A big change in car insurance

Many Garza counties apparently are not yet aware that on Jan. 1 the Texas financial responsibility law for motorists became stronger and minimum liability insurance costs increased under changes made by the last Legislature.

The State Insurance Department estimated recently that some 58 per cent of the insured Texas motorists had not met the new requirements for higher bodily injury coverage. In the eyes of the law, this underinsured position is the same as having no insurance.

For some time, minimum liability insurance coverage of $5,000 for death or injury to one person and $10,000 for two has been satisfactory under Texas law. The new law doubles these amounts. The property damage minimum liability, however, will remain at $5,000.

The changes were not made without debate. Sponsors of the legislation said it will help to curb the more than $100 million annual economic loss from property damage. Critics of the legislation said it would increase the number of uninsured motorists because of the higher costs, which will range from $4 to $20 per year, depending on the area of the state in which the insured motorists live. What of the motorist who does not have insurance? In certain cases, the law can be rather unpleasant.

It requires the Department of Public Safety to suspend for two years the driver's license and registration plates of persons involved in accidents resulting in at least $100 property damage or injury unless:

- 1) They have met the new liability insurance requirement.
- 2) The damaged or injured person files a release.
- 3) The driver is found not liable by a civil court.
- 4) The driver can deposit $200 or more to meet expected judgments for damages.

The driver also must file proof of financial responsibility for the future and maintain it for five years.

In short, persons who fail to have adequate liability insurance will be taking a big risk. It is likely that many of them will be very unhappy before the year is over.—CD

January school census month

The school census, required by Texas law to be taken each January, will get under way in the Post Independent School District and in the county's other three school districts within the next few days.

Every effort will be made to enumerate each child between 6 and 17 years of age, and also the names and ages of pre-school children who will be 6 years old in time to start to school next fall.

The census procedure in the Post Independent School District consists of sending census cards home by pupils for parents to fill out and return. Parents are asked to help make the census a complete and successful one by filling in and returning the cards promptly.

The names and ages of all pre-school children will help the schools to evaluate and plan for the next school year's need.

Parents of these pre-school age children who do not have other children in school are asked to contact one of the high school offices with the required information on their children.

What our contemporaries are saying

Once upon a time in the not too distant past, there was an industrious ant. He worked all day in the fields cutting grass and taking it home to store for the winter while his neighbor, a grasshopper, sat singing in the sun watching the ant work. Winter came and the cold winds blew and the ant remained in his warm house, surrounded by his grass. But then it came to pass that the industrious ant had violated the Federal Farm Law of The Land. So he was fined $137.75 for over-harvesting grass and the grass was confiscated and the grasshopper received it for his free food stamps and lived happily ever after.—The Lynn County News.

Christmas just past was one of the merriest ever. A carefully considered estimate indicated that 87.3 per cent of the people had a much better time than they could afford.—Olin Miller in The Seguin Gazette.

It would be easier to love my enemy if revenge did not have such tasty icing.—Douglas Meador in Matador Tribune.

There were two trends in 1963 that certainly bear mentioning. Most important of these was that only 65 million pounds of tobacco were used last year for chewing purposes. This was a cut of better than a fifth of total weight in 10 years. On the other hand, in the face of cancer flag-waving skeptics, cigarette smokers managed to burn up an estimated 523 billion cigarettes during the year. And this was the highest consumption record ever reached by the industry, which has been breaking records for the past seven years. And to top it all, it seems that a few smokers are branching out. More cigars were smoked during the past year than has been puffed in over 40 years. So we can expect to see more ban-the-cigarette literatures from health nuts and more advertising from cigarette companies.—Marvin Tomme in The Rails Banner.

TO ME, IT never seems as if the New Year has actually started until all the bowl games have been played.

IT HAPPENS EVERYWHERE

They took a little gravel, and they took a little tar, with various ingredients imported from afar; they hammered it and rolled it, and when they went away they said they had a pavement to last for many a day.

They came with picks and smote it, to lay a water main, and they called the workmen to put it back again; to lay a railway cable they took it up once more, and then they put it back again just where it was before.

They took it up for conduits, to run the telephone, and then they put it back again as hard as any stone; they tore it up for wires, to feed the electric light; and then they put it back again, which was no more than right.

Oh, the pavement's full of furrows, there are patches everywhere; you'd like to ride upon it, but it's seldom that you dare. It's a very handsome pavement, a credit to the town; they're always digging it up or putting of it down.

The Man up the Street says women can be persuaded to do anything with their hair except leave it alone.

A FRIEND OF mine who'd never been very far on either side of the Red River until he was nearly thirty years old had spent much of that time bemoaning the fact that he'd never make his mark in the South and that he wanted to go north. He never had anything good to say for the part of the country in which he grew up, and the first time he got enough money together for a bus ticket as far north as he could go without leaving the United States, he departed. He got a job and for a couple of years everything went off without a hitch. One cold night, however, this friend was in a tavern, wondering how everything was going "down home," and all of a sudden the dance band cut loose with "Red River Valley." It was too much. My friend proceeded to wreck as much of the tavern as he could before they hauled him off to the pokey, and as soon as he got out he raked together what little he had left and bought a bus ticket back to the South, where the last I heard he was doing all right. No telling what might have happened to my friend while he was in that tavern up north if the band had struck up "Dixie." The late Clyde Holland, who at the time of his death in 1944, was publisher of The Muleshoe Journal, once told me how he and some other doughboys wrecked a bistro in Paris, France, during the first World War when a band paraded in front of the place playing "Dixie." Since I'm the peace-loving type, the only tune that ever stirs me like that is "When the Saints Go Marching In," and it never makes me want to tear up anything.

The young, athletic high school grad applied for a job at the freight terminal office. After studying the four-page application form, he finally found a question he could answer. To the query, "What machines do you operate?", he wrote with great confidence, "Slot and pinball."

BECAUSE I didn't want to wreck anyone's holidays, I've waited until now to run another puzzle for The Dispatch's gifted logicians. This puzzle is much more difficult than the Case of the Curious Corpse of some weeks ago. So, take your time.

Each of the five daughters of a neighbor of mine wears, day by day in rotation, such dresses as she possesses. All the dresses in one girl's wardrobe are of different colors, and no two girls have the same number of dresses, nor does any girl possess as many as a dozen dresses. Here is the data:

- 1) On June 1, Betty wore blue, Barbara and Billie red, Babs green and Bella yellow.
- 2) On June 11, two girls wore red, one green, one blue and one white.
- 3) On June 19, Babs wore green and Bella yellow; the other three girls wore red.
- 4) Babs wore yellow on June 22 and white on June 23.
- 5) On July 1 all five girls were dressed exactly as on June 1.

The question, alas, is this: WHO WORE GREEN ON JUNE 11?

Cotton burs growing in favor as a mule

By VIRGIL MIDDLETON
Soil Conservation Service

Many Garza County farmers are becoming more aware of a valuable by-product from the "white gold" of the South Plains area. This by-product from cotton, the chief cash crop of this area, would be cotton burs, which are growing in favor with area farmers as an erosion preventing and soil-building product.

Cotton, the crop largely depended upon as the "money" crop, is considered a low residue-producing crop in terms of plant material which is returned to the soil. The increased use of skip-row farming has resulted in more land devoted to cotton and less to high residue crops such as feed or small grain. From this situation there has developed a real need for leaving something on the ground which will provide protection from wind and water erosion and help maintain good soil condition. Mulching with cotton burs is an answer for this need.

To do an effective job of erosion control, at least three tons of burs should be left on the soil as long as possible. This burs left on the soil surface after ginning season through critical wind erosion period about April 1 on dryland until land is prepared for additional soil improving about 10 pounds of burs should be left on the soil.

Many farmers feel that cotton burs is the best means of providing residue on land where otherwise would be none. With proper management of a cotton bur farmer should expect to accomplish the following: Conservation: prevent surface erosion or crusting; reduce runoff erosion, and improve the chemical and biological of the soil.

Mother, son hurt in traffic mishap

Mrs. Doris Jones and her 13-year-old son, Gregg, were injured about 9:45 a. m. Saturday when their automobile and a flat-bed tandem truck collided at the intersection of Fourth Street and Broadway.

Mrs. Jones' daughter, Vera Mae, 17, and the truck driver, Duane J. Graham of Lubbock, escaped injury. Police Chief Elton Corley, who investigated the accident, said the truck, traveling north on Broadway, struck the Jones automobile as it crossed the highway on Fourth Street.

The front door of the automobile was jammed by the impact and a jack had to be used to release Mrs. Jones' foot, which was caught in the jammed door. Both she and her son, who was driving, suffered cuts on the head, but were not seriously injured. They were taken to Garza Memorial Hospital.

Police Chief Corley said the automobile was listed as a "total loss" from the accident damage.

No Clickety-Clacks In Glued Rail Tracks

2. (Below) Epoxy resin glue is applied to area of contact between rail and joint bar.

1. (Above) Joint bars and rail ends are sandblasted prior to application of epoxy glue.

4. (Below) A portable propane heater is used to heat area to about 275 degrees Fahrenheit.

3. (Above) Joint bars are replaced and bolts tightened. Welding rails into 1,440-foot sections removed the clickety-clack, provided a smoother ride, and reduced the problem of damage to rail ends by substituting one joint where there were formerly 37. And for the remaining joints, which average about 8 per mile, Santa Fe Railway is now experimenting with an epoxy resin glue in their current program of laying 245 miles of welded rail during 1963 that may minimize maintenance even more. Gluing ends of the long rails increases strength of the joint assembly, helps keep rail ends in alignment to reduce pounding by passing trains, and greatly reduces the possibility of gaps between rail ends during extreme temperature changes. If tests prove successful, the same process may be applied to the more than 1,800 track miles of welded rail already in service on the Santa Fe.

RECORD TIME

We're at that time of the year when you'll start riffling through stacks of old checks, receipts, statements, etc., to see what you can do to whittle down your income tax.

If you're like the average Texan, the record-sorting will be quite a chore, for most people overlook the advantages of a simple record-keeping system.

Used to be a family's important data was confined to the flyleaf of the family Bible. But life's gotten complicated since then.

Now you need to keep track of birth certificates, insurance policies, social security, income tax matters, automobile titles, etc. You can make life easier for yourself, and your family when you are gone if you follow a few simple rules in setting up your do-it-yourself record system.

1. Get a heavily bound notebook folder or file folder as a central collecting point for all the records of your affairs.

2. Put your especially important papers in your safe deposit box, but make a list of those papers and a brief summary of their contents to put in your home file.

3. Get for your files copies of birth certificates for all members of the family. Add your marriage license or at least a statement as to when and where you were married and by whom.

4. Insert your will or a copy of it. If your will is kept elsewhere, include a note telling where it may be found.

5. During the year, put into the file your income tax withholding statements and receipts for expenditures which may be deductible. Then keep a copy of each year's tax return in the file.

6. Make a list of all the stocks and bonds you own and where they are.

7. List all the places you have lived and worked and the names of persons there who you know. Include the schools you have attended and the dates you left or were graduated.

8. If you may have benefits coming under a profit-sharing plan where you work, make a note of that too.

9. If you're in doubt about whether an item should be included, put it in.

This takes time initially, but it will save you both time and worry in the long run.

Texas 65 health insurance plan explained here

Harold Lucas, local Rotarian, told Post Rotarians Tuesday luncheon in City of the new Texas 65 Health Insurance program. It was made possible by new state law passed by session of the legislature in 1963.

He explained that the 10-year period for all Texas the age of 65 who wanted such insurance lasted 31 months Oct. 31, 1963, the insurance becoming effective Nov. 1, 1964.

He pointed out that 63 insurance companies have joined to underwrite the experimental program in old-age health insurance and that the state itself has money into it.

Lucas explained that anyone has 31 days after reaching his 65th birthday to enroll in the program. He predicted an enrollment period will be set for those over 65 who did not take advantage of their original opportunity.

A medical examination is required, he said.

Lucas said he would not recommend Texas 65 Health Insurance to anyone who can't pay for it.

Some 250,000 Texans are enrolled in the program, he said.

Actually, he pointed out, plans are offered. One is to plan for the first 31 days of enrollment at a cost of one month per person. The other is to plan for the first 31 days of enrollment at a cost of one month per person. The latter is called a major medical plan and picks up where the basic plan leaves off and pays for the cost of medical and hospital care.

The major medical plan costs one month.

It's My Turn ...

—By MRS. C.

I've spent most of last week and the weekend being mad at the bank. Nothing personal, please understand—just old human nature at work. Regardless of how much one might love one's bankers, tellers, cashiers, etc., one has this irresistible impulse to prove them all wrong—at least once in a lifetime. And most of us fight a losing battle here. Once or twice I really thought I had caught THEM in an error but anyone that ever received a bank statement knows that I didn't.

This whole thing started when Mr. C was opening the mail a week ago Tuesday morning. I was punching merrily away when Mr. C asked me to stop. One look at his face and I knew something terrible had happened. He handed me a slip from the First National Bank stating that the Post Dispatch account was overdrawn. He didn't say anything but I got the feeling that my days might be numbered as his bookkeeper.

I took one glance at the slip and said: "Well, they are wrong and it will take me about one minute to prove it." With that I flipped (and I flip pretty good if the occasion demands) over to my desk and hurriedly ran through the last few entries in the checkbook which were as I KNEW, CORRECT. Gloatingly I announced to Mr. C (who was still looking like I had committed a crime) "I have THEM this time!"

I was too involved with punching to take time out to go to the bank and gloat over the bookkeeping department so I graciously said: "Yov go, Mr. C and don't let THEM off too easy."

One look at Mr. C's face when he returned and I knew THEY had us again. It all turned out to be a simple error of making out a Dis-natch deposit to the C's account by mistake. It's humiliating, that's what it is—for THEM to always be correct. And then I thought what a grand opportunity I'd missed by not knowing we had all that money in our personal account. I could have really gone on a Christmas binge!

Things settled down at the office

Officers elected by Sewing Club

Mrs. Lillie Short was elected president of the Mystic Sewing Club when it met last Friday in the home of Mrs. Cecil Gray.

and I stopped looking over my shoulder for the sheriff to appear but I was still a little miffed at being proved wrong. Along about Thursday, I started in one end-of-month things and stuff, taking the bank statement to settle first of all.

Wouldn't you know I was off—not just a little off but a big off. After wasting several hours and proving myself right and THEM wrong again, I handed it all to Mr. C and went back to punching.

Mr. C finally squeezed in MY work this weekend and in no time at all found that it wasn't THEM, it was me again.

It's downright frustrating. The only satisfaction I get is seeing one of those EC's marked on the statement and knowing that THEY are at least human and make errors that they cagily catch before sending them out.

I probably wouldn't have been so upset if I didn't have all this free government work staring me in the face—reports, reports, reports.

Already our employes are breathing down my neck about W2 forms. Corky Ammons won the prize this year by coming to work Thursday after New Year's Day and instead of saying "Good morning" said: "Got the W2's ready?" We're barely speaking. And Walter Didway, son of Charles-the-editor, got in the dog house when I gripped about Corky asking, and he said: "Well, have you?"

Worth goes down
feeders

WORTH — Many cattle feeders will remember 1963 as the year of their discontent. The cause of their troubles was the primary cost of feed. Higher feed costs were contributing to the low price of the cost of feeder cattle. According to the latest summary published by the Cattle Feeders Association of the Texas and Oklahoma Cattle Raisers Association, the price of feeder cattle in 1963 was down $2.25 per hundred pounds compared to prices a year ago. Prices on 500 to 800 pound feeder steers at Omaha were $1.18 per hundred during the period. Cattle prices followed a similar trend nearly all year. Domestic production of beef in 1963 was estimated at 16,470 million pounds, and this was revealed by record beef production in 1963 levels. In 1964, domestic beef production is expected to be slightly above 1963 levels and shipments of foreign beef to the United States could be as high as the record 1963 tonnage. Exports are expected to average 1963 levels and feeder cattle prices are expected to average 1963 levels.

Santa Fe Railway will spend $100 million in '64 for cars, engines

The Santa Fe Railroad Co. will spend 100 million dollars in 1964 to add 4,800 new freight cars and 50 new diesel engines.

"The heavy emphasis on new equipment reflects Santa Fe's continuing efforts to improve its revenues in a program designed to meet increased demands of shippers for specialized cars, replace old retired cars and help alleviate car shortages," Ernest S. Marsh, president of Santa Fe, said.

Mr. Marsh also said the Santa Fe is readying plans to offer special round-trip passenger fares, effective Jan. 10 through April 30, 1964, to help off-season business.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer? If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, you'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 351-cu-in. V8—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet.

Final rites held for Bob Garrison

Funeral services and burial were held in Elk City, Okla., Friday for Bob Garrison, 32, who was the manager of Post's first radio station.

Garrison was killed Wednesday of last week in a traffic accident near Elk City while he and two companions were returning from a pheasant hunting trip to Nebraska.

Garrison was owner of radio station KBEK in Elk City. He was born in Levelland and attended Texas Tech, where he majored in music. He came to Post as station manager when Wallace Simpson established station KRWS here in 1955.

10 per cent rise in 1964 capital spending expected by Burlington

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Capital expenditures for Burlington Industries, Inc., during 1964 will be about 10 per cent higher than in 1963, according to the Company's Annual Report which has been mailed to some 35,000 stockholders.

Charles F. Myers Jr., president, notes that the Company's capital spending will continue to be directed toward profit improvement through expanded production, increased efficiency, broader product mix and better quality.

The Company invested more than $52 million for improvement and expansion of Burlington plants and equipment in 1963. During the last five years, excluding acquisition of new companies, Burlington has invested $205 million for new capital equipment and facilities.

Highlights of Burlington's activities during its 1963 fiscal year, covered in the report, include the achievement of record sales and earnings, a dividend increase, simplification of the Company's debt and equity structure, expansion of research and new product development and increased overseas activities.

The Post (Texas) Dispatch Thursday, Jan. 9, 1964 Page 7

Mr. Myers reported to stockholders that "the immediate outlook for our business appears good. Orders in most divisions are running ahead of this time last year and some strengthening of price is now developing."

He added that "there has been much said about the problems of the American textile industry and too little said about its achievements. The better companies have been modernizing both production facilities and management methods. Research efforts have been intensified and markets expanded through development of new and more desirable products. Capital spending has increased appreciably, bringing more rapid technological advances to help meet foreign competitive pressures. The result has been a new vitality for our industry and a growing recognition on the part of investors and consumers that textiles are now a more dynamic factor in the American economy."

Burlington, largest and most diversified textile producer, operates 126 plants in 102 American communities in 18 states, with overseas operations conducted in nine foreign countries and Puerto Rico.

Elisha Gray of Chicago and Alexander Graham Bell of Boston, acting independently, both applied for patents on the telephone on the same day in 1876.

Honey bees are not native to America but were brought to Florida by the Spaniards in 1763.

NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Never has the future seemed more exciting . . . or more disturbing! Today we dream of flights to far stars; about intelligent life on other planets. We look at our own earth with clear eyes, and discuss the possibility of world brotherhood, world government, world peace.

Are these things going to happen? We don't know. But we do know that nothing is impossible.

In fact, Jesus tells us that all things are possible with God. He wants us to understand that God is infinite power, as well as infinite love. The foolishness of men cannot affect God's plans for the universe, or His love for each one of us.

Faith is what we need . . . faith in the certainties upon which the Christian Church is founded. When we put our lives in God's hands, there is no need to view the future with doubt or dread. All will be well.

Driver unhurt in pickup turnover

A. E. Redman, Storie Gin employe, escaped injury at 12:30 p. m. last Friday when his pickup truck turned over after he had applied the brakes to avert a collision with another car.

The accident occurred at the intersection of U. S. Hwy. 380 and Avenue S, with Redman's truck leaving the road and turning bottom side up in the driveway of the Max Gordon home at 918 West 8th St.

Police Chief Elton Corley, who investigated the accident, said Redman's truck turned over apparently after a wheel locked when he applied the brakes to avoid colliding with a car driven by Sol Finney, new manager of Dunlap's Store here.

The officer said his investigation disclosed that Finney, driving north on Avenue S, stopped at the stop sign, started across the highway and then stopped again when he saw Redman's pickup approaching.

Jaycees to meet at bank Monday

A change in the meeting place for the organizational meeting of a Post Junior Chamber of Commerce was announced by Frank Blanton.

The meeting will be held in the bank's Community Room at 7:30 p. m. Monday, instead of the banquet room of Levi's Restaurant as announced last week.

All interested young men under 35 are invited to attend.

The Lubbock Jaycees are spearheading the reorganization of the local Jaycee chapter which became inactive here a few years ago. Dr. Granberry of Lubbock will be present to assist in the reorganization effort to give Post its third civic club.

the area of a retaliatory base target area in case of a nuclear attack.

She used a large wall map with the retaliatory bases pin-pointed in explaining that if a bomb was dropped on Lubbock, which is a retaliatory base, that people in Post would have just 45 minutes to get to shelters before the nuclear fallout reached here.

"IF OUR COUNTRY is to be attacked, we need to be prepared—but we are not," Mr. Hartel said. She said that only about 14 shelters in all of Garza County offer adequate protection from fallout.

"The best-constructed homes offer only 10 per cent protection from nuclear fallout," she stated.

County Judge J. E. Parker, who attended the council meeting for Mrs. Hartel's talk, said that the county has never had more than a skeleton civil defense organization and that what little has been done toward providing ample protection has never been coordinated.

"We need to get something started for the protection of everybody," Judge Parker said. "And by protection I do not mean only from fallout, but also from natural disasters such as tornadoes and fires."

Councilman Bob Collier said he believed concentration of efforts at this time should be on protection from natural disasters, which he said he believed would lead into preparation for "something bigger" such as nuclear fallout.

"IT IS GOING to take a long time," Collier said, "to educate the people to the need of protection on the larger scale, but I believe it eventually will come if we'll start concentrating now on protection from such disasters as tornadoes."

Robert Cato, county civil defense chairman, said some organization needs to get behind civil defense preparations and keep pushing. "You can't get anything done just by letting nature take its course," he commented.

Cato, an ex-fire chief was at the meeting with Fire Chief Lloyd Mock, to answer the council's questions about operation of the Post Volunteer Fire Department. Before they left, the council had voted to purchase a portable power plant for the fire department and also to equip the fire chief's automobile with a fire extinguisher and a forcible entrance tool.

The power plant, which will cost about $300, would be a big step in civil defense, it was explained, especially in case of a power failure during a tornado or other disaster. The power plant will be stored at the fire station, but will be available for use when needed by others, it was explained.

EQUIPPING THE FIRE chief's car with a fire extinguisher and a forcible entry tool will reduce the fire insurance rate here by 1 per cent, the council was told.

In answer to questions by the council, the firemen said the rate of pay to the volunteer firemen is

New 'reading eye' camera explained

Dr. John E. Carter gave a film strip demonstration and talk before Post Lions at their weekly dinner meeting Tuesday night in Levi's Restaurant on the "Reading Eye" camera.

This camera photographically records eye movements while a subject is reading and will detect a reading problem and the cause of such reading problem, Dr. Carter explained.

He said better reading habits can be taught and that many school "dropouts" can be eliminated through instruction in proper reading.

According to this school trustee, 60 junior high students here were recently tested and 31 cases of poor reading ability and sight deficiency were uncovered.

Dr. Carter emphasized the seriousness of the dropout problem can be realized when one finds Texas ranked 49th among the 50 states in literacy and that out of every 100 junior high students in Post, 57 will drop out of school before high school graduation unless a solution is found.

white bread which you'll enjoy.

And we welcome back another advertiser—United Super Market—which an announcement on page 13 of the start of its new bonus bowling game.

On page 15 you'll find two other important "ads". One is from Punk Peel who announces that he now has an experienced local auto mechanic, Ray Rinker, on duty or on call, whenever the station is open (6 a. m. to 9 p. m. 7 days a week) in the new motor tuneup bay at Peel's Texaco Service at 515 N. Broadway. Not only are the station facilities now expanded, but the station is the first in Post to be covered with white porcelain enamel on its exterior. Punk and his hands can now just scrub it down to keep it nice and shiny.

The other "ad" we mentioned above on page 15 is the second in a pictorial series by Robert Cox at the R. E. Cox Lumber Company, depicting another of that firm's many services to area and local patrons. This one shows the firm's pipe threading service. Picture ads such as this will be long remembered and bring the lumber firm business months from now. That Chinese philosopher, Confucius, was right about a picture "being worth 10,000 words."

It's hard to put into words how impressed we are with the work of Superintendent of Schools Barry Thompson and Director of School Instruction Bill Shiver as they come up with facts, ideas, and plans for the citizens advisory committee in improving Post schools in the years ahead. They have made a tremendous impression already on school patrons, but what they are working toward in the months and years ahead is even more tremendous.

Never have we seen two more dedicated young men in the field of education at our hometown level. They are sincerely interested in improving education AT EVERY LEVEL here. They are moving steadily ahead with efforts to come to grips and solve our tough "drop-out" problem at one end of the scale and at an enrichment program for this community's gifted students at the other. They are off to Austin—the two of them this weekend—with hands outstretched seeking research funds for educational projects for Post schools which will not only help education in Texas in general, but also education right here in Post. They have a group of youngsters in the junior high so "fired up" over a new experimental controlled reading program that the two administrators are now having difficulty keeping the experimental project under control.

They are building a file for each student to test both mental capacity and achievement. Maybe it is telling tales out of school, but they expect to be able to predict "potential drop-outs" within the next 18 months right at the local second grade level—and get busy doing something about it. They want an educational program in high school for the terminal graduate—the one who can't go to college to prepare him or her for life in today's world. At the same time they are testing and experimenting with ways to improve local classroom achievement at all levels with a better reading program throughout the entire system. Coming up too is intensified mathematics training in the grade schools. Both men are eager to come to grips with a multitude of educational problems.

For those on the citizens advisory committee—which meets again tonight to continue work on recommendations for the Post schools for the next three years—it has been a real experience to work with them and with others on our faculty staff.

A fresh wind is blowing locally in education—one that smells to us like rain, and plenty of it.

Dennis Eubank's automobile was wrecked early Friday night when a loaded cotton trailer it was pulling jack-knived and slammed against the vehicle.

The accident occurred on FM Road 122 just north of the city limits.

Highway Patrolman Henry Harden, who investigated, said the trailer evidently jack-knived after its front axle broke.

Eubank was hauling the cotton in to the gin from his farm north of town.

Aunt Gerty gets sorrowful letter from celebrant

DEAR AUNT GERTY:

My problem is like this. My boy friend, Louie, does not like the way I celebrated New Year's Eve. I did not really do much. No more than anyone else. And then it was nothing so terribly bad. But, I will not go into that now.

Please help me. I just cannot get it through his head that what I did amounted to nothing.

Sorry for Celebrating Donna

DEAR SORRY:

I am afraid I cannot help you with this problem. You see, I have had the same one for years now.

The only solution that ever has been good is to be sure he is always by your side while celebrating. This way, he will know just exactly what kind of celebrating you did. Then he can only be mad at himself for letting you do the things you do.

Hope it will work.
AUNT GERTY.

English Department film

'The Corn Is Green' shows here Monday

The English Department of Post High School will present Emyln Williams' "The Corn Is Green," a movie starring Bette Davis, Nigel Bruce, Rhys Williams, Mildred Dunnock, Joan Loring and John Dall, in the Primary Auditorium, Monday night, Jan. 13. Curtain time is 7 p. m.

"The Corn Is Green" is a moving human story of the problems of a dedicated school teacher in a Welsh mining town, faithfully adapted from the famous play by Ewlyn Williams.

Bette Davis, as the teacher, is appalled by the ignorance and poverty she finds in the village of Glensarn where the inhabitants send their children to the mines at the age of ten.

She must fight every prejudice against her campaign to eradicate illiteracy and is spurred on by her discovery of a gifted miner who deserves a higher education. When his chance for a scholarship is jeopardized at the last minute by a village girl who does not love him but claims support for her child, the teacher offers to raise the child herself, enabling her student to take advantage of the greatest opportunity ever offered a mining boy.

The film, 114 minutes in length, is the third of a series presented by the English department. The public is invited.

THE ORIGINAL "PHILADELPHIA LAWYER"

Frequently, when a problem is particularly perplexing, someone will exclaim that "This would confuse a Philadelphia lawyer." The term takes on special significance when it is remembered that it has a close connection with one of the most important cases in American legal history—the seditious libel trial of John Peter Zenger in 1735.

Zenger was the printer and publisher of a paper known as the New York Weekly Journal. Unfortunately, he made the unhappy mistake of criticizing the administration of Royal Governor Cosby of New York in the public print. The tyrannical Cosby had Zenger jailed and thus began a dramatic and important event in American history.

Zenger had editorialized that the Governor had deeds to lands destroyed, judges arbitrarily displaced, new courts established without the consent of the Legislature and had denied the right to vote to certain landowners. All of these accusations were based on fact but truth was held to be no defense in a prosecution for seditious libel, which was defined as "a written censure upon public men for their conduct as such." Inconceivable as it is today, the English courts had taken the position that the greater the truth the more serious the nature of the libel.

Zenger was brought to trial for his published remarks and almost immediately his New York counsel were disbarred because of the resistance they offered in his defense. After disbarment they secured the services of Andrew Hamilton of the Philadelphia bar to continue the defense. Hamilton was the foremost lawyer in the American Colonies and the term "Philadelphia lawyer" was long used as a special compliment in his individual honor.

Hamilton offered his services to Zenger without fee. Displaying great moral courage he defied the judges who were controlled by the Governor and told the jury that it was not considering the cause of just a poor printer. Instead, it was considering the cause of "the liberty both of exposing and opposing arbitrary power by speaking and writing truth." At the conclusion of the trial the Chief Justice instructed the jury that the printed words of Zenger were libelous and that if the jury found he had published them, as he had, then Zenger would be convicted.

Fortunately, the jury, which was not controlled by the Governor, defied the court. Zenger was found not guilty. America had a free press and as Governor Morris, one of the members of the Constitutional Convention was later to remark, "The trial of Zenger in 1735 was the germ of American freedom, the morning star of that liberty which subsequently revolutionized America."

Population goes down in prison

AUSTIN — For the first time in 18 years, the number of prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections shows a decrease.

Dr. George Beto, department director, reports that the Dec. 31 count was 12,150, compared with 12,203 the year before. Since 1945, there has been a steady climb in the number of prison inmates.

Beto cited three reasons for leveling off: more adequate parole supervision; opening of a new first-offender unit; a pre-release program of preparing prisoners for freedom; an expanded trusty program, and overall improvement in the prisoner treatment program.

The prison chief said the reduction not only will save money on prison care, but also in welfare funds spent on families of inmates, not to mention restoring prisoners to productive lives as citizens and taxpayers.

The kids from PHS sent the holiday season out with a bang! "Events of 1963" was the theme of the holiday dance featuring the "Expressions" from Lubbock.

Susie Jo, why did you keep trying to take Carol Ann home when all she wanted was to go to the Gulf, Sunday afternoon?

What was with all the balloons floating down town Sunday? Maybe just left over from the dance Saturday night. Unless they were all stomped out.

The holiday dance was a big success! The Youth Center was decorated in pink, orange, and red. The various events of 1963, beginning with January, were posted on the walls. Refreshments were served. Playing for the dance were the "Expressions" from Lubbock. Many of the students and PHS execs attended. It was a successful start for the New Year of 1964.

New Couples Seen Around: Diane Kiker and Harvey Pennell, Mary Beth Ford and Billy Shumard, Ann Greer and Donnie Hays, Lana Haynie and Darrell Young, Yvonne Moreland and Tommy Hill, Meredith Newby and Larry Osman, Cheri Cummings and Freddie Simmons, Peggy Thorn and Chris Berry.

What's with all the anonymous telephone calls some of the girls of PHS have been receiving? It is not safe to answer the phone any longer. Looks like we are going to have to start tracing phone calls now.

Former principal of grade school dies in Lubbock

Mrs. Faye Cogdill, 68, of Lubbock, who from 1914 until 1923 lived in Post, where she was grade school principal, died Sunday night at Taylor Hospital in Lubbock, where she had been hospitalized for two weeks.

Born at Bradshaw, in Taylor County, Mrs. Cogdill moved to Post in 1914 and moved from here to Littlefield in 1923, where she taught in the public schools until 1941, when she moved to Lubbock. She was a former employe at Texas Tech, where she was secretary to the dean of business administration.

Mrs. Cogdill was active in the First Methodist Church in Lubbock and had taught the Sorosis class for 17 years. She also was active in church organizations and was a member of the Order of Eastern Star.

Funeral services for Mrs. Cogdill were held at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the First Methodist Church at Lubbock. Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park.

She is survived by her husband, B. L. Cogdill, of the home; one son, Dr. Jack Cogdill of Oklahoma City; two sisters, Mrs. Esma Cash of Austin and Mrs. O. G. Lewis of Rule, and three brothers, Marcus Earl Morris of Slaton, Max L. Morris of Lubbock and Ray Morris of Torrance, Calif.

Former resident's rites conducted

Graveside services for Mrs. Mildred Pauline Jinkins, former Post resident, who died New Year's Day in Jal, N. M., were conducted at 4 p. m. last Friday at Terrace Cemetery under the direction of Hudman Funeral Home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jinkins, who was 34 years old, had been conducted at 10 a. m. Friday at the First Baptist Church in Jal. She was the wife of F. J. (Cap) Jinkins. The couple were residents of Post until about 12 years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Jinkins is survived by one daughter, Judy; two sons, Scotty and Johnny; her parents, four brothers and one sister.

Texas 4-H Members Cited For Best-in-State Projects

Three high school juniors, who have been honored for their 4-H leadership, received additional honors in 1963 for their individual club projects.

Joe Bob Watson, 16, Silverton; Judy Caldwell, 17, Panhandle; and Billy Don Rives, 16, Twitty, winners of Gold Star and leadership awards, have been selected by the Cooperative Extension Service for 1963 best-in-state honors.

Watson received an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago for his efforts in the 4-H Tractor program. He was the guest of the Humble Oil and Refining Company, the award sponsor.

Miss Caldwell and Rives were girl and boy winners in the 4-H Public Speaking program sponsored by the Pure Oil Company. Miss Caldwell's award was a chest of table silverware. Rives received a 19-jewel wristwatch.

Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Obra Watson, has carried the tractor project for four years. This past year he planned and conducted a tractor school in the absence of a county agent. Watson is Briscoe County 4-H Council co-chairman and has received an agricultural progress award.

Miss Caldwell is the daughter of the Harrison T. Caldwell who operate a 1,200-acre ranch. She gave her winning speech on "Education—Our Heritage." Last year she won a state blue ribbon with her speech, "Who Owns the World?"

Miss Caldwell has narrated the district dress revue and served as mistress of ceremonies at the 4-H achievement banquet. She was judged the best actress in District 1-A one-act play contest, and this past year was awarded membership in the Producers Grain Corporation 4-H Talent Club.

"I would take nothing for the self-confidence and poise my public speaking experiences have given me," Miss Caldwell stated. "It has affected my school work... themes are easier to write and organize."

Miss Caldwell is secretary of the Carson County 4-H Council and president of Panhandle Community 4-H Club. She served as 4-H youth representative in the Carson County Program Building Committee.

Rives presented the ideals of Americanism in his winning speech. He has won several district public speaking contests in addition to first-place in the Panhandle Hereford Breeders speech contest.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rives who operate a 2,300-acre ranch, Rives is Wheeler County 4-H Council vice chairman and Shramrock 4-H Club president. He was chosen to represent Wheeler County at Texas Farm Bureau leadership seminar.

Holidays are over and the students have returned to the "salt mines." With semester exams right around the corner, there is a promise of work for all.

Senior play practice began Monday night. The play should prove to be an outstanding one if for no other reason than the fact that it will be different. It is the first mystery to be given in a number of years. "Drums of Destiny" will be presented on Feb. 7. Watch for it!

The holidays provided an inviting scene for adventure. Mary Beth Ford, Danny Jones, Shirley Sappington and Kenith Smith all went hiking, we are told. It seems Mary Beth and Shirley were rather scratched and bloody when they got home. Did you find your mountain lion, girls?

Couples seen around during the holidays included: Linda McMahon and Ricky Little, Margie Harrison and Don Pennell, Argan Robinson and Herbie Kays, Mary Beth Ford and Billy Shumard, Diane Kiker and Harvey Pennell, Susan Ramsey and Frankie Gary; Bobbie Compton and Jerry Stone, Argan Robinson and Curtis Didway, Betsy Shytle and K. Wheatley, Mary Beth Ford and Danny Jones, Shirley Sappington and Kenith Smith, Dee Ann Walker and Eugene Deering, Terri Power and Larry Guy, Mary Ann Stone and Benny Owen, Carolyn Matster and Lewis Herron, Carol Hodges and Gary Brewer.

Mary Beth Ford was hostess for a New Year's Eve supper. She served salads, hot rolls and a ham she baked herself. The meal was finished with delicious cake, which didn't last long. Everyone really enjoyed themselves. Those attending were: Diane Kiker, Diane Maxey, Linda Pennell, Susie Jo Schmidt, Marilyn Minor, Shirley Sappington, Betty Jo Hill, Carol Ann Smith, Carol Hodges, Nita Wilson, Carey Wilson, Linda McMahon

Mark Twain's Story

OF THE READING SPIDER

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri newspaper. One day he got a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his newspaper and asked if this was an omen of good luck or bad luck.

Twain wrote: "Finding a spider in your newspaper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

You will find no spider webs across the doors of the merchants who advertise in your local newspaper.

AGRICULTURE

REVIEW OF TEXAS AGRICULTURE IN 1963

If one word could summarize the Texas farm picture for 1963, that word might be "amazing". In July of this year, a long dry spell settled in on most of the state, causing a great deal of concern for our crops. Fortunately, most row crops coasted through on subsoil moisture and our harvest was not severely hurt. So although a shortage of grass and forage is creating problems in the livestock and dairy industry, the triumph of other crops over the drought constitutes a gratifying minor miracle.

Our major cash crop, cotton, is down slightly but will amount to something like 4,635,000 bales or more. This is only about 89,000 bales below 1962, despite the dry weather.

We will hold on to our reputation as the nation's largest producer of grain sorghums also. Our 1963 crop made a dramatic jump of nearly 33 million bushels over last year with some 232,429,000 bushels expected in the final tally. And in spite of some production decreases such as onions, Texas vegetable acreage is expected to bring farmers about $1 million more than in 1962, peaking at some $65 million.

The Texas citrus production has received some "knock out blows" from freezing weather in recent years, but the 1963-64 crop year now in progress gives evidence of a rapid recovery. Only about 111,000 boxes of oranges and grapefruit valued at some one-half million dollars were harvested during 1963-64. The current season shows promise of a big leap to 750,000 boxes, potentially valued at $2,250,000. Some of the best new varieties of our hard hit citrus growers.

Our efficient production techniques will continue to assure Texas and the nation's consumers of a bountiful supply of food and fiber at reasonable prices. This is a success story without parallel in the history of any other nation. Producer profits, however, are still limited by rising costs of materials needed in farming operations. The problem of the cost-price squeeze exerted upon the farmer is still very much with us.

Our livestock industry is still something of a question mark. If we have good winter moisture, our ranges that were parched during the past summer can make a quick recovery. Continued subnormal rainfall would paint a darker picture. Normally, our livestock industry is worth close to one billion dollars to the Texas economy each year.

Livestockmen, too, are having their problems, profit-wise. The drought has caused production costs to rise due to the high cost of necessary feeding operations. And imports of meat from other countries are further depressing local prices.

But despite these adverse factors,

Hike is sought in hay freight

AUSTIN — Although the hay shortage has shoved prices up to double the normal, hard-pressed Texas ranchers and dairymen may have another cost increase in sight.

The Railroad Commission already has been asked by the Livestock Carriers Association of Texas to increase truck freight rates on hay and cottonseed hulls.

A hearing on the application has been set by the Commission's rate division for Jan. 30. In some cases this would mean a rate increase of 100 per cent.

Thomas Jefferson is believed to have served the first ice cream in the nation to guests at Monticello.

Business Backs 4-H Clubs Nation-Wide

Incentives Help Make Best Better

U.S. business firms contributed $1.25 million in 1963 toward recognition and encouragement of the nation's 2,225,000 4-H Club members, the director of the National 4-H Service Committee has announced.

Norman C. Mindrum, director of the committee, said the record figure made possible awarding of college scholarships and fellowships valued at $145,000. They were presented this year to 275 of the nation's most outstanding 4-H youths and to young adults who once were 4-H'ers.

The financial support also was used for more than 180,000 other awards to members of the nation's more than 94,000 local 4-H Clubs. The clubs are in about 3,100 counties in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The national committee, headquartered in Chicago, utilizes the funds to assist the Cooperative Extension Service advance the 4-H program.

Awards Since 1900

"Awards are an integral part of 4-H," Mindrum said, "and have been provided as incentives and recognition for young people since the early 1900s."

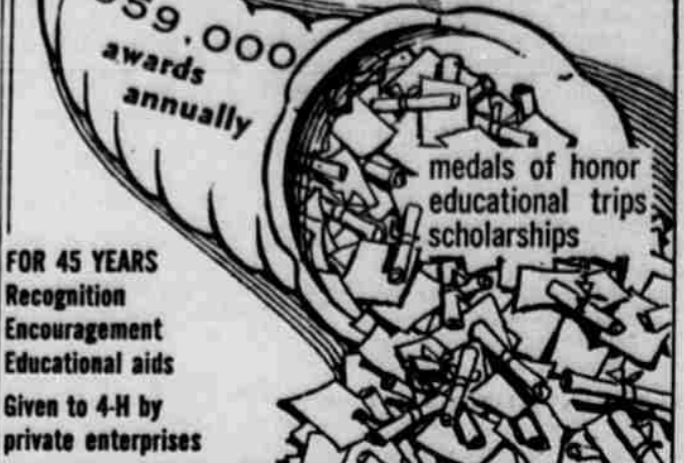

Help from 57 business firms now backing 4-H dates back in some cases to the 1920s. The average tenure for all donors is 18 years.

The scholarships, nearly all for $500 each, were awarded Dec. 1-5 during the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, attended by more than 1,500 delegates. Their expense-paid trips, considered both educational and cultural, were awarded by more than 30 of these firms.

Funds for programs ranging from bread baking to entomology are channeled through the 4-H committee, incorporated in 1923 when a handful of business firms provided $3,400 to help the growing club program. In the last 10 years alone, the number of county medals awarded has increased from about 85,000 to nearly 180,000.

"Each donor has an interest in boys and girls, an appreciation of the need for youth development and a feeling that the organization can serve 4-H in a wholesome manner with limited self-gain," Mindrum said.

Diversified Support

Among the business firms supporting 4-H in 1963 are American Forest Products Industries, Inc.; American Oil Foundation; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System; California Chemical Company; Ortho Division; Cities Service Oil Co.; Chicago and North Western Railway Co.; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Co.; The Conrad Hilton Hotel; Chicago Board of Trade, and Cudahy Packing Company.

Son of local couple on Peace Corps assignment

Donald E. Bruce, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Bruce of 215 West 10th St., has begun a two-year assignment as a Peace Corps volunteer in Sabah and Sarawak.

Bruce, a graduate of McMurry College, Abilene, is one of 52 Peace Corps volunteers who left Jan. 2 for Sabah and Sarawak. These volunteers will begin work in the fields of education and rural community action, joining 88 other volunteers already serving there.

These areas are part of the newly formed Federation of Malaysia which incorporates the former country of Malaya and the territories of North Borneo and Sarawak. The government of Malaysia is engaged in a major effort to develop the potentials of its peoples and its resources. However, as a newly developing country, Malaysia has a severe shortage of trained personnel. The Peace Corps volunteers with their diversified skills are helping to fill this need.

These Americans will serve as teachers to assist in preparing future leaders, and as agricultural extension workers in rural communities. They trained almost three months at the University of Hawaii in the local version of the Malayan language, in the area's culture, history and traditions, as well as in American history and institutions.

Nearly 7,000 volunteers are now at work in 48 nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America. Requests for additional volunteers are received daily.

WILL YOUR AUTO LIABILITY COVERAGE MEET TODAY'S NEEDS?

Effective Jan. 1, 1964, the state of Texas has done its minimum auto liability requirements from $5,000 person and $10,000 total per accident to $10,000 per individual and $20,000 per accident.

The insurance cost for doubling your coverage is nearly in the same proportion, however.

If you live in town, it will cost you only $6 more per year for the additional coverage to meet minimum requirements. Your auto liability insurance will go up from $20 year to $35.

If you live on a farm, your increase will be only per year to double your coverage and meet minimum requirements, increasing from $22 per year to $25.

Don't be caught short. ACT TODAY.

Lubbock's bid for state school told

A bus load of Lubbock boosters received a good reception here Friday night as a luncheon the visitors hosted for local business and professional folk to drum up support for Lubbock's bid for the new state school for mentally retarded which will be located somewhere in the western third of Texas this year.

Bernie Rushing, group leader of the boosters who made the presentation, had some impressive statistics to offer for the new school which will employ an estimated 500 persons once in operation.

Such schools now are located at Abilene, Dumas, Mexia, Lufkin, Austin, Richmond, and Corpus Christi, although state funds are yet to be allocated for the last two.

Location of the school will be made by the nine-member state board of hospitals and special schools, whose next meeting comes later this month.

Some 25 towns and cities are bidding for the school.

Rushing pointed out that 64 per cent of the people living west of the 100th meridian in West Texas reside within a 150-mile radius of Lubbock. None of the other major contenders for the school have over 46 per cent of the population within such close proximity.

Rushing also emphasized that Lubbock has an excellent highway network fanning out in all directions and has some 90 buses serving Lubbock daily from all directions.

With a requirement that the location of the new school be near an institution of higher learning, Lubbock offers Texas Tech and Lubbock Christian College.

Rushing declared that three per cent of the Texas population is estimated to be mentally retarded which places approximately 200,000 Texans in this category, although only 20,000 of them are now being cared for in existing state schools.

The Lubbock spokesman said 1,000 Lubbock women already have volunteered their time for free work at the new school if assigned to Lubbock, 200 acres of land for the site is being offered by Lubbock at no cost to the state, that playground equipment has been pledged on a continuing basis for the new school by one Lubbock group, that Lubbock garden clubs have promised to supervise the school's landscaping and provide flower garden care, that the South Plains Council for Mentally Retarded, headquartered in Lubbock, has promised to participate heavily, that the Lubbock Ministerial Association has volunteered to con-

bulk of prison income

AUSTIN — Farm products and livestock produced more than $6,500,000 of the Texas Prison System's 1962 income, according to the auditor's report just released. Other sources were: manufactured products, $3,704,616; oil and gas leases, $39,237; miscellaneous, $3,287,167.

The report placed total income from farms and farm industries at $10,144,733, with expenses of $14,304,734 for a deficit of $4,159,961. Manufacturing operations included license plates, shoes, textiles, clothing and other products.

much success.

SPOTTED BASS ARE quite common in some of our streams. Particularly in the true of fast-running rivers like the Guadalupe and Llano of Central Texas. A spotted bass never grows too large. But what it lacks in size, it makes up for with spirit. On sporting tackle, a pound-sized spot fights like a fish twice that size.

Although the spotted bass is primarily a stream fish, some showed up in the lakes of Central Texas when streams were impounded. It isn't unusual to take a spot from any of the Highland Lakes. In this lake environment, one sometimes grows to three pounds or larger. But this is very rare. When you catch a two-pounder, you've got a good one.

The spotted bass is sort of an in-between fish. It isn't a largemouth nor is it a smallmouth. Water-wise, it more closely resembles the largemouth since it prefers the warmer habitat. Appearance-wise, it looks more like the smallmouth.

IT REALLY IS sort of a Johnny-come-lately to the angling scene. For many years it was confused with the other two species. It wasn't until 1927 that it was recognized as a distinct and separate species.

When the old Texas Game and Fish Commission transported some smallmouth bass into the headwaters of the Llano near the town of Junction, some years back, it encouraged fishermen to report if any of the alien fish were caught. Right away, they heard anglers tell of catching the smallmouths. But in every instance, when the report was checked for authenticity, it was found that instead of a smallmouth the angler had in fact taken a spotted bass.

SOMETIMES IT IS very easy to confuse the spot with the more abundant largemouth bass. Especially in turbid waters which cause the color to be a milky instead of a vivid green.

But there is one surefire way to distinguish between the two. Run an imaginary line vertically down the bass' jaw, just at the rear of the eye. If this line bisects the back of the mouth, you've got a spot; on a largemouth the mouth goes beyond the line. Also, the spot has a red eye while the largemouth does not.

Spots prefer running water and you're most likely to catch one out in the fast-moving channels of a river.

On the Llano, for instance, you'll take largemouths in the quiet water along shore. But get out in the current and you'll most always catch a spot.

Almost without exception you'll take spots on underwater lures, since they feed almost entirely on underwater food. Two of their favorites are the minnow and the crawfish. The minnow is No. 1 on its diet.

THE TWO FAVORITE baits of sport fishermen seeking the spots are small spinner lures, either velvet or white in color, and silver spoons.

Some of the best sport is to be had by the fly-rod fishermen who works tiny spinner baits through the swift channels. Even an eight-inch spot, caught on this delicate tackle, will cut all sorts of capers before being subdued.

Our only regret is that the spot doesn't grow larger. It is a great sport fish although not as flashy as the largemouth since it isn't inclined to jump. But one will go deep to fight grudgingly in tight circles. The only thing it lacks is the weight to put authority in its argument.

On-the-job injuries result from a psychological process, a study of some 300 industrial accidents indicates.

Analysis of case histories, according to a recent report by the American Medical Association, revealed certain patterns of behavior preceding mishaps.

In fact, these patterns were so sharply defined it may be possible, with further study, to predict and therefore prevent such accidents.

"Before the accident occurs," reports a current article in the AMA Journal, "there is a state of conflict and anxiety within the patient. As a result of this condition the worker finds a self-destructive, injury-producing act which causes his "death" as a worker. From this moment the patient reacts exactly as do other psychiatrically ill people, except for the character of his symptom. Instead of having a presenting complaint of anxiety, depression, or other classical psychiatric symptom, he has the physical disorder which is the result of his accident."

Typical behavior before accidents reflects many skilled workers suddenly doing things which even novices would not make the mistake of doing. Often, safety rules are broken and several infractions frequently occur at the same time.

For example, workers received injury after repeatedly walking through well-recognized and marked danger areas without wearing protective helmets. When asked to explain this conduct, the workers gave reasons that were "vague, or even silly, in every case."

Another pre-accident pattern uncovered by the study was a prediction of impending doom made by the worker himself.

Such forebodings have been observed previously in Air Force medicine with the result that flight surgeons and supervisory personnel were instructed to withdraw flying privileges at such times. In the future, plant medical officers may possibly make similar use of workers' forebodings, if by no other means than watching for a sudden increased frequency of sick calls.

These cases indicate that something threatening happens inside of a worker and he may seek pain or injury as a solution, researchers say.

Identifying these patterns as a part of the psychological process may open new avenues toward industrial accident prevention.
