foard City school. The other teachers are Miss Evelyn Jones, Mrs. Charles T. Tucker, Miss Cyrena Smith and Mrs. Lewis Sloan.

J. Bailey Rennels has been elected superintendent at West Rayland. His wife, W. A. Reed and another teacher, whose contract has not yet been filed, will make up the rest of the faculty.

C. T. Davis is the newly elected superintendent for Vivian. Miss Irene Patton, Mrs. O. D. Beauchamp and Mrs. C. T. Davis are the other teachers for the Vivian school.

Mr. Harwell of Denton has been employed as principal at Margaret. Other Margaret teachers are Mrs. Harwell, Miss Ola Carter, Miss Cora Carter and Miss Vera Matthews.

Other contracts filed are: Miss Fern Nicholson, Good Creek; Mrs. F. A. Davis and Mrs. Virgie Morgan, Gambelville; Mrs. Frank Kirkman, principal, and Mrs. Pauline Meason, Black.

It is understood that other schools of the county have elected their teachers but the News has been unable to secure their names since their contracts have not yet been filed at the office of the county superintendent.

Cemetery Association Has Elected Officers

The annual meeting of the Crowell Cemetery Association was held last week and the following officers were elected for next year: Mrs. N. J. Roberts, president; Mrs. H. D. Poland, vice-president; Mrs. R. L. Kincaid, secretary-treasurer; J. H. Self, J. T. Grizzle and Mrs. J. H. Howard is the present section.

"We are continuing the plan we have been following the last few years, that of mailing notices to those we think might be interested and stating that any contribution they might give toward the upkeep of the cemetery would be greatly appreciated," Mrs. Roberts stated. This is the only means of financing the work. The Cemetery Cook Books are still on sale at both local drug stores and sell for fifty cents.

RECEIVES DIPLOMA

In announcing the list of students that received diplomas at the graduation exercises in last week's issue the News failed to include the name of Joe Ben Roberts, one of the most popular members of the senior class. We are sorry this mistake occurred and are glad to correct it.

James Ashford Now Living in His 46th Year in Foard County

James Ashford, or more commonly known as "Uncle Jimmy" by his many friends, is one of the very few old timers now remaining in Foard County. According to Mr. Ashford, there are but four persons in Foard County now that were here when he came to this section in 1884, 46 years ago. These are Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley of Margaret, W. T. Dunn of Margaret and P. P. Cooper of Crowell.

Mr. Ashford is a true representative of the pioneer and has been connected with a number of enterprises in this section and other parts of the state. Between 1865 and 1870 he hauled the first lumber that was used in the construction of Trinity University at Waxahachie. He used an ox team for this purpose and hauled the lumber from the eastern part of Henderson County. He also used his ox team in hauling the machinery for Ellis County's first gin. This gin belonged to Tom Neil and the machinery was brought from Palestine in Anderson County.

After arriving in the section, that is now Foard County, in September, 1884, Mr. Ashford made a living for a while by hauling buffalo bones to Wichita Falls. He settled on the ranch in the western part of the county that was operated by George Brant and lived in a tent with his family throughout the fall. His wife's nephew, Wallace Conner, who now lives here, was with them at the time.

Mr. Ashford stated that buffalo bones sold at around $12 to $13 per ton and that he was able to haul around a ton at a time. The round trip to Wichita Falls required eight to nine days. The wagon was generally loaded on its return with goods for the ranch. On one return Mr. Ashford hauled lumber for Harold's first saloon. There were no buffalo in this section at that time as the last buffalo killing in Foard County took place in the winter of 1877, according to Mr. Ashford. He stated that at one place on Good Creek he was able to fill his wagon with bones where on killing was made.

Moves to Old Margaret
On Christmas Eve of 1884 Mr. Ashford moved to Old Margaret, the county seat of Hardeman County, and established a blacksmith shop there. Old Margaret was about two

"Death, Burial and Resurrection is the Gospel," says Merrill

"The death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ is the Gospel, according to the Bible," Rev. Paul J. Merrill told an extra large congregation Sunday night at the revival meeting being held at the Christian Church. "The death, burial and resurrection are not just basic principles or fundamental aspects of the gospel but they are the gospel. Yet you hear people brag about someone preaching the gospel when he preaches nothing more than church doctrines," he said.

"When the Devil Got Knocked Out," was the title of Rev. Merrill's sermon. He stated that the devil brought death through sin and Christ conquered the devil through his resurrection in that he became the victor over death, hell and the grave. "The Gospel was not established until the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the messages that were preached before his resurrection were to the Jews only and were based upon the limited commission, 'repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.' After his resurrection, Christ offered for the first time in the history of the world, a message that was world-wide in its scope. This message was the gospel," Rev. Merrill stated.

"In the great commission Christ sent forth his apostles instructing them to preach the Gospel to all the world, teaching people to obey his command," he said.

In concluding Rev. Merrill stated that he wouldn't give the snap of his finger for a Heaven that was easy to reach. "Heaven is reached through sacrifice, self denial and by submitting fully to Jesus Christ," he concluded.

City Traffic Laws to Be Rigidly Enforced

Elsewhere in this issue of the News appears a notice over the signatures of R. J. Thomas, marshal, and C. T. Schlagal, mayor, warning motorists that all of the traffic laws of this city are to be rigidly enforced.

It is stated in the notice that infraction is being shown to the stop signs and other traffic laws and as a result all of these laws will be strictly enforced. The people have been notified several times about traffic violations and city authorities state that they do not wish to resort to extreme measures in enforcing the traffic laws, but will do so if violations continue.

T. L. Hughston of this city was elected as the new member of the board of directors of the Texas Grain Dealers Association at its annual convention in Fort Worth last week.

CROWELL ADVANCEMENT IN LAST TEN YEARS MUCH GREATER THAN 63 PER CENT POPULATION GAIN

Foundation Is Laid For City Many Times the Size of Crowell; Advancement Is Made in Many Different Lines; Population Increased by Canvass

Following the announcement of Crowell's population last week, a canvass of the town was made for the purpose of securing any names that might have been missed. The government allows five days time to all cities for this purpose and at the end of that time a list of names were sent to Owen M. Unger at Plainview, the census supervisor for this district.

In checking this list it was found that there were about sixty names on the list that were not enumerated. Just how many of these will be counted in the final census figures for Crowell is not known as they must be enumerated and checked before being officially counted in the census, however, it is felt that Crowell's population in the 1920 census will be over 1,950. In the preliminary announcement last week it was 1,916. The local census committee met Thursday to work out plans for enumerating persons in this list.

Entire satisfaction has been expressed by local officials of the work done by Mrs. Pearl Carter, local enumerator. Her work was handled in a thorough manner. It is practically impossible for all names to be secured in any town and for that reason the government offers five days time for a check-up, after preliminary figures are announced, and requests local citizens to carefully look into the matter of finding names that might have been missed.

Population figures that have been announced for other cities near Crowell follow: Chillicothe, 1,610; Paducah, 2,741; Quanah, 4,464 and Vernon (including West Vernon), 10,065.

While Crowell's population increase in the last ten years is above 63 per cent, yet this city has bettered itself by one hundred per cent in that time.

It is difficult to enumerate all of the major improvements that have taken place since 1920 as there have been so many and it is naturally easy to overlook some, however, the News will attempt to mention as many as possible.

Public Utilities
Crowell now has as modern conveniences as most any city as the result of work that has taken place in the last ten years in the public utility line. The present dam on Raggedy Creek, that provides an excellent lake for Crowell's water supply, was constructed shortly before 1925 and Crowell's sewer system was added about that time. The first real water system for this city was established in about 1921. Crowell's two fire trucks have also been added since 1920.

Natural gas came to Crowell in 1928 from one of Foard County's own gas wells and this city now enjoys one of the cheapest gas rates in the state. This city is forever assured of first class electric service as the result of the West Texas Utilities Company taking over the local light plant and greatly improving the service here. High lines now radiate from Crowell in three directions. A first class ice plant is also operated by that company. As the result of extensive improvements made by the Haskell Telephone Company few cities anywhere have a better telephone system than Crowell.

Thus in all public utilities—water, sewer, electricity, gas and telephone, Crowell has first class service.

Pavement
All of the pavement in Crowell has also taken place in the last ten years. The original five blocks of pavement was put down here in 1924 and the additional pavement of ten more blocks is just about completed. The completion of the pavement in Foard County just recently is another major item of development, the bonds for the purpose of paving across the county being voted in April, 1927. The gravel road to Margaret is nearing completion also. The new pavement gives Crowell a hard surfaced road to all of the major cities of the state.

Golf Champion of Crowell Will Be Determined Monday

The golf champion of Crowell will be determined in the tournament to be held by the Spring Lake Country Club, June 8th and 9th, Sunday and Monday. Prizes will be given for the winner of each of the three flights and also for the consolation winners of each flight.

R. D. Oswald defeated T. S. Haney to win the championship last year and these two men are regarded as leading contestants in this year's tournament, although other local golfers maintain that they will have to make a better score than they did last year if they reach the finals.

What effect the appearance of Mr. Haney's picture in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, as one of the leading golfers at the recent Green Belt tournament, will make on the local contest is not yet known.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the tournament is: Sam Rosenthal, chairman, Guy Crows and R. D. Oswald.

Churches and School

From a religious and educational standpoint, excellent advancement has been made. The Methodist and Baptist churches have erected two of the finest churches to be found anywhere. Extreme pride is also taken by the citizenship in the fine new high school building which was opened in January, 1928. Crowell High School is now affiliated with the University of Texas in all of the 24 subjects taught.

Construction
A number of Crowell's largest brick buildings have been erected in the last ten years. These include Griffith Hotel and the seventy-five foot buildings of Self Motor Company and Allen Chevrolet Company, the former being erected by J. H. Self and the latter by Ferguson Brothers. Four other brick buildings on the east side of the square, and several other business structures have also been built, including the modern two-story structure for Haskell Telephone Company and the modern buildings for the two lumber yards. The new high school, two brick churches and large numbers of modern dwellings, many of which are brick, have been included in the building program of the last decade.

Recreational
Crowell now has recreational facilities to compare with most any city of its size. The establishment of the Spring Lake Country Club in 1928, with a nine hole golf course and excellent lake for bathing and fishing, has been a major item along this line.

The installation of talking at the Rialto Theatre this year has also added to the enjoyment of living in Crowell.

A miniature golf course has just been put into operation in Crowell.

The traveling public finds Crowell much more accessible now than it was ten years ago, not only as a result of the new paved road, but as the result of the establishment of first class bus service in every direction from this city, with twice-a-day service to every point north, south, east and west. Speedy truck lines also provide excellent service for local businesses and the town in general.

The fact that both highways passing through Crowell have state designations; and one, the Lee Highway, with a Federal designation; should prove of tremendous benefit to this city and section in future years. These designations have also been secured in the last decade and in the last few weeks Crowell has been placed on two more major highways, the Carlsbad Cavern Highway and the Chisholm Trail. The provision of a free bridge over Pease River has also taken place during this time and has proven of great benefit to this city and county.

The acquisition in the past year of the Orient Railroad by one of the nation's very largest rail systems, the Santa Fe, is another item that should tend in aiding the future development of this city and section. Never again should the people of this section become worried about the possibility of its railroad being junked or going into the hands of the receiver.

Miscellaneous
The establishment of many first class retail firms and industries has also taken place. Crowell's long felt need for a modern hotel was supplied with the erection of a 24-room brick structure. Two new cotton gins, a laundry, and chick hatchery are also to be included in the list of new industrial enterprises.

Crowell has made advancement of which the entire citizenship here should be proud. The foundation has been laid here for a city many times the size of Crowell and we should take advantage of our many assets and work to build a still bigger and better Crowell in the next ten years than we have in the past ten.

Fletcher Main Died at Thalia Thursday; Funeral Held Sat.

Fletcher Jack Main of Silt, Colorado, died Thursday, May 29, at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Main of Thalia. He recently came to Thalia from Colorado with his father. He had been in ill-health for some time.

The deceased was born in Naylor, Missouri, in 1899, but had lived most of his life in Texas. Since 1926 he had been engaged in the sheep business in Colorado. He is survived by his parents, two brothers, Fred and Frank, two sisters, Emma Main and Mrs. Carl Bledsoe, and by a wife and baby.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Christian Church and interment followed in the Thalia Cemetery. Womack Brothers were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Allen Cogdell was over from Paducah for a few hours visit Friday. He is a clerk in the postoffice there.

Army Engineers Complete Survey of Pease River

The corps of army engineers, that have had headquarters in Crowell while surveying the proposed dam site on Pease River, about ten miles northwest of here, have completed most of their work and five members of the group have returned to their headquarters at Vicksburg, Miss.

H. D. Newell, senior superintendent of the group, and Jean Dubuisson, an assistant, will be here for the remainder of the week and will then go to Wichita Falls where they will remain for some time to investigate the Wichita irrigated district. Later they will go nearly to the New Mexico line to investigate the Pease River water shed.

Hundreds of engineers are now at work along the tributaries of the Mississippi River and the tributaries of the tributaries in connection with flood relief work, for which Congress has authorized an expenditure of $325,000,000. The construction of dams is considered the only feasible method of flood control.

Investigation is made by the government as to what use proposed dams could be put to in addition to checking of floods, and of course the section in which the dams are built will be expected to bear a part of the expense in building them.

It may be many years before definite steps toward building dams are made. A number of people here have been under the impression that work on a dam on Pease River might start soon, which is wrong. Flood relief work is in a preliminary stage and if a dam on Pease River should be built, it would likely be many years before the work was started on it.

Oil Officials of New Company Visit Foard

W. W. Hawkins and B. F. Walker, geologist, of the Foard County Oil Development Company of Fort Worth were business visitors in Crowell and Foard County this week.

S. M. Tole and H. W. Banister of Thalia and others are working with them in the interest of securing a block of about 400 acres, north of Thalia, in the vicinity of the present oil producers. If the block is secured, drilling on a test is scheduled to start soon afterward.

The proposed block would include acreage owned by Mr. Tole, Mr. Banister, Grover Phillips, W. D. Burress, C. W. Beidleman, Tom Wayland and Mrs. W. L. Johnson.

The big oil companies have most of the acreage in this vicinity of the proposed block leased and little activity is expected from them for some time and activity by an independent firm is welcomed.

Joseph Schildkraut and Barbara Kent are the stars featured in this picture.

"Those Who Dance," and "Caught Short" are the other feature talkies for next week.

FINE HERD OF HEREFORDS ON KINCAID PLACE

Ranching in Foard County will always be a major industry due to the geographical condition of this section and for that reason the people of this county should show the same interest in the development of beef cattle as they have shown for the past few years in the betterment of dairy herds.

While the development of dairy herds has apparently held the limelight here for some time due to publicity on that matter yet some splendid work has been done in the last few years in building up fine foundation herds of beef cattle.

Dr. R. L. Kincaid, local physician and state legislator of this district, has especially taken the lead in developing pure bred polled Herefords. About twenty fine bulls that he has developed from his registered herd have been purchased by Foard County stockmen and distributed over the county. The importance of good bulls cannot be overestimated and they are often referred to as being one-half of a herd in importance.

About three years ago Dr. Kincaid seriously took up the matter of building up a herd of registered polled Herefords and at that time he purchased thirty head of pure bred cattle of this type at Waurika, Oklahoma, and put them on his place, about three miles south of Crowell.

At present he has seventy-five head of registered polled Herefords; meaning Herefords without horns, often referred to as "muleys;" and twenty-five others subject to register. This is much larger than the average herd of registered Herefords in the world is owned by Johnson Brothers at Jacksboro and their herd consists of around 250 head.

Dr. Kincaid thinks that interest in stock farming in Foard County is bound to increase considerably. He feels that polled cattle will be much more popular in future years than any other kind and will be in greater demand by practically all cattlemen.

Visitors on Rotary Program Wednesday

The Rotary luncheon Wednesday was featured with talks by visitors. F. W. Kennerly, chairman of this district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, gave an account of the activities of that organization and asked Crowell's cooperation in its work.

R. R. Gilliland of Quanah spoke in the interest of the Chisholm Trail Association and President T. N. Bell appointed M. S. Henry, J. R. Beverly and H. E. Ferguson as a committee to work on that matter. John Boswell, manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, and R. E. Shepherd, former mayor of Wichita Falls and at present an officer of the Panhandle Refining Company of that city, were present and made talks. Mr. Shepherd favored the club with a vocal solo and then led the club in singing, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Mr. Shepherd is one of the most popular singers in Texas. Rev. John G. Clark, George Self and Rev. Paul J. Merrill also made short talks.

JOHN HAYS, FIRST CAPTAIN OF THE TEXAS RANGERS

When, in 1840, the young Texas Congress authorized the creation of the Texas Rangers for the protection of the West Texas frontier against the Indians and Mexicans, President Sam Houston commissioned a youth but 23 years of age to captain the newly-organized force.

The youth's reputation of bravery, marksmanship, fighting tactics, and skill in commanding men won for him a position that many old men must have coveted. This young leader was

John Coffee Hays, who was to become renowned as the first and greatest captain of the famous Texas Rangers.

Incidents in the ranger life of Hays will be told in the June 6 issue of the Foard County News.

65 Teams and Chorus of 200 Will Help Dedicate Home

Left, Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, Omaha, Neb., national secretary of the Woodmen Circle. Center, Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca, Omaha national president. Right, Mrs. Etta Davidson, Houston, national director and state supervisor of Texas. "All roads will lead to Sherman" for the dedication of the society's new Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children, June 25, 26 and 27.

A chorus of 200 will sing at the sunrise ceremony to be held in Sherman at 6 a. m. Wednesday, June 25, when the American Legion of that city presents a flagpole and flag to the Woodmen Circle's recently-opened Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children.

The chorus will be gleaned from among the best singers among the several thousand people from all parts of the country coming to Sherman to take part in the Homecoming Dedication June 25, 26 and 27. Mrs. Margaret G. Meadows of Fort Worth, national chaplain, will be in charge of the sunrise service. Her son, Cecil Meadows, director of the Shrine band of Fort Worth, will direct the chorus.

At 9 a. m. on June 25 the cornerstone laying will be held and at 10 o'clock in the morning the formal dedication will take place. It will be an impressive moment when Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca of Omaha, Neb., national president, dedicates the first building of the Home to the protection of the weak.

Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley of Omaha, Neb., formerly of Garland, Tex., national secretary, will take an official part in the ceremonies together with all the national officers of the society.

With the precision of a soldier and the grace of a dancer at least 65 drill teams, coming from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Indiana, Idaho, Ohio, Alabama, New Mexico and Nebraska, will present a colorful team frolic

Thursday evening, June 26 in the stadium of the Red River Valley fair. Included among them will be a Mississippi team consisting entirely of children.

There'll be a "click click," many capes flying, and varied colored uniforms in smart array, for more than 1000 persons will take actual part in the team frolic. Mrs. Jeanie Willard of Demson, national drill instructor, will be in charge.

Six of the society's national officers are from Texas. They are Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas, national junior past president, Fort Worth; Mrs. Maggie Hyde, national treasurer, Dallas; Mrs. Etta Davidson, national auditor and state supervisor, Houston; Mrs. Laura Krebs, member of the national legislative committee, Austin; and Mrs. Willard and Mrs. Meadows.

The Home will be open to visitors during the afternoon and a public reception will be held in the evening of June 25.

Sherman will give a barbecue for all who come on the first day of the celebration.

It is fitting that the Texas "Trail Blazer" who knocked at many doors more than a quarter of a century ago has contributed the stately doorway of the Home. She is Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas, who before the turn of the century was pioneering in the work of the society in the Blue Bonnet state.

Texas field workers, numbering thirty-six, have won trips to the dedication in recognition of their field work records.

War on Poison Snakes Waged by Army Officer

Austin, Texas, May 29. (UP).—Col. M. L. Crimmins, U. S. Army, retired, is devoting his retirement to war on poisonous snakes. Like a good soldier, he has looked to the defense as well as the offense.

With the assistance of Travis Post, American Legion, he is scattering the information about snakes, how to avoid them and what to do if bitten.

The poisonous snakes of Texas, Col. Crimmins says, are the cottonmouth moccasin, the copperhead, the rattlesnake, the pigmy rattlesnake and the coral snake.

If you have any doubt about a bite being that of one of these poisonous snakes, you can tell from these symptoms. The wound will bleed profusely, for the venom prevents blood coagulating. There will be fiery pain, rapid swelling, discoloration due to bleeding under the skin, nausea and rapid pulse. If a large amount of venom has been absorbed there will also be shock.

While waiting to get the patient under the care of a doctor, Col. Crimmins suggests treatment to reduce the absorption of the venom, to counteract that already in the circulation, to relieve the shock and replace the blood that has been destroyed by the venom.

To reduce the absorption, he suggests:

1. Tie a cord, handkerchief, elastic or rubber bandage, preferably the latter, just above the bite, just tight enough to obstruct the lymph (watery part of blood exuded from the blood capillaries) circulation and not the free return of blood in the veins. It should be loosened every twenty minutes for half a minute to re-establish the circulation and prevent gangrene.

2. A cross-cut over each bite one-half inch by one-half inch and as deep as the bite to allow the blood to wash out the venom. Before making the cuts quickly wipe the area with iodine, mercurochrome, alcohol, or other antiseptic, as well as the knife or razor blade. It is suggested that a safety razor blade be kept in every First Aid Kit.

3. Mechanical suction to withdraw the venomized serum. This should be first over the bite. As the swelling increases, a chain of cross cuts, one-fourth by one-fourth of an inch, and one-fourth of an inch deep and half an inch apart, around the edge of the swelling where it is being diluted with lymph.

4. Suction should be kept up for twenty minutes each hour for fifteen hours or as long as required. Venom can be extracted as late as fourteen hours after its injection.

5. Suction may be made with a rubber suction bulb (carry one in your First Aid Kit), like a breast pump; with an aspirator, water pump, or other cupping device; and even with the mouth in urgent cases.

6. Saline purgative (such as Epsom or fruit salts), as the venom is eliminated by the lower bowel.

The antivenin is injected with a syringe under the skin over the stomach or in the fleshy part of the upper thigh in children. It takes two syringes to counteract a single drop of venom. The average Texas diamond black rattler gives ten drops at a bite. Some give 30. The antivenin does not counteract bite of the coral snake. Anti-Elapine serum is used for that.

Don'ts for the snake bitten are:

Don't run or get overheated. Don't take any alcoholic stimulants. Circulation, increased by exercise or by alcohol, serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly through the body. Do not depend upon snake bite "cures" or home remedies commonly used. They are of no value. Do not cauterize the site of the bite with strong acids or the like.

Wichita Boiler Maker Gives Facts

Took All Kinds of Treatments But Got No Relief Until He Began Taking Argotane; Feels Like a New Man Now

"Argotane worked wonders in my case," said W. H. Derrick of 808 Fifth St., Wichita Falls, Texas, who is a boiler maker, and while talking with the Argotane man in Allison's Drug Store.

"For over 10 years I have suffered a severe case of stomach trouble," he continued, "I had to be very careful of what I ate, for the food soured on my stomach and would make me very dizzy and bilious. I would have severe gas pains, and a very puffed up bloated feeling. At times I would have specks-form before my eyes caused from my liver and I would have to keep from falling. I was nervous and restless and didn't get a good night's sleep. I could taste my food several hours after eating, in fact, I was in a general run-down condition and needed something to build me up.

"Argotane was recommended to me by Dr. Schram, of this city, and I got a bottle. After taking one half of a bottle of the medicine I could feel immediate results. I can eat anything I want now without the slightest disturbance. I am feeling better in every way and am glad to say a good word for this Argotane for it has made a new man of me."

Genuine Argotane may be obtained in Crowell at the Reeder Drug Co. (Adv.)

Original Chisholm Trail is Mapped by Texas Author

Austin, Texas, May 29. (UP).—The head of a Longhorn steer, taken from an early "Kansas & Pacific" railway map, will be used as a marker for the Chisholm Trail—the route over which Texas cattle by thousands were driven to Kansas before rail lines reached the State.

Prof. J. Frank Dobie of the University of Texas, author of a number of volumes on cowboy songs and cowboy lore, heads a committee that will mark the trail.

They will use a map prepared by the Fourth U. S. Cavalry in 1871 in tracing the trail, supplemented by the accounts of a few of the remaining trail drivers.

That there will be many disputes about the true Chisholm trail, Dobie takes for granted. He says that cattle converged from many places upon the trail. The recognized trail, he says, will be the longest route over which the greatest number of cattle were driven for a long period.

At the opening of the war between the states, federal troops were ordered from Fort Gibson, Fort Cobb and Fort Arbuckle, Indian Territory, to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Black Beaver, a Delaware Indian, guided the troops, leaving a well-defined trail. This passed the cabin of Jesse Chisholm at what is now Wichita, Kansas. Chisholm, a trader, made several trips down the trail the troops had made and thus gave it the name.

Texas cowmen, going north in 1867, struck the trail about the Washita river and followed it. When they reached Wichita they kept on north to Abilene instead of veering east to Leavenworth. The original trail did not come south of Red River. It soon extended through Texas. One well-defined branch ended at Houston and a larger one went on to Brownsville and the Mexican city of Matamoros, opposite. Cattle from Mexico crossed there and took up the Chisholm trail.

From Brownsville the trail passed through San Antonio, Austin, Georgetown, Waco, Fort Worth and on to Red River station, where it crossed over the original trail blazed by Jesse Chisholm.

In the middle seventies it veered west and crossed the Red River at Doan's crossing in Wilbarger County. By the end of the seventies the main drive of cattle was from San Antonio through Fredericksburg, Mason, Brady and Abilene, Texas, to Doan's Crossing.

TEXAS IN THE BEST SELLERS

More and more Texas and Texans become material for the "best sellers."

Probably "The Raven," written about the dynamic personality of Sam Houston, will establish new records for popular biography.

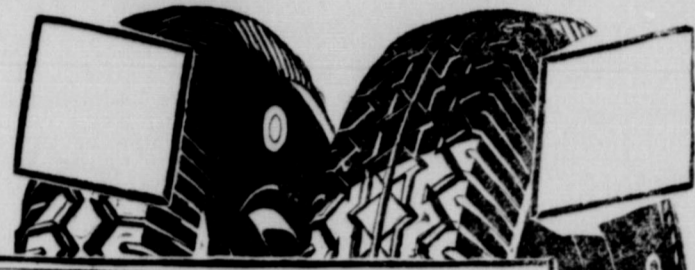

For interest and color, Stuart Henry's "Conquering Our Great American Plains" relies almost entirely upon those Texas cowmen who drove their herds up the Chisholm Trail to Abilene.

Again, Walter E. Taylor's "A Knight of the Dixie Wilds" is little more than a Texas romance.

Book reviewers on Texas newspapers are particularly pleased with this new-day development. They see in it a movement which will rebound to the benefit of the state in more ways than one. First, it will assist in popularizing the state as a tourist mecca; but more important still, it will provide inspiration for Texas writers and encourage them to use material with which they are most familiar and which, at the same time, is most popular with the reading public.

Just look at the exercise that the fellow gets who mows the grass on the golf courses.

STAMPING OUT FAKE CURES

One purpose of the food and drugs act is to protect the American public by the removal from interstate drug trade of so-called "cures." The department is active at all times attempting to remove all false, fraudulent and misrepresented articles.

One item alone stands out as an example of this campaign, as action has been taken against 245 so-called cures for rheumatism. These concerns were making a wholesale living off of people who believed it cheaper to buy the so-called patent, sure cures, than to consult medical authority.

Since the Federal food and drugs act was made effective in 1907, 600 notices of judgment have been issued against these 245 "cures" as the result of legal action taken to rid interstate drug trade of these quack products. Both in number of preparations and in number of notices of judgment, the "rheumatism cures" lead the list of drug preparations prohibited against by the Federal authorities.

Public misunderstanding of the word "rheumatism" is largely responsible for the great sale of the "cures," food and drug officials say. "Rheumatism" is commonly believed to be any pain in and around the bones, joints and muscles of the body, regardless of its real cause. For such a loose grouping of ailments no drug or combination of drugs known can be a competent treatment, the officials say.

Such pains and aches are included by the public under "rheumatism" are known to the medical profession as separate ailments dependent upon different causative factors and needing specific treatment, according to the administration's drug officials. Many cases of "rheumatism," they say, are due to such local infections or to infections in some distant part of the body as of diseased tonsils, sore throat, sinus infection and infected teeth, which oftentimes cause neuralgia, neuritis and sciatica, mistaken by the public for "rheumatism."

Ball Player Finds Recreation on Farm

Carthage, Tex., June 4 (UP).—Victor Frasier, star right-hand pitcher for the Dallas club last year, and who has failed to report to the Chicago White Sox, who purchased him from Dallas, has put baseball out of his mind, so it seems, and is farming this year. He is making a cotton crop at Gary, nine miles south of here.

He did park his mules and plow long enough, however, recently to play in a ball game between Carthage and Gary. Victor played in the catcher's role the first seven innings and pitched the other two. He only got one hit in the game, the locals defeating Gary 3 to 2. He said he didn't know whether he would ever play professional baseball or not. "Massaging plow handles will keep me in condition whether I play any more or not," he said.

Intimate friends of Frasier say that he had rather play baseball with country teams than in organized baseball. Frasier seems to be in perfect condition, displaying as much speed as he did when doing his best pitching last year.

Elusive Wolf Killed After Menace of Six Years to Stockmen

Cleburne, Texas, May 29. (UP).—"Old Two Toes," the big gray timber wolf that for almost a decade successfully eluded the numerous packs of dogs set on his trail and outwitted trappers to be a continued menace to stockmen, met his Waterloo recently when he lost a race and a fight with a pack of 47 of the best wolf hounds of this section.

According to Jesse Allen of Eastland, the big gray wolf has been chased with hounds for more than six years. Also many traps have been set for him during that time, but only once is it known that he ever went near one of them.

A number of years ago, when the wolf was scarcely more than a cub, and before he learned the tricks of the trappers and hunters who sought his pelt, he got one of his fore feet in a trap and was forced to leave all but two of the toes of that foot in the trap. Since that time he has been known to hunters and trappers of this section as "Old Two Toes."

As is usual with his kind, "Old Two Toes," according to Allen, became very cunning, and it was seldom that he allowed himself to be seen by man. When hounds would be taken into the section of country in which "Two Toes" ranged, the big wolf immediately left, and it was not often that dogs were able to trail him for a very long time. After leaving his range and after the hounds that had been set on his trail had abandoned it and took up the fresher trail of other wolves, "Old Two Toes" would often steal up behind the dogs trailing behind the pack, single out a tired hound and attack him from the rear.

Many hunters had good dogs, especially young dogs, almost ruined by the wolf in this manner. Hunters state that wolves will often cross the trail of another wolf that dogs are after and attempt to throw the hounds off his trail onto the trail of the fresh wolf, but that in doing this they usually appear in an opening near enough to the dogs to be seen by them and howl. "Old Two Toes," the hunters say, never gave any warning of his appearance, but stalked the dogs, made a surprise attack and quietly disappeared.

"Old Two Toes," stockmen and hunters say, was responsible for the loss to stockmen of the north-western portion of Eastland County and the southwestern portion of Stephens County of hundreds of pigs, sheep, goats, calves and turkeys, and it was to rid the country of him that the stockmen and hunters determined upon the big hunt which cost the wolf his life in a catclaw thicket after a two hour and forty minute chase.

After being killed the wolf was brought to Eastland and photographs made of him. Hunters said that he was perhaps the largest wolf ever caught in this section. Among those who entered dogs in the chase and who were following the pack were: Ben Hickman, Tebe Boles, Lee Gibbs, Joe Faircloth, Sig Faircloth, R. L. Faircloth, Guy Bartlett, Bill Francis, Bond Williamson, Arval Aston, Jesse Allen and Renshaw.

The girl answered questions of the clerk only in monosyllables, and according to the prompting of her mother, spectators said.

Cecil Story of Vernon In Att'y. Gen. Race

Cecil Story, attorney of Vernon, and for the past eight years a representative of Wilbarger and Wichita counties as Electoral Representative in the Lower House of the Texas Legislature, has announced his candidacy for attorney general of Texas.

Mr. Story is 45 years of age and for the past twenty-one years he has been engaged in the practice of law in Vernon. His candidacy is recommended by the entire membership of the Vernon bar, by all the Wilbarger County officials and by representatives of all Vernon banks. A great number of friends are also working in the interest of his candidacy.

Thalia Scores 18th Victory of Season Out of 18 Games

Thalia's baseball team continued its winning streak by taking three games last week and Sunday. The team now has a record of eighteen victories and no defeats. Last Tuesday Burk Burnett was defeated by the score of seven to four and Saturday Fargo lost to Thalia 9 to 6.

Thalia played errorless ball Sunday behind the fine pitching of Bill Awbrey to defeat Fain-McGaha by the score of 8 to 2. Awbrey allowed the visitors only 5 hits and with the exception of the first two innings, he pitched one of the best games of the season. The fielding of the Thalia club was a feature of the game as well as the hitting. Webb, G. Mints and Bailey collected home runs.

Thalia will go to Fain-McGaha for the third game of a series with that club and Sunday Burk Burnett comes to Thalia for the second game of that series.

Dry Platforms Are Offered by Most Governor Aspirants

Austin, Texas, June 5. (UP).—"Who's dryest" promises to be one of the big campaign issues in Texas this year.

U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth Amendment, started with a demand for prosecution of the liquor buyer as well as seller. This took away whatever moistness was attached from his support of Alfred E. Smith and kept him without serious opposition on that ground. Former Congressman R. L. Henry announced against Sheppard on a wet platform.

In the Governor's race "Ma" Ferguson is out with a demand that every officer take with his oath of office an affidavit that he has been personally dry for six months. She would also require that oath of the judge, sheriff, district attorney and jurors who try liquor charges.

Dan Moody beat her to it a few hours by announcing that he will offer a reward this September when colleges reopen for detection of bootleggers who sell to students.

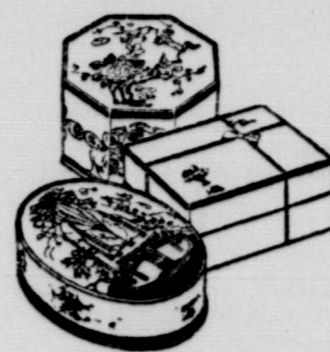

Former National Committeeman Thomas B. Love is making his campaign on the platform that he was too conscientiously dry to stand Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, so he voted for Hoover.

Former Senator Earle B. Mayfield declares in his platform: "Our government has nothing to fear from the ordinary criminal, but it has much to fear from that class of citizens who openly boast of their disrespect for law and demand its nullification. Such action constitutes open rebellion."

Two aspirants for governor champion prohibition repeal. They are Frank Putman of Houston and Paul Lovin of New Braunfels. Neither has ever made a state race.

WARFARE AGAINST PESTS

Weapons and inventions of modern warfare have been brought into action in two decisive victories on land and sea over destructive pests, age-old enemies of man.

After years of experimenting, Uncle Sam's Chemical Warfare Service has at last developed a successful defense over ship borers, the submarine destroyers, which undermine wharves, and which, it is said, have destroyed more wooden ships than all the battles in history. The new weapon is a poisonous solution, a derivative of the high explosive Lewisite. Applied to the pilings of wharves, it destroys the armies of sea worms.

In Palestine, an invading host of locusts was driven back by flame guns and poison sprays. Since ancient times these insects have periodically ravaged the Palestine crops, bringing famine. This year scientists and military men rushed mobile field units to meet the enemy. First powerful portable lamps were used to attract the insects into traps. Then the flame guns and poison sprays were brought into action, slaying the locusts and their unhatched eggs.

Often it has been said that insects are man's worst enemies. It is requiring deadly inventions of human warfare to defeat them.

It is now considered good form to Coronatype personal letters

Social usages change, even as styles in dress. It is now considered smart and up to the minute to Coronatype personal letters on attractive single sheet letterheads.

The best papermakers now put out personal stationery designed for use in the typewriter, although any kind may be used in Corona.

Custom still decrees that formal notes of acceptance be handwritten but practically everything else may be typed.

Aside from adding interest to letterwriting, what a boon this is to those who receive the letters.

Because of its attractive finish and freedom from any atmosphere of business a colored Corona is recommended for home use. Let us mail you a beautifully illustrated folder showing the Duco finished Coronas.

THE BRADY TRIAL

When, through the confidence of the people, a man is granted high public position, he owes to his state a peculiar obligation. Private actions, equally as much as his official labors, acquire the color of a public trust, and he must walk more circumspectly than do other men.

Public men have no business with private vices. Like Caesar's wife, in every particular their lives must be lived upon a plane which is wholly above suspicion.

Judge Brady had invited and been granted the confidence of Texas people. He had accepted at their hands positions of trust and honor.

In accepting public position, Judge Brady by implication pledged to the people of the state his word that always, under every circumstance and condition, he would so conduct himself as to vindicate the judgment of the people who saw fit to elevate him from the ranks.

When, by reason of improper indulgence of the baser instincts to which all mankind is heir, Judge Brady dragged himself to the gutter, he became guilty of a greater crime than infidelity to the patient and loyal woman who in his hour of trial fought so valiantly by his side. He became guilty, even, of a greater crime than murder. He became guilty of that most unpardonable of all crimes—betrayal of the confidence of a whole people.

Texas editors, and the people for whom they speak, will never be satisfied with the judgment rendered against him by a jury of Judge Brady's peers. They do not believe that three years in the penitentiary is adequate expiation for the sin of stabbing to death a youthful paragon.

Nevertheless gross betrayal of the public trust and confidence will remain the real reason for the people's continued protest against the sentence meted out to Judge Brady.

Out of its wealth of experience in dealing with the frailties of human nature, the law has seen fit to define varying degrees of culpability for one who takes human life. Under certain circumstances it has gone so far as to make homicide justifiable. It is especially significant, therefore, that the law has never defined the slightest justification for the betrayal of public confidence.

CRIME IN THE MONTH'S NEWS

Crime played too prominent a part in Texas news during the month of May. Mob outrages at Sherman and Honey Grove vied with the Brady trial at Dallas for prominence in the Texas press.

These incidents had barely lost front page position when from Houston came the news that a more or less notorious aviator had been "taken for a ride" in the approved Chicago style.

Municipal and county authorities at Houston have displayed commendable energy in prosecuting the search for the murderer or murderers of Aviator Edwards. The hunt has been extended to cover the continent. Indictments have been returned. As yet, however, it is not known that the guilty parties are confined behind steel bars.

Altogether these incidents would make it appear that Texas is inundated by a tidal wave of crime.

It is an unsavory reputation which Texas is acquiring over the whole world. The peace and dignity of the state so often has been outraged that Texas newspapers afford every evidence that the people have determined to do something about it.

The remedy seems to be the adoption of a new and more modern code for criminal law and procedure, together with the reorganization of the police along newer and more efficient lines. Some such plan will be offered in the 42nd legislature when it convenes in Austin, and recent experience in the state insures that the plan will receive careful consideration.

Texas seems to be preparing for a general house-cleaning.

NOT TRUE TODAY

P. T. Barnum says there was one born every minute. But that was in the day before modern advertising methods were devised.

There is no occasion for being fooled when it comes to spending your money in this day and age. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise can not afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good—he backs them up because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised. So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain,

RADIO CHURCHES

A small country church which couldn't afford a pastor, installed a radio and listens every Sunday to a famous Chicago minister, supported by a church which can well pay to have high-priced talent in the pulpit. Is this a forecast of the future for the country church, or it is merely an isolated case? Is this a makeshift to meet emergency or is it the beginning of a new kind of preaching in the country churches?

It may be the solution of a problem that confronts some rural congregations, which have not the means to support a pastor regularly, but no church will ever be able to get the inspiration from a radio sermon that it could get from the words of a pastor standing in his own pulpit. Radios will never supplant pastors. Given the choice, any rural church would select a resident, or even a circuit pastor in preference to having its pastoral work done by absent treatment.

The rural church pastor does more than preach. He functions where the radio can be of no service. He congratulates the parents when new boys arrive and he performs the ceremony when members of his "flock" are married. In times of sickness and trouble, he is a constant source of comfort, and when death stalks in the home, it is he who is the support of flickering faith, and his words hold out hope for the future. His advice on moral issues and civic questions is always sought. The radio will never dislodge the rural pastor. His mission is too big and his services too much in demand.

Smith had a brood sow. He kept it in a dirty pen. He made no changes in arrangements at farrowing time. This sow gave birth to 10 pigs. She killed three of them the first day. The others were covered with parasites and soon included worms among the numerous handicaps they had to contend with in an effort to grow into hogs. Two more died the first month, leaving five stunted pigs which eventually sold on the market at the lowest levels of the day.

CHURCHES

Christian Science
Sunday, 11 A. M. Subject for Sunday, June 8, "God, the only cause and creator."
Sunday School at 9:30. Wednesday evening service at 8:00.
The public is cordially invited.

The Christian Church
Last Sunday was the greatest day in the history of the church. We had more in Sunday School than we have ever had before. Last year on the last day of the meeting we had 132 for Sunday School, and this year we had 135. Next Sunday we expect to have more than we have ever had before. In order to reach our goal, we need just 49 more, making a total of 184. But let's don't stop at 184, we just might as well have 200 and be done with it. If you will be there we will go over the top.

The Church was launched just 1900 years ago next Sunday. And we are celebrating those events that happened on that day. The coming of the Holy Spirit, the first Gospel Sermon ever preached, and the baptism of 3,000 souls. It is the birthday of the church. We shall celebrate with a great communion service. All of those who do not have ways to come will be sent for. We want everybody to be here for the Lord's Supper. All who on account of sickness cannot come we will take the communion to them. Others who are detained for various reasons will have the communion brought to them. After the service Sunday morning, we will have an old fashion basket dinner together on the church lawn. Bring your basket, leave it in the car until after service, then we will meet together for a great time of fellowship together. In the afternoon the Gospel Team will take the communion service to the different communities we have been serving.

Don't forget the hour that the service begins, 9:45. Come on time so that you will be able to get a seat. We will have only one teacher for all the classes that assemble in the auditorium. Bring along the babies, we will have a teacher and a room reserved for them. But be sure and come in time for Sunday School. The worship service immediately follows the teaching service, beginning at 10:45. We just want to welcome all of you. The Friendly Church. JOHN G. CLARK.

Presbyterian Church
The following letter comes from Rev. J. T. Bryant, who is attending the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Cincinnati:

It will be my great pleasure to be in my pulpit June 8th and I shall be pleased to have as large attendance as possible.
I shall at that time be glad to tell you something of my visit to Cincinnati and the work of the General Assembly. I shall have some interesting things to relate.

Let all remember that next Sunday is the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost. Let us hope that it will be a great day for the world and especially for the people of Crowell. May each church of the city pray for a great out-pouring of the spirit in all our homes, churches, hearts and lives.
J. T. BRYANT.

Methodist Church
Sunday School at 9:45; preaching at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Leagues at 7:15 p. m. Woman's Missionary Society meets Monday afternoon at 4.

We hope to have a good attendance at all the services Sunday. Because of the revival meetings at other churches we have gotten out of the habit of attending our evening services. We hope to have a full house Sunday evening.
Remember a warm welcome awaits any person at the Methodist church. B. J. OSBORN.

ANNUAL RELIGIOUS MEETING OF INDIANS HELD SOON

Faith and brotherly love are linked inseparably at the meetings held annually in mid-summer, near the town of Wetumka, by two thousand or more Indians—Choctaws, Cherokees, Seminoles and Creeks—who gather to worship the Great Creator of the Universe in the simple faith and manner that was taught them more than 100 years ago by their leader, Rev. Jones, who came with them from Alabama when they crossed the "Trail of Tears" to settle in the country west of the Mississippi.

8,500,000 BOARDER COWS

J. W. Ridgeway, Texas chairman of the National Dairy Council, in a recent statement said:

"We are milking 22,500,000 cows in the United States, 8,500,000 of which are not paying their way. If we could get rid of these boarder cows we would be producing practically all our dairy products needs from 14,000,000 cows and making a nice profit from each one."

If there are 8,500,000 boarder cows in the United States, then some of the States must have a very large percentage of expensive animals. The average production per cow in the entire country is above 4,000 pounds of milk. Although the average for Texas has improved considerably the past few years, and the same is true of other states in the Southwest, yet our average per cow is much under the National average. Of the 963,000 cows in Texas, we would not miss the mark very much to state that 35 to 40 per cent would make money for the owners if they put them in the feedlot and made them ready for the slaughter house.

The difference in the cost of keeping cows must be taken into consideration in deciding when profitable production is reached. In the older, and colder dairy States, it takes larger producers to pass the cost line than it does in the Southwest. If Wisconsin dairymen had the same average production as we have in the Southwest, they would go broke in sixty days. It costs them more to feed and house their animals; therefore they must have more efficient producers. This being a fact, Southwestern farmers would increase their profits materially if they would cull their herds and continue to breed for higher production.

One cannot always pick the best cow by looking at her or by just glancing into the pail after milking. There is only one way to be sure that you are not selling your best cow and keeping the poorest, that is by testing. See your county agent and ask him about it.—Foard Ranch.

Mystery of Skeletons Uncovered Explained By Judge at Del Rio

Del Rio, Texas, June 5. (UP).—

There is no mystery about the two skeletons found on Devil's River; there are many more where these were found. The men were "killed either accidentally or intentionally" during the early 80's, said District Judge Joseph Jones, in an interview. Del Rio obtained its first rail connection in 1881; and soon after that, construction of the line was under way 12 miles northwest of the city, in the Devil's River area. The skeletons found by workmen near the steampower plant are, no doubt, those of men who died or were killed at the railway construction camp. It is estimated that from 25 to 30 men lost their lives there. Some of them were shipped away in impressive caskets; others were buried in wooden boxes; and still others were wrapped in their blankets and rolled into their resting places, which had been scooped out in the earth and then covered with sand. "Planting 'em" they called it in those days.

A few wooden crosses, an occasional name plate, a pile of rocks, or a mound of gravel were the only markers above these graves. Up until 1914 many of these graves could be seen but in that year a flood came and obliterated these markers. Now only a few old-timers are able to point out a few of the spots where men were buried. Judge Jones, whose ranch joins the property of the Central Power & Light Company on Devil's River, thinks he might be able to point out the places where several men were buried. Judge Jones, in those days, was a State surveyor; and, having surveyed most of this section, he was familiar with the country.

During the construction of the rail line, his surveying operations crossed those of the railway engineers; and he remembers having met the railway engineers at an intersection of the surveyor's lines. He saw the little community, too, which had sprung up to accommodate the workers on the railroad. One of the principal business places in the camp was the saloon, housed in a tent, and next to the saloon was a gambling house, also in a tent. Drunken brawls and quarrels over cards accounted for not a few of the sudden funerals. Construction accidents accounted for many others. A quarry on the property of the New York & Texas Land Company, now the property of Judge Jones, supplied the rock for the piers of the Devil's River bridge. Premature blasts and other accidents at the quarry added to the death toll, one blast alone having taken three lives.

Generally speaking, it was a hard-earned lot that was found around the railroad camp, including adventures, fugitives from justice, potential criminals, and gamblers. After working all day driving spikes or hauling rock, laborers would come into camp only to frequent the saloon and the gambling house. A real or imaginary insult suffered during the day, magnified at night by a few draughts, or crooked tactics at the gaming table, sometimes accounted for one or more deaths. If the deceased stood well in the esteem of the fellows, he might get a box and a marker; otherwise his tattered and soiled blanket, in which he had wrapped himself in slumber under the starry West Texas sky, was his shroud.

Now all the markers are gone—except the railroad men built; and their bones crop up as incidentals to the development of another project, a steam-power plant, which, like the railroad, is to add to the comfort, convenience and pleasure of humanity. If there is a sermon of the bones it probably is that the works of man live after him—on earth.

Each village dweller averages seven days of sickness a year and farm dwellers only four and a half days, according to a New York state survey made at Cornell University.

Thirsty tourists cooled themselves with approximately 10,000 tons of ice on American railroads last summer.

Foard County People Enjoy Lutheran Picnic

Several families from Foard County took part in the picnic held at the grounds of the Lutheran Church at Lockett last Thursday. Those from Foard County attending the affair were: Fred Riethmayer and family; Otto Schroeder and family; Ewald Schroeder and family; Herman Gloyna and family; David Z. Shaw and family; John Hauschild and family and Alfred Schroeder and family.

The festivities were held in connection with Ascension Day and between four and five hundred people were present. Various programs and contests were held in which both children and grown-ups took part. There was a May pole beautifully decorated for the event. Rifle shooting and ball throwing were included among the contests. Dinner was served under the shade of the big trees surrounding the church.

GOVERNMENTAL REPORTS

The enormous number of 12,000,000 separate reports from individuals, corporations, institutions or other units were received or handled in the U. S. Census Bureau during the last fiscal year, according to that bureau.

These reports were concerned with vital facts of social, industrial and business life of the country, including births, deaths and marriages, agriculture, manufacturing, forestry, mining, irrigation, power, fisheries, water transportation, and State and city finances.

The tabulation of the data contained in the reports, required the use of electrically driven machinery and all other known devices for tabulation and computation. The statistics collected and tabulated were made available to the public in 4,800 mimeographed and printed statements and bulletins, with a total edition of nearly 7,000,000. Together with the printed and mimeographed reports issued, the Bureau during the year answered about 52,000 inquiries for statistics on a wide variety of subjects.

In connection with the gathering of the vital statistics of the country, the report draws attention to the fact that this country is probably the only first class nation in the world that does not have a complete registration of births and deaths. The United States has no national vital statistics, as there is no Federal law which provides for the proper registration of births and deaths and several states still remain without adequate laws on this subject.

During the past year the Bureau of the Census has been conducting an active campaign in the hope of remedying this situation and it is hoped that satisfactory laws on registration of births and deaths will be on the statute books of every state before the next decennial census in 1940.

miles northeast of the present town of Margaret. The ground was frozen over hard at that time. In commenting on this Mr. Ashford stated that he thought the winter of '84 and '85 was the coldest that he has experienced in this section.

Following the organization of Foard County in 1891, Mr. Ashford moved his home and shop to Crowell in 1892 and started the blacksmith business here. Before leaving Margaret he had the honor of assembling the first wheat binder ever brought to this section. M. F. Thacker, who operated a store at Old Margaret, purchased the machine and had Mr. Ashford to put it together.

During his residence in this county Mr. Ashford has served as county commissioner and county treasurer. Civil War Veteran He was born in Pickens County, Alabama, on April 25th, 1845, and moved to Washington County, Texas, in 1850. In the fall of 1856 he moved to Smith County and from Smith to Ellis County in 1861. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was not old enough to join the army, however, in 1863 he joined the Confederate forces with the 30th Texas Cavalry, Company —, in Colonel Gurley's regiment and General Ganne's brigade.

Most of his activities during the war were confined to the Indian territory in Oklahoma and Kansas. He was in the battle at Cabin Creek, Kansas, in which three hundred wagons, loaded with winter supplies for Yankee forces, were captured. He was also in a number of minor battles.

Shortly after dropping back to winter quarters in Bowie County and from there to a point about 90 miles north of Houston, it was learned that General Lee had surrendered. He was connected with General Parson's brigade at that time.

After disbanding and while riding with over 30 others to his home in Ellis County, his group met up with a band of Ben Quantrell's men, who were on their way to Old Mexico. While this group fought for the South during the war, yet they were not connected with any army and operated as jayhawkers and knew severe punishment would be dealt them if they were caught by the Federal forces. They investigated the group with which Mr. Ashford was traveling but caused no trouble.

In 1875 Mr. Ashford moved from Ellis to Burnet County and from there to Coleman County in 1877. He was moving on June 10th of that year and stated that a freeze took place which killed corn which was in the tassel. He was passing through Brown and Comanche Counties at the time. From Coleman County he moved to this section in 1884 and has since lived here.

Mr. Ashford's good nature and kind disposition have made him hundreds of friends and there are few people to be found anywhere that are liked better than "Uncle Jimmy."

are Domino and Victor blood. The herd is divided into two pastures and a Domino bull is kept in one and a Victor bull in the other in order that their offspring can be registered.

During the Fat Stock Show at Ft. Worth he purchased an extra fine yearling bull, named Prince Domino 109th, from Johnson Brothers of Jacksboro, Texas. This young bull has the distinction of being a grandson of the world's most famous and highest priced Hereford bull, Prince Domino, which died the first week in April on a Wyoming ranch at the age of 15 years. A large monument is to be erected to this bull for which an offer of $51,000 was once refused. A number of his sons have sold for $10,000 to $25,000 each and many of his grandsons have sold for $5,000.

Dr. Kincaid also has another bull of Victor blood that is two years old, which is one of the finest looking bulls to be seen anywhere.

The 1,400 acre place, belonging to Dr. Kincaid, starts in about one mile south of Crowell and extends over three miles south of this city. There are around seven different pastures in it and about 12 different fields. An effort is being made to have sweet clover grow in all of the low places in the pastures. A considerable amount of sweet clover is now growing on the place. A unique device for feeding calves has just been built in one pasture. It is built on the order of a small corral and permits only the entrance of calves. Inside is a feeder containing alfalfa hay, bran and shorts.

Besides his herd of Herefords, Dr. Kincaid also has about sixty-five head of black face Hampshire sheep grazing in the pastures. Even as close as the place is to Crowell, yet a number of sheep were killed by coyotes last year. Just a few days ago three baby coyotes were killed near their den. Traps were set for the mother at the hole, however, she has never returned.

A visit over the Kincaid place reveals many interesting things and some that are not so interesting. One fact that is not so pleasing is that grass is showing great need of rain and another is that grasshoppers are becoming unusually thick. Plans are being made to put out poison for them.

There is likely to be a serious grasshopper menace all over the county unless steps are taken to eradicate them.

Poultry Disease Bothering Flocks in Foard County

By FRED RENNELS

In the last two or three weeks the poultrymen of the county have been experiencing considerable trouble with growing stock. In most instances it has been due to a disease called coccidiosis. The first symptoms noticed are a sleepy appearance, loss of weight, diarrhea and sometimes blood is noticed in the droppings.

The very strictest sanitation is necessary. In most instances it has occurred in flocks that are roosting on the floors of brooder houses and where the houses are crowded. It is necessary to get the birds to roost above the floor where the air may circulate among them and where they can not crowd. Move the flock to new ground if possible, or break up the yard and scatter lime about the runs. It is also necessary to keep the flock on a good growing rate supplemented with some grain. Some milk has proven one of the best remedies for controlling the disease. When the milk is fed the vessel should be thoroughly cleaned each day.

Watch the flock now for worms signs. A general flock treatment may be given by mixing (2) pounds of finely ground tobacco dust to each 100 pounds of mash. This should be fed three weeks. Stop the weeks and feed again for the same length of time. There are a number of individual treatments that are effective.

Watch for lice and mites. Solignum Flouiride dusted on birds will kill lice. Black Leaf Forty applied to the roosts will also rid flock of lice.
