PLANE TALK BY Rowland Bernstein

Since round the world flying has become common, aviation has adapted the twenty-four hour watch dial. This has come about through the great distances that can be traversed by aircraft in a short period of time.

The watch illustrated shows the reading at 9:04 A.M. or 21:04 P.M. The latter is the equivalent of 9:04 in the evening under the old system.

Very few watches have a twenty-four hour dial, but the twelve hour dial can be easily converted by adding the second dial starting with thirteen. The Lawrence Aeronautical Corporation, Linden, New Jersey, manufacturers of Flying L Aviation Equipment, has prepared a decalcomania of the twenty-four hour dial which when applied to the inside of the present watch crystal will convert it for twenty-four hour reading.

Write to Lawrence, Dept. A.M., Linden, New Jersey, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope. At my request they will send you this twenty-four hour decalcomania as long as the present supply lasts.

Income Tax Changes Will Affect Farmers After Jan. 1, 1945

Two changes of particular interest to farmers are made in the income tax simplification bill recently passed by Congress and effective for the income year starting next January 1. They are:

1. A new definition has been given to what constitutes a farmer. Under the new bill any person who derives more than two-thirds of his income from farming shall be considered a farmer. Heretofore, more than 80 percent of income had to be from farming.

2. A farmer may make a final return on or before January 15 following the close of the calendar year. If he so files, he can dispense with filing any declaration of estimated tax. However, if unable to file a final return on January 15, then he must file a declaration of estimated tax on or before January 15th and file the final return on or before March 15.

Farmers earning $5,000 a year or less may also take advantage of a new simplified tax table which is provided in the bill.

The bill does not become effective until January 1, 1945, and consequently will not affect returns on this year's income.

C. F. T. Committees To Continue Aid To Garza Farmers

Transfer of field processing of applications for new commercial vehicles from the Bureau of Motor Carriers of the Interstate Commerce Commission to district offices of the Office of Defense Transportation July 1 has not affected the assistance being given applicants by County Farm Transportation Committees. Richard E. Wood, District Manager, Lubbock ODT, said today that the committees have been rendering valuable aid to farmers and other persons needing new commercial vehicles for agricultural service in filling out required application forms. The committees were organized under the direction of the War Food Administration in October, 1942, at ODT's request.

In continuing the present arrangement, farmers can present information on the proposed operation of the new trucks for the production, care and transportation of farm products, it was said.

SUCCESS AND FAILURES OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—Judges 9:8-18. GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The success or failure of both nations and individuals is ultimately determined by their attitude toward the law of God. He is always right and true. The constant factor in a world order that swings wildly from one extreme to another, is His law, which is perfect and eternal.

I. Remembering God Brings Blessing (vv. 6-9)

Although Israel had not fully obeyed God's command, and had been rebuked by an angel of the Lord for their failure (Judg. 2:1-5), they had come into a measure of their inheritance under Joshua.

They now possessed that inheritance and entered into enjoyment of it (v. 6). It is one thing to have an inheritance, but another thing to claim it and make use of it. Countless Christians have never taken out their inheritance in Christ. All they have is the earnest (Eph. 1:14) or "down payment."

God never meant that any child of His should live a poverty-stricken spiritual life, or should go halting on first one side and then the other. He has made provision for a full-orbed, strong and joyful life. Why not enter upon your full inheritance in Christ now?

As the people of Israel took possession of the land, they went forward in the way of blessing as long as Joshua, and the elders who remembered God, kept them steady and true. We have here an excellent illustration of the power of a godly example. It is far stronger than we think.

II. Forgetting God Brings Backsliding (vv. 10-13)

The fact that a people has been highly privileged and has been exalted to a place of power and honor will not save it in the day when God is forgotten. Israel no longer had God-fearing men to bring it back to God, and so began its awful drifting away from God.

We Americans are rightly proud of our great land, its mighty resources, its fine past and promising future. But wait—what is the future to be? Oh, we say, the most glorious days are ahead. They may be, but only if we, like our forefathers who established this nation, recognize God. If we do not, America will go the way of the forgotten empires of centuries past, and that in spite of all its past achievements and its present promise.

Let us always remember that America is not some vague entity apart from us, for we, you and I, are America, we determine what it shall be, and how it shall relate itself to God. Let us be sure that no one we know ever forgets God.

It is a significant thing that the leaders of our nation so often come from Christian homes, but it is sad that they are so frequently not Christians themselves. Their lives are shaped by the teaching and influence of godly parents who reared them, but what will their children do if they are not brought up in the fear and admonition of the Lord?

Forgetting God is bad enough in its immediate results, but just ahead there is great and certain disaster.

III. Forsaking God Brings Judgment (vv. 14-15)

God not only will not hold a backsliding nation guiltless, but will bring judgment even if He has to turn over His people to a despoiling nation. He has instruments of individual and national chastisement, and He is ready to use them.

Notice that wherever they went the Lord's hand was against them. There is no place to flee from the presence of God. Anyone who thinks so can do it, should read Psalm 137:7-12. It can't be done. That is a comfort to the believer, but it is not a little disquieting to the unbeliever.

God, however, always remembers mercy in the midst of judgment (Ps. 103:1). He sent judges to deliver Israel, when He was sure of their repentance (v. 16). "If there was ever a time when nations needed deliverers, it's now. The systematic looting of subjugated peoples, the deliberate murder of multitudes of Jews, the mass executions of many innocent people in reprisal for some patriotic act of resistance, are evils that cry to heaven.

"If men would call on God not merely for deliverance but in real repentance for sins committed 'perhaps the God who delivered Israel' would send deliverance to suffering people still" (Arnold's Commentary).

Well—why not call on Him now, in earnest repentance and faith. Will you do it?

Neither man nor the two girls in the car were injured, although the car veered into Roy Williams' hog pasture, tearing up several posts. The go-devil was torn up, the tractor would not start, and the new car was wrecked, even though it was never overturned.

OIL FACTS AND THEORIES

An American writer and authority on the Middle East recently remarked that "Whether one likes or dislikes free enterprise and private capital, one must honestly admit that the American oil industry was efficient enough and alive enough to discover, produce, and develop oil reserves in America and throughout the world, to provide an oil arsenal for two world wars."

American oil men know more about oil than any other group in the world. The record proves that. Government restrictions which discourage or prohibit the normal operation and growth of the oil industry as an independent, free enterprise, will threaten the future of the United States far more seriously than theoretical shortages of oil reserves.

Lynn County News— It is too early yet to predict the outcome of the approaching Presidential campaign. That can not be done with any degree of assurance until after the Democrats hold their convention beginning on July 19.

Exchange— There is to be a little checking up on FEA officials to get a complete story of the huge quantities of farm machinery sent abroad when we were so badly in need of it here at home.

Two American soldiers in Egypt lived for months on dehydrated beef, dehydrated milk, dehydrated butter and vegetables.

"This is going too far," said one. Now they're dehydrating women."

The smart Victory Garden this year is all vegetables and a yard wide.

Fault is one of the easiest things in the world to find, yet too many people keep on looking for it.

Politicians cloud issues because they may be lost in a fog themselves.

Nazi Snipers Caused Real Trouble to Yank Invaders Snipers Remain in Hiding; Surrender When Ammunition Gone

By Ernie Pyle

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE—Sniping, as far as I know, is recognized as a legitimate means of warfare. And yet there is something sneaking about it that outrages the American sense of fairness.

I had never sensed this before we landed in France and began pushing the Germans back. We have had snipers before—in Big Red and Casino and lots of other places. But always on a small scale.

Here in Normandy the Germans have gone in for sniping in a wholesale manner. There are snipers everywhere. There are snipers in trees, in buildings, in piles of wreckage, in the grass. But mainly they are in the high, bushy hedgerows that form the fences of all the Norman fields and line every roadside and lane.

Ernie Pyle

It is perfect sniping country. A man can hide himself in the thick fence-row shrubbery with several days' rations, and it's like hunting a needle in a haystack to find him.

Every mile we advance there are dozens of snipers left behind us. They pick off our soldiers one by one as they walk down the roads or across the fields.

It isn't safe to move into a new bivouac area until the snipers have been cleaned out. The first bivouac I moved into had shots ringing through it for a full day before all the hidden gunmen were rounded up.

In past campaigns our soldiers would talk about the occasional snipers with contempt and disgust. But here sniping has become more important, and taking precautions against it is something we have had to learn and learn fast.

One officer friend of mine said: "Individual soldiers have become sniper-wise before, but now we're sniper-conscious as whole units."

Snipers kill as many Americans as they can, and then when their food and ammunition run out they surrender. To an American that isn't quite ethical. The average American soldier has little feeling against the average German soldier who has fought an open fight and lost.

But his feelings about the sneaking snipers can't very well be put into print. He is learning how to kill the snipers before the time comes for them to surrender.

As a matter of fact this part of France is very difficult for anything but fighting between small groups. It is a country of little fields, every one bordered by a thick hedge and a high fence of trees. There is hardly any place where you can see beyond the field ahead of you.

In other places the ground is flooded and swampy with a growth of high, jungle-like grass. In this kind of stuff it is almost man-to-man warfare. One officer who has served a long time in the Pacific says this fighting is the nearest thing to Guadalcanal that he has seen since.

We went to the far end of the square, where three local French policemen were standing in front of the mayor's office. They couldn't speak any English, but they said there was one woman in town who did, and a little boy was sent running for her. Gradually a crowd of eager and curious people crushed in upon us, until there must have been 200 of them, from babies to old women.

Finally the woman arrived—a little dark woman with graying hair and spectacles, and a big smile. Her English was quite good, and we asked her if there were any Germans in the town. She turned and asked the policeman.

Instantly everybody in the crowd started talking at once. The sound was like that of a machine that increases in speed until its noise drowns out all else.

Finally the policeman had to shush the crowd so the woman could answer us.

We must have stood and talked for an hour and a half. It was a kind of holiday for the local people. They were relieved but still not quite sure the Germans wouldn't be back. They were still under a restraint that wouldn't let them open up riotously. But you could sense from little things that they were glad to have us.

A little French shopkeeper came along with a spool of red, white and blue ribbon from his store. He cut off pieces about six inches long for all hands, both American and French. In a few minutes everybody was going around with a French tricolor in his buttonhole.

Then a ruddy-faced man of middle age, who looked like a gentleman farmer, drove up in one of those one-horse, high-wheeled work carts that the French use.

He had a German prisoner in uniform standing behind him, and another one, who was sick, lying on a stretcher. The farmer had captured these guys himself, and he looked so pleased with himself that I expected him to take a bow at any moment.

French people kept coming up and asking us for instructions. A man who looked as if he might be the town banker asked what he was supposed to do with prisoners.

We told him to bring them to the truck, and asked how many he had. To our astonishment he said he had 70 in the woods a couple of miles away, 130 in a nearby town, and 40 in another town.

As far as I could figure it out he had captured them all himself. Another worried-looking Frenchman came up. He was a doctor. He said he had 26 badly wounded Germans down at the railroad station and desperately needed medical supplies. He wanted chloroform and sulfa drugs. We told him we would have some sent.

When we finally started away from the crowd, a little old fellow in faded blue overalls ran up and asked us, in sign language, to come to his cafe for a drink. Since we didn't dare violate the spirit of hands-across-the-sea that was then wafting about the town, we had to sacrifice ourselves and accept.

So we sat on wooden benches at a long bare table while the little Frenchman puttered and sputtered around. He let two policemen and his own family in, and then took the handle out of the front door so nobody else could get in.

The Germans had drunk up all his stock except for some wine and some eau de vie. In case you don't know, eau de vie is a savage liquid made by boiling barbed wire, soap-suds, watch springs and old teni pegs together. The better brands have a touch of nitroglycerine for flavor.

So the little Frenchman filled out tiny glasses. We raised them, touched glasses all around, and vived la France all over the place, and good-will-towards-men rang out through the air and tears ran down our cheeks.

In this case, however, the tears were largely induced by our violent efforts to refrain from clucking at our throats and crying out in anguish. This good-will business is a tough life, and I think every American who connects with a glass of eau de vie should get a Purple Heart.

Thousands of little personal stories will dribble out of D-day on the Normandy beachhead. A few that I pick up from time to time will pass along to you.

The funniest story I've heard is of an officer who was shot through the face. He had his mouth wide-open at the time, yelling at somebody. The bullet went in one cheek and right through his mouth without touching a thing, not even his teeth, and out the other cheek.

Pyle Finds a Difference in Stories of Two Wars

The most wrecked town I have seen so far is Saint Sauveur le Vicomte, known simply as "San Sau-Vure." Its buildings are gutted and leaning, its streets choked with rubble, and vehicles driven over the top of it.

Something and shelled from both sides did it. The place looks exactly like World War I Germany of such places as Verdun. At the edge of the town the bomb craters are so immense that you could put whole houses in them.

A veteran of the last war pretty well summed up the two wars the other day when he said: "This is just like the last war only the holes are bigger."

WHAT IS AMERICAN INDUSTRY?

Following the first bomb attack on Japan by the huge new Superfortresses, General Arnold declared: "The use of the B-29 Superfortress in combat brings actuality to an air forces' plan made years in advance for truly global aerial warfare. It proves that our planners and engineers, coupled with the capacity of American industry, are an unbeatable combination."

What is "American Industry?" Do Superfortresses pour out of super factories at the direction of a few officials in Washington with super brains? No! The Superfortresses are momentary manifestations of the imagination and productive genius of free men—momentary because where men are free their work is an endless series of miracles. Thus the Model T was yesterday's miracle, just as the Superfortress is today's miracle, while tomorrow's miracles are but dreams locked in the minds of unknown individuals.

This is American industry, free industry. If industry in this country ever ceases to be free, it will no longer be truly American. And it will no longer produce miracles from the dreams of individuals. People should be wary of elaborate plans to strengthen the grip of government ownership and control of basic industries such as electric power, oil, mining, and other resources which are the foundation of all American industry.

If government ownership is accepted as the solution of postwar problems, free industry—American industry—will go out, and individual freedom will eventually go with it.

C. L. Harris Says A New Congressman Is Needed for District

C. L. Harris, candidate for Congress from the 19th District said this week that it is time for the people to go back to that form of self government and of free American Enterprise which made this nation great. Harris says:

"By electing a new set of Congressmen who have no ties among present officials and who can go to Washington with a clean slate and nothing to think about except the welfare of the home district and of the nation as a whole, you may again assume charge of your government."

"Congress should rule the nation. Congress is composed of the directly elected representatives of the people and these are the men who should do the telling and the doing in Washington."

"A frequent change of public officials makes for a strong democracy and this district certainly needs a change."

"In the ten years that the present Congressman has been in Washington he has never raised his voice for or against any issue which was vital to the farmers, the cow men or the oil industry of this district. These are the three basic industries of our district and they must have the intelligent attention of our Congressman."

"I pledge you voters of this district that if I am elected to this place that my district shall come first and that I shall look after the interest of the people, whether they be farmers, cow men, oil men or whatever."

An interesting party took place on Monday evening of last week in the home of Mrs. John Baker when several hostesses entertained with a tea-shower honoring Miss Veda Davis, who became the bride of Aviation Cadet R. Large vases of summer flowers were used as decorations throughout the receiving rooms. Miss Cathryn Childress, assisted by Miss Bettye Jane Travis, sister of the groom, poured tea. Plate favors were embossed napkins inscribed with "Veda and R. D., July 8, 1944."

Mrs. James Mason presided over the guest book and Miss Johnnie Ruth Cato invited the guests to see the gifts.

About fifty guests called during the evening.

ATTENTION! ALL HOME CANNERS!

Before you begin your 1944 canning. Good Housekeeping Magazine advises you: use the boiling water bath method for tomatoes and fruits, only. Can all vegetables except tomatoes by the correct use of a pressure cooker to be sure of killing botulinus germs. In the last few years, cases of botulinus food poisoning have cropped up in widely different parts of the country. Buy, borrow, share a pressure cooker—but don't can low-acid vegetables any other way. If you want further information, write Good Housekeeping Magazine, 959 Eighth Avenue, New York 19, N. Y.

Governor Favors Raise For Teachers

Austin—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson last week said he favored using an anticipated $6,425,000 surplus in the state available school fund for increasing salaries of teachers if it can be done legally.

He said spending the balance might make it necessary to raise the present 10-cent school tax rate about two cents. The state school board's action in ordering the per capita apportionment for 1944-45 supplemented $4 above the $25 maximum does not violate the spirit of the law, Stevenson believed.

The attorney general must approve the board's action before the surplus can be spent.

The maximum, Stevenson thought, was set by the legislature as a guide for the state automatic tax board in fixing the tax rate. The board is scheduled to meet July 20. During the day the governor said he expected to confer with state Comptroller's, Statistician Bob Calvert about condition of the funds.

FREE MATERNITY AND INFANT CARE

Service men's wives eligible for emergency maternity care are urged to apply at the beginning of pregnancy so that their health and that of the child can be better safeguarded, Katherine F. Medical, nursing and hospital care for the service man's wife are provided during pregnancy, childbirth, and for six months after child-birth, and for the infant through its first year, all without cost to the serviceman or his family. Application blanks for this care may be obtained from a physician, the local Red Cross or local Health Department.

PROSPECTIVE CLAIMANTS URGED TO CALL THE SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE

Procrastination is about the worst habit one can have and it often proves costly both in friends and in cash. To procrastinate, postpone, or put off calling on the Social Security Board office when a wage earner reaches age 65 is even worse because immediately after he passes that age, if he has been working in employment covered by the Social Security Act, he may be entitled to monthly benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance system. It is important that the worker furnish certain facts and data to the Social Security Board before a claim can be filed. Therefore, employees falling in the class just mentioned are requested to call at the Board's office at 1311 Texas Avenue, Lubbock. If the claimant cannot visit the Board's office, then the representative will call on him, if he has knowledge of the worker's age. If you can't visit the office after you reach 65, write a card or letter and the manager will call on you.

Soil Conservation District News

Water is the key to the agriculture of the southern Great Plains. In a sense it is the beginning and the end of the regional agriculture. Water, when and where it is needed, is the supreme problem. Without water there can be no crops or pastures. Without crops or pasture there is no permanent protection for the soils against the prevailing high winds. And since agriculture is by far the most important industry on the Plains, the fortunes of the inhabitants rise and fall with the available supply of moisture in the soil.

All of this sounds disheartening and seems to indicate that opportunities occur only in the unpredictable years of plentiful rainfall. But it is not so hopeless as this. Up and down the Plains many farmers have learned to make more efficient use of the water from the sky. Dry-farming practices focus on the simple object of conserving the scanty moisture supply. By exercising proved conservation methods one farmer may get as much benefit from a two inch rain as another, who has not employed conservation measures, may get from a three inch rain. That is, if a farmer permits an inch of rainfall to escape from his land as run-off he has lost an opportunity to moisten his soil at least a foot deeper. This extra foot of moisture frequently means the difference between a successful crop and a partial or complete failure.
