Abilene Man Suffers More Than 20 Years

A. E. Barber Says Argotane is Making Him a Well Man After Unusual Suffering

"I don't believe there was a week for the past 20 years that I didn't suffer with awful pains in my stomach that felt just like something was gnawing me in two, but since I started taking Argotane a few weeks ago I haven't had a touch of my old trouble," said A. E. Barber, residing on rural route 1, Abilene, Texas.

"I can remember," continued Mr. Barber, "that when I was practically a young man my stomach and digestive organs were always giving me trouble. It was a dull heavy pain that seemed like a hard lump or knot right in the pit of my stomach. Many a day, especially after eating heavy foods of any kind, it would hurt me so badly that it just seemed like I could hardly stand to do another lick of work.

"After eating, especially at night, I would suffer from a constant gnawing pain in my stomach and I could feel it throbbing and jarring down in my lower bowels. It was certainly a queer sensation and the best way I can give any idea of the pain is to say that it was just like a toothache and only people who have ever had it will know just what I suffered. I have taken nearly every kind of medicine but none did me a bit of good, and when I saw Argotane so highly advertised I decided to try it. I have taken it just a few weeks now and for the first time since I can remember I don't have that throbbing sensation in my stomach. My stomach feels so much stronger that I can lift heavy things and don't notice any pain or trouble at all. I take pleasure in stating my experience with Argotane, for I've found it to be a splendid medicine.

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Crowell at the Reeder Drug Co.

TEXON TALES

For our bedtime story this evening, children, we will just have a few sharp jabs at the newspapers and everything, so here goes.

Today the paper says we will have fair weather and here it up and rains all day, which is fair enough. The only thing that could possibly make it fairer is for it to rain lots way up there in Foard County where they need it the worst. Among other things too numerous to mention we see a good many headlines like, "Hogs Move Slow." And that reminds us we ain't never seen hogs on a race tract yet. Also, "Postponed Game is off." Well, what could you expect, anyway? Furthermore, another item says, "Youth Gets $30 in Holdup." And he gets fifteen years for the same holdup. His time must be worth lots if he makes crime pay. Then, our eyes ran along the lines, "Pair Held for Slaying Husband." Well, that's what he got in to for fooling with two wives. The last thing that comes to our notice about newspapers is the little boy who asked his dad what was a tornado succomb. His dad didn't know himself so the boy says, "Why, right here in the paper it says that a man injured in tornado succombs.

Well, Crowell and Texon are both getting along pretty well in the polo business. They is lots of folks that say they would like polo better if they knew more about the game. Oh! Yeah, and lots of us would play a better game too if we knew enough

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

About Worms in Poultry

THE MOST COMMONLY ASKED QUESTIONS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

- 1st. How prevalent are worms in poultry?
Answer. During four years past, our doctors held over 3,000 public meetings, or clinics, throughout the United States. An average of ten birds were posted at each clinic and, in a total of more than 30,000 examined, 85 percent had worms.
- 2nd. How may I know if my chickens have worms?
Answer. Kill an occasional thin bird, split the intestines and ceca from end to end with scissors, and carefully examine for round, tape and pin worms. Do the same with each bird killed for the table. Examining birds that die of disease is not of much use, as worms generally leave chickens when very sick.
- 3rd. How early do chickens have worms?
Answer. Often at two or three weeks of age, but generally they do not cause much trouble under eight to ten weeks.
- 4th. How early may GIZZARD CAPSULES be used?
Answer. The regular adult size may be used on chickens or turkeys when half grown. For small chicks use chick size GIZZARD CAPSULES.
- 5th. What chickens should be wormed?
Answer. All chickens, not sold early as broilers, should be wormed; and twice a year for those kept over. Don't worm birds sick of roup, flu, or other diseases. Treat the disease first.

Buy your chicken remedies from us. We have the best. Our capsules get all kinds of worms.

FERGESSON BROTHERS

about the game. If not knowing nothing don't keep some from playing it ought not to keep nobody from going to see the games. Considering the progress polo has made in America in the last ten years, it stands a good chance to become the national game instead of baseball or football. Nothing will make polo more popular than to be the national sport. We will go see it just like we do grand opera, baseball and a lot of other stuff we don't know much about, when it gets to be the stuff. So you had better get your face fixed to see a lotta polo in the next few years and if you don't know nothing about it, why that won't make no difference at all.

Tech Becoming Known In Other Nations

Lubbock, Texas, Oct. 2.—That Texas Technological College is becoming known in foreign countries is indicated by the number of inquiries coming to E. L. Dohoney, registrar, from those countries and by students enrolled from various countries. Miss Laura Nackune Song is the name of the little black haired co-ed from Chung San, Korea, who is enrolled as a sophomore in the school of home economics. She is a transfer from the University of Southern California where she spent the past two years, after coming directly from Korea. Chung Wo Au, a native of Canton, China, but who for the past two years has been in Hawaii, is also enrolled in the college. He is majoring in Economics with the idea of going into diplomatic service. Both students plan to receive degrees from this college.

A. Melendez, who entered the college last year is continuing his work here. Melendez is from Guatemala. An inquiry about the textile engineering school has been received by Mr. Dohoney from Dehra Dun, India. A similar inquiry has also come from Spain.

AIM WAS TOO POOR
El Paso, Texas, Oct. 2 (UP).—Throwing plates is no grounds for divorce, especially if the wife's aim is poor, Judge Ballard Coldwell has ruled.
H. P. Bruce testified that when he went home and asked why dinner wasn't on the table, his wife hurled the chinaware at him.
"Did she hit you?" queried Judge Coldwell.
"No," replied the unfortunate.
"Petition denied," retorted the judge.

Winning Tongue Made Him Free
Dallas, Texas, Oct. 2 (UP).—The path of kindness is sometimes a thorny one, Roscoe Williams, 20, had learned today.
Particularly when a stolen bike, kidnapers, and a borrowed auto are in the offing.
It all began when Albert Helsley, 14, discovered that his bi-wheeled steed on which messages were delivered had disappeared. Albert appealed to Roscoe, who might have been a distant relative of the Good Samaritan. For Roscoe borrowed an auto and patrolled the neighboring streets until Albert sighted his missing machine loaded on an automobile.
Albert didn't even say "please," but snatched his wheel from the car and pedaled off.
Two men seated inside the car seemed determined to swipe something, so they chose Roscoe and his borrowed auto. Outside of Dallas they relieved their victim of $20.
But Roscoe, who once had ambitions to become a lawyer, waxed voluble. His kidnapers released him, returned his money and borrowed machine, and Roscoe returned to his office none the worse for his mission of mercy.
But today Roscoe had a curious aversion to chasing stolen bikes.

Sell Payne History to Assist Children

Amarillo, Texas, Oct. 2 (UP).—Sid Payne, brother of the man who killed his wife with a dynamite blast and later took his own life in the Potter County jail as he awaited trial has been served with a notice to appear in the United States district court Oct. 14 in the suit of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. to cancel a $10,000 insurance policy held by A. D. Payne and a $5,000 policy on Mrs. Payne's life.

Homer A. Callaway, attorney, indicated, however, that the case might not go to trial until spring term of federal court.

Meanwhile, hundreds of copies of "Destruction; the Strange Case of A. D. Payne," were sold at the Tri-State Exposition in Amarillo last week. Proceeds from the sale of these books are to be given the Payne children.

THE FIRST BREECH-LOADING RIFLE OF ACTUAL WARFARE

Just south of the line that divides the Carolinas, there stands a white marble shaft, and on a slope a few yards away a granite marker bears the words: "Here Col. Ferguson fell, Oct. 7, 1780."

He whose name is cut on that granite block—enemy that he was then, tool of a stupid king and stupid counselors but brave as any man who has ever drawn the breath of courage in the face of certain death—deserves an ampler memorial and a fuller epitaph.

Ferguson probably had more brains than any other officer among the British forces in America at the time and as such fighting experience as any of them. He had as much courage as any man who ever drew the breath of life, and he was the best shot in Britain.

During his years of command and study in Scotland he had invented an arm that was practically fifty years ahead of the general knowledge of fire-arms of that day. It was none other than a breech-loading, flintlock rifled military musket! A literary marvelous product for the mechanical ballistic knowledge of his time, his profession and his nation.

The gun was at once simple, strong and effective. Its trigger-guard served as a crank with which to lower, with a single turn, an upright screw plug which formed the breech-end of the bore and whose lowering opened a hole on the top of the breech, communicating with the chamber. Dropped in, the ball ran forward till stopped by the chamber-end of the lands of the rifling. A charge of powder was poured in after it, filling the chamber behind the ball—the muzzle doubtless pointed downward and the piece jarred a bit. The plug was raised and the loading aperture closed by a single reverse turn of the trigger-guard. The gun was primed and fired in the usual manner.

The arm was rifled with eight grooves, the poorest part of the piece as practically no gun maker in Britain at the time understood rifling or was equipped for it. These rifles were equipped with notched rear sights adjustable up to 500 yards' range, another unprecedented marvel for any gun of the time—and had 25-inch sword-bayonets of steel capable of taking a razor edge. Such a piece could be fired seven times a minute and could be loaded while the user was lying down—the latter almost impossible with any other "long arm" of the day.

Ferguson's frequent exhibitions of the possibilities of this weapon, according to the press accounts of the time, "astonished all beholders," as "the like had never before been done." The number of these guns which he managed to have made is uncertain and unrecorded today, though the evidence appears to favor there having been a hundred. These he brought to America with him and distributed among a body of picked men trained in their use.
As no gun-maker in Britain was equipped for rifle-making, he had to distribute their manufacture among several leading gunsmiths: Wilson, Nock, Turner, Hirst and Durs Egg of London, and Newton of Grant-ham, the latter a relative of the famous physicist, Sir Isaac. As each piece was separately made by hand, the finished arms inevitably differed somewhat from one another. It would be most interesting to know how their construction was financed, which may easily have cost $20,000. It is to be hoped that some day this unrecorded detail may be revealed. The body of picked riflemen equipped with these arms and frequently spoken of as "Ferguson's Rangers" seems to have accompanied him on many expeditions up to the close of his career on the bloody slope of King's Mountain.

Of the remarkable rifles of Ferguson's invention with which his hundred Rangers were equipped, those not ruined in the fight formed much-prized trophies. The majority were, however, undoubtedly ruined through lack of appreciation, misuse or neglect. A few have turned up in later years as the prized possessions of intelligent collectors. Six are known to exist today; four in this country and two in England, one of the latter in the Tower of London.—Field and Stream.

MAKING CITIZENSHIP

The greatest industry in this country is now well under way, to continue for several months. It is one in which there are no strikes. It depends upon child labor, but its finished product is good citizenship. That industry is the American public school.

The American people, whose motto sometimes seems to be, "Let George do it," have a way of evading the responsibility for this great idealistic and practical enterprise, and leave it all to the teachers and the school executives.

They kick with great gusto when the high school graduate can't spell or write well, or when the schools have failed in some other respect, yet they never ask themselves if the success of the undertaking does not depend in large part on home cooperation.

Teachers and school executive who have to contend with parental indifference, find that their plans turn out only an indifferent product.
The success of the school operation can be greatly promoted and the children can be prepared for more useful futures if the school patrons will work with those in charge of the schools.
The teachers will testify that the best results are obtained when the school work is placed first and outside pleasures get secondary consideration. They will also bear witness to the fact that best results are obtained when parents back up school discipline.
These are two things to keep in mind if we wish to accomplish the end in view—making useful citizens out of boys and girls.

State Moneys Not Kept in Lump Sum

Austin, Texas, Oct. 2 (UP).—State money is kept in 51 distinct funds in the state treasury. Only the money in one of these can be used for more than one specific purpose.

It is generally a fund of millions except near the end of the year. Then it dwindles until fresh tax money comes in. Other big funds are the state highway fund, the highway gasoline fund, the available school fund. These all are million dollar funds at most periods.

Yes! A year ago I had twenty-two more pounds of fat than I needed—I was fat—and very sensitive about it—but now I say it is foolish for anyone to be overweight.

T. C. U. to Dedicate Football Stadium

Fort Worth, Oct. 2.—Texas Christian University's new stadium will be formally dedicated when the champion Frogs meet the Arkansas Razorbacks on the new field on Oct. 11. The stadium will be officially dedicated to the Southwest Conference Champions of 1929.

"The section now completed will seat approximately 20,000 persons," says L. C. Wright, T. C. U. athletic director. "When the complete stadium is built it will seat 60,000. The structure to date has cost about $350,000, and when completed will represent an investment of a little more than $1,000,000."

The stadium has been erected without one cent of cost to T. C. U. Fort Worth friends of the institution last fall formed the T. C. U. Stadium Association and sold a sufficient number of bonds to cover the cost of building the stadium. The bonds will be retired from profits on 100 games played in the stadium.

CHURCHES

Christian Science Sunday, 11 A. M. Subject for Sunday, Oct. 5, 1930, "Unreality." Sunday School at 9:30. Wednesday evening service at 8:00. The public is cordially invited.

The Cristian Church "The Passion Play of Oberammergau" will be presented in slide pictures at the Special Women's Service next Sunday evening, the service beginning at 7:30 o'clock and the picture beginning promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

An opportunity to see "The Passion Play" is rare and you certainly cannot afford to miss it. Detailed explanation will be made regarding the town of Oberammergau, the people, and the play itself. Come and encourage others to come. Everyone invited.

Promotion day was not well attended on account of bad weather. All who are to be promoted, that did not attend are being notified by mail. All changes will be made effective next Sunday.

Rally Day Services October 12th will be very interesting. Mrs. Womack's class of seniors is to have full charge of the teaching service and the young people of the church under the leadership of Mrs. Davis will have full charge of the evening service. Come and help these young people have a great service and get a blessing yourself.

Don't forget that Mrs. Kincaid is teaching the Local Church Life training course at the mid-week services. "The Home and the Church" will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday morning, which is a very timely subject. I fear that the proper relationship between the home and the church is not very well understood today. Come and let us study this question together.

The Youth Conference was certainly timely, interesting and instructive. It was conducive of some very profound thinking and should result in a closer and more vital relationship between youth and the church. It is my wish that we may have these county wide conferences of youth regularly. Why not?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" was the lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 28.

The golden text was from John 8:12. "Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, 'I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.'"

The service included the following passages from the Bible: "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: That they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me."—Isaiah 45:5, 6.

The following citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were also included in the lesson-sermon: "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause" (P. 207). "Material sense does not unfold the facts of existence but spiritual sense lifts human consciousness into eternal Truth" (p. 95).

Correspondence Courses Offered by Texas Tech

Lubbock, Texas, Oct. 2.—With twenty-seven departments in Texas Technological College offering correspondence courses, one of the best years in the history of the college is seen for this department. During the 1929-30 term over sixteen hundred extension courses were given by the college and the requests for such courses this year far out numbered those at the corresponding time last year. Requests for extension classes in various courses have come from Amarillo, Plainview, Paducah, Subana, Brownfield, Meadow, Paducah, Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Tahoka, Levelland, Abernathy, Lockney, and Lubbock.

If these classes are sufficiently large, and a minimum of ten is required in each class, the courses will be given. Application for membership in the National University Extension Association has been made by the college and in the very near future a representative of the association will visit the college to inspect the work of the department. If his report is favorable a mail vote of the forty-three member institutions will be taken.

Interesting Program Presented by Juniors at Assembly Monday

The Junior Class entertained with a very interesting program at the chapel period Monday morning. The program opened with two vocal numbers by Jo Griffith. This was followed by a quartet consisting of Dan Clark, Bertha Womack, Eloise Saunders and Jo Griffith. The last and most interesting feature was a farce boxing match in which the characters Jack Sharkey and Jack Dempsey were portrayed. The boxers were Bill Middleton and George Fox, respectively. The Sophomores will entertain next Monday morning.

Every girl will have her suit Friday and the squad is expecting the game at that time to be one of the best of the season.

Sloan Springs Is Scene of Junior Class Picnic

The Junior Class enjoyed their first entertainment of the year last Thursday evening. The class met at the school building at 4:30 o'clock to start on a picnic. From there they went on a truck to Sloan Springs. J. M. Crowell proved to be the champion bread eater of the class. A few games were enjoyed before returning to town. After returning to town the townspeople were roused by the many yells. In spite of the sand and wind all reported a very enjoyable time. Coach Graves proved to be a delightful sponsor.

After trying this medicine out for a few days I found it different than anything I had ever tried before. Now, after taking Konjola for a month, I am feeling better than I have for a long time and am more than pleased with the results it has brought. It has done more for me than all else I tried and I am glad to endorse it." Although Konjola does work quickly, it is best to take this medicine over a six to eight week period in the average case. Its record has made Konjola a household word in thousands upon thousands of American homes. Konjola is sold in Crowell, Texas, at Ferguson Bros. drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Pecan Shortage Is Sweeping Texas

Austin, Texas, Oct. 2 (UP).—Pecans, which play such a prominent part in Christmas candy and cakes, promise to be high priced and scarce this year. Extremely cold weather last winter, followed by drouth in many pecan sections have made the crop about a third normal. In Denton County the crop has been made shorter by case bearers. There have also been many case bearers in Fannin County, which expects two-thirds of a crop despite them and dry weather. The nuts, however, will be small. Tarrant County reports there will be no crop there.

Smith County reports no insect damage, but says dry weather has reduced its pecan crop. In Brown County the insects did much damage. There was no frost damage, but dry weather increased the early shedding of nuts. This celebrated pecan section is said to have the shortest crop in ten years. Eastland County reports the weather and case bearers have lightened the crop. Insects and late freezing destroyed most of the pecans in Tom Green County. There has also been insect damage and squirrel damage.

Ellis County reports a short crop and general conditions not good. In Johnson County, hail, insects and dry weather have caused a shortage in production. Limestone County had too much rain when the trees were in bloom and the crop is very short. In McClennan County case bearer has practically taken the crop. Dry weather has caused summer shedding in Cherokee, Freestone and Leon Counties. In Gonzales the crop is very short. Late frosts killed the early blooms and there have been many insects. Lack of rainfall retarded growth in Jefferson County.

The Electric Man Recommends Safety and Convenience Lighting

"Do you know, I think one of the most convenient uses of lighting is the garage light, the driveway light and the yard light.

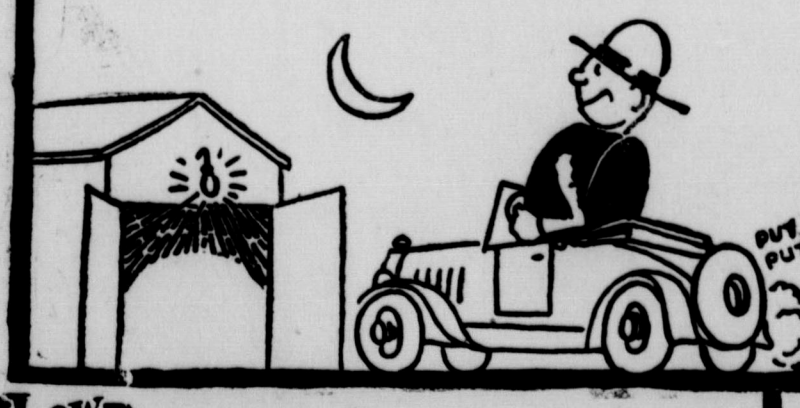

"More than likely you've noticed this type of lighting equipment, and have made up your mind to install it at some future date.

"Don't deny yourself such an important convenience—when it costs so little. Under the new rate system, this lighting is possible at a cost of only 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking—and will increase your monthly bill only a few cents; not enough to counterbalance the advantages of good lighting.

"With the new Home Comfort rate, your normal use of service should absorb the first two rates, placing all additional consumption on the low rate.

"You are sure to appreciate the many advantages that Safety and Convenience Lighting will bring you—and now at such low cost, you cannot afford to be without these advantages."

lections with Mrs. Hub Speck as accompanist.

Before adjuring Mrs. Roberts asked the old-timers to relate any interesting events of the past and a number responded with interesting and humorous reminiscences.

The meeting came to an end with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" and the benediction by Rev. Osborn. Before leaving for their homes a group picture of the old-timers was made in front of the church.

The old-timers that registered during the day and the year that they came to the section that is now Foard County follow:

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wesley, 1880, W. T. Dunn 1881, Mrs. W. T. Dunn 1887, Mrs. George Burk 1881, Sam McLarty 1881, Mrs. McLarty 1902, P. P. Cooper 1883, Mrs. Cooper 1886, James Ashford 1884, Mrs. Jas. erary jesters make of a man who was so fond of being late that he even ordered his funeral to be behind the promised time—and who yet compiled a fortune as a London draper? The facts are given among the news of recent wills: the fortune is there specified, and at the end of the will was the instruction "As I have always had the reputation of being late for my appointments, my joy will still be to be late at my funeral—and hope my friends will enjoy the joke. Make me ten minutes late."

This is a case where the business world seems to have carried the war into the enemy's camp with rare determination—no merely literary person has ever contrived to jest against punctuality of greater levity than this. To be punctiliously late for one's own funeral seems to be the last triumph of procrastination; only a ghost which missed the chimes of midnight and then dawdled on after cock crow could improve on this gesture of contempt for time tables. But the testator failed to achieve this triumph, for his will was not opened until after the funeral, when the instruction was discovered, and his interment had taken place on time.

Foard History—

new county to be created. Captain Good and others who had the promise mentioned to their friends the obligation that had been made so no remonstrance to creating a new county was sent the Legislature. However, there yet remained a lot of work to be done. The State Constitution provides that no new county shall be created with less than seven hundred square miles of land. The land in Hardeman County south of Pease River did not make the required acreage. Then arose the question, "what can we do?" Cottle County had not yet been organized and only a few people had located there. Knox County also was sparsely settled. The voters in both counties were mostly ranchmen.

J. G. Witherspoon who owned land and cattle in this territory was personally acquainted with nearly every man in the two counties above named, and through his influence and personal friendship he got a goodly number of these to promise that they would not raise an objection to the Legislature cutting off enough from the two counties to make up the necessary acreage.

With these things accomplished, Mr. Witherspoon took the petition and went to Austin, then by his personal acquaintance with James Browning, our representative, and John H. Stephens, our senator, a bill to create a new county was soon introduced, and "Beaver" was suggested as the name, so with land from three different counties it called for considerable map work in order to get the boundary lines. This and all other expenses were paid by Mr. Witherspoon.

The committee to whom the bill to create the county had been referred was slow in making a report. When inquiry was made as to the delay one member of the committee said, "If you will let me name the county I will see that a report is made at once."

Mr. Witherspoon told him to go ahead and give it any name he wanted. He was a lawyer and had a partner named Foard. A favorable report was made with the name Foard recommended by the committee. Long before that time there was a man in Southwest Texas, who had been prominent as a Ranger and Indian fighter whose name was Colonel Rip Ford. When the vote was taken most of the members of the House and Senate thought the name was in honor of "Old Colonel Rip," but it proved to be for another man with the name spelled different.

From the best information I can get, it was Col. Rip Ford that was in command of the Texas Cavalry in the last battle that was fought in the Civil War. General Lee had surrendered to General Grant on April 9, 1865. The remaining commanders began to surrender, but the last battle and last shot was not fired until May 13th. This was on Texas soil at Palmito on the Rio Grande.

A force of Federal troops had been ordered to go to Brownsville and occupy the city. A small force of Texas Cavalry commanded by Col. Ford was nearby. They made a gallant charge and the Federal troops were completely routed, and thus ended the final struggle. Let us not complain because "Col. Rip" did not get all the honor his friends wanted to give, but let us adopt the words of Commodore Dewey after the battle of Santiago and the Spanish fleet had been destroyed. Some of the officers and men were disposed to argue as to what particular portion of the American troops were entitled to the most credit for the victory. The old Commodore said, "Don't quarrel boys, there are honors enough for all."

After the difference in the names was discovered it was too late for correction, so the county bears the name of Major Robert Foard of Columbus, Colorado County, Texas, a worthy citizen and his picture hangs in the hall of our court house. (Continued Next Week)

ON BEING PUNCTUAL

It was Oscar Wilde who described one of his characters as "always late on principle, his principle being that punctuality is the thief of time."

It is the type of jest which many a literary person has launched against the disciples of Samuel Smiles, who held that if punctuality was the politeness of kings it was also "the necessity of mere of business." But if punctuality be a base commercial virtue, what can the lit-

VALUATIONS AND TAXES

Taxpayers who have dreams of lower taxes through smaller valuations are due for a jolt when it comes time to pay taxes because taxes do not depend on arbitrary values placed on physical property by appraisal.

The old delusion will never wear off. So many property owners still cling to it as the panacea for all of their taxation ailments.

The amount of taxes levied is dependent entirely upon the amount of money required to run the government, local, township, county, state and federal.

As long as our present system of taxation prevails, government expenses will be the measure of taxes needed.

If valuations decline, as the result of new appraisments, expenses remaining the same, the tax rate will be higher. If valuations are increased, the tax rate will be lower, but the amount assessed will be unchanged if the expense of government does not vary.

This is a law that can't be escaped. No end of slicing down taxation values will change it.

The only way to reduce taxes is to reduce government expenditures. This is a fact that every taxpayer should remember instead of building up false hopes when new appraisments are made.
