SHOT WOUND CLAIMS LIFE OF HUEY LONG; ASSAILANT IS INSTANTLY KILLED BY GUARDS

PENDICITIS OPERATION

Huey P. Long, United States Senator and political "dictator" of Louisiana, died Tuesday morning from a wound received Sunday night when shot by an assassin as he was preparing to leave the state capital building at Baton Rouge.

BIRTHS

OX PIONEER DIED TUESDAY AT TRUSCOTT

of the largest crowds at a funeral in Knox County in a number of years was present at the funeral in Truscott Wednesday afternoon when last rites were said for W. R. (Uncle Bob) Knox County pioneer, who died Monday morning at his home in Truscott at the age of 87 and 3 days.

C. V. Allen of Crowell, pastor of the Truscott Christian church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. E. G. New, minister of Truscott. Burial took place in Truscott cemetery, where follows took charge of the funeral with O. O. Hollingsworth as casket bearers.

At 20 members of the Crowell O. F. Lodge and many other friends of Mr. Myers were present for the funeral. On the part of the large crowd attending services.

Myers had lived on the same place for 46 years, arriving there in 1889. William Rogers was born Sept. 7, 1848, Birmingham, Alabama. On Sept. 18, 1880, he was married to Mrs. Hill County, Texas, and they had four children, three of whom are now living.

Mr. Myers was converted to the Christian Church at Truscott.

His long residence in this county and the high esteem in which he was held was shown by the bountiful floral offering and the great crowd that came to pay final tribute to their departed friend.

One of the most enjoyable occasions in the life of Mr. Myers was the golden wedding anniversary celebration in his home Dec. 21, 1930. Sixty-one children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends braved a five-inch snow to be present on that occasion.

FARMERS' AID IS SOUGHT BY RELIEF HEADS

The co-operation of Foard County farmers in providing employment for families on relief is urged by A. W. Long of Childress, district relief administrator.

Farmers are requested to apply to local relief headquarters for cotton pickers. Such families will then be routed to supply the needs in their immediate neighborhood.

Mr. Long wrote the following in regard to this matter: "By taking this method, we are able to accomplish several purposes—first, to secure employment for those on relief; second, to supply the needed labor for the harvesting of the fall crops, and incidentally to keep check on the employment of those now on relief."

"In the past we have had numerous complaints about 'John Doe' being offered employment and refusing same, and the proper checking up on these statements have required quite a bit of trouble. If the above method is followed, we have first-hand knowledge of the employment being offered and at the same time we will be able to distribute labor in the part of the county where it is needed.

"Often in checking complaints we have found that the relief client reported to have refused a job has not been offered a fair proposition and that this was the cause of refusal. If the requests for labor are made directly to us, we are able to hedge against this."

Monthly Banquet to Be Held Mon. Night

The regular monthly banquet of the Farmers and Business Men's Ass'n. will be held Monday night in the basement of the Methodist Church. John Carter and John Rasmussen will sell tickets for the occasion.

An interesting program is being arranged by D. R. Magee, W. R. Womack and Geo. D. Self. These monthly banquets are open to the public and anyone wishing to attend may secure tickets from H. E. Ferguson and A. Y. Beverly, or the two, Carter and Rasmussen, who will call upon local business men.

Farmers are especially urged to attend the banquet.

THALIA HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR CLASS ELECTS

J. C. Wisdom was elected president of the Senior class of Thalia High School at a meeting Tuesday. Other officers elected were: J. D. Miller, vice president; Percy Taylor, secretary-treasurer, and Bessie Whitman, reporter.

Miss Ina G. Smith and Pierce Chandler were elected sponsors.

Riverside to Open New Term Monday

The Riverside school will open Monday morning for the first time under its new name, resulting from the consolidation of Ayersville with West Rayland.

A school of ten grades will be conducted this year. Members of the Riverside faculty are: Bailey Rennels, superintendent; Miss Juanita Thompson, Erwin Reed, Mrs. Bailey Rennels, Miss Johnnie Mae Short and Mrs. Howard Bursley.

Mr. Rennels and Mr. Reed will teach high school grades. In addition to teaching in the intermediate department, Miss Thompson will teach in the high school. Miss Short and Mrs. Rennels will be intermediate teachers and Mrs. Bursley will be primary instructor.

Two buses will be operated this year by Riverside. Erwin Reed will operate one bus and Delbert Johnson the other. Mr. Johnson will also serve as school janitor. Vivian and Beaver will be the only Foard schools not opened Monday. Their opening dates have not been announced.

CORRECTION

Two errors occurred in the Foard County teacher list published last week. The name of Mrs. Howard Bursley was omitted from the Riverside faculty and the Beaver list included the name of Miss Dorothy Coffey, when it should have been Miss Bernice Coffey.

Miss Johnnie Mae Short was employed Monday night of this week to complete the Riverside faculty.

Property Owners to Co-operate in Plans for Gravel Streets

Prospects are favorable for securing forty blocks of gravel streets in Crowell through a W. P. A. grant if owners of property adjacent to proposed improvement will pay for the gravel. This expense amounts to about $2.50 for fifty feet.

Mayor C. T. Schlager reports that favorable response is being given by local property owners to the project. W. B. Johnson has offered to donate enough gravel for seven blocks of street improvement.

Immediate and definite action is necessary on this matter, or the entire project may be lost.

Applications for Crowell and Foard County W. P. A. projects to the amount of $210,000 were placed last week with the district W. P. A. office at Wichita Falls and have been forwarded to Washington.

Local city officials expect earliest action on a proposal to lower the city water main in the city limits north on Highway 16 (Main Street). Originally the line was three feet under the ground. At several points now it is barely six inches under the ground and with the approach of winter and prospects for pavement on this street, it is important to complete this work as soon as possible.

TRENCH SILO IMPORTANCE IS STRESSED

For a cheap storage place which is wind-proof, fire-proof, convenient, and which may be constructed in a short time, we know of none better than the trench silo.

A silo makes it possible to have the equivalent of green feed when it is too dry or too cold to use the pasture. The trench silo is more than a container in which to store surplus food for use when the drouthy year comes. It can be filled during adverse weather conditions, eliminating the hazards of curing and also the losses from grain shattering when handled in the ordinary way. Another outstanding advantage of the trench silo is the elimination of all insect damage to the stored food when carried over for several years.

Select a Location

1. Select a place having possibilities for good water drainage.
2. A low bluff or hillside may afford ease in filling and removing feed from the silo.
3. An old ditch may be used

The game Sunday is scheduled to begin promptly at 3 o'clock, a half hour earlier than usual. Manager O. O. Hollingsworth reports that the Crowell club is in good condition for the important contest.

Davis, County Agent Fred Rennels and Frank Parsley, assistant, attended a district meeting in Childress Monday that was held for the purpose of information concerning the government cotton program to agricultural leaders of this section. Over 200 persons from 14 counties in this area were present.

The following resolution was passed at the meeting:

Trio Held in Local Jail Linked With Ft. Worth Hold-Ups

M. E. Shultz of Fort Worth was in Crowell last Thursday with City Detectives Jack Reams and Howard Grant of Fort Worth and identified three men held in jail here as the trio that robbed his station, kidnaped and later released him.

Charges of robbery with firearms were filed in Fort Worth against the three following the return of Shultz and the Fort Worth officers, who believe the trio here is also responsible for another Fort Worth kidnaping.

The three men held here, Serge St. Pee of New York City, Bill Scarborough of Alabama and Florida, and Guy Edwards of Quanah, were arrested here Monday morning, Sept. 2, by Sheriff R. J. Thomas. Three other men were with them in the same sedan at the time of the arrest. Two youths, one from Bowie and the other from Ryan, Okla., were released from the local jail last Friday following evidence of their innocence. The other man, Don Edwards of Bowie, was carried to Childress, where he is now in jail.

The three men held in Crowell confessed station robberies at Chillicothe, Crowell, Electra and Childress. Don Edwards was linked with the Childress robbery only.

Houston and Dallas officers believe the men held here are responsible for robberies in their cities and have requested pictures of the suspects.

Additional C. C. C. Members Will Be Taken in October

Austin, Sept. 11. (Special)—Completing the expansion Civilian Conservation Corps enrollment by enlisting 14,819 Texas youths, district administrators are now looking toward the October enrollment when every additional eligible candidate in the state is expected to be given a chance to join the CCC. State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy has announced.

Not only will more new enrollees be accepted, but present enrollees may remain in camps indefinitely, as mandatory discharges have been discontinued, Guy explained. "As long as a person's work and conduct are satisfactory he will be allowed to remain in camp, but an honorable discharge will be granted him promptly if a position is secured which will better his condition."

District administrators and case supervisors have been instructed to check their rolls, listing the number of unmarried youths between 18 and 28 whose families are on relief.

Guy again advised all eligible youths interested in joining the CCC to get in touch with their district administrator or their county case worker. In some cases, he said, applicants who were rejected because of minor physical defects are now acceptable if the defects have been corrected.

RECORD RAIN RECEIVED HERE LAST SUNDAY

A rain that measured nearly four inches at Crowell Sunday and which was even heavier in other parts of the county, brought damage along with its benefits, washing out a number of small bridges and culverts and breaking the dams of several tanks on Foard farms.

Only a quarter to a half inch of rain was received in the western and northwestern part of the county. Beginning at the Raspberry farm, about ten miles west of Crowell, the rain was very light from there to the west and northwest. J. M. Marr reported one-fourth inch at his place in the Vivian community. About one-half inch was received at the Texas Company plant due west of Crowell near the Cottle County line.

Farmers of the Foard County section reported the rain as being one of the heaviest in the history of that area. S. T. Lilly, who has kept an accurate rainfall record since 1902 at his place a few miles west of Foard City, said the rain was over six inches in that area and was the heaviest for a single day in nearly 30 years.

Reports from the Four Corners area in the southwest part of the county indicate between 6 and 7 inches for that section. Water was above the pavement at several points from the west edge of Crowell to Thalia. The lake about six miles east of Crowell was said to have been higher than at any time in over 40 years.

Starting early Sunday morning, the heavy rain continued steadily until early in the afternoon and then showered intermittently during the rest of the afternoon and night.

This is the second unusually heavy rain that Foard County has received this year. Water reached flood proportions at Crowell and other parts of the county on May 30. Exactly four inches fell at Crowell between 4:30 and 6 o'clock on the afternoon of that day.

FUNERAL HERE TODAY FOR MRS. FRANK MEASON

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, Thursday, for Mrs. Frank Meason, who died yesterday afternoon at one o'clock in her home here following serious illness of the past few months.

Mrs. Meason had made Crowell her home since coming here with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Greening, in 1902. She is survived by her husband; four sons, Beadie, Everett, Goodloe and Que Meason, all of Crowell; one daughter, Mrs. Jack Lyon of Vernon; one foster child, Georgia Rea (Satterwhite); two grandchildren, and two brothers, Ben and Dud Greening of Crowell.

Katie Greening, maiden name of the deceased, was born in Grayson County on May 11, 1885. She lived there until coming to Foard County with her parents in 1902.

She became the wife of Frank Meason at a wedding in Crowell on Sept. 14, 1903. Six children were born to this union, five of whom are living. A son, Albert, died in August, 1923, at the age of 19.

Mrs. Meason became a member of the Christian Church in a camp meeting conducted in Crowell over twenty-five years ago. In line with true Christian principles, her life was one that included an unusual record of devotion and service to her family and friends.

An example in this respect came two years ago when the Meason family received a 7-month old child into their home. A few months previous to the adoption, a daughter of the child's father died. Shortly afterward the mind of the man's wife became unbalanced. Left alone with three small children, the man was preparing to hitch-hike 600 miles to Las Cruces when Mrs. Meason learned of that fact. Realizing that such a trip during the hot summer could easily prove fatal to the baby, she and her family asked for the opportunity to take the baby girl into their home and care for it. The child has since been in the home. A few years ago Mrs. Meason took care of another child for over a year, her only remuneration being a happiness gained from service to humanity.

Rev. J. H. Hamblen, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Vernon and former Crowell pastor, will conduct the funeral services this afternoon. He will be assisted by Rev. L. W. Bridges, pastor of the Crowell Christian Church, and Rev. Geo. E. Turrentine, local Methodist pastor.

Full bearers will be Chas. Thompson, N. J. Roberts, John Rasor, T. B. Klepper, Edgar Womack and R. H. Cooper.

Famous Brass Cannon of Gonzales to Fire Again on October 2

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 11.—The old brass cannon of Gonzales, which fired the first shot of the Texas Revolution a hundred years ago, will roar defiance again October 2 to usher in the celebration of the Texas Centennial.

The state-wide observance of the one-hundredth anniversary of Texas Independence will consist of a number of celebrations at historic shrines of the state, commencing at Gonzales, and climaxed by the $15,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas from June to November, 1936.

Because Texans first took up arms at Gonzales in defense of their liberty, this charming little South Texas town is known as the "Lexington of the Lone Star State."

When war appeared imminent between Texas and Mexico in 1835, the Mexican government demanded that the citizens of Gonzales surrender a six-pounder brass cannon which had been given to them for defense against the Indians. The cannon was practically worthless having been spiked and the spike bored out, leaving a touch hole as big as a silver dollar. The demand for the gun was merely an excuse to start hostilities.

Mexican dragons attempted to capture the gun and the town. Texans from far and wide had rallied in Gonzales and hoisted the flag of the Texas Revolution, a crude white banner inscribed "Come and take it." The old cannon was loaded to the muzzle with pot legs and scrap iron and turned loose on the foe. The Texans charged and the Mexicans fled leaving their dead and wounded behind them. Not a single Texan was harmed. Fifty months later Texas declared her independence.

These stirring scenes will be enacted at Gonzales October 2 a whole week. The battle will be refought with soldiers of the national guard representing the Texas and Mexican armies.

San Antonio, Houston, Nacogdoches and Huntsville all plan similar historic observances preparatory to the opening of the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas June 6.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

The New Pain-Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

Gainesville Circus to Be Feature at Centennial in 1936

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 11.—"The Gainesville Community Circus," only show of its kind in the world, will play the Texas Centennial Exposition here next year, according to present plans.

This three ring show, which boasts everything in the circus line except elephants, is staged by the citizens of Gainesville in Cooke County. There are hundreds of performers, all amateurs and coming from every walk of life in the community. Business men are clowns, society matrons ride bareback and debutantes swing gracefully from the flying trapeze.

When the circus is on the road, business activities in Gainesville practically cease owing to the absence of scores of its leading citizens.

It is hoped that the circus will play at least two days at the Centennial Exposition, probably sometime in July, 1936.

AAA Amendments Passed by Congress

College Station.—A special release from Washington, D. C., outlines the amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act which have met the approval of both houses of Congress and have the signature of President Roosevelt.

The amendments have two major purposes. One is to give the Secretary of Agriculture added powers in carrying out the farm program and the other is to erect bulwarks around the program against the time when provisions of the Act will have to meet the crucial test in the Supreme Court.

"The new amendments," Secretary Wallace commented, "will permit increased adjustment of production by permitting benefit payments for increased production." Wallace was careful to point out that there is little likelihood of this provision being put to use except in cases of grave emergency.

On the most controversial point, the section barring suits by processors to recover processing taxes in event the levies are held unconstitutional, a compromise was reached. Processors can sue for recovery, but only after they have submitted their claims to the commissioner of internal revenue. However, the processors must show they have not passed the taxes along.

The amendments also permit the Secretary of Agriculture to

This is the most public street in town and you can easily bring yourself in contact with most of the wagons and burgies as well as horseback riders and footmen. It will also be a source of pleasure to you and will be so gentlemanly for you to hold up your bat and ball just as a young lady, or old one, crosses the street, you can, and doubtless will, wait for them to get two or three feet out of line before you resume your labors. ### There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types—the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine—an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful. . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROES OF SOUTH

GOVERNOR ALLRED

The tribute paid by Governor James V. Allred to the Confederate Veterans last week before their 45th Annual Reunion at Annapolis is full of stirring praise for the brave deeds of the South in defense of their ideals of states rights. Because we cherish the memory of the Confederacy and because possibly the last reunion of the thinning grey ranks was held in our state, the following excerpts from Governor Allred's speech should be of interest to our readers.

"As we catch the torch of Jeffersonian Democracy from your failing hands," the Governor said to the Veterans, "we renew our pledge to you to pass on to our posterity the creed of our forefathers—to fight and die, if need be, for the principles of state sovereignty as guaranteed by the Constitution!"

"I think it was Joseph Weldon Bailey, the great states rights defender of Texas history, who once said, 'No triumph or defeat can change the immutable principles of free government!' That truth was never more evident than today—70 years after the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox. . .

"The greatest discussion in the history of the nation has waged throughout the land in recent months over proposed or threatened changes in this government which has been handed down to us from the time that our early forebears gathered in groups to discuss the ratification of the Constitution. Suggestions have emanated that in America's hour of distress we should give up all that the framers of the Constitution insisted should go into it, that we should amend it so as to give the federal government the power to regulate the intricate and minute details of personal life and business. Small wonder indeed that turbulent thoughts should be aroused and seemingly churned in the minds of those who believed in the principles of states rights!

"The eternal principles of right and of good government are eternal and everlasting. You may change the application of a rule to changing conditions, but time brings no necessity for altering time-tested and time-proven rules of good government. It is inevitable and natural that slow and gradual change shall take place in this living constitution by construction and the change of the people themselves, but up until now we have preserved that essential characteristic, an American Republic, for the fatal experience of all the other forms of government. We have guarded against strong national government; we have adhered to the theory of states rights!

"To you immortal heroes of the Confederacy, I say that we in Texas pledge our allegiance to the cause of states right—that true Democracy for which you so nobly fought, Texans, with the memory of the blood so illustriously shed by our fathers in the immortal defense of the Alamo, probably more than the citizens of any other state believe in states rights and local self-government."

"As antecedent! 'Aloumheia! Ca' "As descendants of a proud and fearless, free and independent republic which recognized tribute to no nation, we would be unworthy of the proud heritage we claim should we not stand firm for the sovereign principles of state government so expressly granted by the United States Constitution."

CHS "B" SQUAD IS IMPRESSIVE IN WORKOUTS

If Crowell's regular Wildcat football squad displays as much interest and enthusiasm as much as is being shown by members of the "B" squad, then Crowell High will have one of the scrappiest teams in its history this year.

The junior squad gives promise of furnishing plenty of strong competition for the "B" squads of Quanah and Vernon and other teams that it will meet in games this fall.

The only boys being used on the "B" squad are those who will be eligible to play with the Wildcats in 1936. Members of the "B" squad are:

Ends—Garland Rasberry, Dupree Allen, Bill Wilson, Jack Bailey, Gordon Thomson.

Tackles—Glenn Shook, Raymond Horn, Ed Gafford.

Guards—William Simmons, W. F. Stater, James Erwin.

Center—Glen Don Reeder.

Backs—Eyle Oneil, Marvin McKown, Vernon Gibson, Bernice Fitzgerald, John Lee Orr, Joe Eddy, Raymond Joy.

Several of these boys are also likely to see service with the regular squad this season. Two of the most brilliant new prospects who have reported to the Wildcat camp this season are Reeder at center and Lawrence Patterson of Margaret, a backfield man.

Patterson is not eligible for the "B" squad, however, present indications are that this newcomer from Margaret may make the regulars a valuable man before the season is over. He has the determination, energy and natural ability and so far has shown that "ye-elow" is one color that is not to be found in his makeup.

He is now 17, but will be 18 before another season, therefore ineligible to play next year under new Interscholastic League rules. He weighs 142 pounds and is in the 9th grade.

As a regular on the "B" team and one who may see considerable service as a reserve with the regular squad, Reeder has prospects of seeing considerable grid service in his first year to report for football. He weighs 156 pounds, and is a Junior.

Two other boys capable of making fine reserves for the regular squad are ineligible for this service, but are eligible for the "B" team. These two promising "Centennial" prospects are Glenn Shook, lineman, and Garland Rasberry, end or back.

Trench Silo—

by properly diverting the water from it.

The silo should be conveniently located: (a) Close to the feeding barn; (b) In pasture where feeding will be done; (c) Near water supply to aid in filling.

Width and Depth

The silo, to insure proper curing, should not be less than five feet in depth. It should be made wide enough and long enough to store sufficient feed to take care of the livestock on the farm.

- Under average conditions a cow will consume about 30 pounds of silage per day.
- Work stock and half grown animals will consume about 15 pounds per day each.

Examples

Assuming a farm has three cows, four horses and two growing heifers, it would require 180 pounds of ensilage per day to feed these animals.

One cubic foot of silage weighs 25 pounds. The ensilage should be removed from the silo in a slice less than three to four inches thick to prevent spoilage. By taking off a three-inch slice for the above mentioned animals a cross sectional area of 30 square feet would be needed per day to furnish the required ensilage.

To find the average width of the silo, divide the cross sectional area required (30 square feet, three inches thick) by the depth. Assuming a silo depth of six feet. This would mean an average width of 4.50 divided by 6 or five feet. Since the top width should be about two feet wider than the bottom width, the top in this case example would be made six feet wide and the bottom four feet.

The width of the silo for any number of animals can be figured on the above basis.

Length

The silo may be made long enough to feed a given length of time by dividing the number of days you expect to feed silage by four. If a three-inch slice is cut off each day. In the above example if silage is to be fed in December, January, February and August, a total of 120 days, divide 120 by four. This would indicate a trench at least 30 feet long is needed. It would probably be dug 35 feet long to insure plenty.

In summing up the above points: After the cross sectional size is determined, the length may be made to take care of what feed you may have to store. It might also be made deeper and wider by only taking off the two-inch slice per day. Or even better, if the feed is available, fill an extra silo for future insurance against high-priced feedstuffs in seasons of scarcity.

Staking Off Location

- Stake the trench parallel with slope of the land.
- Run a line and stake off a diversion contour furrow above the silo site.

Construction of Silo

To dig a trench silo cheaply, a Fresno and plow should be used. The plow is needed to loosen the dirt and the Fresno to remove it. Picks, mattocks, spades, and hoes may be used to cut the walls smooth.

The ends of the trench should be sloped so that a team may be driven down them. As the work proceeds, the upper end of the trench may be made as steep as it is practicable to drive a team down it, while the lower end is not made so steep. The dirt is pulled out at the end that is not steep. The trench should be so located that the lower end will be most convenient to the barn or feed troughs.

As mentioned above the construction of a silo on a hillside, bluff or natural ditch simplifies drainage, removing the dirt and removing the silage by not having to pull up a grade. By proper drainage a number of problems

THE BIG SHOW MUST GO ON

When you have visited the circus and watched the performers, has it ever occurred to you that the wire walkers, the tumblers, animal trainers, who are smiling, cutting capers, evorting about the savdust with feet that seemed to be fitted with wings, laughing, smiling clowns that can only laugh are dare devils that have no care? Then, have you ever walked behind the scenes, and wondered why the tears run in an unbroken flow down that laughing clown's cheeks? He just received a wire, his mother or dad were seriously ill or maybe God had called his wife or baby away into the Grand Entry—that clown dashed a little white paint clown dabbed his swollen eye lids and powder that were streaked with tears, walked into the circus tent and made you laugh while he carried a heart of lead. Or maybe it is the daredevil away up the top of the tent who has a broken heart because of someone gone. And he in his next cast, may slip because a tear that he had brushed away had wet his grasp, and down, down through space he goes, smashing to the ground with a thud, his body carried away, and still through it all, the show must go on. Forget our sorrows, forget our injuries, and brighten up the life of someone else, the show must go on. Since the day of the Romans where the circus first originated the age old maxim has carried on. Forgotten are the sorrows of the performers in their desire to make you laugh and forget your sorrows. Seal Bros. Circus must go on, and will exhibit at Quanah, Saturday, Sept. 21. THE BIG SHOW MUST GO ON

When you have visited the circus and watched the performers, has it ever occurred to you that the wire walkers, the tumblers, animal trainers, who are smiling, cutting capers, evorting about the savdust with feet that seemed to be fitted with wings, laughing, smiling clowns that can only laugh are dare devils that have no care? Then, have you ever walked behind the scenes, and wondered why the tears run in an unbroken flow down that laughing clown's cheeks? He just received a wire, his mother or dad were seriously ill or maybe God had called his wife or baby away into the Grand Entry—that clown dashed a little white paint clown dabbed his swollen eye lids and powder that were streaked with tears, walked into the circus tent and made you laugh while he carried a heart of lead. Or maybe it is the daredevil away up the top of the tent who has a broken heart because of someone gone. And he in his next cast, may slip because a tear that he had brushed away had wet his grasp, and down, down through space he goes, smashing to the ground with a thud, his body carried away, and still through it all, the show must go on. Christian Science Services
"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 15.

The Golden Text is: "Ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance" (Hebrews 10:34).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" (Deuteronomy 33:27).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God. . . . As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God" (pages 335 and 283.)

Youth Work Advisory Board of 9 Members For Texas Appointed

Lydon B. Johnson, Director of the National Youth Administration for Texas has announced the official appointment by the National Youth Administration in Washington of the Texas State Advisory Board. It is composed of nine members, who are:

A. J. Wirtz, of Austin, An attorney, Former State Senator. Actively interested in the betterment of youth, and outstanding leader and friend to the cause of education during his public service.

Miller Aainsworth, of Luling, State Commander of the American Legion, Department of Texas, and banker. Outstanding for work with Legion's youth organizations, which have progressed notably under his guidance.

Joseph S. Myers, of Houston, Former Assistant District Attorney for Harris County, Spokesman of organized labor for a number of years at Austin, Former State Labor Commissioner, and now member of the United States Conciliation Service. Always actively interested in youth in labor organizations.

H. J. Luther Stark, of Orange, Chairman of the University of Texas Board of Regents. Actively engaged in lumber and real estate business. Notable for his service to youth.

D. H. Perry, of Robstown, Director of the American National Cotton Co-operative Association. Identified with agricultural movements in the State, and particularly interested in the young farmers' program. Active in the work of the Future Farmers of America.

Beauford Jester, of Corsicana, Former Chairman of the University of Texas Board of Regents, An attorney, and active in Texas University ex-student circles. Revered by youth for his interest and the work he has done in its behalf.

Sid Kyle, of Pecos, Graduate of A. & M. College, and prominent in the activities of the Ex-Students Association. Has extensive ranching interests in West Texas.

R. B. Anderson, of Godley, Texas State Tax Commissioner, Former law professor at the University of Texas. Former State Legislator. At 24 years old he is one of youth's real leaders.

Wallace C. Reilly, of Dallas, Executive Secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor. Member of the State Apprentice Committee—a man who is finding places for youth in industry, and who for several years has devoted himself intensely to this branch of his work.

"These men will act in an advisory capacity for the whole program of the National Youth Administration in Texas, in which approximately 5,000 college students and 10,000 high school students will be assisted in obtaining an education, and in which the 61,413 young men and 62,467 young women between the ages of 16 and 25 now on relief rolls of the State of Texas will be helped to find employment through work relief projects," Johnson said.

"I feel that the background of each member of this board fits him especially for this work. There is not a man on it who is not notable in some field of service to young people in Texas, and most of them for many years on their own initiative, without governmental assistance, have had a youth program of their own. The National Youth Administration is fortunate in having men of this caliber willing to give their time to the development of its program. It is encouraging to know that the administration authorities in Washington have chosen such outstanding men so thoroughly representative of Texas in the cause which we are serving."

"Guidance and counsel of this board will be directed toward the preparation of suitable projects to employ youth, to remove them from the relief rolls, and to start them on careers of their own. It is expected that with the counsel of this board the National Youth Administration, through the Works Progress Administration, will be able to make a heavy reduction in the total of 123,890 unemployed youths on the rolls of the Texas Relief Commission."

Mrs. Arthur Roderick of Provincetown, Mass., is a twin, her husband is a twin, and she recently gave birth to twins, a girl and a boy.

James P. Moore of Cumberland, Md., was given a suspended sentence and a warning against harsh measures when charged with chaining his 9-year-old son to a bed.

Jim London, heavyweight boxing champion, has won more 1,600 bouts in 15 years.

Sylvia Fruchtman and Zoltan Kahl, both 17, got a free ride from New York to Havana after returning as stowaways on the Orient, but were not permitted to go on deck after they were covered.

PATER VI — Amy Carey

to get some clothes to dress her," she said gently. "You'd best come back to the house with me, show me her things."

He accepted this without speech; and he and Jenny climbed the steep grade side by side. In Will's barnyard Jenny saw a car standing, and so remembered Saladine. "That man, he's over t' the house," she told Will. "I guess he wouldn't mind if we drove his car over. He'll want it, and that way we can keep Hudly's things dry."

"Over there, is he?" Will echoed, with haunted eyes. "Last time I see Hudly," he said, "she was taking him off down to the ledge. Said she'd show him the brook trail."

And his brow furrowed. "I want to talk to him," he said, ominously.

"He left her on the ledge," Jenny urged. "He never see her, after." They went indoors. "Now you get some dry clothes onto you," she bade him. "I'll pack the things we'll need for her. Where are they, Will?"

He looked at her in a sort of shame. "In there," he said, and pointed through the dining-room door to the bedroom beyond. "That's hers. I mostly slept up at the foot of the ledge, by the way, where Hudly a while ago took to her death; and Jenny

She went into the room that had been Hudly's, moving warily, as though half expecting to meet the other woman there.

She selected what she required; and then on impulse, she made Hudly's bed. Hudly's nightgown she put away; and when she was done, the room was in immaculate order. It pleased her to leave all things as Hudly would have wished to leave them.

When she had packed the suitcase, she came back to the kitchen, and called up the attic stairs: "I'm ready, Will."

He answered her, after a moment. "I'm coming, Jenny."

When they were in Saladine's car, Will said: "The road looked to me like we could get through down to Carey's. Jenny, we'd save a lot of time that way."

She made no comment, trusting such matters to his judgment; and he turned the car down the hill and drove on across the bridge, past Bart's, out to the Valley road, and thus in toward Marm Pierce's farm.

In the yard they stopped and Will took the suitcase from the back of the car. Saladine and Bart were on the porch to meet them; but if Will had known a passing doubt of Saladine, it was forgotten now. He said to the other man:

"Jenny told me you was over here. I didn't know as you'd mind if we driv' your car over."

"Glad you did," Jim agreed; and Bart gripped Will's hand.

"Guess you know, Will, how I feel about this," he said.

"Guess I do," Will agreed. They all came indoors.

"Set down here by the stove, Will," said Jenny softly. "Your hands are bound to be cold. Take off your coat, and dry."

"I went out to find you, Will," Bart explained. "But you wa'n't there."

"I was out hunting them," Will assented, and he looked at Saladine. "She didn't come back after she went with you," he said.

"When it come on to rain, I went to find her. Hudly was foolish about rain, kind of. She'd stay out in it, claimed to like it."

He added: "But I couldn't find them noheres."

"Where's Zeke?" Bart asked.

"I dunno," Will confessed. "I ain't seen him sense."

Jenny took the suitcase into the dining-room where Hudly was, and closed the door between. Marm Pierce was there; she said crisply:

"Back, be you? Fetch Will?"

"He's in the kitchen," Jenny assented. "I want to get her dressed first, make her look as nice as we can before he sees her."

Marm Pierce nodded, watching the girl; and she saw that Jenny's countenance was illumined, and by much more than mere happiness; much more than the selfish happiness which, if she loved Will, she might find in the fact that now he was free to love her, too.

It was as though she were committed to a task in which she found peace and pride.

While they were busy here, the rain was pitiless outside. The afternoon, though it was not yet late, was already shrouded in a sort of dusk when Jenny went at last to bid Will come in.

Will followed her into the dining-room where Hudly lay; and he stood looking down at his wife's body, his shoulders bowed. Jenny was close beside him, almost touching him; her head nodded faintly once or twice. It was as though she spoke words of comfort and of heartening; yet her lips did not move.

Then he went back into the kitchen; and the three, Bart and Will and Saladine, stayed there, huddling near the stove. Will had the dull demeanor of a man num-ed by shock; he muttered ruefully:

"They've got Hudly all dressed nice. It's a comfort to me for women to handle her, 'stead of a man."

And after a moment, fretfully: "I can't make out where Zeke has got to. He wa'n't one to go off, a day like today. Zeke didn't like rain."

And He Stood Looking Down at His Wife's Body.

And still later, he said: "I'll want her to lie at home." He added humbly: "Dunno as she'd want it so; but—I'd want it that way. I'll have to get word to Joe Matthews, over t' Liberty."

Bart suggested, helpfully: "I can go over to my place, Will, and telephone, Saladine here can drive me over."

Saladine was quick to assent to this suggestion, and for a definite reason. He himself had been wishing he had access just now to a telephone. So he and Bart set out, and when Jenny heard the car depart, she came into the kitchen and found Will alone, and asked where they had gone. Will told her, and she stayed with him. Marm Pierce, when her task in the dining-room was done, left them alone.

"I'm going up and change my dress," she decided. "I'd feel more fitted in something decent."

Jenny smiled at her in grateful understanding, but Will sat silent, and Jenny came beside him. Hudly's accusation had begun to lose, in the girl's mind, its shocking force. She was prepared to let this secret of Hudly's last word remain forever hidden, to let Hudly's death pass as accident. She herself could forget, and none other need ever know.

They still sat here, in half darkness, when Bart and Saladine returned. Jenny went to the door to meet them.

Will asked Bart: "Did you get hold of Zeke?" Bart nodded. "Coming tonight, is he? What time'll he get here, you figure?"

"Might be an hour or two."

Jenny heard a step in the dining room, and heard the blinds drawn down; and then the door opened and Marm Pierce emerged. She had changed into black. Jenny said softly: "Yo're all dressed up, Granny!"

The old woman spoke apologetically. "Well, I know, Jenny," she admitted. "There wa'n't no real sense in putting on my best, a night like this, and me not going anywheres." She looked at Will. "But I got to thinking," she declared, "if Hudly's going to stay here to-night I'll be respectable to keep her company."

Will got to his feet. "I better go up to the farm and milk the cows and chore up," he decided. "Won't take me long."

Bart protested: "Sho, Will, Zeke will do the chores."

Will shook his head. "I dunno as Zeke's there," he reminded them; and he said, looking at them all, his eyes moving as though with an effort from one to the next: "Zeke will be upset about this. He'd do anything for Hudly. He's going to take it almighty hard."

He was silent for a moment, said, then again: "But the cows; they's got to be milked." Even in this hour of death and sorrow the small daily tasks could hold a man in bondage.

"Yes, Will," Jenny agreed. "You'd best go. I'll fetch a lantern."

She went into the shed, and he began to put on his coat and hat; but in the shed she donned her boots and oil-knives, returned all accoutered to face the storm. Will looked at her, and she saw something leap in his eyes. Then she opened the outer door.

"I'm going with you, Will," she told him.

Will's head rose a little. "Why yes, Jenny," he said slowly. "With me, if yo're a mind."

And they went out. Jenny closed the door with a sense of escape, a deep relief. Alone with her, Will was secure.

Yet if she could have read Saladine's mind, she would have been dismayed; for Saladine had taken advantage of that trip to Bart's house to telephone Sheriff Sohler in Liberty. It was increasingly clear to him that not accident nor any sudden impulse to self-destruction had hurled Hudly off that high ledge. And if murder had been done, then the sheriff should be here.

Time for Planting Fall Gardens Here

College Station.—Most of the success of the fall garden depends on preparing the soil correctly, according to J. F. Rosborough, Extension horticulturist.

"All weeds and vegetation must be removed before planting," Rosborough said, "or the soil will dry out quickly and possibly carry diseases."

The extension horticulturist recommended a heavy application of summer manure before plowing is started. He explained that summer manure, which has no acids or burning ingredients, is used to increase the water holding capacity and to prevent the soil from becoming hard and crusted following the fall rains.

He recommended that as soon as the soil is plowed, it should be pulverized. "Select vegetables that are resistant to heat to plant in the fall garden from the last of August to the first half of September," Rosborough continued, "such as onion sets, Swiss chard, tender green, Irish potatoes, carrots, beets and celeriacs. Later, plant such vegetables as lettuce, radishes, mustard, spinach, and cabbage which will withstand cold weather. Bush beans will grow unless the weather turns too cold."

He went on to say that in many gardens, hardy vegetables such as pepper, egg plant, okra and tomatoes, which have survived the summer heat and are ready to produce a fall crop, should be fertilized. In sandy soils, the addition of one to two table-spoonfuls per plant of 6-12-6 commercial fertilizer will be beneficial.

"Wise gardeners do not stake all in a fall garden by just planting a turnip patch," he said, "but they plant other vegetables such as Swiss chard, tender green, louse proof turnips and other leafy things of this type along with the old stand."

"Before cold weather sets in, cushaws, summer squashes, pumpkins and other vegetables of this type should be stored in a protected place," he continued. "In the western part of the State, store these vegetables in the cellar; in the southern part, store them where ventilation will absorb the vegetable moisture and keep rot fungus down."

In a fist fight over naming his baby daughter, Frank March of New Marlboro, Mass., struck his father-in-law, who fell dead 15 minutes after receiving the blow. March was arrested, charged with manslaughter.

Two children of Mrs. Jesse Stone of Salt Lake City have been born in taxicabs while on her way to the hospital. One is a boy, born three years ago, and the other is a girl baby, born recently.

This path would take her to the foot of the ledge, by the way, where Hudly a while ago took to her death; and Jenny

"Jenny, where you going in this rain?"

"To my way to Bart's," he said. "To see if maybe Hudly is there."

The same friction by which the Indian created a flame caused the easy ignition of the first Friction Match made by the Frenchman, Dr. Chas. Sauria, in 1831. . . . This was a basic discovery that we still use today. But how obsolete a smudging flame now seems in contrast with the convenience, safety and cleanliness of Electric Heat.

Mankind has an innate sense of cleanliness in relation to his food. Hence, the ever-increasing demand for such Electric Appliances as the Range, Electric Water Heater and the Electric Refrigerator.

These modern electric appliances can be had on convenient terms, and you will be surprised at the moderate cost of such added superior service.
