PREPARING FOR HOG INDUSTRY

W. S. Bell Believes There Is Big Money in Hogs in Foard County

Where a man has made a financial success, we are not always ready to criticize his business ventures, as we may be in the case of a man who has made nothing but a failure. We are glad to see our friend, W. S. Bell, going into the hog-raising business on a more extensive scale than the average farmer in this county has been doing heretofore. It means that he sees money in the business, and if any man in the county ever makes it success, W. S. Bell will be one of the number.

He has been hauling out lumber and wire with which he is fencing a good big pasture for the hogs he expects to put into it. Mr. Bell has an ideal place for this business, and has already an excellent start of alfalfa, which is said to be one of the best of forages for hogs. He will stock his pastures with the best and thriftiest breeds he can procure.

Hamp Carter happened to the misfortune this week of getting his wrist badly cut. He was coming to town on his wagon when the tire of one of the wheels was trying to come off. On the way he stopped to fix it, and picking up a beer bottle with which to drive it back on, he broke the bottle with the result of a badly cut wrist. He was carrying his arm in a swing.

GETTING BUSY ON ARTESIAN WELL

At the meeting held on Saturday the 16th of July for the purpose of organizing a company to go after deep well water in Crowell, Judge Walthall took the chair and called the meeting to order.

It was moved and seconded that the following officers be elected by acclamation:

President, Judge Walthall; 1st vice-president, W. C. Perry; 2nd vice-president, J. B. Fox; 3rd vice-president, L. H. Freedman, M. D.; Secretary, A. H. Freedman; Treasurer, R. R. Waldrop. Soliciting Committee, Joe W. Beverly, Lester Power, W. S. Bell, J. F. Witherspoon.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday, July 26th, 8 p. m. at the court house.

Every one is invited to come and give all the suggestions and advice he is capable of. Crowell must have an artesian well and the sooner the better. It is up to the citizens to take hold with will and push the matter to completion. No one else will do it for us. Let every body get busy and appoint himself a committee of one to boost the Artesian Well.

During the services at Foard City last Sunday, a heavy wind storm came up blowing down the tent and overturning an organ and causing some people to get several scratches. We understand that Oliver Lefevre's wife sustained a broken leg as a result of the organ's falling on her. The wind was just a straight one.

POTTER SPEAKS FOR POINDEXTER

Man from Merkel Makes Strong Argument in Favor of Pro Candidate

Hon. W. T. Potter of Merkel addressed an audience of about 400 at the opera house Wednesday afternoon in behalf of Judge Poindexter's candidacy for governor of Texas. The gentleman made a speech that was characterized for its fairness in dealing with the issues now before the people of the state, and in making clear the position occupied by Hon. Cone Johnson and that occupied by Judge Poindexter on the prohibition question. If any one was present who had not been clear on Johnson's statutory prohibition fad, there was no reason why he should have gone away with the same bewildered mind. The speaker indulged in no abuse of Mr. Johnson, or any of the candidates as for that matter, but recited a considerable portion of his record, which he knew of, his own experience, since he had lived his door neighbor in Tyler for years and was personally familiar with a large part of his political record. Of his own personal knowledge he mentioned several occasions upon which Cone Johnson had proven disloyal to his party and in one instance he himself, (Johnson) having been repudiated by same. The speaker challenged any one to show that he had not given the record correctly.

As to Johnson's statutory prohibition cry, Mr. Potter said that Mr. Johnson was too astute a lawyer not to know that such a proposition is unconstitutional, and concludes, therefore that he is insincere, and so far, dishonest. The circumstances of Johnson's conversion to prohibition, the speaker believes, is evidence of his alliance with the antis to defeat the only real prohibition candidate. Judge Poindexter, supporting his statements with arguments altogether plausible.

As grounds upon which the votes of all genuine prohibitionists are claimed for Judge Poindexter, the speaker laid before his hearers the unimpeachable record of a life-long pro, who has never taken one step of retreat from his position on this question, a record of loyalty to convictions, regardless of popular sentiment, a record of uncoiled public action, and stamped as false the charge recently made as to Poindexter's connection at one time with a saloon. Readers of the News will remember that what we have had to say as to this campaign has been in support of Judge Poindexter. We believe he is the logical prohibition candidate. We believe he stands for the only reasonable and practicable method of securing prohibition under present conditions, that is by constitutional amendment.

EMIGRANTS ARE COMING BACK

Canadian Home-Seekers Finding Climate Too Severe Return to U. S.

For a few years strong inducements have been offered in Canada for settlers, and so effective have they been that thousands of American farmers have sold their property in the United States and gone to Canada. The flow of immigration into that country from the United States has for the last year been greater than that from Canada to this country, and has caused our people to view the situation with a small degree of alarm. Things are changing. These people are coming back to the United States. They have been disappointed and will hereafter seek their fortune in new quarters. The Fort Worth Record, in speaking of their return says:

"In these returning farmers the South has the best of good chances for securing the kind of people the South needs. Few, if any of them, will desire to take up residence in their former homes. They sold out their interests before going to Canada, and buying back their farms, or farms as valuable, will not be practicable. The Canadian experience has been an expensive one for them, and while they have sufficient money to buy farms, they have not the amount they took to Canada, and the average man has a quite understandable dislike for returning to the place he quit in a less enviable financial condition than when he left. Also they were dissatisfied with their former home surroundings else they would never have undertaken the far trek to the bitter cold of Northwestern Canada. These people are in exactly the proper mental attitude for the wonderful productivity of soils, the abundance of farm labor and the relative low cost of living in the entire South, and especially in Texas, to appeal to them strongly. They are the kind of people Texas wants, and if the immigration agents and commercial secretaries are half as good Settler-getters as they would have us believe, they will institute an immediate campaign to bring to Texas an army of these always successful Middle West farmers now on their return to the United States."

RESOURCES

The HOME CIRCLE Column

The gleeful laugh of happy children is the best home music, and the graceful figures the best statuary. We are all kings and queens in the cradle and each a new marvel in the miracle. The unaffected lamentations when he lifts up his voice on high, or more beautiful, the sobbing child, the face all liquid grief, as he tries to swallow his vexations—soften all hearts to pity, and to merciful and clamorous compassion. The small despot asks so little that all reason and all nature is on his side. His ignorance is more charming than all knowledge, and his little sins more bewitching than virtue. His flesh is angels' flesh, all alive.

A PERFECT WIFE

She is handsome, but it is beauty arising not from features complexion or from shape. She has all three in a high degree, but it is not by these she touches a heart; it is all that sweetness of temper, benevolence, innocence and sensibility which a face can express that forms her beauty. She has a face that just raises your attention at first sight; it grows on you every moment and you wonder it did no more than raise your attention at first. Her eyes have a mild light, but they awe when she pleases; they command like a good man out of office, not by authority but by virtue. Her statue is not tall, she is not made to the admiration of everybody, but the happiness of one. She has all the firmness that does not exclude delicacy—she has all the softness that does not imply weakness. Her voice is a soft, low music, not forced to rule in public assemblies, but to charm those who can distinguish company from a crowd; it has this advantage, you must come close to it to hear it. To describe her body describes her mind—one is the transcript of the other; her understanding is not shown in the variety of matters it exerts itself on, but in the goodness of the choice she makes. She does not display it so much in saying or doing things as in avoiding such as she ought not to say or do. No person of so few years can know the world better; no person was ever corrupted by the knowledge. Her politeness flows rather from a natural disposition to obligate than from any rules on the subject and therefore never fails to strike those who understand good breeding and those who do not. She has a steady and firm mind which takes no more from the delicacy of the female character than the solidity of marble does from its polish and lustre. She has such virtues as make us value the truly great of our own sex. She has all the winning graces that make us love even the faults we see in the weak and beautiful in hers.

Courtesy in the Home

It is to be regretted that individual courtesy in the household is at so low an ebb. We treat our guests with favor and bestow upon them every mark of polite attention; but the minute they are out of the house we slip back into the old ruts, and treat those about us with an indifference that borders on contempt. Not that this is intentional, rather it is the result of carelessness, a failure to realize that the polite attentions, "the little things," count so much to those we love as to some outsider who becomes a member of a family for a day.

If one would be a successful host one should be successful parent or brother or sister, and courtesy is an inevitable requisite in both cases. The home life is a training for the larger life in which we meet other men and discuss other interests. If at home we learn to say, "Thank you," and mean it we will not forget to say it to others at the proper time.

There is one form sacred in memory's gallery, one face which time can never erase. It is that of our mother, the dear, gentle, compassionate mother who loved us ere we knew what love was, and taught us the right ere we knew the wrong. Her eyes beamed with joy as she blessed us at life's dawning and spoke a tender farewell, as the life-sun went down. She watched us to school in the summer sun and taught us our lessons by wintry fireside. From childhood's morn to manhood's hour she was ever at hand to soothe and console and when at last we must go forth from the old home and fireside, how tenderly affectionately she caressed us and kissed us good-bye—then waited and hoped and prayed that all would be well. From first to last her love was the same—it knew no bounds. With cheers for the right, tears for the wrong, she was happy in our joys, and in our sorrows and she washed away our errors in the flooded rivulets of the soul. Her conscience was her guide and her family her greatest joy. She loved her home more than glittering fashion and sought honor in the consciousness of doing good.

Mid afflictions, trials and suffering years, she lived for a purpose—that we might succeed. We loved her as we loved no other and pleasant memories cluster around her peaceful grave. She is gone now—the kind heart has ceased its tender murmurings and the voice so full of love and sympathy is hushed in the silence of the winding sheet, but floating up before us in the infinite vast we see a form radiant with the splendor of noble virtues, pure and spotless as the new-fallen snow, it is facing the throne of its eternal right, and as it draws near to that, beamy realm, the glittering luster of Heavenly "sheen" light up the view and we behold the sacred form of our loved and loving mother—safe at last in the peaceful home of the soul.

When Will We?
When will we as a nation of people cease to allow ourselves to be known as the filthiest of the great countries? An editorial in the Dallas News of July 26 along this line is worthy of attention. It said:

"The United States is the filthiest nation in the world," according to the head of Mr. Rockefeller's hookworm commission. The exact truth of that statement, we suppose, depends on ones conception of what is a great country. For example the statement would be untrue to the man who included Italy among the "great" countries, and true to the man who excluded Italy. However, it is probably true that among the five or six Nations that may be compared with the United States in wealth and power, the United States is perhaps the most uncleanly.

This is perhaps the testimony of travelers, and one may find even better evidence of the same purport in the morality statistics. In other words, the death rate from those diseases, which, beyond all dispute are generated by filth is astonishingly greater in the United States than in any one of those great countries.

Since statistics and the observation of travelers corroborate the statement of Mr. Rockefeller's hookworm commissioner, we suppose it may be accepted as true that the United States is the filthiest among great Nations.

This is a truth we do not like to acknowledge, but since it is a fact, we had just as well accept it. The filth of the United States is made up of that of the various towns and localities of the whole country. It is possible for the state of affairs to be changed if every town and city will look after its own conditions within its own limits, town, people, look after the town's affairs, but let each tend to its own duty in this particular and the problem is solved.

HE WANTED TO TRADE BACK

Have You Bought His Freedom? Concluded Not to Risk $400 on Such an Investment. Harry had belonged to an Alabama planter who owned a ferry. The negro had operated it. To take the ferryman faithful to his duty the owner had allowed him one-half his earnings. Harry saved his gains carefully and in the course of time proposed to his master to buy his freedom. The thicker consented, and an agreement was made that Harry should pay $800 for himself, half in hand. Not long after this there came an unusual freshet. Harry's skill was captured in the middle of the stream and he himself was carried down two or three miles before he could get ashore, being then more dead than alive. Wounded, dragged and dilapidated, he presented himself before his master. "Name John," he said, "I want to trade back." "What's the matter, Harry?" "Well, Master John, $400 is my money. I want to risk it. I don't want to risk it." "Meet me at Ferguson's Bros."

greatest joy. She loved her more than glittering fashion and sought honor in the consciousness of doing good.

Mid afflictions, trials and sufferings years, she lived for a purpose—that we might succeed. We loved her as we loved no other and pleasant memories cluster around her peaceful grave. She is gone now—the kind heart has ceased its tender murmurings and the voice so full of love and sympathy is hushed in the silence of the winding sheet, but floating up before us in the infinite vast we see a form radiant with the splendor of noble virtues, pure and spotless as the new-fallen snow. It is facing the throne of the eternal night, and as it draws near to that beautiful, glittering luster of Heavenly sheen light up the view and we behold the sacred form of our loved and loving mother—safe at last in the peaceful home of the soul.

When Will We?
When will we as a nation of people cease to allow ourselves to be known as the filthiest of the great countries? An editorial in the Dallas News of July 20, along this line, worthy of attention, it said:

"The United States is the filthiest nation in the world," according to the head of Mr. Rockefeller's bookworm commission. The exact truth of that statement, we suppose, depends on one's conception of what is a great country. For example, the statement would be untrue to the man who included Italy among the "great" countries, and true to the man who excluded it. However, it is probably true that among the five or six nations that may be compared with the United States in wealth and power, the United States is perhaps the most uncleanly.

better evidence of the same purport in the morality statistics. In other words, the death rate from those diseases, which, beyond all dispute are generated by filth is astonishingly greater in the United States than in any one of those great countries. Since statistics and the observation of travelers corroborate the statement of Mr. Rockefeller's bookworm commissioner, we suppose it may be accepted as true that the United States is the filthiest among great Nations.

This is a truth we do not like to acknowledge, but since it is a fact, we had just as well accept it. The filth of the United States is made up of that of the various towns and localities of the whole country. It is possible for this state of affairs to be changed if every town and city will look after sanitary conditions within its own limits. To town, need look after the filth of its own town, but let each attend to its own duty in this particular and the problem is solved.

Coming home, may we ask if our citizens are trying to keep their premises in healthful sanitary condition? Have they health officer looking after matters in this particular? It is our business to look for the sanitary conditions of our own town and the help contribute what we can towards making our country the cleanest and most healthful in the world.

NOT PLATTERING
In an English constituency a canvasser happened upon an artisan busy reading the posted addresses and studying the pictured faces of the two candidates. "Well, what do you think of them?" asked the canvasser. The voter shrugged his shoulders and said nothing. "Which candidate would you like to vote for?" persisted the other. "Don't know nothing about none of 'em," replied the British elector, "but what I can see of 'em, I think 'eaven as only one of 'em can get in."

WOOD BLOCKS FOR FLOORING

Long Leaf Yellow Pine Tested in Georgia and Found to be Superior
Concrete and planing for flooring both have their objectionable features. The old planing machine for the ideal flooring where the surface is subjected to hard usage. Wood block has been experimentally used for some time at a large woodworking establishment in Georgia with the result that it will no doubt soon enter into more general use.
The blocks selected for the test were of long leaf yellow pine and were hewn in a passage way extending from the planing mill to the drying kiln. This is believed to be the best place for a severe test of the qualities of the material, as there is a great deal of heavy hauling between the two points. Heavy loads of lumber are constantly being drawn between the two points, and the small wheels of the mill are found to be hard on a plank floor.
After nine months of service, the floor was found to be in excellent condition. It was possible to observe the floor after this test the wood block flooring was extended to other parts of the establishment. It was found to possess all the requirements for heavy flooring, and it is claimed that it is waterproof, fireproof, sanitary, easily cleaned and practically indestructible.

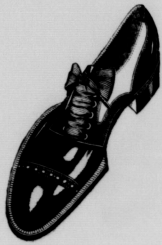

HE WANTED TO TRADE BACK

Slave Who Bought His Freedom Concluded Not to Risk $400 in Such an Investment
Harry had belonged to an Alabama planter who owned a ferry on the Chattahoochee river. The ferry the negro had operated. To shake the ferryman faithful to his duty the owner had allowed him one-half his earnings. Harry saved his gains carefully and in the course of time proposed to his master to buy his freedom. The master consented, and an agreement was made that Harry should pay $800 for himself, half in hand. Not long after this there came an unusual freshet. Harry's skill was captured in the middle of the stream and he himself was carried down two or three miles before he could get ashore, being then more dead than alive. Weakly he dragged and dilapidated, he presented himself before his master, "Marse John," he said, "I want to trade back." "What's the matter, Harry?" "Well, Marse John, $400 is mo' money'n I want to risk in dis hyar nigger."

Does This Stir Your Southern Blood?

From a radical revolutionary sheet published at New Castle, Pennsylvania, we clip the following spell which should make Southern men who imagine themselves socialists repudiate once and for all the foolish thing into which they have been duped by the Girard grafters and the aching agitators. Here it is: "The Fourth of July had one redeeming feature. Though given over to the celebration of one fallacy it witnessed the knockout of another. Johnson followed the Japs in demonstrating that the 'white man's burden' was unnecessarily assumed. Not only was Jeffries forced outside the ropes, but so also was race prejudice and domination. As industrial unionists, who believe in all humanity, regardless of color, creed, sex, or politics, we rejoice exceedingly when an uppercut brings down the barriers that divide us."

We are informed by this organ of socialism and so called industrial unionism that the "One redeeming feature" of the Fourth of July was the defeat in the prize ring of a white man by a black man, and we are further informed that to celebrate the natal day of our beloved country is to celebrate a "fallacy." But the socialistic slush slinger rejoices that another "fallacy" received a knockout blow, which is meant that of the superiority of the Caucasian over the African. Well, if superiority means brawn and brute strength rather than brains and character, we can't say that we object in the least. We have no sympathy to waste on the white man who lowers and degrades himself by going into a trial of brute strength and physical endurance with a coon. But we just can't figure out how any white man can be so low down as to rejoice over a thing of this sort as removing "one of the barriers" that separates the races. Yet we find these Southern men, who imagine that they are socialists, raising Cain and cussing when we charge that socialism is logically committed negro social equality, and not only so, but that the party has officially declared that the only line of division between the races is an "economic one" and have held out their hands and said to the coon, "We invite you to membership and fellowship with us."

We are not prejudiced against the negro. But believe that he ought to have a square deal, and we believe that he comes nearer getting that in the South than anywhere else in the world. But we do not believe in negro social equality, and we are of the opinion that a great and grave mistake was made when the negro was granted the ballot. Yes, we mean to say that the negro should not be allowed to vote. That one thing has kept alive sectional prejudice in this country and has done the negro great harm and no corresponding good. But when a political party declares by revolution for negro social equality, as the socialists did in 1900, and when their papers and speakers openly advocate such doctrine, it is about time for men of Southern birth and breeding to grab their hats and get out.

Remember, you may whitewash the negro as much as you will, but the perfume of the coon will cling to him still!

Wheat Crop Short

Newspaper reports are to the effect that the wheat crop throughout the United States is extremely short this year. It will not supply the home demand. Canada's crop is also said to be short. In view of this fact we may expect sky-high prices on flour. Speaking on the subject, the Dallas News says: "Wheat options range from $1.07 to $1.12 in the Chicago pit and if crop reports, not only from this country, but from Canada and parts of Europe, should be realized, quotations are not unlikely to go much higher still. It seems to be an assured fact that the crop in our own Northwest will be woefully short, with a fair prospect that there will be a shortage in Canada also. Meanwhile pessimistic reports come from the southern part of Europe, to that, altogether, there seems to be a pretty fair chance that less wheat will be grown this year than the world needs. The world's crop last year was not big, and we have very little, if any, surplus to supplement this year's shortage. Happily we seem to be sure of a pretty good corn crop, so that if wheat bread becomes as costly as cake ought to be, we can make corn bread the staff of life, add probably with as much profit to our health as to our pocketbooks.

Hamilton's Book

From far away Zimapan, state of Hidalgo, Mexico, comes an order for one of Hamilton's books. That's the way it's going. The orders are coming from every part of Texas and from Oklahoma. The Socialist papers and agitators are giving Hamilton and his book a great deal of free advertising. We will be ready by August 1 to fill all orders. The book contains the full report of the four nights debate and an equal amount of other matter, making it a fairly complete arsenal of facts with which to route the agitators.

Vote for Stephens

Don't forget to vote for John H. Stephens for Congress. Don't forget that he introduced the bill in our State Senate creating Foard County. That he passed it through the Senate. That with his characteristic energy he followed it into the house, and through his influence more than anything else, it was passed by that body and became a law. Don't forget that up to 1891 we were simply an appendage of Harbeman County, and we would be now if it had not been for John H. Stephens. That we would not now name our County autonomy. That we would not name our county site convenient to us all, with its beautiful court house just being completed, and one of the best and most prosperous counties in this portion of the state, all of which we owe to him, all which is well known to those who have been here from the first, but may not be known by those who came here in recent years. So we of the older times would ask you of the newer times to help us to reward John H. Stephens for the services he rendered us in the past as well as the faithful services he is now rendering us as our congressman.

Those of you who heard his opponent, Mr. Veale, when he made his speech at Crowell, that after searching John H. Stephens' record that of all the votes cast by him during his incumbency the only vote he could criticize was his vote against free hides, which was a part of the Republican Pain-Aldrich tariff bill in the last congress, and when we remember that this is one of the largest cattle districts in this state, and everybody knows, who knows anything about the effect of the tariff on any given commodity, that free hides will reduce the price of cattle from 50 cents to $1.00 all over this state. And when we remember that of all of the sixteen members of the house from this state and the two senators, eighteen in all, only one man, (Mr. Gillespie) voted with the Republicans for free hides, over against seventeen, and John Stephens voted with the seven-teen. This shows he stands with the best thought and with the Democracy of this state. Regardless of the peculiar obligation we are under to John H. Stephens, this alone ought to prompt us to vote for him. Attention to the Patient with Typhoid

While not properly within the province of this article to deal with the treatment of the disease, it should not be out of place to make suggestions for the care of typhoid cases that may prove helpful in preventing its spread.

The patient should be placed in a well-ventilated room, with plenty of light and air if possible. Carpets, draperies and superfluous articles of furniture should be removed.

All discharges should be received into a vessel containing a solution of some of the approved disinfectants which at least equal in volume the amount of the discharge received. A list of the approved disinfectants is appended. Remove the vessel, stir and break up any solid matter in the discharges, and allow to stand, protected from the flies at least one hour, before emptying.

Never empty the discharges upon the surface of the ground nor into a stream, even though disinfected.

The discharges must never be disposed of until thoroughly disinfected, and if buried, never less than one foot below the surface of the ground, nor within two hundred feet of a stream or other source of water supply.

Disinfect discharges from nose and mouth in the same manner as excreta.

Keep constantly in convenient places a tin or other proper vessel containing a sufficient quantity of a solution of one of the approved disinfectants, in which to soak all of the patient's clothing and bed linen at least three hours, after which boil them for an hour.

Add a disinfectant to the water that has been used for bathing the patient, taking the same care in its disposal as in the body discharges.

The hands should be washed in a disinfecting solution immediately after handling the patient, the discharges, or any of the soiled bed or body clothing.

Do not permit the use by others of drinking vessels or tableware used by the patient until thoroughly sterilized by boiling.

Scraps of remnants of food left by a patient should never be eaten or thrown.

Keep domestic animals from the room, and be careful at all times to see that no kissing of the patient should be permitted and it is best that no visitors be allowed. They often harbor and might contract the disease.

Individuals who have been taken out of and removed from the premises during the existence of the disease.

Vessels should be used to receive the patient's excreta, and the living should pour into it, without handling such vessel.

These rules should be strictly adhered to not only during their illness, but also during their convalescence, the specific germs of typhoid often existing in the stools of a patient four weeks after subsidence of fever.

Upon termination of the case, thoroughly disinfect the room together with all unwashable bedding, carpets, rugs or draperies that have been allowed to remain in the room.

APPROVED DISINFECTANTS

No. 1. Five per cent carbolic acid solution. No. 2. One tenth of one per cent solution of bi-chloride of mercury. No. 3. Four per cent solution of chloride of lime. No. 4. Those essential tar disinfectants approved by the State Board of Health after thorough bacteriological tests have been made and are recommended for use in certain strength solutions.

The above is taken from a pamphlet on Typhoid Fever published by the Texas State Board of Health, and contains a lot of valuable information which it is hoped will prove greatly beneficial to our readers.

GUSSER NOW OUT OF A JOB

Government Official Who Has for Years Estimated Weight of Live Salmon Has Been Deposed

The official gusser for the United States government has lost his job, according to the Lewiston Journal. For years the government has bought live salmon upon the word of a veteran fisherman who took a squat at each fish and then put down in his book what he guessed to be its weight. The government paid accordingly, thus making the fisherman a rich man. Every year the government buys from 900 to 1,000 live salmon for breeding, from the wig-wags on the Backport, Verona, Orland and Portland shores.

The price paid is the market rate, from 20 to 35 cents a pound, with 60 cents bonus for each fish for the trouble of keeping them alive.

To get at the exact weight of a live salmon is practically impossible, for it is very delicate work in dipping them from the "sound" in the water to the "scale" which is an old bowl filled with water, ears fully dusted with cotton flannel and covered with a netting, which is covered outside with canvas. The most delicate caution is necessary, for in the spring the salmon is "strangely delicate." So it is that weighing them is entirely out of the question.

The government has for years hired a veteran fisherman to make the rounds of the waters of the little ponds and keep account of the fish. All the men had 20 to 30 years in the job, but the "gusser" was a shrewd at a fish, with the same delicacy of the ear, about what it would weigh 10, 12, 14, or perhaps 16 or 18 pounds. It was gussed, but by years of experience in handling fish he could guess very near.

At any rate, his guessing was accepted for years by the fishermen who sold the fish as well as by the government. Perhaps the government officials in Washington did not approve of paying out money by guess. Whatever may have been the conclusion, the government gusser has lost his job. Hereafter 12 pounds will be the fixed weight of every salmon paid for.

Texas Live Stock

Texas has more live stock than any other state in the Union. We have 13,983,000 head of live stock valued at $121,857,000 by the Federal Government Agricultural Department on January 1st, 1909. We have four head of live stock per capita. We lead all other States in production of cattle and mules; Illinois and Iowa lead us in horses; and we stand third in hogs. To increase the value of our live stock we must raise the grade, improve the market condition and increase the market price.

"Comparative Value in Texas and Illinois."
 This difference in price is largely due to the grade of horses. By improving the grade we can add about $40,000,000 to live stock values of the state. This would equal $10 per capita and would be net money to the farmer as it costs no more to raise a good horse than it does a poor one.
 We have 1,000 head of hogs valued at $1,000,000 while Illinois hogs are valued at $700,000, as shown in the cut below.

Comparative Value in Texas and Illinois.
 The spirit of progress that makes the farmers want better public highways, more factories, more railroads will stimulate them in improving the grade of live stock.

Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution AUTHORIZING THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A HOME FOR WIVES AND WIDOWS OF CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 7, Joint Resolution to amend Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, as amended in 1903, so as to authorize the grant of aid to the establishment and maintenance of a home for the disabled and dependent wives and widows of Confederate soldiers and sailors and such women, as aided in the Confederacy, and making an appropriation.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

SECTION 1. That Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, as amended in 1903, be so amended as to hereafter read as follows: Article 3, Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, associations of individuals, municipal, or other corporations whatsoever; provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent and disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1889, and who are either over sixty years of age or whose disability is the proximate result of actual service in the Confederate army for a period of at least three months, their widows in indigent circumstances who have never remarried and who have been bona fide residents of the State of Texas since March 1, 1880, and who were married to such soldiers or sailors anterior to March 1, 1880; provided, said aid shall not exceed eight dollars per month, and provided further, that no appropriations shall ever be made for the purpose here-inbefore specified in excess of five hundred thousand dollars for any one year. And also grant aid to the establishment and maintenance of a home for soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women, who aided in the Confederacy, under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law; provided, the grant to aid said home shall not exceed one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for any one year and no amount of said homes shall be entitled to any other aid from the State. The Legislature may provide for the husband and wife to remain together, and the home and property of said husband shall not be considered to prevent the grant of aid in case of public calamity.

SEC. 2. The Governor of the State is hereby directed to issue the necessary orders for the submission of this amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Texas at the regular election of State officers in November, 1910.

The sum of $5,000.00, or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to pay the expenses of carrying out the provisions of this Resolution.

Markets

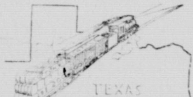

It is important to properly market as well as to properly raise farm products. You are a producing country and therefore interested in markets and market facilities for your products. The world's average in two acres of cultivated land per capita while in Texas we have seven acres of cultivated land per capita leaving a surplus production of five acres of cultivated land for each individual which must be sold. The world's average in consumption of cotton is thirteen bales per 1,000 population. In Texas we raise one thousand bales of cotton per one thousand population or one bale per capita. We have a surplus production of 981 bales of cotton per one thousand population for sale. Texas produces 20 per cent of the cotton of the world and on a per capita basis uses one fourth of one per cent. We not only produce a large surplus but, through lack of diversification, concentrate our production making a deficit in certain lines of production, equally as abnormal as our surplus production in other lines. We are a people of producers and interested in receiving a high price for our products. An increase of one cent per pound in the market price of cotton on this basis of production will place in the hands of the Texas producers of cotton a $20,000,000 and take out of the pockets of the Texas consumers of cotton goods $20,000,000 leaving a trade balance of $19,750,000 in our favor, says the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association.

"Balance in Favor of Texas Producer."

Our prosperity depends upon the producer getting a high price for his products. The Farmers Associations, Fruit and Truck Growers Associations and all organizations and influences that tend to raise the price of products should be encouraged by all the people.

Texas is most seriously in need of diversification other than perhaps any other state in the union. Our principle products are cotton and cattle and the entire crop of the cotton field and the production pass through the factory before they are consumed. The Texas farmers ship a 200,000 of raw material daily to the factories out side the state and ship a portion of this back as a consumer.

"Raw Material Leaving Texas Daily."

The average must raise the freight to the factory and although his products are sold the owner must foot the bill for the sale of the goods. By moving his raw material to Texas we create the market in Texas and minimize the expense of transportation.

HE COULD NOT ESCAPE IT

Flight Was Vain, for Policeman Took Him Back to Button His Wife's Dress.

A little man slunk out of a house, glanced up apprehensively at its front windows, then darted down the street. Before he had traversed 20 steps, however, he found himself in the clutches of a policeman.

"Let me go, officer!" he pleaded, as the grim custodian of the law held him fast.

"Not much I won't. What are you acting so suspiciously around here for, eh?"

"I live in that house there," was the discomfited man's explanation. "Let me go, I say."

"Oh, you live there, do you? Come, that's too thin. You just walk back to that house with me and prove it."

"But my wife is getting ready to spend the day out. You'll get me in a fix, officer."

"That's what I'm paid for. Step lively, now, and we'll see what your name is."

So back they went, the officer tightly clutching his protesting charge. When the front door of the house in point was reached an upper window flew up and a woman's head popped out.

"Oh, was he trying to sneak off, Mr. Policeman?" she sweetly asked.

"He was, ma'am. He says he lives here."

"He does, officer; thank you; he's my husband."

The policeman stared.

"But bring him in," she continued. "I want him to button the back of my dress before he goes down to his office. A job like that is about all he's good for."
