Destitute Families to Get Mattresses Beginning Oct. 1st

Austin, Sept. 26.—Distribution of mattresses to destitute families of Texas likely will be started by October 1, officials of the Texas Relief Commission said today. Seven hundred mattresses were manufactured in Texas plants last week and production will be increased as all of the designated plants begin operations. First to receive the benefits of this commodity distribution will be those families actually without mattresses. A survey by caseworkers to determine the number of such clients in each county will be taken and orders will be placed with the state commission on this basis. "It will be impossible to reach all of the counties at the same time due to the slow production but we expect to reach them all before winter," C. Z. Crain, in charge of production, said. County administrators have been instructed to see that old mattresses do not get back into circulation. Clients will not be allowed to sell old mattresses to second hand dealers and administrators were urged to burn them as a health measure.

Brass Overcoat Button Used as Seal for First Texas Emblem in 1835

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 23. (Special.)—The first use of a five-pointed star as the emblem of Texas was in 1835 when a brass button, cut from an overcoat, was used as a seal.

Smith was named governor at a meeting held at San Felipe (Austin County.) Needing some kind of a seal for official documents, he cut off one of the decorative buttons on his overcoat and it was used as the seal.

This historic button may or may not be in existence today. It would be a most interesting relic for exhibition in 1936, when the Centennial of Texas independence is to be celebrated at San Antonio.

Texas Health Ass'n. Meets in Abilene October 3rd to 5th

Austin, Texas, Sept. 26.—The twelfth annual meeting of the Texas Public Health Association will be held at the Wooten Hotel in Abilene, October 3-5, stated Dr. T. J. McCamant, president.

Besides the general meeting, there will be special sections for nurses, laboratory workers, and full time health officers.

installment of interest, and further that the unpaid balances of principal upon which an extension of time is granted shall bear interest during said period of extension at the rate provided for in the contract of purchase.

One of the principal arguments in favor of the bill was the Permanent School Fund would be injured unless it was passed.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Moffett in regard to the bill:

"This bill applies to quite a good deal of school land in our part of the State. Each alternate section of land in our section of Texas is school land, and was purchased from the State by pioneer settlers, under the Acts of 1837 and 1835.

"The 40 year period is about up, and much of the land, (mostly grazing land) has not been paid out. And in most cases the landowners are not in a position to pay the money due.

"The State still has a first lien on the land, which amply protects the State. And the landowner must still pay interest to the State (which interest goes into the State permanent school fund) at the same rate, that he has always paid on the deferred payments.

"This is a good bill, as it fully protects the State, and extends a breathing spell to the landowners. It has passed both the House and the Senate, the Governor will sign it within two or three days. It affects considerable land in each county in my district."

Opposes Special Session

In reference to the rumors of another special session, Mr. Moffett stated that he was very much opposed to it.

Department, American Public Health Association, and State Medical Association.

The program will consist of discussions of health work possible with relief funds, milk sanitation, water and sewage, public health nursing, health legislation, and communicable disease control.

THE BOOK

... the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON

MARK TRAVELS WITH SAUL

Saul's conversion was instantaneous, yet its development was most interesting. Instead of arresting any one in Damascus, he at once announced his change of convictions, and had to escape from the city by means of a basket let down from the wall.

Bruce Barton

For three years he retired to Arabia. When he emerged he had a definite plan. He would go back to Jerusalem to be welcomed by the disciples, and so he would naturally choose him as their leader, and so he would become minister of the First Church in Jerusalem.

Rebuffed but still ardent, he went to his old home in Tarsus, a Greek city, where he had been born, a Jew but with full right of Roman citizenship, a fact of which he was immensely proud and of which he took full advantage.

After a very successful work in Antioch, Barnabas and Saul proposed to visit the old home of Barnabas in the island of Cyprus, and to preach as they went. This they did, and took with them Mark, who was a nephew of Barnabas.

And now an occasion of irritation arose. Barnabas was the leader of this journey, but Saul everywhere became the more prominent character. Barnabas was evidently a tall impressive man; Paul much smaller, more active, and nervous.

Mark did not like the way things were going. His uncle Barnabas was the really great man, but Saul was taking the lion's share of the honors. Mark made himself disagreeable, and Saul did not like Mark.

Thus far there had been no serious quarrel in the church, but the calm was about to be broken.

and punted out on Vernon's 18. Gibson picked up 3. McKown returned Smith's punt 5 yards to his 48. Todd broke loose around left end for 30 yards and the initial first down of the game.

After the Lions had shoved over their second touchdown in the third quarter, Crowell marched right down the field after receiving the kick-off to score its second and final touchdown of the night.

Tough Break Results A heart-breaking penalty, but justified nevertheless, kept Crowell from having a touchdown lead at the end of the first half.

Todd's sensational performance, offensively and defensively, throughout the game definitely established him as the outstanding star on either team.

Evenly Matched on Yardage Figures on net yardage gained during the game indicated a more evenly matched contest than the score did.

First Quarter With Crowell receiving, Barton's kick-off was taken by Brisco, who was downed on the 28-yard line.

With Crowell receiving, Barton's kick-off was taken by Brisco, who was downed on the 28-yard line. Todd gained 8 yards in three tries and punted out-of-bounds on Crowell's 49.

Smith took Todd's punt on his 40, returned 7 yards and fumbled. Saunders recovering for Crowell on Vernon's 49. Horn dropped Gafford's pass. Todd gained 5 yards. His pass to Gafford failed. Todd punted over the goal line and Vernon took the ball on his 20. Burch gained 2. Smith made 4. Smith's punt was blocked by a teammate and recovered by the Owens for Crowell on Vernon's 17.

Todd broke through for 10 to Vernon's 7. Todd failed to gain. Todd gained 3. Todd's attempted pass was knocked down. Todd went across the goal line, but hurdled an opponent right at the zero line and a 15-yard penalty was assessed. On the final play of the first half, Todd picked up 10 yards around right end.

Third Quarter Gibson of Vernon returned Todd's kick-off 12 yards to his 38. From this point the Vernon backs started a sustained drive through Crowell's line that took them to the 12-yard line, from which Smith spun through for a touchdown. Barton's place-kick for extra point was low and the score was: Vernon 13, Crowell 6.

Todd returned Barton's kick-off from his 5 to the 35. Todd gained 2 and then quick-kicked to Smith who returned 10 yards to his 35. Again Vernon started a touchdown drive, steady gains on line plays taking the ball to the 4, from which Burch tore through for a touchdown. Gafford blocked Barton's place-kick and the score was: Vernon 19, Crowell 6.

Dunn returned Barton's kick-off from the 20 to the 37. Todd's pass to Gibson gained 6. Todd hit the line for 5 and then went through to Vernon's 49. Meason gained 16 yards on a pass from Gafford. Todd raced through left tackle for 12 yards. Horn took Todd's pass for 17 yards to the 4. Time out for Vernon. Gafford caught Todd's pass across the goal line for a touchdown. Todd's place-kick struck the cross bar and dropped back. Score: Vernon 19, Crowell 12.

Price took Todd's kick-off on the 33 and was stopped on the 35 by Dunn as the quarter ended.

Last Quarter Vernon again started on a march for a touchdown, using line plays only except for one pass, which was incomplete. After reaching the 4-yard line, Burch sliced through left tackle for a touchdown. Smith's kick from placement was good and the score was: Vernon 26, Crowell 12.

Gibson returned the kick-off 18 yards to the 41. Thomas stopped Todd for a 6-yard loss. Todd's pass failed. Todd gained 6. His punt was killed on Vernon's 43. Smith gained 8 and Burch 3. Nichols substituted for Jones, but talked and Crowell was penalized 5 yards. Smith gained 8 yards putting the ball on Crowell's 32. Smith gained 4. Vernon was penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. Burch made 4. Smith fumbled and lost 5 yards. Smith punted to McKown, who was downed in his tracks by Thomas on the 7.

Todd gained 2. Todd gained 3, but fumbled and Vernon recovered on the 12. Smith gained 4. Burch added 3. Coffee was stopped by Todd for no gain. On the 4th down, Burch followed perfect interference to cross the goal line. Smith's place-kick was wide. Score: Vernon 32, Crowell 12.

Barton kicked off twice out-of-bounds with the result that Crowell took the ball on its 40. Todd's pass to Gafford put the ball on Vernon's 47, a gain of 13 yards. A second pass to Gafford failed. Todd's pass to Sam Crews, Jr., gained 7 yards and put the ball on Vernon's 40 as the game ended.

Thanks for the hearty response to our appeal in last week's paper for larger attendance. We had an increase of 52 at church services and 16 for Sunday School. I wish to thank the young people for the fine pounding they gave us Monday night. This is the first time I have received in sixteen years' ministry from the young people. I appreciate the pounding for it's intrinsic value and also for the fact that it shows our young people are thinking for themselves and initiating projects. I understand that they are to undertake other church projects on their own initiative. May our old or people take courage that our young people are assuming responsibilities in making sacrifices and also taking their places of leadership in teaching and in supporting an orphan of three years of age; now that their former orphan, whom they clothed, is out on his own resources and making a useful citizen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

God in Hebrew History.
Lesson for September 30th.
Hebrews 11:32-40.

Golden Text: Psalm 145:13.
This is a review lesson when we rehearse the warnings and ideals taught by the kings and prophets with whom we have companioned this third quarter. The lesson text is taken from that magnificent chapter in the letter to the Hebrews upon the heroes of the faith.

Now we have come very close these 3 months to certain figures of high stature in the company of God's chosen. Amongst the kings we have met Asa and Hezekiah. And of the prophets Elijah, Elisha, Amos, Hosea, and Isaiah have shared their courage and high insight with us. As we think of these noble figures shining so brightly in the pages of the Good Book we are at once reminded that they were selected and trained by God Himself to accomplish their significant work. The God of the Bible does not preside over a society on a dead level of equality, but He chooses certain of His children to occupy a high place of influence above their fellows.

The technical name for this doctrine is predestination, a word very dear to the heart of John Calvin, "the guide of republics," as Bancroft, the historian, called him. It has wonderfully advanced the cause of civil liberty, because it has produced a succession of leaders who have felt responsible to God alone, and so have not hesitated to defy men in high position. The prophets we have just studied were certainly men of this stewart type. And down through the ages God has given to mankind worthy successors. Take so stout a champion of freedom as John Knox of whom Queen Elizabeth's ambassador said: "The voice of this single man can put more heart in us than five hundred trumpets."

But we must not forget that God has chosen you and me. We are of the elect. We are privileged folk ordained for the great task of completing what Amos and the other Bible prophets began long ago. As the close of our lesson text says, God "would not have them perfected apart from us."

Christian Science Services
"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 30. The Golden Text is: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise think on these things" (Philippians 4:8.)
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Matthew 5:48.)
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we learn in Science how to be perfect even as our Father in heaven is perfect, thought is turned into new and healthy channels—towards the contemplation of things immortal and away

SYNOPSIS

Two weeks after a cream color roadster had been found in the sea at the foot of a cliff, a girl calling herself Anne appears at the desert town of Duane. Later she marries Barry and against her better judgment returns East with him to herself in daily conflict with her mother and Cleo Pendleton. Cleo bribes her chauffeur, Kennedy, whom she discovers in secret conversations with her mother and Barry. Barry succeeds in interesting Duane in his irrigation project in the West. Hurrying to get the good news to Anne, she tells Kennedy and follows him in a dingy hotel. Hidden in a waiting doorway, he watches Kennedy greet Anne and enter the room with her. Barry intercepts the meeting and takes Anne away, telling her that they will have a separation at some future date.

"I can't tell you. It isn't Barry? Why won't you believe that?"

"I wanted to believe, but that tormenting suspicion was gnawing at both of them to pieces. Believe that you can't tell? Yes, you don't leave me in any doubt of that."

"Anne quivered and looked at him. 'I've told you all that I can tell. She turned on him in a separate appeal—'Don't you love me enough—don't you love me enough to believe me when I say that no matter what happens may be, there was nothing wrong in my going to the second it came out of the familiar 'Jim Kennedy' been a mistake. Barry looked at a man almost persuaded, in the last words hot suspicion again."

"Trust you! I did trust you. I trust you that night when you were fresh from keeping a rendezvous with this same man. And you lied to me."

"I have told you all that I can. You've answered me." He said abruptly and walked to the door. With his hand on the knob he paused.

"I have this much more to say. There are some things which can be overlooked or forgiven—not men and wife. But I am going to have any open break in my wife over somebody's affair, nor have my mother's and mine dragged through a scandal. We'll go on for the present as we are, and at the same time the outward civility. And then if you still refuse to clear this up satisfactorily, you are through."

"I made no attempt to answer. There was something in her tone that hurt him savagely. If he had he'd be sweeping her into his arms and pleading with her. He jerked the door open and went without a backward glance. After the door had closed Anne stood there sick at heart. Barry expected her to stay, but Jim Kennedy had said that she must stay for a little, lying back in closed eyes, she wondered what would happen if she defied his orders—if she stayed and John Gage met her. Upstairs and ruin, and a slimy hail of abuse. She laughed with a note of hysteria, choking it and abruptly pulled herself out of the chair.

"She moved quietly around the room, opening drawers and closing them and dropping them on the floor. Indisision was gone.

"There was a tap on the door. It was Bertha, with a message.

"Mr. Barry sent me up to pack for you. He says he's called back to Marston, and can you be ready to leave tomorrow morning on the forty-three? He's just booked for reservations."

"A filmy garment dropped from her fingers. 'The seven-forty-three' she repeated blankly. Then she remembered the waiting Bertha. "Yes, Bertha, of course, I'll be ready. Here are some of my things. I've just been gathering them together."

"Anne went toward the window and looked out to conceal her face from the maid's too-friendly eyes. 'Will fight for him!' she thought. 'I won't let both of our lives be wrecked like this. I love you and when we're at the Perch I'll get him back.'"

"Cleo's blue roadster swept recklessly up the drive. A watchful woman sped down the steps.

"Send Kennedy to me," she ordered.

The footman was a new man, he seemed to be well trained. Cleo waited impatiently in the parlor. Here Kennedy came, an exasperated eight minutes late.

"Well, you've bungled your work nicely, haven't you?"

"Think so?" He was defiant in instant.

"I do! You undertook to see that Mrs. Duane left here within five minutes, and she disappeared completely, and alone. And early this morning they started back to that ranch. Together! Imbible!"

"I've done better than you think. If she and Duane are starting West on the same train it's for appearances, not for any joy ride. You'll probably find that one or the other of them will go on to Reno," he added significantly.

"Why?"

"Oh, Duane horned in while we were talking. At a place where I'd asked her to meet me."

Kennedy looked sharply at Miss Cleo Pendleton. The small childish face was lit for a second with a sort of greedy joy.

"Now that they've gone, I'd better hold myself ready to follow up and see that it goes through. I'll need money for that. How about letting me have the other five grand now? Cash this time."

Cleo considered it. "I will give you the ten thousand in cash and you may turn over the check."

"I couldn't think of asking it," Kennedy bowed politely. "Five thousand will be plenty. When the job is complete I can come back for the other five, and trade it in for the check."

Cleo could have killed him. "Very well. I will have it for you tomorrow at noon."

The door closed on Kennedy. In the hall the new footman appeared from across corridor and obligingly led Kennedy out. They exchanged a word or two, and the door closed. Kennedy paused for a second on the steps.

"There's something phoney about that bird," he reflected. "He was out of breath. I'll drift, as soon as I get the five grand."

He got it the next day. Inside of an hour he had sent in his notice, received his wages and was on his way to the station.

A few days later Kennedy's eyes picked up an item in the paper.

"Mr. and Mrs. Gage will leave next Friday on a trip to the Pacific coast."

Kennedy's eyes narrowed thoughtfully. Gage had business interests out there. It was not likely to be more than just coincidence. "I don't see how there could be anything in it," he reflected, "but it wouldn't hurt to be on hand."

Cleo saw the same item. She sat up suddenly. Nancy and Barry had gone West. The Gages were going West, ostensibly to the Coast, but Marston was on the way. Jim Kennedy, if he kept his word, was going west also.

"I don't suppose there can be anything in it," she thought. "But Barry knows the Gages, and he has been trying for years to get John Gage interested in that old valley. It's queer. I wish I had a decent excuse to follow them."

Anne was discovering that not even the beloved Perch could banish a tormenting devil of jealousy and suspicion. Things grew worse instead of better. As a slow week dragged by, each day held less hope of reconciliation.

Ling's bland face never betrayed anything. Anne was glad that Martha Larabee had gone back to Marston.

Martha had closed the little house at Trail's End only a week before their return. It was lonely. Sometimes she wished bitterly that she had never seen Barry Duane.

She rode Comet often, but always alone. She saw Barry in the distance one day, sitting Captain at a jutting point in the trail. Comet whickered a shrill greeting and Captain replied, but Barry merely turned his head, raised his hat and turned back.

Anne's face stung with angry heat. She'd rather be ordered out of the house than treated like a child in disgrace.

She went back to her own loneliness, and presently Barry came in, saying little. She was dropping her small efforts at cheerfulness now. She must have it out with him and end this, one way or another.

"Are you busy, Barry?"

"No." He put down the book he was reading.

"Don't you think it is time we came to a different understanding, Barry? You know we can't go on this way. I agree with you entirely. I am ready, and have been, whenever you want to do your part."

Her eyes closed for a moment. "But I have told you that there are things that I cannot explain, without—without involving other people. I've promised—you shouldn't ask me to break that."

"Other escapades do involve other people," he retorted.

"I've done rash things, I know, but nothing that I am ashamed of. Won't you believe that? You've got to, Barry. All the rest of our lives depends on it—just having some—some faith between us. If you can't have that, I'm going. I won't stay in your house like this. He was on his feet now, tramping impatiently up and down.

"How can you expect me to accept a situation like that blindly?"

He stopped in front of her and caught her arm in a close grip.

"Don't you know that I'd give up everything I have on earth to hear you say something which would set this hideous thing right? To have you back as you used to be—and to be able to take my wife back among my friends without—if he only hadn't said that,

Centennial Commission Set Up Headquarters in Dallas Last Week

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 19.—(Special)—Machinery to make the 1936 Texas Centennial celebration the outstanding event of the twentieth century has been set in motion here this week with the opening of headquarters for the Centennial commission.

The secretary is on the ground, and he is rapidly rounding out the organization of staff and field men whose business it will be to attend to the many details which are an inevitable part of an event of this kind.

The tremendousness of their task may be grasped when it is recalled that the legislature has required historical celebrations at San Antonio, Houston, Nacogdoches, Goliad, Gonzales, Huntsville, and other places of historic interest, together with the central exposition at Dallas. It is the purpose of the commission to make the celebration statewide in its nature, laying stress upon those happenings in early Texas history when her heroes laid the foundations of the great commonwealth that exists today.

Prior to their being set up here, the Centennial commission headquarters were in Austin. This was in accordance with the wish of the legislature's designation, through the commission, of the city where the central exposition will be held. Now that this city has been selected for that exposition, and headquarters opened here, the entire citizenry has set to work to do its part in making the celebration of the first 100 years of Anglo-Saxon history in this State one that will be Texanic, both in its proportions and in its nature.

On every hand, one hears expressions which reflect the deep sense of responsibility which the people here feel that the legislature, acting through the commission, has placed upon them.

These expressions are marked by the determination that, with the aid of the other cities and towns, which has already been proffered, the celebration will be one of which not only every Texan, but every American, will be proud.

This-That, Etc.

By Typo Wrighter

marks have been published about Dick Todd, especially during the past week, but the one we consider best of all is a statement made by Al Parker, sport editor of the Wichita Daily Times, in his column Wednesday.

For many years Parker has been a real expert in picking athletic talent, football or baseball, and here is his statement:

"We consider Dick Todd of Crowell and Joe Earl Brvarty of Burk Burnett as the best college prospects produced in this territory, including both class A and B schools, in the last five or six years."

That's saying a lot, for there have been many brilliant stars in this territory during that time, including one "Red" Ratician of the 1933 Chidress team.

And the nice part about complimentary press remarks about Dick is the fact that he never lets them go to his head. Newspaper headlines have ruined many athletes, but that is not the case here. In fact we believe that Todd would much rather not have all the publicity that is given him. By nature he is not a publicity seeker.

From Clyde Fincher

Clyde Fincher, popular coach and teacher at Thalia for a number of years and who is now at San Benito as junior high coach and teacher, sends in his renewal to The News, together with a few interesting remarks as follows:

"How are the Wildcats doing? I sure would like to see them in action. Think I'll get to see some good games here in the Valley."

"My junior high bunch will average close to 140 pounds, that is, the starting line-up. We will likely play six games."

"If you have a deficiency of acetic acid in your body, come down here and we'll fix it up, as there is an enormous fruit crop that is just beginning to mature and, of course, it is all citrus."

"I'm still mighty interested in what goes on in Foard, so am sending my check for The News. Best regards to all."

Tiger Eyes Here are the managerial eyes of the Detroit Tigers, American League baseball coach, as catcher-manager Mickey Cochrane peers between the mask bars toward World Series gold.

Local fans will have their first opportunity to see the Crowell Wildcats in action on their home field tomorrow afternoon when they tangle with the Eldorado Panthers, a team that proved its scoring ability in downing Davidson 56 to 0 last week.

We believe the game will attract a mighty large local crowd, and it should. Since most of the players of the 1933 bi-district championship squad are on the team again this year, the game tomorrow offers fans their first real opportunity to pay tribute to them for their outstanding achievement last year and to let them know that they are backing them 100 per cent this season.

Transportation Club

Suppose that you worked out in stiff football practice for nearly three hours and then walked nine miles to your home on an empty stomach! About 99 out of 100 would be ready to give up football under such a circumstance, but not so in the case of a few Wildcats who did just that on Wednesday evening of last week.

The fact of the matter is that the modest gridsters never let the fact be known until a person who picked them up on the road to their homes this week asked if they ever had to walk the entire distance, to which inquiry they answered "yes."

As a result a so-called "transportation club" has been started here this week for the purpose of providing rides home for squad members living in the country. Several have already volunteered their services in this respect and if you are interested in becoming one of the club members, then just tell this column, or school officials to list your name.

In all probability you will have to make only one trip, if you become a member. Already listed are: Frank Blair, Cotton Griffith, Jack Roberts, Jr., Amos Lilly, Thomas Hughton, Geo. Self, Chick Gribble, T. V. Rascoe, J. E. Harwell, who'll be next? Evening rides only, are needed since the boys ride the regular school busses each morning.

Prior to the Vernon-Crowell game last week, Ray Nichols stated in his Vernon Record column, "Home Town Stuff," that many former Crowellites were planning to rally to the Wildcat cause in the game. However, this certainly did not hold true in the case of one former Crowell man, Bruce Gibson, whose son, Cope Gibson, happened to be playing fullback for Vernon. Cope was born in Crowell, but it seems to us that he was somewhat disrespectful to his birthplace, judging by his performance last Friday night.

Statements of the Week "I guess I'm the healthiest runt that ever lived."—Joe Roberts. "For a new revelation—try wolf hunting."—C. C. McLaughlin. "I hope to do better against Crowell this year than I did while at Chillicothe."—Volney Hill, new coach at Burk Burnett.
