Twenty-five Years Ago in The News

The items below were taken in whole or in part from the issues of the Foard County News of May 29, June 5-12, 1908.

A singing class was organized May 18 at the Catesville school with I. M. Cates as president; W. W. Kimsey, vice-president; Mattie Ford, secretary-treasurer; Eva Brown, assistant; Tom Worley, Walter and Frank Cates, leaders. Prof. Dunagan's kind instruction for the past ten days has been a great help.

The citizens of the town met at the court house Sunday afternoon to discuss the matter of fighting the frosty joint at this place and $100 was made up to be used in assisting the officers in any way needed to fight it.

F. A. McKenzie of Dallas is here organizing what is called the Crowell Benefit Ass'n. This is simply a mutual insurance order.

Benjamin has set a commendable example for dealing with frosty joints. They bought the establishment, set fire to it and warned the manager that if another one should be placed there he would be handled without moves.

That there is serious need of better parental control of children in Crowell outside of the home, is evident to every observer. There is absolutely no cause for droves of children constantly parading the aisle or a building in which people seated are listening to an address or sermon. It certainly is high time that something ought to be done about a number of Crowell children.

Dave Thomson's dwelling in the northwestern portion of Crowell was destroyed by fire last Friday morning. He and his family were gone from the home only a short time when the fire occurred.

The W. O. W. corner stone laying took place June 6. Judge Cole gave the welcome address. Dr. R. L. Kincaid gave an address on Woodcraft, as did Hon. Harry Mason of Vernon. Music was furnished by the Crowell band.

Mrs. Henry Berger of Ponca Lake, Pa., recently won the bucksaw championship in the annual wood chopping and sawing contest at Skytop, Pa.

Elinor Smith, aviatrix, has 1,600 flying hours to her credit, she revealed recently at Roosevelt Field, L. I., in announcing her transport pilot's license has been renewed.

Miss Mary Norman Hopkins of Gadsden, Ala., will be social secretary to Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, first American woman diplomat, who is minister to Denmark.

Chief of Farm Job

ABILENE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE ENROLLMENT GAINS 26 PER CENT

Abilene, Texas—With a twenty-six per cent increase in enrollment over that of last year, Abilene Christian College is closing one of the most successful years in the history of the school. The twenty-seventh annual commencement of the institution is to be held on May 29 in Sewell Auditorium on the college campus. Thirty-seven seniors will be graduated, having successfully completed the required work for either the B. A. or B. S. degree.

The Abilene Christian College Summer school is to begin June 2. James P. Cox, president of Abilene Christian College, states, "We are expecting a large summer school, and practically all of the regular faculty will be retained. Several visiting professors have also been secured for the summer."

IN LITTLE OLD NEW YORK CARL H. GETZ

If you are planning to lead your life through Manhattan you must have a boy at the head of each steer. It's what the city's code of ordinances says, anyway.

Some women in New York are wearing flowers made out of mother-pearl. They can be washed when they get dirty.

There is an octopus in Chicago—an aquarium, of course—which has his dinners direct by plane from the Battery Aquarium in New York. His dinner consists of crabs.

You can buy white mice in New York for four and a half cents each. There was a time when you had to pay as much as 31 cents. The city's health department bought 7,500 mice the other day for experimental purposes.

If you can use a couple of guinea pigs, you can buy them when you come to New York for about twenty cents each. They used to bring as high as $1.34 each.

You won't believe it but snakes in New York are commanding more money than ever before. A garter snake sells for 75 cents. A python brings as high as $350.

A good many New Yorkers are studying amateur magic. The toy shops report an unusual demand for magicians's kit.

New York plumbers call themselves sanitary engineers.

It is planned to open a row of second-hand book stalls near Bryant Park. Buying books on the street will interest many a visitor.

There will be many more to follow before bleak October winds blow, but here is the first bathing beauty winner of the 1933 season. She is Miss Laura Hoover, of Santa Monica, Calif., who annexed a beautiful cup her first time out in a bathing beauty parade at Deserville Club at Santa Monica.

There is a big business man in New York who hasn't read a single book in his library of several thousand volumes but he never misses his ten cent detective story magazine before he goes to sleep at night.

Was in a cafe the other night when I noticed that a woman at an adjoining table was wearing silver-plated finger nails.

Now that beer has come back, they are selling less milk in New York.

TO THE SENIOR CLASS OF CROWELL HIGH SCHOOL

We congratulate each member of the graduating class of 1933. You have done a great task well. You have been sharpening the tools with which you will build your future career. Your friends, neighbors, and your relatives as well as your teachers are showering congratulations and praising you for your courage, your persistence and your fine accomplishment. Society will applaud you because you are now more useful than you would have been had you not graduated.

But your high school career has given you general and not specific training. It has laid the foundation upon which you can and should build a structure of exact technical education that will double and treble your ability to do, and after all, that is what the world is demanding today—action!

The tools with which you are to work need some additional polishing. They must have a keener edge if you are to compete with the millions of other workmen who have not only gone through the same grind that you have, but who have submitted themselves to further discipline which has put keen, cutting edges upon their mental tools and has given them confidence in their own ability to do superior work in whatever field they may invade.

In short, the class of 1933, if you are to compete with other young men and young women, you will have to add to your present education in order that you may have the sureness and confidence as well as the skill that specific training affords. Your own experience, as well as your observation, has taught you that opportunity, like a fast train, never stops at flag stations. If you are ready when opportunity comes along, you have a chance "to grasp it by the forelock" but let it pass you, and your chance is gone forever.

There has never been a more important time for young people to train themselves for business. The affairs of the world are based upon business, and if you want to get ahead and are not satisfied to remain in your present environment throughout your entire life, you will never find a more ideal time to train than now.

Young people who look forward to attending a business college where the very highest type of training can be had are invited to write to the Tyler Commercial College of Business Administration for "ACHIEVING SUCCESS IN BUSINESS," which is the school's current catalog. Specific information will be cheerfully given and our earnest, sincere cooperation will be available without obligation to any one interested. Use the coupon below.

The Biggest News Since Fresh Gas...

That Good Gulf Gasoline is now lubricated!

Gulf stations from Maine to Mexico are now offering a motor fuel that surpasses everything that has gone before.

This great fuel is new in everything but name. It actually gives greater mileage and cuts repair costs—because it lubricates the upper cylinder and valves.

The new lubricating Good Gulf Gasoline contains an upper cylinder lubricant made by an exclusive Gulf process. This lubricant—correctly blended with that Good Gulf Gasoline, the famous fresh gas —makes today's greatest non-premium fuel for modern motors!

It lubricates the intake valves, prevents sticking, and forms little or no carbon!

If you want to get more and lower cost miles out of a gallon of gas, try the new Good Gulf Gasoline today. It doesn't cost a penny more.

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself. The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery. There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before. My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice. Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users. We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world. We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer -- it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect. I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it. The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience. We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

Crowell Loses Ten Inning Contest To Burkburnett Nine

Crowell lost another thrilling ball game here Sunday when Burkburnett scored the winning run in the tenth inning as the result of an error by Crowell's third baseman in throwing the ball over the first baseman's head, which allowed a visiting player to score.

The contest was a nice pitchers' battle, with Alexander having the edge, allowing only 3 hits in the 10 innings. Rasberry allowed 8 hits, but kept them well scattered and only in one inning did he allow more than one hit. Neither pitcher allowed an earned run. Not a put out was made in the outfield on either side.

Origin of "Dun"

The word "dun" owes its origin to one Joe Dun, a famous bailiff of London, in the time of Henry VII. He is said to have been so extremely shrewd in the management of his rough business and so dextrous in the collection of dues that his name became proverbial, and whenever a man refused to pay his debts it grew into a prevalent custom to say, "Why don't you dun him?"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Jesus Faces Betrayal and Denial.

Lesson for June 4th. Mark 14:10-72.

Golden Text: Isaiah 53: 3.

Our lesson introduces to us one of the most tragic characters in the Bible, the disciple whom Jesus failed to win. Now Judas presents a very baffling problem to the interpreter of human motives. On the one hand, it is easy to be too lenient in our judgment. DeQuincy, for example, maintains that Judas betrayed his Master from the highest motives, in order that Jesus might demonstrate His power, overthrow His enemies, and reign as King. On the other hand, it is easy to be too harsh, to picture the traitor as altogether black, with no saving grace whatever. The fact is that he was very human. Both good and bad.

The pathos of his pitiful career lies in the fact that he might have been a saint, but chose to be a devil! He had the best chance in the world to make good. And he made shipwreck of his opportunity. Daily he stood with the Master at the gates of heaven, but he chose hell's path instead. And how many there are that follow in his wake! Can anything be done for them? No, for God cannot save those who wilfully rebel against Him.

We also have in our lesson the words of institution of the Lord's Supper. This blessed feast is first a memorial rite in obedience to the command. "This do in remembrance of Me." It is also a great act of consecration, for it is a sacrament, a word that means, in the Latin, an oath of allegiance. Furthermore, it is an expression of Thanksgiving, a sacrifice of praise. Then, too, it is a symbol of the united fellowship of Christendom, for all Christians to gather about the Lord's Table. Finally, it is a Communion, a time when we humbly, but joyfully experience the real grace of God in Christ.

The lesson contains too the sad tale of Peter's denial. If Peter, the Rock, a tower of strength, could repudiate his Master in an hour of crisis, may it not be that you and I will also fall? God help us to be on our guard!

SERMONETTE

WAR AND THE LORD'S PRAYER

By Arthur B. Rhinow

In his patriotic novel, "The Deluge," Henry Sienkiewicz, the famous Polish author, introduces a character of whom it is said that he knows war as well as he knows the Lord's Prayer.

This means to say, of course, that the gentleman referred to is a good soldier, for if he knows war as well as he knows the Lord's Prayer, he knows it very well. Who in Christendom does not know the Lord's Prayer? Rouse a man from his sleep and ask him to say the Lord's Prayer and he will recite it without a mistake. Hold up a man on a dark road and demand the Lord's Prayer of him, and he will respond without a pause. I think anybody would be ashamed to admit that he did not know the Lord's Prayer. So well is it known.

But do we know it? Some day, take a half hour from your leisure routine and try to ponder the meaning of each petition in that prayer. You will never spend thirty minutes more profitably, and you are likely

Champion High School Orators of U. S.

Here are the four champion high school orators of the United States for 1935, crowned at the national meet at Wooster, O. No. 1, Caryl Arnold, Grand Rapids, Mich. (humorous); No. 2, Harold Stark, Granite City, Ill. (oratorical); No. 3, Gene Davis, Cicero, Ill. (original oratory); No. 4, Robert Danham, Sioux Falls, S. D. (extempore) to exclaim, "Why, I never knew the Lord's Prayer."

How thoughtlessly we pray. I believe we often use the Lord's name in vain when we say the Lord's Prayer.

And if the Polish nobleman knew war no better than some people know the Lord's Prayer, then he knew nothing more than the mechanics of warfare. But war is more than just weapons and strategy and the thrill of the fight. If he knew war as we ought to know the Lord's Prayer, he knew of man's selfishness and greed that cause bloody conflicts, together with the long trail of suffering they entail.

To know the Lord's Prayer thoroughly is to love it; to know war thoroughly is to hate it.

USING NEWSPAPERS

How to reach a large number of customers or prospective customers most economically and effectively is a problem which still worries a great many business men. But it was really solved long ago, and the answer is this: Print your message in the newspapers.

Recently a Detroit electric company which serves 500,000 customers in nearly 200 cities and smaller communities wanted to send them a series of letters. After considering various methods of distributing these messages, it was decided to use local newspapers exclusively. The first letter sent out, signed by the president of the company, began as follows:

"We have a lot of interest to tell you which are of interest because you are our customers. We might get your attention by circulars delivered at your door, or by radio broadcast. But we think the best way to reach you is by successive letters in the newspapers, of which this is the first."

In certain special cases the use of circulars or the radio may be fairly effective, but for definite results economically obtained no advertising medium ever devised even approaches the family newspaper.

Scurlock county agent. The owner, I. B. Bell, states that this tract has paid him $800 more than he would have made had he not used improved methods during the last eight years. In 1931 the plot produced 45 bushels of corn and 15 bushels of peas per acre without fertilizer, and in 1932 produced one bale of cotton per acre. When taken over by Mr. Bell the land was almost

Radio Fans Will Hear Grand Canyon Program

"The rim of the Grand Canyon is one of the stillest places on earth," says Carveth Wells, Contingent Oil Company radio entertainer. "This is even true when there are hundreds of people there standing down into this mile-deep chasm, grandeur of it renders them speechless."

"Furthermore," says Wells, "many people attempt to describe the Canyon. Those who do, including myself, deserve to be shot." We attempt to picture this wonder of the world, however, will be heard during the regular Wednesday night Comoco program on June 7, which will be broadcast by 20 N. B. stations.

The Comoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in stations WFAA, WOAI or KX on Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by ELINORE BARRY

Twelfth Installment

Joyce Ashton, poor sufferer, suffered loss of memory following a taxi accident in the city. One morning two years ago, after a fall from her horse, she awoke, to find her memory restored, to find Frills, the wife of Neil, rich California fruit packer, determined to tell nobody of her life in the past. From the conversation of Frills and letters in her desk she gathered that she had been a pleasure-loving young girl. One letter that troubled her was from a woman signing herself as 'Bliss' for not giving up a baby Sophie was carrying. Could it be her baby, Frills asked? She also found herself in an affair with a man named Maitland. In San Francisco, she went while her husband was away on business, she met a man named Ainsworth, a poet whose name she had always admired. When he returned home, she decided to tell him about her life. But this line was dangerous, for Neil was pathetically anxious to win back Frills' love.

GO ON WITH THE STORY.

It was evident that Neil was blowing steam which had accumulated for some time, and secretly his spirits rose a little. She was that he was asserting himself, had an odd little feeling—odd you considered that he was a man of actual experience, nothing of her—of pride in his outburst. It seemed to her more than ever that she was a separate individual, like a first wife. She was moving Packard's emotion and filled an overwhelming desire to erase that look from his face.

She was not trying to put anything on you. I . . . I don't blame you for not believing me now, but I'm telling the truth about it. I know I've been pretty . . . but now . . . she paused, as so difficult to say what she had to say. A mixture of shyness and the unaccustomedness of her feelings into words, held her for a moment. But again she wanted to make Neil realize that she wanted to be friends with him, in the future he would not have to worry about her actions, drove her head knocked a little . . . into me.

Impulse alone Joyce suddenly closed to him and smiled up at his face a little tremulously. "Please, let's start over," she said, "and after this . . . well, expect me to be any white-angel, but I'll try not to worry you. I was unable to say more, for he abruptly drew her close to him and kissed her again and again, bringing words of grateful surprise and happiness. "Frills, darling, I love you so, sweetheart! You really mean it, don't you? I'll do everything I can to make it worth while—help you if you really mean it." She, submitting to his caresses, and said ruefully that she had never been so much kissed in her life as she had been since she woke in Mrs. Packard's bed. Gently she tried to get herself. Poor Neil! He did not seem to believe that any such thing as this had happened. She was again, all her joy in the day, knowing that he would go to work filled with hope for the security of his home and happiness.

Of course, I mean it. But you don't take my word for it. Just take a thirty days' trial. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money returned," she replied lightly, slipping her arms, "better run along to your job, you might lose your job. And forget our date at five this afternoon."

"You bet I won't! Gee, but . . . I wish I didn't have to go down to the office. I feel like going—"

"You go along!" exclaimed Joyce, who had at the threatened loss of freedom and feeling the need of a rest after a strain of this kind. "I can't have you go all day. I'm going to be right. And say, if anything comes up you'd rather do this afternoon, it's all right, you know. You go to mother's some other day."

When the date is made. If it's broken, it's your doing." Joyce found Sam about to mount the horse. "Oh, Sam, where are you going?" "Mr. Packard asked me to take some papers to Jake Anson, up beyond Elk Flat in the hills, a long way from the road, so I'd better ride Barney," said Sam. "Well, couldn't I go with you?" asked Joyce. She was still a nervous about going alone, all the trails were so unfamiliar. "Sure, I'll saddle Rosita," said Joyce. She got back at noon after a four-hour ride, during which she had much about the country and possibilities for horseback riding, as informed by Roxie that she had missed two sets of callers. Joyce played with Dickie in the garden for half an hour after lunch, then retired to her room to rest and read until time for Neil's return. "I'm out to every one, Roxie," she gave definite instructions. "I don't care if it's the Prince of Wales."

At four-thirty she dressed carefully and then waited for Neil to appear. She was pleased when she heard him arriving at ten minutes before five, an evidence that he intended to take no chances of missing their appointment.

When he came in and saw Joyce in the living room, obviously ready to go, his anxious look turned into a positive beam of pleasure and relief.

"Hullo, Frills, all ready to go? Fine!" and as Joyce got up he approached her with the intention of kissing her. But she stepped aside

She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulder and made it plain that she preferred to avoid his greeting. To her relief he did not press the matter.

"How's the Duesenberg working?" he inquired as they went out together.

"Oh, it's all right," replied Joyce indifferently. She went up to Neil's big blue car and waited for him to open the front door.

"Don't you want to go in your roadster?" asked Neil in surprise, stopping beside the car.

"No, I don't like the color of it," retorted Joyce, and suppressing a smile, she continued hastily, "anyhow, I prefer to have you drive today."

Packard got in and started the engine without further delay. They drove down the main street of Manzanita where they were greeted right and left by a bewildering number of people and Joyce was on pins and needles for fear Neil would stop to talk to any of them. After half an hour during which she grew more nervous every minute—what in the world would she say to Neil's mother?—they stopped finally at a charming little bungalow covered with rose vines and surrounded by a garden of beautiful flowers. They entered a friendly, low-ceilinged room paneled in white with wide windows framing a view of distant mountains across the valley.

Mrs. Packard rose to meet them and Neil, kissing her, said gently, "Well, mother, here we are, come to make a little call, Frills and I."

you suppose we could be friends, after all? Or has Frills . . . have I been too awful?"

To her dismay she saw Mrs. Packard's eyes fill with quick tears and a flush mount to her forehead. "My dear, my dear, nothing would make me happier than to . . . to be able to be a friend to my son's wife," she replied, her lips quivering. "To have you want it!" She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulders.

"I'm coming again soon, alone, and then we'll . . . we'll get acquainted," stammered Joyce. She rose and lifting her head nearer, kissed Mrs. Packard lightly. Then she ran out of the room to Neil.

When they got back to the house Joyce was relieved to find that they had no company.

"Let's see what's on the radio tonight?" suggested Neil. Joyce assented, rather curious to hear. She soon discovered that Neil's idea of enjoying the radio was to spend all his time and effort trying to get distant stations.

Joyce, bored finally at the superlatives of the unseen speaker who was boasting enthusiastically for the glories of California, got up and said goodnight, hoping that Neil would remain downstairs.

Packard immediately shut off the radio and announced his intention of accompanying her. By the air of happy expectation on his face, Joyce realized that she was about to reap the inevitable results of her friendliness toward him that day.

She decided this time to take no chance of repeating the soap incident and when they reached the bedroom she turned to him and said, "Good-night, Neil, I'm going to read for a while."

"But, Frills sweetheart," he began, detaining her, "you've been so wonderful today and—I love you so! I want you so, dear." He drew her closer into his arms whispering the last words close to her ear. "Such adorable little ears!" he said, kissing them again and again. "I'd be so happy if I were sure of you!"

"Listen, Neil," she said quietly, "won't you, if I ask you as a favor to me and as a return for being what you call reasonable and sensible, won't you please let me sleep in the other room without asking questions and going through this sort of thing every night?"

Her manner evidently made an impression on him for he released her immediately, saying, "I'm sorry, dear, it's just that I love you so." He paused and added hesitatingly, "But—will you come on your own accord when you are ready?"

"Of course," promised Joyce hastily, suddenly extremely embarrassed by the conversation after her good-night again and went off to her room and shut the door.

Summer Vacationists

Should Guard Health

As the summer season approaches, a word of warning is timely to prospective campers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, summer vacationists, fishermen, and others who enjoy getting out into the open, relative to the possible dangers that may be encountered from the standpoint of contracting infection under the changed environment. This is especially true of diseases that may be transmitted through food and water supplies.

Typhoid fever is a disease the amount of which is greatest, as a rule, where there is the least sanitation. It is an unnecessary and preventable disease. It is spread from person to person by water, milk, fingers, flies, and food. Every case is contracted by taking into the mouth some substance contaminated with typhoid organisms, and these occur only in nature in the bowel and bladder discharges of persons sick with typhoid or from carriers, persons who have had typhoid and who after recovery still harbor the germs in their systems.

Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced or where food handlers are not regularly examined should protect themselves against this disease and the immunity established is good for two years. The purity of water or milk cannot be judged by looking at it. Play safe and have your doctor protect you.

James R. Cox of Chicago had Mrs. Sarah Black arrested for pulling off his wooden leg and keeping it as security for unpaid rent.

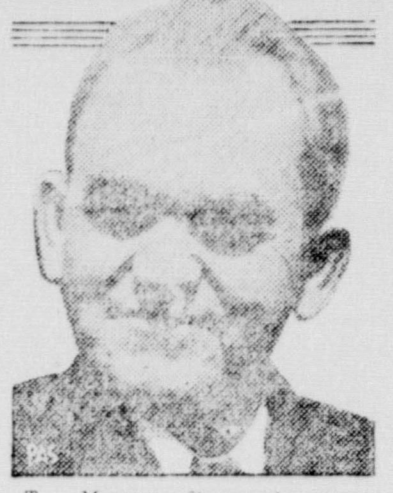

Even the chandeliers were taken by burglars who invaded the home of Mrs. Dora Strzyzewski of Detroit.

George Kline of Wolfsville, Md., is spending 20 days in jail because his automobile license plates were covered with mud; the tags were seven years old, the front number did not jibe with the rear.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Long walked to London from Glasgow, a distance of 334 miles.

Two hundred cards on which the Lord's Prayer was printed were stolen from the automobile of V. S. Wilson while it was parked in Bloomington, Ill.

The Johnson Service Station of Crowell, 3 blocks south of the square has just taken on a full supply of FALLS Super-Lube oil, that good Falls straight-run gas and the finest of all motor fuels—Falls SUPER-AVIATION Red gas.

The Falls Refining Co. feels fortunate in being chosen by J. N. Johnson, owner and manager of this station, to supply it in the future with petroleum products. Mr. Johnson has been in the filling station business for many years and has established an enviable reputation for square dealing at all times. His station will be supplied from the local wholesale plant of Roy Hanna's Cash Independent.

FARMERS! MAKE A BETTER PROFIT ON WHEAT

For the third successive wheat harvest, Roy Hanna's Cash Independent will prove the means of helping farmers of this section to realize a better profit from their wheat crop and here's how—Mr. Farmer cannot regulate the price of wheat—but he can lower the cost of production and harvesting and that's where Hanna turns the trick.

By serving the farmers with better petroleum products at lower prices he has helped them to reduce harvesting and production costs. Through the use of FALLS Super-Lube (100% Paraffine Base) Oils the farmers have also saved costly repair bills and have secured smoother and better operation of their motors and machinery.

If you want to save money this harvest, and yet do not wish to sacrifice quality on petroleum products, then come and talk things over at Hanna's station. You always have a cordial welcome here.

Truscott Girl Will Graduate at C. I. A.; Presented in Recital

The following news item was taken from the Denton Record Chronicle of May 1:

"Miss Virginia Browder was presented in Senior piano recital by the C. I. A. Music Department Monday evening and was well received by an enthusiastic audience. Her program of four difficult numbers was opened by 'Fantasy in C Minor' by Mozart, followed by 'Concert Etude Campanade,' a characteristic group of four Debussy numbers was given, and the program closed with Grieg 'Concerto'.

"In all these selections Miss Browder showed a technique revealing the many beauties of ideas and designs of the composers and displaying unusual judgment in tempering her natural effusiveness for delicate effects and more subtle meanings. She is the pupil of Miss Elizabeth Leake."

Miss Browder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Browder of Truscott. She receives her B. M. Degree from C. I. A. this June and will be home immediately after the presentation of the degrees.
