A NOTABLE CHANGE

A notable change may be seen in the trend of advertising nowadays. Not so many years ago, the really big advertisers were patent medicines and baking powders.

The corporations of today are "our" corporations; we—everybody —finance their building and buy their products from ourselves as owners. "Public ownership" is here in its ideal form.

America was never as truly American as today, with almost every family owning some form of industrial security that pays a profit.

Systematized Production

The system of mass production originated 200 years ago among the Iron painters of Kholuy village, in Ivanov-Vosnesensky province, according to the diligent rural correspondent. By systematizing their work until each Iron passed through eighty to one hundred hands, the village was able to turn out 2,000,000 in a year.

THE FOARD COUNTY NEWS

KIMSEY & KLEPPER, Owners and Publishers

Entered at the Post Office at Crowell, Texas, as second class matter

Crowell, Texas, May 27, 1927

It looks like wheat harvesting is undergoing a revolution this year in Foard County. The fact that 28 combines have been sold this year and are now ready to go into the fields indicates that the farmers are rapidly turning with favor to his method of saving the grain. There are many things in favor of the combine. Time and labor are two important features that enter in. The combine will eliminate two-thirds of the labor normally required in harvesting the crop, it will save weeks and weeks of time and probable damage to grain shocked in the fields in many instances and it will enable the farmer to get back on his land with the plow a month earlier than usual. That will enable him to put his land in proper condition for moisture for another crop and get an early fall sowing. The hard test to the farmer is to wait until his grain gets dead ripe. The sowing of hard wheat, which stands much better than the soft wheat, will help relieve the strain.

The Crowell Cemetery Association has started a membership campaign and so far they have been meeting with splendid encouragement. Practically everybody in the county should be interested in this because most people in the county have their dead buried in the Crowell cemetery, and a membership from each of the heads of families would provide finances sufficient to take care of the cemetery. And this would make it light on every one. Otherwise the association will go along in a handicapped manner, if indeed it exists at all. The citizens of the county should come to the rescue of these faithful ladies and take from their shoulders at least the burden of financing the matter.

Those who have worthless dogs either in town or in the country will render the public a favor by killing them. They are not only worthless but are absolutely dangerous. Thousands of dollars are spent annually for treatment of human beings at the Pasteur Institute at Austin on account of the bite of some old flop-eared hound or some cute little pet canine. In rare instances there may be a dog that is worth something to its owner, but it is very rare. People would get along much better if there were not a dog in the country.

Foard County and all the other counties interested in building Lee Highway should consider themselves extremely fortunate in that they have been favored by the Highway Commission to the extent of granting us two dollars for one for construction. The little sum of four hundred thousand we are called upon to expend on the proposition is small in comparison with what the State and Federal Governments are putting up and with the tremendous benefits we shall derive from the road. It will be worth to us all it costs but we shall be getting it at one-third the price. It looks like a bargain.

Saturday—
"WILDHORSE STAMPEDE"
with Jack Hoxie

Come, bring the family. It will do them lots of good. You will feel better and the world will be brighter. It only costs thirty cents for the grown-ups and 15 cents for the children under 12. If your children are 6 years old they must have only half tickets, if they are twelve or over, they must pay full fare. There has been a little confusion in the past as to the age of the children that should pay admission. If you send your child to the show give him the money to pay his way and then we will look after him. Children under 6 years of age unaccompanied by their parents or an older member of the family must pay admission, because we are responsible for the children entrusted to our care. Therefore, we are forced to charge admission. We want to be fair in every way. If you have a picture in mind that you would like to see tell us about it, and we will try to secure same for the showing. We want to please every one if possible, so reason with us in our efforts.

MUST OBSERVE SIGNS

Automobile drivers must observe the stop signs. Slowing down is not enough. Stop the car still for a second and you will be complying with regulations. Otherwise you are liable to a fine, and for the protection of the public this must be enforced.
R. J. THOMAS, City Marshal.

CROSSING ACCIDENTS

A large majority of crossing accidents occur in daylight, in open country where there is no obstruction to the view, nothing to prevent the automobile driver from seeing the approaching train, and at crossings with which the driver is entirely familiar, usually in the locality in which he resides.

During the past year more than one-fifth of the crossing accidents resulted from the drivers running into the sides of trains. A substantial proportion of these accidents are due to the drivers running through lowered crossing gates, either in front or into the sides of trains. Not infrequently, according to a compilation of accident data, crossing flagmen in the center of the highway to protect the motorist, are run down by automobiles and killed.

These things happen in spite of the constant efforts of railroads and other interested agencies to persuade automobile drivers to be more cautious.

England has partially solved this serious problem by elevating eighty percent of her railroad crossings. In this country only eight percent are elevated, and there are those who believe that the railroads should be forced to a program of grade crossing elevation in order to reduce the heavy death toll from this cause.

This is doubtless the only sure solution, but it must be remembered that it is the public which in the last analysis will foot the bills. And it is questionable whether such an expense should be placed on the railroads, to be passed on to the public in the face of the mounting tax and other living costs.

In the end, we may have to come to this solution. Safety campaigns have failed to effect any sizable reduction in the deaths of grade crossings. People continue to approach crossings thoughtlessly and carelessly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 29

(By Mrs. Allen Sanders)

Time—A. D. 34.

Place—Some prison in Jerusalem, the courts of the temple, and the council chamber of the Sanhedrin.

Ananias and Sapphira, two among the early Christians who practiced community of goods, were punished by death when they lied to Peter and kept back part of their money. The Christians were now allowed to hold their meetings in Solomon's Porch of the temple, and multitudes, both men and women, were added to the Lord. The Jewish leaders again became offended and had all twelve put in prison, but an angel came by night, opened the doors and bade them preach again in the temple. The apostles obeyed and went to the temple as soon as it was open. In the morning the seventy-one members of the Sanhedrin sent to the prison for the disciples, but word came that they were preaching in the temple. So, quietly, for fear of a riot or some supernatural occurrence they were set before the council.

The high priest, president of the council, conducted the trial and told the disciples that they had been charged not to preach (Acts 4:18). He testified that the twelve had been zealous workers when he said, "Ye have filled Jerusalem with your teaching." The members thought, too, of the time they had insisted upon the crucifixion of Christ and had cried, "His blood be upon us."

Peter, as usual, spoke first and answered about the same as he and John had when first brought before the rulers (Acts 4:19). The apostles again charged the Jews with Christ's crucifixion, for though the Romans executed Him and Pilate had found Him innocent, it was the Jews who cried for His life. "Tree" was Peter's word for the cross. He was the only New Testament writer to use the term. Twelve witnesses should have been enough to establish any fact, but the Holy Spirit also bore witness to Christ by giving the disciples miraculous powers, the right words to speak and strength for their troubles. And the reward for obedience was the gift of the Holy Spirit.

The members of the Sanhedrin were so angry they wanted to kill the disciples, but one of the members, Gamaliel, the teacher of Paul, told them to take heed. Gamaliel was famous for his liberal learning and was one of seven Jewish Doctors honored with the title of Rabbun. He was a Pharisee, and so would have been more in sympathy with the apostles than the Sadducees—because the Pharisees believed in resurrection from the dead. Gamaliel said Judah had had many false leaders, among them Theudas and Judas, so with a little patience these men would soon pass away as the others had. One strong man was able to sway seventy weaker ones. The disciples were severely beaten and told not to preach any more. The apostles departed "rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer dishonor for the name." But "they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus as the Christ."

Along the Mississippi the folks understand the meaning of that old song with the words, "I've been working on the levee, all day long I've worked."

When we are alone, thinking is almost compulsory. That's the reason most of us dislike to be alone very long.

A man may stand in his own light if he wishes, but when he gets in the light of others he's treading on dangerous ground.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH L. Guy Ament, Pastor

The measure that God gave to his people for their returning their means to Him is at least one tenth. The measure of our time to return to the Lord is at least one day out of every seven. So let us keep the first day of the week sacred to Him who bought us with His own blood. Sunday school meets Sunday at 10 a. m. Be sure to be in the class for study. We need the adult attendance in the classes. The church services at 11 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. We cordially invite you to be one with us. All are welcome. Do not fail the Lord. The Woman's Missionary Society meets next Monday at the church 4 p. m. Lesson is the fifth chapter of Matthew. Christian Endeavor meets Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

The easiest way to destroy liberty is to take too much of it.

Systematic Plant Study

Pasture plants in continual war to see which will prove fittest and survive, according to Dr. Herbert C. Hansen, associate professor of botany at Colorado Agricultural college, in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Timothy, redtop, alsike clover and white clover cannot withstand the competition of orchard grass and red clover and will be crowded out if their enemies are not held in check, he has found. At the same time, however, Kentucky blue grass, working under the shelter of the other plants and extending its subterranean foothold under their roots, eventually will drive out the victors. Smooth brome grass and meadow fescue often hold their own when cattle are barred.

Be Wise and Mothercrafty

The smartest of new words is "mothercraft." You don't learn how to take care of a baby from your mother, but you go to a mothercraft school and study how to become a mothersmith. In fact, mothersmithing is becoming popular. "There will soon be a law," suggests the Woman's Home Companion, "prohibiting any woman from having a baby, or mothersmithing, who hasn't got the degree of M. M., that is, mistress of mothercraft. Bontlegging a baby will be severely punished."

Names Accorded Influence

Compelling children to grow up "good" by giving them the right sort of names is an old theory given fresh attention. A lawsuit wherein judgment was obtained against a French attorney who neglected to prosecute a suit for plagiarism against a rival, brought out these "good" names: Albert, Alphonse, Pierre, Gustave, Charles, Paul, Henri and Louis, among many others, for boys. Girls preferably should be christened Jeanne, Agathe, Marie, Berthe, Claire, Anne or Therese. The names banned are: Medard, Joseph, Fernand, Benoit, Sidonie, Suzanne, Zbe and Helene.

Even if women do have more sense than men, a man always has some place to carry his handkerchief.

Things Worth Knowing

Bedlam has come to mean any scene or state of wild confusion because this was the name given a hospital for lunatics, where inmates were treated little better than wild beasts, during the reign of Henry VIII in England.

Blackguard, in its present form, meaning a very disreputable character, was first a term used during the sixteenth century for the lowest menials of a noble house. It was also applied to the hangers-on of an army, the camp followers, and then a vagabond rattle.

An electrically controlled clock as a rule contains a small magnetic needle, which shows from which direction the currents are coming. The arrangements are usually such that at every sixtieth second no current is sent, and the needle stands still. Any small error is thus at once detected.

Early wedge-shaped inscriptions, made about the year 2200 B. C., showed that the Babylonians had developed a fairly extensive system of figuring. This was in the days of patriarch Abraham. When the minds of men were overburdened with the strain of counting into high figures, the Babylonians invented the first adding machine, a "pebble board," a ruled surface on which pebbles were shifted about to represent different values.

The process of vulcanizing was discovered by chance. The credit goes to Charles Goodyear who, one day in the spring of 1839, while expounding the values of a compound of sulphur and gum which he had prepared, accidentally exposed it to great heat. This demonstrated that the compound would not melt and the invention made possible rubber boots, rubber shoes and other things made of rubber. Up to this time crude rubber had not been made suitable for many uses.

Literary Shrine Made Pray of "Renovators"

The carpenters are busy these days. They are tearing up floors and putting them down again. They are fitting new window sashes and fastening bright and shining locks to doors. They are renovating a little six-room house at Seventh and Brandywine streets, Philadelphia, and they do not know a great American poet once lived there.

"Oh, it was years ago, you say," remarked a workman, accepting that as explanation of why Edgar Allan Poe lived in such a modest dwelling, a place with no reminders of past glory. He had not lived in this country long and Dante was the only poet he knew.

"A poet, was he?" asked the foreman, pausing in the business of scraping a door.

"They say there is a fortune buried in the cellar," he added in a dubious voice. "I never heard about the poet, but the lady who used to live here dreamed three nights in succession about that money in the cellar."

And he thumped across the dark wooden floor of the rooms where Poe and his young wife lived happily for a brief time in their tragic years together, and peered down into the cellar. Then he lit a candle and went down the narrow steps to a dark, dusty room crowded with broken pieces of glass and papers and an old trunk. The fortune might be under the trunk—he couldn't tell just then.

But there is no secret about the Poe house. It has stood as a literary shrine for many years. No matter how hidden from view, how broken-down in appearance, persons from all over the world have come to visit it. Artists have painted its little barren backyard, where Virginia Poe and her mother used to sit under the branches of a large pear tree. Writers have stepped quietly across its threshold and thoughtfully handled the old iron latch on the front door. Meetings have been held in its tiny rooms and speeches given on the doorstep.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Just received 200 new Virginia Hart dresses.—Self's.

"Fig Leaves" Is Story of Trials of a Modern Eve

OLIVIE BORDEN PLAYS THE MODERN EVE AND GEORGE O'BRIEN THE MODERN ADAM

Prehistoric monster and modern beauty, to say nothing of some marvelous Technicolor sequences of the Garden of Eden, are combined in "Fig Leaves," a one night only Howard Hawks production for Fox Films, which opens a one day run at the Rialto Theatre June 10th. Olive Borden and George O'Brien are ideally cast in the leading romantic roles.

This is a story of the trials and mishaps of a modern Eve, who, like her sister of the long ago, is tempted when the serpent whispers sinister suggestions. In the case of the modern Eve Miss Borden, as the wife of a plumber, is baited with fine clothes by Andre, a fashionable designer, who dictates the fashions for women. How the beautiful Eve outwits the designer and brings happiness to her household forms the basis for a remarkably well-knit story.

In addition to these popular players, the cast includes Andre de Branger, Eulalie Jensen, Phyllis Haver, Dorothy Dunbar, William Austin, Charles Conklin and scores of beautiful models. The screen version was adapted by Hope Loring and Louis D. Lighton from an original story by Howard Hawks.

Admission 15c and 20c. advt.

Many aviators are planning to hop from New York to Paris, but indications are that it will take at least a hop, skip and a jump.

Foard City Christian Endeavor

Recently a Christian Endeavor was organized at Foard City with the following officers: Steve Mills, president; Mildred Owens, 1st vice president; Grady Holbert, 2nd vice president; Carvel Thompson, recording secretary; Lina Weatherall, corresponding secretary; Weldon Owens, treasurer; Mrs. Steve Mills, chairman prayermeeting committee; Mrs. Devote Hoed, chairman sunshine committee; Virgie Callaway, chairman lookout committee; Frank Weatherall, chairman finance committee.

The society meets at 7:30 each Sunday evening. Splendid programs are being rendered. Last Sunday Mildred Owens was leader. She was assisted in the lesson by Marcus Mills and Nadine Lefevre. Everie Owens very beautifully rendered a vocal solo and Juanita Thompson pleased the audience with a piano solo.

Grady Holbert is leader for next Sunday and he is arranging an interesting program. The young people are very enthusiastic over this work and it is believed this is to be one of the outstanding young people's societies of the county.

All young people and those interested in the young people's work are cordially invited.

Remember, 7:30 each Sunday evening.—Contributed.

PLUMBING

For real service and workmanship, don't you think that it would be better to have your plumbing done by a firm that is in that business exclusively and looks after that alone?

The House that Grew...

Sometimes the old house just naturally has to expand. You can make the extra rooms at low cost by partitioning with Sheetrock, the fireproof wall-board.

Sheetrock, which we sell and recommend most heartily, is made of pure gypsum rock, in great, broad sheets. Saws and nails like lumber. Decorates perfectly (all joints concealed). Let us show you a sample and estimate for you.

The World's Lowest Priced Cars with Supremely Beautiful FISHER BODIES!

Chevrolet is the only car in its price class offering bodies by Fisher—built as only Fisher can build, and styled as low-priced cars were never styled before!

Bodies by Fisher are everywhere acknowledged to represent the highest order of beauty, luxury, and safety—and never was the superiority of Fisher craftsmanship more evident than in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

Despite the lowness of Chevrolet prices, there is not the slightest compromise in design, construction or finish. All embody exactly the principles employed on the highest priced cars—a composite construction of selected hardwood and steel. All are finished in beautiful colors of lustrous, lasting Duco.

Enhancing the beauty of the bodies themselves are numerous features of distinction previously considered exclusive to the costliest cars—features typified by heavy full-crown, one-piece fenders and bullet-type headlamps.

Only the economies of Chevrolet's great volume production make possible such quality at Chevrolet prices—value so outstanding that comparisons cease to exist. Ask for a demonstration!
